

Liber incantationum, exorcismorum et fascinationum variarum - BSB Clm 849

[S.l.] 15. Jh.

Clm 849#Mikroform

urn:nbn:de:bvb:12-bsb00037155-2

BSB-Hss Clm 849

Cod. lat.
845

Clm. 849

licentiam recedendi et hoc etiam totiens di-ci debet. Hec vero dea deponere ensam et in voluere in dco pmo et fco fasciculo cuba sup ipso et aliquantulum dormias post sompnu vo surge et induas te quia fco fasciculo hamo se poliat et intrat cubitulu ponendo deum fasa-culum sub capite. Est aut sciendu q dñs hñs Commu'ationib9 sompnus accidit virtute diuina in sompno appent tibi tres maximi reges cum famulis innumis militib9 et peditib9 inter quos est etia quida magister appens cui ipi tres reges iubent
At ipm veru pntu videbis animas reges fulgentes mira pulchritudine qui tibi in dco sompno vna voce loquet dicentes Ecce tibi damus q multociens postulasti et dicunt illi magist. sit iste tuus discipulus que docuisti iubens omes sciam sue autem qua audire voluerit Docce ipm talit et erudi vt in tmo
30. diey in q sciam voluit summe alios habeat. Et videbis ipm vppo deus dñi mei libentissime facia q q utique. Hiis dicit reges abient et magister solus remanebit. Qui tibi dicat. Euge ecce magister tuus. Hiis vero dicit. Excitabo te statim. Appies oculos et videbis quidam magistrum optime indutum qui tibi dicat da michi ensam quam sub capite tene. Tu vero dices. Ecce discipulus vestri paratus facere. Quod quod vultis tamen debes habere pugillarem et scribere omnia que tibi dicat. Primo debes quare. Magister quod est nomen vestrum ipse dicit et tu scribas.

Secundo de quo ordina et similiter scribe.
Hiis scriptis debes sibi postulare ensam quo hito ipse vacabit dicens. Expecta me donec veniam. Tu nihil dices. Agi stavero vacabit et fuit ensam. Post curatissimum tu dissolves panem ut aperit inferius etiam scribas. In deo cu culo nomen eius scriptum per te et sibi delu per te et per deo sanguine. Quo scripto et vol ue dom panem et bene vacabit. Hiis factis debes mandare solo pane et puer aqua et illa die non egredi camera et cum pueris fueris accipe panem et iterum cuculo visus Apollin. Sic sic. Rex.
Apollin magne potens et venerabilis

40
 Ego famulus tuus in te credens et omnino confidens quod tu es fortis et valens. Rogo te in comprehensibilibus magistratu tua ut famulus et subiectus tuus talia magister meo debeat ad me venire qua a ceteris fieri potest per virtutem et potentiam tuam que est magna et maxima in secula seculorum Amen. Et similiter dicte usus Avialoch mutando nomen et usus Beovich similiter. Hiis deus accipere de deo sanguine et secula in medio cruculi nomen tuum cum super deo corde ut hic apparet in seculo. Secunda secula cum deo corde in singulis quam illa nomen ut hic apparet.

seruo

Si autē sanguis unius animi non sufficeret potes interficere quātū tibi placet quibus omnibus sanctis sedebis per totā diem in cubilo aspiciens ipm nichil loquendo cū voseruo seruo fuit blita dcm panu ppolia te et intra in cubiculū ponendo ipm sub capita tuo et cū psumis dic sic plana voca Apolm. Aualoch. Belith.
Bathan. belith. Belzebuc. Lucifer.
Supplico vob ut pceptis magistro in eo notando eius nome ut ipse debe-at venire cras ante solis ortū ad me et docere me talem sciam sine aliqua fallacia illū qui vetulus et iudicatus vivos et mortuos et seculū per ignem amen. Caue igit et pcedue ne signū et ciuitas facias ppter magnū periculū quoniam non scias quid videbis magistrū totā noc-te loqui tecū interrogans ita quam sciam velis addiscere et cū dicas talem ita quod ut dcm est totā nocte cū eo hoc loquis. Cum itaque excitatus fuero per in ipā nocte surge et accende cande-lam et accipe dcm panū et de volue et in eo sede. In cubiculo ubi nome tuū scriptū est ad tuū comodū et voca nome magistri tui sic dices et talis de tali ordi ne et in magistru mihi dedit p maiores reges tuos te deprecor ut veros i forma benigna doctu me talem sciam qm sim amiciu omib9 mortali9 discens ipam cu magno gaudio sine aliquo labore et omi tedio derelicto Veni igit extuo9

p te maior9 qui regnat p infinita se cula saculo9 amen fiat fiat fiat Quis itaqz dicitis Euc appietes ver9 hoc eidentem videbis magistru vane cu mte9 discipulis q rogabis ut omnes ab u9 iubeat et statim vacent Quo fco ipa magist' dicit q scis audire desideras tu dicis talem et tuc mi
nos. Remato eni q qntu tibi dicit tantu addiscas et memorie commendabis et ooz sciam q heru voluis addiscas intermo xxx. dies Et qn ipm de ca mera ab u9 voluis plica panu et ve tunde et statim vacet Et qn ipm ve nire voluis apari panu et subito inde appetit genuando Lectiones post vo terminu 30. dies doct9 optime iscia fac tibi dare ansen tuu et dic ut vadat et cu pace vacet Debes iterum dicere cu p alia ipm mnotabis hnda scia qui tibi dicit ad cui libitu aspera vatum finis est capituli scilicet 20

Ad hoc igitur ut scia sue fide possit alia aliquo auctore unde diligenter attende debent enim primo decessante luna die sabbati uel ad illud quod ad mentem uerba uolunt et coram eo sit dicta plana uerba subintelligat Michael carabellum tuum et omne sapientiam sensum et discretionem cogitationem diluatur et aboleatur Coniungo te Michael et omnes principes et maiores et pariter que facere uolueris ut in tali quod appropinquas debe-
as permanere donec michi libuit et ipsum abfusa uerba et omnia quod agnoscat amittit alioquin mittam te in mari per fundum quod non egredieris in secula quibus dictis vade et perstolare donec seruo fuerit quo facto vade ad hostium et erit mada delingno ipsum hostium tunc quod de ipso calamum facere possis et ad domum uadeas et fac de ipso calamum et de sanguine mulieris ipso anno lani-cu ipso calamum scriba Michael. Ablator sapientie. fac cognoscis et sentis ad sis in sensibus talis et animi facere debeas suo demetam qua conuocato scripta fit in dicto ipso circulo et deo sanguine ut hic apparet ubi scribitur ut sequitur Nomen illius quod prout uolueris in medio circuli conscri-bitur hoc nomen Michael quibus facere debes dicere sic Coniungo vos deus deus

A circular diagram with handwritten text in a circular script. The text is arranged in a ring around a central point. The script is a mix of Latin and Cyrillic characters, possibly a form of shorthand or a specific dialect. The central text is "A. B. C." and the ring contains various combinations of letters and symbols.

malignos videlicet Orzech. pinnen. ocel. truboy. Koryoth. Welfarth. Camay.
Astaroth. Sobrenoy. fismael. pindui duam trinitate videlicet pater & filius spiritum sanctum ab utroque procedente et per uenire etiam & timebam diem iudicii & proia q fuerunt & sunt & erunt & sicut in hoc cu culo figari oportet tunc tunc talem ut ita vires & efficitur & existant persona eius circumstantis & sensus eius taliter affligatis q ignorans dementis stultus & meta capitis officiat et tu michael de cavali^o a⁹ nūq^{uam} egrediar^{is} manens in eo die noctuq^{ue} do nec ab eo abire iubebo quib^{us} sic dicit^{is} ter^{ti}o itaq^{ue} videas in eadem nocte ad do mū ip^si^{us} cū dō pāno et cū q^{uod}dam cultu lo et cū ibi fūis volue humis v^{is}ū suū hostiū et flectas te in terra miga ip^sa et mōvā cameli faciedo fouea sub terra do dēq^{ue} pānū mā^{gis} limāta dic sic subter ta talem pūore demonior^{um} sēptor^{um} curā te q^{uod} semp^{er} ip^si demones curā te et omⁿis tua vūit^{is} sepulta sit et coopto dō cūculo cū tua videas itaq^{ue} ad domū et fac candelā in qua sūt sēpta omⁿia q^{ue} tenta in cūculo et debes ip^sam facere de cera p^{ri}mo ampta no^{is} et desēpta a⁹ cū una sūa simil^{is} ampta qua fca facienda ip^sam et dic sic sicut hec can dela ē fca in desēptione talis g^{er}uit^{is} et g^{er}sumatur ita o^mis vūit^{is} et fca existens in ip^so in dēmatam g^{er}uitat^{is} p^{ri}uitatem demonior^{um} in hac candelā sēptor^{um} et sicut vos demones hic sēpti p^{ri}detis ita nllam requiem hāve possitis donec hoc dux vitis ad affectū quib^{us} v^{is}ua sūmel pla tis dēam candelā extig^{uit} wa dicēdo hec

v^{is}ua sicut hec candelā extig^{uit} ita a⁹ vūit^{is} in tali p^{ri}manes p^{ri}mit^{is} g^{er}sumet^{is} dēne v^{is}o ip^sam facienda dicēdo sicut hec

candela et of. et alio mane usque ad terminum septem die et computato primo die in octa vo et octavo die videbitur ipse demerit primo de quo omnes mirabuntur quod ualde est fuit quod non credidit se aliquem habere defectum et omnes alios mentis putat esse carvatos. Hanc igitur experientiam aperit tunc quia magne uir-tutis est. Cum fuit ipse uolens in statum provenire deus uis optime fieri per die iouis et hora noctis uade ad suum hostium ubi se posuisti panem quod dum sapellit de ponit in quodam uase ut non putrescat sic fecit ois ipse libandis et ipse panem de se pellendo sic dicitur. Quia dicitur oisoch.
pinen. ocal. tuiay. noiyoch. Belferich.
canay. Asrawoch. Obwonooy. sismael.
Ego talis absoluo uos ut eatis ad uirlibitum et relinquantis talem in statu pro quibus dicitis fuit domi ipse panem et accito igne ligni oliue et puitula et habet uena puitas domi panem sub deo igne dicendo fuit ignis ipse et fuit huius panem ita ois fuit factus et talem panem et sumet.
Conbuto igne puitas domi puluerem in fuit curvati et ois fuit destructa erit cog-noscat et se puitas uir quod fuit primo et puitas factura puitas credens se habuisse egritudinem cuius occasione habet accessisse putabit et of.

9.

Quoniam volūis hūc amorem aqua cuius mulieris vis sine longinqua sine quingua tam nobili q̄ alijs inq̄cuq; die ut nocte vis sine in augmento sine in amicitie detrimento p̄mo debes habe re quādam colūbā totā albā & caritatem fēam de cane fēa dū est in amorem de qua ē hūc leuissimū et debes scire q̄ p̄dca carita potētissima ē ad amorem impulsus hīndum. Debes etiā hūc ca lamū fiquile et in loco occulto accipe dcam colūbā & cū dentibz moude ea panes cor ita ut cor agrediat̄ et cū calamo fiquile i dca carita cū dco sagne sebe nome illi q̄ vis formae ymagina mulieris nude q̄ malis fas dicendo formo talem. M. filiam talis q̄ hūc desidero hōie ip̄or sex p̄mū calidior videlz tubal. sa than. Reuces. Cupido. afalion. duliac.
 q̄ ip̄a me diligit sup oēs vūat̄as ip̄ius mundi quā fca sebe in fronte nom ei et hoc nome tubal dicendo tu es talis fi lia talis det̄to ad mea volūtate disposi ta et tu es tubal in fronte ei et in uero p̄manens ligando sansḡ ei capitis sui ad me t̄mno cupientem postea adhuc sebe in brachio suo dext̄ athan et in sinistro lauceo quibus scriptis sic dicit sicut tu sathan et tu lauceo quas scripti in hac y magine fca noie talia totino affliga tis lancia ista sua ut aliqui facit nequeat sine me impleri desideret Quo fca iterum scilicet panes cor ymagis nome tuu dicen do sicut in corde istius ymaginis sumpta talib. A die noctuq me in corde suo habeat Quo fca scilicet super vulua ymagis hoc no men cupido dicendo sic sicut tu cupido es super vulua istius ymagis ita semper maneas super vulua talis accendendo in sem ut omnes viros istius mundi despiciat et me tunc modo cupiat et ignis amoris mei ipam toueat et in flamat q fca scri be in curua dextro a falion. In sinistro dilatatus quibus scriptis dicit sicut tu afa lion et tu dilatare quas scripti in hac yma gine ita sedeat in curuib talis afflige do curua eiusque amoris vehementem mea q no velit ne nec ne desideret aliquis nisi hoc quibus dicitis accipit ipam ymagine ambabus manib9 et flexis geni bus dicit sic aduaxi cor et mente talis per hanc ymaginem et puoco in ipam tua tacione fouet q ipa me diligit cupiat et affatet et etiam tota nocte in somno appiciat et dominu nru iesu xpm q uiuit et regnat et ipse materiam quibus dicitis has mirram et sassafrum et flos igne deum ymaginem suffragam dicens hanc guminationem Coniuro vos omnes demo-nes in hac ymagine scriptos per dominos vros quod obedite tanemini. Solomon.

Badalaim et leuiti. que talem cuius mago et hoc nota figurata in amore meo accendenda debeat ut die nocturne in me cogitat in me fiat donec cum spiritu meum complent voluntatem et sicut in hac ymagine scripti et fixi estis ita in ipsa recubant donec de ea facia quod velim hac igitur guminationem et dea et flos suffragam etiam hanc cauda pilum curdam equi et suspendenda deam cartam cum deo pilo ita ut moueat abscissa et dimittit stare illa vo die ut sequatur ut alia ut quoniam potes ad illam mulierem accedas et procul dubio libentissime te videbit donec sine te stare non possit et hoc habes prostanti et tuo domino faciet voluntatem et super te omnia diligit materiam quibus bene servauimus ymaginem et nota figurata tam in qua unum talis existit ymo et de hoc magis est admirandum hoc et signum antequam vidisset ipsam statim fecit hac ymaginem cu ad eam accesseris erit de talit' filo capta q du te viderit q no recedas ab ipso quicquid puerit ymo de omi q volueris grat' habis. Si vo ad eam no possis accedere sine timore aut loci distantia aut alio interueniente cau-teas ipam signatam facere p supra dco's demones qui ita efficaces sunt q si effas in oriente in una hora ipam ab occasu portauer sine alio titulo.

Et similiter reportauer sine aliqua di-mulgatione. Et ut sit fca ymago ut dcm est et suspensa illa die in alio hora diei suppleas in ipa ita q flatu tuo moueatur. Et similiter secunda die et tertia die in nocte vo ipso diei tui ut etia ipa die sol' ut cu tribus sociis fidelibus accipe dcm ymaginem et cu illo filo liga ipam ad collu tuu et pandat in pectore tibi.
Et habeas quendam ensam et intra fac tu-culum cu dco ense fco circulo stans in vota socios si habeas qui nichil faciat nisi q in titulo sedeat et ludu videant quos si no habueris q melius habeas si tuum famulu et circa circulu facibe ut hic apparet cu silentio semp. Quo fco

Qua fco
ginnia

2400. Vanipoy. die hanc
tionē

[illegible]

Cominus vos demones in hoc ciuitalo sculptos quibz data ē potestas et potestas ducendi et alligandi mulieres in amore vno et pūritate et potestate maiestatis diuine et pūritate et dominationes et potestates et pūritates illis qui dixerit et scia sunt et pūritates qui nocessant clamare una voce dicentes scs scs scs dñs dñs saluati pleni sunt celi et tota gloria tua agnata et exaltata

Benedictus q̄ uenit in nōm dñi asana in extasis et p̄ hac nōia pauentia et t̄mentia uos. sc̄. rator. lampoy. de pian. Brulo. dionoth. aloqui. ga tola. Gelbid. asafiq. nautm. 2 lo doni. Et p̄ anulū ip̄u qui hic ē et p̄ innumabiles potestas uestras 2 ma roy uos q̄ ubiq̄ sitis de locis uis sine mora purgatis et ad talem pur gatis 2 statim sine fallacia ip̄am huc ducatis 2 cū uolueris ip̄am reporta bitis 2 de hoc nemo sciat ut p̄pendat qua dca ē vsus anulū aspiciendo flu das quādam uocem dicente Ecce nos sumus 2 statim uos uidebis sex domital los pulciores 2 mitas tibi eadē uo ce ducentas assum̄ hic parati tibi parati benigne dic igit̄ q̄ uis 2 sta tim subito faciamus tu fuit dices ca tis ad talem 2 michi ip̄am sine mora ducatis quibz dictis subito recedant anta portam ip̄am sine lesione porta bit Et scis q̄ nullus ip̄or potest ingredi circulum s̄ ip̄am apponit apud ip̄m 2 ip̄a parat tibi ma nu 2 int̄ ip̄am trahis q̄ aliquatulu q̄ Antonica tamen uult libentissime

111
tatu p^{re}se Docet aut^{em} te q^{uo}d q^uanto maiore circulu facias meli^{us} est tibi q^uam mⁱⁿor potes facere circulu^m & mⁱⁿor meli^{us} extendere si eni^m aliq^{ui}s cui esset vltima sign^ulatura si malum esset tibi v^{er}ba itaq^{ue} mulie re omⁿis p^{ro}feruatur potes eni^m retinere hanc muliere^m mⁱⁿ d^{ic}to circulo q^untu^m ti bi plac^{et} q^uia cu^m mulier^e ingredit^{ur} cir culu^m d^{ic}ere debes illis p^{ro}utib^{us} v^{er}o v^{er}u^m vadat ad locu^m si qua^m tale p^{ro}u taueris & mⁱⁿ forma ibidem maneat donec ip^{sa}m hic habu^{er}o. Hiis dictis omnes abier^unt cu^m silencio cu^m fu^{er}et illa die ac noc te ac mense ac aⁿno q^uo tibi placuit q^uo ip^{sa}m ad domu^m volu^{er}is reuocare dic sic O vos p^{ro}ter qui^m tale^m hic duxistis accipite ip^{sa}m & ad domu^m sua^m p^{ro}uide re quoties ip^{sa}m reuoluer^{is} ip^{sa}m sitis mⁱⁿ reuocando subiecti^m d^{ic}ite igit^{ur} p^{ro}u mias val^{er}itas q^uo mⁱⁿ affabile^m ex c^{on}u^{er}si quib^{us} t^u d^{ic}itis v^{er}ba q^uo que p^{ro}ter qui^m eam te vident^{ur} p^{ro}uideb^unt. De h^{ab}ito eni^m q^uo ip^{sa} egredit^{ur} circulu^m mⁱⁿdi
c^{on}do vale tange ip^{sa}m cu^m ymagine q^uo habas ad collu^m q^uo mⁱⁿ t^u p^{ro}ha^{er}et diliget & nemine p^{ro}ter te vider^{is} cura bit ymagine^m semp^{er} t^u q^uo t^u mulier^e movetur ad collum utinam datus est semper ipsi mulieri in visibilis appetit et cum ipsa fuerit dissoluta ipsum scollo tuo et in quodam vasculum diligenter retinenda et ipsa utro dita dilue totum circulum et secum agere davis et quoniam item ad te venire voluit fac ut desuper deum est et non quod experi mentum est efficacissimum et in eo nullum periculum est quo solo experimento salomon habebat et scilicet mulieres volebat et hoc deum sufficienter per habendis mulieribus et debet fieri cum sollemnitate et maxi mis et c.

Dado de habendo amore mulieris volo tibi legare antequam gloriassima ad obtinendum dignitatem et honorem patris et maximam incorruptibilem di rectionem et regem ut si plato sine deo et generaliter si quisque virum voluit mo igitur habeas duos lapides molles quos ad invicem ita fricabis ut suprafra tus plane et quod concordent quo feceris in uno sculpas formam illius quam volueris et incipiendo a capite deinde usque ad pedes faciendo primo superius ante riori deinde si posteriori sculpedo etiam canones in capite si videris et sic 12.

In dignitate qua sculpta formabit in illo etiam lapide apud aliam formam tua figuram quod melius scieris incipiendo sic pita ut domus apud et apud antiqui demanda attingo quibus facis seba ifista vino nova sigilli nome illi et tua nome tuum quo facis Luna crescat die domica in prima hora diei habes singula sue stagnum et adigne decola et decola to picias in formam illi dicendo sic ego talis volens talem gratiam obtinere et ab eo venerari sicut honorem simili et tunc formam ymaginem faciam et sculpi tam nome eius virtute cuius ipse me pau perie diligit ultra modum qua facit ha bere solum faciem et in eius fronte sul pas hoc nome dyacum in pectore eius habet tria nomina. scilicet ymmon. et mias et peripae et in patulis habet sex nomina vi delicet andam. fabni. gabel. danail.
vneloth. et oheraech. et in umblico hoc nome Byraoch quibus scriptis habes panem lineam candidissimum et hac ymagi nem in ipsam involue quod involuta bene tondas. Die vero iouis in prima hora diei fac ignea cola simile stagnum et in tua for ma ipsum infunde dicendo ego talis for mo ymaginem meam et admei similitudi

ne qua ego semper dominetur tali et ab ipso diligam et timeam metum qua forma vel similis in alio in trolo in voluas et ad aduicendum quod ymago illius cuiusvis gra-tiam obtinere debet ad longitudinis ipsius unius semissi cum sculpsit in ipso lapide de qui etiam lapis tantus debet esse quod ymago tua etiam per ymaginis illius debe-
at ad maiorem et etiam in ymagine tuam debes imponere scriptum quibus facias quod di-ligatur ut deum et in septem die veneris prima hora et suffragia ymagine illius ad fumu horu et in omni die scilicet in anno
in. p. p. longi et herba agrimonia di-cendo sic ego talis exoritur et ymagine nota talis formata in sepalile unicam et individua unitate et per omnes christo-nos dominaciones potestates et principes et omnes creaturas et per tuam virtute obtineam gratiam et amorem talis cuius nota fac-as quibus tunc dicitis sic per favas et dya-
con. p. p. m. eon. t. e. m. in es. p. p. a. o. s. o. i.
d. a. m. f. a. b. m. g. a. b. e. l. d. o. i. a. y. l. a. u. m. e. l. o. c. h.
t. e. r. e. o. c. h. e. t. b. r. u. e. o. c. h. p. p. t. b. e. n. i. g. n. i. s. s. i. m. et gaudium seminat et ego talis cum in-stantia magna vos de p. t. o. r. v. o. t. s. u. p. p. l. i.
co vos rogo per unicum dei filium qui per sanguinis effusione humanum genus molituum suscitavit et ut per hac ymaginem forma esu

tam noie talis ipm iuxta me talit' alige tra ut me sup omes mortales veniat nu qua ameo sensu discendas s' meis samp parans pceptib' michi studeat complac re p'p'ia dnm nrm ihu x' qui vivit & regnat in secula seculor' amen. Quia oia dea accipe tua ymagine & ipam in dextera teneas. Aliam aut in sinistra & iuga illa tua sic dicendo tan' subiecit p'tos nob' et gentes sub pedib' nris. Quo deo has quida catenula ferrea & ad collu ipi ymagis lga ponendo aliud capud ima ni dextera tue ymaginis. Quo posito bn ligato ita sic dicas sicut tu ymago for mata noie talis es sub pedita & lga ta mea ymagin' ita talis mater nri sic michi parit & alligat' quo deo capias cu' tuis manib' ambas manus ymaginis & vates flatus dicendo ligo p' hanc ymagina manus talis q' manus egypti tua nllam vin' h'ant q'ua me. flata etia p'dea ymaginis caput v'sq' tuam sic dicendo sicut ymago hac fca noie tal manus cora me flexa caruica ita talis nuc' a mei voluntate discadat s' me g'itua sequat' & michi samp seruiat & me mater nri diliget sup omes me veneret' & michi studeat applaudire Quo deo faciendo samp suffrag'. Accipe tuā ymaginē & ergo ipse pone alia ita

q̄ de suū tangat humeros tua ymagis & ponēdo sic dicas sicut hac ymago fecit & hūita nōre tāl stat ap̄ istā ymaginē fecit nōre mei ēū maxima subiectiōne itā talis fit subiectus & subiectus michi donec ipse ymagines fūnt ḡservata quibz dēs m̄volue ipas ut dēm ē m̄ q̄dam alio lintzolo mūdissimo q̄ m̄vo lutas m̄q̄dam vasculo pone & dā p̄u ta p̄ciuitatē & corā ei p̄nciā & m̄ha bitaculo ei si potes & hoc facē debes & totā diem in seruo fūit debes sepelli ne has ymagines in tali loco & ita m̄ fue ut vāpianē & videbis mirabilia si fūit corā ip̄o fūit ei habitaculū p̄p̄a nō valeas sub tēdā ut dēm ei & ipas ubiqz tibi placz & ab ip̄o sup̄ cū diligēis Hoc enī exp̄mētū usqz fuit p̄mandas ad regis p̄sā & ḡra ciam obtinēdam ad faciēdu odium & diligētes Pestat etiā ut de odio & inimicitia m̄t diligētes ponere p̄tērtam q̄ enī igit
m̄tū duos viros p̄ue mulieris sue ma sculū & feminaz samināda volūis inimi citiā & odium capitale Macassa ē ut dē cipias duos lapides viros & vācōdes ut vniqz pondavis q̄ debet ēē flumines & in vno debes sculpere nōre vniqz ei hūis

ad faciē
dū odium
sed dili
gētes

14
noibz caritatis. Amabel. solil. & garitaco.
et in alia nome altio & hec noia puzant.
puniton. solitoy. & mansatoy. ille noia sunt valde se odientia qbz sculptis uni vi delicat. illu qz fcs est noia illi ados subia nua ex limitz subterviae si potes. si sunt no sepehas sub limitz eundem domo in habi tata. et similitz aliu sub limitz altio ut dem est ut sub eundem domo ut sup scriptu a et et ibi paxe punitas septa diebz & septa noctibz. Quo fcs finta solis ortu ramone
as & in locu occultu ambas facias & ipas in igne picias sic dicendo Comuovos sit in mitissimos pateri dei glam qz it talem & talem quoz noia hic millis lapidibus sculpta pmanant quatu odium inter vos est tñ inter ipos scietis & in se vatis qbus ter dictis ipos lapides de igne affeas sic dicendo Cu vascat furor eoz in nos forsi tan aqua absorbuisse nos. Quo deo pna mus ipos in aqua frigidissima & in ipa paxe pmitte servens celo tribz diebz & noctibz Quanto sunt die accipias ipos & suffuga cu fumo sulphuris dicendo sic Comuovos omnes demoes odiosos & malignos invidios & discordes punitate su pte pacti mane tis in pte & filio & pte fcs. ac pte punitate omni creator & p omni fcs & scas dei et p hec sca noia virtute quoz dominatio olipi calu & tiam e formave dignas. aa.

Sabbath. Helyn et Abacal. et p̄ om̄s reges et dñatōes inf̄ni et p̄ her nōia demonū videlicet. Apolyn. gabel. astavoth. tarso.
falmaw. et tyrocas. que q̄ntū adūm
int̄ vos exiit et q̄ntū int̄ baym et abel.
fuit t̄m int̄ talē et talē p̄t̄n̄ḡ inferat̄ Attendite itaq̄ ip̄os et talē in flāmen̄s q̄ un̄ saltz̄ videt̄ nō valet̄ ymo nō valiquū in innum̄abili odio vabellis affli gat̄ remoueat̄ ab ip̄is oīs amor dilatio fiat̄ nitas et cōpago ad m̄imitia ac oē odū maximū querant̄ quibz̄ t̄m d̄is suffūgādo ip̄os samp̄ v̄tōde nocte v̄o saquati colidas d̄cos lapides simut et v̄nū sup̄ valiquū p̄t̄as sic dicēdo nō col lido hos lapides. ymo colido talē et talē quoz̄ nōia hic sculpta sūt q̄ un̄ saltz̄ q̄tinuo affligat̄ et imitigabili odio se ad m̄uita de cetero evutiet̄ et sic facias singula nocte et singula die t̄m p̄ aliq̄s dies et videbis stat̄ siue audies q̄ m̄ mici afficiet̄ et se odiet̄ et nō et un̄ saltz̄ videt̄ nō valet̄ Si enī oīs ip̄os disu geris vales et vales v̄nū ab alto disga ra et un̄ saltz̄ fugiat̄ facias hoc modo Surge die sabbati ante solis oūtū de c̄ scēta luna et maxime quādo ē in c̄ bustione et n̄ v̄s solis oūtū facias.
Quia sc̄a h̄as d̄cos lapides illic catū latos et forat ipsos ad invicem fura pulsando de vno super alterum sic dicendo no colido has lapidas et deo tu sepelias q voluis deinde vade et vsq occidentem vade et ibi fac foueam et alia ibi sepelias dicendo sic sicut disuixi hos lapidas ita talis et talis et disuingat a tali et apponit sicut sicut ipsi lapidas et no sepulto vade et vide bis illos disuigi et vnu ab alio separari hoc am eximiatu occultandu est q

in apparitis in eo vnt q existit nullu am remedium in vnt qm ipsi disuigantur et se mordant odiant Cu vo voluis ad prima fura vana de sepeliendi sunt pda lapidas et in fornace ponendi q bn cocti minutissia tant et ipsos cu aqua ad invicem impasta et siccata pmitte quo siccato i fluis aqua pias dicendo tolla tu ois inimicia et ira q fuit int tale et tale et in amore pstinu vauentat
p miam p i dei qui no respicit malitas pccoy amen Et scias q p h pta qui sunt et ois ira tollit et pstina pace fructu

Artam qua in tua curia vidisti me totiens excaue videt ad pnotadu dapiferos primo delu fieri in vocatio xv. pium hoc modo primo ext vlla debas attendere luna et scata die pms

ut die dnica in meridie & debes tunc ferre ensem lucidissimu & fluem vppura et cu deo ense in quoda remoto loco facis cir culos quibz facis cu facia pda ensis solva re debes. xvi. nota ut in fig apparet & illa figura quibz facis debes fige versu orienta in interiori circulo dem ansem ut h ratio demonstrat

Quo fco debes tibi taliter alligare dca upusam ut discedere no valeat de m

4 tenionu circulo in quo tu stans debes uo fto genib9 flexis respiciendo ven tus oriente et capiendo dem ense am bal9 manib9 sic ut p feras symelon.
damefin. lamadin. masain. symofon.
zodobayl. tantatos. locobor. qemo
yru. tamafin. leucabau. tatomofoi.
faubau. selutabel. ximafon. syvama.
opus iocundissim9 ylaras et gauderes Ego talis vos adiuv9 p ptem et f^m ac p^m scm et filiu uniti dei potetissim9 vi ui et veri qui p^r nos et nram salute descendit de celis et incarnatus est dⁿⁱ p^r scm ex p^ria et in tamata sic inconvu ta unguine mania et p n^ram et passio ne sic resurrexerat dⁿⁱ n^ri iesu xpi filii dei veri et p scm lauat9 baptisimat9 q quisq³ saluat9 et p sole et luna et omnia sidera celestia et p oia illa q hnt vos tenere et q³ p^ringere et virtute quoy ad nos vocantib9 optat acced9 q³us huc sine mora ad me venire debeatis in forma mihi placida et iocunda pati face q³q³ dicam. Quia dea duodecies vi del9 pmo quat³ vsus oriente. scdo quat³ vs9 meridie. Tcio quat³ vs9 occidente Quarto et ultimo quat³ vs9 siquilonē portando semp^r ensen in manu et cu

duos quatuor figiendo semper in quolibet loco. Deinde pone ubi prima erat dea qui uatis ut deum a qua dea semper genibus flexis ita uoluerit usque ducere tene do in ensam manu dextra et fac iendo uirum et sinistram sic dicitur uatis. Propterea per uenire ad me venite quoniam ego precipio uobis per nomen dei gloriam amen. Quia dea semper uoluerit cum ense et uirum usque occidere et uide bis. xv. milites de totos et seruos qui tibi ducant uocasti nos et ad te uenimus et ante subiecti per te secuta quod uis quoniam ti bi sumus inobediendo per te tu sunt dices facta mihi uideri uiam potestatem ut afficiam mansas cum discubantibus multis cum in putandionibus infinitis. Qui tibi uis debuit libenter uelle facere et pati uerent domicelli multi apponentes mansas tui pedes manutengia et alia necessaria post hoc uerent nobilissimas gentes qui dis cumbant et principibus ibidem seruientes et apponentes infinita cibaria et ludios cantus melodias et tripudiantes uidebis et ludos in nubes. Et scias quod illi duodecim non discedant sine stantibus apud circuli los et extra et tunc loquentes et uiden tes etiam seruus quod ad te de illis discubent tibi apud circulos uerent tuos reges.

17
 rogatus te ut cum ipso gressu vadas et cum respondens te aliquo modo non posse discedere de quibusdam tibi subito addiscubetas venitant dicantur es de titulo te mouere non velle quod audies quibusdam mitte-tibique primum pimentum de qualibus dape de qua serua gredas et de ipsa ponu-ga illis. xvi. apud curiam stantibus et ip-sia de ea gredantur. post hoc videbis omnes amens discedere et audire eque ascendere. Et denu omnes suis oculis auerentur per villas. xii. qui stantes contra te dicent Non ne placuit tibi ludus tuus quibus tu hilariter videris quod sic et facta appositione ipsi petent ita vixisse quod gressu te videris quod mirum est quibus tu sic dicas volo vobis vixisse denu si iuvabitis ad me venire faciendo hunc ludum quoties michi placuit qui dicet se esse iuvare patros quos tibi quidam facias apponere quod subito apponatur et in ipso hoc modo iuvare facias iura me omnes duodecim in hoc facto libere illi deum vixisse et vix qui nos et omnia creavit et per dominos quos timemus et fidemus et per legem quam observamus ad te sine mora venire quod est quod vocaveris nos et meas per te facere si ē adhuc melius ut vidisti et statim iura būt et cū iurauerint dabis eis vppura quā cū habuerint ita petat licentia iure dandi quibz dabis hoc mō dicēdo p̄gite q̄ affertis accedere et ap̄ta saluti michi qui dicat esse tibi datus obligā tos his dāz abent similiter et tu agreda re de circulis et ip̄os aboleas ut nullus apparet et tū ensem ferendo vacadas et debas igit̄ attendere q̄ vppura mag ne virtutis et niḡmātiis et demones in vocatibz q̄ qua p̄t ip̄a multa ut mū in ḡdāia tutelam et cū enī clam aut palam aut ubiq̄ ip̄os ad te ven ire volūis respicias in libro sup̄ scriptos circulos et figuras legēdo submissa voce nomē in ip̄is existens quibz inspectis et semel lectis lege hāc ḡmātiōes semel.

Oymelou. Oamefin. Lamau. Masau.
Simofou. Rodobail. Tentacos. Lotobou.
Remou. Tamafin. Zengabou. Taro mosan. Faubau. Belucabel. Rimasou.
et ḡmāia Rogo vos ḡmō et adūmō
p̄dai vāi māstata ut hic veniūz faciatis subditos v̄ros q̄ apponent huc abania et p̄mo talē et talen et faciat pulcherrimū festū cū iocis canticis. choris. et tripudiis et ge 100

necesse est cum omnibus qui cum sanctis corda letificant. Quia semel letitia plenitudinem vident domitelli pantes mansas pulcherrimas quibus patris audias tubas. Cytauas et cantus in nubes cum anni alta voce dicat appontata aqua statim appontabitur et si militum favant epula et statim favent et quintum pincerna et dappifera aperta servientas et domitelle pulcherrime et mpe-rentas facietas in nubila solacia et potas facere appontari si tibi placet in pira dioni mille maneris quod valde et pulmodum sapiet comederibus. Debes itaque scire quod quanto magis comedunt multo plius fame sentit et apparent sicut dapes in non sunt existat itaque si famelicus in illis esset credas illis dapibus satari ut si non comederat procul dubio moreretur.
Et cum volueris ludum deservire dic ut mansas accipiant etiam acceptis statim mansas omnes pantes sibi de pma nebut quos si volens cantare aut sonare aut omne ludum facere dic sic fiat et videbis affectum quem hi sunt pro ludis et omnis sola et qui faciet omnia dea sibi et cum volue-ris ipse sibi dic sic vos omnes recte dixi et quies vos vocabo ad me omni caremota pantis qui respondetur liberissime faciemus et ipse videris omnes exierunt de hac gente stupidas et hic fini tur gens illa q̄ a quasi apud hodie nos is noti quam ~~matheus~~ ~~hippanus~~ totaliter ignovit et ~~experta~~ ~~formosissima~~ ad quo

p̄m̄ti mosiss
ad d̄o h̄p̄r̄ d̄n̄r̄ ap
v̄a d̄p̄r̄ d̄h̄m̄ d̄l̄r̄ a
a ad p̄u
d̄u p̄m̄ p̄m̄as
p̄ones

am dū p̄t ut homo faciat appere casti
p̄l̄m̄ et fultū sine ad p̄uocandū aīma

est etiam alia experientia ad p̄uocandū p̄t ut homo faciat appere casti
p̄l̄m̄ et fultū sine ad p̄uocandū aīmatoy inuas legiones q̄ leuit̄ fieri

p̄t et m̄tia alia p̄l̄m̄ vapurat. Da de p̄mo luna. 10. sereno celo ext̄ villam ad aliq̄ locū segregatū et fectū portas tēu lac et mel de q̄ p̄ fere apparet d̄es et discalcat nudo capite genibz flexis vsq̄ occidat sic lege. ~~usyr~~. ~~salaul~~.

~~silitor~~. ~~demou~~. ~~zanno~~. ~~syutroy~~. ~~zys~~
~~bel~~. ~~tutroy~~. ~~zytoy~~. ~~onov~~. ~~oloboy~~. ~~pu~~ ~~motow~~. ~~tami~~. ~~don~~. et ym. sp̄s aīmi

geni q̄bz p̄ū aīma defferit et v̄bitū q̄ vltis sensus hūano deape Ego talis vos gūm et exorcizo et in voto p̄p̄uen et filii et p̄m̄ sc̄m̄ que sc̄a t̄m̄tas nu cupat et p̄uocatore cali et t̄re et v̄sibi lū om̄ et m̄v̄sibilū. Et p̄ illū q̄ h̄oten de lūmo t̄re foum̄uit. Et p̄ enūciat onē d̄n̄ n̄r̄ ih̄u xp̄i. Et p̄ ei⁹ natiuita

tē. et p̄ ei⁹ mortē et p̄ ei⁹ passionē. et p̄ ei⁹ resurrexione et p̄ ei⁹ ascensione et p̄ ei⁹

ego gūvō vos om̄s p̄nōdōs p̄t̄ demones
p̄p̄iam & misericordissimā & int̄m̄atā ac incorruptā virgīnē mariā mat̄rē dñi n̄rī ih̄u xp̄i q̄ p̄miseris p̄t̄oribz mortem sumas nos ad celestē patriā v̄notant p̄t̄ ego gūvō vos sup̄ dōs p̄t̄ p̄ om̄s sc̄os & sc̄e dñi & p̄ om̄s s̄ptos s̄ant̄es p̄fessores virgīnes & viduas et p̄ hoc p̄ciosissā ac ineffabilia nom̄a om̄ t̄rē toris q̄b̄ om̄e ligam̄ et q̄ t̄vant om̄a celestia t̄rēstia & m̄f̄r̄nalia. o. a. a. e. l. y. sother. adonay. cal. sabaoth. messyas.
alazabur. & osion & ego gūvō vos & ex ōt̄ro p̄v̄tutē & potētā om̄ p̄ncipū v̄ gū dñor & maior v̄v̄or & p̄v̄tutē & pos sibilitatē ac potētā v̄tām & p̄habitatū v̄m̄ t̄m̄ h̄et ē forma & p̄ om̄s fiḡas m̄ p̄o p̄manētes
vos insolubili potētiam
gati ad
me sine
p̄p̄ola
tionē
v̄v̄v̄ debea
tis m̄ta
li habitū
ut me aliquē
no t̄v̄v̄v̄

subiecti & pari facere sic demonstrare mihi omnia quod volueris & hoc facere debeatis & ve lit per omnia quod in celo & in terra moueat quia lecta semel usus occidentis. Similit vbi me vidit. dicitur & filone et filon ge videbis gnuma gmitina turba su amatoz usus te verant qui pmitter tibi quidam scutiferum dicitur quod illi ad te venit quod vocasti cum dices sic vade ad eos & dic ipis ut in tali gditoe ad me veniant ut nullum timorem sed secum permaneat cum ipis. Quo deo statim ad eos redibit qui post modum in intervallu ve nient ad te quibus visis unde eis haec tu culu statim huc curulu qui hnt multu ipos
.ij. demones pauentur ut pmaneat quod ipi significet dicentes facite quid vis pete quoniam per nos tibi omnia fiet quibus tunc dices quod ipi suu curulu talit' debeant quod faciant ut quicunque ipm appigeris voca do ipos ad te debeant velotat venire et quod faciant debentes illud facere quod in ipis na turale scilicet faciedi appaerere fortituras & casta tu foueis & tu in tritudo gnumatoz quod dicat hoc facere velle quibus potuige libru & videbis quibus ipos sup ipm ma nu imponere & aliqua vba loqui quod no intelliges. Hoc fecit ipm tibi restituent quod restituto rogabit te ut ipos abire pmitas quod sita non possunt nisi licet penta quibus dices facite hic castu ut vi

deam vni efficaciam qui statim circa ea capiti faciet eu multis filiis in medio cuius capiti ta videbitis et ibidem militem maximam multi tudo tunc isti quidam sic discedere non valerunt. Post enim huius hominis pacem tunc vo cabunt ut sic discedere possint quibus dic etote michi pater quies tuus huc curculi apparet vocando vos et subito recedatis qui invocabunt sic venite continuo quod dicit sic ut recedant quousque via desiderant et tunc ludus totaliter deservet et nullibi dem apparbit huius facis domum veniam custo dienda librum in quo vultis totalis exi sit quando vero enim pulchre fuit voluit operari apparet curculi legendo nota capi endo subnotata sic dicas et usque. Salaul.
Silicol. Samior. Zaimo. Syrtiboy. Ri
pal. Cutiboy. Zytoy. Anov. Holoy. pumi otow. Tamy. dov. ym. Voco vos ut huc ve nitis debeatis prosecutione huius curculi in signa vestra permanet et michi malis istis ap parere faciat capiti fortissimum cum fundis foueis et militem et peditum cum maxima comitum et subito videbit ibi ca pitulum cum omnibus necessariis quod si quis ingre di potest. et continuo miles tunc stabit. Cui os qui volens apparere papias et fieri faci
at. Cum semel ego hanc fuit exequi eam cum impatore qui inter nobiles comi tabat qui venando per quendam obscuram silvam perambulavit et hunc modum tenui primo in proxi curculi vocando super deos demones pulchri

mum

et quod continuo quidam milites tunc stabunt plana voce et tunc statim venit ad me quidam peritosus miles qui nullus fuit me valebat apprehendere et ad me dixit Ego sum unus de vocatis fratribus et aliis ad te missis qui notum faciant. Cui respondit quod tibi placeat pro et statim fiat Cui dixi volo ut supradicta facias ipse una legione armatorum quam imperator et alii secum habentes ipsos tunc de esse valles qui dixit fuit et tunc omnes comites imperatoris et alii reppererunt virescentem et longe viderunt virum suo ipso virum et equum et militum minu merabilem multitudinem quibus unus disces

sit. et ante magna hostem statum venit ad imperatorem tremendo dicens Domine im perator ecce videte gentes sine numero qui contra vos veniunt invadentes vos et omnes vestros comites morti tradentes et vos quidem interficienda. Quo audito imperator et comites tunc quod deberet agere nescie bat et interim ipsi per appropinquabant quos imperator et alii videntes et audientes ipsorum imperatorem et alios timentes fugere tunc ceperunt et isti secuti ipsos et sagitta do una voce clamabant fugere non pote ris hodie mori et tunc ego dixi faciant imperatorem et suos unum captum miserissimum comitem qui im perator et alii invadentes et fuit et tunc fuit est tutissimum captum comitem cum turribus et foveis deesse potest quidam optia

lator opta et planu ad stipendariis dispen dariis clamantibus et dñe imperator m gradatū cu suis sociis fortiter qui ipm intraverunt in quo videbantur ea famu li et mlti amici imperatoris existimant se ibi invenisse se vultu defendentes quibus ingressis levaverunt ponte et se defendere cepunt tunc illi pte cum machinis et castro misere totaliter ex pugnaverunt quia pte imperatoris filii sui valde terribili magis timebant tunc dixit mch Saul. nō hēmo potētia hīc mōnadi mōvandi nisi uno quādāntē ita qd recedens nos optat et tunc recesso arripit et expugnat et ipis recedentibus castro et eia evaserunt imperator et filii sui tunc viderunt et invenerunt se in qua dam palade plāide ut palude de qd ad mūdi sunt valde. Quibus dixi negotiū ex hoc maximū fuit festū et fiduciatem remanens deserto canavin? Quibus se quētia expūctia p? cenā feci et amēto qd hūc pda nisi uno qd dante dūvāre nō potest nisi dūvabit unū qd dātē unū vice et

V ubiūq; sit possis habere navē in qua tu cu quibzq; volas qcuq; fueris vadis remittis die lune ipsa die luna crescente ad altū servenū. i. serveno celo so lus in loco remoto et fere totū mēsem

Costam hōis siue mulieris mortui quam pmo statuere debes & facere cū ipal mteu ra has figuras cū noibz & aliis oibz tentis in ipso circulo ut hic apparet

Qua fto debes ingredi signatu lotum & voluendo te cūta circulu suffunda ipm cū medulla mortui ut dcm est Quo fto audies pflera voces fca suf fundatōe quibz auditis hanc quā lionē dicas vss occidentē ut fōpū & fyrion qui sic dicitur & fyrion. dyphil.
 anoroy. dysabel. cotuoy. tytyoy.
 anooch.

22.
Cimel. pte hitantes hitatores aque qui naues navigantium peditant conam Ego vos gūm et exortio et pūto vos vbiūq; sitis aut in omēte aut motade ta aut in meridie aut in Aquilone aut in aquis aut in tūis pūdiūda Ac insepabile tūnitatē. que in tūibus p sonis existit sē pūm et filiū et pūm sē ab utq; pūdentē et pūm q; pūentis et eternus est et pūm qui tūcassit notū qūm in inferno nō stare qū ego gūm et gūmgo vos pūm pūm pūdyi et pūdyetū dñi nūm xpi qui fūnges vettas fūnges sē pūes de tenebris extraxit ad lucem et ego con mūo vos pūm mē et pedes atq; pla gas ihu xpi ut hic vūa dūcatis vos otto pte pūmāti ut vos videam in fōma nātū et hoc sūe pūlatōe Aliq; fūngis et ego gūm vos et mpo atq; pūpio vobis pūm et dignita tē luciferi. Alpha leon. et neutron.
ut nulla vūa hēans dñi ad me ve neatis ut dixi. Vēta qz ego vos ad voto exptā dñi dei sabaoth. quo et glia cuius celī et vniūsa tūale pūple ta qūa semel dēa tēnēdo costam sēp in manu dextē videbis otto naues cum magna vūentia et timore dicentes

Et az mittim^{us} ad te p^{ro}p^{ri}o nob^{is} deoib^{us} ad nos p^{ro}tin^{et}ib^{us} et erit sine mora fulcru^m quib^{us} dicas volo vos g^uid^{am} fac^{ite} p^{ro}mitt^{ite} nisi hoc debetis ad me veni^{re} tene^{re} mini cu^m sine fuitis g^uid^{am} qui max^{im}u^m faciet p^{ro}mitt^{ite} ad te veni^{re} et ved^{ere} q^u cuq^{ue} lib^{er} tua p^{ro}ci fac^{ite} volutate hoc iurato sic dicas Ego p^{ro}p^{ri}o vob^{is} ut hunc circulu^m cu^m nauⁱ capiat^{is} et ad tale locu^m si ne mora me ferat^{is}. hiis d^{ic}e vob^{is} ip^{so}s cu^m vob^{is} ing^{re}di nauⁱ et p^{ro}pon^{ere} vela et m^ult^{as} nauigare et p^{ro}ci tibi vidabit^{ur} ad m^ult^{as} m^ult^{as} et in p^{ro} p^{ri}is p^{ro}p^{ri}o vob^{is} quoc^{um}q^{ue} feris quib^{us} etia^m p^{ro}p^{ri}as ut ad locu^m siquo p^{ro}p^{ri}o te m^ult^{as} p^{ro}p^{ri}o vob^{is} qui p^{ro}ci faciat^{is} cu^m illis suis p^{ro}p^{ri}o d^{ic}e eis etia^m q^u vob^{is} q^u d^{ic}e sine fraude faciat^{is} eis q^u d^{ic}e in vob^{is} qui p^{ro}ci in vob^{is} ad te veni^{re} vob^{is} q^u d^{ic}e vob^{is} et te salu^m ut cu^m quib^{us} volu^{is} in nauⁱ portare quo cuq^{ue} tibi placuit p^{ro}p^{ri}o quib^{us} m^ult^{as} des licet etia^m vob^{is} quib^{us} vob^{is} Abolcas circulu^m et cost^{as} sub terra ibi cu^m igit^{ur} tu solus ut cu^m aliis volutate habu^{is} nauigandi cu^m f^{er}is ut cu^m ligno ut digito ut cu^m aliq^{uo} signate fac circulu^m cu^m aliis ut sup^{er} demonstravi et cu^m aliis ing^{re}di sup^{er} d^{ic}e locu^m d^{ic}e eis ut tene^{re} noⁿ de habeat fringes eis alios et cum omnes ingressi fuerint sic legas semel. Shyrim. dyffyl. onoroy.

Sisabel. Catuoy. Tyuoy. auuath. Rimel.
Sculpti in hoc articulo ego in uoco uos per uiam subiectiois michi factam ut statim sine mora subi to et incontine huc debeatis accedere nites subiecti patri et obedire michi et tam nate hunc articulum cum hac nauis figura uiam debe atis assumere et nauigando debeatis nos portare ad talem locum ad quem intendimus fracti. huc quotatioe lra uerit patri nra in octo nauis placibilis dicentes tibi qd ue intenditis quibus tu dices oibz audientibus ad talem locum. Tunc nauis in aqua se uidet et istas uelociter nauigare apparet qd nauis gat et emulet ad locum optatum unum in hore pactum et cum ibi fuerit si in ipso loco manere uo lueris dic nauis ut aliat parati ipm officiu resumere et executioni mandare qm eos in uocamus quo subito hoc audito uerarent et cum uolueris remeare ut alias pergeret uo ca ipos ut dnm et aia faceret et scias di gent qd in ipa nauis similis pte fieri notatio scay sicut in uera christianitate qd huius pnt in bonu et malu no in inferno non in paradiso morantes quibz hanc senten facere qm et articulo ille in signa sua et hoc em expmte uidi mltos de pito tn alit et aliter huc sunt modis ueris pauci laboy et nulli pculi et no qd in ipso lib sit noia et fige pntum sedm suas pntates qd ignota sunt igit occultade sunt et talade qm ipoy ineffabile afficiat pculo et

et omnes

et hanc
a uir

Volo etiam tibi mittere quoniam equum hunc est per te equum formam possit huius faceret te tam per aquas quod per nam te percolles quod per planities quotiens volueris Sino enim. 6. luna die manifestis ieiunio formam sacro equum diuina cum quodam fiveno nunc opus et in loco secreto cum quodam clauo sine filo ferreo facit circulum ut hic apparet

Sculptiens in eo nomina et figuras ibi den apparetas abus fies primanes in medio genibus flexis sup fiveno versus orientem aliquantulum alta voce sic dicat O laudivus. feremini. alio omni per petuam in presentia Ego talis in vita

24. virtute confidens vos quibus illud quod dixit et facta sunt et omnia facta et agnoscite ante quam fiant et per celum et terram ignem et flumen et aqua solem et lunam et stellas et per thronos dominatos potestates et principatus domini nostri ihesu christi ac per omnes angelos et archangelos qui morantur ante thronum dei sitis voce clamantes sanctus sanctus dominus deus sabaoth pleni sunt caeli et terra gloria tua osanna in excelsis bendictio qui venit in nomine domini osanna in excelsis et vos tunc ad me venite debetis scire ut non timeam nec timeam sed securus existat et quod quod vobis imperio debeat totaliter adimplere et cum maxima efficacia executioni mandare et tunc ego quibus vos super deos prius illud quod venturus est iudicare vivos et mortios et seculum per ignem et per omnem diem iudicii et per sententiam quam audire debeatis in ipsa die et hunc circulum quo efficitur per vocem ut sine mora huc meum cogam et precepta mea suppleturi observetis quibus dominus testis est equites videbis flagellare venie quos tu videbis dic donet ad te fuerit levavi ad te oculos meos in montes ubi veni et auxilium in auxilium

meū adno qui facit celū & terram Et quā apud arcuū fūit statim descendit aq̄s et tūc hilaritā salutaūit quibz dicit dō minu p̄ suā miam instatū p̄stinū vos redu cat. Hoc dō ip̄i dicit magist' ad te venit unanimes tuis p̄ceptis seruā p̄stare p̄cipe igit' nob̄ illud q̄q̄ nos huc venire fecisti & erit penit' expeditu. = quibz r̄ndere debet volo ut p̄ns fide nū tenendo ip̄m ambabz manibz talit'
q̄ facietis ut quotiescūq̄ ip̄m squassauo erit me veniat equus oī cui ip̄m p̄ ossim imponere & ip̄m ascendere possi
p̄m equitā tute & accedere quo nichil libuit p̄fisci. Hoc dō ip̄i assent dēu fūenū velle secū ferre. et ibidem tercio die reaportauit quibz ip̄i dabit et cū dederis ascendet aq̄s & sine ma ria recedant. quibz recessi egredere
re arcuū nō abolendo et deinde re cedas tertia vō die in ueppis reapor tauit illuc et inuice ibidem p̄dicos
p̄ns offerentes tibi dēu fūenū assen tes tua petitione eē fultā & accep to fūeno sic dicat Ego quūo vos p̄ dēu deorū ut sine mei licentia de hinc
p̄p̄ discedere nō possitis Hoc dō tibi respondebit q̄ q̄ntū volēs ibide

25. 39
pmanebur. Quo dēo squassabis frenū Et subito illuc vēiet equus niger cui impones frenū & equitabis hoc fēo de scendens & remouebis frenū & subi to equus subit. Quo recesso sic dicat Ego itē qm vō vos pōia ante dēa & pōia hntia qm vōs pōate ut iura re vos debeatis pōm equū samper ut adme vāre cogatis. Qui iurabit & pōmittet expisse hō gōtinuo tū effi cacia facere. Et tū iurauerit dic q tū salute recedant. Quibz recessis agredere tūculū & ipm totū aboleas et frenū tētu portes. Et tū volūis equū vāre dic squassando fidanum lutayth. feremim. Aludomin. Et statim equus vēiet cui oī impones frenū & equitabis. Datū clunis Aliquātulū mēdare debes qm mīor erit & hō oī vice face debes. Et tū volūis ipm curvere pūge ipm ut ver beas qm illic mōre sagitta de quo nūq̄ cadere potis nec timere po teris. Et qm volēs descendere nūq̄ recedet donec frenū deore eius aufes. Quo ablato subito euānescet.
Fatimū em talia fidena tenuissima ita qm in paruo loco portare possim q̄ nūq̄ fidangi possit nec putrefieri.

¶ In ipam observatione qd e aduocatu
q si sup dem circulu in cornu equi cu sanguine equi scriptu cu dente etiam equi etiam ostensu equis subito mouuntur Et si ipm ut dem e scriptu eiga-te tuleris nullo equus ad te poterit appropinquare et unitate huius circuli et sunt sortis in libro magice

Cum volueris aliquem mortuum in fundere animam ita qd uiuus erit primo videbit talis ordo tenendus e primo quida ex auro anulu fieri facias etiam sculpta sic expta extiori si nota Brimmer. Guburich. Et manuit. Inp-ta vo interiori sculpta sic hec nota Lywoch. Barven. Dandyn quibz sculptis die dnico ante ortu solis accedas ad aqua curietate et in ipa pone dem anulu et quibz diebz ipm ita stare pmittas. Sexta vo die ipm extrahere et fac ad qudam monumentu et in ipso pone ita q moueat ipa die venis et sabbati die vo dnica die ante solis ortu accedas ex te villa sereno celo in loco occulto et remoto et fac circulu cu qudam ense et in ipso scribe cu dco ense nota et figura ut hic apper-

Quibus scriptis in quibusdam ingredere te in eum ut signatum est Et pone ensam sub gaudibus tuis dicendo usus meridie hanc invocationem Coniuro vos omnes demones scriptos in hoc A nulo que in manibus habetis per patrem et filium et spiritum et per omnipotentem deum factum regem celi et terre et per dominum nostrum ie sum christum eius filium qui pro humani ge neris salutem mortem sustinuit dignatus est et per gloriosam virgi nem Mariam matrem eius et per lac

et sanctissimum xpi p q angeli denūciādo pastoribz locuti sunt gloria maxetis deo et of q Ego gūvō vos abūmer.
Subūmich. trāndayit. Iyūoch. Berū an. Dāmay. p omē scōe et scās dei Et p hēc nōia scā dei tēgūmāto. ool. messyas. sacer. Adanay alpha et o. saberich Et p hēc scā nōia vīgīnis marie. s. regina. flos. rosa. filium.
scala. sapia. vita. dulcedo. mīa et pces. et p paradysum celestē et tēstē et p omē angelos et archangelos et iōnos dñatōes pñtēs atq pñtātō et mēscates et glās regis celi et tēc Et p omē pñtipes. reges. dños et mēiores vīos. Et p mferiū vīū Et p omē mēode existētia quāre nō vos omē gñiti et ligati m voluntate mea et m pñtā mea debeatis huc Accedere m benigna forma ut nullū timeam et gseruare ita et talit pñe sentē finulū ut m eo hē vīnt gexistat videlz q quicūqz mposuō ipm indigito aliquid mōvīū vñ vīū ipm mguē diatū Et ut pmo vñ gpareat m illa sitrudie et forma p illū q vīnt et regnat i mīa pñtē de pñtā secu la seculor amen hīs fēuēt dictis appēbūt subito apud cūculū. 6. pñs

pariter dñm anulū quibz dabis q̄ dato ip̄i abiet Et similiter tu agredere cu culos faciens tñm Ensem nō destruens anulū Sexta vō die cū p̄dco ense reuertaris & vsus meridie sic dices Ego gūuō vos obviner. Subuith. triamayit. Lyuoth. Bayen. Samayh.
 p̄ dñm vñm vñm solū & vñm nunc sine mora ad me veni debetis appon tendo anulū q̄ servatū q̄ra q̄ q̄ n̄ po suero ip̄m indigito siue in manu alius
 p̄sone vñe cadat in tua sit mortua Et q̄n abstulero ab ip̄a in statu p̄stinū reuertat. Et etiā intuitus mortuo ip̄osuo ut dñm ē ip̄m p̄t ingrediatu & vñm ut p̄us fuerit videat p̄omia q̄ possit vos tenere & omo q̄stū gere hñs dñs quat̄ videt p̄mo vsus meridie semel. Et similiter vsus octide ta. Deinde vsus q̄lone & vsus antea Et videbis vsus oīeta vñe q̄da equita q̄ cū fuit apud anulū sic dicit tales mittit notando notando nota sup̄scpta tibi hñt anulū q̄ servatū di centes ad te veni nō posse q̄ non expediens est experis anulū virtute Et si nō habuit virtute a te postula tam dicent q̄ q̄tūq̄ sūt ad te veni
 p̄at q̄ue anulū fictitice dicens gratia tibi et ipis hoc deo patri vestres et tu etiam exies de titulo ipm totaliter deservendo et p dcm anulu bn teneas involutu in syndone albo cu vo vo luis ut aliq visus mortuus videat et ab oibz videt vita carere pone in digito ei huc anulu et cadauer vide bit. Et qn remouebis veter ipm statu et qn voluis aliq cadauer fia tum apparere pone ut dcm e anulu ut ad manu sine ad pede liga et ante hora surgat in forma pmo vita. et viva voce cora oibz loquet et hoc mo statu potit sex diebz qz qlibz corp sua die in ipso manebit. Et si voluis ante dcm emi. ut pmo erit ee remoue anulu et hoc mo resurgere potis de functu. Hc eni experia dignissima est et occultanda qz in ipa magna virtus existit. Cuius etia sup scriptis multas vir tutes hnt cuius tres p ma notas expona Si eni die venis ipm cu calamo vppu pe et cu ei sanguine in carta edina no uata scribere et aliqua psona cu co ta tigis metnu sup ois ab ipa diligens et si p dcm circulu scriptu ut dcm e po suis sup caput egredi ipo ignorant si mora debz de se nullatenus euadere possa et si debz euadere de se omo bberitū et si p dcm circulu septu simili sup tē habuīs nullo canis tibi latitane valebit et ita sūt p me expta // qn exp to vo p me relinquo

Quarto etiā de fute invisibilitatis ho die quasi fboibz ignorata cū ita qz volūis apud oīa tā rōnabit q nō m visibilis sic insensibilis hū. Imo etiā scēta luna die mercurij m pma hora diei casto an pviduū z tōis capillos z lēmba z albo induto ext villa i loco occulto sereno celo i plano solo cū ēse pte didissio fac circulu voh' apper sēbando hē nōia cū eis omīa ibidem apparētia

occidens

Hoc fco fngas vsq occidete sup furiel dem ensam. Et cu figeras has vas in quo sit ignis tu thure mirra. ⁊ aliba
no. ⁊ cu fumo ipoy. vade circulu sup fngendo ipm incipiendo a furiel ⁊ ibi finiendo. Hoc fco has aquam benedictam et affugas te ⁊ circulu dicens affugas me dne yfopo ⁊ mudabor laudabis me ⁊ sup niue deflabor. Quo fco volue do te genibus flexis vsq occidete emis sa voce sic dicas Ego talis quid vos o furiel. Memenit. Verum. ⁊ an. ⁊ pe potates magis ⁊ illustres tqls dno ofido p unica inseparabile ac indi uiduam trinitate sc pater ⁊ filiu ⁊ spu scm ⁊ p deu unicu solu viu ⁊ vax q omnia de nichilo formauit ⁊ cui subdita sut oia celestia ⁊ terrestria ⁊ infer nalisa ⁊ celu ⁊ terra maria ⁊ infernu ⁊ omnia in ipis existantia ⁊ p omnia p n cyas reges ⁊ dnos vros ⁊ p illum deu q timetis ⁊ adorat ⁊ p oia q hnt vos ⁊ deus q stringere ⁊ alligare ⁊ qui pceptu vos oportet totaliter adimplere qts vos omes. Si cu huili maxima hoc vnde debetis ligari q stuti ⁊ iuvati ad exetuti mandandu q qd a uobis pectore. vnde sine mora vnde q iuoco vos expta pnt p uoco

29. vos expta filij inuoto vos expta pte sot hac inuocatio dca quat saluz semel vsq fuit. semel vsq malemit & vsq berit & trawator. adewit subito inuoculo q. pce dicat tibi Sic not q vis & plene tibi obadiemg. quibz dices Ego uolo quada cappa inuibilitatis q sit te nuis & incorruptibilis qua cu idut fuo nullu uidere nec me sentire ua leat. Hoc dca unq discas Et an hoi apporabit ibi quda cappa q ab ipis pecebas ut tibi dare deberet qui u pondebut tibi dare no posse si pmo ipis no das tuu indutu albu quibda bis & cu dederis eis. ipi tibi dabut cap pam quoy unq stat induet indutum eis datu. Similit tu stat induas cap pam q cum indueris illis pibz dices Abite cu pace & stat rudent Et cu abierint debes dimittere titulu fere do ensam tta 3o die cu cappa illuc reuertere & inuocare tuu indutu q accipies oremeto em si ipa tta die no reuerteris sine tuu indutu ibi dimis sum no accipias quarta die nullu in uocare s in septem diebz moueris.
Accepto em tta die idut. ipm meo dem toto gburce Et scias q qm ipm gburce audies maximos plactus

et querelas et cum glauis appropinquas cinere pacis sic dicendo conuersos fideles. melemil. Verum. tunc. p. v. v. tute. et potestate vram. et p. oia habebitis ut vos p. tate ut no habebitis virtute nec potestate ledendi me p. hanc capra
s. i. x. p. t. g. et defendat me p. oia secula seculorum. Amen. Quo deo habe as si qua lundam. Et appropinquas deam cap ram sic dicendo Ego conuersus te capra
p. p. et filium et p. m. s. m. et p. h. a. q.
ut p. t. u. q. te induit filo nulli senti re nec videre me valeat p. d. n. m.
n. m. i. h. m. x. p. m. filium dei v. m. u. qui v. m. u.
et regnat p. oia secula seculorum
Amen

Yfano

ni

Retipe ceruam virginem ante virginem zatham ^{hoc} in die iouis. ut in die d. m. c. hora venis ut hora iouis. ex dicta cava facias ymaginem ad carbones accensas sine fumo in una olla posi tos et habeat magister decapillis mu lieris p. qua vult facere et tres fillos seta vubee et habeas tunc cultellum albi manubrii ad hoc factum et vade ad locum ubi artifex facit acor et tu fac as facere ab eodem artifice hora solis usque ad hora saturni. Remde magister

30.
 Hæat duos socios fideles & vadat ad arborē fructifera & faciat magist' arborē et incipiat magist' arborē facere sue ymaginē mulieris quæ qua fa
 munda
 recorde tu Behal. tu asparach. tu s'pando tuo

ad introitus
 locus magistri tu Behal. tu asparach. tu s'pando
 tuo

tu Behal. tu asparach. tu s'pando
 tuo
 Ad hoc sitis opus michi ad introitus & similiter mundum modo dices Ego. A. formo istā ymaginē in amore talis ut valeat ad qd facta est Et tubelhal.
 initialis inceptus ad hoc opus sis michi ad introitus et magist' faciat ymaginē de p'dicta cava incipiens hora iouis descendendo usq' ad horam saturni Et sic formata ymaginē faciat fieri magis ablutifica pito noue flus qui cas faciat corpore balneat & nitidis vestibz induit faciat deas flus hora solis usqz ad horam saturni. p. x. ma gis fingat deas flus i ymagine ita collocando una in capite alia i hume ro dextro. etia i sinistro. q. ubi con spiciunt ab hoibz assignat qd dicens sicut ista flus fingitur in corpore yma ginis ita fingat amorem. A. i amore. A.

q. no possit dormire. vigilare. i. care
re. dormire. ambulare. sic quousqz i me deas. i. care. amorem. quintam in um brato. sextam in amore. septima in lactare dext. octava in sinistro. nona in amo. Sic formata ymagine xpiani zes ipam imponendo sibi nome p. qua facis submergendo te. & dicendo quo modo vocat et videret. A. Et tu debes dicere Ego baptizo te. A. i. noie p. te & filij & f. f. amia. Et postea pone yma ginem in panno nouo & mundo dimit tendo ab hora solis usqz ad horam man
tis. Deinde facias istam giracionem sub subora fructifera ad carbones accensos. Et voluas te usqz orientem & dicas Coniuro talis. A. caput tu um. Crines tuos. oculos tuos. Auas tuas. Genas tuas. Coniuro talis Cerebrum tuum. Coniuro A. tunitas.

731
crederetur tui sed dicitur et per matrem con tinuo. A. oculos tuos. continuo. n. tunicas oculorum tuorum continuo. n. frontem tuam co tinuo. n. dentes tuos. continuo. n. os tuum continuo. n. mentum tuum. continuo. n. nasum tuum continuo. n. naves tuas. continuo. n. palatum tuum. continuo. n. gingivas tuas continuo. n. guttur tuum. continuo. n. humeros tuos. continuo. n. faculas tuas. continuo. n. pectus tuum. continuo. n. mamillas tuas co tinuo. n. corpus tuum. continuo. n. umbilicum tuum continuo. n. famulum tuum. continuo. n. venas tuas. continuo. n. latera tua. continuo. n. finem tuum. continuo. n. costas tuas. continuo. n. vulva tua. continuo. n. genia tua. continuo.
n. cervice tua. continuo. n. tales pedes tuos continuo. n. brachia tua. continuo. n. digitos manuum tuarum. continuo. n. manus tuas co tinuo. n. ungues manuum tuarum. continuo.
n. cor tuum. continuo. n. pulmones tuos co tinuo. n. buccellas tuas. continuo. n. stomachum tuum continuo. n. totam personam tuam. continuo.
n. tota substantia tuam ut non possis di mitti ne cadere. n. iacere ne aliquid su tificiale facere donec mea libidinosam et plenam voluntatem continuo. n. te per quem et filium et fratrem semper per magnum autem per virtutem tuam per sapientiam salomonis per verum sabaoth. per verum seraphim per verum emmanuel. per omnia corpora sanctorum que valent in vna p luna & sole & do mini maiore et p lac virginis pscam maia matre dni nri ihu xpi p tunc visma son p corp & sanguinem ihu x comu vos & exortio vos impo vobis ut sicut ceruus desiderat fontem aqua ita desiderat. n. ad meum amorem Et sicut ceruus desiderat cadauera mortuorum ita desideras tu me Et si cut cerua ita liqueat a facie ignis ita desideret. n. in meum amorem q no possit & q

Signa sunt mulieris he sunt & se quent solitudo. inuolucro capitis ploratus. gemitus. percussiones cuius lacrimas emulantes. Et magis siue ille qui facit vadat ad illam et si vide rit illam solam stantem & sedentem tunc corroboret magis iuramentum usq ad quintum diem Et si illa in terra dino fuit gsumat. si aut fuit in villa aut aliam civitatem transierit tam dm magis faciat iuramentum quicq illa possit verba. Et in hoc faciunt gentes nigromantia omnes astrola
ci. hyppni. arabia. hebrei. caldei.
greci & latini Et extractum fuit istud experimentum de sacris auribus ymaginibus auris de floribus omni experimentorum & q

7 Per hoc experimentum ostenditur homo mulier. vir. pater. bestia cuiuscunque dictionis existat. Hec nota in hoc modo sunt scripta in patula. Propter hoc to-tu ad implatu fuit quod vis eligeret tibi si aliquem pater ostenderet voluit se be nam eius in patula inter. b. z. e.
z. i. nota quod a bel. Si aliquis hominem ostenderet voluit scribere nota illi me. l. z. si. Si vero aliquis bestiam ostendit gave voluit scribere nota eius inter. si.
z. n. z. colorum eius z. pateribus vero sicut hominis z. mulieribus agendum est ita et in eadem hora in qua ex-pleta patula fuit abstractos ibi oportet ut in primis paterant lingua ex prima filia ut lingua quae vagant in aquis z. faciat inde igne carbonem que collige z. in olla nova mitte z. desuper paulatim pone patula z. pau-latim augmentando igne donec patula calefiat z. tunc invocata pater pater z. dic hanc invocationem. Asiel.
Castiel. Iamisiel. vabam. Cielam. volant vobis paterio Si pater ut mulieris quod ut quia in tuo amore accendere voluit Sic dicas ut patrum z. f. secundu quod in fira ginet Si vero pater + belam.

noie illū p̄m q̄ vis ut uēiat ad te p̄atē hūilit̄ pultia facie ⁊ blando sermone dicendo cōmūo uos. Asyael ⁊ q̄ ut. A. p̄m
A. qui p̄tātē h̄t sup̄ omē q̄ ab eo quē uēre uolo ad me uēre faciat p̄atē hūilit̄ blando sermone ei⁹ forma ut dixi. s. militis pultissimi ad gūlandū oīa que ei p̄cipia uolūo. Et tū p̄mūo aut muliere hoc facere uolūis fac ei p̄us notū ubi te in uēre possit quā nisi te in uēret p̄tū fūore suo m̄saniet Si q̄ bestia gūmūo p̄dēos p̄t ut q̄ p̄n gēt illam bestia q̄ uis ne de loco i quo est se remouere ualeat donec uolūis Asyael. Capriel. Iamsiyel. Rabam. eirlam. elam. belam. Ego uos gūmūo p̄dēu uer p̄dēu uīū qui uos creauit ⁊ p̄ eum qui adam ⁊ euan formauit ⁊ p̄ eū qui mare creauit. Auidamq̄ fundauit qui facit angelos suos p̄t ⁊ m̄stros suos igne uētē qui nouit ea q̄ nō sūt sicut ea q̄ sūt qui h̄t clauēs mor tis inferni. ⁊ p̄e. n. p̄m⁹ ⁊ nouissim⁹
p̄m⁹ ⁊ finis alpha ⁊ q̄. ⁊ qui uiuit ⁊ fuit mortuus ⁊ refixit qui uoca uit dēu p̄tām ei⁹ alpha ḡmāton ⁊ hoc nomen uos gūmūo ⁊ p̄stū ⁊ m̄f fabile nāmē dei tetragramaton.
⁊ p̄ id nom q̄ nemo nouit nisi ipe qui ē vbu dei & p̄ hec nom̄a dei hely. hely.

helos. saluati. alion. adonay. sady.
et p̄ oia nom̄a ei⁹ & p̄ ip̄i⁹ virtutē & p̄ om̄s virtutes celoy & p̄ om̄s vos p̄ p̄viam & filium & s. s. & p̄ sciam unitatē & unitatē dei & p̄ illā coronā q̄ dñs n̄r ih̄c x̄p̄t in suo capite h̄nt et p̄ lac b̄tē marie virginis & p̄ h̄o p̄ dca nom̄a & p̄ om̄s virtutes corp̄is & p̄ ip̄a gūmāciōz p̄cipio vob̄ ut sta tim & cito & velocit̄ & sine mora se ducatis cor & m̄tam. n̄. in amorem meū & sicut hec parula calefit & incendit̄ ita illū ut illā. n̄. incendā tis & calefaciatis igne mei amoris & ita ut nuq̄ quiescere valeat don mea adimplebit̄ volū. p̄ amore q̄e bel. 29

Item nota q̄ pa
tula sup̄ dicta
debet esse asini
na vel leporena
vel anserina vel caponina
secūdu dīversos

Ut equum habeas ad eundem quo vis repice fluvium versus orientem flexis genibus iunctis manibus et si eris in causa et dno cu magna fiducia et pro firmissima obtine
di. O altissime et benignissime rex orien tis exaudi orationes meas et clamorem meum ad te veniat affiant fluvies tue intenden tas in vocem deprecatoris mee et nobilissimam sedem maiestatis tue. te in voco et ad hunc pro illu dno q tuos diligis et fides.
et fides et legem legalem et propter tam et pro caritate caritativam et anel.
ely. tamen agmaton. q a nome altissimu et pro locu ubi sedes in folio magne nobili tatis tue mitte ad me am fluvium quo in eo valeam adple q apta et fide po tens est dno ipm mitte et ut michi in hac hora tua magna potestas in omib et omnia sit obediens et legalis et ideo te dno in voco adoro et laudo nome tuum matru qui oriens oes benedict et glo riosissimus per infinita secula seculor amen.
Hoc igitur dno sepius die audat. volo huc ad talem ptem et statim veniat si voluis pro ut equus ut dormiedo ut vi gilando cu equis venit dno tamen te pdm qui creavit celu et terram mare et omnia que in eis sunt tam visibilia q invi sibilia et sine preceptu et timore dampno aliquo ut proculo seu et angustia mei con

poris et sic portus me suavit et deponas me sine aliqua lesione pnti ut futurum usq ad talem locu suavit me deponas cu eni deposuerit te ubi affectabilis dicitur humilit gratias tibi ago quod dignu me faci ti in hac pta mea et pntia qua et bona ficio mea et me tibi offero servitute et sem per tuis obediens mandatis bndictu lau datu sit semp nom tuu regnatu sup omia secula seculor Et tibi etia gratias ago qui et generationu nomini filitissim dei p me faci gere dignatus es unde ad locu servatu et filiu tpe serveno et filisq ventu et dicit scia mentia oia p nobis p magnam misericordi am tuam Cum gloria pui totu mundu tuas dno modo pui et totu pui et corp meu dno deus pui omnipotens iudica me postea fac talem civitatu ut inferu designabit

pone in ollam sapientie cinere & fange & in omnia igne cu sale in occidentali figram & calcam & sede in medio cu culi & verta te vultu sapientie & voca regem nubiu noie Baltha. ut mittat 3^{es} duces qui huc possent michi nubibus & ventis saltem saltim. Balthim.
Balthim. Balthim. qui ducant te absque fione & absque periculo tui corporis & anime ad locum quod volueris & tunc apparebit tibi quia nubes & derivibus illis exibit tuas alia olla dicens ascende ascende scinde tunc aut in periculo at & tu scinde tu pata sellam in quo h^{et} dices & tunc videbis cathedram in medio nubis & tu ascende illam & dicit rex Baltha.
& duces saltim. saltim. saltim por tata me placabiliter sine timore & impe dimento & periculo aliquo mei corporis & anime usque ad talem locum & suavit me levata & suavit me deponite tu rex Baltha. & o vos principes sal
tim. saltim. saltim. vos potest in vo co ut cito & velociter me ducatis usque ad talem locum sine omni timore & periculo mei corporis & anime & adhuc vos in vo co & quicquid potest & exoritur h^{et} angelorum nomina altissima qui in flore sunt potent asael. emedael. emethael. & angel.
etymael. venael. carbon. scutem. ty volay. taneyn. teregay. baraban. Gama loy. tubay. fican. bysai. Austayon. boual. Gameloy. baraban. Gypu. Eba

 ly. Amuwa. Gubfalo. Giego. Afonar. zaphinim. bouath. beolthoray. afforax.
 Galyo. Euvial. faulyon. ¶ If naita vos in vobis et gimus et exoritur et gstringo ut sine mora veniat ad me existant in hoc loco et multum me suavitur et banig ne deficiatis et ducatis ad talem locum sine omni timore lesione et periculo mei cor poris et anime sic fiat fiat sine vada securus et non timeas quod praebuit te quo volueris. Si forte secus habueris volueris in via et in ore. et quod sitis impares in vobis hoc nota dices. f. Samagillatela.
 Sabalaay. Gaviton. Gavitamey. Gavi belli. Gavitay. Et sic ut poteris in ore et tamen et tamen securus et volueris si quis tibi forte nocere voluit vel attemptavit si forte septentrionali sena ris bathediam descendere dic Galthym. te in vobis gimus et gstringo ut vindictas me de isto et mihi nocere tempta et hoc septa nota et in alio pote rata. h. f. flagaly. stygaloy. Galyon. babaria. regala. fargaloy. Guitpabey.
 et statim veniet superas super omni et tunc si vo forte occidentali quis tibi nocere temptavit dic audacter  Galthym.
 gimus et gstringo te et ista septem nota

.f. febegyol. febelly. flatan. tymaly. ge hatal. tyboel. Galtym. fiat ut sit pluuia & nubes sup illu mtem q non possit uidere nubem. Si vo expta orientali qd taptava voluit. Sic ve fatis Galtym. laltym. quista noia. f. flegaly. stygaloy. malyon. baulaia.
wagala. segaboy. guitipabey & cadat tonitrua sup illum & nubes & tupa tas ita ma taptava no audat. Si founta in via videtis sup ta taptava tas ut spais aut fues aut alia tan vibilia qd founta possit taptari. Dicit O tu rex. baltham. ego ta inuoco & guro & gtingo rex sapiens & fountis
p ho noia. f. alwogen. segawadetho.
pitalota. frigonay. galalsey. ut hic tribilia facias pti. Vamouen statim dte huius verbis sine mora ve cede & ultia no habis qm hic cu culus debet fieri ad ipud apd & q

Ad inuocandum in saeculis q vis scribet hec noia in carta uirginia cu no minibz illis die in huc modum sicut in fatis ptebit postea pone sub dextera Aure qm vadis dormitu & videtis qd vis de ptiis pntibz & futuris. Hec a con

36 invocatio q̄ debz fieri sup̄ carta. O. vos gloriosa nora sumi dei cui oia p̄ntia p̄ntia & futura p̄ntia sūt. Rogo vos ego servus & subditus v̄r̄ q̄ mittatis michi Angelos v̄ros qui scripti sunt in titulo isto ut michi reuelare debe atis q̄d sup̄ talem v̄ram ut de q̄cūq; v̄s negotio q̄ venturū est & h̄c dicit tui bus v̄tibus & videbis q̄d v̄s poten tiam dei. Sic est titulus q̄ debz scribi tui dōm̄tū

H Agla H
 H Michael v̄r̄ dī H
 H Gabriel fortitudo H
 H Emanuel p̄actus H
 H Raphael medicina dei H
 H Alpha et o. el̄ ely H
 H Tetragramaton s̄m̄c H
 H Agla H

Ad equū h̄ndū & scribat̄ in hostio dom̄ uatue in circulo noctis mōra he

[illegible]

Ad incipit speculum floron fac fieri speculum de puro salite admesura palme unius multudo. habeat q. ma nubium adtenendum et sit illustratum et lu cidum ut ensis sit q. sem. in nore floron et marcuru ista speculi ex alia pte no lucida sint her. dcm nora cu. hiis de am caratibz descripta et nome. pte pda sit in medio septu post quem fuit sem. in loco sacroato unguatu ex puro bal amo expta lucida et subfumiga salit cum ligno aloes. ambura & mirra & olivano albo. hoc facto magis huiusmodi sedens faciat ipm speculum tenent p manubrium cu ambabus manibus pueri virginis ante patris suu & ipse magis sit balneatus etia nudis vestibus indutus q anteq in turba exerceat hoc opus mat. lac & vinu equalit infunt mixtu in ferva affgat Dicendo florion qn speculo sit solitres apere et tunc videas hoc dco hanc givata coram speculo legat. Bis mille. gassim. gissim. galisim.

Dau gosim. samarinosim. xalim. ausim.
taxarim. z aloim. hyacabanoy. illata.
laytim. hahalmim. bacoym. choma.
laminao. dnuchamim. zonim. narabanoy azawethia. tharchiat. hinanadon. illemey fard. hucacaf. illemegiptim. sitagiatim.
vraice. ham tamica. tatala. calcarim.
alaoht. halayeu. gapcameturi. morto orfail. garbel. huabaton. albicat. huale pin. halmagvilia. hualeon. huastanie.
hualeamamech. huatonzor. illenie. gip
tim. tagnia. garhegita. lasuma. lesa
nim. apcasala. albwoahit. ulleach. alfad.
vsamach. aptisila. abflurwarth. ullach.
anc dulamoralia. hahysitim. vataleas

Ichimi. caegina. caelieginales. mirabolamini. abcasile. albiwahich. alleach. hala maton. unia. gaycatolon. hugia. gay soza. Cameselis. phalmowach. bathachua.
 huaba. lagis. illamcanitimi. geligina.
 gachagina. lesmirapta liba. albiwach.
 vlauch. Sitta vo hac givatioe magis
 in speculo apparet et videbit milita summa cum in equo sedente et sumigatu suum comitantem secum qui miles de equo descendat et sumigatu equum tenebit cui militi sic dicat se deppata decantissime visibilitate givationis. Et tunc magis ipse interrogat de pntis pntibus et futuris.
 et ipse givatio cito scripto interrogata plenius insinuat. Non ergo tibi in credibile.
 Sic quicquid fuerit huius apia summa qz dum novies ista pfectis idem pnt manifeste se universa q pnt pfecta insinuaverit ora ad os viva voce palificando denu-tiabit. Sum ergo tunc pntuo velle pfe-ceris. et de pnt cu pace pnt ut vadat et iuxta pceptu sui dñi vadat cu fuit vocat.

Ac nupit speculu floron et alio mo q
 sup sit notatu qvis cu eisde vagulis fac fieri speculum de pntis calbe ad me iuxta palma unius mivatioe et heat manu

lūm ad tenebrā & sit illūiatū & lucidū ut en-
sis. Sit q̄ fctm in honore & in ore p̄mū in p̄rior & in uirtutu speculi & exalta p̄ta nō lucida sūt. 10. nōia cū datā p̄tā tāribz sup̄sc̄tis ut p̄tāat in speculo & hoc nōie florū in medio sit sculptū & post q̄ fctm fuit in loco tali seruata sic fac ungat p̄uo balsamo in p̄tā lucida & sit subfūgatū hīs p̄tābz scilicet ligno aloes. Amburā. mirrā. plendat & alibano albo. Hoc fctō magis huius op̄is sedens faciat ip̄m speculū tenere ambabus manibz alitū p̄uo ungi ante pertus suū & ip̄e magis sit p̄mo balneatur & mudis vestibz indut & aboibz aliis modis ut bñ noster ordinat ante quam incipiat hoc op̄us ex t̄e mal.
lat & vinū mixta affigant in fleve & magis p̄dem fctm p̄o nōie advocat ut in speculū sicut solitū ē veniat et vera verpona deoibz interuogatis.
p̄ta sc̄pta ut vā vndeat. Hoc dicto magis quidatōez sequēta caldayos vbi sc̄pta p̄legat hoc mō Wisnassa.
cassini. gassini. gassini. gtagosini.
samalassini. waxini. ḡtini. cauwaxini.
maraxini. sobohini. heruwa. banow.
allegatiz. alitisi. alawā. haletum. ha maymon. hyalerimon. bipelimi. briste delimim. hybelim. bycho. yhan. bychoimim.

chosuma. lanym. lonynti. conuimnum.
vicalbanow. ficheretatat. hyachet. huya zalon. vcanef. allenmagyptu. buagyan
us. hyanice. hamica. hamenica. conolau.
ganstaxemi. filoyoli. helytu. gayta.
memetu. montoro. lazabal. hubaon.
albnatal. hyxalepini. almagarie. hu a leon. hyaltanix. hualenyeset. huatosau.
allenmagitu. cagme. sacogyna. lamini.
tesymaybdo. albysilchi. alluhuan. valehat.
aufard. huzeniedt. apthle. almeuahit.
ullehach. enzebula. morabe. balicu. wa lesuau. cagyna. lasmyro. valanu. apta
hle. asugnachacht. ualleach. hyamacha
ion. hyabra. gaytatalon. hya. yagapolo
zol. phalmolmeth. bechaur. huaba. laygip.
allenietantu. cagyme. awagme. dauagui neles. mywapcalile. ulleytich. sectah.
¶ Magist' inquitat in patulo & videbit militē suū in equo sedentē & suū gerū suū comitātē secū qui miles d'eq descendet & suū migau' ei' eq' tenabit cū militi sic dicat pata in silicio gyno
mon. tūc magist' m'uoget ipm dep teritis p'ntib' & futuris & ipa g'ntulo cto sapto ita rogata plenarie in ti mahit nō sit igit̃ mēdibile tibi q̃tq̃ fūis huius op̃is artifex p. c. q. p̃dit̃ facis idē p̃t̃ qui p̃us manifeste m̃si nuat̃ p̃p̃ta p̃p̃ta una nocte p̃ exat̃. 2̃ m̃die dī hora ova ad os gallificando denūtiabit 2̃ etiā om̃ia que sub titulo lune sunt 2̃ etiā m̃ teiva 2̃ sup̃ terra visibilit̃ 2̃ ap̃ si p̃ta demonstrabit. Tū igit̃ cūta p̃ facis p̃p̃ta ut m̃p̃ta vacet 2̃ p̃x ta p̃capit̃ magist̃ q̃tq̃ hora voca tus fuit q̃ festinant̃ veniat 2̃ sine mora Nota q̃ nō nota cū suis caut̃at̃ibus debant sculpi in p̃etulo p̃ma die ṽñis luna cūsc̃ta 2̃ etiā p̃etulo eadē die debat fieri. 2̃ si nō potest ex toto p̃o fici eadē die ṽñis q̃pleat̃ ut p̃ta die ṽñis 2̃ semp̃ luna cūsc̃ta. Vi deat̃ b̃ñ sculptor ut faber q̃ nō sint poluti luxuria p. q. dies. Am̃ p̃cedat ad op̃s m̃ etiā balneat̃ 2̃ loti et mūdis vestib̃ induti ut sc̃s

1. tam secūdu aliu modū in quātionē
ṽñis 2̃ iouis vade ad locū sac̃etū Ac sac̃atissimū ut m̃fua assignabit̃ Et h̃as tatū candelas accensas et tatū p̃etulo calib̃ impidū 2̃ politū f̃m luna. q̃. ut. ñ. ut. p̃m̃. xiii

Et in sequenti die ieiunabis et tu opera tua volens vade ad locum ubi super dicitur et fac speculum et frange ibi speculum super domum super lignum admodum cultelli ferri et dicas haec verba. Sidi. pichie. tidie. Motuvas. Bavudh. Avitax. garyn. Quent. hismuia. haruial.
 fuganes. furtym. faruial. faruc.
 coruialis. bosuo. zaladas. pasapa.
 phwpa. tnyph. Tu qui es deus al pha et omega. fac hoc speculum clavesca va et clavesca va donec ad visum meum sufficiat hoc non est defectus sequitur conuincitio conuincitio te pda et per tuas puros sydvat. mysadch. et ab denago. et per tuas magos capian.
 balthasaw. melthiaw. et per tuas pntarhas. abraham. ysaac. et iacob.
 et pilla cui nomen est theoden. lien.
 elyon. uargito. et deus fortis ama nuel. capian. capian. capian. con prian. asmal. Et dic tuis omnibus et videbitur tibi clavesca va et clavesca va et appabunt tibi multa in speculo tamquam in campo. Et ut inquirere facias de quibusque rebus quod volueris et sufficienter tibi ostendebunt post prima aut vitem

Quicūq; vis ubiq; vis inseparato tñ lato hoc facere poteris dices vā sup̄ deā Hoc anī p̄culū tibi ḡservabit ad illā
q̄ tu unq; plus affacta p̄ m̄culo no bilissima de tuis militib; Et nō q̄ dīc̄ ar̄cul; & dēi cūculi dñt fieri q̄ nubes non appaueant q̄ si postea appaueant nō est timendum q̄ f̄t sunt / 29

Studeas inuenire unā cattā nigra natā in mase m̄tū & ex viscera eam corde tñ v̄ meneta tūc f̄sada cor tū cultello q̄ sic de vene f̄o & otulo; erue dēa cattā tū eodem cultello & ipe f̄s foramina octo; sēma cui dam herba q̄ elyotria dicit̄ unū m̄cto dext̄ & aliud ī sinist̄ & tū m̄ cor sēp̄ l̄ v̄l adice do ḡap̄son. Lampsonas f̄ampsonay m̄visi bilis fiat hō & ipe eā cora & sepeli eā in or tu tuo i q̄ nemo int̄at & eā i rega cū s̄gno humano & f̄q̄ ḡm̄sca hoc ḡtinuado p̄ xv dies
v̄q; q̄ c̄st̄it herba alba tū sēma suo ope
p̄ illa v̄ba r̄p̄etendo scias tñ q̄ q̄lib; herba dabit sēma s̄ ḡuamū unū bonū q̄ quidā sic dīḡa debes & nō p̄ r̄p̄etendo h̄as igit̄ p̄ecu lū cora t̄a & r̄p̄etendo unū ḡnū post aliud ī p̄culo & p̄onas oīa ḡna i oīa tū s̄ l̄ngua tūa alim̄ p̄ ḡsideras ḡnū illud q̄ p̄onis in os tū & si m̄q; ḡno posito i oīa t̄a v̄da nō potis ī p̄culo scias v̄dā bonū & v̄da p̄ta & c̄

H d fuitu mveendu x cultellu cu manubrio nigro ut albo & facias circulu infra di cendo hie oros Deus qui corda fidelium scilicet & d eocade nos famulos tuos & d hie oros si tu & hie oros pumit puella yvigne et magis intret cu ea ut cu eo in circulu et accipiat magis sanguine bu munda
 m g & extra & scribat sup eu p dco cultel lo hoc signu & hac noia sumit anel on.
 Adonay & manual. f. dene fontis scs. ely.
 scs. elyon. scs dno dno. saluoch. mirabilis plandus alpha & o fiat quo scripto fiat p dco luna & mungas desup sanguine et p dco galline nigra & desup ala hoc modo dicendo pu nu t tot cu tuncet xpc le son tuncet tuncet viciu xpc ab antiqua fide magnus magnus & atonit fiat fimey exaudi nos tuncet viciu p dco datus m fere ro nobis scs maria ora pro nobis scs micha el ora pro nobis scs raphahel ora pro nobis scs iohes bapt. p dco dno ora pro nobis dco scs & scs orate pro nobis. tuncet. xpc. tuncet.
 xpc exaudi nos hoc vo sup scriptu p m dco dicat magis in fuitulo p m guntione ipa guntio te p m p m & filiu & p m son cu oia nom flectit & ois lingua p dco
 mat. ofana guntio te p m maria semp yvigne p angelos & archangelos
 p. xxiii. seniores & p. xl. milia militum qui p[ro]p[ri]e x[risti] i[n]gulari s[un]t & p[er] s[an]c[t]u[m] ioh[ann]e[m] bapt[ist]am & p[er] d[omi]n[u]m p[ar]t[u]m d[omi]n[u]m & p[er] ioh[ann]e[m] & p[er] x[ristu]m ap[osto]los & p[er] x[ristu]m & p[er] x[ristu]m & p[er] x[ristu]m & p[er] x[ristu]m p[ro]p[ri]os d[omi]n[u]m & p[er] o[mn]e[m] s[an]c[t]os & s[an]c[t]as d[omi]n[u]m & p[er] o[mn]e[m] v[er]itates o[mn]ipotentis d[omi]n[u]m calapas t[er]restris & i[n]fernales ut q[uod] q[uod] tu videas not[um] i[n] s[an]c[t]u as & ut tu v[er]itatem videas poss[is] quis ut qui & sit ut sint qui fuit ut ip[s]e ut hominib[us] fateretur v[er]itatem d[omi]n[u]m o[mn]ipotentis d[omi]n[u]m & g[ra]t[ia] com[un]icatio v[er]itatis d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m sup[er] caput p[ri]m[um] hanc g[ra]t[ia]m d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m o[mn]i v[er]itatem d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m con[tra] h[uius] devotio[n]is p[ri]m[um] m[un]dib[us] potentia q[uod] i[n] p[ri]mo t[ri]bus s[an]c[t]is i[n]tellec[t]u ut m[un]d[u]m v[er]itatem p[ri]m[um] d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m ut h[uius]

d[omi]n[u]m ut cogat[ur] o[mn]i fallacia v[er]itatem m[un]d[u]m ut exaltent n[omi]n[u]m tuu[m] q[uod] & b[en]edictio i[n] s[an]c[t]is s[an]c[t]is p[ri]m[um] d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m x[ristu]m qui co[m]m[un]icatio p[ri]m[um] s[an]c[t]o p[ri]m[um] t[ri]bus m[un]d[u]m v[er]itatem illu[m]i[n]at con[tra] & corp[us] i[n] p[ri]mo v[er]itatem m[un]d[u]m p[ri]m[um] et d[omi]n[u]m que i[n]t[er]rogat[ur] o[mn]i s[an]c[t]is n[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m p[ri]m[um] & filio & p[ri]m[um] s[an]c[t]o v[er]itatem & v[er]itatem p[ri]m[um] s[an]c[t]is s[an]c[t]is p[ri]m[um] magis p[ri]m[um] ut i[n] tente i[n]spicit i[n] vase illo id[em] d[omi]n[u]m h[uius] v[er]itatem ut s[an]c[t]is no[n] v[er]itatem s[an]c[t]is modo v[er]itatem s[an]c[t]is s[an]c[t]is & s[an]c[t]is m[un]d[u]m p[ri]m[um] q[uod] v[er]itatem m[un]d[u]m v[er]itatem & p[ri]m[um] i[n]t[er]rogat[ur] q[uod] s[an]c[t]is v[er]itatem quousq[ue] v[er]itatem p[ri]m[um] h[uius] f[un]ctio[n]is ut h[uius] & v[er]itatem illa de qua d[omi]n[u]m d[omi]n[u]m hoc est signum

esto Altissimus
unus
Eternus
Aman

Et est primum speculum filii et suorum
 v[er]o suorum q[uod] m[u]ltu[m] senioru[m] et hoc speculum debet fieri in magist[ro] sui speculi et in memoria om[n]i nom[in]i suorum servitoru[m] qui om[n]es res ante caym fecerunt in m[u]ndissimo loco t[em]p[or]e vos demor[ati] ut v[er]itatis et p[er]actis et dicitis michi de q[uo]cu[m]q[ue] in v[er]ba h[ab]eo vos o[mn]em v[er]itatem p[ro]p[ri]am p[ro]p[ri]am et filii et s[an]c[t]i s[an]c[t]i s[an]c[t]i x[p]i et v[er]it[as] ip[s]i et balb[er]it et zelans. et zelus. dimado. cadaver. es.
 qui cotidie s[an]c[t]a calor ascendit ubi s[an]c[t]i tres dogie et ut breves s[an]c[t]i ut ita seculor[um] in quatuor p[ar]tes seculi ad facidam tota voluntate mea p[er]du[m] ubi po-bilit et licet placabiliter et effabiliter sine t[em]p[or]e absq[ue] tota ineffabili pot[estate]

tia deitatis summi viri in hac vi dei unita ta exortamus. bylet p honore pns tui fuit.
 et illud sacramentum q tu nomen matris tue facisti v ut in similitudine tua et non in conuoy similitudine adseruocinadu et ad se dendu nobiscu in quatuor hora uagariu ta in speculo isto pacifica sit humilis ac sine vlla deformitate ta michi ostendas et am plius ut duo ut ptes deservis tuis q vo tam defuncto qua de iocundis aut de qua cupis alia ve dubitabili de qua scire uoluo michi dent va uisa ut signa in dei uni tate et obca et stud vo speculu debet formari ad modu clypei et alio modo volens in cuius gno hac noia depinga tur Deus scs. de opt. de fort. de immorta lie p fuiti seculi. et circa duo latta sunt oia sigilla salo
 monis depingan
 tur in auro aq
 fine vo clypei
 min sigillu salo
 monis et in medio
 speculi hoc nom Bylet depinga
 tur qut in hac
 pteabit figura
 que in fide ponitur

42. postea uo sic alio ut sic alia parula solent curtare quo uo fco tacta et se tota defra ad quadrum ut ad sepulch alicuius hanc interfa maiusculis noc tis diei martis ut saturni dicendo hanc quiddam Coniungo te bylet et socios tuos p' alpha 20 p' p' et nouis simu abiel. totione. casus. odore. o male x' indit. on. ely. elyan. messias.
sabadch. adonay. emanuel. g. etiam bylet. atq; socios tuos p' annuatio dm m' ihu xpi et p' natiuitate ei et p' aduentu p' p' p' p' p' ut iqua cuq; ho ra te uoluo in hoc parulo in f' p' p' cu tuis sociis atq; de re illa de qua se re uoluo in te dando uisa ut signa d' d' uo ista q' p' p' p' p' p' p' p' p' uenturis ad hospitium tuu. p' p' p' p' cada hora sic die ad quadrum uade et accipe speculum et tu de re alio uolus scire dubitabili ipos p' p' p' p' p' p' p' d' d' uo uolus quellas et quere q' q' uo luis et dicant tibi et

Sed vis scire de omni re de qua dubi tans accipe p'm uirginis et cu tallu q' laua cu uino deinde scribe in illo cu oleo aliuc hec nomina

hon. hely. sabaoth. adonay. hel. hely. he loy m. sothier. emanuel. alpha & o. ad vos sanctissima noia vogo ut mittatis michi duos angelos ut tres in huc cristallum qui dicant michi vitata de his q ego in quira & vogo vos angelos ut dicatis michi vitata que ego in quira fivoti p h dicat pu gulo vos in noie dedeon & dij egarias & samsonay. & expte magi stru mei q veratis in huc cristallu ita q supra possim videre & repetere noia supra hita donat venint & cu venint puer dicat noia sup dca & guler eos in noie dedeon. & dij & q fiat tuz sup sedes quidam sudent & cu sudent puer dicat. s. vos in noie bessabes & hic et serem. & salaboni. & lechem. ut no vata datis ab hoc cristallo sine licetia mei ma gistru qui hic pns est

Ex pmatu cristalli ad invicendum furtum accipias cristallu planu & lucidu admo dum sigilli fcm ut pictuli q mca vande ex una pte unguina postea scribas in ipso cum oleo unadi hoc nome honely. postea dicas hac quida & ompt. semp de one ihu x. filij dei vivi qui lapidibz hauris predicatoribz virtutes michi sanctissimas acq mirabiles oculi in lapide ipso. ac per unitatem spiritus tuae ac per passionem ac gloriosam rationem tuam et ascensionem fiatque per hoc sancta nomina tua Adonay.

 sabaoth. hon. ely. eloy. elyon. honely. socher. tetractis matrona manu. alphas et omnia. et cetera benedictio dignis pro tua honore et gloria quam vivis et regnas deus per omnia secula seculorum amen. Agla. et moneta. per omnia secula. omnia manna. non obstat. asya. affulca. et cetera.
 nec ex pte quoniam ad nos veniat fiat fiat fiat sine mora per hoc vo appropinquat tibi in cristallo dicas hanc invocationem. Commo vos angelos per deum vivum et verum et per na tivitatem sanctam et per passionem. ~~et per~~ et per rationem sanctam et per missionem per per per aditi et per sanctam et per aditu et per hoc sancta nomina dei honay. sabaoth. onel. ely. elo
 ym. socher. lammanuel. ut superius dictum est et per omnia nomina sancta dei ut non recedatis ab hoc lapide quousque et tificati fuerint de omni dubitatione de quo scire volumus unitatem dei omnipotentis et ob ea amen. Notandum etiam est quod non debet aliquis uti hoc experimento per se vili ut modica sed per causam ardua et ne etiam secundum quod dictum est sibi ne sumas nomen dei tui in vanum nec invocas inutiliter.

Sume tibi feritū in ventū ex m^o p^o u^o su^o & fac tibi fieri clauem huiusmodi factā in uanis & cū fca fuit reponere eā
p^o nocte cū sacrificio galli albi in qua annuo dicens O p^o u^o s^o Maylon. Achala. e. accipite sacrificiū ut nichil g^o me & g^o u^o clauē istam valeat scire ubi ista clauis ponat^r & fac sup istam clauē s^o n^o q^o posu^o sub t^o t^o hanc figurā 8 3 2 1 0 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1 0
ne galli albi & dimittat ibi diebus 12 t^o a^o fuit nocte s^o n^o XLII galli cū accipere eā in cū transieris uoban accipere clauē cū sinistra manu de occi dente in orientē oīa qui scias ap^oat.
& c^o dicitur h^o clauis plutonis

Ad feritū in ueniendū accipe p^o u^o u^o g^o n^o de legittio thoro hanc quā uis s^o n^o me vidit & illig^o ung^o u^o de pollice sinistra manu cū cultello b^o n^o purgabis deinde cadulā subnotatis nōib^o s^o p^ora in eodē digito ligabis sub ung^o u^o & h^o s^o n^o n^o Egyp^oia. benoham. beante. ut beante. reueressym. Alwadesym. Ebemidyri.
fecolinie. dysi. medyni. alhas. here
sim. Egyp^oia. benoham. halsam. g^o u^o h^oas. bohodi. hohada. Anna. hohanna.
o^o i^o u^o eo. met^o alitaps. h^o u^o g^o u^o u^o g^o u^o g^o u^o alibei^oia. halba. Quot s^o t^o s^o i^o p^o u^o n^o u^o

45. 49
det aliqui et eorum autem videtur ligam coniungi am omnem quam ad tres missas quas per fecerunt iuxta totum hunc supra cedula circa digitum dicens hanc coniurationem vos demones qui contra me iungimini per primum spiritum per quem est alpha et omega vobis impositum est per primum et secundum per hanc tissima nomina ely. eloy. messias. soder.
emanuel. sabaoth. adonay. et per omnia et primum nomen domini per anton et anton. anton ton. et per alia nomina michi genita et cogni ta ut non habeatis potestatem recedendi cum vestris sociis donec oratio mea voluntate ad impleatur et sine omni medatio et lesione aliqua et si hoc facere contempseritis iubeo vos ligari sub fundamentis aquarum maris et hec duo nomina goth. nabnoth. per que sa lomon coniungebat in vase vitreo de mones contra vos per vii signa salo monis et per sigillum et sapientiam eius ut non habeatis licentiam recedendi hinc donec de quacumque re interrogabo michi dicatis et ostendatis veritatem huius deus si primum non dicat dux et dicit in fine et hanc co iurationem contra te iungo iuveneris deu veni bafyon. et per nomen onberio.
sabaoth. adonay. contra te per baptismum

Amay. Ado cuscutas. f. effervat. pan

p[ri]m[us] p[er] n[om]i[n]e p[ri]ncipis v[est]ri s[un]t p[er] cor[on]a capitis s[un]t p[ro]beam q[uod] sibi debetis ut v[er] ans s[un]t s[un]t p[ri]ncipis mundi o[mn]i occasione p[er] posita p[er] m[un]gu[m] is[ta] p[ri]m[us] p[er] p[ri]ncipis p[er] h[oc] bis sine dubio p[er] sine fallacia illud q[uod] a vobis s[un]t volum[us] v[est]re m[an]ifestatiss[im]e fit fiat fiat Com[un]is te v[ir]go iuuenis p[er] p[er] deu[m] on. orion. s[un]t s[un]t. Adonay. ut no t[un]t p[er] p[ri]ncipis m[an]ifestatiss[im]e te calandi de quo cuq[ue] in[ter]rogau[er]is Com[un]is te v[ir]go i[un]uenis p[er] deu[m] tuu[m] Alpha p[er] q[uod] e[st] p[ri]m[us]
m[un]d[us] p[er] nouissim[us] ut michi v[er]itate dicas de hac v[er]e de qua te requir[er]o q[uod] e[st] te v[ir] go p[er] bapt[is]m[us] q[uod] v[er]e p[er] p[ri]ncipis p[er] p[ri]ncipis p[er] m[un]d[us] i[un]uenis t[un]c m[an]ifestatiss[im]e p[er] castitate p[er] potestate qua te regnauit ex aqua p[er] p[ri]ncipis s[un]t ut no[n] beas potestate neq[ue] licentia calandi ut m[an] ficiendi q[uod] cuq[ue] videris q[uod] e[st] te v[ir]go iuue nis p[er] p[ri]ncipis p[er] filiu[m] p[er] s[un]t p[er] s[un]t n[om]i[n]e dei el[ec]te p[er] s[un]t t[un]c agnitione p[er] s[un]t n[om]i[n]e dei
on. ely. eloy. eloe. ut no[n] hab[er]eas licentia seu p[ri]ncipis calandi q[uod] cuq[ue] s[un]t s[un]t Com m[un]is te v[ir]go iuuenis p[er] bapt[is]m[us] q[uod] p[er] p[ri]ncipis p[er] p[ri]ncipis de s[un]t credulitate p[er] castitate p[er] p[ri]ncipis p[er] p[ri]ncipis qua te regnauit de s[un]t p[er] s[un]t ut tam cito p[er] sine mora p[er] p[ri]ncipis
p[er] v[er]e m[un]gu[m] is[ta] p[ri]m[us] v[er]itatem nobis ondae alie et of infans q' te p'prie et filiu et s'f. p' noia d'ail eloy eloy et t'rag'm'at' p'het noia d'ni n'ri ihu xpi eloy eloy. eloy et bapt'm' q' accipit in noia s'ca et in diuina trinitate p'prie caritate dei alpha et o q' e p'm' et finis ut ap'p'ias in lingua ita ut si de ueritat claud' ut no' t'ut in uoga p'prie si uis uis sit claud' q' f'nta et dicit non lege ita q' n'om' admittit et t'ia uia et n'ca fuerit si dicit q' sit claud' querit si uideat alig' si dicit q' uideat homine faciat magis h'm'it' p'prie illu' que uideat in mat'ua lingua sic t'ia qu'as coram me q'm'o te p'prie et filiu et s'f.

 et p'prie n'ia et a'g' uirginitate p'prie iohanne et a'g' uirginitate p'prie et
 iohanne et a'g' uirginitate p'prie et uirgines et p'prie uirginitate meam ut cito uideas p'prie tuo et facias cu' uerba co ram me ita ut ip'm' possim exisse uide et intelligere p'prie que et p'prie si rex uerit et no' g'm'at ita p'prie ut p'prie et uerit dicit p'prie regi q' descendat de equo suo et faciat affari cachedum sup' qua sedeat t'ut querat p'prie. A. regi et uelit g'm'at et dicit q' no t'ut de quo uolue q'as et dicit q' sic di cat p'prie regi q' mittat p'prie f'nta

Adoptūq; locū voluit ⁊ faciat ipm excoꝝa vā ⁊ decoqui ⁊ tūc dicat q; faciat poni mansam ⁊ suꝛgat ⁊ lauet manꝫ ⁊ sedeat ad mensam ⁊ faciat suꝛta poni coram se ⁊ cito comedat pꝛ qꝫ qꝫ mediet suꝛgat ⁊ accipiat aquā ⁊ lauet manꝫ pꝛea dicat pꝛeꝛ regi q; remoueat corōnā de capite ⁊ ponat manū dextꝛ sup caput suū ⁊ in iet pꝛ corōnā suā ⁊ pꝛ caput suū ⁊ pꝛ illud q; tenet sub manu sua dextꝛa q; vā tituꝛ tūdeat fideōs qꝛtiones magistꝛū de inde qꝛat magistꝛ pꝛ pꝛm qꝫ voluit pꝛ quā satis fecit questionibꝫ magistꝛ dēt pꝛ vñbz litentia ⁊ pꝛeꝛ sic dicat pꝛ pꝛ sit intꝛ nos ⁊ vos ⁊ qꝫ magistꝛ vos vocauiꝛ estote pꝛi sibi obediēte tōmibꝫ pꝛia expliat pꝛ caputū / expliat pꝛ caputū

De aī vā dubitabili aīa intꝛta verū tata habenda accipe patulā suꝛtis dextꝛam oleo olivā munitā q; ponēdo sup manubꝛiū cultelli in pꝛiat pꝛeꝛ vñgo. tu vñgo ex alia pꝛe tēdo candē lam accensam dicā hoc modo Eꝛga vñ fideas. om̃is fideas. carꝛie. om̃is fideas. Ego munitate dñi nꝛi ihu xꝛi.
qui ē alpha ⁊ ω pꝛmꝫ ⁊ nouissimꝫ mꝛ tū ⁊ finis. Comꝛ vos demones ⁊ ad voca pꝛeꝛ qui dixit oīa ⁊ facta sūt ⁊ pꝛeꝛ

401

in cui obedunt omnes creaturæ et per quem tenentur omnes exatus angelorum celestium et vestimentum et infernorum et per ipsum virtutem et omni potentiam et primum medium die iudicii summi dei et per ipsum nomen hoc sanctum. el. ely. eloy. et donay. alpha. et omega. messyas. soter. emanuel.
pantocrator. occinomos. tetragrammaton. agyos.
othros. adhanatos. yschinos. kurios. alleluia eleyson. ymas. quæ sunt nova visibilia in hac sæcula quæ vobis sunt facta ipsius pueri vestris et respondetis et demonstratis omnem veritatem de hac re. et nobis dubitabile et incerta. britania. brevis. diton.
crasius. sancta. garbamon. libera nos famulos ab omni malo per tuum et per te quæ vos demones per caput et coronam principis viri et per vestram potestatem vobis assumo deo datam per simul salomonis et per signa et sancta nomina in ipsis descripta et per. vii. calas et per omnes angelos in ipsis dispositos et per omnes potentes celestes et infernales quæ cito et boppar. bappar. gapar. lapar. parrisis. no-
ca. calius. riss. et quæ vos demones per caput et coronam principis viri et per vestram vestram potestatem vobis assumo deo datam per simu-los salomonis et per signa et sancta nomina in ipsis descripta per angelos et per archangelos per spiritus nos et dominantes per principatus et potestates virtutes et charitatem et sapientiam et omnes virtutes alibi per catulum et carum et matrem et omnia que in eis sunt per .xij. apostolos et maritimos et personas. Virgines viduas et puellas et fideles et evangelistas et .xx. iij. seniores per et .xl. milia innocentium et omnes sanctos et alios dei qui sunt in celo et in terra quos cito et si ne mora et sine intermissione iniquitas apud eos si videt peratula carum et deus scilicet quod si sic tunc dicat per ista hac generatione commo-vos per et virtute domini nostri ihesu christi et per virginitate et per matrem et per virginitate sancte patris.

et sancte lucie et sancte agathe et sancte cecilie et sancte barbarae et per virginitate sancti iohannis evangeliste et per caput sancti iohannis evangeliste et per virginitate meam ut cito in hac peratula speratis ut vos vide-re possim quo spiritu viso in forma humana nigra in quibus sub ipso de tuo negotio putmalis videtur expedire pro meo mediantes et per virginitate ipsi spiritum sanctum ostendite. Et puerum in fide .xij. annos existens et per mane et in capitulo noctis circulum pertrahendo dicat. Pater. Ave. po. tenet opera votas.
In nomine patris et filii et spiritus sancti Amen. Acciones nue quod domine approbando pueni et ad iudici-um persequere ut cuncta nostra opera sita semp inclinant et per te capta finiantur. Amen. Amen.
Deus qui misisti spiritum sanctum super

q̄ ponit̄ in bacinnis dum gub̄ fiat p̄p̄radic Dens celi dens terre. dens angelor̄ dens archangelor̄ qui es rex sc̄p̄ om̄i p̄m̄ḡl̄or̄ ac p̄p̄har̄ te dēp̄tō hūi dēuotione ut ip̄i p̄m̄ḡl̄or̄ tribuas sc̄am̄ & intellēm ut michi.
veritate de quib̄ interrogat̄o dicat p̄p̄har̄
sc̄a nōia tua. ely. eloe. sabaoth. adonay.
elyon. on. qui vivis & regnas p̄ infinita sc̄la sc̄lor̄ amē. Dñe ihu xp̄a filij dei vivi qui ex voluntate patris cooperante p̄u sc̄p̄m̄or̄ tūm tuū mundum vivificasti illūis ip̄i p̄uor̄ cōm̄m̄tā & fac ut michi veritate de his q̄ interrogat̄o dicat p̄p̄har̄. sc̄a nōia tua gesus na zarenus messias. ioh̄an̄. emanuel. fortis. fons. Ias. p̄t̄ia ut indicat om̄ia de quib̄ postulo veritate explicit

Conm̄m̄atione facio tu qui es alpha & o.
cōm̄m̄o vos demones p̄t̄as iaḡs cap̄m̄. baldasah. melchior & p̄t̄as p̄nas sydrat.
misac. abdenago. ut om̄es sup̄p̄at̄is hūc p̄u cōm̄ in hoc sp̄culo ut ense ab in. abyndo. ab
p̄ncola. ab r̄acalos. q̄yel. ch̄yel. syel. quibus sp̄antib̄ dicat p̄uor̄ iagi ut sedeat & mittat p̄p̄m̄et̄a sic alias dēn̄ & p̄m̄t̄a in sc̄do cap̄to ip̄i t̄uad̄at̄ p̄p̄t̄a sequat̄ quib̄ p̄uor̄ sicut et̄a ibidē dēn̄ & explicit

Darchala. p̄amelon. sanguis. floris. q̄uor̄ alya. cabyonā. ely. eloy. gadanay. ma
guy. asmyat̄a. p̄nt̄et̄is in nōie dñi. R̄ ip̄i scribendi sunt ut infra docet. A. q. 8. p. 2. v. 3. in nomine patris et filii et s. s. Signum scilicet crucis sit in fronte tuo hoc modo signet te dominus ihu xpc hoc modo signet te dominus sicut signavit moysen gal ilae. In nomine patris et filii et s. s. Et hoc tunc dicitur quibus una signatus fronte prius cu pallice tuo = dextere manus hac nota p dca. xij. s. barthola et q totius repperant quousq sex pte pcedit in manu prius qui p pte pcedit pcedit pcedit et in nomine patris et filii et s. s. ut sedet et unq corp surgat qui det vera responsa ex pte magistri sui. Hodie pcedit idem

Tunc resnam albam q accendas pcedit sup lapidem alioq planu sub pedu desup alioq planu elevata pcedit et pcedit nova colligas in pcedit mano aliquo ut corio albo puluerem illu adhen tam pedu ex vapores resna pcedit et resna quousq opari voluis. Erit. n. mtingas digita median dextera manu pcedit in oleo oliva et lini et infiores quatuor articulos sinistre manu prius masculi virgis Deinde eundem digita tuu mtingas in puluere pcedit et similiter lineas articulos prius sicut prius et sic alternando nunc cu oleo nunc cu puluere donec articuli pcedit fiant sicut patulu claru et resplendes pcedit vba illa duodecim sup nota barthola pcedit et danda cu signaculo fuisse prius et fuisse tua si vis dicere in nomine patris et filii et s. s. sig nu scilicet crucis sit in fronte et q ut supra

¶ Cum fuit p̄dicto p̄o vis lictatus puer dicto p̄cipio vob q̄ r̄cedatis in nōre p̄re & f̄i. l. f.
& it̄ signat̄ p̄tis f̄vnt̄ p̄m̄ & t̄m̄ q̄ vis lict̄ mō quo p̄m̄ & v̄bis. Not̄ et̄ q̄ m̄ p̄te paluis p̄d̄ta elaud̄ m̄t̄ p̄m̄ cū culcillo in p̄m̄ b̄d̄ f̄t̄ s̄x illi t̄p̄ q̄ sup̄ m̄p̄ capto f̄t̄ nōt̄ s̄x f̄. q̄. & q̄ antequam ip̄a r̄f̄m̄ a sub ip̄a palui p̄cedat̄ exp̄it̄ & q̄ cedon. zephania. eloyim. eloyay. venite et appete in ungue istius pueri sub forma humana et in ungue faciatis crescere et clarescere in tunc ut sufficiat ei ad vi-dendum deusque ipsum interrogatio. Conu-vos sit pueri reges capan. baltasar.

melchior. quibus stella apparuit prout domini nostri ihesu christi ut natiuitatem suam manifestaret ut in ungue istius pueri appareret et quod si vobis inquirere volumus nobis absque fallacia et sine dubio manifestatis conu-vos sit qui vocati estis pueri pios. sydiamisac. abdenago. ut in ungue istius pueri appareret nec in ipso timore ut tu-moris aut lesione faciat et nos deobus quos scire volumus et eos faciat con-u- vos sit qui vocati estis pueri pios et filii et filii et pueri potestatis eius et virtutis per cherubim et seraphim. per thronos et dominaciones et principatus et potestates et virtutes per angelos et archangelos et paterfamilias et prophetas et scriptos et confesso-res per martyres et monachos et virgines et viduas per sanctos et electos dei per ordines angelorum per sanctam marianam ma-tri dei nostri ihesu christi per virginem istam

Incipit prologus libri de secretis dicens ac demonstrans ad quod inuentus fuit et quid sic eius effectus quicunque aliquod opus inceptum perficere voluit ut prouideat ad effectum per uideat sibi quod totum et caueat ne in va nu operatur et proprius in opere isto quod per totum locis aliis perosissimum et magis laudabile atque certissimum quod dei nominis est secretatum et confirmatum ne aliquis operator falli possit si spem et fidem bonam habeat et certum in domino ihesu christo si quo bona procedunt ut testatur scriptura littera qui non firmis fide litteris crediderunt saluari non possunt sic ergo fideliter crede vnicuique operator est natura ne fallatur etiam si periculo hoc opus et inuentum apertum quodam experimentum remou endum. scilicet prologus ut primum et invocatio ne sanctorum dei nominis ineffabile in primis virtute et potestate efficaciter obtineat quod de beat obtinere sicut inferius declarabitur quod aliquod experimentum vult et potestate suam sanam finis sit. Et modo sicut postea de clarabitur per recuperationem. Nota quod in ter sunt quod multa et magna quod in ta acta scripta habet et credunt de die et diem ad effectum pervenire sed nunquam perveniet et sic se ipsos decipiunt et opera sua amittunt et melius valz vultu vultu vultu istos qua pondus sunt. Unde dicit melius est scire qua secularis potestas. sic ista scia pualz diligentius et oia alia va eximta sunt corrupta et qdam sunt ficta et sic oia pene pta et hinc igitur diligenter pnotatis admirum propositum recurras et videamus quid et quid exoptata sine operatu hinc debe sit et qd ei sit utile ad opandū ne fallat

In primis quicquid hinc opus sit facturū ad q vocat librum qd fecerit ab omni pollutione mentis et corporis se debz abstinere i cibo potu i vltis otiosis sine inmoderatis et sit nudis inducis vestibz nova die bz ante opus incipit et debz audire inqualibz missa una et librum istu secū deferre et pone sup altari don missa finiat qd die quisqz transacti sunt os et hinc devotissime faciat cu orationibz et ieiuniis qd sicut scriptu et p ieiunia omnes occulta misterior celestium re velator qd divini sacramenti archana pendit et cotidie post missam librum portabis domi et hinc locu secretum ab oibz absconditū ne aliq̃ sit p̃ns qui suo & p̃us p̃p̃gat locū aqua b̃ndicta vbi libru ip̃u ponz & cū cingulo sacerdotis & stola dedicata ligz eū in modū cūctis cūctis quibz & flexis genibz ṽsus orate dicit. vij. p̃s Et letania & orone sag̃ta p̃m̃q̃ libru

 p̃p̃at & sup̃ libru p̃dem dz ap̃ue tū hūil deuotione & toto corde aff̃ctū ut om̃p̃s deus ñra ac boni. sua sc̃ificet ac bene dicat & cōseruet ip̃u libru sc̃itissimis noibz suis insignitū ut virtutē q̃ ob tinere debeat poter̃ obtineat ut va leat f̃id̃ificandū vintulū p̃ritū & ad d̃as inuocationes & quuacūq̃ ip̃oz & sic oia alia ex̃m̃ta & similit̃ no hūc libz nō valere h̃nti ñ ab ip̃o de nuo cōseruet̃ of letania aut̃ p̃mita
 p̃p̃i & d̃ic hanc oronē hūil & p̃no
 p̃f̃co & m̃ta p̃ncipa oratio

Deus magnificēda mea & p̃p̃a malis meis p̃ma p̃ma mea quia
 p̃ccati ē. nō obnegas m̃th̃ am̃q̃ q̃ p̃tibz aliis cōtulisti exaudi deus orationē famuli tui. M. ut q̃cūq̃ d̃ic invocatio te exaudi me velociter sicut ex audisti sanctam mariam matrem tuam suscipe domine clamorem confidentis audiri vocem peccantis pro merito beatisse marie virginis marie tue super omnes sanctos tuos ut ora ciones et preces perveniant ad aures pietatis tue quas ego per hoc librum conservabo et affundo cordem te in hac hora ut per tua sanctissima nomina que in ipso continentur sit conservatus et con firmatus si quicquid volueris prestat dominus noster Iesu christo qui vivit et regnat per omnia se cula seculorum amen / Oratio

Domine ihesu christe per ineffabilem matrem tuam petra michi seu miserere mei et exaudi me per invocationem nominis tui. scilicet patris et filii et spiritus sancti ut accepta habeas et te placeant verba et orationes omnes meas per invocationes sanctorum tuorum nominum in hoc libro descriptorum humiliter et fideliter deprecantissime licet ego indignus cum te confidens ut sanctifices et benedi cas librum istum sanctis nominibus tuis insigniri et conservare istum ut per hoc nomen tua sanctissima Domine ihesu christe. Alpha et Omega. Eloy. Eloye.
Sithochich. Con. Sepmelamaton. Ezelpha Ezelphat

te pater agnitionem. elyovam. ryan. de p nyon. Elystion. ysyon. Onela. bay syn.
moyn. messyas. socher. ... emanuel. sa bath. Adonay. et pater pater noster tua q in hoc libro continetur qta virtute scia ta sic pater corda noster sit liber iste q vater et benedictio et q fuit et q vater tute sacramenti corporis et sanguinis tui ut virtute q liber iste debz obtinere efficant sine aliqua fallacia veritate obtineat ad se tandū vinculum suū et ad oscedendū oia expimata corrupta et pfectam virtutem et pater hēat ad q sit qta pater dno ihu xpo qui sedz in altissimis cum ho nor et gloria p infinita secula seculor amen amen amen amen amen et

Bene et dicat te pater Bene et dicat te filius Bene et dicat te pater pater pater pater munda munda munda ihu xpi te bene et dicat et scifit ut virtute sacramen ti obtineas q obtinere debes. bene et dicat te omnes sancte virgines. Bene et dicat te hodie et oī tpe scia et alia dei omnes virtutes celestes te bene et dicat et q fuit et omnes angeli et archangeli virtutes et pater pater pater pater et dominationes. cherubim et seraphim et exau-toritate et licentia dei te bene et dicant omnia et orationes et invocationes omnes scripturas et orationes

Dominus ihu xpe bene et dicas et scias li-berum istum et confirmes potentiam tuam ut vitas et pacem obtineat adque institutus est et confirmatus praesentia domino ihu xpo cuius regnum et imperium sine fine permanet in seculum la saeculorum amen et sic in dei vultu et in oculis et factis et factis et factis et in vultu et optas. Et factum est. ix. dies aut li-berum et confirmatus et quoniam aliquid et factum.
De vultu incipias primum orationem lege-
re. scilicet deus invisibilis cum reliquis scriptis et in vultu tuo et factum debes dicere et fieri benedictio vultu et factum et factum et factum fieri tuo impone ut deus infundat quoniam factum et factum tuo perficiatur et sic vultu et factum amplius et non fallat et caue prout ne in manu insipiatu hoc magni secretum debetat quod secretissimum et factum et factum magis et factum dei nobis et factum et factum cui exponebo de facto documentum et factum et factum habas ipud patrem. et sic tu dominus do-cans. debas eximere tua gratia et pro vnu ut pta coram te. et deo pmo et pntia ut tuu gfiton et postmo huiusmodi. et deinde inquit me dno de me ne discas a me. intende in adiutorium meum dno de salutem mea fiat mea tua dno sup nos q ad mo piam in te. pntia dno piam no gfundam et tuu. pntia oratio mea in gfitu tuo.

 Inclina auram tua ad vocem meam. dno exaudi orationem meam et clamor meus ad te veniat. Oratio

Deus invisibilis. Deus inestimabilis. Deus incorruptibilis. Deus piissimus. Deus excelsa. Deus gloriosus. Deus in mase. Deus to-tius me ego huiusmodi indignus et plenus iniquitate. volo et malicia suppliciter ad tua veioniam. et deprecans ut no respici-
 as. ad universa et innumabilia peccata mea sicut gsuisti peccatorum misericordia et p-
 ces. huiusmodi exaudire ita q me famulu-
 tuu. et huiusmodi indignu exaudire dignetur clamare ad te. q huiusmodi piissimis verbis insignito ut virtute q obtinedebeat. potest obtineat. s ad te et et et in fauores pntes q hanc oratione gratia mirabiliter optineat ut tu voluit humano voluntati obediat et exoptata voluit manu os gratia et tu voluit diffuset et perissimum nomen tuum per se habet. E. Ius loth. hoch. vel hac vel

A. G. I. A. G. E. he. van. q. auditu ma ra regreditur florem gemitu. St. n. gratia tua tenet. ignis extinguit. et per cal pas exantia tenet et infinalis tenet et tundat et per se perissimum nomen tua in alpha et in omega. et al. ely. elyo. aloce. elyon. sother. Emanuel. sabaoth. Ado nay. eggeraya. eeye gratia et hoc eximium et per se tenet tuum honorem et gloria in finem seculorum secula amen et si sunt per se eximium gratia voluit per se ad in vocacionem suam tunc dicitur debet et exaudire dignis clamare ad te per se eximium ut virtute per se obtineat debet potent obsequat per se perissimum nomen tuum per se habet et sic in qualibet gratia ut super dem et finita omnia per se vult et Deus unius conditor orbis qui celum super altitudinem nubium extendit et terram in sua stabilitate super aquas fundavit et manū tuam suū q̄ p̄t̄m nō patit tibi si qui solen & luna & stellae in summo caele collocasti q̄ oīa in sapia fecisti q̄. vii. die.

 horis q̄ dymagine plasmasi tua & de p̄u tuo mēu in p̄uasti q̄ etia cū euas p̄t̄ p̄uisti. & creasti q̄ genū hūanū in aqua diluuii p̄didisti q̄ noe & eos qui cum eo erāt in archa saluasti q̄ abraham subtrahisti p̄ aduadice manibz apuisti.
 qui loth de submersione sodomae & go moria liberaasti. q̄ moysi in mē rubi & flama ignis lotus fuisti. q̄ p̄t̄m tuum de captiuitate egypti deduxisti & ei p̄u modū manū vram apparuisti q̄ legem moysi in monte synay dedisti. qui de petra aquas exire fecisti q̄ danielē de latu leonū capuisti. q̄ tuos p̄uos de camino ardētis. sydrath. mysaac. abdenago. illasos. abura fecisti. qui susanna m̄ta & fidentia de falso cri
 mine liberaasti. yona de ventis tati.
 saluasti. q̄ h̄c & p̄ alia m̄ta miracu la q̄ fecisti exaudi p̄p̄ia p̄p̄ie ihu oīone famuli tui. & da hūic expi mēto virtutē & p̄t̄atē sup malignos
 p̄o ad gēgēgēdū ipos & ligandū & sol

uendū et maledictū et in profundū abyssus prociendū si nō obseruauerint mandata q̄ diuiste quas scis et bñdictus et regnēs
p̄ oīa sēla s̄c̄lorū amē oratio

O gloriose adonay p̄ q̄ aduēnt oīa et h̄ regē meriant et cōstituant ad estop̄ia inuo cationibz meis et clemēt p̄ia ut h̄ exp̄i mētū p̄ f̄c̄ ut obtineat ad cognendū malig nos p̄t velut h̄milit̄ obediāt et ad mandatū impleant te iuuante et iubente qui sedes in altissimis et cūta custodis et honoris et p̄t̄is p̄finita sēla oīa amē

O p̄re. on iuste adonay. scissie q̄ es fons
m̄ie et pietatis. origo iux regū et dñs dñentū qui sedes in maiestate tua intuent p̄ fundū abyssi oīa cōnens. oīa reges. oīa gubernans et uirtute tua moderans q̄ h̄m̄ ad ymaginē et similitudinē tuā delinotē rē formasti ut in terra sit in celo laudēs et glorificatiōes. unde oīs terra adoret te et psallat tibi. et ego h̄c indignus p̄m̄ dicta nōi tuo. unde piissimē et misericordiissimē maiestate tuā implores et cū h̄mili deu otione exposito supplicet ut in uirtute tua et gr̄a dono tuo cōseruent et cōfirmant oīs cōsecrationes et uocationes et inuo cationes q̄ in hoc libro continet ut v̄

no[n]ne n[on] h[ab]et te sup[er]ior[em] exposito ut o[mn]i nib[us] o[bs]ervationib[us] atq[ue] invocacionib[us] istis q[ue] contine[n]t[ur] in hoc libro virtut[em] et p[er]tate tuas p[er] virtute[m] tua[m] divina[m] ad p[er]ficienda[m] o[mn]ia ex mentis et invocaciones demonu[m] ut viciis maligni s[un]t in virtute tuor[um] no[n] s[un]t s[ed] ad vocati et excitati. statim o[mn]i p[er]te q[ue] viciant et excitantur voluntate[m] adimplere et nihil notitas neq[ue] timore[m] in facientes s[ed] potius obedientes et insubitantes ad tua[m] discreti virtute[m] mandata p[er]ficietas fiat fiat amen et Notadu[m] si denovo aliquid ex p[re]dicto q[ue] ponere volueris ad placitu[m] impone ei doct[ri]na[m] et o[bs]erva tione[m] sicut prius d[omi]n[u]m q[uo]d et tu e[ss]e o[bs]ervatu[m] p[er]
venit ad affon[em] oratio

O m[ne]s s[e]p[er]ne de[us] q[ui] in p[ri]ncipio o[mn]ia cre asti ex nichilo cui obediu[n]t o[mn]es creature cui omne gen[us] flatit celestiu[m] terrestriu[m] et infernu[m] q[ui] tuu[m] angeli et archangeli duces potestates adorant et timent qui manu claudis o[mn]ia. Adam et evam ad similitudine[m] formasti et singulos tuos in te duos p[er] sup[er]bia[m] eor[um] in p[er]fundu[m] thau[n]tavi creasti. Et rogo te p[er]to clementissime p[er] o[mn]ia et sit o[bs]ervatio p[er] i[esu]m x[ristu]m filiu[m] tuu[m] in te p[er]tate s[un]t o[mn]ia qui sedes ad dexte ram p[at]ris o[mn]ipotens iudicaturus vivos et mortuos tu q[ui] es alpha et omega et nouissimus rex regum domine dominum. ioh. agla. nabuoch. al. aluel. enay. enatuel. ananyel. amazyel. sodamel. agytan. colymas. elyas. schyue. schanachosynas. ely. massyas. et hunc tuam sanctam et palatium tuum aduocato te. et obsecro te per nomen domini ihu christi per unitatem per baptismum tuum passionem tuam per resurrectionem tuam per patrem tuum per similitudinem filie tue per quem decoupe et per. v. vlna tua per montem tuum et per sanguinem et per quem decoupe decoupe tuo. per matrem et opotet et v. et ineffabilem tuam. per sanctum tuum quod discipulis tuis dedisti per die quod passus fuisti per sanctam trinitatem et individua. per beatam marianam matrem tuam. per angelos et archangelos tuos per omnes sanctos et sanctas tuas. per omnia facta misericordia et beneficia que sunt in honore tuo. per sanctissimam matrem virginem et in gremio. aduocato te et inuoco. obsecro te. et benedico te. et rogo te ut accepta habeas omnes petitiones et vlna omnis mea quibus ut peto des vlna et per te super angelos tuos qui de celo creati sunt ad decipiendum gentes et loquela eorum et hunc. ad persequendum ad sollicitudinem ad ligandum ad cogendum eos. contra te. ad persequendum ad omnia que sunt eis possibilia & uerba mea & vota mea ullo modo capere & me timeat similitate & misericordiam & gratiam tuam deprecor & peto te Adon. anay. anay. Anathon. uagado. ya. yayay. al.

blamutu. usyonusy. elyas. poia noia tua psalmos & psalmos per angelos Angelos ptra tas orationes uirtutes & nomen qd salomon frangebatur dyabolo & octavo cos choeth. habuit. Met. Agla thoit.
othob. uamoth. nabuthi. & per omnia secula noia tua qd scripta sunt in hoc libro & prout tutis eorumdem qd mihi querunt & m rudente de oibz mittas qd quam sine le sione corporis & anime mee pdum nun thm xpm filiu tuu q. t. vi & oratio piana corporis et anime mee p[ro]p[ri]um n[ost]r[um] ihu xpm filiu tuu q[ui] t[em]p[or]e vi et oratio p[ro]p[ri]o de calis deus vno in substantia. tri nus in personis qui p[ro]p[ri]am et a[n]i[m]a[m] et p[ro]p[ri]os p[ro]p[ri]os p[ro]p[ri]os et filiu tuu unigenitu p[ro]p[ri]o p[ro]p[ri]is crucifigi et mori voluisti. Clemen tissime igit[ur] p[ro]p[ri]a rogo et p[ro]p[ri]o supplex metis o[mn]ib[us] quib[us] possum et alpha et o. xpi filiu tuu ut me g[ra]t[ia]m et me adunat[ur] q[ui]dam angelos tuos in a[n]i[m]as p[ro]p[ri]as qui m[un]di h[ab]it[us] p[ro]p[ri]os alioq[ue] di et faciendi p[ro]p[ri]o et desideris et h[ab]it[us] sine lesione aliqua ut filius notum et p[ro]p[ri]os lapidu p[ro]p[ri]os et v[er]bo et n[ost]r[um] tuor[um] michi des po t[est]ate soluendi et ligandi demones v[er]bis meis et f[aci]l[ite]r tuo q[ui] in g[ra]t[ia] p[ro]p[ri]os v[er]ba et o[mn]ip[ot]entia amen

O summa & eterna deitas & vltima altissima qui te disponas hiis vo iudi vobis no minibus. emoytha. an. stimulanaton elze phais. tatgismaton. elyayan. egypta
 ou. vsyion. oustian. eiyano. vsy. oimie.
 quella. bivasym. moy. ioseph. messias.
 pothaw. e. emanuel. sabaoth. adonay. et cetera sicut sup^{er} scribit^{ur} ta in uoto ta ad vo totius metis vobis imploro q^{ui} p^{ro}pter res orones & petitiones & inuocationes in h^{is} lib^{ris} exitis & sciet^{ur} & p^{ro}pter q^{uod} ad modum gaudent. s. vbiq^{ue} maligni p^{ro}pter in uirtute tuor^{um} noi^{um} sunt inuocati seu exortati statim exorte gaudent & vo luntate exortati adimpleat diligant
 q^{ui} nihil nocentes nec timore infestis.
 s. p^{ro}pter obediens & in p^{ro}pter disticta uirtute mandata exortati p^{ro}ficies fiat fiat amen in nomine d. n. i. x. p. & f. & s. s. tas trinitas & inseparabilis unitas te in vo to ut sis salus defensio & p^{ro}tectione corpe ris & anime mee nunc & in p^{ro}pter p^{ro}uolu tam crucis & passionis tue. ta de p^{ro}pter d^{omi}ne ihu xpe fili dei viui p^{ro}merita & o rationes & intercessionas b^{ea}tissime m^{at}ris tue marie atq^{ue} o^mnⁱu^m s^{an}cto^{rum} ut michi gra das gr^{ati}am tuam atq^{ue} p^{ro}tectione diuinam sup^{er} o^mne malignos p^{ro}pter ut q^{ui} p^{ro}pter inu lute tuor^{um} noi^{um} inuocatis statim exort p^{ro}pter querunt et voluntate mea p[er]fice ad impleant q[uod] nihil no[n] t[em]tes n[on] t[em]t more infirmitas s[ed] poti[us] obediens et instantes et tua districta v[er]ba m[er]ita mea p[er]ficiam[us] am[en]

Post invocatione[m] d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ihu xpi imp[er]i fiori et singulis immaculatis q[uod] m[er]i fugiat te angeli et archangeli angu sit te michael et gabriel raphael fugiat te tuas p[re]sentis albertus ysaac et iacob et p[ro]ph[et]e. fugiat te p[ro]
p[ro]ph[et]e x[risti] s[an]c[t]i et alii dei deficiat q[uod] fuit tue de die iherosolima et i[n] m[er]ito et i[n] m[er]ito si cessaverit f[aci]am vos et m[er]ito ut tuo et sine aliqua g[ra]tia obediatis deus meus et voluntate mea subiciat[ur] am[en]

Omnis angelus dei archangelus dei p[ro]ph[et]a dei p[ro]ph[et]a dei m[er]ito dei p[ro]ph[et]a dei virginu[m] et viduaru[m] dei p[ro]ph[et]a n[ost]ri ihu xpi in voco n[ost]ro t[em]p[or]e n[ost]ro n[ost]ra p[ro]ph[et]a pot[er]it supplex exposco ut michi f[aci]am p[ro]ph[et]a dignetur ad v[est]ru[m] p[ro]ph[et]a p[ro]ph[et]a n[ost]ra ut v[est]ru[m] p[ro]ph[et]a p[ro]ph[et]a p[ro]ph[et]a tuo velocit[er] de loco suo exeat et ad me festinat[er] accedat p[ro]ph[et]a p[ro]ph[et]a tibi dysale q[uod] de sup[er]nis p[ro]ph[et]a t[em]p[or]e i[n]f[er]is va[n]a m[er]ito m[er]ito iussit audi g[ra]tia. Amen

60
tu vitā et salutem fac de in o d m n. u. x tu g neq[ue]re i[n]imicos fidei gen[er]is h[uius] mors cap[itu]l[ar]is i[n]imici delectator malor[um]
i[n]ad[er]e fomes v[ic]tor[is] seductor h[uius] m[un]di et p[er]as et resist[ere] cū scis ta[m] p[ro]da viuas tuas istū metue q[uod] i[n]ysac i[n]molat[ur] et i[n] ioseph venudat[ur] et i[n] ag[ro] occidit et i[n] h[oc]a d[omi]ni fix[us] e[st] don i[n]u[er]at[ur] tūphator audi g. d. et i[n] ead[em] v[er]ba d[omi]ni et op[er]o n[on] p[er]at[ur] i[n] oib[us] negotiis meis p[er]ficiat[ur] sine

A d m n o te non mea i[n] f[av]ore s[ed] v[er]itate p[ro]p[ter] s[er]vit[ut]e subiect[us] sis meis mandatis p[er]ficiendis et eade[m] m[un]di et i[n] i[n]imicis x illi d[omi]ni Auguat te p[ro]p[ter]a qui se ab i[n]imicis eis s[er]v[er]e p[ro]p[ter]a sub i[n]genuit[ate] te illi b[ea]ta thū g[ra]t[ia] m[un]di qui b[e]n[e]d[i]ct[us] g[ra]t[ia] m[un]di f[av]ore i[n] f[av]ore ad lūcā p[ro]duxit. Sit timor et corp[us] h[uius] sit et f[av]ore y[m]ago dei q[uod] s[er]v[er]e m[un]di sua v[er]e d[omi]ni. n[on] resistas nec m[un]di s[er]v[er]e p[ro]p[ter]a m[un]di et velle meū adimplere et ne me i[n] f[av]ore
p[ro]p[ter]a q[uod] d[omi]ni d[omi]ni me p[ro]p[ter]a m[un]di m[un]di et g[ra]t[ia] m[un]di et i[n] i[n]imicis et d[omi]ni p[ro]p[ter]a et magister i[n] i[n]imicis et d[omi]ni p[ro]p[ter]a et filius i[n] i[n]imicis et p[ro]p[ter]a et i[n] i[n]imicis et s[er]v[er]e p[ro]p[ter]a. s. petri et pauli et v[er]o q[uod] s[er]v[er]e p[ro]p[ter]a et i[n] i[n]imicis
f[av]ore i[n] i[n]imicis et i[n] i[n]imicis et s[er]v[er]e p[ro]p[ter]a et i[n] i[n]imicis v[er]o m[un]di v[er]o i[n] i[n]imicis et v[er]o

in quo nihil inuasti de corporibus tuis qui te foliavit qui regnum tuum destruxit qui te victu ligauit et vasa tua dissipavit te premit in tenebras ut tibi tu in istis tuis aut ipse in istis sed quod non est edale ta vato gitas quod tamen vana et vana vato gitas. Idcirco cuius patrem transgressus es neque filium. x. quia teptare susces et ciuifige presumpsisti in hunc mundum mors tuis persuasione autem impotens diu co nequissimus pimpi. Idcirco. Adiuu te in noie agni in matulariis ambulat super fidem et basilistum qui gultauit leone et diu conuertit facias tito quod quod pimpiam gruamisco et timor in uotato noie deu quod in feritimet. quod celorum virtutes et po tentes. Duas et virtutes. Alie. Bieete sunt et timor et aduocant. quod cherubim et seraphim. in defessis uocibus laudat in
pat. et ubi caris semper et impat. et in ex uirgine impat. et iesus nazarenus qui te creauit ut cito impleas ora et sita petamur hunc uolunt scire. Idcirco et quod to tardus fateris quod tibi pimpi.
ut pimpiam. suppliti. in g. crestit. et crestat. dedie in die. Exortio te maledicta et maledicta. et in uerba uirtutis. potestate pimpi. et in naz

veni agnū immaculatū de altissimo p̄re gressu de p̄re p̄re conceptū ex maria vir-gine natū q̄ gabriel angelū nūtiā uit venturū q̄ tū vidiss̄ t̄c̄o. ex clamavit dicē v̄e hic est fili⁹ dei.
 Exorciso te auctōr dyabo. p̄tatisim ventōr malorū cū oib⁹ subditis tuis nōne p̄ris et filij et s̄. In nōne gloriose deitatis tui. ix. ordines angelorū.
 throni. dominationes. p̄tates. et septuaginta diebus et noctibus p̄clamat dicentes
 s̄tus. s̄tus. s̄tus qui erat et q̄ ventur⁹ est et q̄ est omnipotens nō p̄sumas t̄is gredi p̄cepta mea. A flet et latet. A. minime et p̄nas minime et tormenta die iudicii. die supplicij s̄p̄it̄nū diem qui ventur⁹ s̄velut cliban⁹ ardens in q̄ t̄atq̄ vniuersis angelis tuis s̄p̄it̄n⁹ erit p̄at⁹
 m̄it⁹ et iō p̄tia nequitia dampno et atq̄ dampnabo. Da honore deo viuo et vo et m̄ subdit⁹ esto t̄oib⁹ opib⁹ meis p̄andis ac p̄ficiendis. Da honorem p̄re p̄re p̄re p̄re cui⁹ nōne. et virtute. p̄re p̄re t̄. A. ut nōi et et v̄bis meis obedias. tū ois creatura deservit que cherubim et seraphim laudant. Dicentes s̄tus s̄tus s̄tus dñe exercitū qui regnat et dñat tū p̄re infinita secula amen
 Amen Amen

do v̄no
 et n̄ro
 da f̄ore
 p̄ et

Anonus et ostendo atque p[ro]prio tibi ut sine aliquo notum[en]to m[er]itu[m] et p[er]p[et]uo obediens s[ine] lesione et g[ra]mine corp[or]is et s[an]c[t]e m[er]e Com[un]io te. d[omi]n[u]s p[ro]p[ri]o o[mn]ia p[ro]p[ri]a s[an]c[t]a m[er]ita f[aci]t et p[ro]p[ri]a s[an]c[t]a m[er]ita f[aci]t et p[ro]p[ri]a s[an]c[t]a d[omi]n[u]s f[aci]t c[ir]ca t[er]ra[m] v[er]ba m[er]ita et p[ro]p[ri]a q[ui]ta d[omi]n[u]s d[omi]n[u]s d[omi]n[u]s Com[un]io te et p[ro]p[ri]o t[er]ra et p[ro]p[ri]a s[an]c[t]a p[ro]p[ri]a m[er]ita m[er]ita p[ro]p[ri]a g[ra]tiam et b[e]n[e]d[i]c[t]am atque d[omi]n[u]s p[ro]p[ri]a Com[un]io m[er]ita te atque p[ro]p[ri]o tibi d[omi]n[u]s p[ro]p[ri]o q[ui]b[us]
 g[ra]tiam et b[e]n[e]d[i]c[t]am possis exortis te p[ro]p[ri]o m[er]ita t[er]ra p[ro]p[ri]a o[mn]ia p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a v[er]ba et p[ro]p[ri]a sigillu[m] salomonis et p[ro]p[ri]a lum[en] a[ng]el[us] c[ir]ca m[er]ita celestis maled[ic]to et g[ra]tiam et g[ra]tiam p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a de duplo de die m[er]ita q[ui]ta d[omi]n[u]s d[omi]n[u]s d[omi]n[u]s et p[ro]p[ri]a n[on] cesses p[ro]p[ri]a g[ra]tiam c[ir]ca loco m[er]ita modo es v[er]ba m[er]ita p[ro]p[ri]a g[ra]tiam tuo et g[ra]tiam f[aci]t et t[er]ra et d[omi]n[u]s p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a g[ra]tiam et p[ro]p[ri]a maled[ic]to te d[omi]n[u]s n[on] m[er]ita g[ra]tiam m[er]ita p[ro]p[ri]a d[omi]n[u]s v[er]ba tuo et p[ro]p[ri]a q[ui]ta p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a h[ic] m[er]ita g[ra]tiam d[omi]n[u]s m[er]ita p[ro]p[ri]a m[er]ita p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a q[ui]ta corp[or]is x[risti] et g[ra]tiam et g[ra]tiam maled[ic]to tibi et o[mn]ia illud q[ui]ta p[ro]p[ri]a et confundo p. on. h. alph. et o. et p. manu.

 et p. nome dei ineffabile et p. st. m. t. e. g. r. a.
 m. a. t. o. n. et p. o. i. a. v. b. a. q. d. c. a. s. u. t. t. r. p. n. ut facias p. a. t. i. s. m. e. a. l. i. q. u. a. m. a. n. d. a. m. a.
 d. a. t. u. m. m. o. i. p. e. t. i. t. i. o. n. e. q. u. a. t. m. d. i. f. a.
 p. a. b. o. d. u. v. t. i. a. z. q. u. a. s. q. m. a. l. l. o. q. u. a. n. t.
 i. n. o. i. e. p. r. i. s. v. e. i. t. i. n. o. i. e. f. i. l. i. j. v. e. n. i.
 et i. n. o. i. e. p. r. i. s. v. e. i. t. i. n. o. i. e. s. c. a. t. u.
 m. i. t. a. t. i. s. t. b. i. d. i. c. t. o. v. e. i. t. i. n. o. i. e. s. u. m. i.
 d. e. i. c. r. e. a. t. o. r. i. s. o. i. c. r. e. a. t. u. r. a. z. v. e. n. i.
 a. d. m. e. i. n. h. a. c. h. o. r. d. a. s. m. e. a. l. i. q. n. o. t. u. m. t. o.
 l. e. s. i. o. n. e. s. i. t. e. p. g. r. a. v. a. m. e. s. i. t. m. a. e. e. t.
 c. o. r. p. u. s. m. e. s. u. t. a. l. i. u. m. m. i. t. t. a. s. u. t. v. a. n. d. a.
 f. a. c. i. a. s. q. s. i. a. t. p. r. i. s. o. a. d. d. e. s. i. d. e. r. i. u. m.
 m. o. i. a. d. m. p. l. e. t. u. r. et n. i. l. l. a. m. i. s. m. e. v. e. c. e. d. a. t.
 d. e. i. n. i. s. i. l. i. c. e. a. t. u. r. f. u. i. t. a. m. e. t. v. o.
 l. u. n. t. a. t. a. m. a. a. p. l. a. n. a. r. i. a. p. f. a. c. i. t. c. o. m.
 m. u. n. d. o. t. a. p. h. a. c. et p. h. i. t. e. a. d. u. t. s. u. p. r. a.
 d. e. a. s. u. t. f. a. c. i. a. s. m. i. c. h. i. v. a. n. d. a. v. n. i. p. m.
 q. s. u. f. f. a. s. s. e. c. u. r. a. n. t. u. r. et s. u. g. e. r. u. d. o. n. a.
 v. o. s. et t. h. e. s. a. u. r. o. s. s. i. n. q. p. a. l. o. c. o. i. s. t. o. v. e.
 c. e. d. a. m. i. t. et s. t. i. e. n. s. t. u. q. p. m. i. n. v. o. c. a. n. t. o. p. a.
 t. i. m. q. u. a. d. a. t. b. e. n. i. g. n. o. s. a. c. h. u. i. l. i. s. n. u. l. l. i.
 n. o. c. e. n. s. et i. n. r. o. i. b. o. m. i. n. i. s. t. r. a. s. et v. o. l. u.
 t. a. t. a. m. e. a. p. f. i. c. i. e. s. f. i. a. t. f. i. a. t. s. m. e. v. t.
 d. u. c. a. s. u. t. m. i. t. t. a. s. m. i. c. h. i. v. n. i. p. m. a. m. b. u.
 et y. d. o. n. e. u. m. q. i. s. t. a. v. t. h. e. a. t. p. r. a. t. e. m.
 f. a. c. i. e. m. e. i. n. v. i. s. i. b. i. l. e. q. u. i. t. u. q. v. o. l. u. o.

no. 21. vsq. fuit in ipso psalmo et mihi placuit et et q. si sit sub p. rate mea et gaudas et similiter p. ratem q. faciendi lib.

et exp. m. t. et oia q. cu. q. voluis amen
amen amen

Quare cunctum et collige tot lapides
q. fuit vsq. m. p. s. q. i. s. e. r. e. v. e. m. e. i. d. e. u. s.
cu. h. i. s. l. a. p. i. d. i. b. u. s. p. o. n. e. c. u. t. u. l. u. q. n. v. i. s. e. t.
i. m. p. o. n. e. h. e. r. b. a. q. u. e. v. o. c. a. t. v. e. r. b. e. n. a. p. o. s. t. e. r.
s. t. i. p. e. s. p. i. e. t. u. l. u. et l. i. n. e. i. p. m. c. u. o. l. e. o. o. l. i. v. e. t. u.
p. o. l. l. i. c. e. d. i. c. e. d. o. g. l. o. r. i. a. m. e. x. c. e. l. s. i. s. d. e. o. et c.
et i. n. t. i. e. s. c. u. t. u. l. u. s. t. e. s. s. u. p. r. a. h. e. r. b. a. et v. e. r.
t. e. p. r. i. m. o. a. d. a. v. e. r. t. e. d. i. c. e. s. q. u. i. d. e. t. e. a. p. r. i. d. i.
a. p. o. t. h. o. t. h. e. b. a. l. a. p. u. r. e. q. et f. i. m. et p. m. s. t. m. et x. x. i. i. i. s. e. m. o. v. e. s. et p. t. i. e. s. p. r. i. o. s. s. y. d. i. a. t. h.
m. y. s. a. c. et a. b. d. e. n. a. g. o. p. t. o. t. h. p. r. i. n. c. i. p. e. m.
v. i. n. u. p. z. a. m. b. i. u. m. et m. a. b. u. i. n. y. p. v. s. u. e. l. p.
s. a. d. u. e. l. q. o. b. e. d. i. v. e. t. e. n. e. m. d. e. u. m. et p.
b. a. p. q. v. e. t. u. p. i. n. f. o. n. t. e. a. s. a. t. d. o. t. e. v. t. o. b. e.
d. i. a. t. i. s. m. i. d. i. et p. b. a. p. q. v. e. t. e. p. i. n. f. o. n. t. e.
a. s. a. t. d. o. t. e. m. e. o. v. t. o. b. e. d. i. a. n. s. m. i. d. i. C. u. m.
v. e. n. i. t. p. p. e. d. i. c. i. s. i. v. o. l. u. i. s. d. e. u. q. t. e. g. e. n. u.
i. t. d. e. v. e. l. i. q. s. i. et o. b. l. i. t. o. d. m. t. u. e. a. t. o. r. i. s. t. u. i.
C. u. i. e. t. d. i. c. i. s. p. p. e. v. i. n. e. t. e. t. u. t. d. i. c. l. i. g. o.
p. et o. s. t. i. n. g. o. v. o. s. d. e. m. o. n. e. s. p. v. b. a. q. s. u.
d. i. s. t. i. s. a. t. u. e. a. t. o. r. e. v. i. n. o. p. e. d. a. n. s. m. e. t. u. a. t. e.
v. t. n. i. l. l. i. n. o. t. e. a. t. i. s. s. d. e. v. e. n. i. t. u. s. v. e. r. i.
t. a. t. e. i. n. d. e. a. t. i. s. m. i. d. i. q. s. i. n. o. l. u. n. t. l. e.
g. e. v. i. n. c. u. l. u. s. s. e. l. o. m. o. i. s. d. e. v. i. n. c. t. o. p. p. u. m.
n. o. e. s. o. l. u. e. d. u. s. s. y. p. o. c. i. d. i. d. m. et y. m. i. t. a. d. u.

Et ut p̄dem a cauedu e ne in manu
 q̄pda m̄fipietu hoc fatueru daverat.
 Elutuanu sapietissimū si p̄ q̄ p̄dā vā ges et p̄ntipes oibz subditis suis vā leant subpeditari et cogi et ligari et in abissum p̄ci. si vō sūt rebelles et contradicātes et inobediētes exortite et si in oibz nō obediēunt ut p̄re cepta exortista nō cōsueverunt hoc v̄m̄tū ē ledendū q̄ sic incipit

Per cōuolōratū et potētissimū nōm dēi et fortis et ammirabile vos exortisa mus atq̄ in p̄am q̄ dicit et fcm et p̄oia nōia p̄ q̄ p̄ nōm. y. et v. et e. q̄ moyses audiuit et locutus ē p̄ nōm
 gen. et in nōia gen. q̄ noe audiuit et locutus ē cū vñ famia delmea sua et p̄ nōm. y. et v. et e. et x. et in nōia v. et x. q̄ abraham audiuit et agnouit oip̄tate dēi. et p̄ nōm goth. et in nōia goth. q̄ audiuit iacob ab angelo scēu comitantē et liberatq̄ ē de manu frā tris sui esau. et p̄ nōm cyzaserie et in nōia cyzaserie q̄ moyses in monte audiuit et manūit q̄ nē ē cū deo audire ip̄m cū flāma loq̄tē et p̄ vōtū anathematon et in nōia anathematon q̄ sion audiuit et eloques et sapiens

fecit et per nomen sabaoth in nomine sabaoth.
quod moyses audiuit et in nomine et omnes aquae egredi de terra ceperunt palidum et virescere sunt in sanguinem et putaverunt et per nomen ovision. et in nomine ovision. quod moyses nominavit et fluvii omnes ebullierunt rivas et absconderunt in domibus egyptorum et per nomen eloy. et in nomine eloy. quod moyses au-diuit per tunc pulvis terre et fides et omnes in hominibus et iumentis et per nomen antiphontice et in nomine antiphontice. quod moyses nominavit et occiderunt muscas misit in egyptum et in egyptios et per nomen yephaton et in nomine yephaton. quod moyses audiuit et quod moy-ses nominavit per tunc etiam quis peris-perit equos et asinos et camelos et oves et boves interfecerunt et per nomen auditos quod moyses nominavit et tulit aeneas decem milia et deperisit in terra et facta sunt virga in sicca virga in hominibus et iumentis et in terra egypti et per nomen elyon. et in nomine elyon. quod moyses nominavit et quando talis qualis non fuerat subito mundus ad peris et ita quod homines et iumenta quae erant in agris ceciderunt et interfecerunt et per nomen adonay et in nomine adonay. quod moyses vo-lavit et facta sunt lotura et apparuerunt super terram et quod residua quando erant denotauerunt et per nomen pantheon et in nomine pantheon. quod moyses nominavit et fecerunt ymbres horribiles tribus diebus et tribus noctibus et per nomen simon et in nomine simon. quod moyses media nocte nomi-navit et omnia principatus egypti perierunt et munda fuerunt et per nomen geremon.

et in nomine geremon quod moyses nominavit et totum ysaheletem per in captivitate liberavit et per nomen yegemon et in nomine yegemon. quod mare audivit et dissum est et per nomen yiston et in nomine yiston. quod mare audivit et submersit omnes eius pharaonis et per nomen on et in nomine.
on. quod petrus audierunt et innumera-biles amenerunt et per nomen anabona.
et in nomine anabona quod moyses in monte synay audivit et meruit tabulas manus saluatoris scriptas accipere et per nomen egyptyon et in nomine egyptyon. cum quod yosue pugnavit et inimicos destruxit suos et victoriam obtinuit et per nomen pathon et in nomine pathon ut scitis ad nominavit et liberavit e de manu golye.
et per nomen eya et in nomine eya. quod salomo audivit et gabalon et meruit in omnibus postulare et impetrare sciam sapientiam et et nomen patris ton. et in nomine patris ton. q. elyas oravit q. non plueret et non plu-uit tribus annis et mensibus sex et nomen symayon et in nomine symayon. q. elyas.

oravit et calum dedit pluuiam et terra dedit fructum suum et nomen eloy. et in nomine eloy. q. elyseus nomen et esunamis filius liberavit et nomen athanasios et in nomine athanasios q. yereonias nomen et preter capite nomen cuius et nomen alpha et o. et in nomine alpha et o q. daniel nomen et pillud bel destruxit et in nomine manifestavit et nomen emanuel et in nomine emanuel q. tres pueri et camis ignis audient nomen et et h. illesi exierunt et liberati et per hec nomina et omnia alia nomina omnipotentis dei vi-ui et veri qui vos de excelsis throno et de vira culpa eiet et usq. ad abyssu locu vos preter. Exortistis et accepit vultus impium et per qui dixit et factum est cui obedunt omnes creature et per tunc medu diem iudicii dei sumus et pigne-am deuora. et per magna via q. e. an-gustum diuine maiestatis gaudentibus gauden. et per. q. animalia et omnia sedem diuine maiestatis gauden.
ut gauden. et omnia et in nomine ha-

Barbarus magnus comes et dux et apud in signo sagittarum siluestre cum regibus ferentibus tubas in bellis et cum latratorum canu inimicorum hominum et omnium animalium loca et praeserviorum facit apud que non custodit amagias et acantationibus et de ordine virtutum et hinc subsexxxvi. legiones.

Ason magnus dux et fortis et apud in similitudine senaphali dat ad plentudinem va visum de presentibus et fu-turis et occultis dat gratiam amicorum et in-imicorum dat dignitatem et confirmat hinc subse-
xlv. legiones.

Otius magnus pater et comes et apud
in signo vultu et hinc detrahit hominem sed cum suscipit formam humanam hinc detrahit magnos et ea tota in manu perat gla-dium gloriu dat ad plenitudinem va visum de presentibus et futuris et occultis rebus dat gratiam amicorum et inimicorum hinc subse-
xxxvi. legiones.

Ovison magnus rex et fortis et apud in similitudine hominis facies leonina coronatus et dyademate in manu fe-res virgam fortissimam equat super donum fueritissimum et an ipse percedat tunc bene sit putat putat et futura occulta pandere loca thesaurorum aperdit et aperiri facit libenter suscipit corpus humanum et spiritum et dat vasa unguenta de minimis et occultis rebus de deitatis et mundi creatione dat optimos familiares hoc subsecundum legiones primas de ordine virtutum et per d'ordine throni.

Hugonem magnum dux et ammirantissimum tudine militis pulcherrimum ferens lanceam vexillum et sceptrum ad plentudinem dat vasa unguenta de occultis re-bus et deducit quas fieri debent et quas aduentionis sunt dat etiam milites et octuaginta et dat quam omnem regem marchionem et omnem militem hoc subsecundum legiones

Orob magnus et princeps ammirantissimum medici cum suscipit figuram huma-nam doctor optimus inter et facit audere in amore viorum si sibi iussu fuit facit eas transmutari in aliam formam quisque venit coram dilectis finit facit eas periles hoc subsecundum legiones et

mirabile reddit hoies abile magis nomia ⁊ ⁊ in aliis fortibus liberalibus dat optios familiares ⁊ gratia magnatu ⁊ principu ⁊ loca thesauroru q appuilibus custodiunt mirabiliter ostendit h3 sub se xxx legiones

Succax magnus maritimo ⁊ appu in similitudine hoies vltu h3 femie videt beuolus inter mirabiliter dat amoris inter ⁊ maxie oī viduay dat ad plenitudie oīa gna liguay fiant hoies ensua de regione iue gione velocissio cursu h3 sub se 23 legiones incipiunt exprimēta bona

Incipiunt exprimēta bona ⁊ pla ta ⁊ venissima pmo de modo se bendi bel ⁊ ebal ⁊

Nota infamia quinta nouis vestib indutus ⁊ balneato in tepustu lo scribe in costam nom tuu ⁊ miti bel ⁊ ebal. bel impn ⁊ in medio no men tuu ⁊ nom miti. in fine ebal. ⁊ pone adigne ⁊ fac ciema in costam ⁊ qn ⁊ in maxio ca lowe ut fuisse lege gnuatias q seq ⁊ gse desideratum

Quoniam vos per infernales bel et lebal. quod non in ista costa scripta est in igne ardeant pome virtutes caloy et tunc per thronos principatus et potates et dominantes per cherubim et seraphim. et per omnia que sub celo sunt ut nunquam requie habeatis quoniam cor et in furore mei ita ardeat faciat ut nunquam dormitis quiescat nec bibitis nec ulla sitis nec fletus nec iudicium nec aliquid operis proficiat qui cordis mei desiderium prout adimpleat et quoniam vos bel et lebal. quod non in igne ardeant per omnia potentia et per ipsum christum filium eius et per spiritum sanctum et per virtutes sancti dei et per ipsam providentiam dei et per firmamentum et per fundum abyssus et per elementa et per visionem dei per noctem et tenebras et per transcursum dierum iudicii ut nunquam quies habeatis qui cor et in amore mei ita ardeat faciat ut nunquam dormitis quiescat nec bibitis nec sitis nec fletus nec iudicium nec aliquid operis proficere valeat in cordis mei desiderium prout adim-pleat et quoniam vos bel et lebal.
quod non in igne ardeant per deum

vñ p̄ dñm vñm p̄ dñm sc̄m q̄ vos ⁊ tūta creāuit qui adam ⁊ eua delinco tūc uit qui facit angelos suos p̄t qui sit p̄ntia p̄ntia ⁊ fūta qui h̄z clauces celi claudit ⁊ ap̄t claudit ⁊ n̄eo ap̄t p̄tū qui fuit mortu⁹ ⁊ resurrexit. q̄ est p̄ntipm ⁊ finis alpha ⁊ o. p̄m ⁊ nouissim⁹ ut nūq̄ ⁊ cōmū vos o.
 bel ⁊ abal. q̄p nōia igne fūdesūt
 h̄ sc̄a nōia dei. ely. eloy. eleon. tētia
 ḡmaton. tūpānoel. fabanoel. saba
 oth. sathay. adonay. cōmū vos p̄ virtutē q̄ dñs n̄r ih̄s x̄t ianuis clau sis addissipulos suos intravit ⁊ cōm uo vos bel ⁊ abal. q̄p nōia m̄igna fūdesūt p̄ p̄m̄cā colōmā q̄ dñs n̄r ih̄s x̄t m̄capit sustinuit ⁊ p̄fixurā clauorū q̄ p̄ias man⁹ ⁊ pedes t̄nfixit ⁊ p̄ sanḡnē ⁊ aquā delatūe flūctā ⁊ p̄ lacrimas b̄tē vngis manūe ⁊ p̄ mortē ⁊ sepultūrā x̄pi p̄ resurreccio nē ⁊ ascensionē x̄pi ut nūq̄ rēq̄ez habeam⁹ q̄n cor m̄tūe i amōre ita fūdaue faciatis q̄ nūq̄ dormiue
 m̄deue n̄ bibere n̄ stare n̄ sede re n̄ ridere n̄ aliq̄ op̄ p̄ficare valeat q̄n cordis mei desiderū

penitus adimpleat et quod illud nunciatum obmittatis. Hec precipio vobis per quem vivit et regnat in secula seculorum Amen Amen
v. respondo Amen et de. Responsio. Spiritum

Ubi magister voluit vocare per vadem ad locum secretum cum duobus sociis aut habeat cultellum cum manubrio albo ut in quo inueniatur laqueus. Hec nomina ex utraque parte sunt scripta. Agla. sabaoth. et faciendo cum eodem cultello exteriorum circulum di cendo hunc circulum facio in nomine dei patris omnipotentis qui solo verbo universa creavit et in eodem circulo scribat cum cultello per libat. Hec nomina quatuor. Agla.
Cot. occidenta. Tetr. quatuor. Tetr. septentrione. Adonay. Cot. meridie sabaoth. Deinde faciat secundum circu lum dicendo hunc circulum facio in nomine dei vini qui humanum genus humano sanguine redemit. Tertium vero circulum faciat dicendo hunc circulum facio in nomine patris scripturae quod scriptorum et prophetarum corda sua gratia illustravit. Per hoc faciet circum per omnes circulos. Per hoc signum. Iste circulus gratia dei defendat nos ab omni malo. Amen. Accipe turbulum imposito digne et munda circumdat ex

Continued Requirement 2 of

Comitatio diei solis

69

Comitus et confirmatio super vos angeli fortes et sancti in nomine Adonay. Adonay. g diei solis Eya. Eya. Eya. qui est ille qui fuit et est et erit Eya. Aloraya. in nomine Sadaye.
 Saday. Cados. Cados. Cados altus // super cherubim sedens et per nomen ipsum mag ni sancti fortis potens et exaltatus super omnes celos. Eya. Savaya. plasmatore seculorum qui creavit mundum celum et terram mare et omnia que in eis sunt in primo die celorum. et sigillavit super eos tuum nomen sancto sancto. yhon. super terram que sigilla est honoratio pretioso nomine suo yhaa. et nomina sanctorum angelorum qui dominant in primo exercitu et serviunt coram potentissimo salamina angelo magno et honorato et per nomen stelle que est sol et per signum in mensurissimum dei unum et per omnia per predicta Comitus super Raphael angelo qui est protus diei domini. et per nomen Adonay.
 dei israhel qui creavit mundum et qui quod est in eo quod per me labores et adimple sis omnes voluntates meas et peritio ne iuxta meum velle et votum in me g diei lune et cetero et cetera mea dicta sunt secundum quod tibi videbitur Comitatio diei lune

Comunio diei lune

Communis 2 offirmo 2 sigillo sup vos Ange li fortes 2 sti in noie adonay. ad
nay. adonay. eye. eye. eye. eados eados. eados hacym. hacym. hacym.
va. va. fortis. va. qui apparuit in mon ta synay. cu glorificatione reg sui. ya.
adonay. saday. sabaoth. hanath. hu.
haxi. ya. ya. ya. Quidam alia habym.
ved. qui maria coavit pagna 2 omes flugas in secunda die qdam mcelos quosdam mtra 2 sigillavit mtra cu virtute sua 2 alto noie suo ut tm q sibi posuit no pterierent 2 p noia angeloz qui dnan in secundo exercitu qui servunt orphaniely. angelo mag no pioso 2 honorata 2 p nom stelle
q est luna 2 p sigilla 2 p noia pdcos Comunis sup te gabriel q e pntus diei secundo. s. lune q p me labores gdiei 2 adimpleas omne mea petitionem meam Amen. Comunio diei martis

Communis 2 offirmo 2 sigillo sup vos Angeli fortes 2 sti p nom. ya. ya.
ya. si. si. va. hy. hy. ha. ha. va.
va. han. han. hon. hy. hyen. haya.
haya. hol. hol. hay. ha. hol. hon. p noia mea dm adonay. haya. hol. plasma toru seculoz. eados. eados. eados

ebel. el. ya. ya. ya. eloy. An. eloy. m. eloy. m. 2 p. nom. ip. sal. dei qui fecit aridem app. a. v. 2 vocavit eam. E. v. m.
 2 p. duxit subor. 2 herbas de. e. v.
 2 sigillavit sup. eam. p. c. o. s. o. 2 hono.
 rato metuendo. nom. suo. 2 p. m. a. i. a.
 galor. d. n. a. n. t. u. m. ex. t. i. t. u. i. t. a. i. o. 2 m.
 i. s. t. r. a. n. d. o. p. l. o. y. n. i. m. An. g. e. l. o. m. a. g. n. o.
 for. t. i. p. o. t. e. n. t. i. 2 h. o. n. o. r. a. t. o. 2 p. n. o. m. i. n. e.
 p. t. e. l. l. a. q. u. e. m. a. n. u. s. 2 p. n. o. m. i. n. e. a. d. o. n. a. y. d. e.
 v. i. v. i. 2 v. e. r. i. t. a. t. e. s. u. p. t. a. s. a. m. a. d. e. l. a.
 g. e. l. o. q. u. e. p. o. t. e. n. t. i. s. d. i. c. i. t. u. r. s. i. m. a. n. u. i.
 p. p. m. e. l. a. b. o. r. e. t. i. s. 2 a. d. i. m. p. l. e. a. t. i. s. o. m.
 n. e. m. m. e. a. v. o. l. u. n. t. a. t. e. 2 t. o. t. a. m. e. a. p. e.
 t. i. o. n. e. v. t. s. i. c. u. t. i. n. f. i. m. o. c. a. p. i. t. u. l. o. 2
 e. l. e. c. t. i. o. n. e. c. o. n. i. u. r. d. a. t. o. d. i. c. i. m. e. r. t. u. r. i.
 C. o. n. i. u. r. d. a. t. o. 2 o. f. f. i. c. i. o. 2 s. i. g. i. l. l. o. s. u. p. v. o. s.
 An. g. e. l. i. f. o. r. t. i. s. 2 p. t. i. 2 p. o. t. e. n. t. e. s.
 i. n. n. o. m. i. n. e. f. o. r. t. i. s. m. e. t. u. e. d. i. 2 b. e. n. e. d. i. c. t. e.
 d. i. y. a. a. d. o. n. a. y. e. l. e. o. y. m. s. a. d. a. y.
 s. a. d. a. y. s. a. d. a. y. e. y. e. e. y. e. e. y. e. a. s. a.
 s. i. m. e. a. s. a. o. m. e. a. s. a. m. y. e. i. n. n. o. m. i. n. e.
 d. n. i. a. d. o. n. a. y. e. i. n. q. u. o. s. u. p. v. b. a. h. o. i. m.
 s. i. g. i. l. l. a. v. i. t. s. a. a. q. u. i. d. s. a. y. g. u. a. s. c. a. p. y. m.
 s. a. y. s. a. a. q. u. i. d. 2 p. n. o. m. i. n. e. e. i. y. a. s. y. a. d. o. n. a. y.
 t. a. g. u. a. s. a. s. a. s. a. d. o. n. a. y. d. e. i. s. i. t. q. u. o. i. p. e. a. s.
 d. e. d. i. e. m. 2 n. o. c. t. e. 2 p. n. o. m. i. n. e. a. n. g. e. l. o. y. s. u. i. e. t. u. i.
 o. m.

extitit. q. q. p. thytagona angelo maiora fanti atq. potati et p. nom. stelle q. est menturus et p. nom. sigilli cu. quo si gillat. Adon. fortissimo et honorato et
p. nom. p. dca. et. Comu. sup. te. angelo magne michahel. qui es p. portus diei
q. et p. nom. st. q. in frange. Alston. sa cudotis altissimi creatura. oia. erat. et
p. nom. angeloy. q. in gua. g. firmati. su.
creatoris et p. nom. sedes. Alia. h. m. u.
fanas et alas. ut p. me. laboratis. i. ma.
ut citius ducat. ad. eff. m. optatum.
et. et. Conu. ratio. diei. v. n. is Conm. et. g. firmo. et. sigillo. sup. vos. An.

geli. fortes. et. sa. atq. potantes. p. nom.
hay. hey. ha. ya. a. ya. ya. An. aney.
p. nom. sady. qui. creant. quid. n. p. eda.
et. Alia. reptilia. et. hom. in. sexto. die.
et. dedit. fide. p. rata. sup. oia. Alia. p. n.
de. b. n. d. e. s. it. nom. creatoris. in. loco. suo.
et. p. nom. angeloy. q. sunt. extitit. sex.
to. cora. daghyel. angelo. magno. p. n. ti.
p. i. f. o. r. t. i. s. atq. potenti. et. p. nom. stelle.
q. est. ven. et. p. sigillu. a. i. q. q. dam. si.
gillum. est. sacratu. et. p. nom. p. dca. et.
Comu. sup. te. angelo. magne. anael.
qui. es. p. portus. diei. sexto. ut. p. me. la. bours. ut. sup.

.a.
quintus
diei
v. n. is

q. diei
p. n. is

.b.

Coniuvo et firmo et sigillo sup vos an geli fortes et sci atq potentes pno cados. cados. cados. efa. raze. asova.
 ya. eferaze. hatym. va. fortis firma toris seculor catiney. yalhez. yavut.
 yavac. calldac. allac. assaf. adacaf. barifay. abnady et pno adonay qui creavit pisces pntes et reptilia in aquis et aves volantes sup facie terre versut celos die quinto et pnoia angelor serui antu creatu quinto pastore angelo magno sca et potati pncipi et pno stelle qui e iupit et p nom sigilli sui et p nom adonay. sup m diei om creatoris. et pno om stellar et p vim et virtutem eor et pnoia pda et / Coniuvo sup te satquiel. angelo magne q a pntus diei iouis q pme labores ut meus afftus ad effm deueat / q diei saturni quinto

diei saturni

Coniuvo et firmo et pntiendo sup vos captiel. mactator. sardac. quidi an geli fortes et potates pno adonay. ado
 nay. eye. ay. e. eye. hacyn. hacyn.
 hacyn. cados. cados. cados. yma.
 yma. yma. saday. ya. sav. dm foito in seculo 2o die septio quicuit et illa in bñplacito suo filiis ipit in hereditate et obsequium dedit ut eum firmiter serva-rent et custodirent et sacrificaret ad habendam inde bonam et in alio seculo remunerationem et nomina angelorum servientium exitu septimo contra boel angelo magnificenti principi. et nomina palles et saturis et per semper sigillum eius et per omnia pacta et communio capietur et per omnia et dies septimo qui est dies sabati ut per me laboras et non desistas donec totum affertur ad effectum perducas amen

Sequitur videtur et serva septem sigilla qui signata sunt in quolibet opere secundum diem septima et haec sunt sigilla vij.
planetarum discurrentium vij. celos per quod dixerunt vij. phy sapientes quod opus facies quod si non scias non quiescis sine signis istis sequentibus qui quilibet dies suum sigillum et suum planetam et suos angelos et suum regem primum et adiuto-res suos et sua creatura et suffumigium suum per quod inferius tibi dicatur et quod feceris hoc scias quod per semper ipsum fuisse et magni et hunc librum proposuit et scias quod per quod quod fieri perficiat per fiti et et virtute dei cuius nomini sit bene dum per infinita secula seculorum amen

Ecce sigillū Raphaelis Angeli Cuius palla ē sol. fac illud die solis ī signo Leonis

Ecce sigillū Gabrielis Angeli Cuius palla ē luna fac illud die lune hora lune ī signo Cancrī ⁊ q

Ecce sigillū Samaelis Angeli Cuius palla ē martis fac illa die martis hora martis ī signo Arietis ut scorpionis

Ecce sigillū Michaelis Angeli Cuius palla ē mercurij fac illa die mercurij hora mercurij ī signo Capricorni ut gemini ut virginis.

Ecce sigillū Batraelis Angeli Cuius palla ē iupit fac illa die iouis ⁊ hora iouis ī signo sagittarij ⁊ piscis ⁊ q

¶ Ecce sigillū Anaelis Angeli Cuspella et veng fac illa die vengis hora vengis in signo thauri et libris 2/3

¶ Ecce sigillū Cassielis Angeli Cuspella et saturnus fac illa die sabbati.
hora patni in signo capicornii 2/3

¶ Ecce sigillū diei dñiti q fieri debet sole ascendente.

Ecce signū solis q̄a planeta die dñica

Ecce sigillū luna q̄ fieri d̄z lūa ascendente

Ecce signū luna q̄a planeta diei lūa

Sigillū diei martis q̄d fieri d̄z martis ascendente

Signū die martis q̄ p̄taeta diei martis

Signū Martij q̄ fieri Martio ascendente

Signū Martij q̄ p̄taeta diei martis

Signū iouis q̄ fieri debz ioue ascendente

Signū iouis q̄ est planeta diei iouis

Signū venis q̄ est planeta diei venis

Signū venis q̄ est planeta diei venis

Signū saturni q̄ est planeta diei saturni

Nota de signis. vij. planetarum. septem diebus completa signa. vij. diebus abdo mada sup planetas et signis corp. Eane igitur illis tibi qd maxima virtus est in eis. quare qd in eis complebitur opus
 tua. Nota Angelorum regnatum adie bus septimae sunt dicenda et sequitur que opus huius nominis et opibus septimae et Angelus diei domini est Raphael et Angelus diei lune est Gabriel et Angelus diei martis est Samael. et Angelus diei mercurii est Michael. et Angelus diei jovis

est garquiel. & angelus diei venis est anael. & angelus diei saturni.
 sabbari est capriel. & in isto igitur
 opus nominibus angelum dei in quo faciat opus tuum & scribe illa. quare si fuerint scripta in te inuabunt te tu po-tentia creatoris

Regum primum vij. diebus in septuaginta regnatum nomina subscribantur super eos angelos dominantes diei qui faciat opus & sic veniant & quodlibet voluntate tuam & inuabunt tibi tot bonis quod visis

Rex & dominus regnat & seruit rex.
 Sarytan coadiutores sui sunt Sylol.
 Candas. Castus. Candas. Vanibal. &
 Et die lune regnat & seruit rex Almodab coadiutores sui sunt Sylol.
 Aillalu. Abuzaba. & Die martis regnat & seruit rex filius dyaboli coadiutores sui sunt Carnach. utmanal.
 pascam. & Die mercurij regnat & seruit rex Saba. coadiutores sui sunt Conias Conas. pactas. San-bidas & Die iouis regnat & seruit rex Adwath filius Avath coadiuto-res sui sunt hyia ut hyia. ignoy Quilon. Saalalebed & Die venis

regnabit rex et servit ei sabotes cordi intores sui sunt Massach. ynafa. et de sacri regnat hayton. assayly. cordi tores sui sunt alimalyb. et haybalydoth.
et yfla. et Completa sunt nomina regum sui regnatum et servitum septem diebus septimane.

9 Quilibet enim dies septimae habet suffragium sibi appatum cum quo suffragabitur apud eum quod facias in ea et complebitur opus sine dubio.

Suffragium diei dominice assandatu civitatem vubem ut simile sibi et die lune et illos. amatap. ut sit sibi et die martis et pyp aut abana. Cys ut sibi sit. et die mercurii et altast aut ei sit et die jovis et olidam. aut civitatem ut ei sit et die venis et almasit aut lignum vadum ut ei sit et die saturni et assandawon et sulphur aut ei sit et et si in die sacri operis volueris adliga das ligas aut suffragium thus odor
cap. Hec sunt suffragia diei septimae et In die dno operi potis adligandas lig was aut adligas ligas hony et die lune operandum et adbeivolentiam et ad geordiam et amicitia et die martis operandum ē ad infirmādū hōnes ⁊ depurā andū ⁊ die dīcitur opandū ē ad ponē dum ī mīcīā suā odium īter hōnes ⁊ die iouis opandū est ad faciēdū pacē īter hōnes discordantes ⁊ die vērū opandū est ad iungēdū hōnes ī amīcīā.

 ut pūcandos de loco ad locū ad bonī uolentiā ⁊ die sātī opari poteris ad ligandū rīora balnea molendina aut similia /

Quatuor die septimae
 Opandū est de quibz diez septimae ī qua Opandum est

Quatuor die septimae opari volūis ad uolentiā aut quolibz bonū ut malū attende diligēt q̄ illa sit op̄ faciēdo quārens nec dimittas opus tuū de die ī diem ut differas. q̄ve si illud opus nō cōfirmāret ut nō duceret ad effon forsitā putaret illud ea fīm

Sciendū q̄ quibz die septimae p̄sunt tūc angeli ad seruandū hōi ⁊ op̄ ei p̄ficiēda ⁊ die dīcitur p̄sunt tūc angeli. s. Raphael. David. ut vīlā casal. ⁊ die lune p̄sunt hīi Gabel.
 Michael. Samuēl ⁊ die martis p̄sunt hīi. s. Satyol. Samuēl. Barina

ly. et diei devoti p[re]sunt h[ic] s. Gem Sabacl. Sauriel. Huriel. et diei jouis p[re]sunt h[ic] s. p[re]acta. Capriel. Assar rael. et diei v[er]is p[re]sunt h[ic] s. Anael.
Saurquiel. Sacquiel. et diei sat[ur] ni p[re]sunt h[ic] s. Capriel. Mataton.
Saurquiel. r. Saurquiel. et

7 Non om[ni] op[er]a q[uod] facies i[n] vocabis Ange los illig die q[uod] op[er]a volu[er]is et i[n] tuan g[ra]plebunt voluntate[m] et ducent fide[m] op[er]is tui

17 Equu[m] tuu[m] q[uod] sequetur no[m]i[n]a q[uod] scribe re h[ab]ent i[n] p[ri]ncipio tuu[m] op[er]is q[uod] fa cies et r[es]pondebunt voluntati tue Et s[un]t ex no[m]i[n]ib[us] creaturis et p[er] ea ergo no[m]i[n]a cu[m] no[m]i[n]a volu[er]is i[n]vocanda s[un]t
s. Auguas. yna. di. r[es]it. ybae. Subae.
guabae. ymissamon. ha[er]. dosa. # Barian. In o[mn]i alia carta quam scribas op[er]is h[ab]et ut scribat i[n] ea sit aliq[uod] ex m[er]ita[m] carta q[uod] si fuit de fide[m] et si fuit de i[n]m[er]ita[m] et si ad m[er]ita[m] si m[er]it[us] sit o[mn]i s[er]vuet
i[n] o[mn]ib[us]

scribes nos p[er]p[et]ua no[m]i[n]a h[ab]eas diei quib[us] h[ab]eas p[er]ficiat op[er]a q[uod] facies t[ua]

Prima vigilia diei hora dicitur vayan in hac hora faciendū est carta ad vendendas voces hominum et mala vana et liguras ligandas et faciendū est hora diei du yam. ou.
 et ea operabimur ad faciendū et gūm et beneficium obtinendū et ad societatem et hominum ad iudicandū ad iuges et ad potentes et faciendū est hora diei dicitur assurre ita facias carta ut ymagines ad vendendū facias vel quos sine adimplendū pises ut aliqui quibus nascitur prohibenda et omnia hora diei dicitur mala in ea fac carta ut ymagines ad ligas du omnes bestias siluestres leones vipers et similia et omnia hora diei dicitur mala ita fac carta ad ligas et ad applicandas quibus bestias et ad quod vis aliud et sexta hora diei dicitur tam hunc quia qua in patris ad extirpandū captivos et carceres ad ligatos solvendo et septima hora diei dicitur carceres operi ad ponendū patem in iuges et octava hora diei du tam hunc mea opera potius ad manducanda et dispo diem ponendam inter hostes. Nonam horam diei dicitur levon mea facienda et cau-ta aditanevadu ut aditidu inter la-trones in timore. Decima hora diei dicitur hyon. mea operari potis ad demonia ut demoniacos ut ventu malu ut pavore ut uicudu ad meis. Undecima hora diei dicitur Ha-shalon mea operari potis ad provocan-dum sanguinis fluxu in interioribus adligandu vir tu intus ut ego et Duodecima hora diei dicitur abar mea operari potis inter malos ad pacem ponendam inter vir et interos.

8. Et sunt horae diei et quibus sibi p-tinentibus. Prima hora noctis dicitur levon. mea fac ad demoniacos opera-
tua. aut ad uictos malos aut ad regendas et loquere tu eis. Secunda hora noctis dicitur lacol mea operari potis ad piscaria et ad ora nascenti-um aquae. Tertia hora noctis dicitur hami mea operari potis ad attedendum ut ad extinguendu ignem et ad omnia quae in eo volueris operari. Quarta hora noctis dicitur silyn mea operari

potis ad destruedu domu ut huiusmodi ad expellendu hoies de loco ad locu. Quinta ho ra noctis dicitur canon in ea facit questio nes ut in scriptis videat qd futurum est in mundo ut diebus ut in scriptis et ad se cunda reuelanda. Sexta hora noctis dicitur psalmus. mea opera potis ad fru ctus et fructus et ad catenas plenas et ad opus opandū in terra. Septima hora noctis dicitur mea opera potis ad expellendu hoies de domo sua ut qd in scriptis ut qd mo riat. Octava hora noctis dicitur taceat mea potis opera ad muni pondam me et voluis. Nona hora noctis dicitur gressus mea potis qua ra ad ligationes liguras aut ad in tuandū ad reges et dnos. Decima hora noctis dicitur alio. mea opera potis ad destruedas liguras et oēs cogitationes sup te sunt gntium malū qd sup te cogitatu sunt. Undecima hora noctis dicitur cetera mea op era potis qd voluis in scriptis ad eas ligandas ut capiendas. Duodecima hora noctis dicitur salui mea potis noctis

operi ad invicendum qd qd dem e ut advenia clonit fuiti ut malis fecit

Um Aliq op ut caritatem voluit scire ut Roman horis et nomina Angelorum horis et quic ei dnat ut mpt oportet te noiaue hec sunt nomina Angelorum dnat cu oibz horis diei noxiu sapientie p hora diei dnat raphael. 2^a hora anael.
3^a michael. 4^a gabriel. 5^a gaffriel. 6^a saraqiel. 7^a samael. 8^a raphael. 9^a anael. 10^a michael. Unde gabriel.
12^a casriel. et Hora diei lune 3^a hora dnat sarquiel. 2^a hora samael. 3^a ra phael. 4^a anael. 5^a michael. 6^a gabriel.
7^a casriel. 8^a sarquiel. 9^a samael. 10^a raphael. 12^a anael. 12^a michael. sic aut intelligere debes de oibz aliis noctu et diez pnoctis qdem an Angelis do minatur et mpt horis 2^a dnatone planetarum ut mptationes 12. Si hora solis mptat ut dnat raphael. Hora venis anael. Hora mercurij michael.
Hora lune gabriel. Hora saturni casriel.
Hora jovis sarquiel. Hora martis samu el. Hic et cuilibz planeta cu Angelis suis signaqz planetarum distributa horum Angelorum nomina dz concordare et respondere noib⁹ capitulis sup^a p^axime portis & ange lo qui g^o t^one infra in quatuordecim g^o t^one bat diei & in capitulis de ymaginib⁹ deo⁹ q^o b^o m^ost^ont ad i^onta // Diei domi

 nico g^o m^ost^ont sol & angel⁹ ei⁹ xapha
 hel. ei⁹ q^o signu⁹ Leo // Diei lun^a m^ost^ont luna & angel⁹ ei⁹ gabriel ei⁹ q^o signu⁹ aries & scorpio. Diei martis m^ost^ont mars & angel⁹ ei⁹ samuel. ei⁹ q^o signu⁹ can^o. Diei mercurij m^ost^ont planeta mercurij & angel⁹ ei⁹ michael. ei⁹ q^o signu⁹ gem^o ut uirgo // Diei jovis m^ost^ont iupit^o & angel⁹ ei⁹ samuel.
 ei⁹ q^o signu⁹ sagittari⁹ & piscas. Diei ve neris m^ost^ont ven^o & angel⁹ ei⁹ q^o andel. ei⁹ q^o signu⁹ thaur⁹ & lib^o. Diei sab^oti m^ost^ont saturn⁹ & angelus ei⁹ raffiel ei⁹ q^o signu⁹ cap^o corn⁹ & aqua vir⁹ // Hora p^ame ist^o v. noib⁹ op^o tu⁹ p^aficare non pot^ois // p^ama hora diei lun^a m^ost^ont ut dicit Gabriel // Secunda hora raffiel ei⁹ 3^a hora sarquiel ei⁹
 4^a hora samuel ei⁹ 5^a hora xaphael ei⁹
 6^a hora andel. ei⁹ 7^a hora michael.
 8^a hora gabriel. ei⁹ 9^a hora raffi el ei⁹ Decima hora sarquiel. ei⁹ und^a cima hora samuel. ei⁹ Duodecima ho ra xaphael.

de opib9 ymaginu diei No p^o malas li-was q^uima hora diei facienda est ymago ad ligandas ligwas & ligwa q^u ligata fuit illa hora nūq^u erit potens loquedi malū vbi de te. hūma hora diei fac ymaginē camis ex argēto ut scis no pūro & sculpe i capite ymaginis nome illi9 sup^{er} q^u oparis & nom dñi hora & diei in quo h^{ec} facis & invētiō y-maginis nomē potētissimū & altissi-mū dñi & suffraganeus ymaginē suffugio sup^{er} dñi & cū sagne rubas & tuolus eā in pāno albo novo & sepelias eā ad p^{ar}tem illi9 de q^u volūis tē nō loq^u de te malū & sic ligabūt oīa oīa de otuli hōi^u & tibi nūq^u notari potit q^u dñi dū vabit ymago ista in venterem ymagie scilicet nomē lūa & nom signi & singulorū t^{em}p^{or}ū q^u h^{ec} facias h^{ec} sunt nomē sūt nomē creatoris mētū p^{ro}p^{ri}a & bñdōa q^u b^u creatū fuit calū & terra hic sūt cū sculpeo sculpe eā totah^{er} ut bene appat & hec sūt nomē. lyana. eyelguena. loaffau. valnavab. le-bana. lebanon. layasales. hec sunt
vij. nomē q^u scribes in venterē forma & scilicet eā t^{em}p^{or}ib9 opib9 nōi^u h^{ec} op^{er}ientū hōib9 & aūib9 & bestis & aūib9 creatis d^{eu} q^u dōda & sūmā.

no^v nom

¶ Et tunc hora diei facienda est ymago beni volentie et una ymago viri et altera mulieris depurissimo stano fusile et capi ta ymagis intus non viri et in capite viri non mulieris in pectore vero et in ymagine sculpes. vij. te subsequenda no mina sunt tu. vij. nois supradice et in gas ymagines hglutinandos eas tu ce ra ita q inter se bn fuerint et sepelias in domo illius q voluit aliu sequi et fiet inter eos amicitia durabilis q dñi. y. magines durabunt et hec sunt ista vij.
noia h scilicet. malthayl. caramel. a zaniel. zartamayl. pail. poubayl. se nalabelis. et h q legi sunt

¶ Et tunc hora diei facienda est ymago ad pascendas os fures et tota oia pista mina ad locu signatu in hac hora fac exere vubes ymagine animalis q supli cane voluit et sculpe ita capite ymagis non dñi hore et in pectore similiter in vete. vij. noia pma hore et suffunga eam cu fenculo q vides yndo et sepeli eam illo ad q voluit suplitare animalia sub quoy similitudine ymagine formasti et vides mirabilia creatoris quo verat ad locu istum

¶ Vnta hora diei faciēda ē ymago ad
fialia pūocanda ut effugēda ut pōn mones et oīa reptilia et bestias siluestres
In hac hora fac ymaginē exarē tūcto ad similitudinē animalis cuiusq; in loco signato volūis applicari et sculpe nomē fialis in capite ymagis et ipso tūcto no men dñi hore et vij. sup̄ dē nomē pma hore sculpe in vāte ymagis et sepeli ymaginē in loco q̄ vis applicari l̄ qd ymago applicab̄ oīa animalia q̄ tūc nō in loco vānt

¶ Vnta hora diei faciēda ē ymago ad
furas mitigandas ut leones. vrsos.
et lupos ad q̄libz alias furas nocētas
In hac hora funde ymaginē fialis cuius
q; volūis applicari ut mitigari et sculpe in capite ymagis nomē fialis et ipso tūcto nomē hore et nomē dñi hore et iū tūcto vij. nomē pma hore et suffūge y maginē cū ligō yndo et cū sādalo rubro et sepeli ymaginē in loco ubi volūis et fux dñi te adiuuante videt q̄ oīa illa fialia ad volūtate tuā reuertant̄ et ad liberandos et carēatos

¶ Extra hora diei faciēda ē ymago
p̄ captiuis et in carceratis ut damp natis ad mortē ut saluandis In hac hona funde ymaginē illi ut istoz q̄s saluari volūis exstingato ut scilicet sculpa i capite ymagis nom̄ vī saluadi et pectoris nom̄ hone et v̄tute septē noia p̄me hona et o ymaginē alibi corp q̄am scilicet teneat caruē et ip̄a noc et eundē actū caruē cū potētia dei tū atomis

q̄ia hona diei faciēda ē ymago p̄ua uacoe et piscatione et a fortis et utilis multū funde ymaginē exoptio augēto in hac hona et sculpa i capite ymaginis nom̄ dñi hone et pectoris ymaginis
vij. nota. i. hona et o hona q̄ piscari ut venatu reus ymaginē tūcū porta et applicatione venatione ut piscatione q̄ volūis ad malinolētia et discordia p̄da in hona

et hanc hona diei faciēda ē ymago ad domos ut ad loca destrueda et de ponenda in hac hona funde ymaginē ex eua vubeo cū duobz capitibz quoz vnu sit asininū reliquū vo hona et sculpe in capite asininū nom̄ loci q̄ delectū et volūis et capite humano scul pe nom̄ dñi loci et instructores dñi loci et pectoris ymagis nom̄ dñi hone et suffūga ymaginē cū sagne hona inter

facti ut cū fluxuria carnis & sepe ea in loco q̄ de p̄tatu v̄ez volūis & fugient om̄s hoīes & de p̄tatu iste locū talē q̄ nec q̄dā p̄buitū f̄ial remanēbit / Quod poteris t̄nsuā v̄bitūq̄ volūis & n̄t̄e nō E. F.

¶ Una hora diei faciēda ē ymago adā bulandū sine timore int̄u Leonis & feras & transire p̄ eas sine timore t̄u v̄re & adora it̄nanda secū p̄ ea hora funde ymaginē sub similitudinē de qua quesieris & scilicet capite ymagis nom̄ dñi hore in v̄re vij. nota p̄ me hore & suffūga ymaginē cū sup̄ d̄o fuste & cūoto p̄tans ea t̄cū t̄asibis
p̄ p̄tūq̄ locū volūis sine timore q̄ ocl̄ li t̄ctorū videre te nō pot̄nt & cor liḡra obmutescat p̄tis q̄ t̄nsire fiet t̄ d̄p̄nū cū p̄o d̄i / Ad optiendū q̄q̄ volūis coram t̄ v̄agis & p̄m̄ p̄m̄ p̄ibus /

¶ Eandē hora diei faciēda ē ymago adint̄andū ad v̄agos & p̄tans in hac hora funde ymaginē hoīs q̄ p̄ ḡro & sculpe t̄capite ymagis nom̄ hoīs & p̄tore nom̄ hore & nom̄ dñi hore & t̄v̄re vij. nota p̄ me hore & suffūga ymaginē cū cūoto & fuste sup̄

deus et involue eam in panno nouo lineo et fil bo et hora qua ad aliquid volueris intrare vel ire pro eam tunc et obsecras quod volueris in adiutorio dei ad faciendum gloriam dei conferas

¶ Undecima hora diei facienda est ymago ad prosecutionem discordiam inter discordan tes ut inter virum et mulierem in hac hora funde duas ymagines vnde pondeus et vnde quantitas et qualitas et sculpe nom in vtroque capite femine. et nom femine in ca pite masculi et pectoribus ambax yma ginu sculpas nom hominis et nom domus hominis et invoca nom. 2. hominis et pone eas facie ad faciem et suffunga eas cum cubito et fuste super dco et pone eas in secreto ad stallas et videbis mirabilia que vnde requirit alium et non potest vnde sine alio scire adli gendas ligulas

¶ Undecima hora diei facienda est ymago ad ligandas ligulas in hac hora fac ymaginem hominis ex aptis panno et sculpe in capite nom eius et pectoris nome hominis et invoca nom sine hominis et suffunga cum cubito et fuste super dco et pone ad stallas
vii. noctes et cum moras et cum sandalias et circumda eam cum que sic tenent et sandalil.
et non erit propter locum super eum malum vbi

Similitudo sunt vij. ymaginez q̄ faciēda sunt in similibz hōis dicit cū dicit suffragio mibz et opibz suis. Cū igitur nullis quia exaltate sunt et ve et ne p̄ta mentiant q̄ p̄ eas totā p̄ficias tuam voluntate in gloria dei. Cūq̄ nom sit bñdēm fuit dopibz ymagi notis

¶ Odo dicit op̄atōez ymagi notis sicut studuerūt antiqui q̄ notia sunt in vobz q̄ ip̄i eas op̄osuerūt ut om̄s hōies op̄ fuerūt eas scire de lucina q̄ nūq̄ exting
ui possit

¶ Prima hōia notis faciēda ē ymago ad illūanda loca tenebrosa ut q̄b alīū locū obscurū in hac hōia funde. Cū delem et eam quasi cūcubuli h̄is. vij.
notia et sculpa in q̄ ora cūcubuli h̄is notia sunt. an. hasas. dalas. sassa et poe et q̄libz ora cūcubuli lignū de bomba ca et scilicet sup os cūcubuli h̄is. xij.
notia. Bezat. berith. zemit. taffan.
dalfat. dāna. aneth. beas. olamith.
hasas. dalaph. sassa. Et fac ex eo sup cūcubulū ymaginē hōis tenet et cū quasi fornix vasis in similitudine fundētis oleum in candelā et mule candelam oleo q̄ nō fuit expressū mū bus et sculpa sup facie ymagis ipsius nom leonij hahel leonij hahel. 2 sup fontina nom isrud rofahel. 2 simile sup can de lam crucibuli 2 coap facie ymaginis q no possit discopiri 2 accende oia crucibuli 2 pign ex tignis potis face ymagme in loco q nlla intely potit ti ansire nec ibi pte n ibi pat

Et eunda hora noctis facienda e ymago ad p sciendu fontu. Isrud testificat est homo alma q fuit ex sapientibz ciquis q eu ingressus fuiss qdam cui tata q notabant flandam pte mea ymagme ista 2 ultra ingressa no fuit mulier in eam in hac hora funde yma gme exera lymphide. 2 scilicet sup facie ymagie h notia nocced. haw. boel. de ad. vases naya. haw. 2 h alia scilicet in qdam folio ois 2 pona in manu yma gmi h notia. s. vagon. xalay. lura
haw. 2 ndaz. natho. jany. 2 scilicet yma gme in medio civitat sine villa ut nlla te videat du h faciens 2 eu hac yma gme potis pte de scipione s. ce tara nocetia de loco // ad fugadu oia reptilia

Et eunda hora noctis facienda e ymago ad p sciendu reptilia nocetia s. be stias malas s. locustas ut vras s. oes ven males in hac hora funde ymagie etiam ad similitudinem reptilis quod voluit fugari et scribere in facie eius hoc nomen vabibus.

vies. vicia. vevov. vevabur. vevamet.
et sepelire ymaginem ubi voluit et omnia dedeis effugabunt sed destinatum villa et locum quod voluit deputat et iunctum.

¶ Vinta hora noctis facienda est ymago ad villam ut locum destinandum quod voluit deputat in et iunctum in hac hora minge tu ipse rectivo rone camelis ut cattis et collige in piano hore et vade ad domum iuncti tui et ista nomen curra aqua et pta domus eius pattadi. palicos. pycatas. pila. gura vos quod cito destruat domum illam et tam-cito factum erit sed diffundendum exequi

¶ Vinta hora noctis facienda est ymago ad diffundendum exequi aggregatum super captum et quibus alium locum et malas nubes et gindmes in hac hora funde ymaginem septibus et rubeo. equaliter mixtusic g. x. libras et sculpe mea et nomen Bavaria. fide. haca. Candava. Cavigla le. ha. Coadunio famal. Alul. bovali.
Aguel. et supra. nafaca. paluo. et suffu-ga ymaginem suffugis et docum et o-mnia super eam vij. nomen septa et sepelieam ymaginem in alio loco et fide in for-84

tūc autē q totū exētibz dissiparet fu-giat & si oportet fuit ad dissipandas nubes speli eam in altiori loco & pmo in mota ville mouet ut loco sciatō & dissiparet nubes & gplebit q qsiens videtis q mirabilia & potēcia creatō ris / ad faciendū fugā inimicōr ut inimicū

¶ Optima hora noctis faciēda ē ymago ad expellendū inimicū a villa de domo in qua moratē in hac hora funda ymaginē exēra rubro & pulpa mēa hac noia. Tartarach. Acuta. Col. Cafia.
Cal. Gualbach. Afah. Andena. Cal. Adia.
Colcafia. bal. machail. Cafia. fal duc. fical. parclay. Cul. machiel. fuscail. Gaul.
yau. atal. patach. Trubael. bauach. cabuel. fahael. pava. pacua. & ita pite ymaginē pulpa noia illi q ymaginē facis & suffūga ymaginē sup dōis suffūgite & pona ea ppe habitationē eī & vetez malinolg fugido d' villa ut domo nō quiescat & pavescat & distine-tur eī sensū totalis / ad gbuuēda nascēcia eī

¶ Optima hora noctis faciēda ē ymago ad gbuuēda nascēcia eī in hac hora funde ymaginem exere vultes et scilicet ta hanc nota agug. tangit. totum. ca

tua. via. natuat. vana. d. Gava. tuat. auxae. futha. nau. Descendat ignis de calis intum q. ~~exeruit~~ ~~to~~ ~~trouat~~ ~~to~~
ti. istu. aduat. ~~q. uat~~. beguayl. al
gayl. ~~cauat~~. et sepeli ymaginem in ter mino ville et in toto rio solui vide n
c. ~~amab~~ adagguegandū apas et colu bas et alias quasq. fues

et tua hora noctis facienda et ymago ad applicandas apas. ad aluamū suū aut colubas ad colubamū suū aut quascūq. alias fues ad locū signatū de longinquis p. t. b. t. m. s. m. c. u. t. u. z. h. a. c. hora funde ymaginem sine de fuis ad
p. o. n. d. o. v. m. s. f. u. u. a. et scilicet ica ista nota cadota. carosa. apab. yaryon. ~~v. u. u. u. u.~~ et veteratuna. ~~ta. ta. ta. ta.~~ et sepeli yma gine in alio loco illi t. m. s. et applicabit illuc omnes fues apas q. erūt in u. t. u. t. u.
loci illi aut coluba ad colubamū suū ubi fuit ymago coluba fca p. m. q. sup
d. m. et ~~f. u. m. l. i. t.~~ et omnes alie fues h. y. m. a. gine facies adota q. volūis p. u. o. c. a. r. e.
ad capiendū fues quas volūis

11

una hora noctis faciēda ē ymago ad pascendas fures q̄plibz adq̄libz locū volūis in hac hora fac ymaginē illarū furiū q̄s volūis pascari & sculpe res ista nōia totarati. tuata. berhan tual. toluyaya. ya. & pone ea q̄ volūis fures applicari & applicabūt // addi p̄u gaudium extitū absidente villa ut ca p̄u

¶ Eadem hora noctis faciēda ē ymago ad dissipandū extitū obsidentē villam ut cap̄u in hac hora funde duas ymagines ex duobz ḡnibz diuersorū metallorū una sit ex aūa rubeo. 2. ex plūbo. 3. de stano.
 4. de nigro. 1. de ferro sit fuit hae duas ymagines in uno corpore & ista ymago h̄eat duo capita vnu leonis valiquū vō thaurū. h̄ns corā f̄pta anteriori & sculpe in t̄pas illis ista nōia horata. taramat. baea. valahera.
 laa. veda. ea effaxa. lylacuala. cal maat. q̄antut. & lacuas. & sculpe in ventrē formā leonis & formā bouis & pone in eis de sepo bouis & de se po colubū & suffūga ymaginē cū eis & sepely eam vbi sedz extitū & cadit & eo talis occisio q̄ p̄i met se occidet & nūq̄ vultat medietas p̄dita sua don dūa

Ad decimam & duodecimam horam noctis nichil per ymagines manu et operando nisi per et per opera. Sic enim dicitur sapienter quod de hac sapientia in quibusdam et ad discere volunt et cum primis scire horas et nomina dierum et in his est tota virtus magistrum et in his perficias opera tua in virtute tua et tunc cum non a benedictione in facta opera

¶ Vando voluit operari ex libere isto ad nomina et opera in tempore suo quod est opus nomine videlicet in quibus opera vni et per hoc percipit quod si fuerit aliquid in transgressio et operantem nullo videret ad effectum et opus

¶ Cum autem aliquid opus per ymagines operari voluit ad faciendum dicitur in hominibus suis seminibus et generibus accipiat tunc dicitur per facies et si de nocte operari fuerit dicitur tunc noctis cum nominibus angelorum mendentium tunc in quod operabaris in nomine prohibende ut locuste grandia et malorum nubium et rei quod tunc videretur et hoc sunt nomina et scribas in primo tunc est nomina angelorum primi tunc. Gattat. Cassa. tunc. Amatyel. Gussatos. et non potest tunc super istos est oia quod et in dicitur tunc Singlyciel et venatyel. Atatyel.

no^o vo suu a nevaspas

noia angeloy secudi epis su^o h^o bau tatal. t^o m^o el. v^o m^o el. a no^o capitis signi. labael

noia angeloy suiantu epis^o su^o h^o ac tanquayl. acantayl. acayl. caabau
ayl. a nom capitis signi calguawach.

noia angeloy suietu
epis^o su^o h^o amabal. t^o m^o el. ac^o a.
ac^o t^o m^o el.

c^o um su^o op^o ai volins. acipe no^o epis
q^o h^o facies a scribe alia noia a signa
s^o q^o su^o op^o a a^o uer^o ad^o eff^o m^o i^o u^o tute a pot^o aia cu^o a^o u^o is cui^o nom a l^o u^o d^o m^o i^o s^o cula o^o a^o m^o

nota de noib^o solis

8^o ita^o a nos o^o a^o doc^o a^o cupi^o d^o t^o s^o s^o u^o i^o a^o s^o a^o y^o m^o a^o g^o m^o a^o a^o noia solis a^o l^o u^o et t^o u^o a^o a^o g^o a^o t^o u^o m^o u^o d^o i^o q^o u^o l^o b^o t^o u^o noia igit^o solis m^o p^o mo t^o u^o a^o a^o b^o u^o a^o y^o n. g^o n^o s^o c^o a^o u^o d^o t^o u^o a^o a^o m^o a^o n^o a^o a^o b^o u^o a^o g^o o^o y. m^o a^o g^o u^o i^o f^o a^o u^o

7^o i^o m^o o t^o u^o a^o solis su^o h^o a^o noia sign^o u^o cui^o s^o u^o i^o d^o s^o a^o m^o u^o a^o g^o a^o m^o.

Temp^o a^o 2^o a^o m^o t^o 2^o a^o o u^o i^o g^o o t^o u^o a^o 3^o su^o h^o lib^o u^o a^o s^o c^o u^o p^o i^o s^o a^o g^o i^o t^o a^o u^o a^o g^o t^o u^o a^o u^o o^o a^o g^o su^o h^o a^o a^o p^o c^o u^o i^o a^o g^o a^o q^o u^o a^o g^o

††††† De noib^o l^o u^o e

7^o primo tpe nō lūa ē lunatulant.
Secūdo tpe alboris. Tercio tpe alladyn.
Quarto tpe sarubara // De noibz celoz

7^o primo tpe celoz ē asaptas. tūm.
Secūdo tpe sumatūssi. Tercio tpe fatyn. Gnaz. Quarto sifate // De noibz tūa

7^o primo tpe tūa nō namodon. Se cūdo tpe fasten. Tercio tabian.
ut wachil. Quarto yemat. ut yane
fla. // De noibz. 2^o ptū mūdi. s. orientis occidentis meridiei. & septentrionis

7^o primo nō 2^o ptū mūdi. s. orientis nūmo
2^o tūm ē Gnandon. 2^o pibdaya. 3^o aldebat. 4^o pedioth. Nome occideth tpe 5^o amana. 6^o tana. 7^o yadadan. Quarto to malchaz. Nome meridiei tpe pmo Gencham. 2^o yafior. 3^o fuzt. Quarto to demov. Nome septentrionis tpe pmo Ganbasut. 2^o Gasson. 3^o Gaptuel. Quarto to yamhov. De aliis 2^o noibz tūa alia noia tūa pmo tūm pmo tpe talyn.
2^o cosmaraz tūm. pydaral. Quarto salybat. ut scas q sūt. 2^o tūa cas q pmo tpe incipit amedio martij & finit imedio junij & mēse aprilis

et maij. sunt in medio et sunt de tpe pmo Secundu tpe incipit a medio iunij et finit in medio septembri et iulius et Augustus sunt in medio et sunt de tpe 2. et tunc tpe incipit a medio septembri et finit in medio decembri et octobri et novembri sunt in medio et sunt de tpe 3. Quatuor tpe incipit a medio decembri et finit in medio maij. et ianuarij et februa rij sunt in medio et sunt de tpe 4. de yma gibus vij. diebus abdo mada

Apertae pthi et experti q. q. posu. ipse libru. confidentes in dco q. est sup. omis deo ordinat. ymages. vij. diebus abdo mada ad faciendu. petitiones et e. scia altissima et honorata et inter sancta et no. gradit. oib. hoib. nisi vis mag ni et profundissimi sancti et intelligat. of cause igit. tibi in illis et pba. et rones vitata. scissima et de ymagine diei do minice

et una ymago et diei dominice forma et ex hmo. ut amicalis et causa et oca et scilicet sup. eam nota. septia et si mal ti ne du. ascensio leois in mense augusti
 aut aprilis et q. sunt nota. angelorum ma

"Dancu leone Raphael. Davidel. vidach.
 fal. Aia ventos p^{re} h^{oc} ut p^{re} h^{oc} q^{ue} mandac leone Bay chan. 2 b^{er} adu^{er} vas cahat. Caudas. yabal. Cu volue ligau^{er} lig^{er} vas fac ymagina i^{er} m^o ho vis noit^{er} q^{ue} tibi g^{er}it 2 alti^{ne}. dea 2 co muna sup^{er} eam p^{re} ista g^{er}it^{er} co^{er}u^{er} vos singeli sigillo solis g^{er}it^{er} Banayza.
 Lyon. Cylon. Banayon. Admyon. Af sueray. Tayuf. Rem. letana. Banpa yanoch. haualyl. omil. Casub. Rubub.
 Caytuh. Catub. 2 p^{re} creatura tali 2 riva
 2 g^{er} p^{re} m^odi 2 ventos q^{ue} s^{un}t m^o celu
 2 t^{er}ram qui est sup^{er} omⁿⁱs de^{us} fortissim^{us} 2 altissim^{us} 2 noⁿ est ali^{us} de^{us} p^{re} est 2 ip^{se} est vas 2 g^{er}it^{er} o^{mn}i^{um} natura^{rum} yat.
 fael. ydaudyel. ycalatafyel. 2 g^{er}u^{er} vos p^{re} h^{oc} noia vasa^{rum} licia. Cassaa. lamubacub. Olot. Elos. Tymchalod.
 ip^{se} est q^{ue} s^{un}t scia^{rum} sacra^{rum}. 2 f^{er}tas.
 yfael. Caudiel. Calacaph. al. labora ta 2 g^{er}it^{er} p^{re} tione^{rum} m^odi 2 op^{er} q^{ue} cupio g^{er}it^{er} of f^{er} Cauda ymago est luna 2 est facienda ex^{er}u^{er} ut ex^{er}ano p^{re} ex^{er}ua^{rum} alba ymago ip^{se} est Adm^o xma^{rum} b^{er}uolaciam 2 g^{er}it^{er} d^{er}am 2 si p^{re} angeli sup^{er} eam d^{er}ant^{er} Galael.

michel samuel. Tu aut voluis facz qd dumz magna bnuolentia fac ymaginē ita 2^a hora diei lue mlti. Cantor in mense julij s^r marti ut in mase pisti
h^c sūt noia vator qⁱ madat sancium halatal. halmital. 2^a hⁱ aduitor sūt Bellomlatu. Abuzaba. 2^a gura supam pistam guraone Comuo vos angeli Abg gmissu 2^a sigⁿ lue Comoha. Lamo ha. zihil. bephaha. Casal. nata. vada.
Comuo vos phonoa dei vt gpleatis hac patione n^r 2^a s^r rem laboratis donec festinet gpleatis. Rogo ta. 6.
8. 2^a 8 qⁱ h^c mea patione adimpleta gfirmata nō remaneat quisqⁱ ea p^rta adimplebit 2^a gfirmabit diuina nobis gassa gura 2^a vto

curia ymago 2^a die martis forma 2^a xv^a rubas 2^a cura rubas die mar tis 2^a hora martis mⁱsis aprilis 2^a de cambis 2^a scas qⁱ h^c ap^r 2^a mⁱtu hono ratu 2^a foute qⁱ voluis istud ap^r 2^a p^rta noia angeloy gmissoy sigillo martis sūt h^c. s. samuel. tanyel. hamalil.
2^a noia vator qⁱ s^ruunt 2^a sup^r hⁱ ha malia. Blisacaha. Ababob. 2^a 2^a 3^a aduitor 2^a Comal. vimal. 2^a 2^a 2^a.
2^a gura p^rta guraone Comuo vos principes angelorum et ventorum et ignis. et fuerunt. dardanus. et hydnus. habent. alar.

nays. et adasia. yavai. fastuach. ysam ciel. ycatel. havamail. noie tabar. cavachar. yadams. yalaz. havab. et dum lucifaltu. bathaquis. dumni houis tourtur. hamah. dana. cadaua. dum caloy et tura n^o et alio deo p^r ipm den salcet. taurat. hatamail. papahamau.
benatt et adiutoribus et q^{uod} faciunt et q^{uod} pla sunt q^{uod} ab ipis postulam si voluit de popula re domi ad saginis fluxu provocare et alio i firmam. et q^{uod} alud dap^m face formam ymaginis exaue vubos et sapely ymagina ux^m et q^{uod} curata et

9 Vanta ymago et dicit et curat et h^{ic} suo noia angelorum ab ipis et am^o g^ostatuit et dicit.
fannet. sapriel. et noia vatoz sunt h^{ic} ma danti. am. s. tobha. et adiutores et dan has. pailas. sambas. forma ymaginis mese guli. aut octobris et plubo sculpe ita noia ista ad sapandos b^onuolentas et p^ontedas imititias m^o et as et g^ouina sic et ista g^ouinatione Comu^o vos angeli p^o no ma et vatoz p^o et q^{uod} n^o et vices ipse m. et vatoz et p^ocepton et d^ois p^otas et m^oma nu sua ut et ipi etia et v^oto m^osupabilis q^{uod} ipa et potens et imitit rex sub cui^o

Aucto^r oia sistut et vivunt Comu^o vos mada
 al. sarquiel. Quiriel. p^{ri}mi ya serie adonay.
 sabaoth. yo yo. d^{omi}n^um calor et tria v^{er}ba p^{ri}mo^{rum} v^{er}bi fortis q^{ui} solo fuit a et v^{er}it Michael. sarquiel. Quiriel. q^{ui} pl^{ur}ez p^{er}i cona^m meam ut v^{er}ba^m adesset

¶ Vm^{er}ta ymago e diei iouis et angeli sup eam ostituti s^{un}t sarquiel. p^{ri}ma. Co stel. assasayel. et h^{ic} s^{un}t v^{er}bi ostituti sup ymagin^e. silitz. sarabab^{er}. halharit et sui adu^{er}sarios s^{un}t. ysa. Enon. asasay. el a dab. et q^{ui} igit^{ur} volu^{is} h^{ic} ap^{er}o^{re} p^{ri}ma forma ymagin^e exa^{re} c^{ir}c^ul^o et exa^{re} c^{ir}c^ul^o et die iouis et itinge eam cu^m v^{ir}idi et fac p^{er} v^{ir}o et p^{er} m^ultas h^{ic} m^o volu^{is} po n^{er}e s^up^{er} iⁿter duos v^{ir}os et m^ultas et m^ult^{as} v^{ir}o et m^ultas s^up^{er} duas ymagines exa^{re} v^{ir}idi m^ult^{as} m^ult^{as}. s. m^ult^{as} p^{ri}ma et m^ult^{as} januar^{is}. iⁿalt^{as} sagittar^{is} et s^up^{er} le nome v^{ir}u^m sup^{er} cor^um ymagis f^{er}me et nomⁱⁿe f^{er}me sup^{er} cor^um m^ult^{as} et d^{ic}t^{ur} q^{ui}nta nome istam d^{omi}n^um de^o omⁿis creat^{ur}u^m v^{ir}u^m visibil^{is} tam in visibil^{is} pone b^unu^mol^{is} et m^ult^{as} et c^{ir}c^ul^o m^ult^{as} m^ult^{as} et filia etis et etis filiu^m etis q^{ui} p^{ri}mo^{rum} m^ult^{as} adam et euan et m^ult^{as} iacob et iachalem et m^ult^{as} m^ult^{as} et galu^m et galu^m et v^{ir}u^m et igne^m et alt^{as} aqueus v^{ir}u^m alt^{as} non nos p̄ eunt eos q̄ cordia magna ⁊ q̄ Admo^m p̄dūsti q̄ cordiam ⁊ angelo cui medietas ⁊ ignea altora nūca ut nix igne nō extinguit nec ignis nūca

q̄ fuit ⁊ tū p̄t inuidiam q̄ cordare facit Ita dñe tua scissima pietas ⁊ m̄az talon filium talis q̄ cordare diligere ⁊ amare cū tali filio talis facias cōiūdo vos an geli nōne yafaa. safaa alleya. hayala.
haya. halix. hayul. acaya. hycoia. safa taba. cōfossol. Rēleptā el dñe de q̄ sas sacra cordū ⁊ es finis ⁊ p̄ncipiū q̄ nūq̄ moriens festina p̄vafiam. Tu p̄ch ⁊ p̄cipe amari ⁊ adiutorib⁹ ei⁹ ut ato faciant ⁊ op̄leant p̄tione m̄ca ⁊ p̄ pali ymaginē m̄loto p̄ q̄ t̄nsat ⁊ vidi bis mirabilia op̄erat dñi

¶ Sexta ymago ē diei venis ⁊ angeli m̄a dantes eam sūt finael. Raquel. saguel ⁊ viti sūt p̄vabores ⁊ ⁊ ⁊ adiutores.
⁊ n̄d̄acas. nasat. nasaa. q̄n de ymaginib⁹ op̄ari volūis fōis illas die venis exca alba mese m̄an in alt^{re} thami ⁊ mese ato bras ⁊ scaba nom vni sup cor ymagis m̄te vis ⁊ nom m̄tevis m̄capite ymagis vni ⁊ supende eas ad stallas ⁊ p̄tita eas cū vūga olūe ⁊ quia eas cū ista q̄n vacante vōta finael. Raquel. Samuel.

90

basahaa. saasa. gnaca adetia. maha
lia. fleu. gnad. alualia. saana. samo
na. ahayua. caitel. havat. aslaty.
saci. yca. yca. dad. dada. p^m q^e cados salba. dnm angeloy z vatoz. heyt.
asseveye. adonay. el. salday. sauaoh. sabaoh. lyast. ady. Gualbuba un^o for tissim^o vno^o p^o fortissim^o de^o al^o z mag no^o exatou^o m^o p^o e^o cu^o p^o m^o n^o e^o alia.
.a. cya. ya. barquissauil. sabguyal.
z p^o ista^o g^ou^oatone^o q^o sup^o vos g^ou^oos et p^o v^out^oat^o. el. venis b^on^o fortuata^o g^ou^oos vos ut b^on^o p^oficiat^o m^o hac mea castem z g^opl^oat^o b^oito mea volutate g^omano vando filiu^o E^ois z E^oi filia E^ois sicut fiabat cor^o aue. p^o amore fide tot^o b^o haycuab. haydas. Canaal. talcoth.
E^oan^o p^o cor^o E^ois filia E^oi p^olo^o g^oden^o p^o ubi cotidie t^onsat^o t^o

[optima ymago e^o diei sabbati cui^o planeta e^o s^oat^o n^o z h^oc ymago e^o m^ot^o tum h^ouata z p^oiosa. sup^o o^oms alias ymagines eo^o q^o s^oat^o n^o q^o m^o septimo calo hac s^ou^oc ymagine m^oadat isti an geli ca^oriel. ahavat^oon. ut m^oat^oat^oon.
sacal. Et v^oeti h^ouic s^ou^oietas sunt hij a^oemmi. aloybain. a^oflas. analuabich.
q^o s^ou^oc volu^ois lig^oat^o lig^ouas p^o balneu

ad molendinum et cantonem ut pone discordiam inter duos diligentes se forma ymaginis ei et sculpa in ea nota dea et porta cam-pam nra cum ea portam civitatis et villa ut domus et sepeli eam in medio ubi volueris et ligabunt omnes ligas hominum loci illius et si volueris pone discordiam inter duos ubi volueris ut inter virtutem et iniquitatem foris duas ymagines de pice clara sit et facies ymaginis unius facies porta et facies y-maginis interioris facies carnis et pone eas ego ad te veni et scribe in cartula verba sequentia verba et pone eam inter costas ymaginis et hec sunt verba que faciunt inter eos ut inter discordiam et iniquitatem ma-luculata petora et cussio capillorum depila-tio subhorrationes et fuga ut nunc unguis alterius possit diligi sed ab invicem sibi terres obviarent et sepeli ymaginem sub porta domus unguis et videbis mirabilia et quia super eas tu ipse generatione veri-tatis et veritatem. Sachaniel. Angeli missi sigillo patris sigillum quoniam hac hora in adventum michi et precipite precibus amorem et aspera. humanitatem. ut deus cito meum opus et mandatum per nomen domini benedicam Albulphal. fidel. ignabon. yada.
yapha. casagaf. hyaaly. smagodyn.

dyman. anazana. salodaya. achym. 9' adyr. alsyday. adartnou. saban. ado
ray. eloyr. alo. gna. cith. kedaye.
alssylayess. agnibova ofan ofacie
tas. angeloy cassie. artan. gar quel. papita me mwa zaffla. z al ualuait. bayr. glader ut idē meam quleant volūtātē pstatā gūvations hūzq sup vos scpsi

4 Un apais volūis acare p tpe sua de die succ de nocta cum noibus angeloy mandantū tpe mē opabens z nom rei z ibi sūt noia sup dēoy an geloy mandantū tpe q scribens dēos mūno tpe z 1. 2. tpe z 1. 3. z. 4. et etiam noia signoy aī sūt ibi iatā mālibz tpe suo z isti sūt angeli carā oīes z meliores sm libit quāz illi q dedit uidet z q vocas pntes. xij.
mensū ut sequit mfa z lo ītoz no minabz z pones istos sup dēos nō q sūt sup dēi angeli sūt noīandi sūt etiam noia dēoy mē opabens sūt gnēt m capitulo q incipit Con pleta sunt vij signa dēoy iā sūt dicta ūdi

n ota q ista sūt pntes angeloy xij.

mensuram qui domant in suis thronis in quinto celo qui habent thronos. 2^o 1^{us} thronus est in parte orientali in quo domant tres angeli qui sunt principes. Secundus thronus est in parte occidentali et ibi domant alii tres angeli et principes. Tertius thronus est in parte septentrionalis et ibi domant tres alii angeli ut infra patet melius declavabitur

¶ Nota quod per unum thronum deserviunt tres menses et unum episcopus ut infra patet. 1^{us} igitur angelus et princeps qui est in primo throno et in parte orienta-li domat primo tempore et mense primo et ipse vocatur Aysanfasyel. et ipse alii principes super dicta habet plures alios ser-vientes ei et obediens ei et imperat ordinare quibus princeps dominus est. et vocandus et nominandus secundum tempus et ordinem suum cum suis servitoribus et ideo iste primus ange-lus concordat cum primo tempore et mense et primo tempore. 2^o et 3^o tempore. 2^o tempore et sic de aliis. 2^o mense regnat et domat princeps

Regiel. cum suis servitoribus
3^o mense regit et domat princeps dyrdac primus tempore cum suis servitoribus

1. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 2. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 3. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 4. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 5. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 6. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 7. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 8. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 9. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 10. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 11. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.
 12. Mese regnat et fuit princeps tamenon.

Ota eia q. sicut princeps mesu suu noi nandi. sic eia noia dieu suu in q. oia uia q. noia suu. pma an die dnta vocat. Hetraton. et. 2. yaphael. tertia Geminiel. 4. gabriel. 5. michael. 6. raphael. 7. saraphiel ut capriel. vsc bitu in sacra scriptura distigwe tra
 2. 9 cordabno scripturis erat ideo qmo distigwenda suu tra 2. 9 gscda et 2^o in q^o ope q^o operare volueris si vis ap^o tūi p^oficere & ut poss^o tua distigueris & g^og^ocaris scias q^o p^ontu tūc tū fuit

2^o tua incipit a medio martij & finit^o in medio iunij & mensis aprilis & maij sūt in medio & sūt de p^omo tpe & sic stien^o ad t^o sig^o

Et tu qui summi grade 3^{es} mansos pup
da. 3^{es} mansos et 204 principes pnt eis adapta et quigi et tu es noiam et in cau q adp^m Ep^o q^r sut pmo tpe ante tali et pmo dno dntali

¶ In ista sua tpe orietur. 3^{es} menses et cor pncipes pnt 2^o tpe adaptari no minari & vocari cu sit dr tpe occidentali & throno occidentali

4. Un etiam. 3^m tpe g^o erat. 3^{es} menses at eor^u principes p^{ri}nc 3^o tpe adaptat^u no minib^u & invocant^u cu^m etia^m suⁿt de 3^o tpe & throno meridionali

4. vñ. 5^m. tpe etia gñat. 3^{es} menses et suos principes pñt 5^m tpe adaptari et nominari et invocari cu sūt de 5^m tpe et dñono sep tationali ad etā sig^m in vñes angelos car tiores et meliores q̄ ip̄s recordari tu. 5^m campibz

Eum volūis gūrdare seu cartham scriba re ut nōia m vocare Dic nōia angeloy man^m tpe & mesi & altitu^m q^d facies opⁱ q^uia eni alti^m mensis a. hysm. & est hysm. & sic de aliis q^d si opⁱat^r fuis ad bos ut ad bos naviabis singulos bonos et si ad malu malos & sic facies totib⁹ q^d voluis opⁱat^r & ita opⁱlebit opⁱtu^m & pbatu. libri doctrina est vera & carita

4 un etiam opⁱat^r ta noia^m noia solis & signoy & lue & taur^m & p^rcl^m gow mudi & cu noia solis sut. gow & g^r sut^r sint tpe / gowdab^m p^rmu cu p^rmo atq^{ue} noia bis & m^r vocalis & p^rmu cu 2^o & 3^o cu 3^o & g^r cu g^r / et cu sint 3^o noia signoy et in q^u tpe facies id & cu sint etia. gow noia lune gowdab^m cu p^rmo & noia bis p^rmu cu p^rmo tpe & p^rmu cu 2^o & 3^o cu 3^o g^r cu g^r / et cu etia sint gow noia etia q^d etiam opⁱat^r ta noia^m facies etia q^d p^rmu noia bis cu p^rmo & p^rmu cu 2^o et 3^o cu 3^o & g^r cu g^r sic habet sup^rg in capitulo dic^r opⁱat^r & ita facies de gow noib⁹ q^d etia sig^r alt^r ibi infi ne dei cap^rmu & etiam opⁱat^r ta noia^m gow p^rmu mudi videlicet orient^r occident^r & meridie & septentrionis & cu q^ulib⁹ istoy heat. gow noia p^rmu tpe suu. p^rmu noia bis & m^r vocalis cu p^rmo p^rmu cu 2^o.

3^o l^o 3^o 2^o l^o 2^o 2^o sic de aliis et fuerit q^d sigillu^m 2^o sig^m diei sebat sui depingatur dies 2^o hora 2^o in qua debes opus tuu^m facere seu in t^{em}pore qua magna virtus 2^o mens q^ue cu^m es op^{er}a buⁿt op^{er}a tua 2^o nomⁱⁿa angelor^{um} regnatu^m in diebus septimane dicenda suⁿt 2^o scilicet que nomⁱⁿa h^{ab}ent nomⁱⁿa top^orib^{us} septimane secunda diem suu^m

Angel^{us} diei d^{omi}nici 2^o Raphael 2^o si op^{er}a fuer^ut iⁿ die d^{omi}nico istu^m nomⁱⁿibus 2^o vocabis et sic de o^{mn}ib^{us} aliis ut quoniam in sup^{er}io^{re} ca pit^{ulo} op^{er}ata 2^o in o^{mn}i igit^{ur} op^{er}e nomⁱⁿibus an gelum diei in quo facies op^{er}a 2^o scribe id
q^uod si fuit iⁿscripto q^uod m^{en}tu^m inu^{en}it ta cu^m pot^{er}it a^ucto^{re}

Et cum etiam p^{ri}ntu^m vii^{us} diebus septimane regnanciu^m nomⁱⁿa subscribat^{ur} seu omⁿes angelos d^{omi}nantes diei q^uod facies op^{er}a sic venit 2^o op^{er}ab^unt voluntate tua regno deb^unt tibi m^{en}tib^{us} q^uod q^uod sic 2^o

2^o 2^o 2^o d^{omi}nico regnat 2^o seruit Baytan rex consiliarios sui suⁿt Carthus Candas Vambal 2^o sic de aliis v^{er}bi inuenies

3^o 2^o 2^o etiam q^uod quilibet dies septimane h^{ab}et suffragium suu^m sibi p^{ro}p^{ri}u^m cu^m q^uod suffragari o3 op9 q facies mea 2 gple bit op9 tu sine dubio suffragu die do minica est assandalis. crocon ut videri ut sibi simile 2 sic de aliis ut ibi de gner 2 etia ibi subseqt in vices qha opa fa cienda debet in quolz die

ota q etia o3 te scribare nota hora 2 die qbz qd hora pfiat opa q facies fina q die hora dicit veyn. In hach na facienda est cautela ad destruendas vices horu 2 mala vicia eoz 2 liguras ligandas 2 sic in vices ibi de aliis horis tam diuinis q nocturnis

ota etiam q tu aliqu op9 a cautela scribere voluis nom hora 2 nom dni hora .i. angeli q ei dnat ut insuat o3 te notare un hē fūt nota angeloz dnat fintu oibz horis diei septiane. Fina em hora diei dnat. xaphaal. 2 sic de aliis q ibi vices q ad idē 2 sic etia a nocte unde nocte diei lune Fina hora dnat pauquiel. 2 sic etia de aliis ut ibi in vices 2 of

ota etiam q sic est de oibz horis supdas ita etiam est 2 intelligere debes qd dam angeli dnat ut insuant horis p dnt 2 planetaz ut insuat meis di em hora solis dnat ut insuat xaphaal 2 sic de aliis ut ibi in vices 2 of ¶ Ora etiam diliget de gaudia q̄ etiam tres d̄ debes facere deorib⁹ sup̄ dictis et quintos eorū et vā etis. Dicit etiam cuilib⁹ planeta cu Angelis suis signa q̄ planeta et d̄ distributa horū Angelorū nom̄a d̄ gaudere et videri nobil⁹ et capitalis sup̄ra scriptis et Ange lo q̄ ḡt̄ in quincunib⁹ eorū dicit ut sup̄ in capitalis de ymaginib⁹ d̄ p̄ ab miserat ad m̄it̄ dicit q̄ d̄ m̄it̄ m̄it̄ sol et Angel⁹ ei⁹ et Raphael ei⁹ q̄ signū et leo et sic d̄ alius ut ibi videris

¶ Omnia p̄dicta oꝝ te seruare q̄ntūq̄ volūis operare s̄m̄ istum librum et reliq̄ deficere non poss̄ q̄ h̄ p̄videt videris quomodo et qualiter habere te debes et op̄tūm
s̄m̄ istum librum facias et nihil dimittas si non vis errare et p̄mo p̄ respice m̄se lunare q̄ m̄sis lunaris d̄ p̄ alij boni sūt alij sunt mali ut habet sup̄ i libris isto et io regula et etis q̄ q̄tūq̄ die sep tiane operare volūis ad quolib⁹ bonū sive malū facere vis attende diligenter q̄ illa dies sit op̄i fiendo respiciendo m̄ sem lunarem ut d̄m̄ et Et si illa dies sit bona et ḡt̄ nō dimittas op̄ tūm de die in die ut differas q̄re q̄ op̄tūm nō veniat ad effectū et fori tan p̄tūtes illud et p̄m̄

A veritas etiam diligitur quod in principio unigenitus quod tui operis debes servare nona quod veritas debuit voluntati tue et sic in nona ex nona creationis cum igitur illa nona altissima no-minanda voluit flexis genibus humiliter in vocabis sic in voce et humiliter supplico vobis
 nona altissima dei ut nos adiuveris rapie et ad optatum ad perficiendum agnas yana yana dei isit. ybat. subat.
 Agnas yana dei isit. ybat. subat.
 gnabas. yemssamon. ha. dora. bairan bairan et

A in voce et appello te capriel. angelus qui est pater dei sep. quod es dies sabbati.
 quod pater laboras et desistas donec totum meum effem et desiderium ad effectum per-ducas Rex mayron assaly. in voce te et appello et tuos adiutores abyma
 lib. et haybaly. dor. et yfla quod pater la-boratis et non desistatis donec totum meum effem et desiderium optineat quos angeli qui presidetis diei sabbati capriel. gataton. sarquiel. i. satiraquiel. et in voce et appello vos ut pater laboretis et non desistatis donec totum meum effem optineatis quod scissima nona dei ag-
 nas. yana. dei. isit. ydar. subat. gnabas. yemssamon. ha. dora. ba viden. Inuoco vos et rogo toto corde et ore ut dignemini me exaudire et ad iuvenciam et totum meum desiderium implere ut valeam videre mille animatos in meo servitio et Cyayn. In una hora dici tuoto te ut adiuvas me ut facias me videre predicos per animatos // et te etiam yan. 03 q est. 2. hora et te etiam 3. hora Basura. et te e-tiam 4. hora sala. et inuoco etiam et appello angelos dominantes predicos horis Raphael. 2. Gabriel. 3. Michael.

4. Gabriel Inuoco etiam factum et angelum capitelem et eius signum et purpuram et aquarum et suum sigillum quod est hoc quod hic pono ut me adiu-

uent et faciant michi apparere predicos spiritus animatos in meo servitio // etiam quod est tua votaria yemat.
ut yandea. inuoto te et appello ut tu adiuvas me et facias apparere predicos per animatos in meo servitio
O nomina angelorum qui seruitis et tunc.
Amabel. Ceyayl. Atvayayl. Inuoco vos et appello ut faciatis michi //

venire pte in forma militu armator in meo servicio d angeli fortas dapa
el. daturaton. fatael. dnvoco vos ut meu desideriu gpleatis p dcor pte vare faciatu p vos ventos Geniu altabayn. fflas. Analualb. veite eya.
dittaton. pthane. ut angeli pmissi sigillo sacm sitis qz in hac hora in ad tutoru mndi p capite pntibz amani p stabam p hactenabit. ut veiant cto meu gple mndatu p nom lnditu abilfaelfiel. anogo dym. dymdon. ana.
ana. saoday. achym. adyid. assiday. f.
daymior. sabat. adonay. cloym. cloe.
gna. dythe. sevedye. assylla. y passus.
agnabova. d societate fuge angeloz cassie. daturaton. fatquiel. p capite me dura p affla p abvalualt. sayp. ala
dey. ut idm mndam gpleatis voluntate
p pta tuz gmnatam hui p gmnatam quaz sup vos feci d comitat nome solis in q tpe m voco te ut tu adiuves ad faciendu vare supdctos pte in for ma militu in servicio meo d noia sig
noy. qti tpe m voco vos ut adiuve tis me q supda pte veiet in meo ser vicio d apvicoing aquavio p piscas d paulaqua nam lune in q tpe rogo te p m voco ut tu adiuves me q fa

etiam vultis super duos fite in forma militum in meo servitio /  et facite nomen coloris in .g. tpe rogo te et in vo-co ut tu adiuves me et facias vultis super duos fite in forma militum in meo servitio /  nota. xpo. tpe mundi oritur medyach maldachaz. Jandia. danoc.
Santatomis. yamhor. vos in vocho et ro-go ut vos adiuvetis me et faciat venire super duos fite in forma militum in servitio meo. Anticipunt experimeta verissima et probata

Anticipunt experimeta verissima et prob-ata pmi adora indaganda que volunt sue pstantia sue pntia sue futura et

Accipe puerum virginem de legitimo thoro et sorores qe tibi placuerint et vadas ad locum servitii et facias circulos .3. cu gladio ad pmi dic in nomine pntis et filii et s. s. / Ad faciendu dic
In nomine individue trinitatis Alpha et Omega et homo / Ad .3. dic ego te facio pallu qui creavit colum et terram mare et oia q meos sunt et finito fac qd vult
qsq. heat gladium suu et no minus. qd gladiis extrahitis et accipe sado tupa dem et pone inferiorem circulu et scelas

nom pūi ad sedem ⁊ bñdic pūm ꝑ hanc bñdictionē cūtuendo ꝑ caput eiꝝ cum gladio dicens / Crux ⁊ totū crux ⁊ qꝫ ꝑ adoro. Crux ⁊ ē vera salus crux ⁊ soluit vinculū mortis crux ⁊ ē invictibilis ꝑ suā crux ⁊ ē mobile sigm. Crux ⁊ super oē malū ⁊ dat ꝑ gladiū tenens ad manꝝ ⁊ fac illi cūcta adfrontē dicendo Crux scā ꝑficat te ⁊ om̃s orōnes ꝑcedētū bñdicat te ⁊ fac pūm sedere ad sedem ⁊ vadae sibi ungūē cū cultello ⁊ unge sibi ung
uem cū oleo olive ⁊ tūc bñdicas ꝑcos tuos ꝑ vñū ꝑost aliu ⁊ te ipm cū ꝑdca bñdicas sicut tu pūm bñdixisti ⁊ facias eos sedere vñū ꝑost aliu ad m̃feriōrē cūctū ⁊ da vñūqꝫ gladiū suū tenens ad manū ⁊ facias eos h̃re silentiū ⁊ fac pūm claudere oculos ⁊ bñdic pūm ⁊ te ipm ⁊ om̃s ꝑcos tuos ꝑ m̃ctu sancti ⁊ evangelij ꝑm iohāne ꝑ ꝑncipio erat vñū ⁊ vñū erat ꝑ ꝑꝑt deū ⁊ qꝫ finī to fac pūm ꝑ ꝑicāre ungūē qꝫqꝫ ꝑ vñūqꝫ ⁊ ipa gūnta vñūqꝫ ꝑ ꝑꝑt.
archiomo. ꝑꝑt. vñalchim. althes ꝑ ꝑnta.
fabar. thobār. cōmes. falsmes. diles.
dilia. dies. anarīs. cōmō vos demo nē ꝑ ꝑntatos ꝑ h̃c nōia scā an. ton.

80n. von. Ap. galap. i. calens. timel.
ut etissima iam nllam requie hēat nec
m̄ calo n̄ sub calo n̄ m̄ t̄ra n̄ sub t̄ra n̄ m̄ pluuiis n̄ m̄ ventis n̄ m̄ nubibz n̄ ias vibz n̄ m̄ ignibz n̄ m̄ aquis n̄ m̄ flubz.
n̄ m̄ arboribz n̄ m̄ pomis n̄ m̄ aliis quibz locis nisi fuit ēū fuito ip̄o p̄uo oñdant vñ vñm ip̄i p̄u v̄gineī oleo linito cūscē clauā scuē tanta lati^{nis}. Appareat ut possit qui dant viderē m̄ eo fuit & fuitū fcm nolūe Ab̄latū & locū ubi adhuc iat & q̄cūq; tū ip̄o fuito actū & tunc sibyla tē ad p̄mū
dic. dñe x̄p̄i x̄p̄i ad p̄mū dic. dñe fortis ad 3^m dic. p̄tas. Hoc fuito dic. quiddam Cōmū vos p̄ncipes dñi dēmoniorū p̄ncipū belzebub. Bevit. fornicator. t̄ptator & sductor. possessor. hōi^m nathans. Albz p̄cipio vob ut vñm vñm m̄ forma nigr̄ ve niet ut ip̄e p̄u p̄t ēū euidant viderē
m̄ sua ungve. h̄c fuito quas ap̄uo si vidz latitudinē & altitudinē m̄ suo ungve si hō dimittas formam nigr̄am & incipit
p̄dcem quiddamē usq; q̄ videbit tūc facias vñm sicut p̄us p̄m & p̄cipias ip̄is p̄ h̄c nōia. al. aloy. alyon. Aloe.
sapph. sathy. emanuel. tetragmaton.
saday. ludamay. sathanatos. yfos. byrie.
p̄mogenitū vitā. finis. via. flos. fons. ve

98 vitas. sap. vultus patris e. sum q. su. de diator. agn. d. vultus. solus. h. a. s.
200. 08. v. i. a. u. a. y. m. a. g. o. g. l. i. a. l. u. x. p. l. plend. lapis angularis. p. o. n. s. p. a. p. t. o. v.
p. h. a. s. a. c. a. v. d. o. s. i. m. o. u. t. a. l. i. s. l. e. x. i. l. e. x. x.
p. r. i. s. t. o. s. f. i. l. i. u. s. f. i. l. i. a. p. e. t. e. r. n. i. t. a. s. n. e. o. n.
b. u. n. o. n. p. a. u. l. i. c. a. o. n. f. l. e. p. t. o. n. a. l. p. h. a. z
o. i. p. o. t. e. n. s. i. n. f. i. n. i. t. o. n. s. c. a. r. i. t. a. s. e. t.
n. u. s. c. r. e. a. t. o. r. z. r. e. d. e. p. t. o. r. p. r. i. m. u. s. z. n. o. v. i. s.
s. i. m. u. s. d. a. t. o. r. z. r. e. c. e. p. t. o. r. h. y. o. s. o. t. h. e. o. s.
y. s. t. h. y. i. o. s. e. t. e. d. e. q. f. o. u. n. t. i. s. z. p. a. t. i. e. n. s.
i. u. s. t. i. s. i. n. d. e. x. q. u. i. u. l. t. i. o. d. i. e. p. i. s. t. a. l. x. x. i. j.
n. o. m. i. n. e. x. p. i. p. r. i. p. l. o. v. o. b. v. t. i. n. d. i. s. i. t. i. s. o. b. e. d. i.
a. n. t. e. s. z. i. s. t. o. p. r. i. o. v. i. r. g. i. n. e. o. d. e. q. u. a. v. e. z.
d. e. q. u. a. i. n. t. r. o. g. a. t. i. o. e. q. f. i. n. i. t. a. r. e. t. i. a. t. i. s.
q. v. i. n. e. i. n. t. e. r. z. d. i. c. a. t. i. s. h. c. f. i. n. i. t. a. q.
v. a. s. s. i. v. i. d. e. t. d. e. m. o. n. e. s. a. l. t. a. n. t. e. z. g. a. u. d. e.
t. a. m. t. u. c. d. i. c. s. a. d. p. u. e. r. z. f. a. c. i. a. s. s. o. s. c. i. o. s.
t. u. o. s. s. i. m. i. l. l. o. q. u. i. q. p. u. e. r. n. o. h. e. a. t. t. i. m. o.
v. e. h. c. f. i. n. i. t. o. i. n. c. i. p. e. q. u. i. v. a. v. e. z. f. a. c. i. s. t. u.
v. a. c. a. d. e. n. s. z. f. u. r. v. e. t. a. f. u. r. t. o. i. n. d. e. c. o. m.
v. o. v. o. s. p. r. o. d. i. c. a. t. o. s. d. e. m. o. n. e. s. p. i. s. t. u. q.
c. r. e. a. v. i. t. c. e. l. u. z. t. e. r. r. a. z. o. i. a. q. m. e. i. s. s. u. t.
z. p. i. s. t. u. q. n. o. s. z. v. o. s. c. r. e. a. v. i. t. z. n. o. s. i. e.
d. e. m. i. t. e. a. s. u. o. p. r. o. p. r. i. o. s. a. g. n. e. z. p. i. s. t. u. q.
v. e. t. u. r. i. s. e. s. t. p. r. o. p. r. i. o. z. f. i. n. i. t. a. s. s. i. t. a. p. r. o. p. r. i. o.
o. b. e. d. i. e. n. t. i. a. z. p. c. o. r. p. o. r. d. i. n. i. t. u. s. x. p. i. q.
h. o. d. i. e. z. c. o. t. i. d. i. e. c. e. l. e. b. r. a. t. p. r. o. p. r. i. o. p. r. i. o.
m. u. n. d. u. z. p. r. o. p. r. i. o. t. r. i. n. i. t. a. t. e. p. d. e. i. t. a. t. e. m.

phue nite p deu vnu p deu vnu p deu scm deu oipotentia p scm mariam mrg dm nri ihu xpi p eis vnicu filiu p timentu die iudicii p resurrectione omnium mortu orum ut recedas p fura cu furo loco tui ad ducas ut ista pueri elider passit videre fura cu furo n no dicas aliam quidacione et Comis vos pnotatos demo nas psmuicacione dm nri ihu xpi p sacru reuerentia dm nri i. x. p bap^m d. n. i. x. p t^m ca^m d. n. i. x. p passioe d. n. i. x. p milia sex vltia d. n. i. x. p centu sex vltia d. n. i. x.
p quicquid sex vltia d. n. i. x. p aliis de capite usq ad plantas p pincem corona q in capite dm n. i. x. posu^t et genia flec cabat illudabat sibi dicentes que rex iude or p suu dme p flapas qd xpm cade bant et p 3^{as} clavos plantam q sacru corpo d. n. i. x. p foveat et du genio exi uit sanguis et aqua p amissionem sue scitatis
d. n. i. x. p mundu tuu qmado p m mru per auxietate q bta virgo maria m dm no p m i. x. hnt du vidit filiu ei p dera m cruce d. flecta ramos subor alta et n sm p qm^m qd ex. q. i. i. s. alpha. et o. de^m et homo fctus Comis vos pnotatos de monas p omes scos angelos cherubos et dnaciones pncipat^m pccatas. virtutes caloz cherubim et seraphim q no cessat clamaris dicens scus scs scs et p vnta

d. n. i. x. s. apt nos hoies descendit de ca lis et nato a ex maria virgine sub pon to pylato passus est et p. 3. angelos salut Archael. gabriel. xaphael. et p dñicam oratione. s. pñ mñ p. vij. candelabra que in manibz angeloy adonifaz p. 404 mñ cula. deo in platita. q. sicut sub xana et et finito quas apud si vidz si no te dic hanc gñvacione comis vos p noiet demonas p. 8. ewan. lucā. marcu. Ma
thē. iohē. p. 8. smoes. p. xij. aplos p. 3. magos. s. capan. balthasar. Melchior.
p. iudhas. p. ias. p. martures et ofeso res et p omes papes romanos et omes virgines et viduas et p omes episcopos et p omes abbatas p omes priores p omes
p. iotos p omes archidiaconos. et p omes de canos p omes monachos p omes moiales
p omes sacerdotes p omes dyaconos et sub dyaconos p omes scos dei p mñta omñm scor. p omes pñm xanor et p omes scos
q. sūt mēlo et mēia et p cantu et xliiij.
mñia innotu q. no sūt loqtes loqui
in puericia. passi sūt suplia p omes bened salomonis p sapiam suam p oia expm ta virgilij p calu et tñam p mñia p oia q. mēis sūt p omes cesares pos

Reges p[ro]p[ri]os p[ri]ncipes p[ro]comites p[ro]p[ri]os milites p[ro]p[ri]os cleros. h[ec] finito q[uo]d si videris fuisse cu[m] fuisse et si videris ad fine[m] et t[er]re p[ro]p[ri]o vnguem t[er]re tua[m] et accipias vngla[m] d[omi]ni et b[e]n[e]dicas p[ro]p[ri]um t[er]re m[on]i faciendo t[er]re cu[m] gladio ad. q[uo]d p[ro]p[ri]os conp[ro]p[ri]os sui d[omi]ni d[omi]ni filio p[ro]p[ri]os sui cu[m] p[ro]dierit t[er]re. et fac p[ro]p[ri]os gladiu[m] v[er]ba p[ro]p[ri]os sui et g[e]n[er]a d[omi]ni d[omi]ni oib[us] sociis tuis ita facias et tibi anticipat p[ro]p[ri]os bonu[m] et p[ro]p[ri]os

anticipat p[ro]p[ri]os bonu[m] et p[ro]p[ri]os

1. capere pum vuy. delegatio dno et fac
 2. circulos ad pum circulu dno in noia
 3. et fac et f. f. ad pum dno pum celi et natiat
 4. ad 3. dno dno tuu regi da. post h. fac
 5. pedem pedem quatuor et sub pum
 6. nome pum et sub pedibus pum scriba
 7. hoc nome tunc agnamaton et ponant de
 8. sup duo lapides ne pum tangat nome
 9. pedibus postea scriba in manubrio cultelli
 10. et nom pum et h. noia istach. hoaz. aba
 11. ys. pascich. et in pollice scriba alpha et o.
 12. Deinde vade ungua dextri pollicis cum
 13. cultello cum manubrio sit sem de cornu
 14. nigro ut albo. Deinde dic Dna pum pum et
 15. postea fac cruce et h. mo in fronte
 16. pum dicens tu es alpha et o. fac vum
 17. dicens pum v. pum. h. et e creatura tua
 18. in noia et f. et f. et f. et dic dno ihu fili dei.
 19. vum et nobis pum de synu pum de
 20. scandisti ad terram unde nob vum ante
 21. Deinde susurra pum ad hunc dexteram
 22. sachan. belzebub. astaroth. Beelith. Az
 23. vum. rotunda. h. dic tu Deinde mtra
 24. circulos et pone ta et fac pum et tunc
 25. lineas ungua pum vasum tu oleo oliva
 26. et da pum cultellu ad manu et dic albo.
 27. Sa fuit. bos. zelates. vum. vom. Hor
 28. mvo. chitodene. Gemitas. Gana. vum
 29. sus. phawachta. foliach. Gebach. dyng.

vñ. vñ. p. eam. fabat. gabat.
 Tyros. vñ. A. uba. Azachi. Comulos
 p. natos demones p. vñ. f. f. f.
 p. dñ. o. p. o. t. a. p. i. h. m. x. p. m. filii ei. p. p. v.
 t. u. m. t. a. t. a. i. l. l. u. s. p. i. p. a. m. p. u. i. d. e. n. t. i. a. q. d. d. e. o.
 m. m. e. t. a. h. u. i. t. p. u. s. q. m. u. n. d. o. f. i. a. u. e. r. b. l. e.
 d. i. a. t. i. s. i. m. p. i. o. m. e. o. n. o. n. p. u. i. t. a. t. e. m. e. a. s. z.
 p. u. i. t. a. t. e. m. m. a. g. e. s. t. a. t. i. s. o. p. o. t. a. t. i. s. d. e. i.
 C. o. m. u. s. z. g. r. a. s. t. o. r. v. o. s. d. e. m. o. n. e. s. p. s. a. p. i. a. z.
 e. t. n. i. t. a. t. i. s. d. e. i. q. c. a. l. u. s. s. u. p. p. a. r. a. f. a. c. i. t. t. e. r. r. a. m.
 s. u. n. t. d. e. o. r. u. m. f. u. n. d. a. m. t. z. p. f. o. r.
 e. t. c. o. r. q. s. m. o. r. u. m. m. u. n. d. i. q. n. e. x. t. z. p. u. i. d. e. n. t. i. a.
 q. d. d. e. u. s. l. u. c. a. m. p. a. t. e. n. e. b. u. s. p. a. p. a. u. i. t. z. v. i. t. u. m.
 q. d. c. r. e. a. u. i. t. p. u. t. s. u. b. e. z. m. a. g. i. s. t. r. u. s. s. i. m. i. l. i. s.
 g. i. s. t. r. u. s. v. o. s. p. a. s. t. a. u. d. i. t. v. o. s. g. e. s. s. a. u. n. g. u. e.
 h. u. i. p. u. i. A. d. e. o. l. i. m. i. t. u. c. r. e. s. c. e. r. e. z. d. e. u. s.
 p. a. t. i. a. s. z. p. a. t. i. e. n. t. i. a. l. a. t. i. z. u. t. s. i. p. p. a. r. e.
 v. e. p. o. s. s. i. t. e. i. u. d. e. n. t. z. v. i. d. e. n. t. m. e. o. f. u. i. t. z.
 f. u. i. t. u. m. n. o. b. s. a. b. l. a. t. u. z. i. n. l. o. c. u. d. e. q. a. b. l. a. t. u. z.
 z. i. n. q. l. o. c. u. t. r. a. n. s. l. a. t. u. z. z. v. b. i. s. a. d. h. u. c. p. o. s. t. e. r. t.
 z. q. d. q. d. e. x. i. p. o. f. u. i. t. u. s. a. c. t. u. z. z. c. o. n. s. a. d. m. i. s. v. o. s.
 p. n. o. i. a. t. o. s. d. e. m. o. n. e. s. p. u. b. l. i. c. u. m. d. e. i. q. c. a. l. u. m.
 z. t. r. a. m. c. r. e. a. u. i. t. z. h. e. r. b. a. m. v. i. u. e. t. e. m. e. a.
 g. n. e. s. u. o. s. o. l. e. m. z. l. u. n. a. m. z. s. t. a. l. l. a. s. i. s. i. g. n. a. z.
 t. p. a. f. u. l. g. u. r. a. z. t. u. n. i. t. u. r. a. v. o. c. e. s. z. o. i. a.
 q. u. a. n. t. u. m. s. u. n. t. i. n. t. e. r. i. u. s. m. a. n. u. s. z. i. n. f. i. n. o. v. t.
 s. u. n. t. z. z. q. d. q. d. e. q. u. i. u. s. v. o. s. p. n. o. i. a. t. o. s. d. e. m. o.
 n. e. s. p. a. n. n. u. n. t. i. a. t. o. r. u. m. p. n. a. t. u. r. a. t. a. p. a. u. t. u.
 c. i. s. i. o. n. e. p. b. a. p. t. i. s. t. i. z. p. o. i. a. q. f. a. c. i. t. t. h. e.
 i. n. c. h. o. r. a. g. a. l. i. l. e. e. q. u. i. q. u. a. r. t. i. t. s. i. q. d. z. v. i. n. u.

ut fite of fte quibus vos pnoiatos demo nes p reuunū xpi 2 p ipū gressum qm in monte oliueti ascendere voluit adorandu ptem dicendo. pū si fieri pē transeat a me calice ipse 2 p sudo rē sagneu ihu x' qui de suo corpore ena nauit p mot pēonibz 2 p oia fūthana rector p sagneas guttas sudoris x'
 p solem obfcuratū p lunā quādam in sagno 2 terribilem clamore x' pē dentis iligno crucis p suplitū mortis 2 p ommissione sui scissim pte 2 p ipam unitatē q velū tēpli cūsum est 2 igna mta apta sūt pmissū sac septem 2 p virtute dei 2 p diffors dīne cūdi nationis 2 p ipm dūm nūm ihu xpm q adorandū crucifixū passū 2 sepul tum credimz 2 scimz resurrexisse 2 celos ascendisse q fitem ut fite 2 f of Comis vos pnoiatos demones p oia lū 2 tūm. mēu 2 oia q mēis sunt 2 p oia q occludūt q ptes mudi 2 p spacia 2 volatilia. cali bipedia. tripe
 dia. quadripedia 2 p oia aēas pote states ut fite ut sup. fte quibus vos pnoiatos demones p angelos 2 fūth angelos p thronos 2 dīnates pnci patz 2 pates p virtutes celoz p oia cherubim 2 seraphim 2 p dūm officū miserationis 2 p eos q q sūt 2 p oia

q̄ subiecta sunt oī potatī deo ut p̄ ipm oī potatī deū qui ex nichilo creauit tur ta ad laudē & ad gl̄iam nōis sui fecit ut f̄r̄ta & cōmū vos p̄nōiatos demō nes p̄. v. secula & vij. etates mūdi & p̄ tūmēdū diem iudiciij & p̄ lxxij nōia xp̄i p̄ etatē & claritatē xp̄i q̄ hūit
p̄us q̄ mūdo fieret & p̄ centū & xlviij.
milia m̄ notatū sū deū asstantē & p̄ ōis ordines eccl̄asticos ut f̄r̄ta & cō mū vos p̄nōiatos demones p̄ coe tūā sapiām dei q̄ de hōis creauit cū non esset & adit ad ymaginē & simi litudinē suā formauit ut f̄r̄ta cōm ū vos p̄nōiatos demones p̄ sc̄ssimā nōia x̄. thessyas. socher. emanuel. saba
oth. adonay. panthōn. panthōthōn eloy.
thcos. hō. visio. saluator. alpha & o p̄mō & nouissimō p̄mō gēitō. p̄ntē & finis v̄a. veritas & sap̄. v̄itō. p̄aditō ego sum.
q̄ sū. q̄es. mediator. agnō. ouis. f̄r̄es.
vitulō. sp̄ens. & dū. v̄bū ymago gl̄ia.
gūa. salus. lux. sal. pax. plenitudo. panis.
fons. vitis. pastor. p̄pheta. sp̄s iūu talie. rex. p̄. oīp̄s. misericors. et̄nā.
sūmū bonū. trinitas. unitas p̄. al eloy. eloe. eleon. eadāy. eymator.
tu. ye. ye. p̄ncips patris. enstiel.

spue. timor. pietas. tu. unitas unita
 tis. tua deitas ut fuita 2d Comu vos pnoiatos demones p fidem pphay pcoma pphaythay p digtate xxiii^m f nioy 2 p symbolu aptoy 2 p passionem scissoy mium p passionem pphay 9 fessoy
 2 p gthentia pphay uirgina ac uirgine
 2 p omis scos 2 electos dei 2 p q. a. u. a. u. gelistas 2 cor ewan^a ut fuita. of Comi us vos pnoiatos demones p saluta oim scos uimoy 2 mortuoy 2 p sca sacrificia pcedotu 2 p omis dnos orones scos 2 p oia corpa scos dei 2 p cor fias istatu salutis etne ut fuita 2d Si puer no vi dat ad te dicas. jappan. balthasar. ofeldi
 ou. smoagel. emanuel. 2 des fontis la depcon ut unguia n. efficiat lata 2 eu scat 2 clarescat Ad qm quidam debet opans puer mtrageat si unguis eue scat si no uapeta eade quita. jappan 2d donc uideat crescat lata 2 magna qusq sufficiat Quare apuo si aliquid uideat uideat dit stat sub ungue hanc quidam lytim. cu tuis subditis yguim. andyvon. vamps. ytelheos. zymens. bylent.
 baryth. p apio uol de p oipote deu vi uum 2 um 2 p tres magos jappan. bal thasar. ofeldiou. ut ueratis ubitay si eis ad uisionem istu pueri. d. vis in ppe humana 2 in spe istoy q h. fuita pphay

venit. quere apud si aliquid videat si ne repetat eadem. o. lyt my. don. appent apis aut appentibus die hanc quivatio pripio vobis demones p. unitate et iper abula unitate q. fca fuit sup ipm iorda nis flume i colube ppetie q. vos ondatie et dicitis hinc p. no. n. ubi acceptu ut v edictu sit hoc fuitu et inq loco adhuc v stat si adhuc no p. det. dit hac quivatio Comus vos demones et pripio vob p. nom naamay. sy. qui syrum delepua munda vit et danieli delectu leonu libertavit et
3. p. nos decimo ignis illesos abire fuit q. vob det fuit. Hinc p. no. n. au didit vobendi et videndi. post quivatio fca fac p. no claudere oculos et purga sibi ungua et fac cuncta sup eu an eu va tuo eu et fctipe sibi cultellu demani.
postea bndic te et ipm et dele. cultellu et exeat sacra eu eo. s. p. no Tu at vis exire cultellu die pax ipi sit nob et vob et ut reges vadit ad p. regna et die tu vos itay vola vocatio sitis p. at obedire mthi ho vob pripio petatu et vinu deu q. m. curat pass et exlat et exuit sagis et aqua insup pripio
p. hostia scilicet p. hostia pura p. hostia mna culata q. et huc xpi ut cito mthi et viciat et oia voluntate mea adimpleatis. Amen et

In nomine patris et filii et spiritus sancti amen
 Deus tuum regna da.

Septimum unum de punctu et abatu

A outu solis fac. 3^{es} circulos et circos immediatos circulo et fac tibi pon viginti sedem tripodem de quatuor et cultellu cu manubrio albo et limbo cu oleo olivae h^c fecit scribere disim h^c nota xxiii^o nota sut. 8^o lras. ut lapides par latos et 3^{es} lras. p^o subto sedem et una subto pedem p^o et p^o oia nota subscpta scribe sup una lram q pones sup caput pueri. h^c fco tolle pueru ad cultor et loca pueri sup sedem et vertas sibi facie grua oriente et scilicet pno ambar unguas pollicis et pone sibi unu pollicem sup aliu et scribe sup manubrium nome puerum et asaroth. et des pno cultellu ad manigita q cultello sit sub polli

cis. h^c fco unge pno ungues supioris cu oleo olina admodu cruciatu et pte etia ut illitis et distictis apperatis qn ga istu pueru. Tu vo sede sup sede qle cu q volins et tu tene pueru ut gama et dic ut diliger in ppiat ad ungues h^c fco caueas ne aliquas operaciones has sextis et sabbatis didis et q sunt noia q scribi debet qn noie pgeneri. futimo.
possut. thomopet. utany. vocanes.
fili. fibos. fibz. bewuth. gadchich. pue
tas. vltam. panyta. farp. farp. farp.
cubar. crutines. tyuygal. dyvuis.
foumys. fambusalk bewuth gadpamas et nape conuocationem et on uro vos demones p p et f et s et p in canuacione dñi nri ihu x
p bap^m xpi p uim xpi p morte xpi passione xpi p resurrexione xpi p ad ascensione p aduatu pto pto pto pto tremendum die iudicii in quo omnes etiam dampnandi ut appareatis in unguine ipsius iuxta. A. in specie fuisse ut fuit qui uenit et uos ipse hodie. A. Accipit Absque oide exceptione appareat sicut et misisti. Eino gani. thomo. byton. Scugidre. pulmzeis.

 tuq. as alpha et o fac um dice hunc
 pum. A. unigeni q. a creatura tua q. p. g. et dnc. et uenit iudicium tuum q. n. c. uito tuo
 dnc. lu. n. et no deficiet. nichil occultu
 q. no reuelet et cooptu q. no sciat uo gna ihu xps fili dei uiui q. p. nos pec catores de sinu patris descendisti ad terra onde nob. tua et uita tua huius uai abgach. samfueris. Salentis. unigeni. utimo.
 Camittat dydones. Rayma. Rosanes. panyta. fabach. Gallach. dyuis. fyuis unyue. Fmbz. fwaach.
 Omnes uos p. n. o. i. a. t. o. s. d. e. m. o. n. e. s. p. p. a. f. et s. f. et deu oipotete ihu xpm filiu
 ei. unigenitu et p. d. e. i. t. a. t. e. i. p. i. o. et p. i. p. a. m.
 p. u. d. e. n. t. i. a. q. d. e. g. h. u. i. t. p. u. s. q. m. u. n. d. u. s. fieret ut obediat impio meo. Com uo uos p. n. o. i. a. t. o. s. d. e. m. o. n. e. s. p. s. a. p. i. a. m.
 dei. q. d. e. g. c. a. l. u. s. u. n. s. u. p. a. u. e. f. a. c. i. t. et t. o.
 u. a. m. d. e. o. u. s. u. m. f. u. n. d. a. u. i. t. et m. a. n. u. s. i. t. e. r.
 m. i. n. o. s. u. o. c. o. l. l. o. c. a. u. i. t. et p. u. i. u. i. t. a. q. u. a.
 d. e. g. g. f. u. i. t. a. t. o. r. u. m. i. o. p. u. m. u. n. d. i. g. u. i. t. et p. e. i.

sapientiam dei qua deus luce et tenebras creavit et diem ac noctem adunavit ut sciret et magister et magister vobis et f. caroth. vobis quod scire sunt ut faciatis vnguentum istud pueri et oleo limitum crescere et clarescere et tunc latitudinis operante quod evidenter ista pu
er. H. in eo videre possit fuisse ut fuisse et fuisse fuisse not. ablatum et in locum de quo ablatum est et locum in quo deperdit et locum in quo adhuc latet et quod cum ipso fuisse est ut hinc revelat se quibus vos pernotatos demones per ma gistrum vobis f. caroth. ut operaretis in forma fuisse et fuisse et quod cum h. fuisse to fuisse est ad notam f. caroth. noticiam per vnguentum et quibus vos pernotatos demo nes per illud quod facit celum et terram et herba virentem in genere suo sol et luna et stellas celi signa et tempora fulgura et tuni tus et voces et omnia quecumque terra induit in inferno sunt ut sciret et per f. caroth.
vos pernotatos demones per ieiunium domini nostri ihesu christi et per illud quod facit ad mortem oli veti ad operandum puerum per si fieri potest transfuit sine calice ista ut sciret et dominus vos pernotatos demones et
v. vultus domini nostri ihesu christi et fixus est

105 uox et plantae et clauus et b[e]n[e]dictio et d[omi]n[u]s d[omi]n[u]s p[ro]n[un]ciatos demones p[ro]ia q[uod] g[e]ludat. et p[ro]tas m[un]di et p[ro]u etates m[un]di et p[ro]ia a[n]i[m]a q[uod] sub celo sunt et p[ro]p[ri]etate et volatilia bipedia et p[ro]ia quadrupedia et p[ro]ia a[n]i[m]as p[ro]tas ut fuit et d[omi]n[u]s uos p[ro]n[un]ciatos tos demones p[ro] toll'antia p[ro]ince co[n]tra ne q[uod] sustinuit d[omi]n[u]s suo capite et p[ro] culu[m] q[uod] potat et t[er]re felle et f[er]ro et d[omi]n[u]s uos p[ro]n[un]ciatos demones p[ro] angulos et fuit angelos thronos et d[omi]n[u]s a[n]i[m]as p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]tas uirtutes celo[r]um cherubim et seraphim et p[ro] d[omi]n[u]m sac[ri]ficu[m] et officiu[m] m[un]da[n]o et p[ro]cos q[uod] p[ro]sunt aliis et p[ro]ia q[uod] sunt deo subiecta et p[ro] d[omi]n[u]m o[mn]i[u]m tante et p[ro] d[omi]n[u]m q[uod] ex nihilo o[mn]ia creauit ad laudem et ad gl[ori]am sui no[m]i[n]is ac mage satisfacit ut fuit et d[omi]n[u]s uos p[ro] n[un]ciatos demones p[ro] coeterna sapientia q[uod] deo h[ab]eat creauit cu[m] no[n] dat g[e]ludat ad ymaginē et similitudines sua ut fuit et et d[omi]n[u]s uos p[ro]n[un]ciatos demones p[ro] fide et p[ro]ia p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro] dignitate et p[ro]ia p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate
et p[ro]ia p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate
et p[ro]ia p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate
et p[ro]ia p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate p[ro]p[ri]etate

et plattu sci solus ewa cu viderunt ihm xpm in cruce de pnatu et p solis observationem et una vsem isagrie insignia tñsada fil dei et p tñadu die iudicii i q os est dampnadi ut apparet i vngue isagrie. N. i pñ furpat fuit ut iam ut vas isagrie. N. accepit ad nra hñ fñat pñave ut fñat et fñito expñito die hñt vsem pñage salua bñdic scifici pñtutur dñtis gñm morbos fñta corpus et hñ. hoc et sigñ nñm stat pñadu fñm. pñat hñc sigñ defendat nos ihc xpc fñm.

pñat dñs

secundu ubi thesauri sit absconditu p'mu est
q' op'z hoies q'fiteri generalit' p'tea sua Iuna crescentia videlicet die dnico sole exi sta in leone demana z cu ap'ma sunt vexis aperiga te aqua lincta dicens antiphona appas me d'ne yfopo z tom cu glia p'm. Postea vade ad crucifixum z dic coram eo q' miserere mei deo to' p' r'ap'itudo crucifix' cu oi deuotione z cu h'c dixis tunc dic deuotissime corde z otto. O. vabi vabi rex me' z de' me' Ac d'ne d'natu q' q'ditor es uniu'so' z exaudi o'z mei miserere z indige cre atura z redemptiois tue in hac hora z
p' z indign' clamor me' ad te p'ueniat hoc dicto vade ad domu tua z camera tuam op'ia nudata z vsq' uicta dic hanc orone deuotissime q' potas.

oriens beigne manore p' nudi cali t'ia
q' sator e'us nuda dia tam celestia quon' t'ia p'uide fca sut q'fina in telleu meu in hoc ope p'tui regni d'ni nu q' nuq' d'mittitur. vage z p'ue me in hac mea supplicatioe z p'cor te p'tuos vagas q' tangit z p'ngit sanat z q'fumat z p'as vagias tuas p'tates p'sotuem.
sol' t'fan ut in nocte sepi ueniat ad me in sopnis. ha'eam. p'te beigne z iflamet cor meu z m'ete mea ut sciam thesauru invenit si aliquis est in p[ro]p[ri]etate ista ut in aliis et ducat me et signum ibi faciat ut agno scam v[er]um et ip[s]am v[er]itatem p[ro]p[ri]am solum s[an]c[t]i simu[m] et p[re]c[us]tissimu[m] thesauru[m] nitidissimu[m] candidu[m] et fulgentissimu[m] q[uo]d mittit tua excellencia et veniunt tua malicia et be nigna p[re]s[ent]ia et p[ro]p[ri]os dig[ito]s tuos et regi mina vocoru[m] et g[ra]t[ia]m v[er]i m[er]iti p[ro]p[ri]i v[er]i v[er]itatis et s[an]c[t]is m[er]itis dignis hac nocte ut m[er]iti v[er]itatis thesauru[m] absca ditu[m] h[ic] fiat v[er]i v[er]itatis et g[ra]t[ia]m flexi bilitate o[mn]i[n]e t[em]p[or]e dicas d[omi]no s[an]c[t]o m[er]itis l[et]i dicas nove v[er]it[ate]s d[omi]ne o[mn]is o[mn]is p[ro]p[ri]o v[er]o et p[ro]p[ri]o benig nissima o[mn]is ut votu[m] meu[m] adimple as et velis v[er]itatem ad offensiones me as et tunc v[er]it[ate] ad te p[ro]p[ri]o q[uo]d te no[n] offe det s[ed] s[an]c[t]is t[em]p[or]e faciat thesauru[m] et ducat te v[er]it[ate] ad locu[m] d[omi]ni s[an]c[t]i f[er]re q[uo]d in s[an]c[t]is fac. 3^{es}. elemosinas et ho nora magni regis s[an]c[t]is et vade as sociat[ur] at solo ad locu[m] ubi e[st] thesauru[s] in domo tua et v[er]it[ate] eam p[ro]p[ri]o q[uo]d habebis thesauru[m] fac cantare 3^{es} missa

s[an]c[t]a ad honore[m] s[an]c[t]e t[ri]nitatis. 2^a p[ro]
p[ro]p[ri]o peccatis mortuor[um]. t[em]p[or]e eam p[ro]
p[ro]p[ri]o vita tua et

Nota h[ic] e[st] nome[n] magnu[m] semifons q[uo]d est

scriptu in fronte Aaron. sacerdotis creatoris creator in me unum tuum omnipotens deus creator cali et terra quodammodo locutus fuisse cando. saday. hay. Refal. .h. j. ayn. yamino. Selatados. burauch. huy. Adonay.
aya. yen. yhn. ut cunchy. Co. da. ay. aha.
haya. heye. heye. haya. haya. haya. ay. ey.
ay. ya. ya. ya. han. han. han. Ca. Ca. Ca.
Completo est nomen semiformas bndm no men ei cum regni no erit finis p m finit factor secula pma

Ad equum habendum hunc scribat in hostio domus vaticine in capitulo noctis more hebraey et hunc nomen tu signa vegetioris tuidia.
Stehia. Alpha. draco. Amado. ypanon.
Quibus scriptis recede modicum floco. post horam pnam venturis et tunc equum pa ratu q tu volueris ascendere ppe sinistram pedem adscendere et dic hanc gimbatione Commo te equa boe p creatora cali et terra et illu qui creavit unum et omnia ad lau dam et gloriam sui nominis et p deum vivum et p deum sem et p omni um ut no meo pe nec in fua nec in minimo meo meo vero obee valeas n in alio me p turbe sed me. A. Ad locum talem deferas placide hi lante potide et velociter absq omni impe dimento Deinde ascende audax et secure

Septem tunc et scilicet de hac collube sanguine hac figura

Revertens quod de mane cum solis ortu in vice ibi aliam lynam et ad quendam ro-luta illudque ligabis in capillis tuis cum volueris esse invisibilis et percaus tu ibi dimittas colubam et tunc ne ipam accipias nō aliq

9. Cursus lunaris dierum alij sunt boni alij mali ad scribendas cartas. Prima dies mensis scilicet lunaris tota est bona. Secunda die mane est bona et nō plus. Tertia nil facere debes. Quarta dies tota bona Quinta usque ad horam etiam et ult^m non Sexta die nihil facies. Septima die prima hora bona est et nō plus. Octava mane bona. Nona nihil facies. Decima die oīo nihil facies quia quod male est ad oīa facieda. Undecima bona est tota. Duodecima bona est usque ad etiam tū quarta. 13. nihil facies 14. tota bona est. 15. hora nihil facies. 16.
mane tota bona et postea nihil val. 17.
et 18. usque ad meridiem mala est et postea bona. 19. nihil tū agas. 20. et 21. et 22.

diebus mane sunt bonae et non plus. 23. 24. in nichil fatias / 24. mala nec bona / 25.
et 26. nichil fatias / 28. et 29. et 30. bona est tota et of

Et de salis petri vitoli vici in qm vici et fac aquam forte ex eis et dissolve in ea lue lunaticam quantum solvere potest et qm non plus soluit luna tunc recipe illam aquam in qua luna est soluta et impone mercurij cudi quantum coagulare potest.
Item in sic coagulatum. Att et pone eu in cibusculo sup stantem istar vici De ceteris novam. thuy all. gummi ara bitu. oxideu. asa fetida. serabim. bona
tam. seme ovuli. cantarides. pulvis buffoni. cavusam. sal nit. sal gume. vinitium. teberintam. Euphorbia cum fina et equalis et fac simile fluere et pulvis buffoni ist das kupper das vo hame felt so mans schmit

Per invocationem nominis domini Ihu xpi Mirage impat tibi agnus immaculatus p inde ar-guant te angeli et archangeli michael gabriel raphael arguant te tres patriarche scilicet Abraham ysaac et iacob arguant te prophete et omnes discipuli xpi arguant te omnes sancti et electi dei deservient ergo aures tue in die et in nocte in hora et in mense et in momento sint deferrentur. Iamnes et matres nisi cito sine aliqua mora datus meis obedias et volutati mee subiacas. Deus angelorum deus archangelorum deus prophetarum deus apostolorum deus cumgelistarum deus martirum deus confessorum deus domini nostri ihu xpi inuoco nomen patris tui in hac petra tue maiestatis potentia supplico exposito ut michi auxilium tuum prestare digneris aduersus illud spiritum malignum ut volens iacet audito nomen tuo celeriter de loco suo exeat et deserviant ad me accedat. Ipe impat tibi dixit qui te de supernis celis sedibus in inferiora terra misit precepit audi ergo mirage nequissime et tue virtutis et propitius accede in nomine dei nostri ihu xpi. Tu ergo mirage nequissime inimice fidei quamvis generis mortis rector in iusticie declarato malorum radix fomes et mors

Director hominū demonū magister qui stas et respice in sub te pde ptes tuas illud metue qui in israhel est imolatus ioseph venditus in agno occisus in homine crucifixus deus surrexit triumphator audi ergo mirage et time verba dei et ego michi pparat in amolus negocijs providendis Adiuvo te spens antique p-inducem vivorum et mortuorum p eū qui habet ptatem te mittere in iherosolima ut facias cito qd proprio tibi illo iubente qui se det in altissimis Amen Adiuvo te mirage no a meā vi sed iudice pūs sancti ut sis subiectus mandatis eius ca-sine mora psumenda acce mīstris illud ppi illi ptas te vrgat qui se pro nobis affligendo aspatibulo subiungant illius em gratia ad contemniste qui de vicijs gemitibus inferni animas ad lucem pducet sit tibi terror cor 9 hominū sit tibi formido ymago dei quibz pūs sancta morte cedunt ne desistas ne moris appropinmichi et uelle meū implere et ne me infirmū putes ad condemnandū te tibi impat deus ptibi impat deus filius tibi impat pūs sancti tibi impat aplos fides s3 petri et pauli et ceteros aplos impat tibi indulgentia cōfessor impat tibi saguis martirū impat tibi omdicia regnū impat tibi continencia viduar

Impatibilia pia opa singulorum Impat tibi orones omni bonorum hominum in ecclesia dei mihi litantium Impat pat tibi parvum et debilem et miserum Impat tibi virtus opus et sanguinis domini nostri ihesu christi Impat tibi mi-sericordia virtus Impat tibi alius christus in quo nichil quaesivi de operibus tuis qui te exspoliavit qui regnum tuum destruxit qui virtutem te ligavit et cruce tua discipulus qui te precatur in tenebras exteriores voluisti tibi et ministris tuis et paratus eternus interitus sed quid mihi tentulente dyabolus qui temptat sedardas deus es omnipotens cuius statuta transgressus es deus ihesu christe filius eius quem temptasti et ausus fuisti et crucifigere promissisti deus quid mihi quibus cui mors per suasionibus tuis evasit Impat tibi nequissime per impium diuinum adiutor te per agnum immolatum qui ambulat super aspidem et basiliscum qui conculcat leonem et draconem ut facias cito quod impo tibi et precor contemne et tunc inuoco nomen domini illius tunc cui virtutes celorum prelatos duces et principatus subiecti sunt timent et honoret quem cherubim et seraphim indefessis vocibus laudant Impat tibi verbum caro factum Impat tibi natus de virgine Impat tibi ihesus nazarenus Impat tibi qui te creavit ut impleras cito omnia que peto ate vel habere veluc vel scire cupio quanto tardius feceris ea que tibi scripio tantum magis supplicium tibi erit de die in diem Georgio te male-dicte et nequissime ac mendacissime spiritus per unum veritatis per deum omnipotentem per ipsum Christum nazare-num per agnum in macula filium de altissimis personis de spiritu sancto conceptum ex maria virgine natum quem Gabriel nuntiavit que tu vidisti solus ex-clamavit dicens hic est filius dei Georgio te auctor dyaboli peccatis inuentor malicie tu omnibus subditis tuis in nomine patris et filii et spiritus sancti et in nomine glo-riose deitatis cui novem chori angelorum patriarche et propheti apostoli martires confessores virgines et vidue et omnes electi dei diebus ac noctibus inde-fessa voce collaudant dicentes Sanctus sanctus sanctus qui erat qui est et qui est venturus et qui est omnipotens ut non presumas transgredi precepta mea nec te latuit tibi minime penas tibi minime tormenta si minime diem iudicii et minime diem supplicii seipsum per deum qui venturus est velud cibum ignis ardet in quo tibi et angelis tuis preparatus est semper introitus et ideo pro tua nequicia dampnante atque dampnande da honorem deo patri et vero et est michi subiectus ut omnia precepta mea adimpleas da honorem Iesu Christo filio eius da honorem spiritu sancto pariter in cuius nomine atque virtute scripio tibi mirage ut nomen eius ac preceptis meis obedias cui omnis creatura deservit quem cherubim et seraphim laudant dicentes Sanctus Sanctus Dominus deus exercituum qui regnat et domat per infinita secula in omni uenit. Aduerso ac contringo et precipio tibi anizage ut michi obedias sine aliquo impedimento ut noimento ut lesione et grauamine corporis et aue mee nunc et semper iterum conuerso te anizage per omnia predicta sacramenta facta et facienda per omnia scripta scripta creata uia et mortua per illum qui te de celo perierit conuerso te et precipio tibi per hostiam sanctam et per hostiam inmaculatam per hostiam scriptam et per hostiam be-dictam atque deo placentem conuerso te ac precipio tibi anizage per omnia per que ligari et constringi possis exorcismo te per nomen domini per potestatem omnium spirituum per omnes caractares per sigillum palomoris per annulos eius per septem candelabra aurea ante domum lucerna ut tibi anizage augmentapenarum arbitras de die in diem ita ut non requiescas nec cessas a labore tuo continuo in eadem loco ubi nunc es remouere et ut remoueris ab omni officio tuo et ab omni societate et temptacione et deceptione ut prius statim per uerba conuincationis tibi inflata maledico te et nomen tuum confundo nunc per omnes dies uite mee per potestatem quam habeo super te anizage michi ab omnipotenti deo data in baptismo et alijs sacramentis per corpus domini nostri ihesu christi. Etiam te exorcismo tibi maledico et ante id quod ate pertinet et confundo te et omnia tua per omnia per alpha et o per emanuel per nomen dei ineffabile per sanctum tetragramaton per omnia nomina et uerba que dicta sunt ut statim uenias anizage sine aliqua mora mandatum et potatem meā quā tibi mani-festabo quam michi loquar in nōie pātis veni i nōie filij veni in nōie spūs sancti veni in nōie sancte trinitatis vbi tibi dico in nōie dei summi veni in nōie creatoris et om̄i creaturaz veni ad me in hac hora sine aliquo notumēto lesione atq; grauiamē corpis et anime mee ut aliud mit-tus fere venie facias qui sciat p̄fecte desiderium meū adimplere et nullo modo a me recedere nisi a me fu-erit licentiā ut uoluntatem meā plenarie p̄ficiat Iterū conuoco te p̄ her que sup̄dicta sūt ut facias michi venie om̄i spm̄ qui p̄ritat michi aurum et argentū ut thesauros absconditos antequā de isto loco recedam ut sit michi iustratus in om̄i uoluntate mea et quocūq; ipm̄ p̄uocauero statim compareat michi benignus ac humilis nullo meritis sed uoluntatem meā in om̄ibus adimplens et p̄ficiens fiat fiat fiat Amen ut adducas michi om̄i spm̄ p̄mptū et idoneū in om̄i sciētiā et ut habeat p̄tatem me faciendi inuisibilem quicūq; voluerō et michi placuerit et q̄ semp sit sub potestate mea et concedas ei similiter consecrandi libros expuncta et om̄ia quicūq; voluerō Amen ¶ Tota antequā om̄iū incipiat dic p̄t noster Ave maria Credo Adiuutorium nostrū in nōie dñi qui fecit celū et terram in nōie p̄ et f et ss Amen spūs veniat spūs regnat spūs inipat tibi auxilium Duos demones et om̄es p̄ncipes et om̄e gens demonū quos de excelsis celo culpa p̄ra deiecit ego adiuro et precipio tibi ut imperio et preceptis meis obedias sicut deus imperavit iordano et precepit ut filii israel sine impedimento pambularent sic vobis precipio ut meis preceptis die nocturnis hinc omnibus et momentis voluntati mee obediatis sicut mare rubrum moysi et aaron obediit quod se diuisit et iter suum filiis israel per medium suum prebuit sic ego per invocationem domini apostoli ihesu christi precipio tibi precipio ut michi sine mora sine omni lesione deceptioe mei et ad beneuolentiam benignè obediatis id est Regere ante Amen intellectus clarissimus inextinguibile felicitatis ingenium inuentissima subtilitas celestium secretorum domine ihesu christe fili dei altissime qui ambulabas super pedes ventorum et ipso perflass tota terra te rogo supplicat ut per ducem digneris hodie ventum spiritus sancti tui intellectus thesaurum incomp-hensibilis sapientie tue qui sufficit totam terram cordis mentis et anime mee ut omnes sapiam et scientiam intelligam valeam parte qui es omnia scientia et intellectus in quo ipse que et a quo sunt omnia tibi gloria in secula seculorum Amen Antequam vinculum marieat dic longa orationem in nomine p et f et ss Amen ihesus vincit ihesus regnat ihesus imperat ihesus nos benedicat Amen flos florum et omnium eximiorum radix sed si quis voluit poti ritu gentili debet que locum mundum et secretum et ab hominibus remotum super aqua si haberi locum potuit immo si ita acceditur quod locus inueniri non possit ubi magis fecit masio-nem tunc querat locus agentibus et a bestijs sicut i nemore ul' greta nemus aut in pomis seu in campo ul' in alijs locis secretis. Igitur ad magr ista scientia do-let uti ut sapienter celat suu pfulguratissimu se-cretum in quo est radix triumphalis secretor quoniam ista scientia apud auctorem suu id est apud eu qui omnia creavit nobilior et potentior est omnibus alijs scientijs et ergo dignioribus sapientioribus et humilius bonis moribus munitis dignatus est eam revelare et si magr loru sufficiente ac si optimum reputat tunc scdm precepta sua debet hunc libru consecrare illo q consecratio debet remane pstriduu ab omnibus immundicijs et peccatis se custodiendo et ieiunando confitendo et missam audiendo. Tunc die quaterenat magr solus ul' pmo uno ad loru sibi antea promissum suu reservare in medietate cubuli dum suu cum spu occupatq deinde magr facit cubulu ad tu-tello et faciat pnu suu intus sedu et pceptat sibi magr q nec pedes neq manq nec respiciet capil-los foras extendat donec magr exeat ex peditq ab omnibus ordinatis tunc magr cadat ad loru pordi-natum in quo sps tenet dare responsum et faciat signu crucis sup frontem suam postea devoto et flexis genibz vertat faciem suam ad orationem Gloriosissime adonaij id postea secundo dicat si-li dei redemptor is et omnes alias p ordinem sz Deus vivax. Hoc facto magr ter signu faciat sup frontem suam postea incipiat coniazones pmo inart sz surgite et alias coniazones ut

ut sciunt per ordinem et si spiritus non venit ad primam coniurationem tunc magister incipiat a capite ad hunc semel legat si spiritus ad secundam non venit tunc legat tertia vice et si tertio non venit nec imaginem nec responsum dedit revocet magister sibi quod amplius spiritum non vocet nec conuocet quod si fecerit dormiat cum contra precepta artis operatum fuisse et si magister aliquid dampnum precepit alleviat plene nam spiritus ex hoc non tenet respondere Si vero spiritus vocat tunc lingue suscipiat cum dicens Beneveniens tu et propitius es quod neminem cedat nec in adventu nec in recessu suo Deinde lingue auscultet verba spiritus et mentem teneat que ab ore spiritus procedit et post colloquium si magister magistro placeat aliquid interrogare subbrevis loquens et sapienter faciat petitiones suas et diligenter retineat eius responseiones et quod patuit cum licentia dicat vade in pace et memine no reas Deinde faciat signum crucis in fronte sua postea de potissima mente incipiat sibi redemptio mundi et et deus vivare et omnia regnorum usque ad Hierusalem postea faciat signum crucis super frontem suam et impetu recedat et vadat ad locum suum ubi habuit semper tunc vadat ad illu dem in quo socius fuit et faciat cum lege superdecem ordines antequam faciat cum exire de mundo postea signat se signaculo sancte crucis ut semper possint recedere de peccatis illis et si euenit quod spiritus magister socio suo tanta familiaritatem quod ei suum pful guratissimum secretum revelet et suam scientiam arti

finalem ad spm declararet ducat eum ad locum debitum et imagine in locum scriptam in panno nigro postea faciat circulum in cinctillo suo et assignat locum in quo solus suus sedere debeat postea ubi eum sedere et ostendit ei sub qua forma sedere deat in circulo et qualiter se regere in omnibus debeat et qualiter spm in adventu suo regere debeat et quomodo exire debeat de circulo et qualiter in recessu suo cum licentia tenet et quomodo exire debeat de circulo et quo debeat se ducere et licet omni magis socio suo ostendere antequam eum in circulo intrare permittit ne ex defectu punitu inire possint Insup pro videat sibi magis deficiis nec aliquid tunc contem nat Item secundum quod magis antequam punitu admittat et recedat debet sibi horam determinare et diem reueniendi et obediendi aliquid punitu non tenet quia rationibus et virtutibus suis

Incipit conuizatio loci ad suis orationibus sic Gloriosissime adonai per quem creatur et regnat omnia atque subsistunt omnia ad esto punitu inu rationibus meis et clementer presta ut ille locus perfecta utilitatem obtineat qua obtinere debeat helij.
a acari arch azagul gedolozach zamkaleb yson elias ornas latitiasim mitkla manumderuth lederthas gebtula segna senedrus panethon fameij oboriel setil apathon metiazab ytoro muoha ygorona senozel ypron tetogent.
maud vlapon abdon mediorces tantopden acarejaney

Totam orationem Ihu redemptor qui in hunc mundum venisti salua me clementissime per suam me inter manus tuas dñe querendo pro meo animam meam cor meum corpus meum et omnia membra mea confusa sanctissime deus me facit. N. potorem miserum in hoc mundo existenti ut in carna tua tibi gratias re-feram te auctore propitio et adiuvante qui deus ordinas et moderaris deus benedictus in secula amen Sum dignum visibilium et invisibilium dispensator et largitor et actor omnium boni dispoce hodie tua potestate magna in locum mentis meae et ordina voluntate mea in bonum in complacito tuo O sanctissime deus deus et deus dominus atque rex regum poli aspice multitudinem peccatorum meorum quibus ego miser multipliciter obnoxius sum sed per misericordiam clementiam tuam largire michi gratiam tuam infinitam et da michi effectum cogitandi desiderandi intelligendi petendi in hac ope que michi expedit memoria tenacem et retinendi et operandi et gratiam tuam seplius meis accommoda et visita me visitatione spiritus sancti et matris carnis quas ex peccatis contraxi omni misero peccati tua in mensa pietatis abluat et detingat me et staret qui hominem perditum ad pristinum statum innocentiae reduxit quia tua sapientia attingit
 a fine usque ad finem fortis et disponis omnia secundum Ergo misericordissime deus da michi misero peccatori da michi in operibus quibus confermas perfectum effectum corporis

135
sine omni delusione et fallacia pstante te qui es.
simplex in substantia et trius in personis deus benedictus in secula Amen Deus pater et omni nitentis ppteritum et in ppteritum sine admixtione fundator tu es omnibus omnia et similibus filia tribuens facultatem nostris opus obmeriti angelorum atq; omni celestium animu gratia celestis munda oratio adtra et confortata in me effectus opus nostrum coceptionis effunde piissime deus grandis spiritus sanctus tui in cor meum et in anima mea et in omnia membra mea et multiplica in me dona spiritus sancti corrobora in me interiorum hominum et fecunda me rore gratie tue confirma in me caritatem in qua fideles tuos odavisti opet in me ppteritum materies superioris filii ad impetu fluentis aque delibano atq; fontem anime mee irrigat impleat et exuberet caritate que de celo venit super omnes aquas tue maiestatis confirma in me hoc sacramentum nostris opus ppteritum (C) sanctissime deus ppteritum valeat valerem ppteritum et obedire in me et in omni tempore amen R. G. R. P. deus deus deus omnes nobis fili redempto mundi deus miserere nobis Spiritus sancte deus miserere nobis Sancta trinitas omni deus miserere nobis Sancta maria ora pro nobis Sancta dei genitrix ora pro nobis Sancta virgo Maria

Sancte Michael ora pro nobis Sancte Raphael o.
 Sancte Gabriel ora pro Omnes sancti et sancte orate pro
 Surge vos maligni spiritus mirage per regem vestrum Luciferum per coronas septem regum per thronum sulfuris sub qua omnes reges infernales consurgunt ut sitis regentes mirage Imperatorem magnum ut aliquod lacum veniat michi responsurus Surge vos ab oriente vos ab occidente vos a meridie vos a septentrione Adiuro te mirage per patrem et filium et per sanctam et individua trinitatem per unitatem et simplicitatem essentiae per sanctissimam ac perpetuam virginitatem matris domini nostri ihesu christi ut permissis ducibus et coactis ad implere sine ulla nominatione corporis et anime mee et omni creature que tibi imposita sunt Ego adiuro te per laudem tuam qua amissam per superbiam iterum coniuuro te per eum qui te creavit ex altiori et constituit super omnes angelos iterum adiuro te per eum qui te decoravit similes similitudinis sue propter quod datum coram ut dices per sedem meam ad aquilonem et sitis ero altissimo propter quod tuam ad inferam et deformis ac passibilis effectus es Coniuuro te per maiestatem eius que cuncta visibilia et invisibilia contemnit et obediunt ut tu quibus iuramentis coactus et ac perstratus michi obsequium sine lesione facere mentis et corporis mee et omni creature mee et benignus michi obediatis et omnes voluntate mea adimplere O draco vultu Simile ex parte defecissimum factus es infelicissimus O draco maxime serpens truculentus O Leo rapacissime leuathan. finalicioissime tu conuerzsam terram O Leo infide lissime seduxisti et perdidisti O truculentissime serpens et princeps artifex totius malicie ac inuento omnis in iquitate nunc iram indigna tuis qua meruisti attinge et obedi michi per deum patrem per deum verum per deum sanctum per obedientiam domini nostri ihesu christi qua patres obe diunt usque ad mortem morte autem tuam. Alioquin refera tam diu quicquid tibi ad cor feceris quousque obediatis in admiratio a domino nostro ihesu christo ut appareas michi visi bilis in tali forma mansuetus et amabilis et obediatis mandatis meis. Alioquin exoritur te ut Cathene pec les tue fundant sulphure et pice ymo omni inique tudine et gratitudine afficiant et nunc impero in no me potius dei omnipotentis ut uerum mediabile affli gat te et uel constingat te. Barahel comburet te gabriel sua fortitudine in igne in getim quibile aug mentat super te acerbissimas penas infernales. S. michael nisi sine omni dilatione uenias omni voluntate meam ad perficiendam in humana forma. Ad uero uos et contempsero ligo et constingo uos demones per eum qui est alpha et omega. Ad uero te aynage per deum patrem omnipotentem creatorem celi et terre per ipsum ipsum filium eius dominum nostrum et per virtutem spiritus sancti ab utroque precedentem. Conuero uos per misterium sancte autem incarnationis et natiuitatis domini nostri ihesu per Circumcisionem et representationem eius per baptismum et

Ieiunium eius per passionem et omnia signa ac miracula eius per crucem et passionem eius per sac-ramentum sanguinem eius qui de vulneribus eius effluxit per mortem et sepulchrum eius per descen-sionem eius ad inferos per resurrectionem et ascensionem eius per aduentum sancti spiritus pariter per tunc du-diem iudicii per sanctum Michael archangelum per omnes ordines angelorum per beatum Iohannem bap-tistam per omnes patriarchas et prophetas per sanctum Iohannem Evangelistam tam per omnes evangelistas per beatum Petrum apostolum designatum regni celorum per omnes apostolos et discipulos domini nostri Iesu Christi per beatum Stephanum primum martirem per centumquadragintaquatuor milia innocentium per sanguinem et victoriam sancti martiris per beatum Martinum et Nicolaum per omnes confessores et sacerdotes per beatam Mariam Magdalenam per omnes sanctas virgines et viduas deus per omnes sanctos et electos dei qui ab origine mundi constituti sunt posside regnum dei usque in novissimum diem per eum qui est alpha et Omega qui portas inferni confregit et te a porte tuo diabulo et eius sequacibus de gloria eterna ex-pulsit et in tartarum detruxit Iterum adiuro te mirage precipio et impero tibi per omnia supradicta ut in quo loco sis ad hunc locum extra orbem in qua forma sine numero et terrore et delusione mei et omni viventi et voluntate mea adimplere effectum ligno Iterum adiuro te mirage per ineffabilia nomina dei ut venas et voluntate mea benigne sine aliqua lesione corporis et anime mee et re meae adimpleas et p[er] uirtute[m] i[n] ip[s]o[n]u[m] nom[in]e atq[ue] nobodij festult festulalon tui ip[s]ator cadalut edexuel fedenuchon amudaly dotuanell meledysen lusu zalin porteros asidortu contuzensi sursuzeng iduizote p[er] luciferu[m] ingem et magnu[m] malig no[n]u[m] spirituu[m] p[er] her p[er]uictissima maia dei uui ut tu m[u]uag[us] mittas m[u]u[us] ex tuo dominiio om[n]i sp[irit]u i[n]demu pacifid benignu[m] et valente ad amez voluntatem mea ad implendam agleros lodemos myepha meton tui arthazagul gedoborat zamaheli abronithon sub g[er]temos tuartura vedastalen p[er]deboram dranaion plantastrilim tuadenitum agamethor barbadon suatrimil Ad iuro te m[u]uag[us] m[u]u[us] i[n] uirtute ip[s]o[n]u[m] nom[in]e in effabiliu[m] dei uui p[er] ad me am[u]o occasione post posita benigne uenias incontinenti et sine mora sine lesione terrore mei et om[n]i p[er]uictu ad amia que te interrogauero responsu[m] tui etiam hinton sedancto aglonitel melido uet titu ginazoth arthugerim p[er] uerthou phanpadex midrobaton canophanub olimphares goli mathpeth p[er]pidenub asudethon polunathet targo sulcos aphnasanen vagum vagina machi zahma omni p[er]p[er]a ysa ausum austrat sinel guma linthi wasbranni alehtetem helcat adolehtez bet torhteno belapros luse belhar behanera bolipa quizo uos sine op[er]e in origie

ad p[er]p[er]a

sine in oriente sine in meridie sine in septem-trione sine in mari sine in aere sine in quocumque loco sine in mundo vos per fortissimum deum omnipotentem pantheon tetragrammaton elmasis godramirion elion ypaton adasadau ybra onephaphaton anaphaton phanuel anafanamapta opelai melhai adonai gabaoth eloi et theos theicos pantheon ystom dretion stamomathion agla smayon et per omnia nomina dei omnipotens ut michi et benigne pure et pie sint sine modo et sine lesione prore et ceterarum meorum et omnium omnium ad me pertinet sine lesione ~~illud deus dicitur dicitur dicitur dicitur dicitur dicitur~~ ~~allud deus dicitur dicitur dicitur dicitur dicitur dicitur~~ in semine ipso apertum et cum reple fuerit in forma ipsius in et quantum ut quibus sit quia per funde et in cetero aditu ad ipsum cum omnibus circumstantiis suis si habet in suis formis et locis iterum commisso vos per omnia nomina dei scilicet agla agla agla don per paucum verbum dei Bahel ut michi et benigne pure ut super IHG per commisso vos per deum celi per deum terre per deum maris per deum angelorum et hominum per deum omnium creaturarum per corpora omnium sanctorum ut michi et benigne pure id iterum commisso vos per novum ordinem angelorum per cherubim et seraphim per thronos per dominationes per principatus per potestates per virtutes ceterorum per angelobus archangelos ut meo precepto obedatis ut

ut michi et lingue pue id Coniuro vos ut michi obediat non propter me sed propter illud cui omnis creatura obedit quia laudant angeli venerant archangeli quem cherubim et seraphim proclamant Sitis S. S. dñs deus sa-bath qui erat et qui est et venturus est plensum est et terra gloria tua ut michi et lingua pua id Coniuro vos per incarnationem dñi nri ihū xpi de maria virgine natum ut obe-diat ut meo precepto obediat ut michi et lingue pue et pie nunc sine mora sine lesione prore et rectoris mei et omni viro ac omni ad me pertinenti sine ulla suspitione deceptione et fallacia in speculo isto aperit et ad recte faciat in forma ipsius nri quantum ut quatenus ut quatenus perfunde et in vero aditu in omnibus circumstantiis suis habet ad suis fontibus et laus Coniuro vos per obedientiam ihū xpi qua pater obedivit usque ad mortem mortem aut tenet ut michi et lingue pue ut si per Coniuro vos per deum verum per deum verum per deum sanctum qui in patria fecit celum et terram mare et omnia que in eis sunt clementia et omnia clementia que sub celo sunt ut michi lingue id Coniuro vos per manalem regem admirabi-lem palpat et o per primum et finem et per omnia nomina dei ut cito veniat et meo precepto obediat ut michi et lingue id Coniuro vos per regem glie qui conceptus est de spiritu sancto natus ex maria virgine passus sub pontio pilato Coniuro vos per mortem redemptionis nostri ihu xpi per spicam coronam eius per spina per alapas per calaphos per clauos dulces per fixuram lancee per quique vulnera dñi nostri ihu xpi per sacru sanguinem qui de late et de toto corpore eius effluxit ut mitti ut michi. ite Coniuro vos per mortem et sepulchrum eius per misteriu et virtutem sancte crucis per ascensionem eius ad inferos per potentiam quam qua voces infernales deuastat Coniuro vos per gloriosam resurrectione et ascen-sionem eius per aduentu sancti spiritus parati ut michi et benigne ite ut es Coniuro vos per tremendum diem iudicii Coniuro vos per diem eterni supplicij per diem eternis miserie et tristitie ut mandatis meis sine mora obediat michi et benigne pue ite ut es Coniuro vos per sydrach misach abdenago Coniuro vos per tres magos pharaonis per sigillum salomonis Coniuro vos per tres magos ihu xpi scilicet Caspar Balthazar Melchior ut cito ueniat ut Con-testor vos per mandatum dñi ut ueniat ut michi benigne ite Adiuuati per patrem per filiu per spiritum sanctu heri repete prima vice et secunda et tertia et non plura

van dussen wercken sal men spreken dat merke dat dy sijn off gegange sy also dat leyn heylge tag da geschieden sy an sal ouer lesing lesing in misse van heylge vinge ende van liden onser heren ende zo vader most ende am

In den name des vaders des sijnels ende des heylge geestes Amen Amen Amen yn dussen gelycke pleustige ende yn dussen gelycke was des heylge leuangelien mynne ier ge bepoet dieg comen ier verkenen dieg comen dat du miest stercken toed by en heylge sonst comen vout onser lieke heren Misu onst alle vout lieke heren ier onst sterck sy monstgeit sterck tot sy geset leu leu mon also ghede uch uch in bosse comen dat in misse rinnen ende sterck du sijest al der wisse comen der ghe comen der roet comen der saterge comen der nye comen mit comen der haghen comen der ufterssind comen der comen der wisse comen der leubus comen du sijest derley comen elichgeley comen onkonst alder leuangelien du bist dy get noch y ghelief wisse misse hymel ende erden so ghede uch uch ende glanc uch by de vater by den sone ende by den heylge geeste ende by der ghelief cracht ende macht dy du ist y hymel ende uff erden dat in dussen pleustiges alder dusses blude also wisse als die pher. y monst misse wille onbissen in sater min ad com ge gedachte amide ge dy comen geset ende alle onst wille onbissen dy ghede uch uch

by den water by den sonc ende by den heiligen geeste ende by den glare den dy kerangeliche mutter maria. Drug an crone heilige ghebede Armen dy wortt wyl in d' name des waters des soncs ende des heiligen geestes amen

Wad disse sayn dryetied gesproken dat so sal men krefsen dat disse naderstij worden

Ich ghebe dat leyn wyl adden. auch leyn men
disse ankunfft disse kranche dat geest
ende gheerne disse pferd gheuen leyn Vonder der men der d' sonder and' heilige sone cruce gheuen dat dat vnk lichte ge heuse criste der cyn pferd. wyl. hymel ende etnuch ist der lichte disse pferd
disse ankunfft disse kranche dat geest ende gheerne dat geest myr der water der sonc ende der heilige geest ende geest en ende myr alle dy ghebede leyn dy mit gode yn d' chye lichte sint der wortt wyl in d' name des waters des soncs ende des heiligen geestes amen

Hat oyn metste den wyl so mag men auch spreken dat ge. hat menich inmetste gheest dat kranche ist

Vor den fiffel Ba sal ma dffen salyn spreken end sal d pferd spreken yn sin redte en end cun meiste sal sin loyde addre hnd d pferd vnder syne buche genc wiff end wiff vme der pferd genc geyn end der uffgelen alle male end dy werte drystont yn sin en spreken

Ihesus yn eyner krippen lag Ihesus yn en krippen ghem wt No eyner reyne maget die ghesticht alle ganc ende dan die is die musse ouer dissen phet dissen suete die was ende was die was dan. In den name des vaders des sonde ende des gheestes
 Amen

Ich wider an campf der phere so sal man sprechen disse worte zu sy nach on ihesus vnde der mordt vnder on rof du same der mordt der slug es ihesus myn der uffgute frant uff rof du ist ghefue der mordt ame v pr m 2 auc

12.
Ist wider dy pestelencie so sol man dysse sayn sprechen also se yme misset off pfoke

Der vater suchte dich der sun der fenn dich der heilige geist vortelt dich sinen Ich besuche dich druck end gestalt by d vohil heilige spehn das got d hern drach sin heilige gbedite syten end das du nicht empfahst noch eyger end blud ende by den heilige drehen malen dy got dorch hend end fuße end gflang end dorch das heilige crucez er dar du allest wider berey end myr nicht erstadest also vortelt end myr das als got unser hie an dy heilige crucez gnalet war dine so heiliger got so du sorgten got so du almechtiger barmherziger got eyn gesont mehn allen der erndt end des ewigen todes u losse mich von dissen krankheit Amen v. pal nort ane

Ist man soll sprechen end cruce mache off dy erden end sol sprechen in d name des vaters des sunes end des heilige geistes Amen end an disse karacteres end sol equin dreyheit trüpfhahel trüpfhahel trüpfhahel dysse sun besprucht mit eyn gleiche end so sy phor addu misset da stehet bey unglücke nüt

Is vor alle fide eand machit man disse maeggepalle

So sal man neme eyn kruud geyut oeter das sal man breeke uff eyne freitag vor mittege ende ey ighes metstge sal

gloude spreken am man breeken eand ende so endang. ouer das kruud yn d' meye mest eand es nu veit ge iuse hat

So sal man das kruud dy bloterre ale strecken ende dy kleyne hantken ende dan yn eyne mofere stofen sone kleyne ende dy grise yn sin hende bynake uf dracht ongenede

So sal man d'ne neme and yn eyner phamen lassy smelke veynbarge smolt

ende dan vanden eyn d' eel meng ende dan dan es mest nu sette eand kien man dan ghake d'vanden eegheend sone eand ghesofen dan is usynmassen gud. yan sal

ouer dy eand alleghet eeghe mit lassy dan de ghade sy uf jong eyche lo

tey ouer al dan lynn veit locher harte

So en is besort mest ad dan man nymer

ynse eyne kessel gline adden dry eyner val eafne ende maake d'vuf longe d' van drigen dy de ghate sy van dymede goltze ende van hantbotten goltze ad man dy

longe gmaekt hat So sal man dan d'vuf

syden d'vuf mit eyn galle metten follich

Ende dan es dy glucke so sal man es da er dem wunden mach so man es gluck mag Ende dy bey dem sege alle mal ij uhn so sal man dy salte ~~man~~ dy salte stricke uff ein plasterdich und uff dy wunde legen und dinc eyne binden vo sawegle mach und die dinc binden bis von d fufe an bis an dy knie so mach es gut front und gerichte und sal es neme mit der blume so ist es am besten ist ein muller wunden so sal man neme dy wunde dy man neme lornette dy gand ein band mit lang ^{breiden} blettern und esset gluck uff d wunden by d wunde dy wunde ist stark und fere dy sal man es mit dem daffin erde und stein ein klayne melc und anwand inwend ein drittel puluer von lymaleyn und mit schenglicheyer ginstig dy heil alle ginge wund uhn man so gut bey adden dy man so den selbe steylung wunde mach ein horn salte so sal man neme 1 pue turpentin 1 pue beyn ad schiffen onflet 1 firtell ingferula und 1 firtell roynung smaltz dy sal man so uhn eyne fere so sal man dinc

der under were des puluers vo der kynnalle y lot end puluer vo eyne kande geysen so lichte hat eyne lantz steyn end velt bleten als end bleten end blutten in der dult kande der vnde geysen es holucht end affu. salt & kenne gliche

11. eyne salt in den lichen von geynte kande arme addu in den kande end der gliche der so sal ma neme quegsiller y lot end y queten end sal der todten also: yan sal neme in lot salt end
 d. steyn in puluer d. salt puluer sal ma neme yn kande yn der dylig kande als d. salt gyltsunde kande end der uff dy kanden gald so lange es smilt so sal ma es d. heralt neme end der quegsiller d. steyn schuden end mit eyne holzigen salt in so lange es kule end so todit ma es d. nach steyn ma es in puluer 11. ma sal auch kenne loren y lot ^{in d. salt} ~~end d. salt~~ end auch in puluer mach end der kleyne redt d. yn salt so sal ma d. neme yn salt put reynliche smalt end d. lassu in gylt uff d. salt end heralt d. neme end
 d. steyn in puluer von loren end quegsiller end d. es kule end 10

Ist so sal man den den pacht puluer auch dinsten ofen und vnder der rure bis es helt ent so ent dinst eyn usen massen gud salt pbat 3

11
Ist vor den plag addu. droppe
So sal neme guden gbrant wynn der da gely addu dresten gbrant lere und sal da neme dorne lauedell bliuene und dy stoffen neu teleyne puluer und sal neme parstbornen vor eyn luyemstf polich und sal dy lassyn all entbarnen yn gbrant wynn und dy geruch neme und wider lassyn dorren und neu puluer stoffen polich puluer sal man dy gall neme vnder den gbrant wynn und lauedell und yn eynen mortier all anden yn orten dy ist eyn drangk d vong dinst yn dinst

12
Ist nach neu eynen smering als das not 10 ist So myn loren dy da gud sy yn firtell add ^{eyne velt} und sud dy sus yn gud eyne yn eynig und lass se dinst add dorne lere und stoff se neu puluer Darnach so in y lot guden kacholdorn und lass dy auch entbarnen yn gud wynn dy dy ubere gud abgehe und in se dinst und sticht dy mittelst reusthe der seinge gud und d korne als und mache es wider

Item Nieu der longfalle furec under d' oug als maet es wantt aenffia
So sal maet name eyecelliff von etliche eyen ende sal es mengt vnder wismelaffin ende sal een plaster machē mit lēyde dūon solich plaster wyllet us d' antlige alle lēse furec solich plaster sal maet lēg vnder d' fūse

Item een ander gud tellent stogke dūon eyen sal neme d' rode singele ende sal se tēd yn eyne quante dūon mēst dūon halbuoll ende dūon wylffyn glēne adden dūon leffiluoel salzes so ende dūon stogk yn d' sonen i adden dūon wylffyn dūon dūon smals d' sal maet als syghen dūon eyen dūon ende yn eyne gottewill gēd ende yn d' sonen dūon etliche tag so temperen se sich solich sal maet vnder d' oug smen antly antlige adden dūon not se dūon dūon gēd so sal maet es dūon wylffyn mit glēne dūon

Item ander gud stogke dūon se So sal man neme dūon dūon eyen dūon von se adden so eyen ende sal neme lēymutse ende eyne leffiluoel salzes ende dūon yn eyne mēst stogk ende dūon eyen dūon vūge dūon
So man eyenhalb quetm puluer so sealt ende man puluer so dūon quetsilber dūon dūon sal maet als dūon same temperen ende dūon man yn eyne dūon se So sal maet sich an d' se dūon smen so sealt es eyen sal auch dūon se dūon se se se se an mag auch edel neme 7 pad piltrecht und die reipulver poffen und die pild 7 yn weyne baren und die reipulver poffen dorech und neme 7j eyser das wif von der eyer und das temperen dorech ein edel durch so wint es zu wassen an tünd mit yn der reipulver dorech es kule dorech ist soliche matzene sal may yn d bad an der antike frucht so gult es dy lufft fardt herust platz

Ist wider der blude drellunge so sal may neme so adden achte dy lere uf den walfre noffen und dy in eyne morse poffen und die dorech an der eyer leffluell by gonges und die lufft eyer sied solich sal mit mystern nore an sal auch die dorech neme dorech mit es ghalt mag flos von der ist dy pille and alen helender reipulver 7 macht und die dorech 7 mengit saligut so pond mit sal es dorech nore platz

Ist der selte flos von dy pille 7 add achte add myner yn weyne lere glet eyne halle uhn add mehr und der day dorech leffen dy usumase hure und die platz 3 2 vers

Itz wider dy figlinen So sal man nemen glatte alden dy leffluoch beinoley und pulver von diesen beyrauch 1 lot dar sal man ein wenig onsen in einer phancy solichs sal man stoch uff eine blinde lassen und daruff lege So man dermest gilden kan so heist es platz 3

Ein ander gute matzene dar zu So sal man dar in stauke pulver von gute lofen klaffen in 2 theil in 1 hule und blutet als saffran und hat ein stuck in der erd als schuppelien

Ein ander plant soget dar zu So sal man nege ein lincetuch in 2 wasser dar zu di gebrat ist uf brenn pewer hat in der erd ein theil mit brude als dy figblawen dar sal man bynd uff dy stoc heist 10 stund 12 3

Itz wider ein gappen in der kelen So sal man nemen ein schuffelich dar di gemacht sy als man dy soget es darnuff uff dy schuppelich sal man lege pulver 10 yngelen und under 2 gappen galt und en daruff uff hebe dar huffe tund ob not so mag man es mehr thun

if di een mactse den kalfpof zu lang halen esla so sal man nemne betruen den sal mit fieden yn eyne adden mit byre ende den dringken druffe sal mit eny gden eyndemig gegben so beruinet man en sin arge gesmayte

if vor dy vordroge als man es nemet eny druoy so sal mit nemne eyne hantvult brunkole eyne hantvult halender bleten eyne ~~adden~~ den leffluol gonges dry leffluol boten vngsalen den sal man vnderen syden seide ende man sal es dorch eny dach vringen so strucht mit es uff eny plaster dach das heilt zu gunde plac;

smulig

vor dy pisse der vordroge so sal man nemmen gorse ende dy galen von eyne kofdinge den sal man mit kouff vngsalen ende vnde dy vordroge so beruinet dy pisse

if dy elisen salley zu mache so sal man nemne rosen oley adden den elisen duon ende man sal dorch eny kampf ende blyeff sal mit yn eyne morser zu samen arben den heilt ende heilt alle guzige vanden plac;

ma sal es ey eling mit ey lassy enliden

Is ver so dinge om fure nu verlesting so sal man nemme kopperen klus en salte dy nu puluer roken en fittell eynde phudde ende sal de nemme en noshely honger ende dy vinderen syde eynding solich sal. man lussen salen yn de sonen
ende lichte ufmaken seer plat

Item der galle stult

Is by man machet oley of rozen vohy addu. cannille man sal nemme bouen oley ende sal drogen thyn roken yn eyne yse
solich sal. man lussen salen yn de sonen
dy addu fier tagge solich ringet man dorch en dach ende thud is yn eyne stetteroff elc ma machet vohy smalt addu. cannille smalt so thud ma en an also solich smalt is lusen. d gelt ende yt nu vchill dmyt gud

Is broest stalle ende steren so sal ma nemme elgbreid bletore galander bletore bappely bletore yghede ale ma yn de gant clenlich ghald mag ende dy dy elayne hagten ende syden elc yn eyne solich noshely lange smalt ende dy dach eyn dach ring yn eyne busen yt eyne elc gode salte

If dem an fräutle dy lende eage thyn
 So sal man neme lebendige eyn lot Ende sal es synen an drey stogke, drit ma sal neme güt y dem stogke fönff leffluoll bynes Ende sal dy myt ey fied
 So sal ma dy mache eyn steynbat von synderstey drey tage an ey am abend dem man neu latte ghy wick So sal man allezeit dy fönff leffluoll bynes neu y dem mule dringke So vorgeht dy kranckheit vor dem

If Eyne drange ader dy togeblude ym lile ab eyn mensche gelaye ader gfulle gstopen Ende dy dy togeblude by eyn hette es yn d lile ader der gleyche felle Ende fleucht
 So sal man neme eyn krid geyst ayuson Ende sal dy fiden apt byne so dy ey druck yn fide dy sal eyn mensche dringke so vortribt es den grunde pland Auch so geyst eyn krid Egelkrid ad singelichsufz asen asen und uff der end gone auch das gras Ende hat blete bynake als paleys thud dy felle

1. Vor dy brand uff der gonge sall man neme gbrant elassen uff den blaue korn blume und eyne metste de ggebe eyne leffelvol so dinstu de metste

2. Wasen gbrat uff der smale weydrand und eyne metste yngegebun dar stilligt colicam dar ist ad eyne yn de syten weye ent dar sint dy apostome yn lile

3. Vor ubermasse huse yn lile ad eyne de herge vorbome wile so sal man neme flaf syon dar sint dy betene an d galonden und de vi sefe addu solen yn eyne stusche glen yn eyne born eyne galle ugn sal eyne metste dringst dar stilligt vorwar

4. Eyne metste eyne ouge mit flay addu glossu wile so sal man neme bawame addu yhemhart dy brand und sal dy blyen gagte und eyne eyer wile durrendu und solich dar dorch eyne luter weyn dorch ring solich sal man mit alende ad man zu lile ghy wile yn dy ouge drouff und ouch eyne plaster duon uff der ouge leggen es beengst dar ouge wile worten
und heilt en den weyning

Ein kranckheit herfür comen nach dem krebis he gabit miltet als der krebis zu rugke ygu ende he lobt zu pul ma also kuffen

man soll es mit wasser
 salben so wonghe zu stellen dar nach so sal man mache ey plaster also so puler he man soll nemme wden kopffhorn 1 lot spanngon 1 lot alommet 1 lot salgamen 1 lot drachenblut 1 lot 1 lot also epoten das ist gebrant hirschhorn 1 lot stetig 1 lot bynstein 1 lot von gebrant krebis zu puler gemacht 1 lot von gebrant menscher har 1 lot alimel byrauch 1 lot 1 lot gallen^{men} das sal man alth yn eyne morser stoffen ende mit wasser dring yn dach ende solich puler sal man mit bein das es dring bleibe so der loff zu sal man dann yn dy wond von bey den der krebis tot ist das prut also dy wond gucht sich vucher zu ende mit wasser oder wif omc den vant

Ein ander mal sal man dy kern uff d gaffelnassen ende sal dy stoffen ende kochen vnder hony ende dard yn plaster uff gles

En ander soeghe Naem krebue neftel ende salg nu same gestoffen ende daruff stet so sal he sterben om ^{en} 40 dag

Brucht he uf an der nafen so sal men neme dat salff von roet kenschen ende puluer van lutenie darbin den sal men yn dy sece tye

Is dem der adem stynket der sal neme guden Wynafst cyme quarte ende sal dar nu neme ghegude solliche hamuolt palacy ende men sal dy mit eyn dol siech eyn drentell yme solliche drang sal men alend nu leste dringhe dat vertriben dat platte 3

Is dem dy worme dy gene essen dy
he en nu tye tye so sal men neme gene leffvolle gongel ende darbin menne eyn sollich gals lot spantjoen ende mit eyn onfied dat sal men stucke yn d' gade so vorgeit d' smorge Noet 3

Is vor blud ganne sal men stoffen ij knalouches gontec yn si reyne lafere sal eyn moefte elum dringhe so vorgeit es plus 3

If der sache al syn mensche so verstoppt want dat en sy wene dat is syn wasser macht von en rüme wold dat eyne metste brengt yn groff edelsteyn ende nou so sal man neme dy mittelste sthale von ylen selge ende dat syden yn sime byre adder yn wyne ende dat dringke so wany selger bracht ende vümet von stonde dach ende is en bracht edelheit

If vor dy liepyn yn d' oug adder filzliche yn den ougen

So sal man neme en royn wif linc luter linc dach also breid als en fuchet ende selch tuch sal ma lorne uff eyne bamenlyde ende dat mit eyne lichte an soffen as sal en mit eyne messen en edelg lossen ende macht ubn lange lachyn lorne so wut dar vud gelte smaltz selch smaltz sal ma mit d' namelachyn frugre isen d' oughede stricht dat todt alle lifen ende filzliche

Von gemeyn gude wafalle nu gungay elend sal ma neme en satell boimalei ende in opelsteyn ende darvud monch en edelg gerste met dat heil usumafte senfte ende per

12 Vor den Steyn eyn ufnemassyn gud stogke

So sal man nemme in lot ewige adenstey in lot ewigen juckboyn in lot peterstey sanne 1 lot passam von orte xpxij pessiborn dar sal ma alle stoffen in puder dar sal ma theile an fouff theile unde sal da nemme gud ewige ein adden gud ewigen unde sal dar zu nemme des ewiges eyn solliche quante unde sal dar lasyn mitoy ~~eyntheilung~~ sud eyn solliche drang sal ma darne theile an foufftheile So sal der metsthe dar lach fouff uhn nachoy unde sal y uben ubyn der theile ewiges drang unde allernall dar theile in he us drangst vme storen dar bruch der steyn ufnemassyn sere Auch so sal ma syden tornen unde also dar vme sin lib unde yn plaster ewig stey so drabit es

13 Goner smalt, olsmalt, unde seuff gleichlich vchill dar sal man vndu eyn arbid solliche salte elich unde erlangt alle vorkunde adern

Drucke yn

Is al eyne etliche mase eyne glet kinn arm addn leyn etliche leorde tyn als fuge etliche gbornt von der ghet so ist ditte nachgheste eyne gud beelde slacht brayle
 an sal neme enden gbrante leyn eyne gterochff von eyne lech ad miche der vnde sal ma dan etliche klyne steyn eyne lot guder naleyn eyne lot puluer von smalt salbeu solich puluer sal ma vnde de gbrante leyn tyn ende sal sich crsteyn che ma es noyt sonst addn seche tage ~~da~~ der motsthe us de bode ghet so sal he sijn by eyne pin vnde dan glet da ~~de~~ ^{eyne} etliche ist gy de pin mit de gbrante ^{eyne} vnde us maffyn seche so gat ob dan vechte dan on alre pin etliche tyn vnde nomer miche

disse pagte hand gemuze gromst ggeden myne gnedige liebe herre da he sich dighe gbrucht hat

14.
Ist zu der kuley sal man nem bramonker kerd und wergely und sal der pedy mit reynem borne in eyne mullum vngeston dypen sechlich und toll so sal der metste der sun uff eyne sternell und d. wady vnder uff/an der momben ^{der} und sich vnder wol beghet der der pldem mogt mit andern gen terney, und ad der so kule abut der ma es ghelyk by so sal ma des selby adher vnder daruff gessin, so man der dar nach setzt ad alle fleusth seher sal ma byn ^{sechlich} alim uff giden an sal auch nem der klayne smagel hufschin und der kendeaght so geyt und andern mostich puluer dar by tuden geit ussmassig sechlich

Eyn ander gud stogt zu der kuley so sal nem kerker und sal se stogt se stogt zu puluer und sal ad nem aliter und der miten lufft entfich so sal ma der der momben der sun hengeln ad man es ghelyk krad eyne usn ad ma es der gerost mymet so sal ma en darby springen lat vngind addu alim lufft so sal ma der borne uff eyer daren smagel darby sechlich so geit es zu sechlich plus

Itz noch eyn leynen do sal ma bouffyn vnde in gelt lobene itz let nalenen itz vor in gelt. Bis byrauch vor in gelt. ptecht vns ader vns eyer also als er y vngewalt sin vnde sal dy do harte syden dz so blau vnde dy dachery sal ma tzu yn eyne edel dyll vnde uff dy kale seyn vnde smaltz dinstz borne do sal man dy lide vntz got vnde vntz vntz liden frantzen vntz yn der liden liden uff der ampel, dy lobene sal ma an stoffen darnaich nalenen darnaich byrauch in leste ptecht, disse stoffe sal ma tzu yn d liden darnaich so sal ma da meste dinstz. den dinstz smaltz. do sal ma dy neme vnde d meste sin gnechte mit eyne dinstz vntz sin buch in beyde binden vnde dy salte mit eyner fgeden yn dy gelfen stoffen do dinstz vnde heit es zu dinstz. an sal auch syden habens mit vntz dinstz sal ma sich liden vnde dinstz. sin alle konst dinstz felit do onfelit disse y meste ptecht

Itz nu den ptecht gene do sal ma neme puluer do dinstz vntz pul von pymentz gleich vntz vntz yn dinstz tzu uff eyn knodigen dz sal ma tzu yn dinstz vntz dy gene dinstz vntz se vntz pyment

111 Ic wyl dy fravelt dy matryx beslemit of ende pin dway liden so sal ma neme dyse nachgeschreyte stoghe ier galgen ij lot ayopgan ij lot dor blumen ij lot Camell i lot zoghen candit i lot d'russ sal ma puluer maeke ende alende ende monnen uff cym smyt brodel effen dy sal ma verheyn yn eyn addu byer leich ende dat puluer dan d'russ gelyc ditte is vchill plover

Ic Eyn ander gud kenne stoghe d'wyl so sal ma neme ruth scabore, dy is alpinde rodey d'wen rodey bifuss paleie ighet eyn hantwoll ende sal dy siden mit roene bome yn eyme milken d'wyl so sal sich dy fravelt ad steyn uff eyne locherreche stul ende sal dat wylger bengenghen ende se p'aden d'wyl vnder uff lassen effen, ende ma sal ee nicht w'iden heyl lassen syn addu dy dy matryx nicht worbente addu se ende namer liden mit ditte stoghe is vortan kollenit i dy eyn fravelt eyn tot bit by er druck so sal ma er gelyc gyon paleie salf mit sine eyne addu hier ee bome vor er addu dring ofels milche mit salze se mag ouch ad dringhe eyner andery fravelt sone

Ich Eyn vorwar gerecht saghe und up pleni Al sihe mechte ad cyne frulle mit cyne kind yn arben lye als dy day kind mycht nu rechter ghort komen esol
 So soll neme cyn harnuel der künde ageter und dy cyn cyne fure larm muge und an dy heymelich stat galy So wende sich dy kind von stund nu recht ghort pland

Es ghorut sich etwan dy cyne cyn kind allen bey vorwarnt und abenymet
 So sal ma neme cyn ghal pphary hinc dych und sal dy darmit rilen uszmaße fore dy es heis unt
 So sal ma dy neme eufyn ghorant von abgebreich und cyn hinc dych dych nehm und darmit plan. Man es druck unt So sal ma es linder nehm So digke es not ist So komut es linder es is vorwar gphon

Ich linder dy godelen sellern ad puf lylde gnom ist So sal ma neme cyn kind heiser agete dych dy ist gstat als es mit mliche bedraufft sy daruff sal ma melgung ma sal es auch lassy lassy uff vnsen lieb frulle woxe wyse pland

1.
Ist eyn mensche dar befehen ist mit den elben den sal man also ploreu hat dar mensche eyne miter adder vater eyn elch man mijt es syne wile | eyn elch sines huffe dar mensche dar mit der brangheu befallt ist dar fallt d' sone mit syne maghe die lebe uff syne maghe beyne sign eyn gut wile ad ad dar gschelch ist so fallt der sone mensche den brangheu mensche mit syne gonge sone uben sy nasse brangheu den dy nasse gpalce so sint es dy elbe so ist auch eyn ander heide d' branghe mensche gschelch syne sone ende syne adern durch sy lib

Ist man soll es also bester
In d' nomen des vater des sone und des heilge gheist Amen
By den heilge pater noster by den heilge sine maria und by den heilge glouben den dy heilge xij apostely machten dennit und daby bester ich uch als und allymen und mit alle ullen nachbarnelinge so sycht wif adder vater brin sone gell adder yn elchelen
wif n sycht | dar n alle musse sy tot
an den derten tag dar gschelch uch gell und der liebe herre sone so fort mach so wile uch uch gschelch dar n pater nomen

yn eyne wuden dy sollet n schudden end ryden also lang dat ditte metste nach uch begynnet mit vorlange die n woldit y wederkomen n brongt dy heilige frome vruge yn ullen monden genden dy glude uch der man der syn ende an den heilige frome vruge man vnser lieken frome luffte die n gheven luffte alle heilige mercken ende alle glouben seke ende in meke dy dissen metsthen solken ghegelyc die n heilige ende die n roste ende dy in nalle dy got den heren dach gende ende fuge die n gelayn ende dy wone dy got d almagtig uff syn gemedet houde die n gdracht dy ymste wone dy got der heere onphange dat dy mussen myn heilige om disse metste dy en disse puchte die n lufft die n lufft dy heilige myn got ende dy heilige gheb also wone als dat ist also vumet n alle ende elymen mit alle ullen vomeken am disse bescreuen sal na die n marge nach een l. pater noster end and nuch

[illegible]

Si vis. ita sequitur voluntas
in progre

Dominus fac fieri vni pme fur ut vna placitulum et poster. ite sup dictu pme ut placitula hoc tunc. Ang ma ledor oo plenu est amantudine et dolo subligari eius labor et dolor iudica me deus et diserue causu. ita poster accipe vna pe tam casu et pte sup illud casu hoc amne Cognosce dno iudica facit mofibus manna pms et pte suo et pter poster se pte dicit sup pme et casu qna id istam. ita dno manau deus virtutu deus angelis et archangelis deus patriar. ita et pte deus aplos et martir deus edip. ita pte deus videt deus om pte et pte deus om fideli
mas. ita hoc fuctu ut tale nam fuit fuit fuit. ita dno pte ut ante re nomat qui pteat quia tu es deus et no est alius pte re fac dno pte magna
mna. ita ut pte dno pte qui mna causa ut fuctu et culpabilis hanc accet pam et casu no pteat sed ante re nomat qui hoc fuctu ut talem nam fuit hanc apparet hanc q et pte rebor hanculat et hanc reque no habet deus abraham deus ysaac deus iacob deus qelye et tobie deus qui libera hanc pteos decimo quia ardent et periculum defluibuo & periculum deficiendo multum & pona de uentre tui & sustinua de falo truncum liberasti per liberare dignus quod fauos ut famulas tuos qui quing rei ut fuerit sunt inculpabiles qui autem fecit hoc fuerit ut tale rem per manifesta ad duc perit manifestasti regem dauid adfuit regem ut famus iste & eadem non per hanc quum fuit ut ante reuocat qua gloriatur per tuos deus benedictus in ista terra Et tu dabis adcomedeu dic deus ^{ter} deus iudica causa ista fuit cum veritate tua dilexisti iustitiam & occulta sapientie tue manifestasti iudici in Si vis scire de quibus volueris interrogare Primo accipe spumam argenti & ab albugine cui & distende in ista & desuper oculo inpleat ut timore in hoc modum & conuoca eos apud te de quibus habes suspectos & dic illis reddet fuerit ut dicit veritate deali ut si plene dic hoc nona nallibus rabbas nauissa feda tellum facite affare furem qui hanc rem subtraxit magnam affanominis tunc tunc conuoca primum qui inpleat dictum oculo & dic duc ipsum per qui cuncta creasti conuola & hostes delum terre formasti & oculos tobie creasti et ci res visu delum pietate restitui te sufficit quod ut si ipse homo talis quing fuerit sit culpabilis sic cum receat dignetur sicut tobia creasti & tu hoc dixisti habeo vnu

Et cum ay...
 uno de sup in dicto oculo de pinto p pmo poyser oculo de pte liquefat p pmo poyser claudibit p tertia poyser oculo eius subabit ad eam p culpabilis q e fac ita adunum adunum usq q tu vras ad illu culpabilis in Si vis scire de q ay voluo interrogare Remo accipe vna ingestaam claram pema e dpe cam aqua pema dcl fontana e pone cam in vase plio sue apertu pto et accipe vnu puer ut puelle pnegue rura qto ut noie dno e p puer p piciat in angustia vrsq orietem e q se p clamo e pema e poma dcl in aucta pueri ista odo o dio pace dppruti puitale tu luma bocha e noio p pte qe puiti aqesto pmo vrsq inqesta angustia dcl mada qe diga emote lauckita dequelo qis noio domadare e dcl pte e pte pte vret in angustia e mte pte
 p ipse vidit ipm si ipse vidit pte dcl pte q ipse emet cu pte dcl dcl te pte pte dcl e pte e e pte mte q pte pte ad
 pte e pte lcl libe pte e pte pte vrsq e pte ipse vret tu libro
 e pte q pte pte qte cu q pte qte inet sup libe dcl vritat dcl quicquid & statim ipse iurabit & si ipse non iurabit statim & puer quicquid eum ut supra et si ipse iurabit postea quicquid eum & nolimus puer & si non iurabit ne credas aliquid forsan ipse est alibi & puerum & statim dicitur puer & licetiat eum si facit & puerum & ipse dicit omni die quod voluerit & facias vnum alium die usque & ipse iurabit & postea quod eum & nolimus & ipse ostendat puerum eum & signum ut personale statim & erat negotium ut factum & quicquid & Et nota & ipse & puerum debet fieri memoriam & etiam & & ipse per clarum & puerum & si ille puer non videt nec videt postea quod vnum alium usque & habebit vnum bonum & docet puerum & ipse statim & hoc efficitur & effectum & probatum in

Ante portam. Ichnus iurabat puerum & super vultu suo usque & ipse & dicitur ad eum puerum quod iuravit quod dicit iuravit & male puerum laboro & dicitur usque & ipse puerum & dimitte eum & ipse dicitur statim puerum puerum & aut & ipse istud vultu super se portavit non nocet ei sed cotidiana puerum iuravit iuravit & aut dicitur usque & ipse statim puerum & puerum dei puerum & ipse filius dei & ipse puerum & libera dicitur puerum huius & ab eo puerum cotidiana ut puerum ut puerum ut quicquid & ab eo dolore corporis puerum puerum & ipse vultu & ipse puerum nec non & ipse puerum & ipse dei puerum

Incipit prologus libri quicquid me dicitur aut ad quod inest sunt et quod sunt effectus. Quiaque in aliis opus inest et finire voluit ut perveniat ad effectum. Pervenit pro primo quod si necessaria sunt ne dicitur opus et papae. Opus vero quod per se alios inest et laudabile atque rectissimum quod facit nobis et opus ac confirmatum ne aliquis opus possit falli per se et fidem suam habere idem est pro quo aqua sua bona per se sunt per se per se dicitur dicitur per se et fideliter non recedit saltem esse non potest. Si ergo recedit unumquodque opus necesse est ut non fallat. Primum ergo per se quod opus est inest et certe quorundam confirmatur remouendum ut per se et in voca tione per se non dicitur et ineffabile ipsum magis et veritate atque per se efficaciter obtinere quod optime debet per se infirmis declarabit per se per se confirmatur virtute ac potestate sua amiserit. Per se modo per se dicitur non per se potest. Non multa sunt per se magna per se et dicitur dicitur inest per se ad effectum et non pervenit si per se per se dicitur quod per se amittit et melius est per se. Virtute unumquodque per se potest dicitur unde dicitur melius est facere quam plus alio potest per se per se plus valet atque per se per se confirmatur per virtute et corpore et per se per se unumquodque dicitur per se per se ad unumquodque per se virtute quod opus et per se per se per se et per se per se ne fallat. Primum igitur quia hoc opus per se factum quod vocat librum quicquid ab eo potest melius et corpore debet per se abstinere inest et ipse atque per se per se moderatus et per unumquodque per se per se diebus unumquodque opus inest et debet audire quilibet die unumquodque

227
Et ista librum ferre scilicet exponere materiam quoniam missa faciat et hoc deuotissime faciat in orationibus et lecturis sicut scriptum est scilicet et orationes et multa mysteria et alia reuelat archano diuine scientie fideliter et cotidie post missam portat librum domini et habeat locum per se in altariis abbatibus inquit namque in die nec aliquis per preteritum quicquid et affigat locum aqua benedicta per ubi ponit librum et in singulis precibus et sola benedicta ligat librum quodam tunc tunc per se et per se per se ponat librum per oracionem dicitur in per se in oracione longe et lectura faciat et benedicta et conspectus ista librum per se per se notis et signis in et deuotio ac tota cordis affectu et deus opus sua benedictio ac tunc faciat que librum benedicta et conspectus per se per se notis et signis ut virtute que obtinere debeat ubi ad per se benedicta per valde ad per se benedicta et quicquid per et ad per se alia benedicta et tunc quicquid polluit que librum faciat in ubi tunc valere nisi ubi ubi benedicta et tunc oracione et lectura benedicta librum faciat et dicit que oracione quicquid corde et ad benedicta tunc tunc per Opus meum missa mei et per meum meum per meum meum per per meum per meum meum per per per per per per per per per per per tunc me ut inquit die benedicta et benedicta et audi me per et audisti meum meum tunc per per die benedicta et audisti meum meum tunc per voco de per per benedicta et oracione beatissime virginis matris meum meum tunc per per per et oracione et per me ad meum tunc per per quod ego per per per per per per per per per in hac hora per per per per per per per per per quicquid per per per per per per per per per per per per per per per per per per per per per [illegible]

21
Et sanctifica librum istum et cetera pater potestatem tuam ut virtute et potestate optineat ad quam constitutus et co-firmatus es per statum domini nostri ihesu christi cuius regnum et imperium perveniet sine fine in secula seculorum amen et per hoc iudicium totius consilii ac tunc adhibet ad presentiam iudicis et iudicis et hoc facto per se deo erit gratia et quocumque aliquid consilium voluerit dare per suam auctoritatem legem per deum iudicabilem in illis et aliis subsequentibus et insequentibus de his dicitur tunc confiteor et aqua benedicta te aperire et significat tibi tuam potestatem ut deus infundat gratiam per suum ad opus tuum perfruendum et uteretur hoc exemplum et non vultis et tunc diligenter ne hoc magis recte ducamus in speciem deinde et sapientissimus et peritissimus philosophus fuit abstinere et non vultis de his significum per si alicui consilium daretur documentum in spe-ciebus habitas illud de iure et hoc deus tua consilium gratia et potestas vult ut plus circa te et deus pater et principaliter tunc confiteor et Nunc deus quod me deus meus me distendas dum iubeat in iudicium meum deus deus plus meum fiat cum tua deus super me quodammodo procul te pater deus pater non confundat mecum in speciem tua libet me et exerce me iudicium conspectu tuo oremur iudicium amec tua ad-pater mea tunc pater oremur mea et clamor meus deus pater deus deus in iudicium deus inestimabilis deus ineffabilis deus incommutabilis deus incorruptibilis deus piissime deus dilectisime deus potetissime deus fortissime deus pater deus glorie deus iudicis deus totius nunc ego licet indignus et peccator iniquus dolo et malicia super te deus deus misericordia orans et deponens ne deprecia ad adiungas et diuina bilis p[ro]p[ri]a mea s[ed] p[ro]p[ri]a co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a m[un]di veri et p[ro]p[ri]a q[ui]bus co[m]muni ita me famulus tuus ut licet indignus te audire dignetur clama[n]te ad te p[ro]p[ri]a co[m]muni tuo sanctissimo nobis insignito ut uirtute qua obtine[re] debet potest obtineat s[ed] accedat p[ro]p[ri]a et insinuable p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a deas co[m]muni quilibet et mirabilis co[m]muni ut uelut ut uoluit quoniam uoluntati obediunt et tu co[m]muni uoluit eos o[mn]i deum co[m]muni et tu uoluit eos diff[er]it o[mn]i p[ro]p[ri]a deus p[ro]p[ri]a kissimam co[m]muni et p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a quatuor litteris

 s[ed] ioh[ann]es uero h[ec] h[ec] quo audito mare reba greditur ac co[m]muni et co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a tenet h[ec] ignis co[m]muni o[mn]i co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a et p[ro]p[ri]a tenet turbat et h[ec] sanctissima uo[n]a tua in alpha et o p[ro]p[ri]a et finis et de deo deo elyon p[ro]p[ri]a co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a adonay eggie ye ye ya ya co[m]muni h[ec] co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a uo[n]a cui est laus honor et gl[ori]a p[ro]p[ri]a finita p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a tua. — RUBRICA Si autem aliquis aliud co[m]muni co[m]muni uoluit et no[n] p[ro]p[ri]a ad co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a tu debet die quater in te audire dignetur clama[n]te ad te ut h[ec] co[m]muni uirtute obtineat qua obtine[re] debet potest p[ro]p[ri]a co[m]muni co[m]muni et p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a licet s[ed] ioh[ann]es uero h[ec] h[ec] o[mn]i deus uirgo o[mn]i co[m]muni et co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a sup[er] altitudine nubium co[m]muni et terra i[n]sta bilitate sua sup[er] aquas fundasti et mari i[n]sta que p[ro]p[ri]a no[n] potest habuisti et p[ro]p[ri]a et h[ec] ac p[ro]p[ri]a deo co[m]muni qui o[mn]i i[n]sufficitia fecisti qui o[mn]i die h[ec] adu[m]p[er] ac p[ro]p[ri]a tudine tua formasti et co[m]muni p[ro]p[ri]a p[ro]p[ri]a que una cu sua p^{re} p^{re}uacacoe de p^{re}adys cecista qui gemo. q^{uod}am aquo diluuij saluasti qui abscissa subripisti p^{re}ona ad p^{re}icem manbre ap^{re}uisti q^{uod}u totq^{ue} de submerfioe p^{re}dam et gemorece libetasti q^{uod}u moys^{es} in medio rubi p^{re}adur ignis ap^{re}uisti & et locut^{us} fuisti qui p^{re}em^{us} t^um p^{re}uacacoe moys^{es} & a^ucto de captiuitate eff^{re}ctica eduxisti & et p^{re}medu^m aut^{us} rubri via^m fecisti qui moys^{es} lege^m d^{omi}nate p^{re}uacacoe d^{omi}nate qui aquas de p^{re}cta or^{is} t^ue p^{re}uacacoe qui aquas amaras tamarit p^{re}uacacoe liqui dulcore queridisti qui sole & luna p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe fecisti qui p^{re}uacacoe iordani^m p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe israel diuidisti qui daniel^{em} de lacu leonu^m exipisti qui h^{oc} p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe & abdenap^{us} d^{omi}nate aut^{us} ab^{is}ce ille p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe qui susanna p^{re}uacacoe de p^{re}cto d^{omi}nate lib^{er} uacacoe qui rona de uacacoe r^oti saluasti p^{re}uacacoe & alia multa mirabilia q^{ue} fecisti & audi p^{re}uacacoe re p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe tui & d^{omi}nate q^{ue} c^{on}ti nue p^{re}uacacoe & uirtute^m sup^{er} maligno p^{re}uacacoe ad p^{re}uacacoe uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe & maledicacoe et et p^{re}uacacoe uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe & p^{re}uacacoe m^undat m^undat uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe d^{omi}nate qui est p^{re}uacacoe & t^undat uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe & p^{re}uacacoe adonay p^{re}uacacoe t^undat & p^{re}uacacoe d^{omi}nate & que sub p^{re}uacacoe uacacoe ad p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe uacacoe m^undat & t^undat uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe ut q^{ue} et m^undat p^{re}uacacoe uirtute^m obtineat ad p^{re}uacacoe maligno p^{re}uacacoe uacacoe uacacoe ut uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe et p^{re}uacacoe obedi^{ent} p^{re}uacacoe atq^{ue} m^undat uacacoe ampl^{ius} aduacacoe & m^undat qui p^{re}uacacoe h^{oc} p^{re}uacacoe et t^undat uacacoe & t^undat p^{re}uacacoe et p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe p^{re}uacacoe

In pre omni iuste adonay sanctissime qui es fons misericordie et pietatis origo rex regum et dominus dominorum qui per omnia tempora dominas stabis tua regna et regnum ab ipso omnia regna omnia regna omnia regna omnia gubernas omnia tua virtute moderas qui quies delinco fac et adynaytes et pluritudine tuam pervenisti ut intra sit in celo glorificationem et laudem et omnia tua adoret te et psallat et et ego tuum idignus peccator psalla et ac psallam dicta mea tuo piissime et misericordissime de misericordia tua super omnia et tu quia deus tua regna plurimam deploro et exoptulo ut in virtute tua et dona gratia tua operetur et et faciat omnia et operetur quicquid et invocantes qui in hoc libro habet ut virtute et efficacia et instituta sit potest obtineat et et in malis prout exortare per te faciat et in exortati et in potest faciat statim et et que veniat et reponat veritatem reddant et mandata exortare perficiat preante illo tu e laus et gratia qui regnat in per te per te et in pre / Adonay meloty adonay navoloty et colam navoty adonay et que eadem et et significata sunt miras tuas et ineffabile prete tua prestantissima adonay tua te et deo ut mihi postulati licet idignus famulo tuo et auxilium gratia tua preare dignetur super quo omnia et in vocantes tuis precibus et verbis insignitas et in hoc libro habet et et eloc adonay saday alpha et o ye ye aseris usion pantration et exortation adonay omnia omnia omnia et choram messias potest stimulatam emanet

[illegible]

audire nunc tuo velat de loco suo deat & vestire ad me accedat ipse ipse tibi dicit qui te desuper in celis pedibus in se cidentem te dicitur teperit audi ergo dicitur nequissime et tunc videtur & pfectus accipit dicitur dei nobis qui ipse tu ergo dicitur nequissime dicitur fides quam perit mortis repellit in se dicitur dicitur malis videtur famem videtur pedibus quibus demonum magister qui stat & respicit tu scis te perdes vides tuas illas metus qui in se est quodam dicitur venit dicitur magna accipit in se dicitur dicitur suavitatem triumphat audi ergo dicitur & tunc dicitur dea & est magis parat dicitur nequissime pfectus dicitur te spes antiqua pfectus dicitur & mor tuos perit qui habet pfectus te mittit in se na ut facias eis quicquid populus & id dicitur qui pfectus in illis dicitur dicitur te dicitur ad mea vi si vultis pfectus ut sit subiectus magis dicitur et si magis pfectus te dicitur ipse xpi illud pfectus te vult qui se pfectus appropinquat tuis pfectus pfectus illud in tunc dicitur dicitur qui de dicitur pfectus in se dicitur dicitur pfectus tibi dicitur quod per tibi pfectus dicitur de qua xpus pfectus morte redemit ne resistas ne moreris affligere mihi & velle mea ipse & ne me dicitur pfectus ad dicitur te tibi dicitur deus pfectus tibi dicitur deus pfectus ipse pfectus tibi dicitur pfectus pfectus si pfectus & pauli & dicitur dicitur ipse tibi indulgentia dicitur dicitur tibi pfectus pfectus pfectus & dicitur dicitur dicitur tibi pfectus pfectus dicitur tibi pfectus pfectus dicitur tibi pfectus dicitur tibi pfectus
pfectus dicitur tibi pfectus dicitur tibi pfectus

etiam ipse p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita m[er]itorum et p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] ipse tibi m[er]itorum m[er]itorum ipse p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita x[risti] ipse m[er]itorum m[er]itorum d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] aut qui m[er]itorum d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui m[er]itorum te p[ro]p[ter] et vasa tua d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum ubi tibi et m[er]itorum m[er]itorum est p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti]
 p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] redemptio tua et d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum et vasa tua d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum fuisti et m[er]itorum m[er]itorum p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] tui m[er]itorum p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum nequissime p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum imitatio qui ambulat p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum qui eductat leone et dracone ut facias cito q[uod] ipse tibi et p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum no[n] d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] tunc tui m[er]itorum m[er]itorum p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti]
 d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] et p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum honorat que d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] et p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum fessio vobis laudant ipse tibi d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum est ipse p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum nazareno ipse p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum oia que p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum ap[er]io q[uod] quanto tunc d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum magis p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum te maledicta ac nequissime et maledictissime p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti]
 p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum rem p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum de p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum gabriel m[er]itorum que tu vidisti p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] manu d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum auctor d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum subdit tui d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum et p[ro]p[ter] m[er]ita d[omi]ni n[ost]ri ih[esu] x[risti] qui te p[ro]p[ter] m[er]itorum m[er]itorum vidue & oēs electi dei diebus ac noctibus indefesse vocali collaudat dicentes in saecula saeculorum qui erat qui ē & qui ē & venturus ē & qui est opus ut nō pēnas transgredi precepta mea / Nec te laetetur tibi divine penas & divine tormenta & divine die iudicii & divine diem supplicij pauperum pēventurus ē velud elebanti ignis ardētis quo & inget tuos patres & semper in hostia & ideo pēna nequicia dampnat & dampnat de honoris deo vno & vero & esto in pēna ut tua precepta mea adimplere de honoris ipse xps filio eius de honoris ipse pēna pēna deus nōc nōc ubi pēna & digne ut nōc eius ac pēna meo obediāti in oēs cetera defuit que dēbent & pēna pēna laudat dicentes. p. p. p. duo deq dēbent qui regnat & dnat pēna pēna pēna pēna pēna ac dēbent ad pēna & digne ut nō obediāti in alio pēna ut nōc ut lesio ut pēna cetera & ac meo nōc & pēna pēna quia te digne pēna pēna pēna facta & facienda pēna pēna cetera nōc morta pēna qui te deo pēna quia te & pēna & pēna pēna & pēna imadate pēna pēna & pēna pēna atq de pla-cet quia te ac pēna & digne pēna pēna ligari & dēbent pēna pēna te pēna & pēna omni pēna pēna pēna pēna pēna eius pēna pēna pēna atq digne pēna ut & digne pēna pēna pēna de die iudicii ut ut nō pēna nōc pēna labore tuo pēna pēna nōc pēna & ut pēna alio officio tuo & alio pēna & pēna & de pēna ut pēna pēna pēna pēna pēna

[illegible]

et principes et de generis demonum quod deest et et culpa tua deest et quod aduerso et proprio tibi ut ipse et preceptis meis obediens sit deus ipse lordino et petat ut filii ipsius sine impedimento per tulerit per vos proprio ut meis preceptis sic inductus quod datus et in omni voluntate mea obediens sicut mare rubrum moysi et aaron obedi uit quod se digne et uere sicut filius ipsius secundum sui precepta sic ego per uocatus sum in me ipse tibi ipse ut michi sine mora per omni lesione deest mei et tu uideam benigne obediens ut sepe ait. Olinum intellectus clarissimus simplex uibile felicitatis ingenium. Olinum substantia celestis scilicet dicitur ipse per se de altissime qui abulans super penas victor et ipse per se tota terra te rogo supplicat ut perducas dignetur hodie veteris per se tui intellectus thesaurum in ipse dilectus per se tui qui sufficit tota terra cordis mundo et me me ut deus sapiens et scilicet intellectus valeat per se qui co omni scilicet et intellectus in quo per se et aquo per se et quia in ista terra tunc tunc vinctum incipiat dicere loquar propter tunc per se et per se tunc per se vinctum per se regit per se ipse per se non fundat tunc et istos per se et omni circumscriptos radiorum per se volunt uti tunc per se debet per se tunc et per se et aliquibus remotis super aqua per se tunc potuit ymo per se accedit per se totum tunc per se ut tunc per se tunc tunc tunc totum per se et alibi per se tunc ut tunc tunc tunc in vinctum per se tunc ut in tunc per se per se et tunc ista scilicet volunt uti tunc per se tunc per se per se tunc in quo est radius

Paphalos secretos quoniam ista scilicet apud auctore sunt id est apud eum qui cuncta scit nobilior et poterior est omnibus aliis personis et ceteris dignioribus sapientioribus et quibus bonis moribus imbutis dignitas et ea reuelare et per magis locum sufficientem ac si oportuit repperat tunc per principia sua debet que ab ipso spectant pro quibus spectant debet remanere secundum absolutum iudicium et per se custodi-endo et ieiunando quicquid et missa audiendo tunc die quando veniat magis plus ut scio uno ad locum ubi inter prius sum repperit tunc immediate tunc ubi fuit in ipso occupata tunc magis fuit tunc in tunc et faciat per se tunc in tunc et per se ubi magis et nec per se nec magis nec nec nec capillos vocat et tunc donec magis accit quidam absolutus ordinatio tunc magis vadit ad locum per se nam quo per se tenet dare responsum et faciat per se per se per se per se per se per se per se quibus veniat facit per se ad locum gloriosissime ad locum ut postea dicat per se per se per se et deo quicquid alio ordine per se deo magis hoc facto magis per se faciat per se per se capiat quicquid per se per se per se per se quicquid ut per se per se et per se per se ad per se quicquid tunc magis capiat acapit ad que per se per se per se per se per se per se legat per se per se et per se per se per se nec responsum dedit caueat per se per se non vult nec quicquid et per se per se per se propter actum operatum fuisse et per se per se per se quicquid per se per se per se per se per se si vero per se veniat tunc benigne suscipiat cu dicit benedictus tu et pariat ei q naminem leat nec t adueta nec rressu suo deinde be nigne auscultet va ipius et mende tenet que abore ipsius pcedit et post colloqu si tuc mget priet aliquit interrogare subbreuiloquo et supet faciat peticos suos et dilige rebecca eius repositos et q p adueta cu licet tunc dicit vade in pace et nemi nocuas deinde faciat sig tunc ipse sua postea deuotissima mende rapiat pbi redeptor mde it et deus vnu et omi regis vbi aduetales postea faciat sig tunc sua fide sua et tpetu reat et vider adueta su vbi habuit pbi tuc vadit adueta tunc tquo pbi puit et faciat cu b leg et supdidat oicos m faciat cu tunc deatulo postea signat se sigato te aut ut pence possit recede de partibus vbi et p cunct q mget pbi suo tata familiarite q ei sui pfulguratissim pecti reuelat et sua pecti artificiale adpny declarat dicit cu ad adueta debuit et ymagine vbi opo cu pmo nigro postea faciat tunc cu tuncello suo et asigat tunc tquo pbi suo pbi deat postea mde cu pbi et opedit cu pqua pbi pbi deat mde et qli se regit tunc deat et qli pbi tunc suo reat deat et quo pbi deat deatulo et qli tressu suo cu licet tunc tenet et quo pbi deat deatulo et quo deat se dicit et qer oia deat mget pbi suo opede tunc cu mde tunc pmitte ne adueta pbi tunc mde pbi puitat pbi mget deat pbi nec aliy tunc qeruat tunc pbi et mget q tunc pbi licet et recedat deat pbi pbi deat et die reuendit et obedire alioquin pro no scilicet quicquidque et nactum

 suo. Incipit quidam loci in suo deinde sic gloriosissime adonay que est et regnat etc atque sub ipso omnia deus et tunc in vocatibus meo et deinde pro ut ille locus pfecto virtute obtemperat qua obtemperat debet hely. a. acay ad aequil gedoborach zam baldi uson elyas omnia caritatem in milia mambecach deactico gebura pign ptebudo pucthon bayes aboriel pte apathan metiarab ytoro muohi viorana senore uson tetoganti haud vloron abdon medicos etosiden acactimon. Ita deus. Ihesu redemptor qui in hac munda venisti salua me delectissime pe cunne me de iuniorum mea duc quicquid pro mea duc mea cor meum corpus meum et tu meo mea quia psume deus me famulum et pectore missus in hoc mundo creasti ut iusticia tua tibi gratia refusa te auctore pte et aduocate qui regis ordinis et tuo moderat deus benedictus ipse Tunc. Unus regis visibilis et invisibilis dux salor et laetior et auctor ois boni dux pte tua potestate magna. Beille iusticia tua et oia voluntate mea iusticia et in iusticia tuo ois psume deus deus et deus dnamen deus et regis noli respice multitudinem peccatorum meorum sed ego misere multiplicat obvelut pte pte pte delectia tua laetior in gratia tua infinita et de iusticia effectum cogitandi et pte deus intelligendi pte deus in hoc opus quicquid deus memoria tenat ea reuerentia et opem et gratia tua sensu meo accomoda et iusticia me iusticia pro pte et iusticia carnis quod opem deus iusticia missus pte tua iusticia pte abluat et deus mea me restitueret qui quocumque ad pristinum statum Antiochie reducere et tua super omnia asine usque ad fine potest et disponis ad suum. Ego misericordie deus da michi misericordiam potest et michi in operibus quod consummari perfectum effectum estque sine omni delictis et fallacia prestat te qui consumptus in substantia et primo disponis deus hunc ista tunc mundus nunc et omni eorum visibilium et invisibilium sine omni exceptione creator tu es omnia et plura filia hunc facultate mei opus obmectam tunc atque omni celestem tuum gratia celestis multo tunc boni et quanta tunc effectum opus meum quodam effu pisse deus gratia propter tuum tuum meum et tunc mea et tunc mea mea et multiplica tunc dona propter tuum coram deo tunc tunc gratia et fructum non gratia tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tuos edocuisse opus tunc septisimo mactem superior tuum tuum tuum tuum tuum tuum tuum tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc et deo tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc

 tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc deus ut tibi valeat summe et obedire tunc et tunc
 tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc nobis fili redemptor tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc
 tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc
 o x deus dei genitor o x deus vero verus o x deus michael o x deus ieremias o x deus gabriel o x deus tuus et tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc vixit vos maligni propter amara propter vestra lucifer propter regem regum propter iustitiam subit deo vultu iustitiam consumit ut propter cogit
 tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc tunc

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

affige locu tu et tunc a fac fud ita ut fud quita fac dudu tu gladio et fuge gladiu in modu dudu apella baractano fup fupha fudu col

Supra die hoc aliam ptem ptem mptupis erat tm et pr m et que muer tu nudo

pnc zoal et au^{lo} et p^mu^o cu^m s^um^uq^u s^um^uq^u et p^oci^oz omib^u d^o d^o de s^um^uq^u q^ual^u de m^osi^uq^u s^ubi^uq^u de dieb^u s^ubi^uq^u de metallis p^oci^oz de lapidib^u adama^u de a^ul^u elephat^u et m^um^u de a^ul^uq^u co^um^uz m^ul^um^u et s^ubs^um^ug^uaco^ues co^up^u d^ul^uq^u n^ul^u a^uq^ule b^uel^uomal^u e^ucl^uu^uz e^ual^uob^ued^u b^uon^uq^u a^uml^u p^ou^u d^uist^uord^uia
 In^uq^uas^uq^u p^osonas b^ubi^u b^uis e^un^u b^uol^uu^uis fac^ui a^uml^uu^u fac^ui fac^u e^un^u s^uat^uno e^up^ute m^uq^u a^uq^ure de ferro a^u p^one m^u co^u lapid^u adama^u s^ue s^uul^upe m^uq^u lapid^u h^uo^uz e^uq^uat^u s^uu^up^u elephat^u a^u p^ou^u a^uq^u e^un^u a^ul^uo^u b^uu^um^u m^u s^uig^ua^u co^um^u a^ul^uu^um^u s^uig^ua^u m^ul^um^u e^u fac^u q^uda^u f^uer^uea b^uar^uq^u s^uig^ua^u e^u p^one s^uub^u lapid^u e^uq^upleto m^udda d^uom^uz s^uub^u s^ui g^uando co^ul^uo^ual^u e^u e^uo^uz^uz^u a^u b^uer^u p^uu^u s^uig^ua^u e^uu^uer^u Co^up^u r^u loq^uu^ur^u de quoc^uu^uz b^uis b^uer^uet n^u m^u s^uo^ur^u de qua d^uo^uz^u b^uu^u e^uo^uz^uz^u s^ui s^uep^ut m^u q^uis s^uu^ur^u n^uo^u s^uecta a^u o^ucc^uulta s^uu^ur^u h^uu^uom^uoz^um^u
 th^uu^uz^uh^uem^uz m^ueh^uat e^uad^uh^uu^und t^uam^uoz^u b^uu^uz^um^u p^ou^uom^uz th^uab^uh^uu^uch^u b^u a^u p^uhar^uach^u d^uam^uend^uel a^uu^um^uz^um^u ab^uhal^uac^u s^uu^uz^um^u o^uu^ubo^uz^um^u e^uh^uez^uu^ul^um^u m^uast^uar^uo^uz

E d d d d d d d d d d
 b d a o g z v d p l q b k d g o c e e c d e e e e e e e e e e
 e t d a t m r u o t f

Semoz m capre loq^ur^u de quib^uz b^uis e^uu^ur^u que sunt alio discordia iudicant die salbi acipe cibum cornu & sanguinem & cor & & pulvis & pice pulvis iudicant duos & erunt discordes & erunt sanguine pice hanc & exorsis & pice in domo cor & odient se

Sermo 39 in pice salbi die erit fac & ad de ara & pice non erit in bis & hanc in eis & subfuga eis erit pice & vna in onde calidat vna & odient se

Sermo 40 in pice fac iudicant de auxilla de ara figuli & pice hanc in ea & subfuga & pice in loco ubi in me nunc & erit in me & in me Eod die sunt in pice non erit in eis & pice hanc & hanc eis in pice erit de pice & pice in coquina multas & in tra subfidi in olla & sic in loco ubi vna calidat & erit in me ille in coquina non erit & in pice

Sermo 41 die salbi nuda pice hanc non erit in eis in coquina omnia da si bis ad me & in me in me nec erit in quibus tollit illud memor hanc & pice & si pice non erit hanc in costa & in nunc quibus bis & pice in do cor & erit discordes q. in eis ibi costilla Sermo sup Jona

pno alimster et alio pice de pice & pice & de mofily nunc de die pice

De metallo stann de lapidibz albinari. i. cristallo de animalibz erietes onces a vitulos de canibz pino de ambz gallu albu Cuius voluio horu
a ped alom adam ut les fiat annu de stanni die jomo jone in pscibz pone in es lapide cristalli a stulpe in eo lapide hoz sicut ho docet a fac horu in gra annu a poc sub lapide q qpleto heas domu munda a poc annu in dnu to a subfinga cu aloz a masticer in pde annu lu in domo et exozza a q a dnu beiet Et heas a p dcorz alu de il. celz cor et fel a spatulas a poc cap in base a exozza
a cu aloz dnu beiet pno jomo se dnu fup sup enetq loquit cap a d. q dnu et
p. a beiet pno jussu dei qui cu disposuit.

Uniq annu e q diloz a mactu qfiet poudi cu formant dnu a et beiet in dnu nom exoz sup jone qui sup ptonissim effe.

Smehizy amon hedyozz tanq hmyz fethizy labnazz a aloz banna azuch in d. labul azalpyz zuchphieyl

Wz Ez Ez Ez Ez Ez

Wz Ez Ez Ez Ez Ez

Wz Ez Ez Ez Ez Ez

Suma qm capite lo. r. p. dnu Biqcebu da in poma ulm cibo cu bolus et diliget te a de fmg me cu nptu cu co pbe hary a por recidet dnu te diligit

241
Ist pulvis cor ei qd da pulm cibo nil in potu cungq voluit a diligit Ist liga cu lingua fel 2 misce cu aq roseat 2 omes bident 2 tenebur
2 Spacula sume 2 pbe lapa 2 pulpe in ea subfunda 2 excoiza in q^{ta} fia bideb que pte voluit Ead vng em gallo albo

Sermo 59 in yge homo fia q^{ta} stagnu mundi
a meo fac ymag hanc subfunda et pulpe lapa
2 excoiza cu 2 cu pte de colla galli albo
2 accipe sanguine ei qd vng ymag et subfunda
2 excoiza 2 in balne d fice albo 2 pbe cu aq sanguine excoizum in carta virginea 2 lapa cor ta ad collu ymag 2 poru recu et iugiter magnatos htraboz 2 cu cu recu hinc p o feneret ppe Et cu ymagine dissolues ligatur
2 macturatos 2 impet bio di Ira pacificabis Stimor mulieru Induces student repellas Et mtra alia mes in hanc qm sumit mtra culu omes 2 pte 30 2 an^h 20 qm bo separet ab excoizmo 2 lapa Et pte in annos mra ptra hanc 2 an^h si dent in cibo nil in potu si tangat q si si no poss in domo ei ptra 2 pfiat De morte

Sermo sup morte scia alim rehan lapa et opio ei qd maro h de dieb piam teta De signis ariet de mofibz aple de mra co ruben de lapidibz iagurcos rubes de ma 7 lupos canes mralegos 2 hoco de ambz volucres de arboribz ppy de subfundaibz almore azeari 2 sulphur parat in sang^{re} di actor die n^{ost} in mose apho morte maruere exute fac amulu ex exepoc in eo p^{ro}duca pide et senlpe in eo milite armario sup equu n^{ost} leone equitate 2 in capite se be has h^{ab}et H T Z Ga in carta se be h^{ab}et n^{ost} in p^{ro}mu fuo oprio subeo 2 poe sub lapide dno fco muda dom a mme re de b^{er}cho 2 in m^ul^{ti} bas

p^{ro} cap^{it} h^{ab}et n^{ost} leone n^{ost} can^{is} n^{ost} n^{ost} m^ul^{ti} legi 2 accede adela deq^{ue} lichum sic de can^{is} fca sup^{er}posi n^{ost} mali necari 2 subf^{er}ma 2 die d^{ic} t^{er}re cismu 2 de p^{ro}duca p^{ro}duca in p^{ro}duca 2 in amulo 2 in bidia ead^{em} t^{er}re 2 si cap^{it} leg^{it} fac op^{er} t^{er}re p^{ro} m^ul^{ti} p^{ro}duca subf^{er}ma h^{ab}et d^{ic} t^{er}re 2 exor^{is} fca belocia 2 loq^{ue} cap^{it} 2 in d^{ic} t^{er}re ad d^{ic} t^{er}re ex m^ul^{ti} de p^{ro}duca nom^{ine} exor^{is} fca 2 reg^{is} m^ul^{ti}
... 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55 56 57 58 59 60 61 62 63 64 65 66 67 68 69 70 71 72 73 74 75 76 77 78 79 80 81 82 83 84 85 86 87 88 89 90 91 92 93 94 95 96 97 98 99 100 101 102 103 104 105 106 107 108 109 110 111 112 113 114 115 116 117 118 119 120 121 122 123 124 125 126 127 128 129 130 131 132 133 134 135 136 137 138 139 140 141 142 143 144 145 146 147 148 149 150 151 152 153 154 155 156 157 158 159 160 161 162 163 164 165 166 167 168 169 170 171 172 173 174 175 176 177 178 179 180 181 182 183 184 185 186 187 188 189 190 191 192 193 194 195 196 197 198 199 200 201 202 203 204 205 206 207 208 209 210 211 212 213 214 215 216 217 218 219 220 221 222 223 224 225 226 227 228 229 230 231 232 233 234 235 236 237 238 239 240 241 242 243 244 245 246 247 248 249 250 251 252 253 254 255 256 257 258 259 260 261 262 263 264 265 266 267 268 269 270 271 272 273 274 275 276 277 278 279 280 281 282 283 284 285 286 287 288 289 290 291 292 293 294 295 296 297 298 299 300 301 302 303 304 305 306 307 308 309 310 311 312 313 314 315 316 317 318 319 320 321 322 323 324 325 326 327 328 329 330 331 332 333 334 335 336 337 338 339 340 341 342 343 344 345 346 347 348 349 350 351 352 353 354 355 356 357 358 359 360 361 362 363 364 365 366 367 368 369 370 371 372 373 374 375 376 377 378 379 380 381 382 383 384 385 386 387 388 389 390 391 392 393 394 395 396 397 398 399 400 401 402 403 404 405 406 407 408 409 410 411 412 413 414 415 416 417 418 419 420 421 422 423 424 425 426 427 428 429 430 431 432 433 434 435 436 437 438 439 440 441 442 443 444 445 446 447 448 449 450 451 452 453 454 455 456 457 458 459 460 461 462 463 464 465 466 467 468 469 470 471 472 473 474 475 476 477 478 479 480 481 482 483 484 485 486 487 488 489 490 491 492 493 494 495 496 497 498 499 500 501 502 503 504 505 506 507 508 509 510 511 512 513 514 515 516 517 518 519 520 521 522 523 524 525 526 527 528 529 530 531 532 533 534 535 536 537 538 539 540 541 542 543 544 545 546 547 548 549 550 551 552 553 554 555 556 557 558 559 560 561 562 563 564 565 566 567 568 569 570 571 572 573 574 575 576 577 578 579 580 581 582 583 584 585 586 587 588 589 590 591 592 593 594 595 596 597 598 599 600 601 602 603 604 605 606 607 608 609 610 611 612 613 614 615 616 617 618 619 620 621 622 623 624 625 626 627 628 629 630 631 632 633 634 635 636 637 638 639 640 641 642 643 644 645 646 647 648 649 650 651 652 653 654 655 656 657 658 659 660 661 662 663 664 665 666 667 668 669 670 671 672 673 674 675 676 677 678 679 680 681 682 683 684 685 686 687 688 689 690 691 692 693 694 695 696 697 698 699 700 701 702 703 704 705 706 707 708 709 710 711 712 713 714 715 716 717 718 719 720 721 722 723 724 725 726 727 728 729 730 731 732 733 734 735 736 737 738 739 740 741 742 743 744 745 746 747 748 749 750 751 752 753 754 755 756 757 758 759 760 761 762 763 764 765 766 767 768 769 770 771 772 773 774 775 776 777 778 779 780 781 782 783 784 785 786 787 788 789 790 791 792 793 794 795 796 797 798 799 800 801 802 803 804 805 806 807 808 809 810 811 812 813 814 815 816 817 818 819 820 821 822 823 824 825 826 827 828 829 830 831 832 833 834 835 836 837 838 839 840 841 842 843 844 845 846 847 848 849 850 851 852 853 854 855 856 857 858 859 860 861 862 863 864 865 866 867 868 869 870 871 872 873 874 875 876 877 878 879 880 881 882 883 884 885 886 887 888 889 890 891 892 893 894 895 896 897 898 899 900 901 902 903 904 905 906 907 908 909 910 911 912 913 914 915 916 917 918 919 920 921 922 923 924 925 926 927 928 929 930 931 932 933 934 935 936 937 938 939 940 941 942 943 944 945 946 947 948 949 950 951 952 953 954 955 956 957 958 959 960 961 962 963 964 965 966 967 968 969 970 971 972 973 974 975 976 977 978 979 980 981 982 983 984 985 986 987 988 989 990 991 992 993 994 995 996 997 998 999 1000

her p^{ro} noua p^{ro}duca sup^{er} morte dake ad d^{ic} t^{er}re
h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca
h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55 56 57 58 59 60 61 62 63 64 65 66 67 68 69 70 71 72 73 74 75 76 77 78 79 80 81 82 83 84 85 86 87 88 89 90 91 92 93 94 95 96 97 98 99 100 101 102 103 104 105 106 107 108 109 110 111 112 113 114 115 116 117 118 119 120 121 122 123 124 125 126 127 128 129 130 131 132 133 134 135 136 137 138 139 140 141 142 143 144 145 146 147 148 149 150 151 152 153 154 155 156 157 158 159 160 161 162 163 164 165 166 167 168 169 170 171 172 173 174 175 176 177 178 179 180 181 182 183 184 185 186 187 188 189 190 191 192 193 194 195 196 197 198 199 200 201 202 203 204 205 206 207 208 209 210 211 212 213 214 215 216 217 218 219 220 221 222 223 224 225 226 227 228 229 230 231 232 233 234 235 236 237 238 239 240 241 242 243 244 245 246 247 248 249 250 251 252 253 254 255 256 257 258 259 260 261 262 263 264 265 266 267 268 269 270 271 272 273 274 275 276 277 278 279 280 281 282 283 284 285 286 287 288 289 290 291 292 293 294 295 296 297 298 299 300 301 302 303 304 305 306 307 308 309 310 311 312 313 314 315 316 317 318 319 320 321 322 323 324 325 326 327 328 329 330 331 332 333 334 335 336 337 338 339 340 341 342 343 344 345 346 347 348 349 350 351 352 353 354 355 356 357 358 359 360 361 362 363 364 365 366 367 368 369 370 371 372 373 374 375 376 377 378 379 380 381 382 383 384 385 386 387 388 389 390 391 392 393 394 395 396 397 398 399 400 401 402 403 404 405 406 407 408 409 410 411 412 413 414 415 416 417 418 419 420 421 422 423 424 425 426 427 428 429 430 431 432 433 434 435 436 437 438 439 440 441 442 443 444 445 446 447 448 449 450 451 452 453 454 455 456 457 458 459 460 461 462 463 464 465 466 467 468 469 470 471 472 473 474 475 476 477 478 479 480 481 482 483 484 485 486 487 488 489 490 491 492 493 494 495 496 497 498 499 500 501 502 503 504 505 506 507 508 509 510 511 512 513 514 515 516 517 518 519 520 521 522 523 524 525 526 527 528 529 530 531 532 533 534 535 536 537 538 539 540 541 542 543 544 545 546 547 548 549 550 551 552 553 554 555 556 557 558 559 560 561 562 563 564 565 566 567 568 569 570 571 572 573 574 575 576 577 578 579 580 581 582 583 584 585 586 587 588 589 590 591 592 593 594 595 596 597 598 599 600 601 602 603 604 605 606 607 608 609 610 611 612 613 614 615 616 617 618 619 620 621 622 623 624 625 626 627 628 629 630 631 632 633 634 635 636 637 638 639 640 641 642 643 644 645 646 647 648 649 650 651 652 653 654 655 656 657 658 659 660 661 662 663 664 665 666 667 668 669 670 671 672 673 674 675 676 677 678 679 680 681 682 683 684 685 686 687 688 689 690 691 692 693 694 695 696 697 698 699 700 701 702 703 704 705 706 707 708 709 710 711 712 713 714 715 716 717 718 719 720 721 722 723 724 725 726 727 728 729 730 731 732 733 734 735 736 737 738 739 740 741 742 743 744 745 746 747 748 749 750 751 752 753 754 755 756 757 758 759 760 761 762 763 764 765 766 767 768 769 770 771 772 773 774 775 776 777 778 779 780 781 782 783 784 785 786 787 788 789 790 791 792 793 794 795 796 797 798 799 800 801 802 803 804 805 806 807 808 809 810 811 812 813 814 815 816 817 818 819 820 821 822 823 824 825 826 827 828 829 830 831 832 833 834 835 836 837 838 839 840 841 842 843 844 845 846 847 848 849 850 851 852 853 854 855 856 857 858 859 860 861 862 863 864 865 866 867 868 869 870 871 872 873 874 875 876 877 878 879 880 881 882 883 884 885 886 887 888 889 890 891 892 893 894 895 896 897 898 899 900 901 902 903 904 905 906 907 908 909 910 911 912 913 914 915 916 917 918 919 920 921 922 923 924 925 926 927 928 929 930 931 932 933 934 935 936 937 938 939 940 941 942 943 944 945 946 947 948 949 950 951 952 953 954 955 956 957 958 959 960 961 962 963 964 965 966 967 968 969 970 971 972 973 974 975 976 977 978 979 980 981 982 983 984 985 986 987 988 989 990 991 992 993 994 995 996 997 998 999 1000

h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca
h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca
h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca
h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca h^{ab}et p^{ro}duca

Sermo 29 in capite sup pias an^h fac in pno que ut in pceden dcm e pnoh tunc de capite pny ade qm hmo eby fel cor 2 parula to^m hple Sime abzu a pno in bsto dices exorcismu
2 fac pnt a dcm cibo ut in pno enbisp pondy pendens de chcy et diliget te Sime cor 2 pnta 2 pulvis a fac pnt de abzu offe^o pnt in base bnto rubio 2 qmiso ad oleo bnt 2 bnt fac tua fia 3^a es ois sup p m^o dicit
nol. re Cap. 2^a bnt cu luno testoz 2 luno fua rca 2 nly te dicit malu Sap. 1^a Sime 2 pnta in ea horz demort et bnt de pnt et bnt et dices exorcismu bnt med oia pnta q bnto S. pno 3^a

Sermo 30 de bnt. Dei accipe cuncta an^h die
m^o 2 bnt decolla in base 2 pnta linguas 2 ab. 2 corda 2 pnta ex pnta 2 pnta pnta 2 re et cu bnto fac dnta pnta in carta hnt cu pnta 2 pnta 2 pnta carta in do in q pnta an^h re Si bnt pulvis
m^o eos pnta id pnta Si bnt de 2 bnt pnta bnt qm dnt in cibo ut in pnta ex diliget te dnt de pnta corda 2 pnta in bnta 2 pnta 2 pnta tua bnto fia 3^a ois bnta es te tebr
re. obedet 2 a n. betabnt de negabnt 2 pnta pnta pnta 2 pnta 2 re et pnta pnta m^o 2 2 obedet 2 pnta pnta cura rubo dnta et fac pnta pnta m^o in manu dnta en^h re 2 in a^o cap. 2 pnta bnta exorcismu in pnta

[illegible]

17. 12. 3. 4. 5. 6. 7. 8. 9. 10. 11. 12. 13. 14. 15. 16. 17. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 66. 67. 68. 69. 70. 71. 72. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. 84. 85. 86. 87. 88. 89. 90. 91. 92. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 98. 99. 100. 101. 102. 103. 104. 105. 106. 107. 108. 109. 110. 111. 112. 113. 114. 115. 116. 117. 118. 119. 120. 121. 122. 123. 124. 125. 126. 127. 128. 129. 130. 131. 132. 133. 134. 135. 136. 137. 138. 139. 140. 141. 142. 143. 144. 145. 146. 147. 148. 149. 150. 151. 152. 153. 154. 155. 156. 157. 158. 159. 160. 161. 162. 163. 164. 165. 166. 167. 168. 169. 170. 171. 172. 173. 174. 175. 176. 177. 178. 179. 180. 181. 182. 183. 184. 185. 186. 187. 188. 189. 190. 191. 192. 193. 194. 195. 196. 197. 198. 199. 200. 201. 202. 203. 204. 205. 206. 207. 208. 209. 210. 211. 212. 213. 214. 215. 216. 217. 218. 219. 220. 221. 222. 223. 224. 225. 226. 227. 228. 229. 230. 231. 232. 233. 234. 235. 236. 237. 238. 239. 240. 241. 242. 243. 244. 245. 246. 247. 248. 249. 250. 251. 252. 253. 254. 255. 256. 257. 258. 259. 260. 261. 262. 263. 264. 265. 266. 267. 268. 269. 270. 271. 272. 273. 274. 275. 276. 277. 278. 279. 280. 281. 282. 283. 284. 285. 286. 287. 288. 289. 290. 291. 292. 293. 294. 295. 296. 297. 298. 299. 300. 301. 302. 303. 304. 305. 306. 307. 308. 309. 310. 311. 312. 313. 314. 315. 316. 317. 318. 319. 320. 321. 322. 323. 324. 325. 326. 327. 328. 329. 330. 331. 332. 333. 334. 335. 336. 337. 338. 339. 340. 341. 342. 343. 344. 345. 346. 347. 348. 349. 350. 351. 352. 353. 354. 355. 356. 357. 358. 359. 360. 361. 362. 363. 364. 365. 366. 367. 368. 369. 370. 371. 372. 373. 374. 375. 376. 377. 378. 379. 380. 381. 382. 383. 384. 385. 386. 387. 388. 389. 390. 391. 392. 393. 394. 395. 396. 397. 398. 399. 400. 401. 402. 403. 404. 405. 406. 407. 408. 409. 410. 411. 412. 413. 414. 415. 416. 417. 418. 419. 420. 421. 422. 423. 424. 425. 426. 427. 428. 429. 430. 431. 432. 433. 434. 435. 436. 437. 438. 439. 440. 441. 442. 443. 444. 445. 446. 447. 448. 449. 450. 451. 452. 453. 454. 455. 456. 457. 458. 459. 460. 461. 462. 463. 464. 465. 466. 467. 468. 469. 470. 471. 472. 473. 474. 475. 476. 477. 478. 479. 480. 481. 482. 483. 484. 485. 486. 487. 488. 489. 490. 491. 492. 493. 494. 495. 496. 497. 498. 499. 500. 501. 502. 503. 504. 505. 506. 507. 508. 509. 510. 511. 512. 513. 514. 515. 516. 517. 518. 519. 520. 521. 522. 523. 524. 525. 526. 527. 528. 529. 530. 531. 532. 533. 534. 535. 536. 537. 538. 539. 540. 541. 542. 543. 544. 545. 546. 547. 548. 549. 550. 551. 552. 553. 554. 555. 556. 557. 558. 559. 560. 561. 562. 563. 564. 565. 566. 567. 568. 569. 570. 571. 572. 573. 574. 575. 576. 577. 578. 579. 580. 581. 582. 583. 584. 585. 586. 587. 588. 589. 590. 591. 592. 593. 594. 595. 596. 597. 598. 599. 600. 601. 602. 603. 604. 605. 606. 607. 608. 609. 610. 611. 612. 613. 614. 615. 616. 617. 618. 619. 620. 621. 622. 623. 624. 625. 626. 627. 628. 629. 630. 631. 632. 633. 634. 635. 636. 637. 638. 639. 640. 641. 642. 643. 644. 645. 646. 647. 648. 649. 650. 651. 652. 653. 654. 655. 656. 657. 658. 659. 660. 661. 662. 663. 664. 665. 666. 667. 668. 669. 670. 671. 672. 673. 674. 675. 676. 677. 678. 679. 680. 681. 682. 683. 684. 685. 686. 687. 688. 689. 690. 691. 692. 693. 694. 695. 696. 697. 698. 699. 700. 701. 702. 703. 704. 705. 706. 707. 708. 709. 710. 711. 712. 713. 714. 715. 716. 717. 718. 719. 720. 721. 722. 723. 724. 725. 726. 727. 728. 729. 730. 731. 732. 733. 734. 735. 736. 737. 738. 739. 740. 741. 742. 743. 744. 745. 746. 747. 748. 749. 750. 751. 752. 753. 754. 755. 756. 757. 758. 759. 760. 761. 762. 763. 764. 765. 766. 767. 768. 769. 770. 771. 772. 773. 774. 775. 776. 777. 778. 779. 780. 781. 782. 783. 784. 785. 786. 787. 788. 789. 790. 791. 792. 793. 794. 795. 796. 797. 798. 799. 800. 801. 802. 803. 804. 805. 806. 807. 808. 809. 810. 811. 812. 813. 814. 815. 816. 817. 818. 819. 820. 821. 822. 823. 824. 825. 826. 827. 828. 829. 830. 831. 832. 833. 834. 835. 836. 837. 838. 839. 84

Secundo 29 de p[re]cipis p[er] de anno 60 p[ro]
p[er]it et b[er]n[ar]d[us] f[aci]t h[ic] ut b[er]n[ar]d[us] ut m[er]it[us]

De rebus ut de quibus alio meo apte pte pte maneta die dñica Si de pte hñe hñe pte ad macellum a fer retu pelu et cu bidebis anete magno et oculor et ang y bade ad locu ubi d et cu decider ad colla die rante per oeris mullo te audiete decolle cruce et sume sanguine ei a cap d a fel a cor a ad domu reita a su munda a solu a by dispoita a hñe m cudela a subfina m maib cap d a sagno a fel a cor m pelu a pte subfina a migne la dela pte accesa a die a a bora m a a a fer dñis cu bideb ay porta forma nret pe ab eo qd cu bideb a facit bellu m a cu qñe pte nñe repoe cap d et cor a fel bora cap d sume cap d a fode m omli bñe a mñe mpedie ay cap mñe a a repoe m aliq aia h b multiplicab d a si ones no hñe Infode i d m do ma nñe m aia a geta a pte
p enet et succedet bñe cor d sume cor et desica et fac pulu et repoe a da m cibo nñe m porta pondy aia ay cu bñe et dñe sume su hñe sume mñe bñe sume sica cudud bñe aia nñe aia m aliq bñe pte mñe et cu bñe a da pñe nñe mñe hñe distepa de eo cu aq rosacea a pte hñe m palma a m dñe sume cu a pte pte bñe a opñe bñe bñe felle sume fel et pte m fide bñe a de sum oleu illa qd cu aia a cu bñe mñe sume cpe bñe facit mñe i a hñe ab eo hñe illa q mñe aia

Sermo de haled sol a nobis die et hunc sol summe crea et hunc fac magnificas bis et pte hanc solis subfina dicto exorcismum a bunge et dicitur et videtur mirabilia bunge die sol et passet omne et passet et et tunc ut pndice et vade ad domum sub no cunga quo bis diligi et pte bna et decolla aq et pte et pte illig mixto et sang pme et in pameno hunc sol aq alio nota exorcismum et p funt et pte pte alidane a pte culrellu et gunt et et dunt et a dexta liza sub ala exorcismum et a sinistro hanc et qv bolus rebede dunt et ne q tunc pte bna lize et qv dunt et dunt die et dunt pte sol fac hunc amoz et hunc beheneti a mo et dunt et dunt hunc fecit amoz decollare et mofe et dunt et pte opoz et dunt hunc pte Corp amoz pte dunt et dunt mirabilia pte die summe et pte et pte dunt exorcismum sol et dunt et fac pte et dunt et dunt
et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt Sermo et pte bna pte in mense pte die et hunc sol pte pte et dunt fac pte et pte
et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt mala pte et pte pte et dunt et dunt sol et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt
et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt
et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt
et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt
et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt

Sermo sup et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt plura et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt
et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt et dunt

de lapidibz albulis de aialibz bones de ambz pauines rures et pdrices a oms passet pco de arboribz malis maiorz subfingit coes aloen et queth a afizarch seme malne maiorz dr actor cu voluit facit annu fief beuq m r a fac de ere albo m die a ho bene a pone m es lapi
a fente m lapide l muliere sup bone sedete tenete spe l m smst manu a dex pectore fac hanz m gra annu a poc sub lapider sub fingit a exorisa eo at qplete supede annu m domo mndagm r a decolla qdaz voluit de ad. l pdrice m colubada subfingit et exorisa a beiet spne sm m euerge l v caput qd lor a m deb. ad ad q voluit qre et beiet sp ad mddatu tuu vnz annu oms m hie bideq latore annu stim labu amoe eu a faciet qd voluit fac m opibz cap pdr spne d q dead et beiet iusu di m bnt exorism m q su no prosa abrahaz m hapluz m dazmaz m r m m m balemm m derhastraz m effnd m Bach barn m effnd m fahala Bilatad

→ E 8 m m d o r l f S T O D O T o d i s j E o A b f x l o j I L u s

Sermo 29 m capite lo r p de quibz bio bnt pdr pmluzatq a cu aq 20f amoz ex eo pdr haz m no cuq bio a subfingit et exorisa beiet pdrmat. Si bo m cu m m pdr de die diliget te et spatulio pdr pdr hanz sub fingit die bene a bidebio q voluit qd pdr hanz

Manent in bonis bonis et in malis malis in medio
d. Opus eius in iumentis et in fida signum eius gemmae in eis in iumentis de diebus huius fidei et de metallis eius fida de lapidibus omnibus de animalibus similis et de omnibus animalibus in iumentis fidei et huius huius et d. actio in eis in iumentis in iumentis et gemmae faciunt amuletum de iumentis et per lapides et pulchrum et fidei in manu eorum et fidei et huius et huius fidei et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius novum eorum in laqueo eorum et plumbum et per sub lapide quoque plumbum huius domini iumentis et per sub fingit eorum alium et huius alium et alium et decolla similis et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et per et per et huius et huius et huius et huius Signum eorum et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius in ope huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius fidei lapide et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius
et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius et huius

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a personal letter or document, showing various characters and symbols.

Hii sunt que monentur corpore line 1 4^o mundi p^{ri}bi huiusmodi m^undi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi no^ora huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi zelfeneyl n^o huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi huiusmodi
 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55 56 57 58 59 60 61 62 63 64 65 66 67 68 69 70 71 72 73 74 75 76 77 78 79 80 81 82 83 84 85 86 87 88 89 90 91 92 93 94 95 96 97 98 99 100

1592 J T b' 2n 20... J N L A 754

che... r' ide

hec autem munda sunt in corpore lunc et in eorum Sermo et in scia p'us lunc fac. sic fecisti in sole in mense July die et h' lunc lunc exortem hanc de auali cap' lo' et a curu p'fecit p' lunc in p'or' auali et in cap' de fuit per
ore. Onco caput sine cel' et q' n' camelu pone in burro et exorta exor' lunc et da in cibo n' in potu cuq' solus et videt m'ra amor. Si bo' os n' spacula et n' camelu fuerit et coq' cuq' q' d' in sine carne et p'pe in eo n' in ea nota et p'p' m'ra repice in ea et heb'is m'ra de o' q' d' p'ra. Onco sang' et n' camelu e' p' p' m' ad lunc d' b'nt et s'ca ad umbra et pulvis et da in cibo cu' bis pond' m'ra et fier' stult' ab amor. Si bo' sup' ip'm pulvis fecit yd' fiet die lunc sine gamothas in no' et bis et decolla unaq' alia dicendo exor' et sang' et p' m' burro et p'be cu' eo duas carbas in h' m' a' exor' et p'pe alia et p'be c'ntellu ad gut' et q'ac si velles de colla et d'mite et h'ga lunc subala s'mp' et exor' sub d' et p'p' m'ra et cu' bidis lunc die m'p' die exor' et d'mite me ne et accipe me decollata et tolle cor et q' p' m' et da in cibo cu' bis n' p'ce sup' eua diligere. Iy die lunc sine mal' p'mica m' m' d' m'p' cadat de arboe et p'be in ea h'ga p'p' m'ra et exorta in nocte et si quis odoravit ea diligere et si quidem plus 14 die lune summe huiusmodi 1. 13 m pondus 12 et 1/2 a tondo de armear piete sicut dicitur novum mper 2 da cui bis 2 videb mirabilia que hanc et de figura anni 2 sunt hancur mment mper

 hunc 2 videb p eos pnc hunc 2 her p en mper Et sapientes opati sunt p eos mirabilia septi hunc indicata 2 pmissa 2 m que opa mducat plet 14 die lune summe violas et hinc a sica a fac pulvere 2 sic colliges 2 tunc dicit novum fuit 2 si crinis de die mabo n m per re mltid diligit Et sunt h. no. hunc ex quib exorasmg 2 sunt 8 pnc quoz 2 sm. 2 an loz hunc appiat 2 h. q. mlti separant a hanc 2 exor 2 sunt h. q. qm sunt m 11 tpe hunc Explicat lib que fecit et de oculis et sectis de opib m planetar 2 an loz eypenes sapientes egypti Emulo ante 2 ignoro mlti pdest des su lano

155
In den name des vaders des soons en des heyligen geestes Amen Soe beschijnt hier d'boec band ymaginē en d'beeld die der maen toebehoren en hi es genoecht der maen boec Want die maen bond alle anden planete of sterre die meeste macht heeft op ons in dese werelt hier boec Want si ons nader es dan enich band ander planete en dese boec heeft meest der hete gelond gelceest band ons broed Iere spole Want sy brichte d' mede op alle die gene die op die eerde syn Ja op alle dinge die and' de loep der maen syn Indie eide of op die vderste d'waren
In die lucht en in t'wereld Indie welcke men mach met konst van dese boec alle dinge geluckich en salich make of onsalich en ongeluckich en of enge ge sonde of ziele heere of leet verdriuen en overreue machich of verhoen van heere en van vele liefschap make of vuerfap of engher hande d'ing made loep band maen Want die maen heef ind' hemel 28 d'winge en die 28 d'winge d'winge omme binne ene maen syn en blyft in elc d'winge oerent ene dach en ene nach en die d'winge staen indie in die die

In de hemel sijn en als die manne so in een woninge so heest sijn een macht en in een on-d'inge een on- macht. Oec sijn on- d' dach en nacht 24 uren en elc die heest oec sundelinge manne en cracht gelyc der 28 ma-
sion vader manne deen es goet dand quaet
In deen machne goet do en in vader quaet
Ephraim plog

Nu nabe gode es te segge die dier der do
gher van desen werke

Eenec die p'spreekt ic hebbe be-socht alle die beke vande plone en geproeft en van alle den stondie anday hemel ston- mer 10 en van nort waerichinge noch volmaeter boer noch vane wder es suldiche hebbe dan dese boec 10 by 10 di by wder die in hande heest 10 dme gode vande he-mel durtu dese boec deche en velpohonde 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 dianere mede dade sonde di god 10 de gite dach des vinnio vinn met dese boer machne aldar quaet do en di me wilt en alle die soecht diene wilt in elke maer in elke dach en in elc be en dese boec hem hande p'spreke en met 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10

In de hemel sijn en als die manne so in een woninge so heeft sijn een macht en in een andwoning een and' macht. Oec sijn ons' dach en nacht. 24 uren en elc die heeft oec sundelinge manne en cracht. Gelyc de 28 ma-
sion vader manne deen es goet dand' quaet
In deen machme goet do en in vader quaet
Ephraim plog

Nu nabet gode es te seggen de die do do
gher van desen werke

Eenec die p'spreekt ic hebbe sicht alle die beke vaders planne en geproeft en van alle den sterc die anday hemel staen mer es en van niet vaders en nach volmaecten boec noch vane. Oec es schuldich te hebbe dan dese boec. Oec es de bylde die in hande heeft di omme gode vande he-mel dacten dese boec deche en beholde honde. 12 uren. Want die quethede dianere mede dade sende di god rade gite dach des domno. Want met dese boec machme aldar quaet do en dame wilt en alle die doecht di one wilt in alle maent. In elc dach en elc be en dese boec hem hande p'sontele en met 12 uren. Oec dach do want 156.

Als die 6 en indie 11 Woning mygelike
briof soe maect een p om alle brieven maecte make en gehoort te sijn en en wat doeghde dattu wils doer die te wech te doer blien en opalich te make en alle verhefe en te binde en om alle te like sake als die maect es in die 12 Woning mygelike briof soe maect een p om alle brieven en mine te make en gehoort te sijn en en bay soe wat doeghde dattu wils doer
als die maect es in die 13 Woning mygelike
briof soe maect een p om vriendelick verjade dinge en alle ding in doeghde te sette
als die maect es in die 14 Woning mygelike
briof soe maect een p vanden hant di end danch te sijn en da alre brieven die gehe
als die maect es in die 15 Woning mygelike
briof soe maect p vanden opaliched en vanden doeghde te belette ja soe wien en soe wat dinge du belette wils vanden welken en om te vanden die du wils als die en es in die 16 Woning mygelike briof soe maect een p om alle ding te bejagen en te bejagen te bejagen te bejagen te niet te bringen en ind voer te bringen
als die maect es in die 17 Woning mygelike briof soe maect een p om alle ding te be lette vanden welken om mine maect 156.

Als die 6 en indie 11 Woning mygelike
brieffe maect een p om alle brieven minne te make en gehoert te sijn en en dat doeghe dattu wils doeg te woeft te doeg blien en opalich te make en alle berhefe en te binde en om alle
like sake als die maect es in die 12 Woning mygelike brieff maect een p om alle brieven en minne te make en gehoert te sijn en en bay soe dat doeghe dattu wils doeg
als die maect es in die 13 Woning mygelike
brieff maect een p om vriendelec berade zinge en alle dinge in doeghe te sette
als die maect es in die 14 Woning mygelike
brieff maect een p daerom hantich di ond danch te sijn en da alre buens/dies gelike
als die maect es in die 15 Woning mygelike
brieff maect p da opaliched en da alle doeghete belette ja soe wien en soe dat dinge du belette wils da sijn welken en om te bedene dien du wils als die 6 en in die 16 Woning mygelike brieff maect een p om alle dinge te beïagen te bebede te bebede te bedene te niet te bringe en ind boec te bringe
als die maect es in die 17 Woning mygelike brieff maect een p om alle dinge te be lette da alle welken om enne maect

te vol te bringe en te doen niet te doen als die maer es in die 18^{de} inge in geliker bid soe maer een y om alle dinge te gode bringe en vrientcap en be lynt te make en alle conge te doen sijn dat bad menot quaet en spreke als die es in die 19^{de} wongem gelik bid soe maer
y bad linnen en dat algerne conuyllyf en ma of bedem een star en bad alle be dempte en rond te doen en di welddich te make als die es es in die 20^{de} wongem gelik bid dan maer een y om dat di vrient sal sijn die di lile en bedien en lief te hebbe als die maer es in die 21^{de} wongem gelik bid soe maer een y om danch te sijn en te dienst te staen die di lile en te stenge bay alle sake die di rege moegheuen als die maer es in die 22^{de} wongem gelik bid soe maer een y om alle gode ding te doen die di lile als die maer es in die 23^{de} wongem ge lik bid soe maer een y om alle ding te doen dan doecht aen legh en eer en alle geet als die es es in die 24^{de} wongem ge maer een y om alle ding te doen sijn en stille te staen en te binde dat si niet en dore en te niet te doen gaen als die maer es in die 25^{de} wongem gelik bid soe maer een y om alle ding te doen dan bra

LONGOBARDUS

A seventeenth-century collection of works on Magic.

Being a transcription of BL Sloane MS. 3824.

Transcribed and annotated by

“T.S.”

Issued by Celephaïs Press, Leeds.
Transcribed and edited by Frater T.S.

The main texts of this work (written / redacted / copied / translated by Elias Ashmole and various persons unknown in the latter half of the 17th century) are public domain by expiry of term. Editorial material originating with this edition, transcription / typesetting, redrawn illustrations and the like are released under a Creative Commons 4.0 Attribution-Noncommercial-ShareAlike (CC-BY-NC-SA) license — creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/

This is an incomplete provisional release: several pages of talismanic figures are still to be redrawn.

Contents

| | |
|---|-----|
| Source | 2 |
| Note on the transcription | 2 |
| Summary of contents | 3 |
| Sigla | 5 |
| Part I: Longobardus | |
| A Prayer to be said before the Calling Forth of Elemental or Infernal Spirits | 7 |
| L. [Conjuration of Lucifer, Beelzebub and Satan] | 8 |
| An Operation for the Obtaining of Treasure Trove | 10 |
| A General Invocation, Conjuration or Constringation | 20 |
| Experiment to bring back a thief | 24 |
| Of the Consecrations and Benedictions [general rubric for spirit summoning] | 32 |
| [Elias Ashmole's notes on Janua Magica Reserata] | 41 |
| [Janua Magica Reserata : further excerpts and fragments] | 77 |
| [An untitled fragment] | 83 |
| The Second Part of the Art of King Solomon | 84 |
| [A book of talismans] | |
| Part II: Another book of talismans | 114 |
| Part III: Some Experiments of Spirits | 119 |
| To call out spirits that are keepers of Treasure Trove | 120 |
| Choice Experiment to obtain Treasure Trove | 141 |
| An Experiment of Bret | 146 |
| An Experiment of the Spirit Birto | 147 |
| Of the Spirit Bealphares | 149 |
| An Experiment of the Spirit Vassago | 151 |
| An Experiment of the Spirit Agares | 153 |
| An Experiment to obtain whatever is desired | 157 |
| Of the Spirit Bleth | 158 |
| Of various spirits: Mamon, Seere, Dantalion, Andromalius and others | 160 |
| The Names of several Spirits, both with, and without their Characters | 163 |
| [Of the three Infernal Chiefs and the four Demon Kings of the Quarters] | 166 |
| Part IV: Trithemius Redivivus [Steganographia] | 173 |
| Part V: The Magick and Magical Elements of the Seven Days [Heptameron] | 199 |
| Bibliography | 236 |

Source.

The following transcriptions are based on digitised images made (apparently in 2003) from microfilm photographs of the manuscript, which have been in Internet circulation for a while (as a PDF which also includes Sloane MSS. 3677 & 3821). The digitisation process reduced the greyscale photographs to 1-bit black & white, albeit at fairly high resolution (probably 500 dpi or more effective) resulting in some loss of detail; rubricated text in particular is frequently nigh-unreadable. Owing to the tight binding of the original MS. combined with the settings used for digitisation, text is lost in the gutter in many places.

Note on the transcription.

English spelling, punctuation and capitalisation has been retained as far as the MS. is legible. English orthography was not standardised at the time this MS. was written down, and it is not unusual to see multiple spellings of a word in the course of a single page or even paragraph. Modernising spelling could be misleading as English useage has also changed in the three and a half centuries or so since this was written.

Names of angels, spirits &c. are standardised in so far as, if a name is consistently spelt one way in the course of a particular text, variants that only occur once are generally treated as copyist errors. If there is sufficient variation to make establishing a standard orthography impossible, then the variants are transcribed.

Words or parts of words lost in the gutter or to torn edges are conjecturally restored from context where possible, flagged with double square brackets — [[these things]]

Boldface has been used to represent words that are lettered out rather than written cursively, typically names of angels or spirits, names or titles of God, &c. Rubrication is used where the MS. is apparently rubricated.

Scribal abbreviations have been expanded (y^e for ‘the’; y^t for ‘that’; -cōn for ‘-tion’; w^{ch} for ‘which’; w^t for “what,” wth for “with,” -m^{ts} for ‘-ments,’ tildes generally, &c.) with the exception that ‘&’ for ‘and’ is retained as this is still in general use.

Line breaks are not generally noted or reproduced. Catch-words (and duplicated words at page breaks in the text body) are not generally transcribed. Cancelled text is footnoted rather than included in the body.

The start of each page is noted in square brackets, in blue, with the current official foliation.

Figures have been redrawn.

Summary of contents.

Sloane MS. 3824 is a collection of multiple originally separate works, with different authors and copyists, that were bound up together prior to being acquired by Hans Sloane in the sale of Joseph's Jekyll's library in 1739/40.¹

The first half or so (fol. 2-79) appears to have been a single notebook, the vast bulk of the text in which is in one hand, generally believed to be that of Elias Ashmole, copied or summarized from multiple earlier MSS. The significance of the title "Longobardus," which appears on fol. 2r (with a contents list in a later hand, probably by Sloane's librarian, below it) is unclear,² and possibly only refers to the materials on fol. 3-29, or even 3-15.

The contents of this notebook are:

- Fol. 3-15 form a collection of prayers and conjurations based around "calling forth of Elemental or Infernal Powers, or Spirits of Darkness": there is a preliminary prayer, an invocation of "L[ucifer] B[eelzebub] and S[atan]" to beat up on lesser spirits, a conjuration of a group of named spirits for the purpose of treasure-hunting, and a general conjuration (deriving from the Solomonic Vinculum Spirituum via the Heptameron of pseudo-Abano) addressed to any "Spirit or Spiritual power" whose name is to be plugged in where the text reads "N." These materials share style and significant elements of phrasing with the "Invocation of Angels" texts of the same period.³
- Fol. 16-21 contain a process to catch a thief and recover stolen goods, calling on four "Bishops" who are in turn said to be underlings of the traditional Demon Kings of the quarters: similar or analogous processes citing the same four spirits can be found in fifteenth- and sixteenth-century works.
- Fol. 22-29 contain a general rubric and string of conjurations for evoking spirits to visible appearance, adapted from the Heptameron and Ars Goëtia (which latter in turn depends on the Heptameron). This item has an earliest possible date of 1665, which in turn provides a terminus a quo for the copies filling the rest of this division.
- Fol. 30-52 contain notes on, and excerpts from, the angel-magic treatise Janua Magica Reserata (probably ca. 1660).
- Fol. 53-70 form "The Second Parte of the Arte of King Solomon," an incomplete copy of the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia of the Lemegeton. The vast bulk of the spirit seals and names of subordinate spirits, as well as 15 of the 31 chief spirits, are missing.
- The rest of this section is a collection of miscellaneous figures, talisman designs and a short process "to binde all sorts of Witches & Theives."

¹ Of the five divisions of the work, at least three contain writing in the hand of Elias Ashmole (1617-1692). The material was acquired at some point by English politician and lawyer John Somers (or Sommers) (1651-1716) and later inherited by his protégé and brother-in-law Joseph Jekyll (1663-1738); after Jekyll's death it was purchased, along with others on similar subjects, by Sloane, whose collection was in turn acquired in 1753 by the newly-established British Museum. See Chardonens, "Magic Manuscripts from Somers and Jekyll." Several of the MSS. in this collection had been previously owned by Ashmole and Sloane 3824 was not the only one scribed in whole or part by him.

² "Robertus Longobardus" or "Robert Lombard" appears as a variation of "Rupertus Lombardus," the imputed author of the Thesaurus Spirituum, a work on magic denounced by Trithemius in his Antipalus Malificorum (the Thesaurus is also ascribed to the 13th-century monk Roger Bacon). See Klaassen, Transformations of Magic, p. 234.

³ Comprising Janua Magica Reserata (Sloane MS. 3825 fol. 3-96), Clavicula Tabularum Enochii (Sloane MS. 307, Sloane MS. 3821 fol. 2-157), and the other collections of conjurations in Sloane 3821. See On the Invocation of Angels (Celephaïs Press, 2022).

At some point, the following materials were bound up with it:

- Fol. 80–88 consist of (a) six leaves of circular talismanic designs (37 total, plus two incomplete / cancelled and a large number of empty circles), with accompanying text, arranged somewhat haphazardly, (b) two leaves bearing a conjuration titled “The Tenth Key” (relating to the Janua Magica Reserata), inserted into the above, and (c) a small figure bearing names drawn from Dee’s “Tables of Enoch” inserted into that.
- Folios 89–120 form a single notebook containing a collection of spells and spirit-summoning “experiments,” many revolving around treasure-hunting, and what appears to be of excerpts from one or more De officiis spirituum versions, including significant material not found in the well-known Pseudomonarchia Dæmonum and Ars Goëtia editions (as well as all four spirits who are not found in the Pseudomonarchia but are in the Ars Goëtia). Two loose leaves, one containing unrelated material (connected with the Janua), and one in the same hand as the main text, bearing a design for a magic circle, have been bound up inside this section. The full-page illustration of a dragon or wyvern, which forms the frontispiece of Sloane 3824 as currently bound, appears based on a figure associated with one of the processes in this section. There are some corrections in Ashmole’s handwriting. The final section includes material drawn from printed works indicating a terminus a quo for its redaction of 1659; and some earlier sections depend on the 1651 English edition of Three Books of Occult Philosophy.
- Fol. 121–130, under the title Trithemius Redivivus, contain material adapted and translated into English from the first 13 chapters of Book I of the Steganographia of Trithemius. This connects with the “The Second Part of the Art of King Solomon” in so far as Book I of the Steganographia was the source for the names of the spirits and the numbers and a few characters associated with them. The “conjurations” comprising the name of a spirit followed by a string of seemingly senseless and barbarous words are cipher texts describing various cryptographic / steganographic systems.
- Fol. 131–154 contain an edited, rearranged and expanded (bloated, rather) version of the Heptameron seu elemental magica of pseudo-Abano. The bulk of the text varies sufficiently with the Robert Turner versions to suggest independent translation of both the conjurations and rubric. Portions are in the same hand as fol. 3–79; however, these are not limited to corrections and marginalia, but include parts of the text body.

Some of the material in this MS. has been typeset previously. A volume called The Book of Treasure Spirits by David Rankine (London: Avalonia, 2009) includes the material from fol. 3–29 and 89–120 (with some minor omissions). References in my notes to “Rankine” are to this typeset, which was, it should be emphasised, never advertised or represented as a complete or scholarly edition of the MS., but which, per the title, focuses on the treasure-hunting theme prominent in the notebook I have prosaically titled “Some Experiments of Spirits.” Some (but not all) of the material in this volume relating to the Janua Magica Reserata was also included as an appendix to Skinner & Rankine’s edition of the Janua, Keys to the Gateway of Magic, as was the account of the Four Kings from fol. 117–120.

Sigla

| | |
|-------------|--|
| [[...]] | Marks text (generally a single word or part of a word) illegible or lost due to blotting, torn edges, over-tight binding of the MS., etc. |
| [] | Marks conjectural restoration of words or partial words unreadable in the MS. for one reason or another. |
| [] | Marks conjectural restoration of words omitted in text due to copyist error. Used sparingly, most commonly where the text is a repeating formula or an identifiable copy or quotation from another work. |
| () | Marks words written in text in error that should be disregarded, most commonly single words duplicated by scribal eye-skip. |
| <illegible> | Typically marks a single illegible or doubtful word. |
| fol. | Folio. |
| MS. | Manuscript. |
| OOP | Cornelius Agrippa, Three Books of Occult Philosophy . Unless otherwise stated references including page numbers are to the 1651 edition, translated into English by “J. F.” and “Printed by R. W. for Gregory Moule” in London. |
| r | Recto |
| S1 | British Library, Sloane MS. 3821. |
| S4 | British Library, Sloane MS. 3824. |
| S5 | British Library, Sloane MS. 3825. Typesets of most of the contents can be found in Peterson, Lemegeton and Skinner & Rankine, Keys to the Gateway of Magic . |
| sec. man. | Secundu manu – indicates words written in different handwriting to the main text. |
| Steg. | Johannes Trithemius, Steganographia, hoc est ars per occultam scripturam animi sui voluntatem absentibus aperiendi certa . |
| sup. lin. | Supra linea – indicates words written in above the main text line. |
| T1606 | Johannes Trithemius, Steganographia, hoc est ars per occultam scripturam animi sui voluntatem absentibus aperiendi certa , Frankfurt, 1606. |
| T1655 | Robert Turner (trans.), Henry Cornelius Agrippa his Fourth Book of Occult Philosophy, of Geomancy, &c. &c. , London, 1655. |
| T1665 | Robert Turner (trans.), Henry Cornelius Agrippa his Fourth Book of Occult Philosophy, of Geomancie, &c. &c. , London, 1665. |
| T&FR | Meric Casaubon (ed.), A True & Faithful Relation of what passed for many years between Dr. John Dee [...] and some Spirits &c. &c. &c. London, 1659. |
| v | Verso |
| V.b. 26 | Folger Shakespeare Library, MS. V.b. 26, “Book of Magic, with instructions for invoking spirits.” Late 16 th -century (portions internally dated 1577-83). Typeset in Harms, Clark & Peterson (eds.), The Book of Oberon . |

A Prayer to be said before the Calling Forth of Elementall or Infernall Powers, or Spirits of Darkness.

[3r] O most high, Immense, Imortall, Incomprehensible, and Omnipotent Lord God of Hosts, the only Creator of Heaven & Earth, & of all things contained therein; who, amongst all other admirable works of the Creation, hast made Man, according to the express Image of thy self, dignifying him with more divine, Cœlestiall & Sumblim Excellency, & superior parts and participations, cohering with the most high & sacred Godhead, Angells, Heavens, Elements, & Elementall things; & given him an Imperiall Sovereignty, over all Sublunar things in the Creation, both Animall, Vegetable, Minerall & Elementall: and next who hath likewise given to Man, a Sovereigne power over all sublunar Spirits, both Ayeriall, Terrestriall & otherwise Elementall, residing in Orders & Mansions proper, & other wandring Spirits out of Orders or Mansions proper, both of Light & Darknes, & alsoe Infernall Spirits, & subjected them to his Obedience & Service, whensoever he shall Command, Constraine, Call forth & move them to visible appearance, in order thereunto. Now then O most high & heavenly God, we thy humble Servants, reverently here present in thy holy feare, doe bessech thee in thyne infinite Mercy & paternall goodness, that all Sunblunar Spirits both Elementall and [3v] residing in Orders, & otherwise wandring out of Orders, both of Light & Darknes, & also Infernall Powers, may at the reading & rehearsal of our Invocations, Coniurations & Constrigations, & by thee commanded, & compelled, & constrained, obediently and peaceably to move & appeare visibly, in faire & decent Forme & Shape, & in noe wise hurtfull, dreadfull, terrible or affrightful, or otherwise in any violence or violent manner unto us, & here before us in these Glass Receptacles, or otherwise, to appeare out of them here before us, in like serene, faire & decent manner, as shalbe most convenient & necessary for any action, thing or matter, that they are called for to such appearances, & to serve & obey us, & to fulfil & performe our will, desires & Comandments, in all & every severall & particular matters, & things respectively, wherein their Office & Orders are concerned, or whereunto in any wise they properly appertaine; & also to depart from our presence, & obediently & peaceably to retourne to their Orders & Places of residence, when they have performed & fulfilled all our Will and Commandments; And that we shall discharge them for the tyme present, & tyme future; or shall accordingly give them Lycence so do doe, and also to be ready from tyme to type at our call, & at all tymes to appear visibly unto us, & to serve & obey us, & to fulfil all our requests whatsoever we shall comand them, & also to retourne to their Orders in peace, when we shall give them Lycence to depart thereunto, without violence, injury, harme, prejudice or other mischeife or mischievous matter, to be done unto us or this Place, or to any other person or places whatsoever. Amen.

The Lord bless us & keep us, the Lord make his Face shine upon us, & be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up his Countenance upon us, & give us his Peace.

[4r]

ℒ:

O All you Spirits of great power L: B: S:⁴ unto whome by Orders & Officers, as Messengers of wrath, & Ministers of divine Justice, the Execution of Gods Judgments are committed, & accordingly at his Commandment by you fulfilled, on all sublunar things, Creatures & places whatsoever & wheresoever he shall decree and appoint the same to be inflicted: And otherwise also & againe at sundry & many other tymes, preordinaed you by Orders & Offices to serve & assist the sons of men, living upon Earth, Servants of the most high God, whensoever you shalbe invoked, moved, requested, commanded & constrained thereunto: Now therefore know ye, O all ye Spirits L: B: S: that we, Servants of the most high God, reverently here present in his holy feare, being dignified in the holy Trinity, with coelestiall power & authority, given to Man at his Creation, & to his successive posterity & Generations, unto the utmost period of tyme, above & over all Sublunar Spirits, of all degrees, Natures, Orders & Offices, both Ayeriall, Terrestriall & otherwise Elementall, or wandring out of Orders, or Infernall, whether of Light or Darkness, from the superiour to the Inferiour; doe by the Name of your God, & by your Seales & Characters, most firmly & solidly subjecting & bynding you by Orders & Office, both to be divine comand of the Highest & his Servants the Sons of Men, now living on Earth: Wee doe Exorcise, Coniure, Comand, Constraine & move you, O all you spirits L: B: S: to subject all Spirits whatsoever, from the Superiour to the Inferiour, that have place & Residence in any, or each, & every of your severall & respective Orders or Mansions, or that shall otherwise under your power, government & Command unto us, & our Invocations, Coniurations & Constringations. And that whensoever & where-soever we shall at any tyme, & in any place, Conjure, Comand, Constraine, [4v] Call forth & move them, by Names, Orders & Offices, or any or either of them, that then & there, even at that very instant tyme, be inforced, compelled & constrained to move & appeare, in faire & decent forme, & in no wise hurtfull, dreadfull, terrible or affrightfull unto us, or this place, or to any other person or place whatsoever, but in all humility & serenity, visbly to the sight of our Eyes, either in these G: R:⁵ or any of them, standing

⁴ An abbreviation for “Lucifer, Beelzebub, Sathan,” the three chief infernal spirits of the Liber Officiorum tradition: the names are cited at length in a later procedure in this collection. It may simply be coincidence that these are also the first, middle and last letters of “Longobardus.”

⁵ “Glass Receptacles.”

here before us for that purpose, according to a usuall way of receiving & inclosing Spirits at their appearance. Or otherwise out of them here before us,⁶ according as best befitted, or shalbe most beneficiall, & convenient for us, in all or any such our Operations & Affaires, as the necessity or occasion thereof shall require. And so shew forth unto us true & visible signs, foregoing their coming & appearance. And to make true & faithfull Answers unto us, & also to reveale, discover & shew forth unto us, the very truth & certainty of all such our proposals, matters & things in question, & to fulfil, perform & accomplish unto us, all those our demands & Requests, as lyeth here before us. And also furthermore, as in the contente of our Invocations, Conjurations & Constringations, shall more fully & at large be declared & expressly rehearsed: speaking plainly unto us, so as that we may both heare & understand them. All which as aforesaid, wee doe powerfully Exorcise, Coniure, Command, Compell, Constraine & move you, O all you Spirits L: B: S: in the Name of your God, & by the Seales of your Orders, preordinately decreed of the most high God, Confirming, Subjecting and binding you by Orders & Offices, into strickt Obedience; [5r] first to the fulfilling of his Divine Will & pleasure, both of his mediate & immediate Commandements & Appointments; And secondly aswell unto the Service, Obedience, & Assistance of hiss servants the Sons of Men, now living on Earth, in your severall & respective Orders & Offices, as to seduce, subvert & seeke to destroy them by your evill Temptations, or any other vile (?), subtile, crafty insinuations & illusions: And by the Cœlestiall power of the most high & holy Trinity, wherewith we are now through divine Grace, dignified, armed & supported, to doe, fulfil, performe & accomplish for & unto us, both now at this tyme present, & also at all other tymes, whensoever we shall move, request & command them thereunto, without delay delusion or disturbance, whereby to surprise or assault our senses with feare & amazements: or in any wise to obstruct or hinder thee effects of these our present Operations, by any subtile Crafte or illusions whatever. &c.:

⁶ “in all or any ... shall require” was mistakenly written here by copyist eye-skip, but is crossed out.

[5v]

An Operation for the obteyning of Treasure Trove;

The Key whereof is holden⁷ from some principall Spirits, who may be Invocated or called forth by Name, Nature, Degree, Order & Office for that purpose, by the contents of the following Invocation; the foregoing Prayer & Coniuration being observed, to be first used or said; which Rule ought also to be remembred, before Invocation is made, to any Infernall Spirits of powers of Darkness.

A Select Invocation, moving & calling forth some certain Spirits, who by Names are called Sulphur, &c.: and who are said by Nature, Degree, Order & Office, not only to have the keeping & possession of many & severall Treasures or Treasuries, of Gold & Silver, both in Coyne, Plate, Jewells, Bullion, & other goods & Chattells of considerable value, that hath been manufacturized, & in use among the Sons of Men, & said to be corrupted of them. And both heretofore of ancient, & sythence⁸ of later tymes, either through Envy or Necessity, or otherwise by chance, purpose or appointment of them concerned, & kept from the knowledge, use & benifit of Posterity. But alsoe doth well know, how otherwise, By what Spirits, any such Treasures or Treasuries shall be kept or possessed, be they of what name, nature, dignity, order & Offices sover, And who also by Office hath power given them, to discharge or dismiss and cast forth, any such Spirits so keeping any such Treasures or Treasuries, and constraine them to deliver them and yield up, & to bring the same wheresoever it shalbe appointed. &c. [6r]

The Invocation.

O all ye Spirits, who have power given you to visit the parts of the Earth, & to execute the Commandments of the highest;⁹ and also by divine permission, to appeare unto the Sons of Men, Servants of the most high God, living on Earth, whensoever they shall Invoke & call you forth to visible appearance, to obey them, to serve them, & to be friendly unto them, at such their Calls & Invocations made unto you, & readily forthwith to fulfil & performe all such their Comandments & requests, wherein your Offices are properly & pertinently concerned, or in any wise apperteyning. And accordingly into such their addresses & invocations as are made, & by your offices given & referred unto you, O all ye Spirits of great power in the keeping of hidden Treasures, & also of

⁷ An obsolete / archaic inflectional form; the copyist originally wrote "hidden from," crossed it out, then wrote "holden from some" in above the line.

⁸ Possibly an archaic spelling of "since"?

⁹ Compare the "Call of the 30 Ayres" in Dee's Claves Angelicae: "[you] are Mightie in the partes of the Erth, and execute the Judgment of the highest:"

detecting, discovering & yielding up the same to the Sons of Men for whose use it was principally & primarily Decreed & ordeyned: Wee doe exorcise, call upon & Coniure you, O all ye Spirits, jointly & severally by Names, Orders & Offices, who are knowne unto the Sons of Men, from the Tradition of their prediccursors, by the names of Sulphur, Chalcos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorson (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Barbasan, of what nature soever you are, whether wandring Spirits or Ayeriall or Terestriall, or otherwise Elementall or Infernall powers, apperteinyng either to Light or darknes or both, in the most true & especiall Name of your God, and by the force, influence, power & virtue thereof, & by all the power both divine, Cœlestiall & Terrestriall, the most high [6v] God hath given both to Angells & to Men, & by your Seals & Characters, most firmly & solidly binding, subjecting and obliging you by Orders & Offices, both to the divine comands of the highest, & his servants the sons of Men, calling forth & moving you thereunto. By all aforesaid we doe againe Exorcise, Call upon, Conjure, Comand & Constraine all you Spirits by Name: Sulphur, [[Calchos,¹⁰]] Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorson (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Barbason, and all other by Office, having power given them to range and visit the Earth, & all parts thereof, and to possess & keepe, not only the naturall Mines of Gold & Silver, but also many other Treasures, both in Coyne, & Plate & Bulloyn, or Jewells of great value, or any other goods or Chattells, that has been the Manufacturisme of Men, & heretofore in use among them, buried in the Earth, or otherwise layd up & hidden, in some very secret place, or places thereon, And so thereby said to be corrupted of them & amongst them,¹¹ whereby Posterity is denied,¹² the benefit, use, & comfort thereof: Wherefore divine Justice hath given such powers, whether Ayeriall, Terrestriall or otherwise Elementall or Infernall; or other wandering Spirits, both of Light & darkness, & conversant in all Elementall parts & places, Mediums or Messagers, executing the Judgments of the Highest, at his Omnipotent, both mediate & imediate Commandements, and taking vengeance on the Sinns & Offences & causes thereof, acted and comitted by the Auncesters or Precedecessors of the Sons of Men: both heretofore of old, & sithence of late tymes, not only upon them, but alsoe many other successive Generations; even to the utmost period of tyme (as in the minde, Will & pleasure of the allpowerfull, is preordinately Sacred) unless divine Grace & Mercy descendeth [7v] at the humble Supplications, Petitions, & Adresses of his servants the Sons of Men, to their assistance, in obteyning and recovering all such Treasures & Treasuries, soe buried, layd up, or otherwise secretly hidden, either in or upon the Earth, whether of old or of later tymes, for what cause or intent soever the same was buried, hidden or otherwise concealed, & still at this tyme kept from the knowledge, understanding, use, benefit & comfort of Men, Dignifying & giving them full power & authority, both Cœlestiall & Terrestriall, to Conjure, Command, Constraine, Call forth & move you, O all you Spirits forenamed & mentioned by Orders & Offices as aforesaid, both unto visible appearance, & also to serve them, & to obey them, & to fulfil & performe all such their Comandements, whatsoever they shall enjoyne & command you, as according to your Orders & Offices, you are in the Name of the highest & heavenly, Conjured Compelled & Constrained to Obedience. Now therefore know you, O all you Spirits by Name, Sulphur, Calchos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Barbasan, and all other you Spirits, who by Orders & Offices, have power & permission given you, to possess & keepe all such Treasures & Treasuries of Gold & Silver, Coyn, Plate, Bullyon, Jewells, or other Goods and Chattells, heretofore, in frequent & familiar use, & corrupted amongst Men, & at this tyme lyeth buried, hidden or otherwise concealed in some secret place or places, in the Earth, or upon the Earth (as aforesaid), that wee the Servants of the most high God, and humbly bresent here at this tyme, in his holy feare, being assisted, supported, fortified & strengthened, by his all powerfull Name, & being dignified by the power of his holy Spirit, with [8r] Cœlestiall & Terrestriall perfection, as to the more supreme and primitive Idea, Angelicall Excellency, Imperiall power, Soveraigne authority and superior parts and participations, Cohering with the sacred Godhead, Angells, Heavens, Elements & Elementall things, surpassing all sublunary Creatures in the Creation, by the virtue & influence whereof, we being invested with reall sufficiency, have power given us thereby, over all Spirits, both Ayeriall, Terrestriall & otherwise Elementall & Infernall, of all Orders & Offices, to serve us & fulfil our Comands & Requests, whensoever we shall move & call them forth, in order thereunto, doe Conjure, Comand, Compell & Constraine; Call forth & move you, O all you Sprites aforesaid, or some one or any or more of you, jointly & severally, to appeare visibly, in faire & decent forme, and in noe wise turbulent, Terrible or Affrightfull, or in any violent manner, or in any wise doing harme, unto us or this place, or to any other person or places whatsoever (but we say) come you in all serenity, Affability & peace, & appeare unto us in these G: R: or in any or all of them set before us, for that purpose or otherwise appeare out of them visibly here before us, to the sight of our Eyes according as it shalbe convenient or best befitting this present Occasion, purpose or matter, & shew forth visible & plainly unto us, a foregoing signe or Test of your appearance; for the which we now Conjure, move & call you forth, to reveale & shew forth plainly unto us, & to Act, Doe & perform for us in this present Operation & affaire, as we shall propose request & make knowne unto you wheresoeuer. O all you Spirits by Name, Sulphur, Calchos,¹³ Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan¹⁴ (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Barmaper, Barbasan, hearken you unto these presents, and unto this present Conjuraton, Invocation & Constriction, by the [8r] efficacy, virtue, power & force whereof, we doe againe Conjure, Command, Compell, & Constraine you all, or some one, or any, or more of you Spirits aforesaid, ioyntly & severally, to appeare plainly here before us, in these G: R: or otherwise out of them, visibly to the sight of our Eyes, or else that the spirits called Barbaros, Gorsan, Everges, Mureril & Vassago, or any one or more of them, or any other Spirit or Spirits, having power given unto them by orders of Offices, or otherwise by divine Justice, pleasure & permission, to possess, deteyne & keepe any Treasures or Treasuries, that are buried & hidden, or in any wise concealed from the knowledge use or benefit of Mankind, or kept from them by any Spirit or Spirits, of what Name, Order, or Office soever they are, of from what cause soever they doe posses & keepe the same, from the use of mankind (as aforesaid) to reveale, discover, shew forth & plainely make appeare unto us the very truth & certainty thereof, and what Spirit & Spirits by name & Orders, doth possess & keepe the same, whereby we may accordingly, Conjure, Compell & Constraine them, or otherwise by this your assistance to inforce them, quietly peaceably & willingly, without any turbulence or noise, to demit, yield up & bring the same hither unto this place, or unto any other place wheresoeuer we shall appoint, and heere or there to leave the same, visibly & openly naked unto us, so that we may take & beare the same away for our necessary use, & we doe again yet further by these presente, & the efficacy, power & force thereof, Conjure, Comand, Compell & Constraine you all you Spirits by name (as aforesaid:) Sulphur, Calchos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorson (or Gorzon), Everges, [8v] Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Barbasan, or some one, or any, or more of you, ioyntly & severally, to appeare visibly, meekely & peaceably, in desent forme before us, in these G: R: or otherwise out of them (as beforesaid) or to cause, compel & constraine a certain spirit to appeare visibly unto us in these G: R: or otherwise out of them here before us, in all serenity & peace, & in decent forme (as aforesaid:) who is called Camret, & said to be a Duke, or Spirit of great power & strength, & usefull in serving the Sons of Men, by Orders and Office, in these operations & affaires, to reveal, discover, and shew forth & make appeare unto them, the very truth & certainty of any Treasure or Treasuries that lie concealed, buried or hidden in or upon the Earth, And if any Spirit or Spirits, of what Name, Nature, Order or Offices soever they are, doth possess & keepe the same from the knowledge, use & benefit of man, that he the said Spirit called Camret, may likewise

¹⁰ Omitted in MS.; this has been treated as a slip, as the full list occurs repeatedly and on one other occasion the copyist skipped this name then went back & wrote it in later.

¹¹ The phrasing here recalls some discussion in the Dee-Kelly Spirit Actions (Actions of 1584.06.26 & 1584.06.30, T&FR pp. 180, 188) concerning the “Angels of metals” and the corresponding “wicked spirits”: the former, “have power over Metals, to find them, to gather them together, and to use them [...] [they] give no money coined but the metal”; the latter “can give money coined, in Gold or Silver [...] they have nothing to do with the natural Mines of the Earth, but, with that which is corrupted with man.”

¹² Doubtful. “of” apparently blotted out after this word.

¹³ The copyist initially skipped this name then wrote it in sup. lin.

¹⁴ This variant form of the name occurs often enough that it has been allowed to stand.

Comand, Compell & Constraine the said Spirits or keepers of any such Treasures, to demit, yield up & bring the same away unto such place or places wherefore it shalbe appointed. And we doe also yet further & againe Exorcise, Coniure, Comand, Comell, Constraine & powerfully move you, by the efficacy & force of this our Invocation, & the Cœlestiall power & authority, by divine Grace wherewith wee are dignified, O all you spirits by Name (as aforesaid) Sulphur, Calchos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorson (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Barbasan, that some one, or any more more, or all of you, with all power & force you have, or that is given unto you, at the Will & pleasure of the highest, you doe command compel & constraine, there Spirits who are called by name Scor (or [9r] Scarus), Roab, Zaym, Umbra, Gijel, or some one, or any, or more, or all of them, ioyntly or severally, in generall & particular; who are said by nature, Order or Offices, to demit & cast forth any Spirit or Spirits, that have the keeping of any such Treasures or Treasuries, hidden or buried in the Earth, or otherwise layd up or concealed, & so kept from the knowledge, benefit, use & comfort of the Sons of Men, & who also by Office, hath power to bring, or cause the same to be brought unto any place or places, wheresoever they shalbe appointed to appeare visible, in faire & decent forme unto us, in these G: R: or otherwise out of them here before us, & to shew forth plainly unto us, visibly, a foregoing Signe or Test of their appearance, and to reveal the very truth & certainty of all such Treasures or Treasuries, as we shall propose unto them, & request of them, & to bring or cause the same to be brought unto us at any tyme or tymes, & in any such place or places, whensoever & wheresoever we shall then & there command & appoint them. And more specially & more particularly, to discover such Treasures & Treasuries, now by us proposed & in question, lying buried, or being otherwise hidden, as by certain report & credible information we believe & suppose ^{*15} in &c.

And also to reveale & make knowne unto us, such Treasures & Treasuries, as are unknowne; & so not in question, until a more full discovery by such your Information, or otherwise, shalbe made or given, of what Treasure soever elsewhere in any wise, or in any place within this Realme of England, so called, hidden or buried, & soe kept or concealed, from the knowledge use & benefit of Mankinde, & to bring or cause the same to be brought unto this place, or to any other [9v] place where we shall appoint. Now then finally know you, O all you Spirits by Name, Order & Office (as aforesaid) Sulphur, Calchos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Barbasan, that we doe powerfully & confidently, Conjure, Command, Constraine, Call forth & move you to come away forthwith & immediately

¹⁵ A large asterisk in the text at this point, and a paragraph break. It seems—looking at the context—that here should be interpolated some words describing just where the operator believes some treasure to be laid up, buried, hidden, concealed, &c. &c. &c. Similar asterisks and breaks appear on fol. 12r and 13r, which I have replaced with “[location]” in red.

at this one Invocation, without any further illusion or delay, & tarry not, neither defer the tyme of your coming one minute longer, but come presently away, from the place or places of your present residence, wheresoever you are, & appeare you readily, willingly, courteously, affable peaceably, plainly, visibly unto us, in faire & decent forme in these G: R: or otherwise out of them here before us; Or else comand, inforce, & send unto us the Spirit called Camret or else move & sent imediately at this our Call, some one, or any, or more of these Spirits, by name called Scor (or Scarus), Roab, Zaym, Umbra, & Gijel to appeare visibly unto us, in these G: R: or otherwise out of them, and plainly to shew forth unto us, a foregoing signe or Test of their appearance; & to give us true & faithfull Answers, of all such questions, as we shall make demand of, & positively to resolve us the very truth & certainty, of all such Treasures & Treasuries of Gold & Silver, either in Coyne, Plate, Bulloin or Jewells, or any other Goods & Chattells as are hidden buried or concealed in the Earth, or upon the Earth, in any place or places, Country or Countries, by what names soe bee called, or in what part or point of the Compass, or Angle of the Earth soever, bearing from this place, the same shall at this tyme continue in, hidden, buried or concealed, from the knowledge, benefit, use or releife of mankind, whether it be kept by any Spirit or Spirits, of what Name, Nature, Order or Office soever they are; Or by any artificiall or magicall Charme, or by any envious or malignant crafts or subtilties, [10r] either of Elementall Terrestriall or Infernall Spirits, or of any wandring Spirits out of Orders, and by the traditions of Men, as rationally supposed, & so credibly reported unto posterity, & by good testimony thereof is verily believed of us, to be accustomed & usual for all such Treasures so hidden, or by the long continuance of tyme, quite worne out of all knowledge & remembrance of Mankinde, soeremaining in utter oblivion & forgetfulness of how or by what meanes soever else, any such hidden Treasure, is kept, or may be kept by Chance, purpose or appointment, or by nature simply, through mortallity, become wholly unknown to any living person, or soe lyeth concealed from the understanding of posterity; And that by either you, O all you Spirits Sulphur, Chalcos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorson (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Barbarson, or any one, or other, or more of you, ioyntly & severally (as aforesaid) or by the spirit Camret, or by all or many or more of these spirits called Scor (or Scarus), Roab, Zaym, Umbra, Gijel, or by whomsoever, or whatsoever spirit or power else, you shall send or cause to be sent, or come unto us, may not only appeare meekely courteously, peaceably, plainly & visibly unto us, and here before us in these G: R: or otherwise out of them, & to shew us a preceding Signe thereof (as aforesaid) but also readily, willingly & obediently to serve us, in whatsoever we shall request & Command them, And imediately forthwith at such our command to fly & hast away, unto all or any such place or places, Country or Countries, Towne or Townes, House or Houses, Ground or Grounds, Sellars, Vaults, Caves, Wells, Ponds,

Lakes, or any ruinous place, whatsoever any Treasures are supposed to be hidden buried or otherwise concealed, from the knowledge of Men (as aforesaid) and to dismiss, cast out & discharge & send away, any or all such Spirit or Spirits (if any be there) that shall posses & keepe any [10v] such Treasure or Treasures, so hidden, buried & Concealed (as aforesaid) And that either, or any, or some one or more of you, O all you Spirits by anem (as aforesaid) doe bring or cause to be brought, either by your selfe or selves, or else that you compel & constraine the spirit or spirits, that doth posses & keepe such hidden Treasure or Treasures, to bring & bear away the same hither unto this place, &c.: and heere to leave the same with us, & to yield the same up unto us; & to our use, benefit & behoofe, as in our ownely¹⁶ proper possession & claime, & then by virtue & power of our commands accordingly by the said Spirit & Spirits, bearing & bringing away such Treasures or Treasures unto us, may be dismissed & discharged therefrom, & of us inforced, at our Lycence denounced, & given them to depart away peaceably, in all mildness, meekness & serenity unto their Orders, or place of Residence, otherwise appointed for them. Notwithstanding any thing, matter, cause, craft, subtilty, illusion dispute or other device or pretence to this contrary whatsoever. Finally & againe, we doe by these presents, & by the virtue, power, influence, efficacy & force thereof, Conjure, Comand, Compell, Constraine and move you, O all you Spirits by name called Sulphur, Calchos, Anaboth, Senenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares,¹⁷ Baramper, Barbasan, or any one or more or all of you, ioyntly and severally to appear unto us in this G: R: or otherwise out of them visibly here before us, & to compel & to constraine the Spirit called Camret to come imediately forthwith away accordingly, & visibly unto us (as aforesaid) or else to inforce & send imediately away unto us, any one or more or all of those Spirits called Scor (or Scarus), Raab, Zaym, Umbra, Gajel, to appeare also accordingly & visibly unto us (as aforesaid) without Noyse, Turbulency, Iniury or violence, & in noe way Terrible [11r] or affrightfull to dismay or delude us, but to come or to send any other the Spirits unto us (as aforesaid) and to appeare Obediently, peaceably, quietly, willingly, affably, readily & imediately here before us, in this G: R: or otherwise out of them (as aforesaid) & to shew forth unto us ample, true, serene, affable & reall signs & testimony of your & their coming & appearance, & to serve us in all these our Comands, as here before is mentioned; & not only to discover & bring or beare away hither unto us, or so any other place wheresoever we shall appoint, all such Treasures and Treasures, as hath been at any tyme or tymes heretofore, buried, or hidden by our Auncestors, or Mankind then lving on Earth, and at this tyme possessed or kept, by any Spirit or Sprits of what Element, Angle, Mansion, Order, Office, Name or nature soever, from the knowledge use &

¹⁶ "owne &" originally written, the '&' cancelled and '-ly' written in sup. lin.

¹⁷ "Algares" in MS., but the orthography has been consistent up to this point.

benefit of Posterity of Mankinde, now living on Earth, but to leave the same here present with us, or at any other such place, as we shall name & appoint, openly, nakedly, barely, plainly & visibly, to the sight of our Eyes, and so as that we may take, possess & carry away the same, as properly & of right due & belonging unto us, & of our owne proper Goods & Chattells, both of purchase & Inheritance, And such Spirit or Spirits as possessed & kept, or that shall bring the same hither & unto us, & that we shall have it in our full free assured & certain custody & possession, then afterwards imediately dismissed, discharged & sent away to their Orders or other places of abode appointed them, they not daring or presuming to retourne, or offer to make any retourne to it againe, either to carry the same away from us, or by any deceit or illusion, or other fraudulence seemingly to convert the same into any other vile or base matter, thing, forme or Idea, otherwise then what it really is, as can be made appeare to the contrary, and also to reaveale, discover, plainly shew forth, & truly to make knowne, the very certain truth of [11v] all such Treasures & Treasuries, that are layd up or hidden, either in the Earth, Caves, Sellers, Vaults, House, Ground, Pond, Lake, Well or old ruined Castle, monastery, ruinous Walls, or any other secret place whatsoever & whensoever, in any Angle, Country, Citty, Towne, or Village, within this Realme or Kingdome of England, place, wherein we are now heere present, that are not possessed, or kept by any Spirit or Spirits or otherwise given them in Charge to deny & deteyne from the use & benefit of mankind, by any person or persons heretofore living on Earth, thay you or some or any or more of you, O all you Spirits before named, may after a tyme & full discovery thereof is made knowne unto us, bring or cause to be brought hither unto us in this place &c.: all such Treasures & Treasuries, & to leave the same with us: And soe you Spirit or Spirits bringing or causing the same to be brought or conveyed hither to give it up unto us, & then imediately to depart peaceably & quietly away, so as that we may take, enjoy, dispose & convert the same unto our proper use & Benefit, as of right belonging & apperteyning unto us, without obteyning the similitude thereof in any wise, but to lay & leave the same barely open in its natural forme & substance, as it was before the same was hidden, & as it is, or still may be & continues, notwithstanding also the Craft or subtilty of any other Spirits shall seemingly transmute the same, or otherwise oppose or deceive us: Or else, O all ye Spirits, or some one, or any, or more of you, as before we have called by name, we doe by these presents, & by the virtue power & efficacy thereof; Conjure, Comand, Comepll & Constraine you to appeare (as aforesaid) visibly unto us, either in these G: R: or otherwise out of them here before us, & to make knowne apparently to shew forth the very truth & certainly, of all such hidden Treasures & Treasuries, as we shall have in question, or make demand of, or otherwise request or desire you, and to make [12r] true & faithfull Answers, & give possitive Resolves thereof unto us, & to informe, instruct & rightly direct us, how by all best, easiest, readiest & most assured

waies or meanes, that can be combined, found out or used, we may discover, finde out & visibly see, & so perceive the same, as that by our industrious labour and endeavours in our pursuit thereof, or by any other attempts, Wee shall make in pursuance thereof, wee may both finde out, obtaine & take & carry away the same, wheresoever we shall please, & possess enioy & dispose thereof at our pleasure, as our owne proper goode of right belonging unto us, And more especially & particular, all those, or any such Treasures or Treasuries, as for certain is reported, & as we are truly informed (& as we doe, or may at least thereby verely beleive to be true) that lyeth buried or otherwise hidden in [location], to shew forth & make appeare, the very truth & certainty thereof unto us, & either to bringe, or cause to be the same to be brought hither to this place, or wheresoever else we shall appoint: And then such Spirit or Spirits, who shall bring & convey the same, according as we doe comand & appoint, may be immediately after they have layd downe & left the same in place (accordingly as is appointed) dismissed discharged & compelled to depart away from it, & leaving the same barely & openly visibly unto us & so as that we may take & beare away the same, & also dispose thereof at pleasure, to our use & benefitt, or else to informe & rightly direct us, how by all the best, easiest, & most assured waies, that can be conveniently and commodiously contrived & used, to finde out, obteyne, seize & carry away the same, & enjoy it to our use & benefit: All which these our demands & requests as we have now made, & as herein is conteyned & specified, we doe by there presents & by vertue, power & efficacy thereof, & in the name of the most high Omnipotent Lord God of Hosts, which all both Cœlestiall, Terrestriall, [12v] Elementall, Infernall, & all other powers with feare & trembling, most reverently serve honor & obey, And by every & each of your severall & respective Seales & Characters,¹⁸ most firmly & solidly binding, subjecting & obliging you, by Orders & Offices, both to the divine command of the highest, & his servants the sons of Men, calling forth & moving you thereunto, Conjure, Command, Compell, Constraine, & move you, or some one, or any, or more of you, O all you Spirits by name called Sulphur, Calchos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzon), Everges, Mureril, Vassago, Agares, Baramper, Babasan, & likewise Scor (or Scarus), Roal, Zaym, Umbra,¹⁹ Gijel, or any of them, to move & appeare, in faire & decent forme, visibly here before us, either in these G: R: or otherwise out of them, as the necessity & conveniency, of these our present occasions & affaires & as your service friendship & assistance, at these our Calls & comandes enjoyed you therein, shall properly require: And appeare you or some one or more of you, O all you Spirits by name (as aforesaid) or send or cause to come and appeare visibly unto us, ¹⁸ The “Seales & Characters” of the spirits cited in this conjuration were not copied by Ashmole (it is unclear whether or not they were in his source text; there are references in one of the later texts in this portion of the MS. suggesting that characters were in the copy-text for that, but not copied). Characters for Vassago and Agares appear elsewhere in this collection.

¹⁹ “Umbre” in MS.

some one or more Spirit or Spirits, who by Orders & Office are alike, also qualified, readily & willingly to serve & assist us herein: Move (we say) & come immediately away, meekely, obediently & peaceably & quietly, without Noyse, or in any broken & turbulent manner, or in any wise affrightfull terrible or dreadfull, to assault or surpise our Sences or animall Spirits with fear or amazements, or doing any damage harme injury or prejudice to us or to this place, or to any other places or persons whatsoever; but in all reverence, obedience & humility to appeare, & make us true & perfect Answers, to all what we shall aske & demand, And effectually to fulfil & performe whatsoever we shall command, flying with hast away directly unto such place & places wheresoever we shall send, & immediately with as much hast, to retourne back againe to this place, or with as much speede as conveniently, can possibly afford or admit [13r] and to bring, or cause to be brought away hither to this place, all such Treasures or Treasuries, as are hidden or buried in the Earth, or otherwise layd & kept, from the knowledge use & benefit of mankind (as by certain report & credible information, we supposed & believed to lye hidden buried or otherwise concealed, in [location]).

And also any other such Treasures or Treasuries, as lye buried or hidden in the Earth, or otherwise in what place soever it is, not certainly knowne of us, & therefore not of us now simply proposed, singly mentioned, or had in particular question: Now then O all yee Spirits as before are mentioned or named, & all others not named, more then by Orders and Office proper; Move, come away, appeare & plainly shew forth, make knowne & reveale unto us, the very truth of all whatsoever we have hereby (as before is rehearsed) requested & demanded. And we doe by these presents and the power thereof, moreover Conjure, Compell & Constraine you, O all you Spirits by Name, Order & Office (as before specified) in generall & particular, ioyntly & severally, every & each one & respectively, to serve & assist us herein, & effectually to fulfil & performe, all our Comandements to the very utmost; without further Apologie, excuse, pretence, hinderance, tarrying, delay, delusion, deceit, subtlety, craft, disguise, interruption, false motions, disturbance, feare, fighte, amazements by any dreadfull or terribe assault, or any other illusions whatsoever, &c.

[13v]

A General Invocation, Conjuraton or Constringation,

*moving and calling forth any particular Ayeriall, Terrestrial, or other Elementall or Infernall, or other wandering Spirit or Spirits, of what Name, Order, Office, Angle, Mansion, Nature, Degree or power whatsoever they are or may be of, or in any wise properly apperteyning or belonging unto; which are to be mentioned in the following Invocation, where the Letter N. is marked, as being conveniently refered thereunto, & so placed therein accordingly.*²⁰

O you Spirit or Spirituall power, who is knowne of us from the Tradition of our Auncesters, & called by the Name N: of what nature, Order, Office, Angle, Mansion or other places of abode wheresoever you are, or may be of, or doe reside, frequent, or in any wise properly if differently appertaine or belong unto, or whether Elementall or Infernall, or other wandering Spirit or power, either of Light or darkness, having power given you to visit the Earth, & to execute the Comandments of the highest: and also by divine permission plainly & visibly & in a faire & decent forme to appeare unto the Sons of Men, Servants of the most high God living on Earth, whensoever you shalbe of them Invoked, Commanded, called forth, moved, & therby Conjured, & constrained thereunto, to obey them, to serve them, & to be friendly unto them, & readily forthwith to fulfil & performe all such their comands and requests which they shall make; wherein by nature Office order, play or power, you may in any wise be concerned or serviceable. Know therefore O yee Spirit called by the Name N: (as aforesaid) that we the Servants of the most high God, & reverently here present in his holy feare, doe Coniure, Command, Constraine, move & call you forth to visible Appearance, in the name of the most high Madzilodarp²¹ and by the vertue and power of these his glorious, great, mighty & sacred Names, Tetragrammaton, Iehovah, Adonay, Zebaoth, Iah, Saday, Agla, El, Elohim, Alpha & Omega, And who said, let us make [14r] Man, according to our Image & Similitude, & let him beare rule over the worke of our hands, & have soveraigne power & command over all Sublunar Spirits, both Ayeriall, Terrestriall & otherwise Elemetnall,

²⁰ This appears to be an adaptation of a conjuration which appears in the final section of S4, “The Magick and Magicall Elements of the Seven Days of the Week &c. &c.” (specifically fol. 143v–146v), which in turn is an adaptation of the Heptameron of pseudo-Abano, with some rearrangements and much additional verbiage added. Parts of it are thus traceable to the Vinculum Spirituum or Vinculum Salamonis. ‘Constringation’ is an obsolete form of ‘constraint.’

²¹ This name appears in the 16th of Dee’s Claves Angelicæ and is glossed “in the God of stretch furth and Conquere.” It is unclear if the author of this conjuration worked out that it was a name of God by cross-referencing the Angelic and English text in T&FR (non-straightforward, but certainly possible), made a lucky guess, or actually read the Claves Angelicæ manuscript or Ashmole’s copy (also possible, if the author was a friend or associate of Ashmole: this would push the terminus a quo into the 1670s).

& other wandring Spirits & Internall Spirits, of all Orders & offices whatsoever, both of Light & darkness, & by your seale & Character, most firmly & solidly binding, subjecting & obliging you by Order & Office, both to the divine Command of the Highest, & his Servants the sons of Men, calling forth & moving you thereunto. And we doe also further Coniure, Compell, Comand, Constraine, Call forth & move you, by nature, Degree, Order & Office, unto what Hierarchy Mansion or Place of residence whatsoever you appertaine or belong unto, or wheresoever else you shall at this present be, either wandring out of Orders, or otherwise, O you Spirit, who is called N: to visible Appearance; Move therefore O you Spirit N: Come away and appeare you visible unto us, in faire & desent forme in these G: R: or otherwise out of the same, in like forme, visibly here before us, not in any wise terrible or affrightfull unto us, to amze or surprise us, or in any violent or turbulent manner, hurtfull to us or this place, or to any other person or place whatsoever, but come & appeare yee in all serenity, peace & mildness, shewing forth likewise unto us, a visible signe or test foregoing your appearance, and by the vertue, power, efficacy & influence of those great, might and sacred names of the most high God, which Adam heard & spake, and by the Name Agla, which Lott heard & was saved with his family, and By the Name of Gin,²² which Noah heard & spake, after he was delivered from the Flood, And by the Names which Abraham heard & did know God, & by the name Ioth, which Jacob heard & was delivered from the hand of his brother Esau. And by the Name Tetragrammaton, which he heard of the Angell striving with him, And by the Name Anapheketon, which Aron heard and speaking was made wise, And by the Name Zebioth, which Moses named, & the water of Ægypt was turned into blood. And by the [14v] Name Escherie Oriston, which Moses named & all the Rivers belched out Froggs, & they went into the Egyptians Houses, destroying all things, And by the Name Adonay, which Moses named, & there were Locusts appeared upon the Land of the Egyptians, & eate up all that which was remaining, And by the Name Elion which Moses named, & there was such a Storme of Haile, as was not from the beginning of the World. And by the Name Primeumaton, & the most wonderfull power & efficacy thereof, which Moses named, & the Earth opened her mouth, & swallowed up Corah, Dathan & Abiram, & all their Generation & People, And by the Name that Moses heard from the midst of the burning Bush, & was astonished, And by the Name that the Israelites heard upon the Mount Sina, & they dyed for feare, And by the name Burne, by the vertue & power whereof the Sea parted in sundere, And by the efficacy of that Name, at the rehearsing whereof the Waters were divided, And by the mighty power of that great Name, and the speaking whereof the Stones burst & relented. And by the name Schemes Amathia, which Joshua named, & the Sun staid

²² Appears as Gyn in "The Worke of Salomon the Wise Called his Clavicle" (Sloane MS. 3847 fol. 14r), Genery in the Vinculum Spirituum in Clm 849 (see Kieckhefer, Forbidden Rites).

his course. And by the Name Alpha & Omega, which Daniel named & destroyed Bell & the dragon, And by the Name Emanuel which the three Children, Shadrach, Mesack & Abednego sang in the midst of the burning fiery furnace, & were relieved. And by the vertue & power of those Names, whereby Solomon called forth, constrained, bound, inclosed or shut up Spirits, Elbrach, Ebanber, Agla, Goth, Ioth, Othie, Venoch, Nabrach, And by the Imperiall Throne, & by the Majesty & Diety of the Almighty, Everlasting & true God of Hosts; Wee doe call upon you, O you Spirit who is called N: And being dignified by the power of the holy Spirit, & strengthened by his all powerfull arms, & being thereby supported with his Cœlestiall & divine assistance, do Conjure, Comand, Constraine, Call forth & move you O you Spirit N: to visible appearance. Move therefore & appeare you, & show yourself visibly and affably in faire & decent forme, in these G: R: or otherwise out of the same here before us, as may be most convenien & necessary, for this our purpose, in these present Operations & affairs, & come yee in all serenity, mildness, peace & friendship, & in no wise horrible or hurtfull to us or to this place, or to any other place or person whatsoever, & make true & faithfull answers unto all such, as those our demands & [15r] requests, as lyeth here before us, ready to be proposed, & made knowne unto you, & likewise readily & willingly fulfil & performe all such our other Commandments & desires, as we shall yet further will & enjoyne you, wherein your Orders & Office, is in any wise properly apperteyning & concerned. Now therefore O you Spirit N: prepare yee & be not obstinate, infractory or pertinacious, but come yee away forthwith & imediately from your Orders, or from what Mansion, Element, Angle, part or place of residence, or else wheresoever you are in, or at this present shall, or may, either chancely or otherwise by divine or superior command or appointment happen to be, & depart ye not from our presence & commands, until ye have fully & effectually fulfilled our desires, in all fidelity, reallity & truth, without any delay, fraude, guile, or illusion whatsoever. Now wherefore hearken unto our voice, O ye Spirit N: & be not obstinate, refractory or disobedient, Know yee that wee the servants of the most high God, being dignified, fortified & supported assisted & encouraged, by his omnipotent, divine & Cœlestiall power, & by the vertue, force, influence & efficacy thereof; & by this his most high, great, & mighty Name Iehovah, Tetragrammaton, who saith & it is done; whome all Creatures both Cœlestiall, Elementall & Infernall, with feare & reverence doth most humbly serve, honor & obey, & wherein all the world was formed, which being heard the Elements Thunder, the Air is shaken, the Sea goes back, the Fire is quenched, the Earth trembleth, & al the heavenly, earthly & infernall Hosts do tremble & are troubled; Doe Conjure, Comand, Compell, Constraine, Call forth, & move you to visible appearance, wherefore O you Spirit N: now presently & without any further tarrying, illusion, hinderance or delay, move you imediately, even at this very instant Call, make hast, & wheresoever you are, come away & appeare ye visibly, affably, courteously & peaceably in faire & decent forme, in these G: R: or otherwise out of them, as may be most convenient & befitting this our present action, occasion, operation & affaire, plainly here before us, & to shew forth unto us a true & visible signe, forgoing your coming & appearance; And come yee in all serenity, quietness [15v] and friendship, without noyse or turbulence, or in any violent manner, hurtfull to us or this place, or to any other place or person whatsoever, or otherwise, either to assault, surprise or amaze us, either in Spirit or bodily sences, with feare astonishment or other dreadfull or terrible visions, or false motions & appearances, in any wise to affright, obstruct or delude us, & make us rationall, true & faithfull answers, speaking so plainly unto us, as that we may perfectly heare & understand you, readily & willingly filfulling all our demands & requests, & accomplishing all such our desires, & assisting us in these & all others our operations & affairs, in any wise, relating to your nature, degree, Order & Office, & therein to perform unto us, not only what we have to propose, but also in whatsoever else we shall further enjoyne or comand you. Move therefore & come away, in the name of the Omnipotent, Everliving & true God, Helioren, & appeare yee as aforesaid, visible here before us, in these Names, Aye Saraye, Aye Saraye, Aye Saraye, make hast & defer not your coming, in & through these Names Eloye, Archima Rabur, and obey your Master who is called Octinomus. Now then finally know yee, O you Spirit N: that we being dignified by Cœlestiall power, doe by the Contente of this our great & royall Invocation (as aforesaid) & by the vertue, power, Influence & efficacy thereof, Conjure, Command, Compell, Constraine, Call forth & move you to visible appearance, imediately at this very minute. Give ye now therefore present audience, attendance and obedience thereunto, & come away with speede, & appeare ye visibly unto the sight of our Eyes, in faire & decent forme, in these G: R: or otherwise thereout here before us, & shew forth unto us a visible signe foregoing your Appearance, persisting herein, to the full and effectuall accomplishment & fulfilling of all our demands & inquests, that we have or shall make unto you, even to the very utmost (as we have before said) without further Apology, excuse, pretence, hinderance, tarrying, delay, delusion, deceit, subtilty, Craft, disguise, interruption, false motion, disturbance, feare, fright, amazement, by any dreadfull or terrible assault or surprisall, or any other Illusion whatsoever, &c.

[It is possible that the “Longobardus” collection ended here and that the following two items were copied by Ashmole from one or two other, unrelated, MSS.: certainly they are significantly different in style from both the preceding texts and each other.]

[16r] An excellent & approved Experiment,

*to cause a Theife to come againe with the Goods he hath stolen; & to cause any Fugitive to retourne again. Proved.*²³

There are 4 Kings which reign in the 4 parts of the World, that is East, West, North & South; under which 4 Kings are 4 Spirits (as it were byshops) the power of the said 4 Kings, are in the 4 Elements, that is, Fire, Air, Earth & Water; & these Spirits have power to bring back a Theife, Fugitive or Runaway, wheresoever the Exorcist pleaseth, at the reading of the Experiment:

| | | | | | | | |
|-----------------------------|---|---|---|-------------|---|------------------------------------|---|
| The names of
the 4 Kings | { | Urienns, or Oriens Plymon, or Paymon, Egyn,
Amaymon, | } | King of the | { | East,
West,
North,
South, | } |
|-----------------------------|---|---|---|-------------|---|------------------------------------|---|

| | | | | | | | |
|-------------------------------|---|---|---|--------|---|------------------------------------|---|
| The names of
the 4 Byshops | { | Theltryon, Sperion,
Mayerion
Boytheon, | } | in the | { | East,
West,
North,
South, | } |
|-------------------------------|---|---|---|--------|---|------------------------------------|---|

Here begineth the true Method of this Experiment as followeth:

Observe when the Moon is in the Encrease, not Combust, & the Aier serene & Still, on a Munday or Wednesday; at the Sun rising enter the sacred place, & approach the Altar, & there humbly upon thy Knees Ejaculate²⁴ to God Almighty, humbly confessing thy manifold Transgressions, craving Pardon & Absolution for the same. And let thus be thy Care, at the least once [16v] or twice a weeke, on Mundaies and Wednesdaies as aforesaid according to your discretion. At the end whereof you shall say the prayer following, & after that as followeth in Order. Then put of your Habit or Vestment, & put out your Tapers, & then make a plate of Lead in manner & forme as followeth, & write the Names of the foure Spirits with their Characters in the extremity of each square thereof (vizt) Theltryon on the East, Sperion on the West, Mayerion on the North, Boytheon on the South, and then round about under them the name of the Goods stolen, & the owners name thereof, or the Fugitive or Runaways name, & in the midst of the said plate write this name: Sheho:²⁵ then make 4 little Plates, & write thereon severally, the name of each Spirit as aforesaid by himself, with his Character; & when you have rightly ²³ An earlier (late 16th-century) version of this process occurs in V.b. 26 pp. 67-69, citing the same four "Bishops" with very similar characters and the same circle design.

²⁴ This word is being used in a largely obsolete sense, referring to prayers spoken or declaimed out loud.

²⁵ "Satan" in the corresponding place in V.b. 26 and other earlier versions of this process.

prepared & fitted these things ready, goe to a Wood or some private place unfrequented, & make (or have in readiness) the following Circle: & then at a little distance, with bended knees & good devotion, say the prayer following, being the same before mentioned, to be said at the Altar after publique Confession and Ejaculation, the Rules followeth after the Plate & Circle:²⁶

[17r] The five plates of ḥ

(This is also called the Seale: which is mentioned in the last Paragraph to be put into the Box & burnt with it.)

²⁶ At the bottom of the text appears a single line of indecipherable characters.

[17v]

The Prayer

O Almighty Jehovah, O Tetragrammaton, O Messias, O Sother, Emanuel, Alpha & Omega, Father Son & holy Ghost, there in persons & one God in Trinity & Unity, Wee doe beseech this for the Love thou bearest to all Mankind; heare us & grant us our requests for the bowells²⁷ of thy mercies sake heare us, for thy bitter passions sake heare us, for all the Charitable desires that ever thou hadst to Mankinde heare us & grant us our requeste. First forgive us our sins good Lord, whatsoever we have committed by thought word or deede, since we came into this miserable world, unto this present houre, & ever hereafter. Grand O Lord, that I may have from thee the power of thy holy Spirit, to Call, to Compell, to Constraine & Comand, all Spirits both Aeriall, Terrestriall & Infernall, that they with all readiness & submission yield due obedience to my Coniuration, And that they may be by me compelled to fulfil my will & desires, thatsoever I shall command them, according to thy heavenly will & gracious permission at all tymes & in all places & in all daies & hours, & that I may force them with all meekness humility & expedition, readily & willingly to performe & fulfil whatsoever I shall command them to doe, without fraude or delay, & more especially there 4 spirits Theltrion, Sperion, Mayerion & Boytheon, & that I may constraine them to attend on any Man or woman, that hath stolen any manner of Goods of Chattells, that they may cause the same to be brought againe, & any Runaway or Fugitive to retourne againe. this grant O heavenly God, for Ihesus Christ his sake, to whome with thee & the holy ghost, be all honor praise & glory, from this tyme forth, & for *<illegible>*²⁸ Amen.

Then rise upon thy feete & enter the Circle, & turne your face to the East, & with good confidence Courage & Resolution say the Coniuration following.

[18r] O yee Spirits & Divells, Sathan, Lucifer, Belzebub & Dansiation; I conjure you all by your powers & strengths you are permitted to have by Almighty God the Father, the Son & the Holy Ghost, three persons & one God, in Trinity & Unity, That you inforce these 4 Kings of the 4 parts of the World, that is Uriens or Oriens King of the East, Paymon King of the West, Amaymon King of the South, & Egin King of the North, I conjure & potently call upon you, and Command all you spirits & divells Lucifer, Sathan, Belzebub & Dansiation, Uriens or Oriens, Paymon, Amaymon & Egin, by the love, power, strength & glory of the Omnipotent & ever-living²⁹ God, & by all that ever God made in heaven in hell, Fire, Air, Earth & Water, & in all other places, And by the Angells, Archangells, Thrones, Dominations, Principallities, Potestates, Virtues, ²⁷ In the metaphorical sense of “depths.” Probably.

²⁸ Rankine reads “all time” which makes sense in context, but is not consistent with what is visible in the (admittedly crappy) scans I’m using; the illegible word or words appear to begin “end”

²⁹ “lasting” struck out, “living” written in sup. lin.

Cherubims & Seraphims, and by all the Orders of the Angells, & by all the Saints of God, & by our Lord Jeshus Christ, and by all the holy & blessed Company of Heaven, which sing continually Holy Holy Holy Lord God of Sabaoth, Heaven & Earth is full of thy glorious Majesty, That all you may compel & constraine with all the force you have, these 4 Spirits, Theltrion, Sperion, Mayerion & Boytheon, wheresoever they be, in Fire, Water, Ayer, Earth or Hell, or being bound to any man, that they nor none of them, doe never rest in their places, but obey my Will & commandements in every respect both nights & days, hours & tymes, And I conjure all you Spirits aforesaid in & by all the holy great & glorious names of God, & of our Lord Jesus Christ, spoken of in all Conjurations, Adjurations & Constrigations, in any Tongue, Speech or Language whatsoever, That you all & every one of you, joyntly & severally, doe compel, constraine & comand the 4 Spirits Theltrion, Sperion, Mayerion & Boytheon³⁰ to attend [18v] on my Calls, Conjurations, Adjurations & Constrainingations, in & for the fullfilling & accomplishing of my will & desires, for the obteyning of all Thefte & Theives, Fugitives & Runawaies, Goods, Chattells, Money or things stolen or strayed or Runaway, or conveyed from any man woman or child, be they moveable or immoveable Goods, Silver, what or whatsoever thing it be, that is ordained by God for Man, the same may be brought again, & for bringing back again of Fugitives or Runaways, wheresoever they be gon, run or ridden, & this I conjure, adjure, command & compel all you Spirits or divells, Sathan, Lucifer, Belzebub, Dansiation, Uriens³¹ or Oriens, Paymon, Amaymon & Egin, by Jesus Christ the Son of God, and by his bitter pains & passion that he suffered for the redemption of Mankind, To whome with the Father & the Son & Holy Ghost, be all honor & glory for ever & ever, Amen.

After which you shall reade the Coniuration following, with good Courage & Confidence.³²

O yee Spirits Theltrion, Sperion, Mayerion & Boytheon, whose names are here written, I exorcise, Conjure, binde, command, & constraine you, by the most holy, true, just, powerfull, Mercifull, omnipotent & ever living God, & by his great excellent, efficacious & ineffable name Jehovah, wherein the Patriarchs & Prophets have called upon him, & he hath helped them & made appeare the arme & power of his strength into them admirable, even beyond all humaine expectation, And in the name & by the Glory & dignity, of our Lord & Saviour Jhesus Christ, who sitteth at the right hand of the Father, making intercession for us whose Saints we are, & through whose goodness & mercy hath authority & comand over all Spirits, both Aireiall, Terrestriall, & Infernall. Wherefore know all you Spirits [19r] Theltrion in the East, Sperion in the West, ³⁰ MS. Boyetheon.

³¹ MS. Urienus.

³² The Latin conjuration in the V.b. 26 version of this process has a lot of the same citations, but is shorter.

Mayerion in the North & Boytheon in the South, That I potently and strongly command & conjure you, in & by all the holy Names of God, & of our lord Jhseus Christ, El, Ya, Saday, Elohim, Escherie, Agla, On, Tetragrammaton, Sabaoth, Adonay, Elion, Elyezer, Anaisapta, Messias, Sother, Emanuell, Alpha & Omega, and by all the other names & Attributes, that are, or can be said of God, & of our Lord Jhesus Christ, and by the most ineffable, Cœlestiall and unspeakable vertues thereof, And by all the Prophets, Patriarchs, Disciples, Apostles, Saints, Martyrs, Inocents & Elect of God, And by the 4 Evangelists, Saints Mathew, Mark, Luke & John, & by their vertues & powers, And by the Angells, Archangells, Thrones, Dominations, Principalities, Potestates, Vertues, Cherubim & Seraphim, & by all the Orders of them, & by their vertues & powers, & by Heaven & by Earth, by the ☉ & by the ☽ & Stars & by the Cristall Sea, & by all their Vertues & powers I call upon you that you give audience & attendance to this my potent & powerfull Coniuration & Call, And give obedience to my Comand & to the words of my mouth, & that you doe fully & effectually performe & fulfil my will & desire, in all these things which I shall request & demand of you, without hurt or damage, to me or any that appertaineth to me, either bodily or ghostly. Also I coniure you by your Kings whoe you are bound to obey, & by the Chaines of Solomon, & by your Seals & Characters, firmly binding, & virtues & powers thereof,³³ And by the vertues & powers of all Cœlestiall, [19v] Terrestriall & Infernall Creatues, I doe further & againe Exoricse, Adjure, command, binde & constraine you Spirits, Theltrion, Sperion, Mayerion & Boytheon, by the virtue & power of this potent, strong & efficacious Coniuration aforesaid and by all the royall words & sentences therein contained, that wheresoever you be, either in fire or water, Aire or Earth, or being bound to any one, you forthwith give your present attendance, hereunto, willingly, peaceably & without any fraud, hinderance or tarrying, & come from all parts & places both remote & adjacent, & hearken unto my charge & request, which I shall straitly & stricktly charge & command all yee Spirits Theltrion in the East, Sperion in the West, Mayerion in the North & Boytheon in the South, the yee go into the place where [heere you are to make knowne your will & desire & what you would have effected] and that you enforce them, & let them take no rest, day nor night, sleeping or waking, standing nor going, working nor playing, at home nor abroad, nor in any place or action whatsoever, neither in riding, running, nor sitting still, but that they may be continually tormented or troubled in their witte, Limbs, sinews & bones, And that you be continually crimping & creeping upon them & about them, until he doe ☩☩ & let every thing herein conteyned be by you, or some one of you, joyntly & severally ratified, confirmed & performed, according as it is here written on this plate of Lead, the which I bury in a place, & so leave it, as my charge & demand, signifying what I would you should doe for me, it being a iust and true matter, & which I charge and

³³ “and by the virtues & powers thereof” repeated, then crossed out.

[20r] constraine you to doe forthwith at my putting this plate of Leade into the Earth, & every one of your Names & Seales or Characters, joyntly & severally here annexed, the which you are bound to obey, Wherefore prepare yee & fulfil all these things as I have here commanded you, & written on this Plate of Lead, & effectually performe them by signes & testimonies, as you will answer the contrary to him, who shall come to iudge the quick & the dead & the world by Fire, & so the peace of God by between you & us, in the name of the Father, Son & holy Ghost Amen.

Then bury the Plate in the Earth, putting every Spirit in his place or quarter, the great Plate in the middle, & each little plate on each quarter thereof, according to his respective name & place, & you shall cover them close from Sun & Winde, & the worke will not faile, for within a short or convenient space after, your desires wilbe effected. *Probatum est.*³⁴

A Constraint for a Theife or Theives, belonging to these five Plates before mentioned; that if he will not bring the Goods or or Theefe to the Owner, &c.

*The Plate of Lead.*³⁵

³⁴ Lat., “[it] is proved.”

³⁵ The use of inscribed lead curse tablets (called defixiones) has precedents going back into classical antiquity. A collection of such tablets specifically aimed at recovering stolen goods, dated 2nd–4th cent. c.e., were discovered ca. 1980 in the temple of Sul-Minerva in Bath.

Since the figure of the plate was plausibly copied from a MS. with the text & rubric of the spell rather than from an actual inscribed tablet, it is unclear whether “John Rudd” was the name of the scribe or redactor, an actual client for whom such a plate had been made by a cunning-man, or a name selected or made up for the sake of an example. A “J. Rudd” was reportedly one of the group who in the 1670s / 80s met to attempt to contact certain Angels mentioned in T&FR, whose records are extant as BL Sloane MSS. 3624–28, and was possibly the original of the “Dr. Rudd” to whom certain MS. works on magic and related subjects in the Harleian collection (BL Harley MSS. 6479–86, internally dated 1712–14) were attributed by their scribe.

You must make a Plate of Lead in an Ovall forme, & fit it for a Box, & the Box must be black within & without, & you must write on the Plate as you see in this figure, then draw the picture of a* naked man on parchment, & make it big enough to writeon the brest & belly, Theife or Theives; Come to this place:

[[*T]]his must be pasted on the back side of [[t]]he Plate you write the names of the Goods on.³⁶

[20v] O all ye Spirits Theltrion, Sperion, Boytheon & Myerion, & inforce the Theife or Theives wheresoever they be, that hath robbed or stolen such things or goods from (N) in such a place.

Then say as followeth:

Almighty God, as thou knowest this is sinn, & contrary to thy Laws & commandments, grant what I heer shall desire.

Thou Theif or Theives, whatsoever & whosoever thou or you be, that have stolen those things or lynin, or whatsoever it be, from (N) in such a place, at such a tyme; contrary to the Comandments of the Almighty God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, whatsoever thou be, I charge you Spirits Theltrion, Sperion, Mayerion & Boytheon³⁷ ruling in the 4 quartrs of the world, to inforce the Theife or Theives within an howre to retourne with the Goods, or confess the same, that he or they may be forgiven, if they be past having, or else until they have so done, I commit all you 4 Spirits, by the name of Jesus Christ, into the hands of those Spirits infernall of the worst sort that may be, to be tormented, And I command you & all of you & every one of you, Lucifer, Belzebub, Sathan, & Danciacion³⁸ to torment them & I doe by & with the leave of God, charge & also Coniure you by God the Father, & God the Son, & by God the Holy Ghost, And by all that ever God made in Heaven & in the Earth, & by his Passion by his Resurrection, & by his Ascention, that ye 4 Spirits Theltrion in the East, Sperion in the West, Mayerion in the South & Boytheon in the North, That yee fully goe to posses & torment thefe Theives until they retourne with the Goods to (N) in such a place, if they have them not to confess the same, or else againe I will comit you to Lucifer, Belzebub, Sathan & Danciacion, & by them to be burned with fire & brimstone & never to rest, waking nor sleeping, eating nor drinking, nor walking, but be continually in most Extreame and [21r] intolerable tormente, until you doe presently & forthwith, cause the Theife or Theives to retourne with the Goods, or to confes the same openly, the stolen things aforesaid & intended, and if you doe not fulfil my will & desire, that you may ³⁶ Note in margin, start of lines obscured in gutter.

³⁷ MS. Boytheon, but it's otherwise spelt fairly consistently.

³⁸ Elsewhere spelt Dansiation.

alwaise abide in the infernall Spirits hand, to be tormented continually vehemently & unspeakably, & that you burne both in body & minde, even as doe these your names & characters in this materiall fire of Brimstone & other stinking things, in such a restless & tormenting manner as is aforesaid, until you have causes the Theife or Theives, either to returne the things, or to acknowledge the Theft. (then Cross the Fire & say) and that in the name + of the + Father + & of the + Son + & of the + Holy Ghost + Amen + Amen + Amen +

Then say; let God arise, & his Enimies shalbe scattered. Then say the Creed, & pray thus, Lord have mercy upon us, & grant us the knowledge of these things, for our only Redeemers sake sweete Jesus + Christ + Amen + Amen + Amen +

Note that you must waite the houre you assign (or to the end of the time you assign for the retourne, if it be halfe a day) & then retourning again towards the expiration thereof say over the last prayer, & towards the end thereof these words [and that you burne both in body & minde as do these names &c.] then if the Goods be not brought back &c, burne the Box and strew the Ashes between the Plate, & so bury them.

The order of placing the Plates of Lead, at the tyme when you bury them.

First, lay downe in the Earth, that Plate whereon the Names of the Goods &c. are written, & let the naked man be placed next to the Earth.

Note that the 4 little plates conteyning the names of the 4 Byshops, being cut off from the large square plate) must be placed upon the extremity of the 4 sides of the written plate to face the 4 Byshops, Theltryon &c.

Then lay the face of the Ovall engraved Plate in the back of the great engraved plate, & so bury them.

Materialle to fill the Box with

First fill the Box with Brimstone & Assafettida³⁹ beaten small & then take bitts of parchment, bits of leather, & feathers, or other stinking matter,⁴⁰ & lay them towards the Top of the Box, with the Seale drawn upon Velome also, and winde it about with wyer, to keepe it close, let the wyers have a loop on the top, wherein to put the point of a Sword, by which it must be held up, over a fire of Eglantine, & so let it burne & consume.

³⁹ "& Assafettida" (Assafoetida) written sup. lin.

⁴⁰ "or other stinking matter" written sup. lin.

The Consecrations & Benedictions:

[The following section combines conjurations and rubric from the Heptameron seu elementa magica with the conjurations and rubric of the Ars Goëtia, the first book of the Lemegeton (which in turn partly derived from the former).]

And first of the Benediction of the Circle.

[22r] When the Circle is rightly perfected, sprinkle the same, with Holy or Purging Water, and say, Thou shalt purge me with Hysopp, O Lord, & I shall be cleane, thou shalt wash me & I shalbe whiter then Snow.

The Benediction of Perfumes.

The God of Abraham, God of Isaac, God of Iacob, Bless here the Creatures of these kindes, that they may fill up the power & vertue of their Odours, so that neither the Enimye nor any false Imagination, may be able to enter into them, through our Lord Jesus Christ Amen.⁴¹

The Exorcisme of Fire, upon which the Perfumes are to be put.

The Fire which is to be used for Fumigations, is to be in a new vessell of Copper⁴² or Iron, & let it be exorcised after this manner, *I exorcise thee O thou Creature of Fire, by him by whome all things are made; That forthwith thou cast away every Fantasme from thee; that it shall not be able to doe any hurt in any thing; but bless O Lord this Creature of Fire & sanctifie it, that it may be blessed, to set forth the praise of thy holy Name, that noe hurt may come to the Exorcisers or Spectators though our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.*⁴³

Of the Garment and Pentacle.

Let is be a priests Garment, if it can be; but if it cannot be had, let it be of Lynin & cleane.

[22v] Then take this pentacle⁴⁴ made in the day & houre of Mercury (the Moon increasing) written in parchment of kidskin, but first let there be said over it, the Mass of the Holy Ghost, and let it be sprinkled with water of Baptisme.

⁴¹ This and the preceding, including titles, are verbatim (barring variations in spelling) from Robert Turner's translation of the Heptameron of pseudo-Abano. An instruction for the perfumes to be sprinkled with holy water followed in the original.

⁴² Turner reads "of earth or iron" (fictili seu Terreo in the Latin).

⁴³ Near-verbatim from T1665.

⁴⁴ The lettering inside the hexagram has been garbled, and characters that originally appeared outside it (including the letters of AGLA) completely omitted. In the printed Heptameron, it appears as a glyph resembling a somewhat angular lower case roman t, rotated 45° clockwise, followed by xpūs, a scribal abbreviation for Christus (χριστος).

An Oration to be said, when the Vesture is put on.

Ancor Amacor Amades Theodonias Anitor. By the merits of the Angells⁴⁵ O Lord, I will put on this Gar[[ment]] of Salvation, that this which I desire I may bring to effect, though the most holy Adonay, whose Kingdome endur[[eth]] for ever & ever. Amen.⁴⁶

When you would begin to work any great Experiment,⁴⁷ Let the Moone be increasing and equall & not Combuste. The Magicall Operator or Sophy Master of the Art, ought [[to]] be cleane & purified by the space of nyne daies before the beginning of the worke. And to confess & acknowledge his sins to God,⁴⁸ and let him have ready, the perfume appropriated to the day wherein he would performe the [23r] worke. He must also have Water of Baptisme, & a new Copper Vessel with Fire, a Vesture & Pentacle, And let all these things be rightly & duly consecrated & prepared. Let one of the Company⁴⁹ carry the Copper Vessel full of Fire & the Perfumes, And lat another beare the Booke, another the Garment & Pentacle, and let the Master carry the Sword, over which there must be said an Homony of the holy Ghost,⁵⁰ and on the midle of the Sword let there be written this name Agla †, and on the other side thereof the Name †On†. And as he goeth to the consecrated place, let him continually praise God, the Company answering.⁵¹ And when he cometh to the place where he would enter the Circle with gravity and sound ⁴⁵ T1655 has “of thy Angel”; T1665, “of the Angels” (the Latin has Angelorum tuorum sanctorum).

⁴⁶ Some text is lost in the gutter; however as this passage is otherwise word-for-word identical to T1665, I am confident it has been correctly restored.

⁴⁷ This connecting phrase is an interpolation, and replaces the heading Of the Manner of working (De modo operationis) in the Heptameron.

⁴⁸ Turner: “[...] and to be confessed, and receive the holy Communion.”

⁴⁹ Turner refers to the Companions of Art (discipuli) as “servants.”

⁵⁰ Turner: “[...] over which there must be said one Mass of the Holy Ghost”

⁵¹ Turner: “let him continually read Letanies, the servants answering.”

Judgement, Let him begin his Action being clothed with pure Garments and fumigated with Pentacles, perfume and all things necessary hereunto, let him enter the Circle and call the Angells from the foure parts of the World that rule the Aire, the same day wherein he doth worke or Experiment, having implored especially all the Names & Spirits, say as followeth:⁵²

O all you Spirits whome I have invoked, moved, and called upon, I conjure & command you all by the name Adon per Hagios, Otheos, Ischyros Athanatos, Paracletos, Alpha & Omega, and by these sacred names Agla, On, Tetragrammaton, grant and fulfil my desires.⁵³

Thus far being performed proceede to the Coniuration and Invocation for the day of your Action,⁵⁴ but if [23r] they be pertinacious and refractory & will not yield themselves obedient, neither to the Coniuration assigned to the day nor to the Prayers before made, then use the Invocation following.⁵⁵

Wee being made after the Image of God, endued with power from God, & made after his Will, doe Exorcise you by the most mighty & powerfull name of God El, strong and wonderfull, O you Spirit Vassago or Usago,⁵⁶ wee command you by him who said the word & it was done and by all the Names of God, & by the name Adonay, E[[I]], Elohim, Elloe, Zebaoth, Elion, Escerchie, Iah, Tetragrammaton Sadai, Lord God most high, We Exorcise you & powerfully comand you forthwith to appear unto us here before this Circle in a faire humaine shape without any deformity or tortuosity; come yee a[[I]] such, because wee command you, by the Name Y and V, which Adam heard & spake, and by ⁵² This rubric is paraphrased rather than verbatim from Turner; and there are notable omissions, such as the instruction to sprinkle the Circle while saying the asperges and the stipulation of three days of “fasting, chastity, and abstinency from all luxury” prior to the work. This along with some of the changes noted above form part of an ongoing process of removing references to Roman Catholic doctrine and ritual in English works on magic. In a passage copied from the Heptameron added to an early 18th-century version of the Ars Goëtia (BL Harley MS. 6483), for instance, the copyist, while retaining the reference to a Mass being said over the Pentacle & having it sprinkled with holy water, commented “This was the practice in times of popery but Dr. Rud [the supposed scribe of the copyist’s source text] omitted it, saying no masse, nor using any holy water.” Basically, if you were outside the demographic (i.e., peasant women) most at risk from witchcraft charges, being suspected of Roman Catholic sympathies was significantly more dangerous in 17th-century England than being suspected of practising magic.

⁵³ This was left untranslated in both T1655 and T1665.

⁵⁴ The conjurations for the seven days of the week were not part of the material copied by Ashmole into this notebook: versions can, however, be found in “The Magic and Magical Elements &c. &c. &c.” which is at least partly in Ashmole’s hand and was later bound up with this book.

⁵⁵ This passage of rubric is again paraphrased slightly from Turner rather than verbatim. Turner refers to the following speeches as “Conjurations and Exorcisms” (Coniurationibus & exorcismis in the Latin).

⁵⁶ Turner, following the Latin, has rather a parenthetical instruction, “here he shall name the Spirits he would have appear, of what Order soever they be.” Vassago is cited in the treasure-hunting process above, and the subject of an “experiment” in one of the other MSS. that were bound up with “Longobardus”; the forms Vsagoo and Vzago appears in the “Offices of the Spirits” section of V.b. 26 (pp. 79, 84).

the name of God Agla, which Lott heard⁵⁷ which Iacob heard from the Angel wrestling with him, & was delivered from the hand of his Brother Esau, and by the Name Anephexeton which Aron heard and spake and was made wise; and by the Name Zebaoth which Moses named, and all the Rivers and waters in the Land of Egypt were turned into Blood, and by the Name Eserchie Oriston,⁵⁸ which Moses named & all the Rivers brought forth Froggs, and they Ascended into the houses of the Egyptians, destroying all things, and by the Name Elion which Moses named [24r] and there was great Hayle, such as hath not been seene since the beginning of the World, and by the name Adonay, which Moses named, and there came up Locusts which appeared upon the whole Land of Egypt, and devoured all which the Haile had left, and by the name Schemes Amathia, which Ioshua called upon, & the Sun staid his course, and by the Name Alpha and Omega, which Daniel named and destroyed Bell & slew the dragon, and in the name Emanuel, which the three Children, Shradrach, Mesach, & Abednego sang in the midst of the fiery Furnace and were delivered, and by the Name Hagios & by the Seale of Adonay,⁵⁹ & by ὁ θεός,⁶⁰ Ischyros, Athanatos, Paracletos, and by these three secret names Agla, On, Tetragrammaton, wee doe adjure & contest you, And by these names, & by all other Names of the Living and true God, & by our Lord Almighty we Exorcise and command you by him that spake the word & it was done; to whome all Creatures are obedient, and by the dreadfull judgment of God, by the uncertain Sea of Glass, which is before the face of the Divine Majesty, mighty and powerfull, by the foure footed Beasts before the Throne, having Eyes before & behind, & by the Fire round about his Throne, & by the holy Angells of Heaven, by the might Wisdome of God, we doe powerfully Exorcise you, that you appeare here before this Circle, & fulfil our wishes in all things, which shall seem good unto us; by the Seale⁶¹ of Baldachia, and by his Name Prima Vmaton,⁶² which Moses named, & the Earth [24v] opened & swallowed up Corah, Dathan & Abyran, and in the power of that Name Prima Umaton, [[...]]⁶³ commandeth the whole Host of Heaven; Wee Curse you, [[we]]

⁵⁷ At this point the words “and was saved with his Family; and by the name Joth” appear in T1665; they were probably omitted by copyist eye-skip.

⁵⁸ Thus in MS. T1655 & T1665 misprinted the name as Ecerchie Oriston, both in the Latin and English. The scribe possibly had access to a Latin copy, or another text in which the name appeared, and altered it accordingly.

⁵⁹ “by the Seale of Adonay” was an error (possibly due to a misreading by the typesetter or Turner omitting to cross a ‘t’) in T1665; the Latin has sedem Adonay.

⁶⁰ Ho theos, “God.” In the MS., the terminal -ος was represented by a now-obsolete ligature. While this word is indeed Greek (as are the three names following), in all the Latin versions of the Heptameron, and in T1655, where the “Exorcisme of the Spirits of the Air” was left untranslated, it was printed in Roman script; only in the translated conjuration in T1665 was it printed in Greek letters.

⁶¹ sedem (“seat”) in the Latin again.

⁶² Also appears as Pneumaton (CIm 849) or Primeumaton (the Vadian Lucidarium and the printed Heptameron).

⁶³ Word lost in gutter, probably “which”; T1665 phrases this clause slightly differently, “that name Primeumaton, commanding the whole Host of Heaven.”

deprive you from all your Office, Joy & Place, & do bind you in the depth of the bottomless pitt, there to rema[[in]] until the day of Judgment; & we binde yee into eternall Fire, and into the Lake of Fire & Brimston, unless you forthwith appeare heare before this Circle [[and]] doe our Will; therefore come you by these Names: Adonay Zebaoth, Adonay Amioram come yee, come yee, Adonay comandeth you, Saday, the King of Kings command you, EL: Aty: Titeip: Azia: Hin: Ien: Minosel: Achadan: Vay: Vaah: Ey: Haa: Eye: Exe: a: El: El: El: a: Hy: Hau: Hau: Hau: va: va: va: va;⁶⁴

If they doe not come at the rehearsing of these two⁶⁵ forgoing Coniurations (but without doubt they wi[[ll]),] say on as followeth, it being a Constraint.

[25r] Wee Coniure thee Spiritt N: by all the most glorious & efficacious Names, of the most great and incomprehensible Lord God of Hosts, that you come quickly without delay, from all parts & places of the world, to make rationall answers of my Demands. And that visibly & affably, speaking with a Voice, Intelligible to our Understanding (as aforesaid) we enjoyne constraine you Spirit N: by all aforesaid and by the Seaven Names, which wise Solomon bound Thee and the Fellowes in a Vessell of Brass, Adonai, Prerari, Tetragrammaton, Inessanfatall, Anephexeton, Pathatumon & Itemon, that you appeare here before this Circle; to fulfil our Wills in all things that shall seeme good unto us, And if you be disobedient, & refuse to come, Wee will in the Power, & by the power of the Name of the Superiour & everlasting Lord God, who created both you & us, & all the whole World in six daies, & what is conteyned in it, Eye Saray, And by the power of this Name, PrimaVmaton, which comandeth the whole Host of Heaven, Curse you, & deprive you from all your Office, Joy, & Place, & binde you in the depth of the bottomless Pitt, there to remaine unto the day of the last Judgment & will binde you into Eternall Fire, & into the Lake of Fire & Brimstone unless you come forthwith & appeare here before this Circle to doe our Will, Therefore come you, in & by these holy names Adonay Zebaoth,⁶⁶ Adonay Amioram, come you, Adonay comandeth you.⁶⁷

⁶⁴ Barring vagaries of spelling, capitalisation and punctuation, and the variations noted, this is verbatim from the translation of the exorcism of the Aërial Spirits in T1665 (which omitted some citations from the Latin). At this point, Longobardus breaks away from the Heptameron rubric, which continued with a prayer to be said to the four quarters, and instead closely parallels the Ars Goëtia (see, e.g., S5 fol. 114v sqq.). Indeed, the parallels in the two sections to those two respective works are so close that it is far more likely that the present text was crudely nailed together from the 1665 English Heptameron and the Ars Goëtia, and therefore post-dates the latter rather than being a prototype for it (which latter was my initial suspicion).

⁶⁵ “Two forgoing conjurations” only makes sense if the first is taken to refer to the conjuration of the day, not given here. In the Ars Goëtia, the conjurations of the days of the week have dropped out of the system, and a modified version of the “Beralanensis” conjuration from the Heptameron was placed before the “Exorcism of the Spirits of the Air”; the bulk of the latter, with a new opening and ending, and omitting everything after “Corah, Dathan & Abyran” (some of which was shunted into a later part of the ritual) became the “Second Conjuration.”

⁶⁶ “Adonay Zeboath” in MS.

[25v] If you come soe farr, & he yet doe not appeare, you may be sure he is sent to some other place by his King, & cannot come; and if he be soe, Invoke the King as followeth to send him; but if he doe not come still, then you may be sure he is bound in Chains in Hell, & he is not in the Custody of his King, & if you have a desire to call him from thence, you must rehearse the Spirits Chaine,⁶⁸ &c.

For to Invoke the King as followeth.

O you great mighty & powerfull King Amayon,⁶⁹ who beares rule by the power of the superior God El, over all Spirits both Superiour & Inferiour of the infernall Order, in the Dominion of the East,⁷⁰ we invoke & command you, by the espeicall & truest names or your God, and by God that you worship & obey, & by the Seale of your Creation, & by the most mighty and powerfull name of your God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who cast you out of Heaven, with all other of the infernall spirits, & by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven & Earth & Hell, & all things conteyned in them, & by their powers & vertues, & by the name PrimaUmaton, who commandseth

⁶⁷ From “And by the power of this Name, PrimaVmaton,” this is repeated from the exorcism of the Aërial Spirits: this section is not in the Second Conjunction of the Ars Goëtia, the bulk of which is based on Turner’s translation of the “Exorcism.”

⁶⁸ The “Spirits’ Chain” (Vinculum spirituum; also appears as the Vinculum Salomonis) is mentioned as a magical text in MS. by Trithemius in Antipalus Maleficorum (1508). Two texts with this title and the incipit given by Trithemius, or something very similar, are extant in 15th-century MSS. in the Bayern Staatsbibliothek at Munich, Clm 849 (the “Munich Manual of Necromancy”) and Clm 10085 (ostensibly a manual of exorcism). It appears to have been a floating text that was cited by, or incorporated into, various Solomonic magical works. While extant exemplars have much variation, they have a similar structure and the main text typically begins per potentissimum et corroboratum nomen dei El, fortem et admirabilem, going on to conjure / command / constrain the dæmon by a long chain of names of God which characters in the Hebrew legends are said to have heard and / or spoken and thereby been saved, made wise, or wrought various wonders.

Later versions can be found in a 16th-century Key of Solomon version in Sloane MS. 3847 (fol. 13v-15v) and the pseudo-Abano Lucidarium artis magicæ (e.g. St. Gallen, Kantonsbibliothek: Vad Slg Ms. 334, p. 12-13); it is, in fact, an ancestor of the Heptameron’s “Exorcismus Spirituum Aërorum” and thus of the Second Conjunction of the Ars Goëtia. In other words, if you get to this point, you have already rehearsed the Spirits’ Chain. Since that title was not attached to the exorcism in the Lucidarium or Heptameron, and since the entries for Byleth and Belial in the Pseudomonarchia Daemonum (the main source for the spirit catalogue of the Goëtia) mentioned it, the compiler of the Goëtia assembled the text following under that title to fit the reference. This is entirely in keeping with their habits: the Pauline Art of the Lemegeton bears no relation other than the name to the older work of that title mentioned by Agrippa, and the name “Lemegeton” itself derives from a reference in the Ars Notoria to a “treatise of secret and spiritual experiments” by Solomon.

⁶⁹ Or Oriens, Paymon, Egin, as appropriate. Possibly. While some of the texts bound up in S4 name the Kings of the quarters thus, the Ars Goëtia, deriving from Wier’s Pseudomonarchia Daemonum, has them as Amaymon (E.), Corson (W.), Ziminiar (N.) & Goap (S.) (S5, fol. 111r). With a few exceptions, the list of spirits does not specify to which quarter they are referred, or to which King they are subject. Some spirit catalogues (e.g. V.b. 26. pp. 81-2), do give this information, but have a limited overlap with the Ars Goëtia in terms of which spirits they list. Wier deliberately redacted material from his source, a Liber Officiorum Spirituum manuscript, when he published it, hoping to make the whole thing unusable; the subsequent popularity of the Ars Goëtia suggests he failed in this goal.

⁷⁰ Or other quarter as appropriate.

the whole Host of Heaven, That you cause, enforce and compel N: to come unto us here before this Circle, in a faire & comly forme, without doing any harme unto us, or any other Creatures, and to answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that wee may [26r] accomplish our wills & desires, in knowing or obeying any matter or thing, which by Office you know is proper for him to performe or accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Celestiall, Aieriall, Terrestriall & Infernal.

After you have invoked the King in this manner twice or thrice over, Then Conjure the Spirit you would call forth, by the aforesaid Coniurations, rehearsing them severall tymes together, & he will come without doubt, if not at first or second tyme rehearsing, but if he doe not come, add the Spirits Chaine, to the end of the aforesaid Coniurations, & he wilbe forced to come, if he be bound in Chaines, for the Chaines will break off from him, & he will be at Liberty &c.

The generall Curse called the Spiritts Chaine, against all Spiritts that Rebell.

O thou wicked & disobedient Spirit, because thou has rebelled, & not obeyed and regarded our words, which we have rehearsed, they being all most glorious & incomprehensible names of the true God, maker and creator of you & us, & all the World. Wee by the power of those Names, which noe Creature is able to resist, doe Curse you, into the depth of the Botomless Pitt, & there to remaine unto the day of doome, in Chaines of fire & brimstone unquenchable, unless you forthwith appeare here before this Circle [or within this Δ Triangle] [26v] to doe our Wills. Therefore come peaceably & quickly in & by these Names, Adonay Zebaoth, Adony Amioram, come, come you, Adonay commandeth you.

When you have read soe far, & he does not come, Then write his Name & Seale in Virgin parchment and put it into a black Box, with Brimstone, Assafoetida & such like things that have a stinking strong smell, & bynde the Box round with a Wyre, & hang it on your sword point, & hold it over the Fire of Charcoales, & say to the Fire (it being placed toward that Quarter the Spirit is to come),

Wee Conjure you Fire, by him that made thee & all other good Creatures in the World, that thou torment, burne & consume this Spirit N. everlastingly. Wee condemne thee thou Spirit N. into Fire everlasting, because thou art disobedient and obeyed not the commands, nor kept the Precepts of the Lord thy God, neither wilt thou appeare to, or obey us, nor our Invocations, having thereby called you forth, who are the Servante of thee most high & imperiall Lord of Hosts Iehovha, and dignified & fortified, by his Cœlestiall power and permission, neither comest thou to answer to these our proposals here made unto you, for which your aversness & contempt, you are guilty of grand disobedience & Rebellion, And therefore wee shall [27r] Excommunicate you, & destroy thy Name & Seale, which wee have here incdorsed in this Box, & shall burne them in immortall fire, & bury them in immortal Oblivion, unless thou imediately come & appeare visibly, affably, friendly & courteously heer unto us, before this Circle in this Δ Triangle, in a faire and comly forme, & in no wise horrible, hurtfull or firghtfull to us, or any other creature upon the face of the Earth: and make rationall Answers to our Requestes, & perform all our desires in all things, that wee shall make unto you, &c.

If he come not yet, say as followeth.

Now O thou Spirit N. since thou art still pertinacious & disobedient, & will not appeare unto us to answer such things, as we should have desired of you, or would have been satisfied in &c: Wee doe in the Name, & by the power & dignity of the Omnipotent Immortall Lord God of Hosts Iehovah Tetragrammaton, the only Creator of Heaven & Earth & Hell, & all that in them is, who is the marvellous disposer of all things, both visible and invisible, Wee Curse you & deprive you, from all your Office, Joy & Place, & do binde you in the depth of the bottomless Pitt, & there to remaine until the day of the last Judgment, Wee say into the Lake of Fire & Brimstone, which is prepared for all rebellious, disobenient, Obstinate & pertinacious Spirits, [27v] Let all the Holy Company of Heaven Curse you, the Sun, Moone & Stars, the Light, & all the Hosts of Heaven Curse Thee, Wee Curse thee, into the fire unquenchable & Tormente unspeakable, & as thy Name & Seale is conteyned in this Box, chained & bound up, & shalbe choaked in Sulphurious & stinking Substance, & burn in the materiall Fire, so in the name Iehovah, by the power & dignity of these three names Tetragrammaton, Anepheeton & PrimaUmaton, [[we]] cast thee, O thou disobedient Spirit N. into that Lake of Fire, which is prepared for the damned and cursed Spirits, and there to remaine to the day of doome, and never more to be remembered of, before the face of God, which shall come to Judge the Quick & the dead and the World by Fire.

Heere the Exorcist must put the Box into the Fire.

And by and by he will come, but as soone as he is come, quench the Fire that the Box is in, & make a sweete perfume, & give him a kinde entertainment, shewing him the Pentacle, what is at the bottom of your Vesture, covered with a lynnin cloth, saying,

Behold the Conclusion if you be Disobedient. Behold the Pentacle of Solomon, which we have brought here before thy presence, Behold the person of the Exorcist who is called Octinom[[os]], [28r] in the midst of the Exorcisme, who is armed by God & without feare, who potently Invoked you, & cal'd you to Appearance, Therefore make rationall Answers to our demands, & be obedient to us your Masters, In the Name of the Lord, Bathat rushing upon Abrac, Abeor coming upon Abarer.

Then they or he wilbe Obedient, & bid you aske what you will, for they are subjected by God to fulfil our desires & demands, And when they or he, have appeared & shewes himself humble & meeke, then you are to say as followeth:

Welcome O you Spirit or Spirits, or most Noble King or Kings, we say you are welcome unto us, because we called you, through him who created both Heaven Earth & Hell, & all that is conteyned in them, & you have obeyed also by the same power that we called you forth. Wee binde you that you remaine affably & visibly here before this Circle (or before this Circle in this Δ Triangle),⁷¹ for constant & so long as we have occasion for you, & not to depart without our Lycence, until you have faithfully & trily performed our Wills, without any falsity, &c.

The Lycence to Depart.

O thou Spirit N., because thou hast very diligently [28v] answered our demands, & was very willing to come at our first Call, Wee doe here Lycence thee to depart unto thy proper place, without doing any harme, injury or danger to Man or Beast (depart we say) & be ever ready to come at our Call, being Exorcized and Conjured, by the sacred rights of Magick, Wee charge thee to depart peaceably & quietly, And the Peace of God be ever continued between us & thee. A[[men.]]

After thou hast given the Spirit Lycence to depart you are not to goe out of the Circle, till they be gone, and you have made prayers to God, for the grea[[t]] Blessing he hath bestowed upon you in granting you your desires, & delivering you from all the malice of the Enemy the Devill.

Therefore thou shalt pray thus,⁷²

O Lord God of heaven & Earth, Creator & Maker of all things visible & invisible, Wee thy most humble servants doe returne thee humble & heart thanks, for thy fatherly goodness & mercies, in granting these our desires, which through thy permission, we have now obteyned & received, Binde, O Lord those things, which though hast taught us to obteyne, in our Understandings, that we may bring them forth as out of thy inexhaustible Treasures to all necessary uses, & give us grace, that we may [29r] use such thy guifts & mercies humbly with feare & trembling, to thyne honor & praise, & to our owne comforte here on Earth, through our Lord, Jesus Christ. *Gloria Patri, et Filio, et Spirituo Sancto: Sicut erat in principio et nunc et semper, et in sæculo sæculorum Amen.*⁷³

[29v blank]

⁷¹ The closing bracket was after “or before this Circle” in the MS., which made no sense.

⁷² This prayer is not included in the BL MSS. of the Ars Goëtia.

⁷³ Lat., “Glory to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit, as was in the beginning and now and always to ages of ages, Amen.”

Elias Ashmole's notes on Janua Magica Reserata

The following notes and transcriptions, like the preceding 27 leaves, are in the hand of Elias Ashmole. They refer to a magical treatise titled Janua Magica Reserata.⁷⁴

The Janua is a 17th-century work on angel magic (probably ca. 1660⁷⁵) of unknown authorship. It contains conjurations for the nine orders of angels of pseudo-Dionysius (Seraphim, Cherubim, Thrones, &c.) to appear in a "Crystal Stone or Glass Receptacle," with a theoretical preface drawing heavily on Agrippa's De Occulta Philosophia.⁷⁶ The most complete copy known now forms the first half or so (fol. 3-96) of Sloane MS. 3825, and was for a time in the possession of Elias Ashmole. Based on that copy, and on a comparison with another copy to which he had access, apparently lacking the conjurations but with the theoretical section expanded and slightly rearranged, Ashmole made the notes and copies here transcribed.

Other materials which survive in Sloane MSS. 3821 and 3825 (which, like 3824, were in the Sommers and Jekyll collections prior to being acquired by Sloane, and before that had passed through the hands of Ashmole) are in similar style, and likely of common authorship, to the Janua. These include "The Practice of the Tables," or Clavicula Tabularum Enochi,⁷⁷ the "Operations of the Angles of the Air,"⁷⁸ "Celestial Confirmations of Terrestrial Observations"⁷⁹ and "A Select Treatise at it was first discovered to the Egyptian Magi";⁸⁰ together they form an extensive magical system mostly based around evocation to crystal, involving the Angels of John Dee's "Tables of Enoch," the planetary Intelligences, and the Demon Kings of the quarters.⁸¹

⁷⁴ Lat. "The Magical Gate Unlocked." Typeset in Stephen Skinner & David Rankine (ed.), Keys to the Gateway of Magic, Singapore: Golden Hoard Press, 2005.

⁷⁵ Some references in the following suggest it was compiled during, or shortly after, the "Commonwealth" period of English history (1649-1660). The use of printed sources makes a date before 1659 extremely unlikely.

⁷⁶ There are far more borrowings than those noted by Ashmole here, and the compiler demonstrably used the 1651 printed English translation rather than independently translating from an earlier Latin edition. Other identifiable sources include T&FR and Arbatel de magia veterum (Arbatel of Magick).

⁷⁷ S1 fol. 2-157. Another copy, probably earlier & certainly more complete, is in Sloane MS. 307. The work is untitled in S1; "The Practice of the Tables" is how Hans Sloane's librarian designated it in the contents list, based on some internal section titles, and it is unclear whether the title Clavicula Tabularum Enochi in Sloane 307 refers simply to the table of letter-squares at the start of the work, or the treatise as a whole.

⁷⁸ S1 fol. 158-165, 178-187. There is no overall title in MS., it comprises four sections titled "Operations of the East Angle of the Aire by invocation to the Regal Spirit Oriens," and similarly for Paimon in the West, Amaymon in the South and Egin in the North. As indicated by the full titles, these call on the demon kings of the quarters and their subordinates; barring the names of these spirits cited and the quarters to which they are referred, the four texts are near-identical.

⁷⁹ S1 fol. 166-177 (interrupting the "Operations of the Angles of the Air," and with some leaves out of order). This calls on Angels of the seven planets, mostly familiar from the Heptameron, apparently to empower some kind of talisman or material basis; much phrasing in the conjurations is verbatim from the Janua.

⁸⁰ S1 fol. 205-225. A fragment appears in S5 fol. 96v-99v. This is based around the planetary "Intelligences" mentioned in Agrippa, whose names are concocted in Hebrew to add up to one or another of the "magic numbers" of the planets. While it has much phraseology shared, there are also stylistic and other variations suggesting it was written by a later author in imitation of the Janua.

⁸¹ The first part (fol. 3-15) of "Longobardus" (or possibly this is the whole of it: it is unclear exactly how much of the MS. that title actually embraces), is likewise in similar style to the "Invocation of Angels" texts.

[Concerning material taken from Cornelius Agrippa]

[30r] The first 5 pages⁸² are taken out of the 36 Chap: of the 3^d Book of Corneilus Agrippa's Occult Philosophy. Set forth by D^r. French.⁸³

The 6 & 7 page is taken from the 36 Chapter.⁸⁴

The discourse relating to Ideas in p: 23 to the middle of page 25 is to be found in the 11 Chap. Of the first Booke of Occult Philosophy.⁸⁵

The discourse of the 9 Orders of Angells in p: 47, 48, 49, 50 & 51 is taken out of the 10 chap: lib. 3.⁸⁶

For Angells president in p: 61, 62, 63, see lib. 3 c: 24.⁸⁷

[30v blank]

[Concerning the following excerpts]

[31r] What follows was transcribed from another MS. Coppy of part of this Book; w^{ch} reached only to the Isagogicall Observations in pag. 75 & noted by pages & capitall Letters, where they were inserted by Dr. R.⁸⁸

Where note that to the Title (viz., Janua Magica Reserata) there was added in the said MS. Coppy per Clavem Philomusei.

Note that I find much of this discourse coppied out from Dr. French his translation of Cornelius Agrippa his Occult Philosophy, w^{ch} I have noted in the Margins.⁸⁹

[31v blank]

⁸² Fol. 3r-5r.

⁸³ "Of man, how he was created after the Image of God" (p. 457). From the start of the Janua to "untill it be made a wicked spirit" at the top of fol. 5v is an edited extract from this chapter.

The English translation of De Occulta Philosophia, as originally printed, was credited only to "J. F." Bibliographers have variously taken thfe initials to stand for "John French" and "James Freake." Ashmole, given his social circle, interests & and connections is likely to have known.

⁸⁴ Probably an error for "37"; "Of mans soul and through what means it is joyned to the body." (p. 465). From "The soul of man, being a certain divine light" on fol. 5v to "the Soul flyeth away with this Celestial vehicle &c." on fol. 6r is from this chapter.

⁸⁵ "How Occult Vertues are infused into the serverall kinds of things by Idea's, through the help of the Soul of the World, and rayes of the Stars: and what things abound most with this Vertue." The discussion of Ideas, beginning "It is yet further to be observed" (fol. 14r) begins with a short paraphrase from chap. 14, followed by a slight paraphrase of the bulk of chap. 11, ending at "virtues that are inferior species" in the middle of fol. 15r.

⁸⁶ "Of Divine emanations, which the Hebrews call Numerations, others Attributes." The attributions of Michael and Raphael in the Janua are counterchanged compared to those in Agrippa. The ensuing section of the Janua is almost entirely from ch. 37 & 38 of lib. III; the section after that from ch. 17.

⁸⁷ "Of the Names of Spirits &c." That chapter also includes material from lib. III cap. 16, 25 & 28, The following discussion of evil spirits is largely drawn from cap. 18.

⁸⁸ The capital letters denoting sections were also written in S5 to indicate the insertion points. "Dr. R" was probably the same "Dr. Rudd" to whom a copy of the conjurations of the Janua in BL Harley MS. 6482 (1712), and a revised version of the Lemegeton in Harley MS. 6843 (1712-13) are ascribed, although the matter is made murky due to Harley 6479-86 also ascribing to "Rudd" material plagiarized from printed books of 1650-90.

⁸⁹ These marginalia have been noted in footnotes where they are legible.

Excerpt A.⁹⁰

[32r] OBSERVE the words of an Orthodox & learned Father, who divinely saith thus; the Heavens, the Earth & every Creature, speaks unto us with their voyces;

The first voice saith, Receive a Benefit,

The second, pay thy Benevolence,

The third, avoyd punishment.

The Heavens saith, I give thee light in the day, that thou maist worke.

The darkness saith, I spread my Curtaine in the Night, that thou maist rest.

The Aire saith, I nourish thee with Breath; all kind of Fowles, I keepe at thy Comand

The Water saith, I give thee Drink, I purge away all uncleanness, I preserve all my Elementary Creatures to thy use, from the smallest Minnum, to the mighty Whale.

The Earth saith, I beare thee, I nourish thee with Bread & Wine, I fill thy Table with all sorts of Creatures & Fruite.

The second is a voyce of Admonition, in w^{ch} the World saith: See Man how he loved thee, w^{ch} made me for thee; I serve thee as thou servest him, w^{ch} made both thee & me.

The third Voyce is a voice of threatening, where the Fire saith, thou shalt be burnt by me: The Water saith, thou shalt be drowned by me, the Earth saith thou shalt be swallowed up by me, as some have been; if thou lay by⁹¹ thy Obedience to him, w^{ch} put of all subjection to thee.

Hence you see, that all Creatures call upon Man to serve him, because he is the summe & Epitomy of alle; & do willingly obey him.

Behold then &c. ~~~~ p. 9.⁹²

Excerpt B.⁹³

[32v] HAVING briefly layd open the Excellency & dignity of Man, let us see what we shall Councill him to observe, before we enter upon our following Tractate, & the practise thereof. The subject whereof is Magick, & it hath been very much approved of, by all the ancient & Moderne Philosophers, unto whome it hath been revealed, by the holy Revelation of blessed Angells, as shalbe manifested, & made more plainly appere in the following description thereof; the which, before we shall insist on, wee shall lay downe some Theologicall & Philosophicall Aphorismes, by way of Instruction; to shew what a Magitian ought to bee, and how me may deck himself in a magicall habit, both in the ⁹⁰ Insertion point: after “were not perfected but in many days,” fol. 7r (p. 9).

⁹¹ In the sense of “put aside, neglect” probably.

⁹² This indicates where the ensuring text once more matches up with that in S5. In this instance there is no difficulty. The pick-up text after extracts B-D, however, indicates that besides containing additional passages, some of the text shared by the two copies was ordered differently.

⁹³ Insertion point: after “perfect mind doth not Change in Council,” fol. 8v (p. 12).

inward & outward Man, & how he may put on him the Robes of the Cœlestiall & Angelicall disciplines, whereby he becomes more sublime, & ascende to more divine things, & participates fully & freely, of the Angellicall Converse & Ministry &c.

Now thus much observe by the way, to anticipate all doubts & objections, which in many ordinary discourses may arise frivolously, for want of better Judgment, when Things will not be otherwise perswaded, because perhaps the subject of our following discourse, may not in a Moment be rightly understood; For as in a Harmony or Consort of Musick, if one string thereof be out of Order, the whole Consort presently Jarres, & is dissonant & disordered, insomuch that the whole Body thereof immediately falls into a Confusion; So if one misticall Sence hereof by misunderstood, the whole Art is presently condemned.

None can draw a knowing & intelligent Man by Reason, unto things that reach a little beyond his present Capacity, but by receiving that Inspiration & force by Sense: For the Animall Spirit of Man, is by the influence of the [33r] Cœlestials, & the Cooperations of the Minde & Will, affected beyond his former & naturall disposition.

Now the more learned, discrete & expert Magitian, doth not admire this more rare & divine doctrine, & the great guifts and benifits proceeding therefrom, & received thereby; from whence, many wonderfull, Rare & admirable Experiments, Operacions & effects are produced & brought to pass, by virtue of the Cœlestiall Authority, managed according to the Order & discretion of the sublime⁹⁴ Magitian; because he is not a stranger to the heavens, &c.⁹⁵

But not only these things, but also all naturall Arte & Sciences of use, are admired at, by the malevolent, detractive, indigent, vulgar & illiterate persons, who merely out of Ignorance, deride & condemne all things, they know not, nor are accustomed to.

This being as much as is necessary by the way, to dissipate any misty vapour of Interception, which ingender & beget nothing but pernicious opinions & debates, to the confusion of the senses, & the overthrow of the Intelligible Faculty, to the great Scandall of Learning & the experienced Magitian, & the dishonour of God also.

Wee shall now proceede unto those necessary & usefull Aphorims, very fit to be knowne & observed of him, who would be a Contemplator of diving things, & a Learner of Cœlestiall & Magicall Doctrine &c: And next to the Description of the Heavenly Magick & the Philosophicall & Theologicall use, construction & Practise thereof.

In the name of God, Amen.

Beneficiall Aphorisms &c.: ~~~~ p. 16.⁹⁶

⁹⁴ Written in, somewhat cramped, above "divine," which latter word has been crossed out.

⁹⁵ This and the preceding paragraph are very slight variants of a passage which occurs in S5 (fol. 10r / p. 15), also shortly prior to the chapter of aphorisms.

⁹⁶ Fol. 10v by current foliation.

Excerpt C.⁹⁷

[33v] IN NOMINE Dei Iehovah Amen. Halleluiah.

In the first place, a Magitian ought to know God who is the giver of all good Gifts; this is the true & Orthodox beleife & description of God, according to the religious Construction of Christian Professors.

God the first, the Originall, the Cause of Causes, Increate, the only wise, infinite, omnipotent, eternall, incomprehensible, unbegotten, without parte, perfection, most like himself, the Guide of all Good, expecting no reward, the best, the wisest, the Father of all Right, having learned Justice without Teaching.—In the Godhead are three Persons, the Father Son & Holy Ghost, Coeternal & Coequall, of one most simple Essence, Substance, & Nature: And we ought to worship one God in Trinity, and Trinity in Unity, neither confounding the Persons, nor dividing the Substance.

The true name of this Incomprehensible God, is neither known to Angells nor Men, but to himself alone, neither shall it be manifested, until his will is fulfilled, p: <illegible> init.

[Luna]

Yet in this ineffable Essence, are contained many divine powers & Attributes, which as Rivolets flow from the Center of this Omnipotent Fountaine, & hath undoubtedly Influence on all things by a certain Order, from the highest things even to the lowest, & thenm as Beams are reflected from the Splendor of the most glorious & unspeakable Lumen, conteyning all things, have first & imediately Influence on the nyne Orders of Angells, & from them into the Cœlestiall Spheares, Planets & Men; & so accordingly, every thing receiveth power & virtue, to performe & fulfil the Office to which it is called.

[34r] Thus may wee behold the great Iehovah, called or distinguished, by the Names & significations of severall powerfull virtuous and ineffable Attributes, whereby our Intellect, being wrapt up in an Extasie of Cœlestiall & divine Contemplations, stand in admiration, to behold the wonders of his worke in Nature; and then for our further Illumination, that we may yet come nearer to the Knowledge & Inspection of the glorious Deity; behold through the portholes of the Cœlestiall Orbs, descends Natures Handmaid, to the assistance of all our Affairs, according to our Necessities, & naturall Juidiciousness, in the fulfilling & accomplishing all things, in respect of their Counsell, Office, Quality or Nature, only to his Glory, & the use of Man, &c:

To conclude, there is certainly no names of God amongst us, that is not taken from his Works, &c.:

The Allsufficient God ~~~~ see p: 12⁹⁸

⁹⁷ Insertion point: after “the soul of man, standing and not falling.” (end of “Beneficial Aphorisms,” fol. 14r).

⁹⁸ This pick-up note was written in small at the end of the excerpt. After this excerpt, and continuing to the bottom of the page, Ashmole transcribed a passage which he later realised was already in his copy of the Janua:

*Excerpt D.*⁹⁹

[34v] HAVING now briefly treated of the Cœlestiall & Terrestriall Harmonies, and the mutually correspondencies of these Inferiours with their Superiours; whereby we become capable, of receiving certain Cœlestiall Guifts from above, &c. – wee shall now touch at somewhat of the four Triplicities (or Elements) their various qualities, Natures, & Comixtions, & how they are formed every where, & in all things, both Cœlestiall, Terrestriall & Infernall.

Of the Foure Elements.

There are foure Elements, which are the originall Grounds of all¹⁰⁰ Corporiall Things, & of which all Elementatated Inferiour Bodies are compounded; not by way of heaping them together, but by Transmutation & Union; and they are Fire (1), Aier (3), Earth (2) & Water (4):

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|-------|---|----|---|--------------|---|-----------|---|-------|---|---|----------|
| The Nature &
Quality of þ ^e | { | Fire | } | is | { | Hot & dry, | } | answering | { | East | } | { | Eurus |
| | | Earth | | | | Cold & dry, | | | | South | | | Notus |
| | | Ayer | | | | Hot & Moist, | | | | West | | | Zephyrus |
| | | Water | | | | Cold & Moist | | | | North | | | Boreas |

These Elements according to two contrary qualities, are likewise contrary one to the other in Nature, vizt: Fire to Water — & Earth to Ayre — And upon another Account are opposite one to the other for Earth & Water is heavy, & Fire & Ayre is Light; And the Fire & Aire is active, & the Earth & Water is passive.

To the Fire is assigned Brightness, Thynness & Motion.

To the Earth — — — Darkness, Thickness & Quietnes.

“The Allsufficient God hath created all things, ruling & disposing them, & settled his heavenly decrees, according to his divine, holy & gracious Will, then doth he distribute the putting thereof in Execution to the Care of divers & sevrall Ministers, the w^{ch} S^t. John in the Revelations calls assisting & destroying Angells.

“And whatsoever God doth by Angells (as by Ministers) the same he doth by the Starrs (as it were by Instruments) who accordingly transmit them to this sensible World, that after this manner all things might worke together to serve him, so that it is fit we should apply the tyme, place, & species of the Angells & Stars to their respective parte, according as they are referred to them, both in respect of their Offices & Signification, &c.

“Note, every thing may (be) aptly be reduced from these Inferiours to the Stars, from the Stars to their Intelligencyes, from thence to the first Cause itself, from the Series and Order whereof, all hidden Philosopher flowes, for every day [some]”

The entire passage is cancelled and the catch-word does not appear on the next page. A note in the margin next to it (partly unreadable due to tight binding of the codex) indicates that this can be found on pp. 12–13 (fol. 8v–9r) under the head “Further Observations worthy of note.”

⁹⁹ Insertion point: after “as to its roots, causes and signs, it is reduced” fol. 10r (p. 15). This, it will be observed, is before the insertion point for excerpt C.

¹⁰⁰ In margin: illegible note, mostly lost in gutter, but based on the others, probably indicating the chapter of OOP here adapted.

Here you see according to these Qualities, these Elements of Fire and Earth, to be clearly contrary to each other.

The other Elements borrow their Qualities from these, as thus:

The Ayre receives two Quallities of the Fire, vizt: Thynnes and Motion, & one of the Earth, vizt: Darkness.

The Water receives two Qualities of the Earth, vizt: Darkness & Thickness, & one of the Fire, vizt: Motion.

Fire is twice more thinn then Ayer, thrice more moveable, & foure tymes more bright.

[35r] Ayre twice more bright than Water, thrice more thynn, & foure tymes more moveable.

Water is twice more bright than Earth, thrice more thyn, & foure times more moveable.

So that as the fire is to the Ayre, so is Aire to the Water, & Water to the Earth.

Then againe, as the Earth is to the Water, so is the Water to the Ayre, and the Ayre to the Fire.

And he who shalbe truly knowing & Learned, in these Qualities of the Elements, & their severall Commixtures, together with what followeth in relation thereunto, which is the Root & foundation of all Bodies, Causes, Natures, Virtues, Qualities & Operations, shall easily bring to pass many sublime, Rare, Wonderfull & Admirable Effects, to the astonishment of the Incredulous, & malevolent Detractors; and now we shall descend to particulars, and first¹⁰¹

Of Fire.

Fire in all things & through all things, comes & goes away Bright, it is in all things Bright, & at the same tyme occult & unknown; When it is by it selfe (no other Matter coming to it, in which it should manifest its proper Action) it is boundless & invisible of itself, sufficient for every Action that is proper to it, moveable, yeilding it self (after a manner) to all things that come next to it, renewing, guarding Nature, enlightening not comprehended by Lights, that are vailed over; cleere, parted, leaping back, bending upwards, quick in Motion, high, always raising Motions; Comprhending another, not comprehended it selfe, nor standing in neede of another; secretly encreasing of it selfe, & manifesting its greatness to things that receive it: Active, powerfull, invisible, present in all things at once, It will not be affronted nor opposed, but (as it were in a way of revenge) it will reduce on a suddaine things in obedience to it selfe; It is incomprehensible, [35r] impalpable, not lessened, most rich in all dispensations of it selfe;

¹⁰¹ This section is adapted, with some omissions, paraphrases and added connencting text, from OOP, Book I, chap. 3, "Of the four Elements, their qualities, and mutuall mixtions" (pp. 6-7).

it is of it selfe one & penetrates through all things, it is shining & spread abroad in the Heavens, but in the Internall place, it is streightened, dark, & Tormenting; and in the Midway it partakes of both: It is in it selfe One, but in that which receives it Manifold, & in differing Subjects it is distributed in a different manner.

Now the Fire which we use is fetched out of other things; It is in Stones, & fetched out by the Stroak of the Steele. It is in Earth, and after it is dug up, makes it to smoke; It is in Water, & heats springs & Wells; It is in the depth of the Sea, & makes it warme, when tossed with Windes; It is in the Aire, & makes it burne (as often tymes we see). It is in all Animalls, & Living things whatsoever; for every thing that lives, lives by reason of the inclosed heate: It is in all Vegetables, for that they are preserved by heat.

The properties of the Cœlestiall Fire is Heate, making fruitfull & giving Light & Lyfe to all things; by the properties of the Internall Fire is Darknes, a parching heate, consuming & making all things burne.

Now the true Cœlestiall Fire & Omnipotent Lumen, which is the Father of Lights, who saith from the Light of the World, sends forth the most glorious & illustrious Light of his Fire, according to his gracious desire, communicating it first to the diurnall Lamp the Sun, & the rest of the Cœlestiall Bodies; who then as mediating Instruments, conveyeth that Light into our Fire, which is the Vehiculum of the Superiour Light.¹⁰²

Of the Element, or Triplicity of Earth.

Earth is the Basis & Foundation of all the Elements, for it is the Object, Subject & Receptacle of all Cœlestiall Rayes & Influences, In it are contained the Seeds & seminall Virtue of all things, & therefore it is said to be Animall, Vegetable & Minerall: It being made fœcund by the Heavens, & the other Elements; brings forth [36r] all things of it selfe: it receives the aboundance of all things, & is (as it were) the first Fountaine from whence all things spring; it is the Center, Foundation & Mother of all things; in it are great Secrets, & it is the first matter of our Creation, &c.¹⁰³

Of the Element or Triplicty of Ayre.

Aire is said to be a vitall Spirit, passing through all beings, giving lyfe & subsistence to all things, & binding, moving & filling all things; It imediately receives into itself, the Influence of all Cœlestiall Bodies, & then communicates them to the other Elements, & alsoe to all mixt Bodies. It receives into its selfe (as if it were a divine Looking glass) the Species of all things both Naturall & Artificiall, & ~~also~~ likewise¹⁰⁴ of all manner of ¹⁰² This section is adapted from OOP Book I, chap. 5, "Of the wonderfull Natures of Fire, and Earth" (pp. 9–10). This is apparently noted by Ashmole in the margin (the note is mostly lost in the gutter owing to over-tight binding of the MS., but "5" and "9" are visible).

¹⁰³ This section is also adapted from OOP Book I chap. 5 (p. 10–11).

¹⁰⁴ 'also' has been crossed on in the MS., and 'likewise' written sup. lin., with an insertion mark below the cancelled word.

speeches, and retheynse them, & carries them with it; it enters into the Bodies of Men & other Animalls through their Pores, & makes an impression upon them, as well when they sleepe, as when they are awake; and affoards matter for strange dreames, &c. Hence it is, that one passing by a place, where a Man was slaine, or a Carcassee newly hid, is moved with feare & dread, because the Ayre in that place, being full of dreadfull species of Manslaughter, doth (being breathed in) move & trouble the Spirit of Man with the like species; for observe, that every thing that makes a suddain Impression, astonisheth Nature.¹⁰⁵

Of the Element or Triplicity of Water.

There is so great a necessity of Water, that without it nothing can Live, noe Hearbe, Plant or Vegitable whatsoever, without the moystning of Water, can bud or branch forth; In it is the seminary virtue of all things, specially of Animals, whose seede is manifestly waterish. The Seedes of Trees and Plants, although they are earthy, yet notwithstanding, must of necessity be rotted in Water, before they can be fruitfull, whether they be imbibed with the moisture of the Earth, or with dew or [36v] Raine, or any other water that is put to them on purpose; Yea those productions that are made in & upon the Earth, are partly attributed to the very water, as is testified by sacred Writt where it saith, that the plants & Hearbs did not grow, because God had not caused it to Raine upon the Earth. Such is the efficacy of this Element, that spirituall Regeneration, cannot be done without it (as our Saviour Christ testified to Nicodemus). In fine, infinite are the Benefitts, & divers are the Uses hereof: For by its Virtue all things are generated, nourished & subsist, & are increased. It was the first of all Elements, & the most potent, because it had & still hath the mastery over all the rest; It swalloweth up the Earth, extinguisheth Flames, ascends on high, & by the shining fourth of the Cloudes, challengeth the Heavens for their own; the same falling down againe, becometh the Cause of all things that growth on Earth. To conclude, Very many are the Wonders, that are done by this Element of Water, as is testified by many ancient & curious Writers, & also by Scripture it selfe.¹⁰⁶

Here we may plainly see, know & understand (together with what followeth in the ensuing Tables), that the Elements are the first of all things, & all things are of & according to them, & that they are in all things, & diffuse their virtues through all things.¹⁰⁷

And as in the Originall & Exemplary World, all things are in all; so likewise in this Corporiall World, all things are in all.

¹⁰⁵ This section is adapted from OOP Book I chap. 6, "Of the wonderfull Natures of Water, Aire and Winds" (p. 14), as Ashmole notes in the margin.

¹⁰⁶ This section is adapted from OOP Book I chap. 6, (p. 11-12), as Ashmole notes in the margin.

¹⁰⁷ Adapted from the concluding sentence of OOP Book I chap. 7 (p. 20), as Ashmole notes in the margin.

For the Elements are not only in these inferior Bodies, but also in the Heavens, in Stars, in Devills, in Angells, & lastly in God, the maker & Original Example of all things, &c.

Elements therefore in the Exemplary World, are Ideas of things to be produced; in the Intelligences, distributed powers; in the Heavens, vertues; & in inferior Bodies, gross Formes.

To conclude: Note, In these Inferiour Bodies the foure Elements are accompanied with much gross matter; but in the Heavens they are (according to their natures & vertues) after a Cœstially, pure, [37r]¹⁰⁸ and more excellent manner, then in Sublunary things: For the firmness of the Cœlestially Earth, is there without the grossness of Water, & the agility of the Aier, without running over its Bounds, & the heate of Fire without burning, only shyning, giving lyfe to all things by its heate.

Now therefore, that the Elements are to be found every where, & in all things, noe man can deny, first in these inferior Bodies, feculent & gross, Secondly in Cœlestiallys, more pure & clear, Thirdly in Supercœstiallys Living & in all Respects Blessed.¹⁰⁹

There are likewise 4 Cardinall Windes, defluxing from the foure Corners, thus named & qualified:

Eurus, or the East Winde, is ravenous, cloudy & waterish.

Notus, or the South Winde, is cloudy, moist, warme & sickly, & is called the Butler of the Rains.

Zephyrus, or the West Winde, is soft, blowing with a pleasant Gale, it is cold & moist, removing the effecte of Winter, bringing forth Branches, & pleasant Flowers.

Boreas, or the North Wind, is fierce, roaring, discussing Cloudes, makes the Aier serene, & bindes the Water with Froste.¹¹⁰

[37v] A Table, shewing how all things, both Cœlestially, Terretrall & Infernall, in their respective qualities, Natures & degrees, symbolize with the 4 Triplicities or Elements.¹¹¹

¹⁰⁸ There is a cancelled passage of seven lines in another hand at the top of fol. 37r. The sheet which begins there was originally attached after what is now fol. 99 of Sloane MS. 3825, as both the text and the number at the top centre of the page continue directly from S5 fol. 99v, and the cancelled text is in the same hand as the bulk of S5 fol. 3-99.

¹⁰⁹ From "And as in the Originall & Exemplary World" to here, this section is extracted and rearranged from OOP Book I, chap. 8, "How the Elements are in the Heavens, in Stars, in Divils, in Angels, and lastly in God himself" (pp. 20-22).

¹¹⁰ From OOP Book I chap. 6, passage describing the winds, (pp. 16-18.)

¹¹¹ Except where noted this is drawn from Agrippa's table of the scale of the number 4 in OOP Book II ch. 7 (pp. 186-7). The use of "Triplicities" to refer to the elements probably alludes to Agrippa's somewhat cryptic ch. 4 of Book I, "Of a three-fold consideration of the Elements" which distinguishes for each element, "the pure Elements," "Elements that are compounded, changeable, and impure, yet such as may be reduced to their pure simplicity" and "those Elements, which originally and of themselves are not Elements, but are twice compounded, various, and chageable one into the other." It is not entirely clear whether, or if so how, this threefold division connects with the general three-worlds scheme (natural, celestial, divine / supercelestial) after which De occulta philosophia is structured.

| The foure Elements. | Fire. | Earth. | Ayr. | Water. |
|--|---|--|--|---|
| Their Natures & Qualities. | Hot & Dry. | Cold & Dry. | Hot & Moist. | Cold & Moist. |
| Angells ruling the Elements. | Seruph. | Ariel. | Cherub. | Tharsis. |
| Parts answering in the Heavenly Angels & blessed Intelligences ¹¹² | By the shining splendor, & glorious lustre of their Love. | By the stability of their Essence in which is the steadfast Seate of God | By the subtilty of their Breath | By reason of their Mercy & piety, which is a watery cleansing vertue. |
| Of the Cœlestiall Hierarchies or Orders of Angells. ¹¹³ | Seraphim, Potestates, Vertues, | Cherubim, Angells. | Dominations, Principalities. | Thrones, Archangels. |
| Of the Stars & Planetes. | Mars & Sol. | Luna & the fixt stars | Jupiter & Venus | Saturn & Mercury |
| Of the 12 Zodiacall Constellations, or Cœlestiall Signs. | Aries, Leo, Sgittarius | Taurus, Virgo, Capricorns | Gemini, Libra, Aquary | Cancer, Scorpio, Piscis |
| Of the 4 Angles or Corners of the World | East | South | West | North |
| Of the four Windes | Eurus or Auster | Notus | Zephyrus | Boreas |
| Of the 4 Princes of the good Angels, that are set over the foure Angles of the World & the Windes. | Michael | Uriel or Nariel | Raphael | Gabriel |
| Of the 4 Princes of the Evill Spirits, set over the 4 Angles of the World, & the Winds, offensive to & troubling the Aire. | Uriens or Oriens or Ories. | Amaymon or Mayrary | Paymon, or Paynim, | Egin, or Egym. |
| Their Names according to ——— the Hebrew ——— is | Samael. | Mahazael. | Azazzel. | Azael. |
| Of the 4 Infernall Rivers. | Phlegeton. | Acheron. | Cocytus. | Styx. |
| In the Qualities of the foure Cœlestiall Elements. | Light | Solidity. | Diaphanousnes or Clearnes | Agility. |
| In the power of Mans Soule. | The Intellect. | Sense. | Reason. | Fancy. |
| In the Elementary part of Man. | The Minde. | The Body. | The Spirit. | Thee Soule. |
| In the Actions & Motions of Man, in usuall Gestures, &c. ¹¹⁴ | A fierce, quick & angry disposition. | A slow, firm, & ponderous Motion. | Cheerefulnes & an amiable disposition. | Fearefulnes, sluggishness & remises in working. |
| In the powers or parts of Animalls. | Vitall Spirit. | Bones. | Flesh. | Humours. |
| In humours of the the Body Pollitick. | Yellow Choller. | Black Choller, or Melancholly. | The Blood. | Flegme. |
| In the foure fold Spirit. | Animall. | Naturall. | Vital. | Generative. |
| In the foure kindes of Animalls. | Walking. | Creeping. | Flying. | Swimming. |

[38v]

¹¹² These are not in the table in Book II, but are mentioned in Book I cap. 8 (p. 21). In the MS. images I was working from, some text in the last column was lost in the gutter, and has been conjecturally restored from said source.

¹¹³ These are the attributions are given by Agrippa, in Book I (loc. cit.). In the table of the scale of the number 4, Seraphim, Cherubim & Thrones are referred to Fire, Dominations, Powers and Virtues to Air, Principalities, Angels and Archangels to Water and three divisions of the Blessed Souls to Earth.

¹¹⁴ This row is drawn from Book I, chap. 7 (pp. 19–20); the table in Book II has a row “Four manners of Complexion: Fire: Violence; Earth: Slowness; Air: Nimbleness; Water: Dulness.”

| | | | | |
|------------------------------|---|---|---|-----------------------------------|
| The foure Morall Vertues. | Justice. | Fortitude. | Temperance. | Prudence. |
| The foure Judicial Powers. | Faith. | Experience. | Science. | Opinion. |
| The four Annual Seasons. | Summer. | Autume. | Spring. | Winter. |
| Of Animalls. | Salamandr, Criket, Estrich,
Lyon. | Moles, Wormes,
& all small
creeping things. | The Camelion
& all flying
Fowles. | Fishes, &c. |
| Of Vegetables ¹¹⁵ | Seeds, because of the multiplying
Spirit. | Rootes by reason of their
thicknes. | Flowers because of their Subtility. | Leaves because of their Juyce. |
| Of Mineralls or Mettals | Gold & Iron. | Lead & Silver | Copper & Tynn. | Quick-Silver. |

Having briefly treated of the Natures & Qualities of the foure Elements or Triplicities, & how they are found everywhere, & in all things, & how all are oft & according to them, & diffuse their vertiues through all things; Wee will now touch at some occult vertues, & how they are infused into severall kindes of Things by Ideas, though the helpe of the Soule of the World, & the Raies & Influences of the Stars; which is very necessary to be first understood, before wee enter upon the ensuing Treatise.

There is nothing of such transcending vertue ~~~~ See p. 23.¹¹⁶

¹¹⁵ This row and the previous are drawn from OOP, Book I, ch. 7 (p. 19).

¹¹⁶ Fol. 14r by current foliation.

*Excerpt E.*¹¹⁷

[38v] NOW HAVING briefly touched at some materiall Matters of Concernement, very fit to be knowne & understood; We shall in the next place treat of Angells & Spirits, Cœlestiall, Terrestriall & Infernall, their severall & respective Hierarchies, Orders, Offices & natures, & teaching the good use that a sober & qualified Magician may make of all, and how the assistance & Ministry of good Angells, may be obteyned by us, & the maligne, Illusions, Temptations & Assaults of the Evill Spirits repelled, shunned & overcome by us. Likewise necessary Instructions and brief Rules, teaching how to attaine thereunto, as hath been approved by auncient & modern Philosophers, who have been great Inquisitors and curious Searchers into Angelicall, Cœlestiall & Terrestriall occult Misteries & Sciences; without falling from the originall, true & christian Faith, or the orthodox, theological construction thereof, or in the least estranged from, or being disobedient to the divine Power of God, or any Civill Lawes, or Governments of Common Wealths.¹¹⁸

*Of the Cœlestiall Angells & blessed Intelligences, &c.: Their severall Derivations, Distinctions, Names, Natures, Qualities, Orders, Offices, Hierarchies and Degress, as they are set over & governe all things, &c: (according to the Omnipotent Decress of the originall & first Cause) & of the Divine Numerations of God, called Attributes, of the ten Sephiroths, & the Ten most sacred Names of God that Rule them, & the significations & interpretations thereof; Of the Seventy-two Angells, that bear the Name of God in Banners, Schemhamphoras; and severall things worthy of Noate, &c.*¹¹⁹

An Angell is an Intelligible Substance ~~~~ &c: p. 27.

¹¹⁷ Insertion point: after “but for brevity sake here omitted” (fol. 16r / p. 27). This, in any case, seems to simply be an extended connecting passage leading into the chapter “Of Angels and Spirits” that follows.

¹¹⁸ The use of this term suggests this passage was written in or shortly after the period 1649–1660: England was declared “a Commonwealth” in May 1649 after the Parliamentary victory in the Civil War; for much of the period, this practically meant a military dictatorship. In 1660, following the death of Oliver Cromwell and the inability of his son Richard to gain the support of the military after assuming the title of Lord Protector, the country returned to being a monarchy under Charles II.

¹¹⁹ This is a variant form of the preamble to the section “Of Angels & Spirits” that begins immediately after the insertion mark for section E.

Excerpt F.¹²⁰

[39r] AS CONCERNING the Animasticall Order, or Choire of blessed Souls, or Heroes, various is the opinion of the Learned thereof; some suppose they were so called, either because for the meanness of their desert, they are not iudged worthy of Heaven, nor yet are accounted Terrestriall for the Reverence of Grace; or because they being eminent in this lyfe, for Divine Vertues & Benifits, then after this mortall Man is put off, are translated into the Choire of blessed Souls,¹²¹ always providing for mortall Men the same Vertues & Benifits, which they long since had in this Lyfe: Or because they were procreated, partly from the seede of the Superiours, who are thought to be begotten, by the mixture of Angells with Men,¹²² & so obteyne a certain middle Nature, that they are said to be neither Angells nor Men. And it is generally believed that Merlynn the British Prophet, was the son of an Angell,¹²³ and borne of a Virgin, and it is imagined that Plato (the Prince of Wisdome) was borne of a Virgin impregnated by a Phantasme of Apollo, & many such relations of the like manner, there are in the writing of the Auncients, who, together with some modern Philosophers doe aver, That those Heroes have noe less power in dispoising & ruling these inferior things, then the Angells;¹²⁴ & have their Offices & Dignities distributed to them; Therefore hath there been Temples, Altars, Images, Sacrifices, Vowes, & other Religious Mysteries dedicated to them, and their Names have been Invocated, have had Divine & Magicall Vertues, for the accomplishing & effecting some Miraculous Operations, as hath been tried by the name of Apollonius Tyaneus, & others, &c: now the opinion & beleife of the Roman Catholics (the most learned in Divine & Cœlestiall Mysteries, in this modern Age) hereof is this.¹²⁵ As concerning our holy Heroes (say they) wee beleive they excel in Divine power & (as the Jewish Theologians testifie) that the Soul of the Meschihæ (that is Jesus Christ, our only Lord & Saviour) doth rule over them; who by divers of his Saints, (as it were by Members fitted for this purpose) doth administer and distribute divers Guifts of his Grace, in these inferior parts, & every [39v] one of the Saints doe enjoy a peculiar Guift of working; and they being implored by us with divers prayer & supplications (according to the manifold distribution of Grace) every one doth most freely bestow their Guifts, Benifites & Graces on us, more readily & abundantly then the Angelicall Powers, by so much as they are nigher to us, & more allyed to our Natures, [as they who in tymes past, were both Men, ¹²⁰ Insertion point: after “who was also the Ruler of Moses,” fol. 28r (p. 51).

¹²¹ Agrippa: “into the quire of the blessed gods” (p. 453).

¹²² Agrippa: “mixture of Gods or Angels with men” (loc. cit.).

¹²³ Agrippa: “son of a Spirit” (loc. cit.).

¹²⁴ Agrippa: “than the Gods” (p. 454).

¹²⁵ From “now the opinion & beleife” to here is an interpolation into Agrippa’s text, as is the parenthetical “say they” in the next sentence.

& suffered humane Afflictions & Infirmities,]¹²⁶ and their Names, Degrees & Offices are also more knowne unto us. Out of the number of these almost infinite, there are 12 chiefs and they are twelve Apostles of Christ, who (as saith Evangelicall Trtuh) sit upon twelve Thrones, iudging the 12 Tribes of Israell; & in the Revelations are said to be distributed upon twelve Foundations, at the twelve Gates of the heavenly Citty, & are Seated in the twelve precious Stones, unto whome the whole World is distrubted.¹²⁷ After these are the Seaventy two Disciples of Christ, who also ruleth so many Quinaries of Heaven, Tribes, People, Nations, & Tongues. After whome is an innumerable multitude of Saints, who have received divers Offices, Places & Nations into their Protection and Patronage, whose most apparent Miracles, at the Faitfull Prayers of those that Invoke them, Experience hath plainly manifested, &c.¹²⁸

Of which Order of Heroes aforesaid, we can say little or nothing of, till Tyme hath produced some further satisfaction & granted us new experience therein, then as yet we have attained, having hitherto not practically insisted on, nor handled any Consideration of this Subject, it being in our apprehension so Mysticall &c: that our understanding thereof aright, is not at present capable of; wherefore we shall wave any further treating thereof here, & come to discourse of the Nyne foregoing Hierarchies, their severall Divisions & Constructions, & what divine Guifts, Man receiveth therefrom, & from the Intelligences & Stars, & how Man is likewise degraded from those Cœlestiall Benefits, & deprived of them, &c.

Now we are to shew forth, &c. ~~~~ see p: 51.

¹²⁶ This clause is enclosed in square brackets in the MS., where it appeared following “[...] are also more knowne unto us.” It was probably displaced by copyist eye-skip at some stage; in Agrippa (loc. cit.) it appears following “more allyed to our natures.”

¹²⁷ At this point in Agrippa (pp. 454–455) are listed the names of the twelve Apostles in Hebrew, Romanized Hebrew and English.

¹²⁸ Up to here is quoted or paraphrased (with some significant verbal changes) from OOP Book III chap. 33, “Of the Animasticall order, and the Heroes” (pp. 453–455), as noted by Ashmole in the margin at the start of the section. The following paragraph is connecting text.

Excerpt G.¹²⁹

[40r] HAVING briefly Treated of the Cœlestiall Hierarchies, & of the Ruling Intelligences in each Orb & Spherare; wee must also understand, that although the¹³⁰ blessed Intelligences are especially appointed for the Divine Worship & service of God, yet notwithstanding they have also the Government of every Heaven & Star; And as you see there are as many Hierarchies, Orders & Offices of the good Angells as there are Heavens, or Cœlestiall Spheares; and as the Stars are divided according to the nature of the Spheares, & the particular Intelligences Star (or Planet) governing it, as they rule themselves & Sheares, are Saturnine; Joviall, Martiall, Solar, Veneriall, Mercuriall & Lunar (as the learned in Astrologie affirme) although (I say) there is but one ruling Intelligence assigned to each particular Orbe or Spheare, yet seeing the every star, hath its proper & different power, nature, virtue, Office & Influence; so also hath every Star its particular ruling Intelligence, whereby it confirmeth power & operation: soe that as the Stars are innumerable, so also are the Legions of the Cœlestiall Angells, as experience doth abundantly testifie.

Astrologicans say, that there are seaven Planets called erratick or wandring Stars in the Heavens, & they are thus named, & all known by these Characters.

| | | | | | | |
|------------|-----------|--------|-----------|---------|-----------|----------|
| ♄ Saturne. | ♃ Jupiter | ♂ Mars | ☉ the Sun | ♀ Venus | ☿ Mercury | ♁ Moone. |
|------------|-----------|--------|-----------|---------|-----------|----------|

There are also twelve Signs in the Zodiack, through which the Seaven Planets move, & in which they celebrate their severall Aspects, & wherein they have Fortitudes & Debilities, as is further explained in the Astrologically Tracte foregoing, & they are thus Nominated, and distinguished by the following Characters.

| | | | | | | | | | | | |
|--------|---------|---------|---------|------|--------|--------|----------|--------------|------------|-----------|--------|
| ♈ | ♉ | ♊ | ♋ | ♌ | ♍ | ♎ | ♏ | ♐ | ♑ | ♒ | ♓ |
| Aries. | Taurus. | Gemini. | Cancer. | Leo. | Virgo. | Libra. | Scorpio. | Sagittarius. | Capricorn. | Aquarius. | Pisces |

There are also foure Elements or Tripliticies, which these twelve signes are divided into, & are accordingly governed day & night by the seven planets, as herere you see, & they are Fire, Earth, Air, Water.

| | |
|---|---|
| ♈ ♌ ♐ Are of the Fiery Trigon,
& is governed in the { Day } by { ☉ }
 Night } ♃ | ♉ ♍ ♑ Are of the Earth Triplicity,
& is governed in the { Day } by { ♀ }
 Night } ☉ |
|---|---|

[40v]

¹²⁹ Insertion point: after “who assist the Ruler of the whole Earth.” fol. 33r (p. 61).

¹³⁰ In margin: “Lib: 3: [[c:]] 16. [[p.]] 391.”

| | |
|--|--|
|      Are of the Aiery Trigon,
& is governed in the     | by     |
|      Are of the Watery Triplicity,
& is governed in the the     | by     |

There are likewise four Angles, Quarters, Parts, or Corners, answering to the foure Elements or Triplicities; & to the parts of Heaven & Earth, being so dividved, thus named.

| | | | |
|-------|--------|-------|--------|
| East, | South, | West, | North. |
|-------|--------|-------|--------|

The Moon (being a generall significatrix in all things), both Magically & Astrologically, as all the Ancients, & all our Phisitians doe confidently & experimentally affirme, for that she conveyeth through er Spheare, all the Influxes of the Superiours & the Inferiours, as is sufficiently & apparently knowne by the common Observation of all Men (or at least, by as many as rationally understand themselves) in the Doctrin of Elections, & in the most excellent use of Phisick & Philosophy) she passing constantly through the 12 Cœlestiall Signes, in the space of eight & twenty daies or thereabouts, hath therein fixed in the eight Spheare, eight & twenty Mansions, which by the¹³¹ Magicians of India & the auncient Arabian & Chaldean Astrologians, have diverse Names & Properties attributed to them, through which, whilst the Moone passeth, it obteyneth various & accordingly respective Powers & Vertues; and every Mansion conteyneth twelve degrees, 51 Minutes & almost 26 Seconds; And therefore since they Commence from the first degree of Aries, & soe in order until the last, we shall shew you the beginnings thereof & their severall Names.

¹³¹ In margin: "lib 2. c. 33." (OOP p. 285–289). The table is derived from the text of that chapter, the numbers give the end point of each "Mansion."

[41r]

| No. | Sign. | Deg. | Min. | Sec. | Names of each Mansion |
|-----|-------|------|------|------|---|
| 1. | ♈ | 12° | 51' | 25" | Alnath |
| 2. | ♈ | 25° | 42' | 51" | Allothaim or Albochan. |
| 3. | ♉ | 8° | 34' | 17" | Achoamazon or Athoray. |
| 4. | ♉ | 21° | 25' | 40" | Aldebaram or Aldelamen |
| 5. | ♊ | 4° | 17' | 9" | Alchatay or Albachay. |
| 6. | ♊ | 17° | 11' | 34" | Alhanna or Alchaya. |
| 7. | ♋ | 0° | 0' | 0" | Aldimiach or Alarzach. |
| 8. | ♋ | 12° | 51' | 25" | Alnaza or Anatrachya. |
| 9. | ♋ | 25° | 42' | 51" | Archaam or Archaph. |
| 10. | ♌ | 8° | 34' | 17" | Algelioche or Algebh. |
| 11. | ♌ | 21° | 25' | 40" | Azobra or Ardaf. |
| 12. | ♍ | 4° | 17' | 9" | Alzarpha or Azarpha. |
| 13. | ♍ | 17° | 11' | 34" | Alhaire. |
| 14. | ♎ | 0° | 0' | 0" | Achureth or Arimet, or Azimeth or Alhumech or Alcheymech. |
| 15. | ♎ | 12° | 51' | 25" | Agrapha or Algarpha. |
| 16. | ♎ | 25° | 42' | 51" | Azubene or Ahubene. |
| 17. | ♏ | 8° | 34' | 17" | Alchil. |
| 18. | ♏ | 21° | 25' | 40" | Alchas or Altob. |
| 19. | ♐ | 4° | 17' | 9" | Allatha or Achala. ¹³² |
| 20. | ♐ | 17° | 11' | 34" | Abnahaya. |
| 21. | ♑ | 0° | 0' | 0" | Abeda or Abeldach. |
| 22. | ♑ | 12° | 51' | 25" | Sadabacha or Zodeboluch, or Zandeldena. |
| 23. | ♑ | 25° | 42' | 51" | Zabadola or Zobrach. |
| 24. | ♒ | 8° | 34' | 17" | Sadabath or Chadezoad. |
| 25. | ♒ | 21° | 25' | 40" | Sadalabra or Sadalachia. |
| 26. | ♓ | 4° | 17' | 9" | Alpharg or Phragal Mocaden. |
| 27. | ♓ | 17° | 11' | 34" | Alcharya or Alhalgalmoad. |
| 28. | ♓ | 30° | 0' | 0" | Albotham or Alchalcy. |

[41v] The Compass of the Circle of the Zodiack, is accounted by the Astrologians to conteyne 365¹³³ Degrees, for that every Sign therein conteynes 30 Degrees & (as we said before) there are 12 Signes in the Zodiack, so that 12 tymes 30 make 360. And every Signe divided againe likewise particularly into three parts, results 12 tymes three,¹³⁴ which makes 36. The which are called Decans, or a division of Ten, & they are also governed by the seven Planets, and by the Astrologians are called the Faces of the Signs, as is elsewhere further explained, &c.

¹³² "by others Hycula or Axala" (OOP p. 288).

¹³³ Thus in MS.

¹³⁴ In margin: "Lib: 3: c. 16: p. 391."

They are again divided into fifts, of which there is 6 in every signe, so that 12 tymes six resulte 72. The which are called Quinaries of Heaven.

Observe what a great communion there is with the numbers 12 & 72 & this harmony betwixt them; for as you see before, every signe divided into six parts, there results 72 fives, & soe many are the Names of God, & soe many were the Elders of the Synagogue, & Interpretations of the old Testament, & the Disciples of Christ, & so many are the languages, & the Tongues of Men & the Nations; Answerable to these are soe many manifest Joynts in Mans Body, whereof in every Finger & Toe there are three, which together with the 12 principall reckoned in the number twelve makes up 72. And every five is set over one Idiom with much efficacy, that the Astrologians & Phisiognomists can know from thence, from what Idiom very one ariseth.

Now we have briefly in Astromagicall Termes, given you a description & Difinition of the 7 Planets, the 12 Signs of the Zodiack, the 4 Elements, Trigons or Triplicities of the 4 Cœlestiall & Terrestriall Angles, of the foure Cardinall Windes, of the 28 Mansions of the Moone, of the 36 Decans and of the 72 Cœlestiall Quinaries what they are, & how knowne, & to be understood; Now seeing that (as we said before) to all & every of these, & to every Star, Asterism & Constellation, there is a ruling Angel or Intelligence, whereby the Influence thereof is conveyed to Inferiours, according to the holy & divine Will & degree of God, to his Honor & Glory, & the good of Man; Wee shall in the next place, give a description of the Intelligent Angells, their various denominations, & their severall degrees Orders & Offices, according to their Government aforesaid.

[42r] The Names of the seven President Angells, or Planetary Intelligences Governing the Cœlestiall Orbes, continually standing before the Face of the Omnipotent & divine Majestie, to whome is intrusted the disposing of all Cœlestiall & Terrestriall Things, as the Elementary Regions & Kingdoms of the Earth, & all things sublunary, regulating by a certain vissitude of Daies, Houres & Yeares, who by the Heavens, Starrs & Planets (as by Instruments) distributes the Cœlestiall Influences of the Superiours upon these Inferiours.

Names of the Cœlestiall Angels, &c: ~~~~ see p. 61.

Excerpt H.¹³⁵

SOMEWHAT in a few words¹³⁶ we shall say, how possible it is for Man to attain the verball Coloquy with good Angells, notwithstanding we have a speciall Treatise writ thereof a little hereafter following, and although we could remove many Objections, tending to the impossibility thereof; as the fulfilling of the Law, the ceasing of Oracles, & when we shall looke for Signes, none shalbe given us, & that we have Moses, the Prophets, the Apostles, the holy Gospell, & other sacred Manualls & Commentations all which if we will not believe, we shall scarce believe Angells; & that those Angells which were sent to divers holy men & women, mentioned in the Old and New Testaments, is said by many of our Theologians to be the Mesiah; & many the like passages we could raise, & when we have soe done, could give an answer to them all; but in this place we shall not meddle therewith, we shall treat of those Subjects in our foregoing Preface, preceding our Booke; we shall here only shew forth some of the most eminent Inspirati in holy Scripture, & a word or two of our opinion thereupon.

[42v]

| The Angells that were sent to: ¹³⁷ | | | |
|---|-------------|-------------------------------------|----------|
| Moses, | Methratton. | Joseph & Mary the Mother of Christ, | Gabriel. |
| Adam, | Raziel. | Sem the son of Noah, | Jophiel. |
| Noah, | Zaphkiel. | Jacob,, | Piel. |
| Abraham, | Zadkiel. | The wife of Manoah | Phadaël. |
| Sampson, | Samaël. | David. | Cerviel. |
| Solomon, | Michaël. | Ezekiel. | Hasmaël. |
| Isaac, | Raphaël. | Esdras, | Uriel. |
| Tobit iunior, } | | Elias, | Melhiel. |
| Joshua, | Gabriel. | Cenez, | Cerrel. |
| Daniel, } | | | |

This together with many others, mentioned in sacred Writt, which we could nominate, we could nominate, were inspired by the holy Revelations of Blessed Angells; & to say that all these Angells were the Messiah, in my opinion would be a mistake, in the literall Interpretation of the Text: and we doe very believe, that they were severall certain Misticall Types representing the coming of the Mesiah, as the contente of the old Testament abundantly shew forth, and as the Propheticall Doctrines of the aforesaid Holy men, recorded therein, doth plainly manifest, they speaking as they were inspired, ¹³⁵ Insertion point: after “who was also the Ruler of Moses,” fol. 28r (p. 51).

¹³⁶ The following diatribe runs to over five thousand words.

¹³⁷ The names are tabulated from OOP book III ch. 47 (p. 305). Most of these were already mentioned in the chapter of the Janua on the Nine orders of Angels (fol. 26r–28r, deriving from OOP book III ch. 10).

which noe Question proceeded from the immediate Decree of the Holy Trinity; to prove which we shall give an apparent Testimony.

There was neither any Learning nor Arte knowne to the Auncients, but what came first by Inspiration; Observe that place in Exodus Chap: 34. v. i. to the ii where God taught Bezaliel & Aholiah and all those that were intellectually qualified, to worke curiously in Gold, Silver & Brass, & other rare Arts & Hanicraft workmanship; Soe likewise David, from an illiterate Shephard became a Prophet; Soe also Solomon was inspired, & all prophesied of the coming of the Messiah Only, not that he was already come; It was only the Angell that was sent to them.

[43r] Can we say that any of the aforesaid Cœlestiall Messengers, that were sent to Moses, Adam, Noah, Solomon, Tobias, &c., were the Messiah, or that Christ was only an Angel, before he was borne of the Virgin Mary in the flesh, to ransom the World, no, they were only the Angells or heavenly Messengers, to fulfil Gods Will, Decrees & Command, as he should institute & appoint them; as is manifest in the Parable spake by our Saviour Christ in St. Matthew's Gospell Chap: 21. V: 33. to 40. God sends his Messengers, before he sends his Son. Therefore they were only Angells or Messengers, & not the Messias; and did inspire those holy Men, unto whom they were sent, in all knowledge & wisdom, & to foretell the coming of the Messias, &c. We could make out all these severall Types & Representations of Christ, in the old Testament (which we cannot say were Christ himself) as they were delivered by these Cœlestiall Messengers, to those holy men appointed by God, to reveale & make knowne his Lawes & Purposes to the World, & of the coming of the Messiah, but we shall Treat of that elsewhere in its proper place. Let it suffice now, that wee only tell you, what our Saviour saith in many places of the Gospell, Search the Scriptures (saith he) & see whether or noe, they doe not testifie & beare witness of mee. The Scriptures doth not testifie, that he was already come, or that he had been here before,¹³⁸ but that he was to come, & at that tyme he was come; not to one or two particular persons, in the forme of an Angell, or any other Cœlestiall Similitude; No, it was not his Office, he came to the lost Sheepe of the House of Israell, he came to seeke & to save that which was lost; He came in the Flesh, & lived accordingly (sin excepted) therein, to the apprehensions of those, who then lived & had seene him, &c: and wrought many Miracles to those who believed, to the astonishment of all Spectators, & People Wherefore he came, for you heare him complaine of nothing more, than want of Faith, & whosoever would but believe, onto such was nothing impossible neither incredible. He lived upon this Earth [43v] 33 yeares or thereabouts, & that to fulfil the unalterable Degree of his Father & the Scriptures, which did only Typify & testifie of him; he permitted himself to be betrayed & apprehended, by a tumultuous company of crude & masterless Soldiers & Renegadoes, for saith Hee, are you come as against a Theife, think yee that I cannot have Legions of Angells to assist me, if it were not for fulfilling the Scripture & the Will of my Father,¹³⁹ and was crucified, put to death, & soe suffered in the Flesh, after many Scoffs, buffetings, scourging, and other vile abuses; after he was dead in the flesh, he was buried, according to the order of deceased mortals, & not kept above ground; he overcame Death & Hell, & the third day after he was interred, he rose from the dead, & continued upon the earth with his disciples, forty daies, & then was taken up into heaven, where he sitteth at the right hand of God, making continuall Intercession, for as many as faithfully believe, & turne to God by him.

¹³⁸ It is likely that the original compiler of the Deuteronomic History (i.e., the narrative sections of Deuteronomy and the books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel and Kings) initially considered Josaiah King of Judah to be the Messiah, but this was obscured by the later redaction of the final section of II Kings after the death of Josaiah, the reversal or failure of his religious policies and the humiliation and destruction of the kingdom in the ensuing decades. The idea of the Messiah, certainly in the pre-captivity period, and to an extent through to the period of Roman rule, was more of a king, metaphorically anointed by God, who would unite the nation, drive off whichever empire last turned it into a vassal state & restore general obedience to the laws of Yahweh, than any kind of divine incarnation.

He was nothing at all specified of an Angell, but the Angell that appeared to him in the Garden to comfort him before he was betrayed, & the Angell that appeared to Mary Magdalene, & the other Mary, at the Sepulchre of Christ, when they went to visit the Sepulchre, & of the Angels that spake to his disciples, when he ascended into Heaven, and of some others in the new Testament, which we might as well say was this Messias, as those of the Old Testament. No, they were Angells only, & as soe to this day, & ever wilbe to the end of the World, & are drawn to converse, by those who are accordingly qualified, as we have mentioned elsewhere before. So that here you see a plain distinction between Christ & the Angells, the Messiah being the only Son of God, & the second person in the Trinity, & the Angells only Messengers or Agents, to perform the Will of God, according to his appointment & decree.

Can we thing that the Angell that drove Adam & Eve out of Paradise, or the Angell that appeared unto Jacob in a Dream, Gen. 31. 10. 11. 12, or those Angells that met Jacob, Gen: 32. 1, or that Angell that delivered Jacob from all Evills, Gen. 49. 15. 16. Or that Angell that [44r] was sent to conduct the Elect of God, Exod: 23. 20. 21. Or that Angell mentioned Gen: 24. 7, or the Angell that was sent to Hagar, Gen: 16. 7. to the end, or the Angell that talked with Zacariah, Zeckh: 2. 3. Or (or) that Angel that smote & killed an hundred eighty five thousand Assyrians in the Camp of Ashur 2 Kings 19. 35, Isa. 37. 36. Or that Angell which God sent to Daniell Chap: 6. 22. & 10. 13. Or that Angell that God sent to conduct young Tobias &c: or the Angell that appeared to Joseph, Mat. 2. 13, or those Angells that ministered to Christ after his Temptation in the Wilderness, Math: 4: 11. Mar: 1. 13. Or that Angell that appeared to Zacharias, in the Temple of the Lord, Luke i. ii. Or the Angell that saluted the Virgin Mary, the Moster of Christ, Luke 3. 26.

¹³⁹ There is an asterisk by this word in the MS., with another in the margin by it, but nothing else visible written in the margin.

&c. Or that Angell that appeared to the Shephards, at the Birth of Christ, & the rest of the Cœlestiall Hierarchies mentioned in Luke 2. v. 9 to 43 or those Angells soe frequently mentioned in the Apocalypse, or Revelation of St. John, or that Angell that comforted Christ in the Garden, Luke 22. 43. or those Angells that stood by the Apostles, at Christs Ascension into Heaven. Acts 1. 10. 11. Or those Legions of Angels mentioned by our Saviour, Math. 26. 53. Or the Angel that appeared unto Baalam, Numb. 22. 31 unto 36. Or the Angell that appeared to Mary Magdalene &c. at the Sepulchre of Christ, at his Resurrection from the dead, Matt: 28. 2. 3. 4. 5. Mar: 16. 5. John 20. 12. 13. Or that Angell mentioned in the Epistle of St. Jude, ver: 3. All these with so many more Texts in Holy Scripture, alluding to the same sence & purpose; All these (I say) cannot be said to be the Messiah,¹⁴⁰ they are said to be Angells, & so are called & noe otherwise; Wittnes these Texts in holy Writt. See what the Kingly Prophet David saith, in Psalme 34. 7. & 91. 11, & 103. 20, & 104. 4. Heb: 1. 7. Mah: 19. 10. & in some other places, where you see what the Offices & duties of the Angells are, & that these are Angells, & ministering Spirits in the Heavens, & they are likewise ordained for the Glory of God, & the use of Man, being accordingly qualified; Wee reade not any thing in that old Testament, [44v] that these Angells should be a Messiah. There are other places that Typifie & represent the coming of the Messiah, which is clearly another thing, or another Subject. It cannot be said that Christ was an Angell, or took upon him the Office of an Angell, either before of after he came into the World; for as we said before, he is of the Godhead, & the second Person in the Trinity, & ever was so from the beginning, for we read in Gen: 1. 26. That when God created Man, he consulted the Godhead or Trinity,¹⁴¹ purposing to make an excellent worke, above all the rest of the Creation; he consults not with Angells, for they were Created, & the works of his hands as well as inferior Creatures, & in the beginning somewhat inferior to man till he fell from his Allegiance &c.: by all which we clearly conceive, & probably conclude, that the aforesaid apparitions mentioned in the Scriptures, were Cœlestiall Angells, or Messengers, preceding the Messiah, &c. And if we grant all that our Theologians doe¹⁴² infer hereupon, then is our opinion strengthened, as to our present Subject. That it is possible for a sober & qualified person to converse verbally with the Cœlestiall Angells, for if the Godhead it selfe, the second person in the sacred Trinity, was willing to serve Man, & appeare unto him, & converse with him, then certainly Angells may as they have done; & still does, at this present day, ¹⁴⁰ I am not sufficiently familiar with Christian theological debates in 17th-century England to comment on whether or not the position attacked in this rambling diatribe was ever seriously maintained. Sadly, it may be necessary to become such, as works like the present cannot be fully understood if treated in isolation from the social / cultural / religious context in which they were produced.

¹⁴¹ There is nothing in Gen. I. that can reasonably be translated "Trinity." The entire chapter consistently uses the "plural of majesty" for God.

¹⁴² Written sup. lin.

as be experience we doe well know; & that they are no delusions, we shall clearly demonstrate in conclusion of this present Treatise concerning Angells & Spirits, &c.

But although we could insist further hereupon, yet wee shall not treat any more thereof in this place, All that wee shall say here in this place¹⁴³ at present is this:

That there was noe Art nor Science first found out by any Man but he had it immediately by the Inspiration, Dictation & Ministry of Angells; as we could instance in many undeniable Examples; but we shall only shew you one out of sacred Writ, & that is in Exodus 31. 2. 3. 4. 5. 6. & Chap: 35. 8. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. And was not the Arke that God commanded Noah to build, the originall & first platform of Shipping? We could make mention of theimprovement thereof, & of the Arte of Astronomy & Navigation, but we shall treat of that elsewhere.

[45r] Let it suffice now, that we plainly see, that many very rare Arts and Inventions there are in the World, & that they came to our Auncestors, by the ministering & revelation of the blessed Angells; & we have come to the knowledge thereof, by the Tradition of the Auncients, &c.

Now thus much let us take notice of, & observe by the way; that through Warrs (the cheife Engine of Ruine & destruction) Ignorance, Fire, suddaine mortality & many other Casualties, an infinite of the Learning & scripts of the Auncients, have been lost & destroyed; yet by the helpe of Angelicall ministry, restored againe to succeeding Ages. For if we may believe Scripture (which I suppose none can deny) God is the same God yesterday & forever; he is Alpha & Omega, his decrees is unalterable, & his promise the same, from the beginning to the end of the World, & shall continue unalterable from Generation to Generation; for God spared not his only begotten Son, & as he was borne in the Flesh, so he suffered in the Flesh, to fulfil the Decree of God the Father: &c:

Now then, if God soe loved the World, or Man, that he gave his only Son, the second person in the Trinity to be offered up a sacrifice to appease the wrath of his Father, & so became a Ransome for the Redemption of the World from Sin & Satan, for that God delighteth not in the death of a sinner, but rather that he should turne from his wickedness & live, & therefore he would not leave any thing undone, nor any means unattempted to bring us nearer to him, & to Contemplate his goodness to us, in giving us the command over all things, both Cœlestiall, Terrestriall, and Infernall (as we have further illustrated in the beginning of this Treatise) if Man (I say) be so excellent a Creation, & Ornament in Nature, & find such favours & benignities from Him, & be so precious his Sight; What thing is it that he may aske, that he cannot obteyne, if he cloath himself in the wedding Garment of Faith & humiliation, &c. See Heb: 11. Math 7. 7 8 & 17. 19. 20. 21. & 29. 19. 20. 21. 22. Marke 9. 23 & 11. 20. to 27. Luke 7. 7. & 11. 9. 10. & 17. 5. 6. John: 14. 11. 12. 13. 14. & 15. 7. 8. 16. 23. 24. Ephes. 6. 16. 17. 19. Phil. 2. 4.

¹⁴³ "in this place" written sup. lin.

5. 6. Col: 1. 22. 23. 2 Cor. 13. 5. James 1. 3. 4. 5. 6. 1 John: 5. 14. 15. 2 Pet: 1. 4. Gal. 3. 6. 7. & many others, &c.

[45v] If it be soe that Man by obtaine any thing of God, if he aske it in Faith, in which, whosoever asked at any tyme, never departed away empty; then it is undoubtedly to be granted, that Man now, as well as in the primitive tymes, may have conversed with Angells, & by their Coelestiall Ministry, may reedifie revive & repaire lost Science, & obtaine the wonderfull knowledge & understanding, of all Misticall & occult Secrets in nature (that remaine so yet unknowne to these later Ages) most admirable & beneficiall to Man. Notwithstanding the fulfilling of the old Testament, & the decease of Oracles. For wee are positively of the beleife, that God loveth Man now, as well now as [ever he did, & is ready & willing to bestow the same benefites upon us, well as]¹⁴⁴ our forefathers, if we are accordingly qualified, & worthy the receiving thereof; for nothing impedites Gods blessings, but our unworthyness, &c.

Having briefly¹⁴⁵ touched on some eminent & remarkable places & Texte out of sacred Writt, & the probable Conjectures of some auncient Rabbis, & the Conclusions of Moderne Theologians thereupon, together with the more remarkable Approbations of some, who have consulted & conversed verbally with Angells, as we have more at large treated of elsewhere, leaving the Construction thereof to those who are more Theologically & Cabalistically conceited, with the Opinions of Tradition only; it is sufficient we have only hinted thereat, & partly know the Misteries thereof &c.: But as wee cannot please the humours of all, soe let every one please themselves (as we have done) with what Reason best dictates them to, not swerving from the Divine Laws & Principles, &c: & what we have said, we have said; having omitted severall other places of holy writ, mentioning the Apparition of Angells, unto the Servants of God, who walked in his Lawes & kept his Statutes & Ordinances, as in Gen: 18. 2. & 19. 1. 15. & 22. 11 & truly (as we said before) I know no reason why man now as formerly may not receive the like benefites, if he walke in those paths of Righteousness his Forefathers walked in (notwithstanding the decease of Oracles, &c.) for there is ne decease or decrease of Gods Love & Goodness to [46r] Man, though man decreaseth in duty to God, God is to be found, of all those that seeke him, & will deny nothing that Man can ask of him, (be it what it will &c.) if he be worthy to receive such benefites, & is capable of making good use thereof &c.: & for this it sufficeth here &c.

Yet one thing we may not omit, as a matter of Principall Contentment and being fit to be knowne, & understood, & that is this, &c.:

In all the Scriptures we read, that Angells appeared in the Similitudes of Man in white Rayment & many tymes for that reason, were taken for men, (& called Men of God)

¹⁴⁴ Words in square brackets written along the edge of the page in the margin.

¹⁴⁵ You keep using that word. I do not think it means what you think it means.

until they were discovered, in or neare their deparature from those unto whome they appeared, after they had fulfilled the will of God, & delivered their message; & then they would usually say, That they had seene an Angell of the Lord (but before he was discovered or knowne to be an Angell, he was seemingly a Man, in forme & behaviour, & so thought to be, &c.) But we read not of any Angell therein, that did ever or usually appeare, in the shape or similitude of a Woman. Now for the reason, that some of our Modern Magitians, have had appearances of Angells in female shape, & forms, being contrary to the Theologicall Construction of those, who were called or thought to be good Angells, insomuch that some very Learned in this Art, have delivered their opinion thereof, and John Tritheme the Abot of Spanheim, the learned Father & Master in this Art, in his little Book Octo Questionum Maximiliani Cæsaris,¹⁴⁶ Quest. 6 saith, That never any good Angell was read of, to have appeared in the forme of a Woman, &c. & more to the like purpose, &c.

This opinion of his struck such a deep impression of beliefe, in later Students in this Art, that it befot contest thereupon; for seeing Angells more frequently & familiarly appeare, in Feminine forme than in Masculine forme, together with the great scandal, that that been throwne upon this incomparable, matchless & protoplast Art, by the Ignorant mistakes, false, malicious & misconstrive opinions, and interpretations thereof by Scismaticall Sectaries, & many others, who carpe at & inveigh all things they understand not, nor are accustomed to (& well may such scandalize Arts & Sciences & calumniate the Students therein, who kick, spurne at and [46v] endeavour to overthrow Kingdomes & Commonwealths, and the Governments thereof: both Ecclesiasticall & Civill, except they have a principall Office, Interest or Benefit therein, themselves) calling some Atheisticall, Hereticall & Malignant, others Diabolicall, delusive & deceitfull, prophaine, superstitious & what not: when as indeed the contemners, revilers, & abusers of Art¹⁴⁷ are worse themselves, then what they style Arte & Artists to be, &c: as we could clearly make out to the shame & silencing of all such, who either impudently this Art, or blasphemously the works of God in Nature, &c., oppose or deny; but we shall mention this elsewhere before: & shall leave such to the reward of God, according to his Judgments &c: but we shall to our matter in hand,

Wee shall now dissipate the former mistake of Trithemius, and remove the doubte of some others, who I am confident, though resolved mistakes have erred, & soe

¹⁴⁶ Johannes Trithemius, Liber octo questionum, quas illi dissolvendas proposuit Maximilianus Cæsar (responses to a series of questions on theological and other matters which had been posed to the author by the Emperor, first printed in 1515). In the course of answering question 6, on the power of witches (De potestate maleficarum), the abbot of Spanheim referred to classical and German legends of water-spirits in female form (Naiads, Nereids, Wasserfrauen), then continued, “Sancti autem Angeli quoniam affectione nunquam variantur uniformiter semper apparent in forma virili. Nusquam enim legimus scriptus, quod bonus spiritus in forma fit visus muliebri aut bestiæ cuiuscunque, sed semper in specie virili.”

¹⁴⁷ “of Art” written sup. lin.

consequently missed their Expectations, & lost their purpose, because they would not confide in Effeminate Appearances, iudging them according to the foregoing report, Trithemius & some other gave of them: Who being so mistaken and dismissed without any further Question made threof, or search therein, stiled this Art Ridiculous, Diabolicall, Useless & altogether unfit for Man to practise, for that it was a strong delusion, and superstitious & hereticall & impossible for any good to come thereof or to have any satisfaction therein, or to learne any thing therefrom, of good Ministry, Admonitions or directory Rules or rudiments of Learning, binding to the disclosing of any secret in Nature, or the repairing of any lost Science or Art, that that been a long tyme buried in oblivion, nor any other benefit that man may receive, but illusions only, and many the like aspersions hath been cast upon this profound, coelestiall & unparalleled Art. But such who give this censorious report of this Art, do report it of the Art only, not of themselves; for if there be any defect, [47r] without doubt it is in themselves (caused by their owne Ignorance, for want of better Judgment therein, thereby wanting merit & not being worthy thereof) not in the Art. This we doe confess, that there may be an abuse in all things, & that some men may assume to themselves, more then they ought to doe, & become superstitious out of mere Curiosity; & others may become Idolatrous for want of Faith & better Judgment, & some others Atheisticall, Ridiculous & Blasphemous, in giving that to Angells, Art & their owne abilities presuming thereupon, which is due to God only; others there by who converse with Infernall & other sorts of wicked & evill Spirits, for the fulfilling of their owne base, lewde, ungodly & unworthy & uniust ends & worldly lucre, when as we should use them as our Vassalls only, & keepe them in bonds & subjection, denyhing their Councells as wholesome Doctrine, using them according to their Offices only, that is to restraine them from doing Evill; which that is a qualified Magitian knoweth how to doe, & what is meant by it, he well understandeth &c: All which is as bad as bad may or can be, or be said to be, yet I cannot say it is worse, than for any one ignorantly, unadvisedly, ignominiously, scurrilously, traditionally only, or any otherwise maliciously to scandalise, asperce & condemne, what they cannot attaine unto, nor doe not understand: for he who shall soe doe, doth (in my Opinion) rob God of his honor, as those who shall make use of & give his Glory, Praise & Honor (due to him only) to other powers & interests being inferior; & the work of his, & mens hands; or those who fall into dispaire, which is as much as to say, That they think God is not sufficient, to give us any such Benefits, or will heare us when we call upon him, or that he hath layd aside his mercies to Man, or that he hath forgot his promises, or that there is noe truth in the Coelestiall Hierarchies, & Choirs or Legions of good Angells now as formerly, nor in any Arte & Sciences, which there is noe man, but will conclude to be as ridiculous & absurd, as all the rest, if not more.

[47v] How then can any dare or presume to condemne this Art, or other Arte or Naturall Sciences, when as there nothing is found amiss therein? If there by any defect, it is in Man, not in Art: In all the Scriptures we shall finde, that God & our Saviour Christ, complaine of nothing more in Man, then Pride, Presumption, Ambition, Perversnes, want of Faith & Obedience to his Lawes & divine Institutions; God made, constituted & Ordained, the services of all Angells, &c. & Sublunary Creatures, in a wonderfull Order, to & for the use, behoofe & good of Man, & Man for himself; to laud & magnifie him as an more excellent Ornament then all the worke of his Creation besides, until Man (being seduced) through Ambition, thinking to be as wise & good as God himself, by eating the forbidden fruit (being a great presumption to doe, when God had warned him to the contrary, before which amongst all the rest of the Creation, God hath set apart nothing for himselfe, as an Edict to the Man, but that one Tree, which wee now adaies think, were but a very easy Commandment to keepe, & a very great matter to breake it, considering the State & Condition that Man was then in) & soe you see (though a small Justification both to keepe or breake) how hard a matter it proved in both: The breach of which Commandment caused Man to become more base & vile, then the Beasts of the fields, & from the best, became the worst ornament of the whole Creation, &c.

Here you see the defect clearly lyes in Man, not in Nature or Art, nor in any Creatures, or other thing; tis Man that falls, the divine Instituions & Inevitable decrees of God stands, & all Arts & Sciences Also, & will doe to the end of the World, notwithstanding all the superfluous Batteries, & malignant Oppositions to the contrary.

Let us now behold all these malicious detractors, like the Blind leading the Blind, till they all fall into the ditch of gross Errors, & there lye wallowing in the Myre of Absurdity, where we shall leave them belcing out stinking Nonsense, against most apparent Truthes, until they are choakt as well as blinded, &c.

[48r] Now, before you endeavour to take the Mote out of the Eye of Art, I pray you take the Beame out of the Eye of your owne Ingorance, and think not that Pearls are to be cast to Swine, or Diamonds to Dunghill Cocks, that such Guifts wilbe given to you to deride, or make a worldly Ostentation or Lucre thereof. No, if you reade them with humility, admiration, gravity, or other suck like solid Observations, as becometh a sober & qualified Christian to doe; & when you have so done, sit downe & consider, as the Bereans did at the doctrine of Paul, in Acts 17. 11. Not condemning anything that doth not at all deserve it. And so for the subject we have partly said.

Wee shall put a period to this part of the Isagoge, in answer to what Trithemius asserteth in his foresaid Method, concerning the Appearance of Angells (vizt) That never any good Angell was read of, to have appeared in the forme of a Woman.

A most excellent & descreet Magitian¹⁴⁸ living since him, though peradventure not altogether so well learned, yet every whit as pious, Serious, Qualified & endowed with as good parts as his, or any one, that hath lived since, unto this present tyme, & now it is June 1649,¹⁴⁹ who before he would stand to the single Testimony of Tradition only, was resolves (if possibly it might be) to know the certain and apparent truth thereof, from those, whome he thought & knew, could better informe him, having had severall shewes & Operations. And most or all their appearances, that convened before him, were usually or for the major part Feminine¹⁵⁰—This Gentleman being at a certain tyme in his Study upon Action, & being in Conference with the Angell called Galvah, he makes demand of the aforesaid Question unto him or her, for she appeared unto him, in the similitude of a Maid or Virgin;¹⁵¹ & she returns him this Answer,

*The Angel Galvah's Reply to the Magitian.*¹⁵²

It is evident that the Angells of God, are incomprehensible to those that are their Inferiours; for the higher Order is incomparable to God, & by degrees those that are Inferiours, are Incomparable to them.

[48v] It followeth therefore, That in respect of that Degree in Angells, things are Incomprehensible.

Angells of themselves neither are Man nor Woman, therefore they doe doe take Formes (not according to any Proportion in Imagination, but) according to the decrees¹⁵³ & applicable Will both of him, & of the thing wherein they are Administrators. For they are all Spirits, ministering the Will of God: and unto whome, unto every thing within the compas of Nature, & the use of Man. It followeth therefore, considering that they minister not of themselves, that they should minister in that unsearchable Forme, within the which their executions are limited.

¹⁴⁸ John Dee (1527–1609).

¹⁴⁹ This date is not credible. As Ashmole observed, much of the discourse in these sections is drawn out of Dr. French's translation (pub. 1651) of the De Occulta Philosophia of Cornelius Agrippa; and while it is not a priori impossible that material from this circulated in manuscript prior to its publication (getting a work of that length & complexity translated, set up in type, printed, bound & distributed is not something that happens overnight), the extent of the borrowings and the perpetuation (in other parts of the Janua) of errors in the printed edition give a terminus a quo for the work; and that's before we consider John Dee's spirit diaries.

¹⁵⁰ This is almost arguable if one only considers the records covered in T&FR, and that only because Galvah first appears very near the start of that record (p. 10); prior to her the Angels seen by Kelly include Madimi and Ath of the Filiae Filiarum lucis (both female), Murifri (male), and an unnamed "voyce," later said to belong to "one [...] much like Michael." Madimi & Ath got more shew-stone time than the other two.

¹⁵¹ Kelly described her as "a Woman, like an old mayde, in red peticote, and with a red silk upper bodyes: her hair rolled about like a Scottish woman: The same being yellow." (Cotton Appendix XLVI part i. fol. 8r; T&FR p. 10).

¹⁵² In margin, "<illegible> p. 33" (the first '3' possibly altered to '1'). The following speech (to "I will yet alledge greater") is taken from Dee's record of the Action of 1583.06.14, T&FR, p. 13. In S5 it appears, slightly paraphrased and not credited, somewhat earlier in the Janua (fol. 18r–19r).

¹⁵³ Underlined in S4. Not underlined or emphasised in T&FR or Cotton Appendix XLVI.

Now if Trithemius or any other can say, that Woman also hath not the Spirit of God, being formed & fashioned of the selfe same matter (notwithstanding in a contrary proportion by a degree), If Trithemius, or any other can separate the dignity of the Soule of Woman, from the Excellency of Man, but according to the forme of the matter, then might his Argument be good.

But because that in Man & Woman, there is a proportion and preperation of Sanctification in Eternity alike; therefore may those that are the eternall Ministers of God, in proportion to Sancification, take unto them the Bodies of them both (I meane in respect of the Forme) for as in both you read Homo, so in both you finde one & the same dignity in Internall matter all one.

Now Trithemius spake, in respect of the filthiness (which indeed is no filthiness) wherewith all weoman are stained, & by reasons from the naturall philosophers, as a man tasting more of Nature indeed, then of him who is the Workman, or a Supernaturall Master, He (I say) concluded his naturall Invention.

In respect of myself, I answer Trithemius thus, I am Finis, I am a beame of that wisdom, which is the end of Mans Excellency.

And if Trithemius mark well, he shall perceive, that true Wisdome is always painted in a Womans Garment: for then the purity of a Virgin, nothing is more com[mendable.]¹⁵⁴

And if (saith she), you think that these Arguments are not sufficient, I will yet alledge greater.

Thus far the Angell Galvah; and I think it in my Opinion very satisfactory to any ingenious & intelligible Man; & truly I also think, that we may commend the whole, with the most select of this Isagoge, without any sensible Errour.

Having briefly &c. ~~~~ p: 65.

[It is unclear to whom this diatribe was addressed. It is highly doubtful that the Janua was written for general publication, and anyone known to be hostile to the subject-matter would be unlikely to be willingly given a copy. Possibly the author was trying to convince himself or his associates of the compatibility of their magical practices with their religious faith,] ¹⁵⁴ Some text omitted: T&FR reads, "Those also that are called Filiae and Filiae Filiarum are all comprehended in me, and do attend upon True Wisdom; which if Trithemius mark, he shall perceive [...]" Part of the last word of this paragraph is lost in the gutter in S4. Galvah continued, "God, in his Judgment, knoweth, how Trithemius is rewarded." The Filiae lucis (Daughters of Light) and Filiae filiarum lucis (Daughters of the Daughters of Light), the former originally described as "seven women in green," the latter, among them Madimi and Ath, as "seven wenches in white" are among the angels of Dee's Sigillum Æmeth, described in the spirit diary Mysteriorum Liber Secundus (BL Sloane MS. 3188 fol. 16–30).

Excerpt I.¹⁵⁵

[49r] [...] as we have inserted, in a particular Tract or Treatise or two following, where they are all fully explained, & the practicall uses thereof, as hath been proved, & by the Ingenious may plainly and satisfactorily appeare.¹⁵⁶

We have spoken before concerning the Natures of good Angells and Spirits, & of their diversities & distinctions; Now that we may not mingle truth with falsehood, nor run our selves into Meanders and Premunices (?), by mistaking ourselves in these things, whereby many Errours hath been committed, and for that reason this Art hath been much scandalized & abused, when as indeed, it is only the Misunderstanding thereof, & the insufficiency & ignorance of the pretended Master thereof, where he knoweth not a good Apparition from a bad one, a true one from a false one, &c: For he who is a Magitian, must expect Temptations & Illusions, but he he can rightly distinguish them, & overcome them (the which he ought to know how to doe, or else he cannot be perfect in the Art) then the tempting illuding evill Spirit, flyeth away powerless, and becometh like a Waspe that hath lost her Sting, having no power or strength to tempt any more; for behold the evill Spirit doth sift & winnow us as Wheate. Wee could treat much hereof, but it is no place, we shall speake more afterwards, at the Conclusion of this Part, we shall shew you here a distinction (as we said before) of these spirits which are Terrestriall & Infernall, &c.: whereby we may be aware of their Temptations & Delusions, & pray that God would deliver us from them & give us power over them, to restraine & vanquish their evill, malignant attempts & assaults, &c.

The Bodies of evill Angells, &c. ~~~~ see p: 69.

¹⁵⁵ Insertion point: after “Under whom [scil., the “Demon Kings” of the quarters] many others bear rule as princes &c., of Legions, & there are of the sort Innumerable spirits of private offices,” fol. 37r (p. 69). The opening apparently replaces “as before we said” in S5.

¹⁵⁶ It is unclear if this “Tract or Treatise” was ever written, and if so whether it is to be identified with any extant text. It is possible that the writer refers either to an edition of the Ars Goëtia (specifically, the “Dr. Rudd” edition in Harley MS. 6483) or to a work like the account of the Kings in S4 fol. 116–120.

*Excerpt K*¹⁵⁷

[49v] VARIOUS is the Construction, & severall that been the Opinions of later Ages, of & concerning these Terrestriall Spirits, &c.: together with many vaine, ignorant & idle Censures, that have passed of them; of which we shall first give an account, & then our Opinion, &c.

Some doe suppose, that where they doe bring any benefit or good to Man, that they are Angels, or good & familiar spirits, sent to those men from God, & by him are taken from them againe, by reason of their great & heinous sins & enormous offences & Transgressions, in abusing such his mercies & labours; for often tymes they bring many good Offices & benefits to Men, & doe undertake & sustaine many hard Labours for them.

Some are of Opinion, that the Spirits will not bee seene by us, because that when a man seeth them, he cryeth out & is astronished, suppose that they are the Spirits & Soules of Men, that have come to an evill death, that have either desperately hanged or drown'd themselves, or any other waies violently made themselves away, or that have lived a vile & lewd Conversation, or otherwise vitious & noxious in their lives & dealings &c.: & for that cause doe wander about, & are reserved by the Devill until the day of Judgment.

Some doe suppose them to be only Phantasies, & doe presage and foreshow much good fortune to those places, wherein they are seene & heard; which many tymes hath so happened & come to pass, especially where the Truth hath been fixed & staple with a constant Taciturnity.

Some think that they are Magitians inchantments.

[50r] Some these are, who having seene & heard them about Treasures hidden in the Earth, have iudged that they are the Spirits of Men, who have hid Treasures in that place, & ought to remaine there, until their Custody thereof be found out, whereby they may be discharged therefrom, & the Treasure be obteyned, if the Master Artist, or carefull Magician, know how to order his Affairs, & understand what he undertake aright; if not he may shooe the Goose.¹⁵⁸

These are the Coniectures of some; & many are the opinions of divers concerning them, but these aforesaid being the Major testimony, and comprehending the sences of all others, that have treated thereof, that wee thinke it both needless & useless to insert any more then what we have done, being all beside the Truth, & wide of the Marke they aimed at: wherefore we shall give a true answer to the foregoing Censures imagined of them, & a briefe narrative touching them.

¹⁵⁷ Insertion point: after "by the Meanest Capacity," fol. 40r (p. 75).

¹⁵⁸ "To shoo the goose," per Hazlitt's English Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases, is an idiom for "any futile enterprise or occupation"; so, roughly, "he'll be wasting his time."

As to the first Construction, we shall say thus; they cannot be Cœlestiall Angells sent from God, to communicate Benefits to Men, for they dwell not in the Earth, neither do they reteyne such grossness as a Terrestrial Nature, their habitations & offices are far different, & of an other quality, as wee have fully & apparently demonstrated formerly in their proper place; neither are they capable of suffering any such hard Labours. Their Offices are to Teach, Instruct, Guide & defend the Truth of sacred Misteries, & such as walk according to the Lawes & Commandments of God, & our Lord Jesus Christ, which is a greater benefit & blessing, then all these Terrestrial Elphs or Spiris, or all the Treasures of the World can give or purchase. These things are so obvovs, that wee neede not spende any further thereof, as the foregoing Method of the Natures &c. of the Cœlestiall Angells, will exemplarily & more evidently make it appeare, &c.

To the second we answer; Tis true, they are not, neither will they be seene by all, but by some more especially, with whome they are affected & delighted, as we have fully explained, in the beginning of this section,¹⁵⁹ & from others they fly, & will not [50v] appeare to them, for the reasons before specified; that is, either they are daunted & dismayed, or that they are of a couragious Spirit & undaunted Resolution, & soe through their Confidence & want of knowledge and better Judgement, force them to fly or vanish away; or by Art force them to yeild, and fufill such his desires, as his present occasions & affairs render him capable of demanding, & afterwards by the Artist driven away from one place, & confined to another (as we shall further discourse anon) whereby they cannot (as before) appeare againe, but remaine as a Waspe that hath lost her Stinge; whence it cometh to pass, that they are said by such condignity to be deprived of their Office & Joy; which may without any sensible errour, serve for another Reason to that, which is mentioned about the beginning of the foregoing page; why these Terrestrial Spirits are not soe frequent, visible & familiar now as formerly.¹⁶⁰ All which is likewise soe plaine, that it needs noe further exposition, &c.

To the third we answer, That these Terrestriall Elphs or Spirits, cannot be said to be the Soules or Spirits of any that have come to an evill or untimely end, or desperately made themselves away, &c.: as is asserted, for wee question, whether the Soule or Spirit of any one, can properly be said to reside, or be seene on Earth, after the Body is deceased and interred in the Grave; yet wee deny not, but that many houses hath been much troubled, & infested with Visions & Apparitions, and hath been disturbed annoyed & molested, with severall Incumberances, Incursions & unusuall Noyses & Hurly burlies; and that such like shapes & similitudes, hath been seene to walke & wander thereabouts, & in such hours as such an one lately lived in & that it was in such a likeness & resembled such a person, & seemed to be in such a habit & in such a posture; & many such like things (somewhat whereof we have seene by Experiences) & therefore they are said to be the Ghoste of such or such a Person; but this is contrary to the opinion of those, who refer these things to the Terrestriall Spirits, Elphs, Sylphs or Pigmies. There is few or none twell in those Places which they inhabite, although they willingly resort, oftentimes & frequent [51r] and sometimes dwell in those places, which we inhabit (yet without dispute, it is not without but for some Cause), yet this cannot manifest them, to be the Soules of the deceased. This is a manifest mistake. And since it hapneth soe oppertunely, we shall give a breife description & definition of these things, in this place; that the difference between the Soules of the deceased, the Devills & these Terrestriall Elphs or Spirits, & the true foundationall grounds thereof might be knowne, to avoid all further Misconstructions thereof.

¹⁵⁹ This possibly alludes to a passage not copied here, as already being in Ashmole's copy of the Janua (S5, fol. 38r, deriving in turn from OOP Book III ch. 32, p. 450).

¹⁶⁰ i.e., in the passage immediately prior to the insertion point for this excerpt (S5 fol 40r, immediately following the list of the seven sisters).

Manifest & divers are the opinions & suppositions of the auncient Philosophers, & modern Theologians concerning this subject, & different one from another, that it would even be endless & toylesome to insert their Traditions, & so painefull to beat our brains thereupon, considering how useless & impertinent a Subject it is, if we understand the substance thereof aright, as to coniecture the state of mans Souls, & his spirituall condition after death, we shall not trouble our selve much therewith, only as much thereof as is expedient for our preset purpose, in regard our present Task lyeth otherwise; & shall conclude with St. Augustine, That it is better to doubt concerning secret things, then to contend about things uncertain. And soe we shall to our intended purpose, in answer to the 3rd foregoing Construction.

Most certain it is, that Death is fatall to all, & it is appointed for all men once to dye, & as the Preacher saith Eccles 12. 7. When Man dyes, his Body retournes to the Earth, from whence it was taken & the Spirit retournes to God who gave it. Whence we may infer the words of the Philosopher, who saith, The Spirit of Man is of a sacred nature, & divine offspring, & is always faultless, wherefore it is incapable of any punishment. Others conclude thus, That the soule if it have done well, rejoyceth together with the Spirit, & going forth with the Ayeriall Charriot, passeth freely to the Quire of Heroes (that is of blessed Souls) or reacheth Heaven, where it enioys a blessed & perpetuall felicity, & the divine Vision, & possession of the kingdome [51v] of Heaven; But if it hath done ill, the Spirit iudgeth it, & leaves it to the pleasure of the Devill, & the sad Soule wanders about Hell like an Image, and being voyde of an intelligible Essence, & left to the power of a furious Phantisie, is ever subject to the Torment of Corporeall Qualities; knowing that it is by the iust Judgment of God, for ever deprived of the divine Vision for its sins, the absence whereof is the most grievous punishment of all: for when the Soule is separated from the Body, the perturbations of the Memory & Sence remain; To which St. Austin assents saying, That separated Soules retheyne the fresh Memory of those things, which they did in their lyfe. Firmianus, a writer of no mean Judgement & capacity, asserteth thus, Let not any man concede (saith he) that the Soules or the dead, are iudged immediately after death, for the are all deteyned in one common custody, until the tyme shall come, where in the Almighty Judge shall examine their Deeds & Deserts; Then they who shalbe found Righteous, shall received the reward of Immortality, but they whose sins & Wickedness shall then be detected, [shall not arise again, but shalbe inclosedor shut up with the wicked in darknes destined]¹⁶¹ to eternall punishments. In which opinion St. Austin subscribeth, where he saith in his Enchiridon, That the tyme which is interposed between the death of Mankinde, & the last Resurrection, conteyneth the soule in secret hidden Receptacles, where every Soule receiveth condign Rest or Misery, for the good or evill which it did in the Body, whilst it lived in the Flesh. St. Ambrose doth not dissent herefrom who saith, That the day of reward is expected of all, therefore whilst the fullness of tyme is expected, the Soules expect a due Recompense, Cœlestiall Glory & Fœlicity, being elected & prepared for some, and endless Tormente, Paines & Punishments ordained & determined for others: he further saith, that the Soule is loosed from the Body, & after the end of this lyfe, is even as yet in suspecne, being doubtfull of the Judgment to come. Heere we may behold, the generall assertions of eh auncient Fathers and Philosophers, the which is also the opinion of the major part of our modern & later Theologians, and other Writers who hath followed the Traditions of the Auncients, [52r] as we have found, by curious & diligent search, with no small paines, for our further & more ample satisfaction in this Subject, being a matter much in conest & debate, & truly we can find litle difference in the Judgment of the learned, from what we have here insisted. And as for the opinions of the Scismaticks & Sectaries hereof, who are more conceitedly wise, then wisely Conceited, we pass them by; as being of noe worth, value, vailidty or estimation, &c.

In all which foregoing passages, we cannot finde one atome of satisfaction, one syllable to prove, that these terrestriall Spirits, Sylphes, or whatsoever we may call them, are or can any way probably, or at all be the SOules of the deceased, either in generall or particular, but rather make clearly against such Opinions, & seemeth to be a complete & rationall answer, to the 3rd Construction foregoing.

Wee shall only add a word or two of our own Opinion, & so conclude what we promised in the beginning of this Answer, & that is thus [We positively conclude, that hese Terrestriall Spirits, can neither properly nor improperly, be said to be the soules of any deceased Persons, in no kinde of Respect; our [...]],¹⁶² That if it were soe, then should be have these Spirits most numerous & frequent, as we could instance in hundred of Examples, neither are we without Presidente enough & manifold to prove it, And I

¹⁶¹ Text in square brackets written in margin with insertion mark before “to eternall punishments.”

¹⁶² Text in square brackets written in margin with insertion note after “& that is thus.” The last three or four words are partially lost in the gutter & unreadable in the images I’m working from.

dare confidently aver, that in this perfidious age wherein we now live, there is not scarce one Man of ten thousand, that liveth a virtuous, pious religious, Charitable, honest, christian lyfe, or dyeth iustified by his Faith or good Works, as I am very confident Millions of some Christians in this Terrestriall World,¹⁶³ can say and shrewdly conjecture, by manifold & woefull experience, without any materiall & sensible Errour; yet God forbid we should iudge uncharitably of any One, though never so bad, & herein let noe one goe about to pull the Beame out of our Eyes, before he have taken the Mote out of his owne Eyes. And soe by this Rule, there would have been and would continually be, far more innumerable of wandering Spirits and Goblins upon the Earth, then People & Inhabitants, and soe by course halfe the world had neede be Magicians, to expel & drive them away, & instead of crying downe the Art, [52v] they had more neede to cry it up, exalt, esteeme & cherish it, and the learned therein (Professors we may not call them, for none dare, or be knowne to process it, the ignorance of the Age is such) We say, that to beleive Soules of wicked people, that depart this life, cannot goe to the place God hath predestinated and ordained for them, but must wander up & downe this terrene Globe, like Spirits & Goblins to fright folks is an Errour, & a palpable mistake; or to think that they can be turned or metamorphosed into Spirits, is as false; for as we said before, if that were true, the World would soe abound with Terrestriall Spirits & Goblins, that we should not be voyd of multitude of Experiments therein, & Exemplifications thereof, &c.: and yet we see, there is such a scarcity of such things, that hardly one Person of an hundred, will believe any such thing at all, as Spirits, &c.: which hotherwise could not of necessity but convinee any incredulous person, the Apparitions & usuall Signs, Testimonies, & other severall significations thereof would be so common, &c: Wee could alleadge greater Arguments to prove our Answer to these things, but we shall explaine something hereof more fully in the Argument following; & so wind up this Answer &c: Therefore observe &c.¹⁶⁴

Isagogicall Observations &c. ~~~~ p: 75.

¹⁶³ Given the population of the planet at the time this was written, only a small percentage of those “Millions of some Christians” would themselves be among the “one in ten thousand.” The passage is hyperbole of course, and jeremiads on the corruption of the age can be found in, well, every age from which written records survive: but there is other evidence indicating that this work was written when a civil war in England was in living memory, and either during or shortly after a time when the country was under a military dictatorship run by a gang of religious fanatics.

¹⁶⁴ As far as I can tell, in all that rambling and ranting the writer hasn’t actually stated what they think those critters actually are, not indeed addressed all the opinions on the subject listed at the start of this section.

Janua Magica Reserata:
Further excerpts and fragments

[The following invocation is found on fol. 81 & 83 of S4, which appear to comprise a single folded sheet that was inserted into an unrelated collection of talismanic designs with accompanying text (a small slip with a design of a dodecagram and heptagram was in turn stuck inside it, and now forms fol. 82). The title, sub-title and text follow the pattern of the “Cœlestiall Keys” of the Janua. A shorter “Tenth Key” in a different hand and style was written in on an unused page following the Ninth Key in S5.]

The Tenth Key

Moveing & calling forth to Visible appearance the Cœlestiall Hierarchy of Heroes or Quire of Blessed Soules of the order of Animastick whose principall governer of Blessed Intelligences is Issim or the Soul of Messiah Residing & bearing Rule in the Spheare of the Elements.

O You Glorious great Sacred and Cœlestiall Angells or Blessed Intelligences Jereceue and Mitraton¹⁶⁵ whose principall governing Angell or Blessed Intelligence is Issim & all others ye Cœlestiall Angells or Servants of the most high, omnipotent Incomprehensible immense Immortall & Eternall God of host the onely Creator of heavne & Earth & of all things whatsoever Both Cœlestiall & Elemental Animal Vegetable Minerall & Reptile or Insect that is contained & Comprehended therein & that serve before the most high & Excellent honoured Angells Hajoth HaKados¹⁶⁶ as ministering Angells present & always at his most high superior & Divine Commands and Appointments in the Order of Aninastik¹⁶⁷ or Quire of Blessed Souls and Residing in the tenth heaven, & bearing office Rule & power in the sphere of the Elements wee servants also of the Highest & Reverently here present in his holy feare Do Call upon you & humbly Request & Earnestly Entreate you & move you to Visible appearance In by & through this most Excellent Ineffable great mighty signall sacred & Divine name of the most high God Issim¹⁶⁸ & his numerall attribute Malcuth who sitteth in the most Imperiall & highest heaven before whom all the hosts or Quires of Angells Incessantly Singeth O mappalaman Hallelujah who created all Heaven & Earth in Six Dayes and all things there

¹⁶⁵ Ierescue and Mitraton are mentioned as the Western Angels of Wednesday in the Heptameron, where they have no particular connection to Malkuth, the Sphere of the Elements or the Order of Blessed Souls.

¹⁶⁶ The Chaioth ha-Qadosh (חיות הקדוש) are more normally associated with the first sphere. They are not cited in the “First Key” of the Janua but are mentioned in the chapter of the ten Sephiroth and preceding table (S5 fol. 25v, 26r).

¹⁶⁷ I have allowed all the variant spellings of this name to stand, as it is generally lettered quite clearly.

¹⁶⁸ Issim or Ischim (אישים, also appears as ישיים) more normally appears as the name of a class of Angels associated with Malkuth (Agrippa, deriving from Reuchlin, De Arte Cabalistica) or Yesod (777 col. LXXXVI, deriving from Kabbala Denudata tom. I part iv fig. xvi (M)). The name of God associated with Malkuth in Agrippa’s scale of the number 10 is Adonia Melekh, אדני מלך.

therein is & he saw that all he had done was good & he Rested from his labors & he Blessed all that he had Done & Sealed the Same in his most high great & holy name Marinata Abint Jeja as the most high & onely God of heaven & Lord of hosts the maker of time & by the Seal of your Creation being the marke or Character of holiness unto you & by the Occult Mystery & Secret Vertue Efficacy & Influence thereof Dignifying & Confirming you in Orders office name natures & Corporallity with Divine Cœlestiall Angelicall immortall Eternall & Sublime Excellency glory power purity perfection goodness & love first unto the Servis of the most high God & his Divine Laws & Commands & nextly unto the Charge Care Conduct Councell Comfort Benifitt & Assistance of his servants the Sons of men Living on Earth to inspire Instruct & guide them unto the Knowledge & way of truth and all true [81v] Physicall & Mettaphysicall Sciences, Either Immediatly from the holy Ghost, unto more Choyce Vessells of honour or Mediatly by Divine grace, & permission, from your Selfe or Selves, unto the Sons of men Servants of God Dwelling on Earth, whensoever you Shall be of them Invocated Called forth & thereby moved to Descend, & appeare unto them &c: by all aforesaid & by the great Signall Vertue, power Dignity Excellency & Efficacy thereof both immediately primary & mediatly Secondary by Respective mediums of Divine light Grace & mercy & accordingly Dependent & So thereby flowing & accordingly Defusing, by Several Emanations proper a Symbolizing power & Vertue from the Superiours to the Inferiours wee Do humbly bessech Earestly Resquest Command Constraine & move you Jereceve & Mitraton to visible appearance being Located & bearing Rule in the spheare of the Elements together with all Others who is under the Command of your principall governor Issim in the Order of Anamastick in generall & particular Joyntly & Severally, Every & Each one by office Respectively to gird up and gather your Selves together Some one or more of you (as it shall please God) &c.: by Divine Permission to move & Descend from your Cœlestiall mansion or place of Residence into this C.S. or G.R.¹⁶⁹ & therein to appear visibly unto us & wee also Entreat you would be graciously pleased in and through the same to transmit your true Angelicall & Reall Presence plainly unto the sight of our Eyes, & your voyces unto our Eares that wee may plainly & visibly see you & audibly here you speake unto, or otherwise to appeare out of the same; as it shall please God & you his servants of Divine Grace & Messagers of mercy seemeth most meet proper pertinent & best befitting this Action, Appearance, Occasion or Matter, & to show plainly & visibly unto us, a forgoing Signe or teste of your Appearance, And wee do also yett further humbly Beseech Earneast Entreate, & undeniably Request & move you O Jereceve & Mitraton to move Descend & appear & personally to give your presence Move I say from your place of Residence from that mansion Orbe & Spheare of the Elements the Office & order of Anmastick In by and through the Divine Signall

¹⁶⁹ "Crystal Stone or Glass Receptracle."

Mighty & Powerfull name of your God Issim and his numeral attribute Malcuth And the great Efficacy, Vertue, Excellency, power prevalency & Superiority thereof, to Gird up and gather your Selves together Every & Each one joyntly & by it selfe, Respectively & Severally to [83r] move & Descend from your Cœlestiall Mansion or place of Residence Apparently visible to the sight of our Eyes into this C.S. or G.R. standing here before us as being sett for that purpose or otherwise unto us & before us out of the same as it shall please God & you his Servants of Divine Light Grace & mercy seemeth most meet, & best befitting this Action And to show forth a preceding sign of your Appearance & to be freindly unto us & by your Angellicall Benevolency, Cœlestiall Illumination favourable Assistance: familiar society, Mutall Correspondency, verball Converse Continuall Community & sacred Instructions, both now & at this time present, and at all other times to informe & Rightly Direct our most weake Depraved Stupid & Ignorant intellect judgments & understandings And to Conduſt us by your Angelicall Instincts & Archydoctions into the luminous path way of Truth, leading unto & giving Enterance into the ports Cityes & palaces of wisdom & true science & to make us partakers of undefiled Knowledge without whose Angelicall Guide & Spirituall Conduct blessed assistance & Benevolent Advertisements it is very Difficult if not impossible for us or any mortall on Earth to finde or Obtain, & to be Esteemed worthy of Enterance into with testimony wherefore wee humbly Entreate & move you O Jereceve Mitraton, & all Others ye president & Inferiour Angels servants of the most high God Residing & officiating in the spheare of the Elements In the order or Hierarchy of Anamasticks who all obediently serve and readily fulfil his Omnipotent Decrees & Commands in his Divine Dispensations & Appointments According to your Generall respective offices, in by and through this his Ineffable Imperiall great Signal & Divine name Issim & his numerall attribute Malcuth & by the power Efficacy & vertue thereof we servants also of the same your God & by the strength & force of our faith & hope in him for Divine Assistance Grace & mercy herein do Earnestly request powerfully invoke & confidently move you & Call you forth to visible Appearance here before us in this C.S. or G.R. or otherwise thereout here before us as it shall please God is given unto you so to Do: And likewise to shew visibly unto us a forgoing Signe or teste of your Appearance, O you Servants of mercy Jereceve & Mitraton Residing serving & officiating in the Sphere of the Elements (Move we say) and by the Superiour power & [83v] Permsion and in the name of the highest Descend appear & visibly shew your selfe or selves joyntly & Severally & Respectively unto us in this C.S. or G.R. standing here before us or otherwise out of the same as it shall please God to permitt & Appoint you & to shew us a preceding Sign thereof And by your Mediate Angelicall Inspiration Information or Cheef teaching to instruct help aid & assist us both at this time present & also at all other times & places whensoever & wheresoever wee shall move, & call you forth to visible

Appearance & to our Assistance in whatsoever truths or subject matter or things Appertaining thereunto in all wisdom & true Sciences, both Cœlestiall & Terrestiall &c: that shall be necessary for us And also as any other Emergent Occasion shall Duly & properly require to the advancement & setting forth of Gods Glory, & the Improvement of our Wellfaire, Comfort & benefitt of our worldly & temporall Estate & Condition whilst wee yet live And likewise in all such matters or things whatsoever Else that shall be necessary for us to Know & Injoy Even beyond what wee are able to aske or think which the almighty giver of all good gifts shall in his bountifull & paternall mercy be graciously placed hereby to give you to Reveale & show forth unto us or otherwise to bestow upon us O ye great Angells & intelligences Jereceve & Mitraton Reciding Locating & bearing Rule in the Spheare of the Elements and all others ye Cœlestiall Angells of the Order of Anamastick Medium of Divine grace & mercy Ministers of true light & understanding & Servants of the most high God particularly Recited & Spoken of Invocated moved & Called forth to Visible Appearance (as afforesaid) Descend (we say) & by the power of Superiour Emission some one or more of you Appear visibly here before us as shall please God and be freindly unto us, & in your respective offices, Do for us as to the Servants of the most high God whereunto wee move you all joyntly & severally in power & presence whose works shall be song of honour & the praise of your God In your Creation.

Amen.

* * * * *

[These two passages are found on fol. 109 of S4, which appears (based on the digitised microfilm) to be a single loose leaf, with the bottom 60% or so torn off, which was stuck inside an unrelated collection of treasure-hunting processes and “experiments” involving various named spirits, prior to the latter being bound up with other materials, whether by Ashmole, Sommers or another owner. They are in an apparently different hand to both the S5 Janua and the “Tenth Key”: this, however, is very probably the handwriting of the original author / redactor of the Janua.

The first passage, crossed out in MS., appears to be a draft or variant of one on fol. 31v of S5. Some letters are lost due to blotting; these are restored in square brackets by cross-referencing with S5 and OOP: it is adapted from OOP book III, chap. 17, “Of these [scil. “Intelligences and Spirits”] according to the opinion of the Theologians.”]

The Theologicall Construction of Angels & Spirits, &c.

There are nine Orders of Angels, thus nominated and Distinguished in their severall and respective Hierarchies & Offices. (viz.), Seraphim, Cherubim, Thrones, Dominations, Potestates, Vertues, Principality, Archangels, Angels.

The Superiour Hierarchies are Seraphim, Cherubim, Thrones, and these are Supercelestial Angels, contemplating the Order of the Divine Providence; the first in the Goodness of God; the second in the Essence of God, (as the form), the third in the Wisdome of God.

The middle Hierarchy are Dominations, Vertues, Potestates; these Angels concur to the Government of the World. The first of these command that which the others execute. The second are Ministers to the Heavens, and somet[[imes]] to the working of Miracles. The third drives away those things which [[se]]em to be able to disturb the Divine Law.

The Inferiour Hierarchy are Principallities, Archanges, Angels: these as ministering Spirits descend to take care of Inferiour th[[ings]]. The first of these take care of publik things, of Princes, Magistrates, Provinces and Kingdomes. Daniel cap. 10 v. 13. Ecclesiasticus, Apocriph:¹⁷⁰ Deut.¹⁷¹ The second are present at Sacred Dutys, and direct the Divine Worship about every Man, and Offers up his Prayers & Sacrifices [[...]]¹⁷²

[The following untitled passage about evil spirits occurs on fol. 109v, and does not correspond directly to anything in the S5 Janua. Some letters are lost at the torn right edge. To make this clear, I have marked line breaks in the MS with |. A capital ‘A’ appears in the left margin by the start of the text.]

There are a kind of Spirits Subterranean and obscure, which are the Ang[[els]] | that failed, Revengers of Wickednes, according to the Decrees of the Divine Ju[[stice,]] | and they are evill Angels, and wicked Spirits; because: many times they | annoy and hurt even of their own accords, and there are Legions of them, [...] | they are likewise distinguished according to the Names of the Stars, Elemen[ts] | and parts of the World. Of these, four most mischievous Kings do gover[n] | and bear rule over the other; according to the four parts of the World, | under whom are many moure Princes and Governours of Legions governing [...] | and many more of private Offices. These kind of Spirits inhabit a place | either very nigh [to t]he¹⁷³ Earth, or within the Earth it self: There is no [...] | mischief which they dare not commit (if God give them leave.) Their Customs ar[e] | altogether violent and hurtfull, and they plot, ~~and~~ contrieve, & endeavour & perpetrate ma[ny]¹⁷⁴ sudd[en] | michiefs and Disasters. And when they make any Incursions, sometimes the[y] | lye hid, and sometimes doe offer open violence. They are very much | delighted in all things done wickedly and Contentiously.

¹⁷⁰ A space in the MS., probably left by the scribe intending to fill in later after looking up the chapter / verse.

¹⁷¹ Another space here.

¹⁷² Torn or cut edge of page here. Some letter tops are visible but not enough to make out any words.

[The text ends just above the torn bottom edge, with a horizontal rule below the paragraph. Two heavy diagonal strokes are visible at the cut-off, suggesting that whatever was on the missing part of the page was cancelled prior to the page being torn. It is paraphrased from the final section of OOP Book III, ch. 16 (pp. 393–394):

“[...] under these [scil., good Angels] they [“the latter Theologians”] place a kind of spirits, subterrany or obscure, which the Platonists call Angels that failed,¹⁷⁵ revengers of wickedness, and ungodliness, according to the decree of the Divine justice, and they call them evill Angels and wicked spirits,¹⁷⁶ because they oft annoy and hurt even of their own accords; of these also they reckon more legions, and in like manner distinguishing them according to the names of the Stars and Elements, and parts of the world, they do place over them Kings, Princes and Rulers and the names of them; of these, four most mischeivous Kings do rule over the other, according to the four parts of the world; under these many more Princes of Legions govern, and also many of private offices. Hence the Gorgones, Statenocle, the furies. Hence Tisephone, Alecto, Megæra, Cerberus: They of this kind of spirits, Porphyry saith, inhabite a place nigh to the earth, yea within the earth it self; there is no mischief, which they dare not commit; they have altogether a violent and hurtfull custome, therefore they very much plot and endeavor violent and sudden mischiefs; and when they make incursions, sometimes they are wont to lie hide, but sometimes to offer open violence, and are very much delighted in all things done wickedly and contentiously.”

It is to be noted that in passages adapted from OOP, the compiler of the Janua universally omitted Agrippa’s reference to authorities, whether Christian theologians or later Platonists, that were not the Bible.]

¹⁷³ Words partially blotted in MS.

¹⁷⁴ “& perpetrate ma[ny]” written sup. lin. with insertion mark after “endeavour.”

¹⁷⁵ quos vocant Platonici desertores angelos

¹⁷⁶ malos dæmones & spiritus nequam

An Untitled Fragment

[This cancelled passage appears at the top of fol. 37r; it is not in Ashmole's handwriting, but is in the same hand as the bulk of the first division (fol. 3-99) of Sloane MS. 3825, and directly continues from the text on fol. 99v; further, a cancelled page number at the top of S4 fol. 37r appears to read "(194)" directly continuing from numbering in the same style in the first part of S5. While sharing phrasing with the "Celestial Keys" of the Janua Magica Reserata, it actually belongs to "A Select Treatise as it was first discovered to the Egyptian Magij &c. &c." a set of conjurations of the planetary Intelligences from lib. ii of Agrippa's De Occulta Philosophia, a complete copy of which (exhibiting notable verbal variations from this fragment) is extant in Sloane MS. 3821 fol. 205-225.]

[...] same to transmit your true & reall presence, Corporally, in ^{your} Appearances plainly & Visibly, to the Sight of our Eyes, & Voyces to our Ears, that We may also as plainly & Visible see you & Audibly here you, speake unto us: ^{or} otherwise to Appear out of the same Visibly here before us, as it shall please God & you his Servants, or Servants as Messagers of his paterniall grace, & mercy, Seemeth Most Meet, proper, pertinent, or best befitting this action, Appearance, Occasion or Matters &c.

The Second Parte of the Art of King Solomon

[This is an incomplete copy of the work now known as the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia, or the second book of the Lemegeton. While about half (15 of 31) of the principal spirits are missing, as are practically all of the 500+ spirit seals, it also includes material not in the better-known Lemegeton texts (Sloane MSS. 2731, 3825, 3648, Harley MS. 6483), namely a variant form of conjuration (repeated at length for each spirit) and the text of an oath to be sworn by a summoned spirit.]

[53r] In this following Treatise you have 31 Names of chief Spirits, with severall of the Ministring Spirits which are under them, with their Seals or Characters, which is to be worne as a Lamin on your Brest, for without that the Spirit that is appeared will not obey you to doe your Will, &c.

The Offices of these Spirits are all one, for what one commands, the other can doe the same, they can shew & discover all things that are hid or done in the World, & can fetch & carry, & doe any thing that is to be done, or is conteyned in any of the foure Elements, Fire, Aire, Earth or Water, &c.: also the secrets of any Person whatsoever, let it be in what kinde it will.

These Spirits Naturally are both good and Evill (that is to any) one part of them is good, & the other part of them is Evill: They are all commanded, and all subjecte, governed & ruled by their Princes, & each said Prince resideth in that Mansion & place of abode, in the true point of the Compass, which is at large fixed composed & shewed forth, in the following Scheame or figure.

[53v] Therefore, when you are resolved to enter upon the Practice, or to make us of any of these Spirits, or have a desire to move or call forth any of the Kings, or likewise any of their Servants, you are straight way to direct, & truly to place yourselfe to that said point of the Compass wherein the King hath his Mansion, Residence, or his place of abode, & you cannot Err or any waie goe amiss, in this your Operations or any like Experiments. Note therefore & carefully observe, that every Prince is to have his Coniuration, yet all of one Forme & man[ner], as in the foregoing part of this Book¹⁷⁷ is shewed at large. Therefore you have sufficient Explanation how to Call both Kings & Servantes, particularly observing every Prince to have the like Coniuration of one forme, as excepting the Name & Place of the Spirit, for in that they must change & differ. Also the Seale of the Spirit is to be changed accordingly.¹⁷⁸

¹⁷⁷ i.e., the Ars Goëtia, only a portion of which is in the present collection.

¹⁷⁸ The bottom 40% or so of fol. 53v is blank, save for the catch-word. The copy in S5 here continues, "As for the garments and other materiall things, they are spoken of in the the Book Goëtia beforegoing Therefore it is needless to mention them here againe &c."

[54r] *The Forme of the Figure which discovers the Orders of the 31 Kings or Princes, with their Servients, Ministers, for when the King is found, his Subjects are easie to be found out, & so converst withal.*¹⁷⁹

You may perceive by this Figure, that 20 of these Kings hath fixt Mansions, the Eleven is moveable, sometimes in one place, & sometimes in another, & other tymes together. Therefore you may stand with your Face, which way you please, when you call any of them or their Servants forth to visible appearance.

¹⁷⁹ There is a large blank space (over half the page) in the MS. at this point; Ashmole left room for the figure of the compass but didn't actually copy it. The image has been redrawn from the copy in S5; rubrication and shading does not reflect the MS. but is used to more clearly distinguish some of the close-together text items and the cardinal / intermediate compass directions.

There are issues with this diagram and the corresponding text in the entries for some of the spirits, likely the result of lost-in-translation with terminology for intermediate compass directions: the Latin Steganographia, the source of all those names, assigns the 16 "Princes" with fixed stations (Pamersiel through to Baruchas, nos. 5–20 in the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia) evenly around the compass, as is apparent from the list and diagram (the latter incomplete in the print editions) that appears at the end of the first chapter of Lib. I. Directions are there mostly called by the Latin names of the winds, e.g. Padiel is referred to Subsolanus, Camuel to Eurus, Asiel to Euroauster.

[Carnesiel]

[54v] Carnesiel¹⁸⁰ is the most great & cheife Emperour Ruling in the East, who hath 1,000 great Dukes, and a 500 lesser Dukes under him, beside 5,000,000,000,000¹⁸¹ of Ministring Spirits, which is more inferior than the Dukes whereof we shall make noe mention but only of twelve of the chief Dukes & their Seales, because they are sufficient for practise.

*Then follows the names & Seales of Carnesiel, & these 12 Dukes.*¹⁸²

Note Carnesiel when he appears day or night, attends him 60,000,000,000,000 Dukes, but when you call any of these Dukes, there never attends above 300, & sometimes not above 10. &c.

*The Coniuration of Carnesiel as followeth:*¹⁸³

Wee Coniure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Carnesiel, who is the Emperour & cheife Commander ruling as King in the dominion of the East, who bear[[es]] Rule by the power of the Supreme God El, over all Spirits both Superiour & Inferiour, belonging to the Infernall Orders. Wee Invoke & Comand you, by the especial & truest Name of your God, & by that God you worship and obey, & by the Seale of your Creation, & by the most mighty & powerfull Name of God Iehovah Tetragrammaton who cast you out of heaven with all other the Infernall Spirits, & by all the [55r] most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth and Hell, & all things conteyned in them, & by their powers & Vertues, & by the name PrimaVmaton who commandeth the whole host of Heaven, that thou O Spirit Carnesiel, forthwith come forth & appeare unto us here before this Circle, in a faire & comly forme & shape, without doing any harme to us, or any other Creature, this place or any other part of place in the World, and answer truly & faithfull to our Requests, that we may accomplish our Will or desire, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or to accomplish, thorough the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Celestiall Ayeriall Terrestriall & Infernalle.

¹⁸⁰ Carnesiell here in S4, but otherwise spelt consistently. In Steg., Carnesiel and the other three “imperatores principales” are listed after the sixteen “Princes” (lib. i. cap. xviii-xx).

¹⁸¹ I have added comma separators to the numbers of subordinates for ease of reading; none are in the MS.

¹⁸² They were not copied by Ashmole. It appears that his source MS. gave them. Ashmole’s source was not, in this instance, the S5 Lemegeton (although that does contain corrections in his hand); the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia in S5 agrees closely with the present text in some passages represented by both, but varies noticeably in others and does not give the conjurations for the chief spirits at length, only the incipit of each (written in, somewhat cramped, at the foot of each page with the spirit seals, and many of them in a different hand to the body text: possibly, indeed, copied by Ashmole from the present text or its source); at the end of the list of chief spirits is a general form of conjuration with the opening address, names and directions to be switched as required, which is completely different from the conjurations in the present text.

¹⁸³ Compared to the conjurations of the other “Emperors,” this omits some phrasing.

[Caspiel]

Caspiel, is the great & cheife Emperour ruling in the South who hath 200 great Duke & 400 lesser Dukes under him besides 1,000,200,000,000 of Ministering Spirits, which is much inferior &c: whereof wee (saith Solomon) shall make noe mention, but only of 12 of the chiefe Dukes, and their Seales, for they are sufficient for practice.

Then follows the Names & Seales of Caspiel & these 12 Dukes.

[55v] These 12 Dukes have 2660 underdukes a peece to attend them, whereof some of them comes along with him, when he is invoked, but they are very stubbornr and churlish.

The Conjuraton of Caspiel as followeth.

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & poetent Prince Caspiel, who is a great & cheife Emperour, ruling in the South, who beares rule by the power of the supreme God El, over all Spirits both Superiour & Inferiour of the Infernall Orders &c: Wee Command you by the especiall & truest Name of your God, and by that God you worship & obey, & by the Seale of your Creation, & by the most mighty & powerfull name of God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who cast you out of Heaven, with all other the Infernall Spirits, & by the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things conteyned in them, & by their powers & vertues, and by the Name Primaumaton who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven that thou O Spirit Caspiel, forthwith come forth & appeare unto us before this Circle, doe not delay, doe not linger, what needs any more worde, Move (we say), move we say, shew your selfe & appeare affable courteously, friendly, in a faire & comely forme & shape, without doing any harme, to us or any other Creatures in [56r] this place, or any other part of place in thee World, & answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests That wee may accomplish our Wills or desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders or proper for you to accomplish or performe, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things, both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall Terrestriall & Infernall.

[Amenadiel]

Amenadiel is the great Emperour of the West, who hath 300 great Dukes, & 500 lesser Dukes, beside 40,000,030,000,100,000, other ministering Spirits more inferior to attend him, whereof we shall not make any mention but only of 12 of the chiefe Dukes & their Seales which is sufficient for practice.

[[The]]n followes the Names & Seales [[of]] Amenadiel & these 12 Dukes.

Note Amenadiel may be called at any howre of the day or night, but his Dukes (who have 3880 Servants a peece to attend them) are to be called in certain hours, as Vadros, he may be called the 2 first hours of the day, Camiel in the second 2 houres of the day, & so successively on till you come to Nadros who is to be called in the 2 last hours of the Night, and then begin againe at Vadros &c.: this same Rule is to be observed in calling the Dukes belonging to Demorial the Emperour of the North.

[56v] The Coniuration of Amenadiel.

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & Potent Prince Amenadiel, who is Emperour & cheife King, ruling in the Dominion of the West, who beares rule & power, by the permission of the Supreme God El, over all Spirits both Superiour & inferior, belong[[ing]] to the Terrestriall & Infernall Orders; Wee Invocat[[e]], Constraine, Compell & Comand you, by the espeicall & truest Name of your God, & by that God, which you serve, worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty, most dreadfull & powerfull name, of the Everlasting & Living God Iehovah Tetragrammaton who threw you downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all others, & the rest of the Infernall Spirits, and by all the most powerfull & great names of God, who created Heaven, Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, And by their powers & vertues & by the Name Primaum[[aton]] who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, that thou, O Spirit Amenadiel forthwith (we say) move descend & appeare, & shew thy selfe Visbily unto us here before this Cristall,¹⁸⁴ Come yee in faire & comly forme & shape without any delay, the King command[[eth]] you, Therefore defer not your coming, what needs any more words, In the name of him that Liveth forever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the [57r] Dead, & the World by Fire, gird up your selfe & come away, even at this very present tyme, before the Circle and behold the Pentacle of Solomon. Behold your Conclusion,¹⁸⁵ be not obstinate & rebellious, Behond the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your presence in noe gastly shape, without doing any harme to us, or any other Creature, this place or any other part or place in the World. Come yee therefore courteously, affably, friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our requests, that we may accomplish our Wills and desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing whatsoever, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things, both Cœlestiall Aieriall, Terrestriall and Infernall.

¹⁸⁴ Probably a slip for "Circle"; none of the other conjurations of the Emperors mention a crystal and texts of the period that do, call spirits to appear in and not before it.

¹⁸⁵ Ecce conclusionem vestram (adapted from the Heptameron, in turn deriving from the Liber Iuratus). "Doom" would be a better translation in the context.

[Demoriel]

Demoriel is the great & mighty Emperour of the North, who hath 400 great Dukes & 600 lesser Dukes, with 700,000,800,000,900,000 Servants under his Command to attend him, whereof we shall make mention but of 12 of the cheife Dukes & their Seales, which will be sufficient for practice.

Heere should follow the Names & Seales of Demoriel and the said 12 Dukes.

[57v] Note each of those Dukes hath 1140 Servants, who attends them as needs requireth, for when the Duke yee call for, have more to doe then ordinary, he hath the more Servants to attend him,

The Coniuration of Demoriel as followeth

Wee Coniure thee O thou great & mightier Emperour Demoriel, who is the King & cheife Prince ruling in the Dominion of the North, who bears rule & power, by the permission of the Supreme God El, over all Spirits both Superiour & Inferiour, belonging to the Terrestriall & Infernall Orders, Wee Invoke, Constraine, Compell & Comand you, by the especiall & truest name of our God, And by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your Creation, & by the most mighty most dreadfull and powerfull Name of the Everlasting & Living God, Iehovah Tetragrammaton who threw you downe cast you out of Heaven, with all other & the rest of the Infernall Spirits, & by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, And by their power & vertues, and by the Name Primaumaton who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, that thou O Spirit Demoriel, forthwith (we say) move, descend & appeare, & shew thy selfe [58r] visibly unto us here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comely forme & shape without any delay, the King comandeth you, therefore defer not your coming, what needs any more words, in the Name of him that Liveth forever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the dead & the World by Fire, Gird up your selfe & come away, even at this very present tyme before this Circle, & behold the Pentacle of Solomon, Behold your Conclusion be not obstinate & Rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore, & give your presence in noe gastly shape, without doing any harme to us, or any other Creatures in this place, or any other part of place in the World, Come yee therefore courteously, affably, friendly, & answer truly and faithfully to all our requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing whatsoever, which by Office you know if belonging to your Orders or proper for you to performe or accomplish through the power of God El, who created and disposeth all things both Cœlestiall & Aieriall Terrestriall & Infernall.

[Pamersiel]

[58v] Pamersiel is the first & cheife Spirit in the East under Carnesiell, who hath 1000 Spirits under him, which are to be called in the day tyme, but with great care, for they are very lofty & stubborne, whereof we shall make mention but of 11 as followeth.

Then follows the Names & Seales of Pamersiel, & eleven Spirits.

Note these Spirits are by nature Evill & very false, not to be trusted in secret things,¹⁸⁶ but is excellent in driving away Spirits of darkness from any place or House that is haunted.

To call forth Pamersiel or any of these his servants, chuse the uppermost private or secret & most Ticitt¹⁸⁷ Roome in the house, or in some certain Island, Wood or Grove, or the most occult or hidden place from all comers or goers, that noe one chancely may (if possible) happen that way. (Chamber or what ever place else you Act your Concernes in) Observe that it be very Aiery, because those Spirits that is in this part, are all of the Aire, you may call these Spirits into a Christall Stone or Glass Receptacles, being an auncient & usuall way of receiving & binding of Spirits.¹⁸⁸ This Christall Stone must be foure Inches [59r] Diamiter, set a Table of Art made as followeth, which is truly called the Secret Table of Solomon, having the Seale of the Spirit on your Brest, & the Girdle about your Waste, & you cannot err, the forme of the Table is thus, as this present Figure doth here represent & shew;¹⁸⁹ behold the Figure when you have thus prepared what is to be prepared, rehearse the Conjurat[i]on following severall tymes, that is whilst¹⁹⁰ the Spirit come, for without doubt he will come; Note the same Method is to be used, in all the following part of this booke as is here of Pamersiel, & his Servants, Also the same in calling the King & his Servants, &c.

[The Table of Art.]

¹⁸⁶ This characterisation was originally a circumlocution for the “Pamersiel” cipher being very easily broken, being a simple acrostic cipher where the first letter of each word in the cover text spells out the message.

¹⁸⁷ S5: “Piritt,” corrected to “Tacit” (i.e., quiet) in margin.

¹⁸⁸ While ceremonial crystallogancy does indeed have history in English magical traditions long predating the Lemegeton, this particular phrasing occurs repeatedly in the Janua and Clavicula Tabularum Enoch.

¹⁸⁹ The design previously appeared in a late Renaissance magical emblem work, the Calendarium Naturale Magicum Perpetuum of Johann Baptista Großchedel, printed in Frankfurt in 1618 by Johann Theodor de Bry; the figure featured in an expanded version of the scale of the number 8 from Lib. ii of De occulta philosophia, associated with Mars, the dryness of fire, the “poor in spirit [whose] is the kingdom of heaven” among the classes of the blessed, &c.

¹⁹⁰ Corrected to “until” in margin. In some English regional dialects, “while” is still used in the sense of “until,” for example, if you’re told your day shift is “eight while four,” that means you’re on from eight o’clock in the morning to four o’clock in the afternoon.

The Coniuration of Pamersiel

Wee Coniure thee O Pamersiel, a cheife Spirit ruling in the East, under that mighty Potent and great Prince Carnesiel, Wee Invoke, (Move & call you forth) compel, constraine & command you by the especiall & truest name of God, & by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your creation, & by the most mighty most dreadfull & most powerfull name of the Everlasting & Living God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who threw you downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all other & the rest of the Infernall Spirits, and by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever [59v] conteyned in them, & by their powers & vertues & by the Name PrimaUmaton, who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, that thou O Spirit Pamersiel forthwith (we say) move, descend & appeare, & to shew thy selfe visibly unto us here before this Circle, Come ye in a faire & comely forme & shape, without any delay, The King commands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needs any more words, In the name of him that Liveth for ever, who shall come to iudge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up your selfe & come away even at this present tyme before this Circle, & behold the Pentacle of Solomon, behold the Conclusion, be not obstinate & Rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore courteously, affibly, frendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & Desires in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by Office you know if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall & Infernall.

[Padiel]

The second Spirit in order under the Emperour of the East, is called Padiel, he ruleth in the East and by South¹⁹¹ as King, & governeth 10,000 Spirits by [60r] day, and 200,000 by Night, besides severall Thousands under them, They are all good by Nature, and may be trusted. Solomon saith, that these spirits have no power of themselves, but what is given unto them by their prince Padiel, therefore he hath made noe mention of any of their Names, because if any of them is called, they cannot appeare without the Leave of their Prince, as others can doe &c. You must use the same Method in calling this Prince Padiel, is is declared before of Pamersiel.

Then followes the Seale of Padiel.

¹⁹¹ i.e. East-Southeast (Lat. Subsolanus). See note to compass diagram.

The Coniuration of Padiel.

Wee Conjure thee O thou Mighty & Potent Prince Padiel, who rulses as a chiefe Prince or King, in the Dominion of East and by South. Wee Invoke comand & compel you, by the especiall Name of your God, and by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty most dreadfull, and powerfull Name, of the everlasting & Living God, Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who threw downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all the other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, and by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all thing whatsoever conteyned in them, and by their powers & vertues [60v] and by the name Primaumaton who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Padiel, forthwith (we say) move, descend and appeare, & shew thy selfe visibly unto us here before this Christall, Come yee in a faire & comly forme & shape, without any delay, the King comandes you, therefore defer not your coming, what needs any more words, in the Name of him that liveth for ever who shall come to iudge the Quick & the Dead & the World by fyre, Gire up your selfe, & come away even at this very present tyme before this Circle & behold the Pentacle of Solomon, behold your Conclusion, be not obstinate & Rebellious, Behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your presence in noe ghastly shape, without doing any harme unto us, or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World, Come you therefore curteously affably friendly, and answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by Office you know if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall Terrestriall and Infernall.

[Camuel]

[61r] The Third Spirit placed & ranked in order under the cheife mighty great & potent king of the East, is called Camuel, who reigneth ruleth & governeth as King in the South-East part of the World, & hath many & severall Spirits under his Government & Comand, whereof we shall only make mention by of 10 that apperteyneth and belongeth to the day & 10 to the night, and each of these have 10 servants to attend on them, excepting Camyel, Sitgar, Asimiel, Calym, Dobiel, & Meras, for they have 100 a peece to attend them, but Tediel, Moriel & Tugaros, they have none at all, they appeare all in a very beautifull forme, & very Courteously, And in the Night as well as the day &c.

Then followed the Names & Seales of Camuel, & 20 of his Spirits.

The Conjuraton of Camuel

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Camuel, who rules as a cheife Prince or King, in the South-East part of the World. We Invoke, command & compel you, by the especiall & truest names of your God and by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the Seale of your Creation, & by the most mighty, most dreadfull & powerfull Name of the everlasting & living God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who threw you downe & cast you out of Heavfen, with all other & the [61v] rest of the Infernall Spirits, & by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, and by their power & vertues, and by the name Primaumaton, who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Camuel, forthwith (wee say) move descend and appeare, & show thy selfe visibly unto us, here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comely forme & shape without delay, The King commands you, therefore delay not your coming, what needs any more words, In the Name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up yourself & come away, even at this very present tyme before this Circle, And behold the Pentacle of Solomon, Behold your Conclusion be not obstinate & rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your presence, in noe ghastly shape, without doing any harme unto us or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World, Come yee therefore, courteously, affably friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing whatsoever, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall or Infernall.

[Asiel.]

[62r] The Fourth Spirit in Order is called Asiel, he governeth as King under Carnesiel in the South & by East,¹⁹² he hath 10 cheife Spirits belonging to the day, & 20 to the Night, under whome are 30 principiall Spirits, and under these as many, whereof we shall make mention, but of 8 of the cheife presidents belonging to the day, & as many belonging to the Night, and every one hath 20 Servants at his command they are all very courteous & Loving, & beautifull to behold &c.

Then followes the Names & Seales of Asiel, & his 16 Presidents.

¹⁹² i.e. South-southeast (Lat. Euroauster): see note to compass diagram.

The Coniuration of Asiel.

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Asiel, who rules as a cheife Prince or King, under Carnesiel in the South and by East, Wee Invoke, constraine, command & compell you, by the especiall & truest Name of your God, & by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty most dreadfull & powerfull Name, of the everlasting & everliving God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who threw you downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, and by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven, Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, & by their power & vertues, and by the name Primaumaton, who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, [62v] That thou O Spirit Asiel, forthwith (wee say) Move descend and Appeare, & show thy selfe visibly unto us, here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comely forme & shape without delay, The King comands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needes any more words, In the Name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up yourself & come away, even at this very present tyme before this Circle, and behold the Pentacle of Solomon, Behold your Conclusion be not obstinate & rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your presence, in noe ghastly shape, without doing any harme unto us or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World. Come yee therefore, courteously, affably friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing whatsoever, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall or Infernall.

[Barmiel]

[63r] The Fift Spirit in order is called Barmiel, he is the first & cheifest Spirit under Caspiel, the Emperour of the South, He governs in the South, as King under Caspiel, & hath 10 Dukes for the day, & 20 for the Night, to attend him to doe his will, the which 10 all very good, & willing to obey the Exorcist, whereof we will make mention but of 8 that belongs to the day, & as many for thee night, with their Seales, for they are sufficient for practise. Note every one of these Dukes hath 20 Servantes apeece to attend him when he is called, excepting the 4 last that belongs to the Night, for they have none.

Then followes the Names & Seales of Barmiel, with 16 Dukes.

The Conjuraton of Barmiel.

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Barmiel, who rules as a cheife Prince or King, in the South, under Caspiel, Wee invoke, constraine, command & compell you, by the especiall & truest name of your God, & by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty most dreadfull & powerfull Name, of the everlasting & living God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who threw you downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all other & the [63v] rest of the Infernall Spirits, & by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, & by their powers & vertues, & by the name Primaumaton, who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Barmiel, forthwith (wee say) Move descend and Appeare, & show thy selfe visibly unto us, heere before this Circle, Come ye in a faire & comely Forme & shape without any delay, The King comands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needes any more words, In the Name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to iudge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up yourself & come away, even at this very present tyme before this Circle, and behold the Pentacle of Solomon, behold your Conclusion, be not obstinate & rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your presence in noe ghastly shape, without doing any harme unto us or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World. Come yee therefore, courteously, affably friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our requests¹⁹³ & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing whatsoever, which by your Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall or Infernall.

[Gedial]

[64r] The Sixth Spirit in order, but the second under the Emperour of the South, is called Gedial,¹⁹⁴ who ruleth as King in the South & by West,¹⁹⁵ who hath 20 cheife Spirits to serve him in the day, & as many for the night, & they have many Servants at their commands, whereof wee shall make mention but of 8 of the cheife Spirits that belongs to the day, & as many of those that belong to the Night, who hath 20 servants a peece to attend them, when they are called forth to appearance, they are very loving & courteous & willing to doe your Will, &c.

Then follow the Names & Seales of Gedial & his 16 Spirits.

¹⁹³ Compared with the other conjurations, the phrase “that we may accomplish our Wills” is here omitted.

¹⁹⁴ “Gediel” in T1606 and the Sloane Lemegeton MSS.

¹⁹⁵ i.e., South-southwest (Lat. Austafricus): see note to compass diagram.

The Coniuration of Gedial as followeth

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Gediel, who rules as King in the South and by West, Wee Invoke, constraine, command & compell you, by the especiall & truest name of your God, & by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty most dreadfull & powerfull Name, of your God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who threw downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, and by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven, Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, & by their power & vertues, and by the name Primaumaton, who [64v] commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Gediel,¹⁹⁶ forthwith (wee say) Move descend and Appeare, & show thy selfe visible unto us, here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comely forme & shape without any delay, The King comands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needes any more words, in the Name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up yourself & come away, even at this very present tyme before this Circle, and behold the Pentacle of Solomon, Behold your Conclusion be not obstinate & Rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your presence in noe ghastly shape, without doing any harme unto us or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World, Come yee therefore, courteously, affably, friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall or Infernall.

[Asyriel.]

[65r] The Seventh Spirit in order but the third under the great Emperour of the South is called Asyriel, he is a mighty King, ruling in the South West part of the World, & hath 20 great Dukes to attend him in the day tyme, & as many for the Night, who hath under them severall Servants to attend them &c.: here we shall make mention of 8 of the chief Dukes that belong to the day, & as many that belong to the night, because they are sufficient for practise, and the first 4 that belong to the day, & the first 4 that belong to the Night, hath 40 Servants a peece to attend them, and the last 4 of the day, & the last 4 of the night 10 a peece, they are all good natured, and willing to obey, those that is of the day is to be called then, & those of the Night, in the Night.

Then followes the Names & Seales of Asyriel & his 16 Dukes.

¹⁹⁶ "Gedial" apparently amended to "Gediel" in MS.

The Conjuraton of Asyriel, as followeth.

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Asyriel, who rules as a cheife Prince or King under Carnesiel¹⁹⁷ in the South & by East, Wee Invoke, constraine, command & compell you, by the especiall & true Names of your God, & by that God which you serve worship & obey and by the true Seale of your Creation, & by the most mighty most dreadfull & powerful Name of the everlasting & ever living God Iehovah Tetragrammaton who threw you downe & cast you out of Heaven, with [65v] all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, and by the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, and by their powers & vertues, And by the name Primaumaton who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Asyriel forthwith (we say) Move Descend & Appeare, and shew thy selfe visibly unto us, here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comly forme & shape without any delay, The King commands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needs any more words, In the Name of him that liveth forever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up your self & come away, even at this very present tyme before this Circle, And behold the Pentacle of Solomon, behold your Conclusion, be not obstinate & rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your Presence in no gastly shape, without doing any harme to us or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World, Come you therefore courteously affably Friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that we may accomplish our will & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe, or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall & Infernall.

[Maseriel]

[66r] The Eight Spirit in Order (but the Fourth under the Emperour of the South) is called Maseriel who ruleth as King in the dominion of the West & by South¹⁹⁸ and hath a great number of Princes & servants under him to attend him, whereof we shall make mention of 12 of the cheifs, that attends him in the day tyme, & 12 that attends him, to doe his Will in the Night tyme, which is sufficient for practise. They are all good by nature, & willingly will doe your Will in all things those that is for the day, is to be called in the day, and those for the Night, in the Night. They have every one 30 Servants apeece to attend them, Then followes the Names & Seales of Maseriel & his 12¹⁹⁹ Princes.

¹⁹⁷ Thus in MS. Should be Caspiel.

¹⁹⁸ i.e. West-southwest (Lat. Favonius): see note to compass diagram.

¹⁹⁹ Thus in MS. S5 (fol. 123v) has 24 princes under Maseriel, 12 by day and 12 by night.

The Conjuration of Maseriel.

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & Poten Prince Maseriel, who rules as a cheife Prince in the dominion of the West & by South, wee Invoke, Constraine, Comand & Compell you, by the especiall & true Names of your God, & by that God which you serve, worship & obey and by the Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty most dreadfull & powerfull Name of the Everlasting & Living God Iehovah Tetragrammaton who threw you downe & cast you out of Heaven, & with all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, & by the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned [66v] in them, and by their powers & vertues, And by the Name Primaumaton who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Maseriel forthwith (we say) Move Descend & Appeare, and shew thy selfe visibly unto us, here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comly forme & shape without any delay, The King commands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needes more words, In the Name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire. Gird up your selfe & come away, even at this present tyme before this Circle, And behold the Pentacle of Solomon, behold the Conclusion, be not obstinate & Rebellious, behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your Presence in noe ghastly shape, without doing any harme to us, or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World, Come you therefore Courteously Affably Friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing whatsoever, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe, or to accomplish, through the power of the God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall and Infernall.

[Malgaras]

[67r] The Nynth Spirit in order, but the First under the Emperour of the West, is called Malgaras, he ruleth as King in the Dominions of the West, and hath 30 Dukes under him to attend him in the day, & as many for the Night, & severall under them againe; whereof we shall make mention of 12 Dukes that belong to the day, & as many that belong to the Night, & every one of them hath 30 Servants to attend them excepting Misiel, Barfas, Aspar, & Deilas, for they have but 20: Arois & Basiel, they have but 10 &c: They are all very courteous, & will appeare willingly to doe your Will, they appeare 2 & 2 at a tyme with their Servants; They that is for the day, is to be called in the day, & those of the Night, in the night.

Then followes the Names & Seales of Malgaras, with his 24 Dukes.

The Coniuration of Malgaras as followeth.

Wee Coniure the O thou mighty & Poten Prince Malgaras, who rules as a cheife Prince or King in the dominion of the West under Amenadiel, wee Invoke, Constraine, Comand & Compell you, by the especiall & true Names of your God, & by that God which you worship, serve & obey, & by the Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty, most dreadfull & powerfull Name of the Everlasting & Living God Iehovah Tetragrammaton who threw you downe & cast you out of Heaven, & with all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, And by the most [67v] powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, & by their powers & vertues, And by the Name Primaumaton, (who threw your downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, & by all the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, And by their powers & vertues, And by the Name Primaumaton,)²⁰⁰ who commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Malgaras forthwith (we say) Move Descend & appeare, & shew thy selfe visibly unto us, heere before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comly forme & shape without any delay, the King commands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needes any more words, In the Name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up your selfe & come away, even at this present tyme before this Circle, And Behold the Pentacle of Solomon, Behold your Conclusion, be not obstinate & rebellious, Behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your Presence in noe gastly shape, without doing any harme to us,²⁰¹ or any other part or place in the World, Come you therefore Courteously Affably Friendly & Answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obeyning any matter or thing whatsoever, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe, or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall and Infernall.

[Dorochiel.]

[68r] The Tenth Spirit in order (but the second under the Emperour of the West), is called Dorochiel,²⁰² who is a mighty Prince bearing rule in the West, & by North, & hath 40 Dukes to attend on him in the day tyme, and as many for the Night, with an innumerable company of servient Spirits, whereof we shall make mention of 24 cheife Dukes that belongs to the day, & as many for the Night, with their Seales as following. Note the 12 first that belongs to the day, & the 12 first that belongs to the night, hath 40

²⁰⁰ Passage repeated in error, probably by copyist eye-skip.

²⁰¹ In the other conjurations, the words "or any other Creature in this place" appear at this point.

²⁰² Dorothiel in T1606.

Servants a peece to attend on them, & the 12 last of the day, & of the Night, hath 400 a peece to attend on them when they appeare &c. Also those of the day is to be called in the day, & those of the night in the night, Observe the Planetary Motion in calling; for the 2 first that belongs to the day, is to be called in the first planetary houre of the day, & the 2 next in the second planetary houre of the day, & soe successively on, till you have gon quite through the day & Night, till you come to the 2 first againe, &c. They are all of a good Nature & will willingly obey &c.

Then followes the Names & Seales of Dorochiel & his 48 Dukes.

The Coniuration of Dorochiel, as followeth.

We Conjure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Dorochiel, who rules as King in the West & by North, wee invoke, constraine, comand & compell you, by the especiall & truest name of your God, & by that God which you serve worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your Creation, and by the most mighty most powerfull & [68v] most dreadfull Name of your God Iehovah Tetragrammaton who threw downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, And by the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, and by their powers & vertues, And by the Name Primaumaton who Commandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Dorochiel forthwith (we say) Move Descend & appeare, & shew thy selfe visibly unto us, here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comly forme & shape without any delay, The King commands you, therefore defer not your coming, what needes more words, In the Name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up your selfe & come away, even at this present tyme, before this Circle, And Behold the Pentacle of Solomon, behold your Conclusion, be not obstinate & rebellious, Behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your presence, in no ghastly shape, without doing any harme to us, or any other Creature in this place, or any other part or place in the World, Come yee therefore courteously affably, friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that we may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by Office you know, if belonging to your Orders, or proper for you to performe or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Coelestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall and Infernall.

[Vsiel.]

[69r] The Eleaventh Spirit in order (but the third under the Emperour Amenadiel) is called Vsiel, who is a mighty Prince, ruling as King in the North West, he hath 40 diurnall & 40 Nocturnall Dukes to attend on him in the day & in the Night, whereof we shall make mention of 14 that belongs to the day & as many for the Night, which is sufficient for practise. The first 8 that belongs to the day hath 40 Servants a peece, & the other six, 30. & the first 8 that belong to the Night, hath 40 Servants a peece to attend on them, & the next 4 dukes hath 20 Servants, & the last two hath 10 a peece, and they are very obedient, & doth willingly appear when they are called, they have more power to hide or discover Treasure then any other Spirits (saith Solomon) that is conteyned in this Book, & when you hide, or would not have any thing taken away that is hid, make these 4 Seales:²⁰³

in Virgin Parchment & Lay them with the Treasures or where the Treasury lyeth, & it will never be found nor taken away.

Then followes the Names & Seales of Vsiel, & his 16²⁰⁴ Dukes.

The Coniuration of Vsiel as followeth.

We Coniure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Vsiel, who ruleth as cheife Prince or King under Amenadiel in the North West, Wee Invoke, Constraine, Comand & Compell you, by the especiall & truest Name [69v] of your God, And by that God which you serve, worship & obey, & by the true Seale of your Creation, And by the most mighty most powerfull & most dreadfull Name of your God Iehovah Tetragrammaton who threw downe & cast you out of Heaven, with all other the rest of the Infernall Spirits, & by the most powerfull & great Names of God, who created Heaven Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever conteyned in them, & by their Powers & Vertues, And by the Name Primaumaton who comandeth the whole Host of Heaven, That thou O Spirit Vsiel, forthwith (we say) Move Descend & appeare, & shew thy selfe visibly unto us, here before this Circle, Come yee in a faire & comly forme & shape without any delay, The King comandes you, therefore defer not your coming, what needes any more words, In the name of him that liveth for ever, who shall come to Judge the Quick & the Dead, & the World by Fire, Gird up your selves & come away, even at this very present tyme, before this Circle, And Behold the Pentacle of Solomon, Behold your Conclusion, & be not obstinate & rebellious, Behold the Banner of God, Move therefore & give your Presence, in noe ghastly shape, without doing any harme unto us, or any other Creature in the World, Come yee therefore courteously, affably, friendly, & answer truly & faithfully to all our Requests, that wee may accomplish our Wills & desires, in knowing or obteyning any matter or thing, which by Office you know, if belonging to your ²⁰³ These are the characters of Abariel, Magni, Ansoel and Adan, four of the named Dukes under Vsiel. The first was copied slightly defectively and is missing two lines.

²⁰⁴ Thus in MS. S5 (fol. 125v) has names and characters for 28 dukes under Vsiel, 14 by day and 14 by night.

Orders, or proper for you to performe or to accomplish, through the power of God El, who created & disposeth of all things both Cœlestiall, Ayeriall, Terrestriall and Infernall.

[Cabariel.]

[70r] The Twelvth Spirit in Order (but the Fourth under the Emperour of the West) is called Cabariel, he hath 40 Dukes to attend on him, whereof we shall mane mention by of 10: of the cheife Dukes that belongs to the day, & as many for the Night, & every of them hath 50 Servants to give Attendance, when their Master is Invocated &c. Note those Dukes that belong to the day is very good & willing to obey their master, & is to be called on in the day tyme, & they of the Night, is by Nature Evill & disobedient, & will deceive you if they can, &c.: they are to be called in the Night.

Then followes the Names & Seales of Cabariel, & 20 of his Dukes.

The Coniuration of Cabariel as followeth.

Wee Conjure thee O thou mighty & potent Prince Cabariel, who ruleth as King in the North & by West,²⁰⁵ We Invoke Constraine Comand & Compell you by the especiall & truest Names of your God, & by that God which you serve, worship & obey, And by the true Seale of your Creation, And by the most mighty, most powerfull & most dreadfull Name of God Iehovah Tetragrammaton, who threw downe & cast you out of Heaven, And by the most powerfull and greate Names of God, who created Heaven, Earth & Hell, & all things whatsoever, conteyned in them, [And

[The transcription of The Second Parte of the Art of King Solomon abruptly ends here; fol. 70v is blank. Other copies of the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia have another 15 chief Spirits, each with several named subordinates, thus:

- Under Demoriel, Emperor of the North: Raysiel (also written Raysael; North, names and characters of 30 dukes given); Symiel (North-Northeast, names and characters of 20 dukes given); Armadiel (North-East, 15 dukes) and Baruchas (East-Northeast, 15 dukes).
- Wandering Princes: Garadiel (also written Geradiel) their chief, with Buriel, Hydriel, Pirichiel, Emoniel, Icosiel, Soleviel, Menadiel (Menachiel in the Steganographia), Macariel, Uriel and Bidiel: names and characters of 8-15 “dukes” or “knights” are given for all these except the first, who has none.

The list of spirits is followed by a generic form of conjuration, with the opening to be varied depending on the class / rank of the spirit (Emperor / Prince / Duke, fixed or wandering) with names and compass directions to be substituted as appropriate. This differs significantly from the form above. For the rest of the ritual rubric, from the address to the spirit on appearance and onwards, we are simply referred back to the Ars Goëtia.]

²⁰⁵ i.e., North-northwest (Lat. Circius): see note to compass diagram.

[The following appears to be an oath to be sworn by one of the spirits of the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia once you've actually got it to turn up. The handwriting is similar to the preceding but it appears to have been written with a different pen (strokes are generally thinner).]

[71r] I a Presidentiall Spirit²⁰⁶ by name called Padiel, residing & serving under Carnesiel a King of the Angle or Mansion of the West,²⁰⁷ at the Comand of the Sovereigne head of my Orders, and on my owne accord, by the virtue power & force of Invocation on that behalf, doe firmly & solidly binde & oblige my selfe by these presents, Visibly to appeare, in faire & desent Forme, unto A.B. and C.D. or either of them, at all tymes & in all places, whensoever & wheresoever, I shalbe of them, or either of them called forth & moved thereunto; either in a Glass Receptacle [as being one usuall manner of appearance & of receiving & inclosing of Spirits]²⁰⁸ or otherwise out of it, as the Condition or Occasion of any matters in question or Operation shall properly or necessarily require. And I the said Spirit Padiel, doe also yet further & more especially bind & oblige my selfe, unto A.B. & C.D. or either of them as aforesaid, in by & through the truest & most especiall name of my God, & by the principall head of my Orders, & by his Seale & Character & the vertue thereof, at the sight of which all Spirits in their severall & respective degrees, Orders & Offices, doe therein accordingly serve, honor & obey. And cheifly by this my Seale or Character, as hereunder is by me affixed or incerted. And by the force [71v] and virtue of these words most powerfully in the Sophick of Magick Art, Lay, Alzym, Mura, Syron, Nalgava, Rythin, Layaganum Layarazin, Lasai, by the contents hereof, & by the vertue power & efficacy of all aforesaid, I the said Spirit Padiel doe firmly & faithfully promise to appeare visibly unto A.B. & C.D. or either of them, in manner & forme as aforesaid, & to make true & faithfull answers, unto all & every their or either of their demands & requests, speaking plainly, & to be understood of them or either of them, & also readily, willingly & effectually to fulfil, performe & accomplish, all & every such their or either of their Comandments, as at any tyme they or either of them shall request & enioyne me, at all tymes & in all places, whensoever & wheresoever I shalbe of them or either of them moved, or called forth to visible appearance, during their or either of their naturall lives, even to the last or ultimate Survivors. In testimony whereof being commanded, I have hereunto & hereunder, affixed or incerted, my true Seale or Character, unto which I owe & beare obedience, and have alwise stuck close. ---²⁰⁹

²⁰⁶ "called" written here and struck out in MS.

²⁰⁷ sic in S4; in the above, as in the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia and the Steganographia, Carnesiel is referred to the East.

²⁰⁸ Text in square brackets at bottom of page, with insertion mark after "Glass Receptacle."

²⁰⁹ Short black horizontal bar in MS.

[A Book of Talismans]

[This section (fol. 72-79) has no distinctive title in the MS.]

[72r] The fore part

The hinder part.

This made in pure Gold or Virgine Parchment with Inke made of the smoke of a consecrated Taper and Holy water, is efficacious against all Diseases or Greifes whatsoever incident to the Body of Man, made or ingraven according to Art, &c.²¹⁰

Beare this for Agues or fyning (?) Sicknesses, made in a Plate of Leade, coloured with Greene.

This made in Wood of Ivy defendeth Venome.

²¹⁰ This design appears in OOP, book III, chap. 11, ascribed to “Rabbi Hama in his Book of Speculation” (Agrippa’s immediate source was Reuchlin, De Arte Cabalistica, lib. iii); ייאיי seems simply to be a name concocted to have four letters and equal numerically to אל, El = 31; in the same chapter, Agrippa mentions the name ייאיי, formed as an acronym of the slogan יהוה אלהינו יהוה אחד (the Shema Yisraël, “Yahweh [is] your God, Yahweh alone,” or however you want to parse it) which forms the perimeter text for the front side of the design. The hinder part features the name ARARITA and the Hebrew phrase from whose initials it is derived.

[72v]

This made in thinn Glass or Ivory, the Moone being in a strong Signe, delivereth from Blindness, Baldnes & Leprosie.

This made in black Horne is against dimness of Sight, & all greifes incident to the Eyes, & very profitable to be worne of such as are Subject to wax blinde.

This made in Virgin parchment, prevaieth against Madnes.

Beare this made of Yellow wax to see marvails in sleepe.

[73r]

This written in white Wax, & layd under your head, ye shall see what you will in your sleep.

This made in yellow Paper with Greene & Yellow Inke, is against a fearfull dreames & hurte in Sleepe.

This made in Parchment with black, is profitable in all Learning & study of Philosophy.

This made in a plate of red wax & filled with yellow, serveth to take & tame wild Beasts, & to make them to thy minde.

[73v]

Beare this for taking of Fish in all water streames, made in Chalke & black Inke.

This made in red Willow serveth for Fishing in the Sea.

This made on Berrill Glass with white, is to have the knowledge of all kinds of Working, making & graving of any Glass or Glasing.

Beare this for buying of Wood & Timber, in a plate made of Slate.

[74r]

For Fillers & Diggers, made in a Hazell Roote.

This graven on Iron, serveth to worke secret Crafte, as Jugling, Legerdemaine, & the like.

This Signe is for the Love of all persons, both Male & Female.

This Sign giveth men the love of Persons on the way, & seperates Anger from the Soule.

[74v]

This Figure delivereth from all Dangers.

*This was revealed by the Spirit ²¹¹
the vertue, influence and efficacy whereof, is to put to flight all our enimies.*

This Figure delivereth from all Enimies whatsoever whome you shall see or meete.

★

The same as the next foregoing at this Asterick. ★

²¹¹ Apparently a blank space in the MS.

[75r]

This Figure delivereth from all sorte of Enimies visible and invisible, & all earthy Evills.

This Figure makes a Man secure in an Evill day.

This Sigill hath that name which Straon beareth in his forehead by being commanded.

In whatsoever day you see this Figure, you shall not feare suddaine death.

[75v]

[This page contains only four empty double circles.]

[76r]

| | | |
|---|---|---|
|  |  | The Fore part
ב ו ו ו ו |
| He that beareth this signe about him, shalbe holpen in every neede or necessity. | | The Hinder part
צ מ ר ב ה |
| These two Sigills are for one & y ^e same purpose. | | |
| This Ligature freeth & preserveth a Man from all mischief & affrightmente of Enimies & evill Spirits, & all other dangers whatsoever, either of Journies Waters, Arms or any other engagement or conteste, &c. ²¹² | | |
|  | | This Signe, engraven in brass, is for winning, & for health. |
|  | | [No explanation of this figure is given in the MS and the space to the right of it is blank. ²¹³] |

²¹² The two rows of Hebrew letters are the initial and final letters of the first five verses of Genesis. This talisman is described by Agrippa, OOP Book III chap. 11 (pp. 377-8).

²¹³ A similar set of names (allowing for textual corruption from repeated copying) appears in Wellcome MS. 110 (16th-century), fol. 68r. An "Angel of the Sun" called Storax is also mentioned in the Folger "Book of Magic" (p. 186 and elsewhere), and a Carmelyon or Carmelion is cited alongside Storax in the same work as part of a conjuration of Oberion.

[76v] [To Bind Witches & Thieves.]

[77r] [A Talisman of Venus.]

The use of the Sigill foregoing briefly explained, &c.

This sigill is most proper to be made in the day & houre²¹⁴ of ♀ Venus, she being either Essentially or Accidentally well Fortified, & in good aspect with the ☽ Moone, &c.: when you have made it, humbly implore the benevolent Layde & assistance of the Governing Angells, ruling that day. You may make it either in Silver (as big or as little as you please) & wear it about your neck, or write it on Virgin Parchment, with the blood of a Batt, & touch the Party whome you would have to love you in any part of the bare skin before, & you shall shell see the effect thereof imediately to answer your expectation: Also when you touch the Party, you shall say these words, Attrica, Monjoy, Zoijco, (being the last three words written in the Circle) & likewise you shall say these following words before & after you petition for the ayd & assistance of the then regulation Angells of that day, (as aforesaid) & alsoe before & after you touch the party therewith Sicia, Donemus, Culteantea, Rephiantea. This being rightly observed & duly performed you may Obteyne the Love & Favour of all Persons (of what Sex soever) Provided things be not misunderstood, & put to a wrong use, contrary to the true meaning & purport hereof, &c.

[77v] [Blank page, save for bleed-through from 77r & blots.]

[78r-79v] [Four talisman outlines on each page, with no text or design.]

²¹⁴ Just . . . why? Planetary “days and hours” have nothing to do with the motion or positions of the planets and are a device for avoiding the hard work & hassle of technical astrological calculations (aspects, dignities, &c.), so if you’re going all out with the latter, the former can be ignored.

Another Book of Talismans

The following figures appear on six leaves (fol. 80, 84-88) that were bound in, somewhat haphazardly, after the end of the notebook in Ashmole's hand. As already mentioned three additional leaves containing unrelated material were in turn bound inside the above after fol. 80. The material on fol. 81 & 83 has already been described and copied; fol. 82 is an insert slip with a single small design on it, as follows:

The names ORO IBAH AOZPI and BATAIVA are drawn from the Eastern Angle of Dee's "Tablet of Earth" or "Tables of Enoch." The character in the centre, I cannot identify, although it is possibly formed from the letters of those names.

The other leaves bear a total of 37 circular talismanic designs with accompanying text (the general arrangement is nine to a page, three by three, although not all pages are filled), as well as two that were apparently started & cancelled, one empty circle with accompanying text, and some 49 empty circles.

General standard of execution on these is significantly worse than those on fol. 72-75, details are crammed into a much smaller area, writing is frequently borderline-illegible, and several elements of the pictures were seemingly miscopied, marked as being erroneous with 'corrected' forms outside the circles.

[80r]

| | | |
|--|--|--|
| This made in box causeth the favour of all that dwell within the sight of ones house | This made in parthment when the [moon] goeth to the merdian is to obtain the Love of strangers | This made in horne like a Lanthornes horne procureth the love of strangers & that the servants shall not hurt you. |
| This made in a plate of grey earth is for favour &c. | This made in parchment & worn on the breast causeth favour. | This made in Alabaster is for favour of lawers & scriveners |
| This made in harts Leather is for peace & quietness of words | This Sign seen once in a day all hindrances & impeditiions shall avoid &c. | This made in parchment with black and red is against all impediements. |

[80v]

| | | |
|---|--|--|
| He that Beareth this sign about him shall obtain Love of Lord and Lady. | This made of an Ashen Roote
the [moon] being nere the full,
is against the hatred of any woman. | |
| | | |
| | | |

[84r]

| | | |
|---|---|--|
| This made in Silver delivereth from all troubles | This made in yellow wax is to escape all plagues | This made in Silver is against Temptations to worke any evill for money. |
| This made in red wax with a pen [...] yew is against carefulness & [...]rrow. | This made is a Wolfes skin raw with bloack lead is against thought & pensiveness. | This made in lead is against thought & confudness of mind. |
| This made in Red Brass: [...] shall not be bind not in any worke you goe about. | This made in green Cloath with yellow maketh all things glad to please thee. | |

[84v blank]

[85r]

| | | |
|--|---|--|
| This made in palme tree or parchment is against death & witchcraft | This made in Brass is to have dominion over all ayeriall things | This engraven in gold & <illegible> is to see spirits in the Ayr. |
| This made the moon in Leo is to have dominion over Ayeriall Spirits. | This made in yellow wax make spirits in the Earth being called to obey. | This written in a Bullocks skin & worne on the brest being Consecrated is to see Spirits in water. |

[The bottom quarter or so of fol. 85 is apparently torn or cut: the top part of three double-circle outlines can be seen above the cut-off, but there is no indication that anything was drawn inside them.]

[85v]

[This page contains only nine empty circles.]

[86r]

| | | |
|--|--|---|
| | | |
| This made in virgin patchment serveth against danger of theives. | Bear this for inchantment made in green Oke. | This made in white lead is against haunting of Spirits which will fly away. |

| | | |
|------------------------------|---|--|
| [cancelled design.] | This made in parchtment with green Ink prevaileth against Spirits & beasts. | This made in black wax no infirmity nor haunting of Spirits shall hurt thee. |
|------------------------------|---|--|

[86v]

[This page contains only nine empty circles and three words, “Note that <illegible>” in the top left corner.]

[87r]

| | | |
|---|---|--|
| This made in Cypress is against drowning and to escape water & floods. | This made in fair white wood preserveth from drowning & druncknesse | This made of a fish bone is against all Imediments of water. |
| This made with black Inck with red Leather of Calves skin is in [...] journeys & from falling | This made in parchment is for going wrong in journeys | This made in Virgin parchment is to be worne in journeying. |
| Bear this made in a piece of Ash for weariness of journey. | This written in Virgin Parchment & worne upon thee maketh no Creature shall stop thee in thy journey. | This made in Brass is for the safeguard of thy person, family & goods. |

[87v]

[This page contains only nine empty double circles (and some bleed-through from the heavier line-work on the recto).]

[88r]

[This page contains only nine empty double circles with a faint outline grid (suggesting the leaf was bound in upside down as each circle is at the bottom of its grid space rather than having the space to write the purpose for the design below it, as in the filled-out pages.)]

[88v blank]

[REDRAW THE DAMN THINGS SOME TIME.]

[Some Experiments of Spirits.]

This collection of spirit-summoning “experiments,” with a focus on treasure-hunting, occupies fol. 89–120 (save for fol. 109, already transcribed, which was a loose leaf in a different hand bearing unrelated material that was haphazardly bound up in it). This material derives from a variety of English magical MS. traditions, some of which are represented in the Folger “Book of Magic.”²¹⁵

The main items are as follows:

- 89r–102v: “Experiment to call out Spirits that are Keepers of Treasure Trove”: three different conjurations to be used depending on the nature and order of spirits being addressed, along with extensive rubric and theoretical discussions of various orders of spirits.
- 103r–104v: Treasure-hunting conjuration addressed to spirits called Barbasan and Baramper.
- 104v–106r (fol. 105 is an insert in the same hand): instructions regarding magic “circles” (which term the writer uses to encompass protective lineal figures drawn on the ground whether they are actually circular, or triangular, square, pentagonal &c.).
- 106r–107r: “Experiment” summoning a spirit called Brett.
- 107r–107v: “Experiment” summoning a spirit called Birto, adapted from an earlier process which can be found in the Folger “Book of Magic,” p. 164.
- 108r–110r: “Experiment” summoning a spirit called Bealphares, similar but not identical to one printed by Scot in the Discoverie of Witchcraft.
- 110r–113v: Two “Experiments” summoning spirit called Vassago and Agares, with some passages of rubric and figures shared between the processes.
- 113v–114v: Process “to Obtain whatsoever is Desired,” being a slight variant of one appearing in Sloane MS. 1727.
- 114v–115r: “Experiment” summoning a spirit called Bleth.
- 115v–116r: Brief notes on various spirits, including Seere, Dantalion and Andromalius.
- 116v–117r: Names of spirits, with simple characters for some of them, and designs for magic circles or circular talismans connected with a set of seven planetary “kings.”
- 117r–120v: Account of three chief infernal spirits, Lucifer, Beelzebub and Sathan, and the four Demon Kings of the Quarters, Oriens, Paimon, Egin and Amaimon, various subordinates of the Kings, and a set of conjurations directed at the subordinates: this derives from the Liber officiorum / De officiis spirituum tradition and has strong parallels with material in the Folger “Book of Magic” pp. 73 sqq.

The “experiments” of Birto, Vassago, Agares and Bealphares were copied by Ebenezer Sibley in the 18th century from this, or a MS. of similar content, and in turn copied by Frederick Hockley in the 19th century: copies are extant in Wellcome MSS. 2842 (missing most of the figures) and 3203 as well as other MSS. in private and institutional collections.

It is noteworthy that this collection contains descriptions and characters for the four spirits of the Ars Goëtia that do not appear in the main source for the Goëtia’s spirit catalogue, the English translation of the Pseudomonarchia Daemonum that was printed in Scot’s Discoverie of Witchcraft.

²¹⁵ Observed, for example by Teresa Burns, in “An Introduction to the Book of Magic with Instructions for Invoking Spirits” (2014).

[89r]

*An Experiment to call out Spirits, that are Keepers of Treasure Trove,Either by any Artificiall Inchantment magically, or otherwise of Divine Justice, those spirits folloinwg have power to Command them away, & cast them out; and to doe whatsoever the magick philosopher shall Command them:Names of the Spirits.Sulpher, Caleos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzan), Everges, Mureril, Vasago, Dantelion, Barbasan, Sathan.²¹⁶

The first Thing the Magicall Philosopher is to observe herein, is to be well informed, or well to informe him selfe by all the best ways & means he can, whether any Treasures are hidden in such or such a place or no, and by whome, and for what Reason it should be hid and absconded from posterity, and whether it be kept by any Spiri commanded and Continued thereon, by any Magicall inchantment, or otherwise by Divine iustice, & whether by any Ayeriall Terrestiall spirit: for this is a maxim in Phylosophy, That there is a great antipathy between us & Evill spirits, & the Celestiall Angells who are our governours, Protectors, & guardians, & are Continually Employed about us, according to there orders & ministryes appointed them,²¹⁷ of God, Although the Evill Spirits striveth & Endeavoreth to imitate the Good Angells, in all things Every way to Counterfit them, whereby many are Deceived, whose wickedness & malice suits with the natures of Evill spirits,²¹⁸ of which the Good Angells being grieved forsakes them, & leaves them to there own erronious Will: many times for the wickedness of some person or family, the Good Angells Curses such a person, faily or House, then the Evill spirits have power given them, to Execute the justice [[&]] Decrees of the moust high God, whome such Family or person hath so haniously offended, then Doth the Ayreial spirit haunt, infest & trouble, Such houses or places, & molest the inhabitants, terrifying and affrightening them, both & other [89v] People adjacent thereto, with horrible & unusuall noyse, and many fearfull & hideous apparitions, neither shall such house or inhabitant be att Quiet, nor shall any of the Generation of any such family prosper, until providence be appeased, the Curse Expiated, and the Angry Angell or Ayeriall Spirit Discharged, or the inchantment taken of from the Treasure, if any be there hid, & the spirit keeping it be Discharged therefrom, & Cast out & Sent away to his place of Residence, otherwise appointed & Decreed for him & thus Doth God punish in his justice, the hanious sins of great offenders, even to the third & fourth generation.

²¹⁶ Several of these are cited in the treasure-hunting process in Longobardus. There are minor variations in the orthography of the names throughout the procedure; where the MS. is legible, these are allowed to stand.

²¹⁷ 'then' cancelled; 'them' written sup. lin. in a different hand.

²¹⁸ 'of Evill Spirits' written again and cancelled.

Next you are to Consider, whether the place be haunted, or the Treasures therein Kept (if any be hidden) either by Ayeriall or terrestiall spirits, or whether ~~[[by]]~~ any Inchantment or magickall Spell, or any powerfull Charmes; or whether otherwise Distributed by permission of Divine justice, for many hanious unpardoned Crimes of some one person: all which out to be Diligently Considered & rightly understood. The Knowledge whereof is elsewhere before Expl~~[[ained]]~~ &c.: If there be Treasures there hidden, and kept by an Aijeriall spirit or spirits, then those spirits here before named are to be called upon, & made use of herein; the praxis whereof is thus:

The House or place haunted, must be Cleared of people, and thereby made private, and the house or place made void of Any Company, Except Such as are Concerned in the busin~~[[ess]]~~ [90r] which Brotherhood or Society so concerned, in the management of these Affaires, As the Recovery of treasure Trove, that cannot be otherways Recovered butt by this art, must be very tacit, silent, and private in the carrying on²¹⁹ of these Designs, neither Squabbling or Disagreeing amongst themselves, butt wholly to rest of Rely one the prudence And genuine capacity, or the Philosophick master in this Art; by whose constancy in his perseverances, assisted by the support, Lenity, taciturnity, and fidelity of a civill benevolent And Loving fraternity, his Authority is much strengthened²²⁰ in his Invocations; whereby all spirits both Aijeriall & terrestiall (yea & Infernall also) are brought to subjections, & willingly serve the master, obediently doing all his will & Command; And by this meanes Are matters brought to a propitious Period, and Expectations, on all hands answered with a prosperous & Successful yssue.

The place which is thus haunted, being prepared and set apart for Action, the master Suerly knowing that there is treasure there hidden, and that it is there Kept, & also the House Haunted by Aijeriall Spirits; at a Convenient time or times, when all thing Are Silent and still, goe to the place, & as you Enter the place, going meekly & Deliberately therein, Say as followeth:—

Emanuel and in the name of God Amen.

O Lord arise, helpe, strengthen, dignyfie, be present with us, and assist us in these our Present undertakings, Illuminate us with the Light of thy Countenance, and Deliver us from all Evill, for thy most holy & Glorious names Sake, for we have heard, And we absolutely believe, of what our fourfathers that Declares [90v] unto us, the noble works thou Didst in there Days, & in the old time before them, We are thy people O Lord & the sheep of thy pasture, Therefore graciously here us, And Grant us our Requests, and let thy mercy be Showed upon us As we Do putt our turst In thee: Lord, we believe, help our unbeleeif. Then, Lett the master & his fellow or fellows Enter the Circle, and Invoke as followeth: O all you Spirits who have power given you to Execute the Commands of the ²¹⁹ "Carrying" (?) cancelled; "carrying on" written sup. lin. in another hand.

²²⁰ Written sup. lin. in a different hand above another, cancelled word.

Highest, both as to his justice and mercy; O all you spirits [[of]] great power, in the Keeping of Hidden treasures, and Also of Detecting, Discovering & Yealding up of the Same to the sons of men, for those use it was principally & Primarily Decreed and Ordained, I doe Exorcize and call upon all you spirits, joyntly And Severally by name, Sulphur, Caleos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzan), Everges, Mureril, Vasago, Dantellion, Barbasan, Sathan, In the most high, mighty, great, glorious, efficacious and effible name of the Creator of heaven & Ea[[rth]] And all whatsoever is therein contained both spirituall, Animall, Vegetable & min[[eral]] And by these his secret, powerfull and commanding names, Iah, Elohim, Agla, El, On, Tetragramma[[ton]], And in name of Jesus Christ our Saviour, the onely Son of God The Father Almighty, the Sec[[ond]] Person in Sacred Trinity Messias, Soter, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, Via, Vita, Homo[[ousios]], Primogenitus, Agnus Dei, Athanatos, Paracletus, Alpha & Omega, and by all the power that the Great God of Heaven, & his Son Jesus Christ, the true Messiah hath given both to Angells And Men, by all aforesaid I doe againe Exorcise, call upon, command you and Constrain you Spirits, Sulphur, Caleos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzan), Everges, Mureril, Vasago, Dantelion, Barbasan, Sathan, And all others, having power [91r] that you cast out all Evill spirits, that resideth in, and by Divine possession, haunteth, troubleth & molesteth this place, and all or any other spirit or spirits whatsoever, that keepeth any treasures that is hid or buried In this place, or hereabout adjacent, and Detaineth the Same from the use of the Sons of men, Servants of the highest, & Especially one, who is the first and greatest, who is called [[Camret]],²²¹ Duke of Strength, with all others whatsoever they be, that have power and permission to keep the treasures that are hid or Buryed In this place or hereabouts neer adjacent, that neither them nor any others, from this time forth hence forward, shall keep any treasures that is hidden or buried In this place, or wheresoever Els it be hereabouts adjacted, but that Such spirit or spirits, of what nature order or Hierarchy Soever they are of either Aijeriall, Terrestiall or Infernall, or whatsoever otherwise or howsoever it shall be Kept, Detained or Secured from the use of man, by any spirit or spirits whatsoever As is aforesaid, let them be Cast out, Dismissed and Discharged therefrom, and command and Enforce Such Spirit or Spirits as aforesaid, Keepers of any Treasures that are hidden, buried, or by any ways or meanes Concealed and Detained from man, to whom the proper use, right and behoof, absolutely, and by the Originall & primary Decress of our God, from the beginning of Days, undeniably belongeth and apertaineth; and also Enforce and constraine Such spirit or Spirits as aforesaid, Readily, peaceably & gently to Demit & leave Such Treasures, as are here or hereabouts adjacent, hidden, or Buryed as aforesaid, ²²¹ Name near-illegible in the scans due to contrast issues; what is visible is consistent with it being Camret, who is cited in a very similar context in a treasure-hunting process in Longobardus.

bare & nakedly Visible to us, so that we may bear the same away for our necessary uses; or Otherwise I Exorcize, earnestly urge, require & command you Spirits, Sulphur, Caleos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzan), Everges, Mareril, Vasago, Dantelion, Barbasan, Sathan, By and in the name of the Father, & of the Son, and of the holy spirit, that some one or more of you as occasion shall require, do appear Visibly unto us, either Barbaros, Gorsan, Everges, Mareril, Vasago, or any other, to Detect and Discover whatsoever Treasures lyeth hid, buried or otherwise concealed in this house or place, or anywhere Els hereunto adjacent unto us and rightly to inform & instruct us, how to come by & recover the same away for the Releife of our nessesity as, or otherwise, again I Exorcize, Earnestly urge, Requier & command you Spirits, Sulphur, Caleos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzon), Everges, Mareril, Vasago, Dantellion, Barbasan, Sathan, to constraine command and Enforce Some one or more of these Spirits Scor (or Scarus), Roab, Zaym, Umbra, Gijel, to come and bring or cause to be brought to us, hither to this place, Such Treasures whatsoever they be, what Lyeth hid, buried or any otherwise concealed and kept from us, in this place, or any where Els hereabout, adjacted, or that you constraine and Inforce, Some one or more of the Said spirits, to appear Visibly before us peaceably, meekely, and in fair & Decent forme, and no ways terrible or Violent, that we may requier & command them to serve us herein, and to do for us, as for the Servants of the most High and Everlasting God. Finally & lastly, I doe againe Exorcize, call upon, command and most urgently & Earnestly requier you Spirits Sulphur, Caleos, Anaboth, Sonenel, Barbaros, Gorsan (or Gorzon), Everges, Mareril, Vasago, Dantellion, Barbasan, Sathan, in the name of the sacred & Cœlestiall trinity, and by the Birth, passion, Resurrection & assention of our Lord Jesus Christ, That you cast outt, discharge and Dismiss the Spirit or Spirits [91v] whatsoever, they be, either Aijeriall, Terrestriall, or infernall, that haunteth, incloseth & troubleth this house or place, or that hath the Keeping of any Treasures that are hidden buried, or by any ways or means whatsoever concealed from the Knowledge & use of man, in this House or place, or any where else neer Adjacent hereabouts, I urgently Request you to enforce and constrain them to Depart therefrom, and leave the same Visibly and openly naked to us, so that we take & bear the same away for our necessary uses, Or I earnestly requier & command you, to send some one or more of these spirits, Barbaros, Gorsan, [[Everges]], [[Mareril]],²²² or Vasago, to appear Visibly unto us, and to resolve, informe and instruct us [[how]] to come by & obtaine the same, And I doe by these presents and the Efficacy and power thereof, And in the name of the Supreme head and Prince of your Hierarchy or Hierarcy, Exorcize, call upon, Requier, and powerfully command, either some one of or all you Spirits, Barbaros, Gorsan, Everges, ²²² These two names nigh-unreadable in the images I'm working from, so I simply repeated the reduced list from the last time it was cited.

Mareril, or [[Vasago]], to appear Visibly before us, and assist us by all the best ways and means you may or can, to cast o[[ut]] Such spirit or Spirits, that haunteth, infesteth, troubleth & Disquieteth this house or place, or that hath the Keeping of any Treasures, that are here or hereabouts neer adjuyoning, hidden, Buryed, or by any ways or means whatsoever concealed and Detained from us, that the same may be openly Detected & Discovered to us Visibly, So that we may peaceably and quietly, without any Noy[[se,]] illusions, fraud, delayes or any disturbances, intermissions or interruptions whatsoever, bear [[the]] Same awayand enjoy itt to our benefit, according as it is from the beginning ordained for us, And [[I]] once more earnestly urge and Require you spirits, that otherwise you enforce and Constrain the Spirits Scor (or Scarus), Roab, Zaym, Umbra, Gijel, or some one of them to come to this place And bring heither unto us & deliver up unto us, all such Treasures as are here or hereabouts wh[[ere]]sover neer adjoining, that are hidden Buyried or any ways concealed, And Do by these pre[[sents]] And the Efficacious power thereof, potently Exorcize, charge, constraine and command you spirits, Scor (or Scarus), Roab, Zaym, Umbra, Gijel, or some other one of you, to appear Visible before [[us]] in a Decent & comely shape, and noe ways terribly or turbulently, to Dismay or Delude us, Come ye in all meekness & humility, and in peace and Serenity, yealding obedience to my Commands and requests, and the fulfilling and performeing the same, wherefore prepare you, make hast & come away, and bring along with you all sure Treasures as are hid, buried or any howsoever conealed here in this house, Ground or place, or any where Els neer hereunto adjacent, as is aforesaid, And now I Exorcize all ye Spirits aforesaid, In the name of the Everl[[asting]] And Heavenly God The father, the Son, & the Holy Gost, & in the names and by the p[[ower]] of your Hierarchieyes, and by the imperiall authority of the princes and the Heads ther[[eof]], And by their Seals & Characters [92r] firmly binding & commanding and I doe Earnestly, urgently and powerfully request and Command you all, joyntly and severally by these presents, that you observe, fulfil & performe all my Desires herein Contained, and to doe for me in all your Respective offices, as for the Servants of the Highest, without any turbulence, noise, hinderance, fraud, prolixity, or delay.

finis.

Now, although this Experiment should peradventure prove to be long in the effecting, and bringing thereof to pass, and to be a peice of tedious & tiersom practice, almost to the Disheartning and Even casting into Despair the Master & his friends, yet²²³ butt never be Discouraged nor Disheartned thereat, butt proceed on therein, & persevere, with faith, patience and constancy, and Doubt not butt the End will be propitious, and Crowne your Expectations with a happy and prosperous yssue: for these spirits are by nature obstinate and pervers, and in such an Experiment and very slow and Remiss in there

²²³ "yet" written sup. lin. in a different hand above "butt."

appearance, and Do unwillingly obey & Submitt to the Invocations & Commands of any Magician, until they are urged & constrained thereto, by the frequent motion, constant action, & the Continuall Care, Diligence and prudent magnagment²²⁴ of ⟨of⟩ the master in these Affaires, which are not usuall, common, nor Easie, butt to be overcome absolutely by faith, Constancy, patience, prudence and preseverance, always Remmembring that there is an antipathetick Continaull Combate, between the Cœlestiall Angells and the Evill Spirits, wherein the Cœlestiall Angells Vanquish by patience:²²⁵

If no access or freedom can be had to the place Haunted, or where the Treasure is suppose to be, to act and Invoke there, then recourse must be had to the Experiment following, and particular spirits called upon, to bring such Treasures to such a place, where you are or shall appoint, & proceed that way. We must understand, that there are terrestriall spirits of spirits Conversant upon Earth, of severall & Different Natures, Some are Evill & offensive to man, and doe wander up & downe in this inferiour world, enraged against all, whome St. Peter compares to roaring Loyons, & ⟨and⟩ vulgarly Called Divells, the principall whereof was an Angell, & being turned apostate, persuaded many of the Angells to Decline with him, were therefore Driven & cast forth of Heaven, from the order of Good Angells for there pride, with the Divellish Serpent Ophis, who was the Head of that Rebellious Army, who to this day are therefore called his Angells, and from the Beginning of the world, the Dispensation of things is ordained by this meanes, that the Executings of God's Justice (amongst the rest) upon such matters or persons, as with whom & wherewith he is Displeased, is committed to there Charge, And these do Confess there fall, and being cast forth into this vail of misery, doe wander up & Downe upon the Earth, Keeping Treasures as aforesaid, haunting & molesting such houses & places, and vexing any that shall seek the Recovery thereof, till they are brought ot a Kind of familiarity and obedience, to Demit & give up the Same. And also otherwise to vex & terrifye Earthly things, invading miners, causing the [92v] gapings of the Earth, Striking together the Foundations of mountains, terrifying & vexing, not only [[men]] but also other Creatures, And some againe, by Severall Kinds of various and Severall ways of De[[lu]]sions onely, do contrive rather to weary men then to hurt them, some heightening themselves to the length of a Giants body, and againe shrinking themselves up to the smallness of a pigmy And so Changing themselves into Divers forms, do disturb and astonish men with vaine [[fear]]²²⁶ Some wandering up & Downe in the Obscure Aÿre, Some about the Seas, Rivers, Lakes, Pools & other waters, and moyst Boggy and such like kind of places, some others study lyes and Blasphemyes, as ²²⁴ 'management'?

²²⁵ I have inserted a paragraph break here fot the sake of clarity.

²²⁶ Word lost in gutter, beginning with 'f'.

we Read of one Saying, I will go forth and by a Lying Spirit in the mouth of all the prophets of ahab. Some others who are pernicious Spirits, Do lay wait and overthrow Travellers in their Journeys, and rejoice in wars and the Effusion of Blood, and afflict men with Cruell Stripes of which wee Read in many places of the old & new testaments, where many comparisons are made of them, and Severall names attributed to them, St. Mathew Saith, for fear of whom no man durst pass that way, the prophet Isaiah compares them to Satyrs, Scrich Owles, Syrens, Storkes, &c: The psalmist Compares them to Aspes, Bazilisks, Lyons, Dragons, The Gospel to Scorpions, Mammon, the (the) prince of this world, the Rulers of Darkness, and in some places the prince of wickedness, who is sometimes called Beelzebub, sometimes Serapis, sometimes Pluto, being the Greek anem thereof, under whom amongst them, Cerberus is said to be chief and is called the three headed Dog, because he is conversant in the three Elements of Air, Earth, & water. And those sorts of spirits are said to be Evill and pernicious by nature.²²⁷

There are another Sort of terrestiall spirits, whose residence is upon the superficies of the Earth, who also have power to keep hidden treasures; but then it is thus: Many times Distract[i]on And Disturbances happen to be in a nation, and also in a family, and that the Good honest Inhabitants live in great fear of Losing that Substance, they have Carefully got together by there great Labors or otherwise, and so to save & secure it in time of need, do usually hide or bury it in some convenient obscure place, where some or other of these spirits hath Residence, or a delight to be frequently in, & peradventure those people may not [93r] have any friend or Relations about them, that they dare with safty repose any trust or confidence in, & so they may dye without making any Discovery, where they have hid or Buryed their Subsance, the which when these kind of spirits, who by their orders Resideth or frequently Delighteth in Such a place, finding such a thing, as treasures, to be hidden, or buried there, without any owner left, immediatly seize thereon, and keep the same &c. These spirits are by nature both good & bad, butt Generally they are not so noxious, offensive, hurtfull or vexatious, but more nere to man, and are affected with humane passions, Delighting much in mans Society, and do willingly Dwell with him, and will serve him well & faithfully in all thigns, wherein they are entrusted, and oftentimes doe meet poor honest mean men, women & Children, and are willing to be very Curteous to them, to serve them, doting on such kind of honest and harmless people, butt att such unusall Sights and accidents, for want of prudence and confidence, ignorantly stand amazed and are astonished, frightening themselves, being possest with a vaine fear, so then the spirit vanisheth and leaves them, which peradventure otherwise might reveal some thing to them, that might do them and their posterity good. Some others there be that delight in the company of divers

²²⁷ Adapted from OOP book III ch. 18, "Of the order of evil spirits, and of their fall, and divers natures" (pp. 399-400).

domestick and wild animals, some reside, Dwell in and about much Delight to be about woods, Parkes & such kind of place, some about Champion fields, some about fountains, some about Rivers, Some about Bogs, Marshes & ponds, some about mountains, some about meadows, some about trees, brakes & bushes, some about flowers, some about fruits, some about Barnes, Stables, Cow-houses, dovecoats, sheepfolds, and places where Implements for Husbandry is Layd up, some in Dwelling-houses, some in one place & some in an other.²²⁸ All which is upon the Superfeices of the Earth, and places apt and convenient enough, to hide or bury mony, or any other Riches or treasury in, Safe Enough one would think from any ones finding out, though not att all kept by any Spirits whatsoever; For all hidden treasures are not kept by A spirit, or Spirits (Especially whilst the owners thereof are alive) though generally they are otherwise so Kept, for the reason before alleadged, & those spirits Doe [93v] never keep such noyses, nor make such hideous disturbances, nor terrifie amaze & affright people, with their Ghastly and strainge Apparitions & dreadfull uproars; butt are abundantly more mild, and the noyses they make are not att all dreadfull nor Astonishing, as that of the Aijeriall and the other terrestiall spirits forementioned, butt more Softly mutly & Silently, sometimes by knocking att or against some Dore, or Wall or tablem or partition, sometimes by the Calttering of pewter, Brasse, Iron or Chair & Stools, or working tooles together, & then soon cease & Depart, it may be they may appear to some, whome they have a good living to, willing to Disclose some what to them, but through a vaine fear Ignorantly, that benefit is Lost; At which the spirit being somewhat moved to a kind of passion, seldom or never profeers the like againe, & so many keep the Treasures hidden in such A place, time out of mind, because it is not either Regarded, or not Rightly and Artifically sought after; some of these spirits there are, that doe Inhabitt, Dwell in & Delight in Mines, & also under those mountains, and other such Like places, where there is gold & silver &c: and in places where Treasures & other things are hidden & that Lye nerer to the bowels of the Earth; And those Kind of spirits are said to be possessed with all temporall things And the Riches & treasures of the Earth, and are much Delighted therewith, And carefully keep the same, and doe not willingly neither part nor depart the same therefrom. Those who work & dig in mines & search in the Bowells of the Earth, for such of natures Benignities as It affordeth, have great Knowledge of those spirits; Sometimes they are very Curteous & Benevolent, & will go to the masters of mines of such works, & will desire to worke for the amongst the rest of there Laborers, and for the same wages, and are oftentimes by them accordingly Employed & sett on worke, and prove very faithfull And Laborious there, in doing as much worke as two men, butt they will [94r] neither talk nor associate themselves with any, butt when there work is done, and their wages payd them, according to the Coustome of the Master and the Laborers, ²²⁸ Adapted from a passage in OOP, book III ch. 32 (p. 450).

away they goe, & are seen no more, till they Come to work againe: & they are not to be taken notice of, nor talked to, or in the Least affronted by any workman, & these spirits being Knowne by very many miners, both masters & others, they do much observe them, and give orders to all such other workmen, that either have no Knowledge of them, and otherwise through Ignorance apt to displease them, to doe so to at their Perills. At other times they will forewarn the Laboring Miners, of any Dangers of Perillous accidents, that may be neere and ready to befall them, as when they are heard once, twice, thrice, or oftener, to knock or strike in the same place, which foretelleth the Death of them that Dig & Labor there, if they hast not the sooner away from thence, for either they Are buried by the fall of a mountaine, or perish by the Suffocation of an Earth, Damp, or some other dangerous Accident. And at some times they are as Vexation and Troublesome to the Laborious diggers, molesting & persecuting them with pinches, Blowes and stripes, and other torments, to such which in any otherwise abuse them [...]²²⁹: ffor the nature of these kind of Terrestiall Spirits, is Really to effect & Love all those that Love them, and that Keep there words of promise, & that are just & honest in their Dealings and actions, and they hate all such as hate & abuse them, Stiling & proclaiming and believing them to be, what in truth by nature they are not, as infernall Divells &c: these spirits never shew themselves to any they are affected, & in Love with, In any shape butt what is humane, and altogether indisernable from us Mortals, But to such as they have any Antipathy to, they appear either in severall forms, which often tymes Doth much astonish, amuse, and affright them, yet nothing so hideous or terrible As the Aijeriall, and the other degree of Terrestiall spirits forespoken of, &c:²³⁰ [94v] Or els they seldom or never appear to them at all &c: they are knowing in all arts that Are, or Can be found out, in all the Light of nature, and containe the Knowledge of All things, and understandeth what appertaineth to the Earth, or the Studyes of man In the Liberall Sciences, and in all other their Curious Arts, mysteres & Vocations, and have the keeping and command of many mines Royall, & of great Store of treasures, hidden & buried in the Earth, and are many times beneficial to men as aforesaid, they Know the thoughts & inclinations of men in a great m[...] whereby It comes to pass, that we may possibly move them to come to us with far more ease and serenity, then any of the Aijerialls, forespoken.

He who would call upon, and speak (with) with any²³¹ spirit or spirits of this order, concerning treasures Trove, or any other mineral Treasures Enclosed in the Bowells of the Earth, or the Keepers thereof (if any be) may Do It at such place or places where they are Conversant & most frequent in, for it is most proper & significant So to Do, & a particular private place therefore be selected of made Choice of, where whose spirits are either Seen or Known to haunt or be frequent in, or where Treasures are supposed to be hidden, or as neer it as possible may be, and att a convenient time, in the Evening when the world is serene, Go thereto & solemnly Invoke &c:

²²⁹ Word lost in gutter. Rankine reads "all."

²³⁰ The preceding section appears to include borrowings from the pseudo-Paracelsan Archidoxes Magica, specifically the account of Gnomes or Pygmies.

²³¹ "Aijeriall" written in MS. here but heavily crossed out.

At the Entering the Circle, Say this: Inomine Dei Altissimi Creatoris omnium Rerum in Cœolo, & Terra,²³² Glory be to God on high, on Earth Peace, Good will, toward men.]

Then Invoke as followeth. You Spiritt or Spirits, by whatsoever name you are Called, that haunteth inhabiteth this place, and frequenteth this house, Ground [95r] or place, or that hath the keeping of Treasures hidden, Buryed or otherwise concealed from, and denied the Discovery and use of by the Sons of men, I do in the name of Father & of the Son & of the holy Ghost, Exorcise, command, Constraine and most Earnestly Urge and requier you, to appear visible unto me, and my Brethren, in fair & Decent forme, to shew forth unto us, what we shall Desire of you,—& I doe by these presents, and in the Great And most powerfull names of the Immense and Almighty Creator of heaven & Earth, And all that is therein Contained, both spirituall, animall, Vegetable and mineral, Even the Incomprehensible & Ever living God, Sabaoth, Adonaii, Dominus, Deus, Eternus, Otheos, Iskyors, Athanatos, Paracletos, Elohim, Agla, El, On, Tetragrammaton, and by & in the names of his Onely Beggotten Son Jesus Christ, the high King & Lord of all the world, who shall come to Judge both you & us, att the dissolution of this Earthly Fabrick, Jesus Christus, Messias, Sother, Emanuel, Alpha, & Omega, and by his Birth, Passion, most Glorious Resurrection, & Ascention, And by the Coming of his holy Ghost, the most Sacred Comforter, I Doe hereby powerfully and Earnestly command, urge, and constrain you, & in the name of your Prince, & by his Seal & Characters binding most Solidly, & by the Head of your Hierarchy and the power thereof, I most urgently Require you, to appear visibly and formally unto me, before this Circle to informe us Concerning the Treasures that are hidden, Buryed, or by what way or means soever it is otherwise kept, & Concealed from us, I doe therefore call upon, command, constrained and requier you Spiritt or spirits, of whatsoever order you are of, or by whatsoever names you are Called or known by, though not Known to us, that hath the keeping of the Treasures hidd, or Buryed in this house, Ground or Place, or neer adjacent thereabouts, to appear visibly to us, and to detect & Disclose the said hidden Treasures to us, and Either [95v] to Direct and instruct us, how to recover & take the same way, for the Supply of our Necessitys, or otherwise, that you avoid and depart from the said Treasures, that are here or hereabout adjacent, hidden, buryed or otherwise concealed, and that ye demit the same & Quietly, peaceably, meekly, gently and benevolently, in all friendship and love, to Quit [the] same, and to Lay it openly bare & naked to us, visibly to the Sight of our owne Eyes, and Surrender & Deliver up the said Treasures unto us, and that ye permit and suffer us to bear the same away, & to enjoy It and convert It to our necessary uses, without hinderance or delay, and I doe, Exorcize, bind and adjure you spirit or spirits, that have the keeping of the treasures, that are hidden or Buryed in this house, Ground or place, & All other spirits whatsoever, & of whatsoever nature or order they are of, wheither Aijer[iall,] Terrestiall, or Infernall; that shall be here or where the²³³ said Treasures are, who by their Visible or invisible Craft or Subtilties, shall in anywise Oppose or strive to hinder, or thwart, us from obtaining & bearing away the said Treasure. I doe in the name of the onely Almighty and heavenly God, the Great Iehovah, & in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, Command, bind and Constraine you all spirits whatsoever As aforesaid, that shall in any wise by your Craft or Subteltyes, seek to Let or hinder [us] from the Obtaining and bearing away of the said Treasures, that is here or heerab[outs] hidden or buried, Quietly peaceably & Gently to avoid and depart from the place, where the said treasures are hidden or buried, and that ye tarry not, neither cont[inue] or Remaine one hour longer there or thereabouts, but I command binde and Constraine you spirits as aforesaid of &c.: that shall be here or hereabouts, to Lett or hinder us, from Obtaining & bearing away of the said hidden treasures, we are seeking for, In the name of him, who saith butt the word and It is done, that ye hast away [96r] from thence, and forthwith repair in peace to your order or place of Residence, preordained, decreed and appointed for you, and now I doe by these presents, and in the name of allmight God the Father the Son & the holy Ghost, discharge you from tarring any Longer here or hereabouts, I do Command, Charge, bind and Constrain you spiritt or spirits, that shall be here or hereabouts, or where the treasures are hidden, to Lett or hinder us from obtaining & bearing away the same, for our Requisite uses, as aforesaid, to depart & hasten away to your orders or place of Residence, preordained & decreed for you, & I potently adjure, and command you to hast away, & Imediately begone, to your orers as afore said, and tarry not one hour Longer [...] peace be with you Amen.

²³² Lat. “In the name of the most high God, creator of all things in heaven & earth” (reading In nomine for Inomine and altissimi for altissimi).

And now I doe once againe, in the name of the Eternall & our Everliving God, Exorcize, Call upon, and adjure you spirit or spirits, that haunteth & frequeneth this Ground, or house, or place, and that hath the keeping of the treasures, that are hidd, buried or otherwise Concealed here or hereabout adjacent, to appear Visibly, & in fair & decent forme to us, to Instruct, direct and verily to informe us how to detect, discover, and to obtain the treasures that are hidden or Buryed In this place, or in any other place Elsewhere hereabout, or that yepeaceably & quietly Demit & Depart from the same, and leave it openly, bare and naked, visibly [to] the sight of our owne Eyes, and deliver the ²³³ "saide & where the" written here but crossed out.

same to us into our possession, freely, so that we may bear the same away, and firmly without fraud or let or hindrance, or any other [[cr]]afy or Deceitfull act, deed or thing, to be done, that we for Ever Injoy the same, and Convert it to our necessary uses, And further Know spirit or spirits aforesaid, that frequenteth and is conversant in this house, Ground, or place, and that hath the keeping of Treasures that are hidden or Buryed herein or hereabouts, Know ye I say and understand, that [[though]] I call not upon you, neither with or by name, Knowledge or any Signature, more or otherwise then by the name of spirit or spirits, as being att present altogether unknown to us, that I call upon you with the Toungue, Heart & spirit of faith and Confidence, [[for]] we doe verily & sincerely beleeve of you, and that you are, & that our [96v] forefathers have reported and declared to us, of you, & in all things concerning you, And of all these noble Services you have done for them, and of your worthy freindship And familiarity with them, & we also absolutely believe you to be as courteous, freindly & Benevolent to whom you please, and have love to, and that Simphathize in faith Love and Freindship with you, as you are justly displeased and adversely obstinate to such, who[[se]] Willfull, pervers and blind Ignorance, doth not only misbelieve, and are wholly incredible of you, butt also much abuse you, in their most Grosse & scurrilous Language, frequent Discourses, & most abominable mistakes; all which willfull ob[[...]] scurrility, abuseiveness And incredulity, we doe here in the presents of heaven, And Earth, and of all the Good Angells and spirits, utterly detest and abhor, and doe Absolutely protest against It as most ridiculous, impertinent & hereticall &c: Therefore we verily, absolutely & clearly believe of you, & desire freindship with you, and the help Councill & instructions, and all such personall and visible Assistances, as we shall Rationally Requier of you, according to your orders and offices appointed you of Alm[[ighty]] God, be pleased redily to assist us in all such of our Terrestiall Affairs, & more Espe[[cially]] Concerning all hidden treasures, and mines of Gold or Silver &c: that wee shall at any time aske or seeke for, according to your Customes and usuall formalitys, or as shall best please and besee me your Goodness & benevolence herein, any manner of wise and in all freindship and humanity, to accommodate, instruct, assist and serve us [[in]]

And now having thus far declared, and in all fidelity and honest integrity, without f[[ear]] (as I humbly conceive) unbowelled and unmasked ourselves, in our more Reasonable beleifes & confidences, both of you & in our affairs, & of your favourable Resolves and freindly Assistance therein, & in the name, and by the power of the prince [97r] and head of your Hierarchy, and primarily by his, their, and your seals and Characters binding, Most Solidly, Adjure, command and most Earnestly and confidently urge, request and inportune you againe, to move, & visibly shew your Selfe or Selves unto us, and to declare truly unto us, and instruct us, how we shall discover and Recover the treasures that are hidden or Buryed in this house or place, or wheresoever else it is hereabouts &c: or otherwise to bring it to this place to use, and here leave it openly bare & nakedly visible to us, & Deliver the same Really without fraud, deceit or any Crafty or Subtill devices, tricks or other Delusions, whereby we may be as soon deprived againe thereof, to us so freely And freindly, that we may certainly bear it away for our proper uses & behoofs, And herein we Earnestly & urgently entreat you, to doe for us, as for the Servants of the highest.

Let the master continue Invoking and calling upon these spirits, Every night, from Eleven of the Clock or somewhat past, until toward two; observing to give over at the break of day, especially to follow it very Close all the Encrease of the Moon, and not at all to despair in the tediousness or prolixity thereof; And when any appearance or sign of any appearance shall present itself, either to the master, or his Associate or Associates that are with him, and It should be moveable, and seem to fleet and shift it selfe to & fro, let the master continue his invocation until it seem to be more staid, & stand before you, && by some proffer, or other kind of signature, sheweth an offer of Love & freindship, and a kind of willingness [[to]] satisfie your desires and then shall you bind him with the Bond of spirits,²³⁴ if you see cause, butt if any offer seem with a voluntary Sccess to be pereceived &c: then it may be needless: Then aske him his name, and bid him show his seal or Character, to which he oweth obedience, & ask him to whom he belongeth, the which when he hath declared, then propose your Requests, having them fairly written with you; when all is Done [97v] according to your disire, then Licence him to Depart &c. or &c. — We need not instance further to enlighten the understanding, or for any further, better or more Instructions to any Philosopher in this Art, touching this Subject, for if his more rationall and Intelligible faently (?) be not genuine Enough, to comprehend and improve, what is here hinted, all the instruction of men & Angels availe little, for it is a hard matter to make A silken purse of a swine's Ear, only thus far in a word we shall, give to understand, that by how much the Greater the noyses are heard, and visions seen about the house or place, so much the Greater the Treasures may be judged to be, & nearer the Superfices of the Earth.

There are also another sort of terrestrial spirits of the nature of these next forespoken of, that dwell one the Superfices of the Earth & in the Caves & Cavernes thereof, who Likewise haunteth houses and other places, & have the keeping of Treasures that are hidden or Buryed therein, who are somewhat more humane & courteous by nature then the former, and are more feminine And delight in the Company of women & Children, and more Especially of Such who are wholly inclined to housewifery, as maidservants &c: but they poor souls being by fear and ignorance also, many times affrighted &

²³⁴ "Bond of spirits" is another reasonable translation of Vinculum spirituum. This notebook did not include the text of the Vinculum; possibly it was something the compiler assumed any magician worthy of the name would know about & have access to.

astonished, at the Least unusuall sight nor noyse, of any of them, doe thereby Loose many Beniffts yet notwithstanding to such as they bear Love & Kindness too, they are very benevo[[lent]] and friendly &c: and are againe as obnoxious and offensive to them as they hate. And they are a vespertine, nocturnall wandering spirits, who many times vis[[it]] to some, even from Sun Setting to its Rising the next morn:—

Those Kind of spirits are more frequently visible then any others, and are the Least of the Herarchie, and where they Haunt or do keep any hidden Treasures, they make no great matter of Noyse or Disturbance, their Noyse seemeth much as the treadings [[or]] [98r] tramlins of many people, & sometimes as if there were a preparation to some great Feast, as if there were two or three Cooks at worke in the Kitching, and the jack going, the [[...]]al Rouling to & fro in the oven, and all such kind of Noyses, as if many folks were att worke, which are not so hideous or terrible as other spirits do make.

These spirits may be also called upon as the other, in such places where either they haunt or are most frequent in, and the place which is appointed or set apart for action, must be Suffumigated with good Aromatick Odorurs, and a Cleane Cloath spread on the Ground or a table nine foot distant from the Circle, upon which there must be Either a Chicken or any Kind of small joint, or peice of meat handsomely Rosted, and a white manthet, a Basin or like Dish like a Coffe Dish of fair Running water, hafe a point of Sack in a bottle, a bottle of Ale Containing a Quart, some have added a pint of Cream in [[a]] dish which Ceremonies they are much pleased & delighted with; and doth allure them to friendly familiarity willingly & Readyly fulfilling your desires &c: without much difficulty, and some have used noe Circle att all, to the Calling of these spirits, but only being Cleane washed and apparreld, sit att another table or place only covered, with [[a]] Cleane linen Cloath, nine foot distant & so invoke.²³⁵

These Kind of Terrestiall spirits are Vulgarly Called of all people generally [[Fairies]] or Elphs, and the natures and Qualitys of them are well known to many. Of these Spirits there ae two who are set over the Hierarchy, as the Supream head thereof, whose names are Mykob and Oberion,²³⁶ under whom again are Seven Sisters, placed as the next ²³⁵ This recalls the process in the Fourth Book of pseudo-Agrippa for invocation of terrestrial spirits, although the “table ritual,” as Dan Harms terms it (see, e.g., “Hell and Fairy” in Knowing Demons, Knowing Spirits), has antecedents long predating that, for example in French fairy traditions (see also K.M. Briggs, “Some Seventeenth-Century Books of Magic” in Folk-Lore vol. LXIV no. 4 (1953)). The pseudo-Agrippa process does not mandate the use of a circle, but suggests it if the operator fears some bad (nequam) spirit, although the effectiveness of the circle is rendered questionable by the instruction to have part of the table inside it and part outside. Making the circle optional reflects a different attitude towards these particular spirits compared to the “evil,” “infernal,” “fallen” or just dubious ones addressed in the previous two processes.

Other versions appear in the Faustian magical manual, Magia Naturalis et Imnaturalis (see Butler, Ritual Magic, pp. 169–171), and in various 18th-century printed French grimoires such as the Grimorium Verum and Grimoire of Honorius, as “Pour faire venir trois demoiselles ou trois messieurs dans sa chamber après souper.”

²³⁶ Queen Mykob (or Micob) and king Oberion (or Oberyon) are cited in V.b. 26 (ca. 1580), the latter so frequently that when the “Book of Magic” was typeset and published, the editors titled it The Book of Oberon. Oberion is also mentioned some 50 years prior to that as being a spirit called on by treasure hunters operating in principall, whose names are Lilia, Restilia, Foca, Folla, Africa, Julia, Venulla,²³⁷ under whom again are many Legions as Subjects and Subservient &c: who (as aforesaid) wander to & fro upon the Earth, and have the keeping also of many Treasures that are hidden or Buryed, especially such as are hidden in those places, that they frequent, inhabit or delight in, and that are innocently hidden by good honest people; [98v] either for Security, or future preservation, who many times dye, & leave the same unrevealed, then are such treasures seized on and kept by these terrestiall Elphs; if ever they happen to come where it is &c. then the magicall Philosopher understanding, that any treasures are kept by the terrestriall spirits of this order, And would obtaine the same, and would have converse with them, let him observe the foregoing directions, and att the appointed time repair to the place assigned for action, and invoke as followeth:

I Exorcise, adjure, call upon, urge and earnestly Requier you terrestrial spirits, that are the Supream head of the Hierarchy, of those th[at] Are called Fairies, and who are called by the names of Mycob and Oberyon, In the name of the Almighty, Everliving and heavenly God Iehova, and of his onely Begotten & welbeloved Son Jesus Christ our Lord, Messias, Sother, Emanuel, the high King & Lord of all the world, I doe hereby call upon and importunately Desire you Spirits Micob and Oberyon, to command the Seven Sisters, Lilia, Restilia, Foca, Folla, Africa, Julia, Venulla, or some one of them, to appear visibly to us, or in your freindly Benevolence, to send some one or other spirit or spirits, of your Hyerarchy or orders, to accommodate instruct and assist us, in such of our Requests wherein they may: the which I confidently & Earntestly importune of you as you are our friends, & we are your friends, and all of us servants to the Highest in whose name I now Call upon you and humbly urge, and most Earnestly Desire you, to send one of the Seven Sisters next Subservient under you [to] Appear visibly to us, & to assist us in the obtaining and recovering of the Treasures, that are hidden or Buryed in this House or place, or Elsewhere adjacent hereabouts, or to send some one Subject

Norfolk during the reign of Henry VIII, and on p. 80 of the Folger MS. it is said he sheweth where hidden treasure is, and how to obtain the same: this likely would explain his appeal to the compiler of the present work, who drew on many of the same MS. traditions as the compiler of the Folger "Book of Magic." Micob also appears (as Micol regina pigmeorum) in Sloane MS. 1727; citations of Oberion do not universally list him as king of fairies, or as a fairy at all (in one of the processes in V.b. 26 he is explicitly addressed as fallen, his name plugged into a modified version of the Vinculum Spirituum which calls on the demon kings of the quarters to constrain him). See Harms, "Hell and Fairy" and sources there cited.

²³⁷ The seven sisters are also cited (with variations in the orthography of their names) in V.b. 26 (pp. 67 & 81), in the late 16th-century magical MS. Folger X.d. 234 (for which see Frederika Bain, "The Binding of the Fairies: Four Spells" in Preternature vol. 1 no. 2 (2012)), as well as in other 17th-century English MS. works, including but not limited to the Janua Magica Reserata (S5 fol. 40r), Sloane MS. 1727 (see K.M. Briggs, The Anatomy of Puck, Appendix IV) and Bodleian e Mus 173 (see Harms, Angels, Demons and Spirits). One of their appearances in the Folger Book of Magic comes at the end of a De officiis spirituum demon-catalogue, where it is said they [DO WHAT?]

Their origin appears to be as a group of disease-demons; a very similar set of names is cited in mediaeval fever-charms, one of which is extant in an 11th-century MS. ([CITE]).

Subservient of your Hyerarchy, to Assist and help us herein, and also in all such matters [99r] and things as we shall Desire their Instructions and accommodations in.

Wherein they may Continue this invocation for seven nights from the Hour of Eleaven till two, and invoke nine times an hour butt withal observing that if Any Apparition or Vision should appear, in forme and manner, willing to Commune with you in the Interim, you may then cease, and desire to know the name & seal of such spirit, and when you have taken a note thereof you may proceed to your Demands, which you ought to have fairly written downe, because then they are in A Greater Readiness, and Chargeth not the memory to recollect Itselfe, for being so Stumbled & hobbled in the conceptions, you may Chance to loose that opportunity and peradventure your Design too, but If nothing happens in the interim, then after the first Seaven nights, always beginning the next night after the Change of the moon, you shall invoke or call upon the seven sisters as followeth:

Sator Arepo Tenet Opera Rotas.

Kyrië Eleyson. Christië Eleyson. Kyrië Eleyson. Adonay Cui Pater Cui Filius Cui Spiritus Sanctus Allelujah.

I Exorcise adjure command constraine & most Earnestly urge and request you Akerayes, the Sisters of those terrestiall spirits, who are Called Fairies or Elphs, by & in the name of the incomprehensible God of heaven & Earth, & all Creatures whatsoever are there In Contained and Comprehended, Iehovah, Elohim, Agla, El, Tetragrammaton, & in the name of Jesus Christ, begotten of a Virgin by the Holy Ghost, and born in the flesh att nazereth, the second person In trinity, And the Saviour of the World, [99v] Especially of all beleevers, & those who lay hold upon him by faith, Thereby Confidently and firmly laying hold one the promises, that whatsoever we Ask our Heavenly Father, or shall any ways act, or doe in his name, nothing shall be deneyed us, nor be impossible to us, in whose name & through whose meri[[ts,]] we as true beleevers doe Call upon, constraine and very Confidently urge and Earnestly Importune you, in the name also, and by the power of the Head and Supream of your orders, or Hierarchy, under whom you are the next In order, governing over many Legions of other your Subjects & Subservients, or some one of you Lillia, Restilia, Foca, Folla, Africa, Julia, Venulla to appear visibly to us, or to send some one other of your Subjected Subservients to help and Assist us in the obtaining of the treasures that are hidden or Buryed in this house or place, or Elsewhere adjacent hereabouts, And more Especially the spirit or spirits that hath the keeping thereof, Lett [[them]] be discharged & quitted therefrom, & so avoid the same, and forthwith to demitt, yeild up & Surrender the same, into our possession, so that we may bear [[the]] same away, and convert it to our necessary uses, without fraud or any other Crafts or Subtillty as that may in any wise deprive us thereof, I do once again

Exorcize, adjure and command thee Lilia & all thy Sisters & subjects, By the imperiall throne, and by the majesty & Deity of the Ever-living God, that some or other spirit of your orders, and more Especially such spirit or spirits, that have the keeping of the treasures that are Hidden or Buried In this house or place, or nere adjacent hereabout, [100r] doe appear visibly before us, to Resolve us freindly, and veryly in all such Matters & things, as we shall rationally disire, and demand of you, & Amongst the Rest in particular, as concerning our recovering and obtaining the treasures, that Lyeth hidden or Buried here or Elsewhere, & of the spirit or spirits that hath the keeping thereof, be discharged and quitted of It, & imediately in all peace & quietness avoid & depart therefrom, and demit & yeald up the same to us as aforesaid. And the Peace of God always Remaine Betweene you & us, in the name of the Father & of the Son and of the holy Ghost, And do for us herein as for the servants of the highest.

Let the first of these two invocations be observed to be practiced, the first Seven nights of the moons Encrease, beginning the next night after the Change, as is before taught, and then the Eight night, beginneth the Latter, & invoke nine times an hour, in the night season, from Eleven of the Clock till two, for that they being most frequently then visible, and stirring about, therefore most convenient, and opportune, to Call upon them: for God hath so Decreed that they shall not be so visible and frequent in the Day as in the night, Except they are privately Called upon in the Day, because they shall not be frightfull nor offensive, to harmeess & inocent people, for he hat bounded all things, and they Cannot pass their Limits without permission.

[100v] *This Circle and the Pentacle serveth to all the whole foregoing Experiment.*²³⁸

²³⁸ These designs bear a strong similarity to the figures of the Pentagram and Hexagram of Solomon from the Ars Goëtia, although that was almost certainly not the source; similar figures appear, for example, in V.b. 26, p. 212. The symbols to either side of the bottom point of the hexagram originate as a highly stylised / corrupted Hebrew yod and hé.

[101r] By these Distinction, a mean Capacity may Easely judge, by what Spirit or spirits, any hidden or Buryed Treasures are Kept, be they of what Order soever, or the Cause, why any house or place is haunted troubled or infested, which being truly Knowne, is by patience and perseverance, and a prudent management of such Affaires, according to this Art, And wherein It is to be Required, to be overcome and vanquished, and the house or place freed from such haunting, molestations & troubles, of all spirits, Sylphs or Fayries, or any other spirits of what order or nature soever, whether Aijeriall, Terrestiall or Infernall, But if the Philosophicall Proficient in this art, and offer his fraternity in any matters of this or the Like nature, have neither patience nor prudence, and the master Philosopher, undertaking the management, of what is Requisite to be performed in this art as aforesaid, hath no judgement to distinguish Between one thing & another in whatsoever he goeth about, they may goe shooe the Goose.

There are many Castles, old monasteries, and Abbys and houses, & many other both such like, and alos other places &c. that are haunted & infested with these kind of spirits forementioned, and Reasons thereof are more then one &c: butt It is, and always hath been observed, & by praticall Experience found, that generally it is for no other Cause or Reason, then that treasures are hidden thereabouts, sometimes It may prove otherwise, as that some horrid murther hath been committed there, or that [101v] or that some hanious Extraordinary Crimes have been acted, and frequ[[ently]] practiced, by some infernall inclined Caitiff, not caring what wrong &c., he did in his life time, who hath Lived there, & dyed unrepentant, obstinately persisting to the End, Dying as uncharitably and unworthily, as before he lived inhumaenly & wretchedly: or otherwise some person owning & Living therein, hath been by such kind of Hel Hound, persecuted. [[...]] & Couzined, & forseeing that his Estate must be wasted, & torne from him and his posterity, & that all must come to Ruin & Destruction, Layeth these things to hearth, falleth Sick & Dyeth in the midst of his Disturbances, & Discontents unreconciled in himself, & so Departeth this world in a distracted condition, leaving nothing behind him amongst his posterity, butt Distraction and Distruction.

The Cryes whereof Penetrateth the Heavens, & passing the Ears of Divine providence Both in all such, and the like hanious and unpardoned Crimes, the Almighty Being so provoaked and offended, permiteth the Executioners of his Justis, to take Vengance thereon, and punish the place for the Cause Sake: All which matters, Also, others of the like nature, is many times much suspected by some, & known by others, both neighbours & other Relations, who fancy many times, having an Occation to be thereabouts late in the night, about some necessary action or other, that they hear some kind of strange, dreadfull or unusually Noyse or other: or that they [[see]] some more then usuall Apparition, either in some strange frightfull shape, or that it was In the very Similitude, or in the very habbit of sauch a one, when he was Living, which if true as it may be, is a sign & warning to all people, that [102r] God taketh notice & vengeance of our Wickedness, butt these things very seldom or rarely happen; Treasure-Tove is various & different in its Recovery or Discovery, which we thus manifest from the Tradition of the Ancients, setting aside what we have seen & known by Experience, both herein And as is aforesaid. We must understand, that the two last kinds of Terrestiall spirits, next forespoken of, being more humane & Courteous to man, then the Ayerialls & infernals, by reason of their Sympathy & proximity with him, can & do worke, & amongst the rest of their Arts they use, doe Coyn the Gold and silver they take out of mines, Into that Country Coyn where they find It, and willingly Dwell & frequent in, which is not in all places where minerals are (for they love not all places, though there mines be never so Rich and Royall &c.) neither where they are, doe they talke away or work up all, butt onely a small proportion thereof, so, that still getting a little from Every place, as it growth & Cometh to maturity, always add to their Store. Some other delight to wander & goe abroad, & worke amongst miners, who also bring home their wages, Some delight in other trades, and some to be in Gentillmens Services, still Like the Carefull Bee Bringing all home, and multiplying there treasury, for they are never Idle nor Expensive, nor will accompany with no one or other person living, in [[your]] Common way of Eating & Drinking, though they love them never so well, yet they will worke and doe any Laborious thing for, and amongst men, butt will not accompany att the time when they Eat or Drink: those kind of treasures, are not Easily butt with difficulty to be obtained; Such as hath been made by man & used amongst men, are with less difficulty obtained. And if at any time a magicall Philosoper should discover such Treasures, as is of their one manufactturism, & proceed to Obtaine & get the same, and though they seem to yeild up and demit the same to him, yet they will by such Crafts & Subtlytyes, as they are well Knowing [102v] in, Convert it into the likeness or Similitude of a Clear Contrary, and base & most vile and contemptible matter, as Earth, Clay, dug, shards soyl, or some s[[uch]] kind of despitable and Regardless matter, or Els to remove it; and then is the Philosopher att a loss: But if any such thing as a transmutation sould be perceived or known, to be either visibly, or otherwise artificially, or by discerning something of a Contrary Specie or Nature of the place, where it Lyeth; yet Lett it be taken up, and let the fire judge of it, and proceed therein after the same manor, as all metals and min[[erals]] Are Refined and separated, by such means it will return to the same Essence it had before: Butt in Such Treasures as they, as hath been the manufacturism of and used amongst men, they seldom or never doe so by Treasures as are not kept by any Spirit, or that and of the terrestialls should be wandered from, and that Lyeth in some obscure unfrequented place, some person may on a sudden set or work th[[...]] And so by meer Accident may discover & carry way the same, without the Least Know[[ledge]] of any thing in this Art, Or otherwise these spirits foreknowing, that such a person will [[be]] At such a place, att such a time, and though they should have the keeping of the seme yet Having a great Love & freindship to such a one, or the like, do quit the same & leave it for him against he Cometh there to work, by reason of which Suddaine intended [[...]] & intermision, the matter comes to be thus accidentally discovered and gotten, w[[hich]] otherwise might Lye there many tears even time out of mind, or Removed [[to]] Another place so never to be discovered &c. Also such Treasures as are Kept by the Ay[[eriall]] spirits or Terrestiall first before spoken of, as the Executioners of Gods Justis Thereupon, and not so Easie to be found and obtained, as such that are hidden Innocently, Either for future preserva[[tion]] or from fear or danger of a losse, and afterwards happens to be kept, by the moret taimed sort of Terrestiall spirits, as Sylphs, Fayries &c: or the like.

[103r]

Choice Experiment How to obtaine Treasure Trove &c.

Having a Chamber pretty free or private, from the passage of many people, in a place Indifferent: Ayery, being kept Clean, and Suffumigated with good Odours; write upon an Abortive or on fair Clean Paper, with the Blood of a black Cock as followeth:

Sathan, Baramper, Barbasan, come with Speed to this place, and bring to me the Treasure, &c. [here set down either the particular thing you invoke for, and the place from whence you would have It brought, or Els a sum certain from Such a place or places, where treasures Lyeth hidden, and so kept from the use of man, for whose Releif it was Originally decreed and preordained, by the Goodness of thmost High and omnipotent Creator of Heaven & Eart, & all that is in them Contained, as the sum of 300 &c.]

Then have a Circle in readiness (made as is hereafter taught) and lay It down one the Chamber floor, and have a little pallad bed at the one End of the Chamber, that hath a full or good sight to the door, and in a pretty fair Starlight Evening, first fix the paper, or Abortive Parchment, whereon is written your Request, with the blood of the black Cock, & then Enter and so Concequently the Circle, And say the following Conjuraton 9 times:

I Exorcize, Conjure and Constrain thee spirit Barbasan, the spirit of Treasures, by the power and in the name of the Father, and of the Son, & of the Holy Ghost, and by the majesty and Potency of the Omipotent & Everliving God, Iehovah, who made Heaven & Earth , the Sea & Created all that in them is, and by these his great & Efficacious names, Agla, El, On, Tetragrammaton, Adonay, Iskyros, Athanatos, Paracletus, Immortalis, Alpha & Omega, and in the Sacred names of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Second person in the Trinity, & in the Godhead and the Saviour of the world, who hath given full power & Authority to all that beleave, & Lay hold one him by faith in his name, to adjure & command all spirits of all orders whatsoever, whether Ayeriall, Terrestiall or Infernal, to serve and obey [103v] them, whatsoever they shall Comand them to doe, in there Severall & Respective offices, wherein they are ordained, and set, by almighty God, and therein to fullf[[ill]] the Desires & Requests of us, as we are Children & servants to the Highest, & by those Inestimable & unparalleled Miracles, by our Saviour & onely mediator, & advocate, Jesus Christ, the High King & Soveraine Lord of all the world, shewed & done upon Earth, and by him left to his Apostles and Disciples, and by him to all posterity, that beleave by the vertue, power, efficacy and remembrance whereof, I Exorcize, Conjure and powerfully Command the spirit Barbasan, And more Especially and particularly, by these Great & Sacred names of one god in three persons Almo, Glyas, Messias, Agios, Jesus Christus, who is was & is to come, & by [[the]] High Great & powerfull name Egia which wise Solomon heard in Gabaon, & obtain[[ed]] that Inestimable treasure of wisdom and Riches, By all that is before Said, & the great Efficacious and inestimable power, and vertue thereof, I hereby Command & Constrain three Barbasan, the which if your master shall Command you to doe Any thing that you may doe, that you bring to me this night [here nominate your desire According as it is written on the Schedule, placed over or upon your Chamber Door, as Aforesaid] And I further Charge and command thee, that in the performance thereof As thou art bound according to thy orders & offices to doe; that thou neither [[hurt]] nor affright me, nor any other person whatsoever, butt Quietly and in humi[[lity]] Come, appear & shew in a Comely & Decent forme and shape, & no ways terrible to me, your selfe personally present before me, and Bring along with you Either the treasure from Such or Such a place, if you are certain eith[[er]] by good Information or otherwise, that such a thing is their, mentioning whether It be Gold, Silver, plate, Jewels, or any matter whatsoever, that was Ordained for the use of man, or Els to nominate the Sum of 300 pound in Coyn²³⁹ And peaceably Leave It here with me, so that I may Injoy the same for [104r] necessary and worldly use, Benefit & Releif. All which I adjure & Command²⁴⁰ thee to doe & performe, in all things, particularly and fully, according as I have writen, & hereby specified, Requested and commanded of you, forewith immediately without any fraud, let, hinderance or tarrying, in the name of the Great Imence Jehovah, the Almighty & Everliving God, & of (of) his son Jesus Christ the Great Messiah, & Ever to be glorified second person in the holy trinity, in the Godhead, our onely Saviour, advocate and mediator, who shall Come to judge the Quick & the Dead, and the wolrd by fire, In whose name therefore prepare ye & make hast.

Say this Conjuratioun nine times Manfully, and with Good faith and Courage & then say as followeth, and be not dismayed, for nothing can hurt you, then proceed, viz.:

I earnestly request you & Conjure you Baramper, that you send your Servant Barbasan to me this night, with the Treasure in Such a place, or the Sum of £300²⁴¹ in current Coyn &c. [here also you must mention your desires as is before Expressed] in nomine Patris & filii & spiritus sanctus.

Then betake yourself to your Bed, and about midnight you may perceive the Spirit Barbasan will appear in the Chamber, probably in humane Shape or form, as in the similitude of a man, or mankind, and will bring with him that which was invocated for,—now if you have a mind to speak to him, before you Licence him to Depart, you may say unto him thus—who are you—he will answer againe & say, I am the spirit

²³⁹ This clause, from “Such or Such a place” to here, is probably meant as directions, i.e. an instruction to substitute specific words to the effect indicated, rather than to be read out as is as part of the conjuration.

²⁴⁰ “and adjure” written in again, but heavily crossed out.

²⁴¹ “300” written in MS. with something vaguely resembling a pound sign above. Obviously £300 was worth a lot more in the 1660s than it is now.

Barbasan, or to the like purpose, bringing to you the treasure, or such a sune of mony accordingly as you have so Earnestly Requested. Then shall you answer again and say unto him as followeth, I thank you²⁴² master Baramper and you likewise, and I give you leave, & adjure you to depart in peace to your orders, the place of your Residence originally decreed, & by almighty God appointed for you, And I command you In the name of the Father, & of the Son, & of the Holy Ghost, that you neither injur nor hurt me, nor any one upon the face of the Earth [104v] whatsoever: wherefore depart in peace, and let peace be and continue between you & me, in the name of Jesus Christ the high King & Lord of all the world, and I Request and adjure you to be ready²⁴³ to come againe to me upon the Like occation, whensoever & wheresoever I shall call upon [[you]] & so you may depart, & the peace of God, remaine between us, In nomine Partis & filii & spiritus Sanctus.

Then will he depart, and leave with you that which was Required of him, then at your Leisure you may arise from Bed, and Returne thanks to God for the benefits received.

[The following text, while in the same hand as the above, appears written more neatly and was probably added by the same scribe at a later time.]

Circles, Triangles, Quadrangles, Pentagonals, Hexagonals, Septagon[[als]], Octagonals, &c: be they, of what form Soever they are all 8 Circles in Art, And are all butt one & the same In matter & signification; for they are a Fortress or Defence to the Invocante, aga[[inst]] malevolent assault of faulse appearances Or Evill Iluding spirits, who are many times att hand, to do some Ill office or [[else]] to put by the Invocant of his purpose which he may perceive if he be Lear[ned] Or any ways Skillfull in this Art; for he, Being Environed one Every side, with some one or other of the Gread and Sacred Names of God Is thereby defended from any personall assault or prejudice; because all spirits, of what Order under the Cœlestiall Angells & Intelligences &c: do Obey them, fear them, & Even tremble [106r] At them, so that the Invocant having time & Courage to Speak to them, may be Earnest, Interrogating them, to know, whether the apparition be the same he called for, or any other Illusive shew; the which his prudence must Direct him. As for the making of these Circles, for any purpose or Experiment in this Art, Doe thus, Take four Large Calve Skin parchments, and past or fasten them or fixed together, first cutting the insides even where they meet together in the Inward parts, to be pasted or otherwise fastened together, and then att what time, & in what place soever, one is mindful to Invoke, it is butt taking up the Circle, roll it up and carry it where occation & place requires, & so Lay It Down without any trouble, having a loop at Each corner to fasten to the Ground.

²⁴² Qy. "your."

²⁴³ "to be ready" written sup. lin. in same hand as the main text.

When the four Skins are fastened together and cut four square, then with a pensill & good Ink or other painting, or Coulouring matter, Draw the Lines and write the names that are to be written; As in the Example, Then take the Juyce of marigold, Vervain and Langue-de-beef, and wash the Names that are in the inside of the Circle therewith, And the names that are in the Outward Circle Wash with the Blood of the Black Cock, & then is all done & made fit for Practice & Action.

[Fol. 105 is apparently a loose sheet bound into this MS. book; it is not counted in the page numbering which appears in the top centre of most pages in this section, but the writing is in a similar hand. The recto bears what looks like an abandoned attempt to draw a Kabbalistic circle, a completed version of which appears on the verso. I have adjusted the arrangement of the names around the circles slightly so the corresponding names in the two outer rings line up; the inner two rings only have nine names each.

The name of the third Sephirah appearing as “Binah or Prina” in the second ring is an anomaly traceable to the 1651 English translation of Agrippa’s De occulta philosophia. In Book III, chap. 10, “Of divine emanations &c.” (p. 368) the name was misprinted Prina (the 1533, 1550, 1567, 1579 and 1600 Latin versions all gave bina there), although in the scale of the number 10 on p. 214 the correct Hebrew spelling and the familiar Romanized form are given. A similar useage appears in the Janua Magica Reserata.]

[105r]

[[...]] Jod Jehovah + JeHovah + — Elohim + El + Elohim +
 + Kether + Hochma + Bina or prina + ~~Hesef~~ + Hesed +²⁴⁴

37 of the spirit B[[...]]

lphares²⁴⁵

[105v]

²⁴⁴ These two lines of text are written as if around the upper left quarter of a circle. The first name of the first row is lost in the gutter. The name of the fourth Sephirah was apparently misspelt then heavily crossed out.

²⁴⁵ These two lines appear in the bottom right corner of fol. 105r, apparently cut off when the page was trimmed. The material relating to the spirit Bealphares begins at p. 37 by the original pagination of this section (fol. 108r).

[Main text on fol. 106r resumes.]

An experiment of Bret, A Carrier to fetch Goods from the Sea

When the moon is in the sign Pisces, and well Aspected, and if possible, one the munday, or the Thursday, repair to the place appointed for action, Lay downe the Circle in Order, the Copy whereof followeth, and the Characters, the Copy of which also followeth adjected the Copy of the Circle, fairly written in an Abortive, before the Circle one the outside, & to the East, Invoke as followeth:

I Exorcise & Conjure & Command thee spirit Brett, In the name of the father & of the son & of the Holy Ghost, that thou do appear visibly unto me in fair & humane forme & similitude of man, & I powerfully urge & Constraine thee, by & in the might Great & Glorious name of God Tetragrammaton Jehovah, that thou doe for me as for the servant of the Highest, in the fullfulling of all such matters & things whatsoever (according to your Orders) as I shall [106v] desire and Request of you, And I further and againe Exorcise & Conjure the spirit Brett, by and in the names who are powerfull & High of our omnipotent & Gracious Lord God, Adonay, Sabaoth, Agla, El, Saday, Elohim, Alpha & Omega, & by & in the name of our Lord & Savior Jesus Christ, Messias, Sother, Emanuel, of wonderfull po[[wer]] & Efficay, att the pronouncing whereof all things ought at there peril, to be submissive, humble & obedient, by the vertue whreof I bind Character & constr[[ain]] thee Spirit Brett, to appear Affably, meekly and visibly here before me, in a fair handsome & humane Shape, peaceably, & not frightfull nor hurtfull to me or any other person whatsoever; wherefore now prepare you, make hast & come away, in the name of him who shall come to judge the Quick and the Dead & the world by fire.

Rehearse this Exorcism Severall times, and when he is appeared, then bind him with the bond of spirits, and ask him what Questions you please, & he will Certainly answer you, & also if you Command him any Servis according to his Orders and office, he will assuredly answer you and obey you, & performe all things In Bringing what he is Enjoyned. And when your desires are fulfilled, then Licence him to depart, But detaine him not above an hour or [[two.]] As for Generall and Constraining Exorcisms, which are to be used upon occation in their proper places, and for the Bonds and Licenses of Departure of spirits, they are written Elsewhere hereafter, with Directions to use them.²⁴⁶

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

²⁴⁶ If they were ever copied into this MS. book, they became separated from the other material before it was bound up with the other items. See instead the material in Longobardus, supra.

[107r]

These are the Characters that ought to be placed before the Front on the outside of the Circle, which is where the name Brett, And the Character thereto adjoyning standeth; the which part must be placed towards the East point of the Compass, and about a foot distant without, place the above written Characters fairly Inscribed, Either In Virgine parchment or an Abortive.

An Experiment of the Spirit Birto, as hath been often proved at the Instant Request of Edward the fourth, King of England.²⁴⁷

In the second, fourth, sixth, tenth or twelfth days of the moons Encrease, goe to the place appointed for this & the like purpose, and in the Evening when the Ayre is serene, lay downe the Circles and Character in there Orders (as, is hereafter explained, in the Copyes thereof) then Invoke as followeth:

I Exorcise, Call upon & Conjure thee spirit which art called Birto, by the dignity of thy prince Ornothocos²⁴⁸ and Booth, and in the name of the Father & of the Son & of the Holy Ghost, and by the power of these potent, inestimable, divine & Commanding names, of the almighty & Everliving God Jehovah, El, Elohim, Sabaoth, Adonya, Tetragrammaton, Alpha & Omega, and in the name of Jesus of nazereth, born of a Virgin, the onely Begotten Son of, God The Father Almighty maker of heaven & Earth, our only Savior & Redeemer, advocate & mediator, whose name all the Cœlestiall Host of Angells honour & obey, and whereat all Knees on Earth doe bow, & all the Ayeriall terrestiall & infernall spirits do fear & tremble, by all Aforesaid, I do you againe powerfully Exorcize, Conjure and Command [107v] thee spirit which art called Birto, that thou doe immediately forthwith, and at the present, appear visibly before me, in that

²⁴⁷ An earlier, and shorter, version of this process appears in V.b. 26 p. 164, titled "An experiment approved by friar bacon to have a spiritt appeare in A circle to make annswere to any question to be demaunded." It concludes with the statement, "This experiment of Birto was proved at the instant request of Edward the 4th kinge of Englande, & therefore keepe it safely."

²⁴⁸ As written the 't' is ambiguous: I have preferred this reading as being more consistent with the unambiguous lettering around the circle for the spirit, which includes "Orno / Thou / Ches," apparently a variant of this name. V.b. 26 has Ornothochos.

Circle appoynet for thee, in fair & humane form & shape of a man and no ways terrible or hurtfall to me, or any other person whatsoever & I Constraine thee²⁴⁹ to tell me the truth and veril, of all such things as I shall Ask & Demand of thee without fraud guile & deceit &c: in his name, to whom be all honour, power, Glory & might, majesty & Dominion for Ever & Ever Amen.

Let the Conjuraton be often repeated, and said over, with ample Courage, Confidence & Resolution. And when he is appeared, receive him Curteously & Gently, bind him with the bond of spirits, & then he will freely & faithfully Declare, and make answer to whatsoever shall be Demanded, and will serve, obey, fullfill all Commands &c: Then License him to Depart in peace &c.

* * * * *

Let the Circle for the Invocant, which is that wherein the name Magister is written, be made as is before described, and let the Effigie or Character of the Dragon or Wivern be fairly drawn or painted upon an Abortive,²⁵⁰ And as for the Circle wherein the spirit²⁵¹ appeareth, it may be made two or three severall ways according to the place that is made Choice of to Act in and the Ground or floor: If the Ground be naight & Rugged, as in woods & Copjses, as they Generally are, then must the Ground be paved²⁵² & made very Even, so that an Impression may be made visible & plane thereon or let it be made on a large Calves Skin Parchment, but It is far better on the Ground. And if upon a pavement or floor, then Lett it be made or Drawn thereon with Chalk or marking stone, and place them three foot asunder, And herein take a serious & Deliberate Concideration, and let Reason & prudence be they principall Guide, without which principles, a magician is but a Shadow to a Substance, and shall as soon miss as hit of his Expectations.

²⁴⁹ "that" apparently written but heavily crossed out; "thee to" written sup. lin. in a different hand.

²⁵⁰ In the Folger MS., the dragon (its tail knotted and ending with a snake's head) appears as an outline illustration at the top of the page, possibly meant to represent the form of the spirit itself (the name "Birto" has been pencilled next to it in, the letters outlined in a black-letter style, but not inked in) and there is no instruction to draw the thing as part of the ritual.

²⁵¹ Blank space in MS., probably where the scribe intended to go back and write the name in red ink.

²⁵² From the context, simply means "flattened" rather than actually laying down stone slabs.

[108r] *Of the Spirit Bealphares.*²⁵³

T[[o]] invoke, call upon & have Converse with this spirit Bealphares, these Rules are to be observed. On thursday or Frideday in the Encrease of the moon, repair to the place appointed for Action, and write on a piece of Virgin parchment, as here after foloweth in the Copy and write also on a girdle or Thong of a Lyons, or a Harts, or Bucks Skin, as, also hereafter followeth, with Directions thereunto annexed, and before you Enter the Circle, to Invoke write † Agla one the right hand on the left hand these Characters †²⁵⁴ and when you Enter the Circle, make the Signe of the Cross thereon and Say, Per Crucis hoc Signum fugiat procul omne malignum: & per idem Signum Salvator quodque Benignum, then Invoke as followeth, being Couragious & not att all Dismayed, att first before Invocation, rehearsing the words written on the Brest plate, viz., Homo Saccarus Muselomeas Cherubosea.

I Exorcize Conjure and Command the spirit Bealphares by & in the great name of the Omnipotent and Everliving God, Jehovah Tetragrammaton, Agla, El, On, Jah, Adonay, Saday; and by his mighty, hold and unspeakable majesty & goodness, and by & in the great Powerfull (inestimable,) & inestimable names of his onely Begotten Son Jesus Christ our Lord, the Redeemer of the world, the second person in the Trinity, Sitting at the right hand of the Father, the maker of heaven & Earth, Messias, Sother, Emanuel, Alpha, & Omega, & by the truest & most Especially names of your master, I doe hereby powerfully Exorcize, Command & Constrain thee Spirit Belphares, to come & appear visibly here before this Circle, in fair & humane shape of man or woman Kind, & not terrible by any manner of ways, neither to us nor any other person whatsoever, this Circle being our tuition²⁵⁵ and defence, through the mercifull Goodness our Heavenly God & Loving father, I command you to make hast & come away, and shew thy self visibly apparently & peaceably to us here before this Circle, immediately, without tarrying or delay, & with all Humility & obedience, doing whatsoever I shall Request and desire of you, without any Illusion, Guile or deceits, whatsoever, butt faithfully truly & certainly to answer, fullfill & performe Such things as I shall require of you, All which I here powerfully conjure & Constrain you, in the name of him who Said & It was Done, Even the most Great & Incomprehensible God, the Creator of Heaven & Earth, who shall come to judge the Quick & the Dead, & the world by fire.

²⁵³ This has some parallels with the “Experiment of Bealphares” in Scot’s Discoverie of Witchcraft Book XV chap. 13–14, but the form of conjuration is completely different: it is unclear if the present version was modified from Scot’s printing or derived independently from a divergent MS. tradition. Scot’s text (said to have been copied from a MS. dated 1570) described the spirit as “the noblest carrier that ever did serve anie man upon the earth [...] if thou wilt command him to tell thee of hidden treasures that be in anie place, he will tell it thee: or if thou wilt command him to bring to thee gold or silver, he will bring it thee: or if thou wilt go from one countrie to another, he will beare thee without anie harme of bodie or soule” which would explain the appeal to the compiler of the present collection. The form of binding also implies that the spirit can advise the magician on “how to come to dignities and knowledge” of “the magike art” and the seven “liberal arts.”

²⁵⁴ Blank space in MS. after the cross; possibly the scribe intended to look up the actual characters later, or write them in red ink, but never actually did so. Scot gives the characters for the left hand thus:

²⁵⁵ An obsolete use of this word, meaning something like “safety” (from Lat. tutus –a –um).

[108v] This Spirit is somewhat obstinate & pernicious, by nature, and is therefore as usually more slow & prolix In his appearance, wherefore It is Requisite, that the Invocant should preserve herein, with Constancy fervency & patience, & [[not]] to Despair at all, though the Experiment may prove more tedious then is Ex[[pec]]ted, for at length he will appear, and his coming is very Sudden, and his motion Is, very swift, therefore Lett the Exorist Rehease the Invocation as oft as he may well do, according as his Reason & prudence shall direct him, as att Every halfe Quarter of the Hour whilst he is upon Action, & be very Diligent to Discover his appearance and motion, that he may Immediately Receive him & bind him with the bond of spirits, to stay & abide so long peacably and obediently with him, in such forme & shape, as he shall appoint or approve & until his demands and desires be fulfilled, which when done License him to Depart: he Resolveth many dubious Quæries, and is also a carrier as is said of Brett.

And withal observed both in this and all other Experiments of Ayeriall spirits, That as soon as a spirit is bound and is perceived to become obedient & familiar (as by degrees they will) that your Questions & demands be first Concluded & Resolved on and fairly written in paper or parchment, that you may have them ready, to propose as occasion shall Requier.

* * * * *

[110r]²⁵⁶ This that followeth is to be written on a Girdle, made in Leather or parchment, of the skin of a Lyon or of a heart, and put on by the Invocant before he Entereth the Circle, & so by him to be worne, so long as he is upon Action, Elie, Elion, Escherie, Deus, Eternus, Elos, Clemens, Deus Sanctus, Sabaoth, Deus Exorcituum, Adonay, Deus mirabilis, Iao, Verax, Anephexeton, Deus Ineffabilis, Saday, Dominator Dominus, On Fortissimus, Agla, On, Tetragrammaton, Alpha & Omega.

²⁵⁶ As already noted, fol. 109 is an insert containing material unrelated to the present process; its contents have been transcribed above, p. 82.

This Figure must be written in virgin parchment, and then fixed or fastened on a new piece of Linnen Cloth, & worne upon the Breat of the Invocant, during the whole time he is upon Action in the Circle.

This Circle²⁵⁷ the Invocant standeth in, when he Invocaeth or Calleth upon the spirit Belphares, and it may be made as afore taught in the Experiement of Baramper,²⁵⁸ & it would not be amiss, if the master Exorcist had a white Vestment or Surpliss on him, & white Shooe, and on or two with him in the Circle, only shod with white Shooes also.

* * * * *

An Experiment of the Spirit Vassago, who may be called upon, to appear In a Christall Stone, or Glass or otherwise without.

[110v] First, Let the magickall Practitioner provide a Lamin or plate of silver, and Engraven upon, according as is Represented hereafter, and a spatula made of Ash, peartree, or any other Solid wood, the thickness of a third part of an Inch, & the square top thereof to be three Inches square, and the stem, or handle to be nine Inches Long, & gilded all over with Goold, and the Characters written thereon, as is shewed forth in the Example following. So having all things in Readiness, repair to the Chamber or place appointed for practice, which ought to be Clean, & a Table placed therein, covered with a Clean Linning Cloth, & a taper on Each Side of the Christall Stone, or Glass, & being seated thereat, Invoke as followeth:

²⁵⁷ Barring some minor details this is the figure of the circle that appears in Scot, Discoverie of Witchcraft. Dñi is a conventional scribal abbreviation for Domini.

²⁵⁸ I.e., the "Choice Experiment how to obtain Treasure Trove," supra.

I Exorcize Call upon & Command the spirit Vassago, by & in the name of the Immence and Everliving God Jehovah, Adonaij, Elohim, Agla, El, On, Tetragrammaton, And by & in the name of our Lord & Savior Jesus Christ, the only Son of the Eternall and true God, Creator of Heaven [[and earth]] and all that in them is Messias, Sother, Emanuel, Primogenitus, Homousion, Bonus, Via, Vita, Veritas, Sapientias, Virtus, Lux, Mediator, Agnus, Rex, pastor, Prophetas, Sacerdos, Athanatos, Paracletus, Alpha & omega, by all these high, great, glorious, royall & Effible names of the omnipotent God, & of his only Son our Lord & Saviour Jesus Christ, the Second person in trinity I Exorcize, command and call upon and Conjure thee spirit Vassago, wheresoever thou art [East, West, North, or South, or being bound to any one under the Compas of the Heavens] that you come imediately, from the place of your present Residence, And appear to me Visibly, in fair & decent forme In that Christall Stone or Glass, Here, note that the invocant mentions a Stone or Glass, if he hath one, or Else he saith to me Visibly in fair Decent, and humane form before this Circle &c. I do againe Exorcize & powerfully command the spirit Vassago, to come & appear Vi[[sibly]] to me in this Christall Stone or Glass, [or otherwise as above] in a fair Solid And decent forme, I doe againe strongly bind & command the spirit Vassago to appear visibly to me [in that Christall &c mentioning as is above said] [111r] by the vertue & power of these names, by which I can bind all Rebellious obstinate & Refractory Spirits, Alla, Carital, marital, Carion, Urion, Spylon, Lorean, Stabea, Corian (or Coriam) mormos, Agion, Cados, Son, Catalon, Yron, Astron, Gardony, Caldabria, Beon, Tetragrammaton, Strally, Spyros, Sother, Iah, on, El, Elohim, by all afore said, I Charge & Command the spirit Vassago, to make hast & Come away and appear vvisibly to me (as aforesaid) without any further or long tarring or delay, in the name of him who shall come to judge the Quink & the Dead, and the world by fire Amen.

This Conjuraton often Repeated, and the Invocant being patient and Constant in his preserverance, and not disheartened or Dismayed, by Reason of any tedious Prolixityes or delays, he will at least appear, though It may be Long first & when he is appeared, bind him with the bond of spirits, & then you may talke with him pn²⁵⁹ that this is a true Exeriment, & that this spirit hath been obleidged to the fellowship & service of a magick Artis heretofore, is very Certaine, as may appear by this following obligation the which the Invocant may if he pleaseth, have fairely written in an Abortive, And Layd before him, & discourse with the spirit Concerning it.

* * * * *

²⁵⁹ Probably an abbreviation for proven.

A Bond or Obligation of the Spirit Vassago, made to one T.W.

I Vassago Under Baro The King of the West, not Compelled by Command or fear, butt on my one accord & free will, Especially oblidged my Selfe by these presents, firmly, faithfully & without Deceipt, to T.W. to obey at any time, & att any place whensoever, & wheresoever he shall call upon me, personally to appear, whether in a Stone, or in the middle without a stone, & to fullfill his Commands truly in all things, wherein I can, by the Vertue of all the names of God, & Especially by these words, the most powerfull in the Magicall Art, Lay, Alzyrn, mura, Syron, Walgava, Ryshin, Layagannum, Layurasin, Laysai: and by the Vertue wherewith the Sun and moon were darkened, and my planet, and by the Circles & Characters whereof, & primarily by his Seal, binding most Solidly, In witness of which guilty person he Comanding I have Signed this present obligation with mine one Seal to which I always Stuck Close.

[111v] That this is a true Experiment, is apparent; And that this spirit hath been by the great Diligence & Constant preseverance, of Learned & intelligible Magitians, brought to obedience And fellowship is manifestly true, by this here recited President, besides what my Selfe hath seen. And as for the Calling up this & the other following spirits, Either in the Christall Stone or Glass, shall be shewed att the End of the next Experiment, because they are both of one Nature.

The Seal of the spirit Vassago.

* * * * *

An Experiment of the Spirit Agares

The Experiment and Invocating of this spirit Agares, is practically the same as in the former Experiment of the spirit Vassago, who likewise may be called to appear, either in a Christall Stone, or Glass, or otherwise though them, and they Are both very slow in their appearances, as most Ayerall spirits are, butt when once they doe appear, then afterwards they will frequently come at the master Invoc[[ating.]] Having all things In Readyness, and Resolves upon his time, Lett him Enter his Chamber Or place appointed for Action, and Invoke as followeth:

Thou Spirit Agares the first Captaine under the King of the East, I Exorcize, Command & call upon thee, & Constraine thee by calling, in the name of the most Strong, powerfull, fearfull, and Blessed Iah, Adonay, Elohim, Saday, Saday, Eie, Eie, Eie, Asarie, Asarie, & in the name of Adonay, the Goed of Israel, who by his mediate word alone, Created the Heavens, the Earth, the Seas, & all things therein Contained, and made man according to the Similitude of himself, and these most Efficacious, powerfull &

Commanding, ineffable & secret Names, of the Allpowerfull and immense God, Jehovah, Agla, El, on, Tetragrammaton wherein All visions, & apparitions are wont to be, & by the holy name, which was written in the Brow of Aron the priest, of the most High & Everliving God, I powerfull Exorcize & Command thee spirit Agares, that wheresoever thou art, in any place or part of the Aijr or Earth, East, West, North, or South, or being bound to Any one, that immediately without tarrying or delay, you presently appear to me Visibly, in fair & humane forme, *Here you are to observe, that if [112r] you call him into a Stone or Glass then you are to say, in this Stone or Glass, if you have none, then you need not specifie, but say to me, or to me before this Circle &c. and so the like <illegible> other places of this Conjuraton observe the same, where you shall meet with the like occasion.*²⁶⁰

Moreover & againe I Exorceize potently & Command, and call upon the spirit, by him that was Is & shall be, Even & in the Blessed & great name of the holy & Heavenly messiah, or Lord & Savior Jesus Christ, born of a virgin, Lord of all the world, and Its only mediator & Advocate, to the Father of all mercyes, & God of all Consolation, att whose great, Glorious & Incomparable name, all Knees ought to bow, and humbly Doe Reverence, and at all the naming whereof all spirits whatsoever, both Aijerall Terrestiall & infernall, ought to obey with all due Reverence & Submission, who Is the great Emanuel the faithfull witness & primogenitus, Alpha & Omega, who Lived & was Dead & Liveth for ever, & by his glorious passion, Resurrection, & Assention, & by the Coming of the holy Ghost, by all aforesaid, I powerfully Exorceize, Urge & Constrain thee spirit Agares, that without tarring or further Delay you do now appear Visbily to me, I now Calling upon you, [*Here mentioning As followeth before, as*²⁶¹ *Either within or without the Receptacle*²⁶²] in fair, Solid, Decent & humane forme, wherefore make hast Come away, and shew thy selfe Immediately, to fullfill all my Request, in the name of the Father & of the Son & of the holy Ghost Amen.

Now if the spirit doth not appear, in Some materiall Distance of time to the Conjuraton, wonder not at its prolixity, for (as is said Elsewhere before) it is the nature of the Aijeriall Spirits, to be very slow In there appearances, therefore Let the magician be Constant in his preserverances and prosecution herein, that this Experiment is also true, and that this spirit Agares hath been called upon, and been brought to obedie[[nce]] and familiar Association, is manifestly true and apparent by this following obligation, made by him to some Lerved master.

[112v] I Agares, the first Captaine under the King of the East, not Compelled by Command or Dread, butt willingly, and on my owne accord, doe Especially bind my ²⁶⁰ The four rubricated lines at the top of fol. 112r are near-unreadable due to contrast issues in the scans I'm working from. I have restored some of the text by comparison with one of Hockley's copies.

²⁶¹ Unclear; could be 'is' or 'as,' the latter makes slightly more sense in context.

²⁶² i.e. vary the speech according to whether you're summoning the spirit to a crystal or not.

Selfe by these presents, firmly, to obey at all times & in Every place J.M. to do his Command In all things, appertaining to my Duty, & Especially by these words, the m[[ost]] powerfull In this Magick Art, Lay, Alyzm, mura, Syron, Walgava, Ryshin, Layganum, Layarazin, Lasai: And by that Vertue wherewith the Sun & fmoon where darkened, before that terrible day of the Lord (as in the Gospel) and shall be turned into Blood, And by the head of my Prince, & by his Circles & Characters: and Cheifly by this Seall firmly binding, In Wittness of which Guity Person, I have Signed this Obligation, with mine one Seal he Commanding me, to which I Allways Stuck Close.

The forme of the Spatula which ought to be made of any Solid wood handsomely not too thick, and Guilded over & writ upon as here is shewed. This Spatula serveth for a Scepter & signifyeth: Dignity, Power &c: the which is one main Principle In magick, & is a Type of majesty In Action, Let It be guilt over with Goold.²⁶³

The form of the Lamin, or Sigill, which ought to be made in a plate of Silver, and the figure Engraven thereon as Is here Represented, which sigill must be Hung about the Neck, or fixed on the Brest of the Magician,

The Seal of the spirit Agares.

And when he Goeth upon Action Lett him do thus—If he calleth Either of these two fore recieted Spirits, Vassago or Agares to appear In a stone or Glass, then Lett him set the stone or Glass on [[a]] Table in his Chamber of Practice, covered with Cleane Linnen, and on [[each]] side of the Christall Stone or Glass, to stand a white wax Candle [113r] or Els at Leastwise one just behind It, Then Let the magician fix the silver Sigill on his brest, and take the Spatula in his Right hand, and seat himself at the table Just against the Stone, & his Companions by him if he hath any, and when he is seated, then he may Either Lay the spatula downe on the table, just before the (the) stone, or Els hold It in his hand, Even as pest pleaseth himself, and let him have his Desires written fairly down and Layd on the table on his left hand, Just beside the Spattula, & if he pleaseth also the Copy of the obligation, Fairly written, In an abortive, with the Seal of the Spirit, thereto as is shewed In the Copy thereof foregoing, layed on the Table on his Right hand just on the other side of the spatula, And so proceed to Action.

²⁶³ The illustration of the Spatula of Art in the MS. made something of a mess of the names & characters on the flat and they were written out again, next to it. I have redrawn the thing according to the proportions specified in the text. Egyn appears elsewhere in this collection as the demon King of the North; according to the Folger “Book of Magic,” Vzago or Vsagoo is subject to Egin, although the “Experiment of Vassago” above has the spirit under the King of the West.

But if the Magick Philosopher goeth upon Either of these two Experiments, or Invocateth either of these too last recited spirits Vassago or Agares, without Either a Christall stone or Glass, then when he Entereth his Chamber or place Appointed for Action or practise, Enter the Circle in form and manner as aforesaid, Holding the spatula in his right hand or Laying it downe just before him in the Circle, & if he have two Companions, let him on the Left hand hold the Copy of the damands, and him one the right hand the Copy of the obligation, And so let him proceed to action, and Exorcize manfully, Constantly & firm Resolution. If he useth a Christall Stone, It ought to be about the bigness of a goose Egg, it matter not whether It be round or oval and to be set on a frame, which may be done by a jeweller, with a ring of flat wyer, or narrow plate about It at the bottome whereof Lett It be fastened, a Stem of an indifferent Length, as the handle of a beer boal,²⁶⁴ with a ponderous or heavy pedestal or foot to It, that may stand firme & steady, & then hath he a Compleate Receptacle; And if the Magick Philosopher maketh Choice of a Glass Receptacle, he may have It made att the Glass house of Good white Christall mettall, butt It Cannot be made [113v] Solid as is a stone, but It may be made pretty thick and with a Little small hole at the top, according as Is here represented, In the Annexed Figure. It is also to be Observed, in the making of this Receptacle of Glass, That the head being made as thick as possible, The Glass maker can make It, It will be pretty heavy, therefore the foot thereof ought to be made pretty broad, & of an indifferent Large diamiter, because of standing them and Steady all which is Easie Enough to be understood.

* * * * *

Hic Est Circulus Experimenti

This Circle Serveth for the Invocant to stand in, when he calleth upon Either of the two forementioned Spirits Vassago or Agares, when he Calleth upon them to appear, without Either a stone or Glass or other Receptacle, So that in Either or these Experiments, he may use his own Discretion, Sith the practicall part hereof is already before so Clearly Explained, of the which we ourselves have had some Signall Experience.

* * * * *

²⁶⁴ "beer bowl"?

*An Experiment to Obtain whatsoever is Desired.*²⁶⁵

Take a Lapwing & Lett It Blood In a Glass, wherewith make the Ensain [...] Square, commonly Called a Circle, though improperly by reason of Its Contrary Similitude, but they are Generally Called Circles in the Art, because they all signifie one & the same thing &c: upon four Large Calve skin patchments, fastened Evenly & handsomely together, according to Art, as is before taught. And Also with the [114r] Blood of the Lapwing, write upon an Abortive thus as followeth, *Beltha Suspensus, in Æthera super ea, Implant, Pamilion, Anarius, Fons, Floris, de, Sede, Baldachiaë, Sarranis, Mars,*²⁶⁶ Lett this be written in a Chamber, that is very private and Close shut for the present time, And when these things are done, & Kept in a Readiness for use then, seek out for a place fit to do this Experiment In, which much be in an Orchard, or a Wood that is Very private, and free from the Passages or oversight of people, the which Being found, then at the time appointed to goe upon action, Let the Magicall Philosopher having a fair bright sword in his hand, as soon as he is entered into the Orchard or wood, Kneel downe on his Knees, and with an Earnest meekness, say what is written in the abortive, three times over; then Lett him rise, & having made Choice of the privatest place that can be found, goe thereto, & place this Circle, and with his sword in his right hand, and the Scedule & the left hand, enter the Circle and turning his face to the East, Read the schedule over as oft as is convenient, And at Length will appear a vision, like to a fair Knight on horseback, with a Gosse-Hawk on his fist, and he will say unto you, Why call you me? What will you Ask? Lo, I am Ready to fullfill all your Requests, Butt answer him nothing, att all And then turning your face from him to the north, behold him not, then will he pass by & vanish; Then towards the north proceed as before you did towards the East, and anon will another Vision appear, like a Comely fair Knight on horseback, with a Gosse-hawk also on his fist, riding as it were towards you upon a very Goodly Steed, and he will speake to you Soon the like Language, or to the Same effect, as the first apparition, butt say nothing to him, neither give him Answer, and turning your face to the west behold him not, So he will pass away by & Vanish.

²⁶⁵ This process also appears with minor variations in BL Sloane MS. 1727, p. 18; a transcription by K. M. Briggs was included in "Some Seventeenth-Century Books of Magic" and appendix IV to The Anatomy of Puck. In the former work, Briggs draws a comparison between this process and the fairy-summoning table-ritual in Bodleian e Mus. 173 (generally dated early 17th century; typeset in Harms & Clark, Of Angels, Demons and Spirits) where three fairies turn up in turn, but the first is malignant and should be ignored until she goes away. Here, though, the first two spirits should be ignored and even the third should have its offer of fellowship refused.

²⁶⁶ This might have been intelligible Latin once. Sedes Baldachiaë is also cited in the Heptameron and the Vadian Lucidarium. Sloane MS. 1727 (apud Briggs) gives two versions: "Betha suspensus in ethera superea enpion, emprogudum, pamelion angius Marius Egripus fons floriseme deseed baldithe sapor ana velarca siras: but these are truer: beltha suspensus Mathea Superea Implex pamilion ananrius fons floris Trosdogod Baldachia. Sarius Mars." This suggests that even then the scribe had access to two different, and already heavily corrupt, copies of the formula.

[114v] Then towards the west, observe to doe as before the East, and North, & presently will a third apparition appear, Like as a goodly Knight on horseback with a Goss-hawke also on his fist more fair and beutifull then the two former, Crowned with a Diadem of Gold, who will say thus unto you, or much like to it, Loe I am here, and weary for Labor all day, therefore tell me what thou wouldst I should doe for thee? And this Knight you may faithfully trust, and desire of him what you will, he will truly fullfill your Requests, which you ought to have in readiness fairly written &c. Then will he say, Even as soone as he hath said the former words thus to you: Will you have my fellowship? But you shall deny It, and answer him saying no you will not, butt propose your desires and demands to him, what it is you would have him do for you, and turn your Countenance or face towards the South, and so leave him then shall he pass away from you, and so give over, and Cease Action, & goe your way the next morning goe again to the same place, and there you shall find all your Requests fulfilled, and your Expectations answered, for which god thanks & depart.

Hic, est Quadra-Circulus Experimenti.

This ought to be written with the blood of the Lapwing upon a faire Calve Skin parchment, neatly & Evenly fastned together, & so made on Square Entire thing, & so Kept for practice.²⁶⁷

* * * * *

*Of the Spirit Bleth, who is mostly called upon and appeareth
in a glass of water.²⁶⁸*

Have a glass made of pure white mettles pretty thick, made in the form of a Urinall, and make a cover thereto of Virgin Wax or parchment with the Character made thereon as hereafter followeth, then fill the glass a little above halfe full of water, and Sett it upon the table of practice, or other Convenient place, where It may Stand very Sure and Stedy, from Shaking or jogging & let It stand on your left hand and set the Cover thereof by it on the right hand & Let the t[[able]] or place on which the Glass and Its Cover standeth, be Coverd with a Linnen Cloth, [115r] very white: and so when all things are decently Set in Order, Invoke as followeth:

²⁶⁷ If this is to be made big enough for the operator to stand in, that is likely to involve killing rather a lot of small birds. The version of the ritual in Sloane 1727 (apud Briggs) rather has the “circle four square” (described rather than illustrated) made on the ground with a sword and the blood used only for writing the formula.

²⁶⁸ Bleth is also mentioned, and given a simple character, in the Chicago “Book of Magical Charms” (Newberry Case MS. 5017, fol. 7r); the name is possibly a corruption of Bileth.

I adjure & call upon command and constrain thee O thou spirit which art called Bleth: in & through the name of the father & of the son & of the holy Ghost, Three persons in trinity, & one God in Unity, & by this incomprehensible name, of the most High and Omnipotent Creator, of Heaven & Earth, Tetragrammaton, Jehovah, I powerfully and Earnestly Urge and Constraine the O thou spirit Bleth and I call upon & command thee to appear Visibly & affably Unto me in this Glass of water, Set here before me, as a fit and appropriate Receptacle to Entertaine you And I doe againe adjure Call upon, bind, command and Constrain thee O thou spirit Bleth, by the Vertue and might of those Great & powerfull names, By which wise Solomon bound spirits, and shut them up Elbrach, Ebanher, Goth, Ioth, Agla, Othie, Venoah, nabrat, to appear & shew thy selfe, fairly & fully and plainly Visible unto me, In that Glass of water here before me, which I have Set to Receive you in And to Resolve & openly & manifestly to shew me, the Truth Verity & Certanty of all Such matters & things, as I shall demand & Resquest of you, without any fraud guile dissimulation, or other Crafty or Deceitfull Illusion whatsoever, wherefore, I now call upon & Constrain thee hereby, O thou spirit Bleth in and through these High & potent names of our Lord & Savior, Jesus Christ, Messias, Sother, Emanuel, Alpha & Omega, to move appear & shew thy selfe plainly unto me & fulfill my Demands, Desires & Requests in all things, according to your Office, wherein you may or Can without any farther tarrying or delay, butt immediately prepare you & come away, and doe for me as for the Servant of the Highest:

Repeat this Conjuraton often, and when the water Stirreth a Little & a smoak seemeth to be seen In the Glass, then doth the spirit Enter, for this is the foreshowing Signe of his appearance, & when this is perspicuously discerned, then Lightly Cover the Glass with the Cover, & bind [[it]] all about So Securely, that nothing may goe out &c: Then Ask what you will, & he will either Resolve it viva voce, or it will be soon written on his Brest.

* * * * *

[115v] The Spirit Senoryan may be Invocated & call'd upon, As Either of the foregoing Spirits, Vassago, Agares or Bleth, being Exemplary alike, only Changing the name In the Invocation, Some use Oyl in the Glass instead of water, for so did Cardinal Richlieu, who this Spirit Senoryan was very familiar frequent & Conversant withal &c.

This character is to be made on the Cover of the Glass²⁶⁹

²⁶⁹ The text around the outer circle is very cramped and I am not completely sure I have transcribed it correctly; the superscripted '9' represents a conventional scribal abbreviation for the Latin '-us' terminal.

Of the spirit Mamon & his Characters:

Let these Characters be written in the right hand, with the blood of a Lapwing or of a black Cat, & when the Spirit is Invoked or called up the Hand must be held up, so that he may see them.

This spirit, together with those that follow, may be Invoked and called up As the foregoing spirits Vassago and Agares and, the same method being observed; only the Characters and names are Altered in the Call or invocation And the practicall part of the Experiment.

Of the Spirit Seere His & Character nature & Office &c.

This spirit Seere is under the King of the East, He goes & comes & brings all things to Suddaine end Expedition effects, He can Carry & recarry, & pass over the whole world, in a moment, yea in the twinkling of an Eye: He makes true Relation of all Sorts of Thefts, & of treasure trove, & sheweth true Relations of many other things. He is by nature indifferent Good, mild courteous and affable, & willingly performeth whatsoever is Desired of him &c.²⁷⁰

Of the Spirit Asmodiah his Character &

This spirit sheweth all things that are in the Earth and water, & all things that appertaine to Love & marriage, and what shall befall those that be newly married, and there friends, Kindred or Alliance And of there agreement or disagreement, & how fate will smile [116r] or frown upon them, he can also discover thieves & Theft, Treasure Trove, & many other notable Occult things.²⁷¹

²⁷⁰ Seere is the 70th spirit of the Ars Goëtia, described as (S5 fol. 110) “a mighty Prince and powerful under Amaymon King of the East, he appeareth in the forme of a Beautifull Man, riding on a strong horse with wings: his office is to Goe & come and to bring all things to pass on a sudden, & to carry any thing where Thou wilt have it, or have it from for he can pass over the whole world in the Twinckling of an Eye, he maketh a true relation of all sorts of Theft and of Treasures hidd and of all other things, he is Indifferent good natured; willing to do any thing the Exorcist desireth; he governeth 26 Legions of spirits.” His character is given thus:

²⁷¹ Asmodiah is probably a variant of Asmodai (#32 in the Goëtia: his offices are given somewhat differently there) although the theophoric terminal -iah is not generally used for the names of demons. The character looks to be a simpler form of the Ars Goëtia version, which in S5 (fol. 105v) appears thus (the thick black line at the right is possibly the result of blotting in the MS. or contrast issues with the scans I was using):

Of the Spirit Dantalion His Character

He sheweth all arts and Sciences, & maketh one Expert therein, he can Declare & reveal the Secret Councils of any one, he Changeth the minds & thoughts of men & women, he can stir up Love, and shew by Vision the similitude of any one, be they att never to great a distance, in any part of the world &c.²⁷²

Of the Spirit Andromalius His Character

He can bring back theives with the Goods they have stolen, He discovereth all Manner of Wickedness, & all manner of Secret, Clandestine, underhand dealings, Plots, Contrivances and all deceitfull designs, Combinations, Consultations or other Tretchery whatsoever, tending to the Ensnaring, Detriment, Loss or Distruction of one; & punisheth all maner of Lewd, thievish, deceitfull, ungodly persons &c: He faithfully declareth the Verity of Treasure Trove.²⁷³

²⁷² Dantalion is the 71st spirit of the Ars Goëtia, described as (S5 fol. 110v): “a great & mighty duke appearing in the forme of a man with many faces, all like men & women & a Booke in his right hand; his office is to Teach all arts and siences to any one, and to declare the secret Counselles of any one, for he knoweth the Thoughts of all men and women, and can change them at his will, he can cause Love and shew (by vision) the true similitude of any one let them be in what place or part of the world they will, he governeth 36 Legions of Spirits.” His seal:

²⁷³ Andromalius is probably a corruption of Andromalchus or Andromalcos who is cited, for example in an “Abraham’s Eye” process to punish a thief in BL Additional MS. 36,674 (fol. 79v), and is mentioned as “Andrew Malchus” in an account of treasure-hunters in Norfolk during the reign of Henry VIII. In the Ars Goëtia he is the 72nd and last spirit: “he is a great and Mighty Earle appearing in the form of a Man, holdling a serpent in his hande, his office is to bring a Theefe & goods that are stolen, Back; and to discover all wickedness and understand [qy. “underhand”] dealings, & to punish Theives & other wicked people, & to discover Treasures that are hidd &c., he ruleth 36 Legions of spirits” (S5 fol. 110 v). His seal is shown as:

A somewhat different character is in the Chicago “Book of Magical Charms” (Newberry Case MS. 5017), an early 17th-century magical miscellany (predates the present compilation: the main scribe died in 1641), on fol 10r, the name unclearly written (could be Andromalcos, Andromalius or Andromaleus) and with no description.

Seere, Dantalion and Andromalius, along with Vassago, who features in a previous “experiment” in this collection, are the four spirits in the catalogue of the Ars Goëtia who do not appear in the list’s main source, the English translation of the Pseudomonarchia Daemonum that was included in Reginald Scot’s Discoverie of Witchcraft. The Pseudomonarchia, an edited version of a Liber officiorum spirituum MS., first published as an appendix to the 1577 fifth edition of Wier’s De præstigiis daemonum et incantationibus ac veneficiis, listed 69 principal spirits, but one of the entries included a legend of Solomon sealing up 72 demon kings and their legions in a glass vessel (in vase vitreo, mistranslated “brassen vessel” in Scot). In Scot’s publication, the fourth spirit in the Wier list, Prufas or Bufas, was omitted for some reason, leaving only 68. The redactor of the Ars Goëtia, besides shuffling the order of the spirits after the first two, decided to make up the number to 72 to fit the legend, and so interpolated four spirits, either from the present collection or a MS. of similar content; Vassago immediately after Agares, probably due to their close association in the collection of spirit “Experiments,” and the other three at the end.

Of the Spirit Sondenna, aliter Sendenna

This Spirit was the Servant and familier To Mr E. K. He appeareth In many forms, & then at Length in a triangle of fire: butt being Constrained to the Circule, he att last taketh to the similitude (as it were) of a great Gyant, and will declare before, for a month to come, what spirits doe orderly Range, which by name being called, will doe their offices, &c: [...] ²⁷⁴ this, is worth, the Consideration & practice. Anno: 1580. ²⁷⁵

* * * * *

These two spirits Maserien and Hermcloe were the Servants And familiars of the L.C.E. of S. 1607. ²⁷⁶

* * * * *

²⁷⁴ Possibly a word lost in the gutter here.

²⁷⁵ "E.K." is Edward Kelly. In the Dee-Kelly Spirit Action of 1584.06.27 (Cotton Appendix XLVI part i, fol. 201v, T&FR p. 184-5), Ave remarked of a "great multitude" of figures seen in Kelly's vision of the Watch-towers: "They be Ministers and servants. There shalt thou (E. K.) see thy old Soudenna, and many other wicked ones, that thou hast dealt withal." A note above the name reads "atr [aliter] Seudenna, as E. K. sayd." A much more extensive note in the margin reads:

"[Of this] wicked Soudenna, E.K. by and by, after this Action, sayd, seeing his name is come to be known (and not by me: for I had received the Sacrament with Mr. Miniver, of whom I had him, never to bewray or disclose his name) I will tell you somewhat of him. He appeareth in many forms tyll at Length he appeare in a Triangle of fyre, and being constrayned to the circle, he taketh form, as it were, of a great Gyant, and will declare before for a month to come which spirits do orderly range: which by name being called, will do their offices, with a few other circumstances used, &c. This, indeed was one, of whom I made most account, &c."

The name was misprinted Sondenna, aliter Sendenna in T&FR (in the MS. it is lettered out fairly carefully, and Soudenna is more believable as a mishearing of Seudenna, the original appearance of the name being written by Dee as he heard it spoken during the Action).

²⁷⁶ Maserien and Hermcloe are mentioned in the final fragment of Dee's Spirit Diaries from 1607 (Action of 24th March, Cotton Appendix XLVI part ii, fol. 229r, T&FR p. *34), apparently as devils sent against Dee by the Lord [Robert] Cecil, Earl of Salisbury (a senior official at the court of King James), to whom Dee (reduced to poverty) was attempting to hawk his services at the time.

"[...] it was the will of God [...] to suffer the heart of thy supreme head and governour, under God to be hardned against thee, that you art no better account made of unto him, but to be such an one that doth deal with Devils and by Sorcery, as you commonly term them Witchcraft: and who doth, and who hath informed him, to be thus evil and hardly informed against thee, but only the Devil, and by the hatred of thy secret enemy whom thou knowest (Salisbury I mean) and all malice and enemies that he can by his Devils, Maserien, Hermcloe, the four wicked ones, the which are accounted the four Rulers of the Air, whose names be Ories, Egym, Paynim, and Mayrary: They be the Devils that he doth deal withal, that he through their enticing and his, he thinketh to be pleasant and good wisdom that he receiveth at their hands; That he and his Devil do seek thy overthrow in all good things, and doth and shall, so far forth as God will suffer them, seek all the malice and hindrance in all good causes to be done to thy good."

(This is transcribed from T&FR, I found the MS. even harder to read than the 1580s parts). It has been suggested [BY WHOM?] that when, three years prior to this, Dee petitioned King James for a chance to clear himself of the slander that he was a practitioner of demonic magic (even if this meant facing trial under the draconian witchcraft laws of the time), it was on Lord Cecil's advice that James ignored him.

[116v] *The names of Severall Spirits, both with, and without their Characters.*²⁷⁷

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
|  |  |  |  |  |
| Cutchtpollo | Herp | Stigamma | Ysbiloth | Mulpeldar |
|  |  |  |  |  |
| Sympolsis | Noddarding | Solyhesyl | Mendir | Culdrunal |
|  |  |  |  |  |
| Funaler | Sirsir | Sichere | Sursinal | Clidraepe |
|  |  |  |  |  |
| Spalata | Pludir | Horsor | Rodmache | Goral |
|  |  |  |  |  |
| Miche | Ferinalopes | Hissirperche | Sinant | Hur |

Of the Seven Regall Spirits with their Familiars, named as followeth:

| | | | |
|-------------------------------|---------------------|---------------|-------------|
| Macharioth Rex ²⁷⁸ | Whose Familiars are | Arumbel, | Squatus |
| Isus Rex | | Thoranor | |
| Jonathon Rex | | Samna | Gezome |
| Acharon Rex | | Gozra | |
| Magoth Rex | | Gonsellados | Ypfa, Gorse |
| Achachardus Rex | | Alcrit, Gatos | Ghyrites |
| Ysquy Rex | | Garen | |
| | | Syel, Tysgel | Mylon |
| | | Lusor, Rymor | Tynior |
| | | Earny, Asyn | Gryel |

²⁷⁷ In the MS., the first set of 25 characters and names is written in a single column down the left edge of the page. I am not completely sure I have transcribed all the names correctly.

²⁷⁸ "Rex" is represented by a conventional scribal abbreviation.

These following serveth the Invocant to stand in when he calleth any of the aforesaid Kings, &c.²⁷⁹

[117r]

²⁷⁹ These are not apparently rubricated in the MS. In the circle for Isus Rex, “Hagios” in the border is a conjectural restoration; the start of the word is lost in the gutter. Similar, but not identical, figures appear in V.b. 26 pp. 148-151 where they are possibly meant to be talisman designs.

*[Of the Chief Infernal Spirits, and the four Kings.]*²⁸⁰

There are many Spirits, that are said to be by nature Evill, & not onely Envious & Enymies to man & his felicity, but aduers to all goodness whatsoever: and yet have been by magicians of former times (Living in Remote & far Countrys from us in England, and these parts) brought to a Communication, and a Kind of familiarity, with them, whereby there offices & natures have been discovered, but it hath not been Common among men, Especially the meanest Capacities, & therefore not att all practiced, neither is It fit to be practiced by any Sober philosopher unless to Satisfie his Curiosity, because of their Turbulence, but yet they are many times called upon, to bind & constrain other Spirits, to doe there offices, which is not at all offensive hurtfull or obnoxious, therefore they may be Invoked in Such Cases &c: wee shall mention somewhat thereof, because of discerning the differences thereof, & therein let the magick Philosopher use his discretion &c.: There are three spirits Called devils, or infernall spirits, whose names are mentioned in holy writ, namely Lucifer, Beelzebub, & Sathan, therefore as they stand recorded in the Sacred Scriptures we shall hint at something of them, & no more. [117v] Lucifer is a great spirit, and may not be Invoked nor Called from his Orders, yet by him as by Tantavalerion,²⁸¹ other spirits may be adjured and bound, for all spirits that are by nature Evill, or at least more maligne then usually many Aijeriall & Terrestrial powers, such as are treated of before, doe with a Kind of majesty, Worship & obey him: for this Reason he may not be called upon, Except to Constrain other Subservient Spirits to fulfil the Command & Requests of the Invocant in any Reasonable thing.

The next is Beelzebub who is a great prince (and it is said that before the fall, he was of the order of Cherubins) and 1000000 spirits doe minister unto him; he appeareth very Beautifull, & giveth to them that call him Gold & Silver and maketh the Expert in Science, he appeareth well for halfe an hour: & giveth to Each Demand a free Answer, He giveth a servant or Familiar, which will be faithfull & obedient, during a [[man's]] Life, whoso Calleth him must have Fumes of Amber, Lignum Aloes mastic &c: & invoke towards the East, in verbis conceptis, wherein he must be inopportunately and Earn[[estly]] Urged, to doe his office, who then at Length will obey.

The third spirit is called Sathan, who was before his fall of the order of Cherubims, & it is said that because he fell not of his owne will, therefore he abideth obscurely in the Aijer and so is called the prince of the Aijer, under whome are four Princes or Kings, bearing rule in the Aijer, & have power given & permitted them, to coruscate and disturb the Aijer, whereby many Mischeifs befall the Earth, doing great hurt, and it was this spirit that tempted our four fathers in the Wilderness to disobedience.

²⁸⁰ In the MS. this follows without a section break or a distinctive heading from the circles for the seven "Regall spirits," which latter slightly overlap with the first line of text.

²⁸¹ Tantavalerion is an "Emperor" of infernal spirits, frequently mentioned in the Folger "Book of Magic." A similar name, Cantivalerion, with the same characterisation, is mentioned in Bodleian MS. e Mus 173.

The four Kings of the Aijer Ruling under Sathan, together with their Councillors & messengers are named as followeth, under whom again are numberless of Subservients:

[*The four Kings, their Presidential Councillors and Messengers.*²⁸²]

| | | | | | | |
|----------------------------------|---|----|--|-------|---|--|
| King of the | $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{East} \\ \text{West} \\ \text{North} \\ \text{South} \end{array} \right\}$ | is | $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Orience} \\ \text{Paymon} \\ \text{Egyn}^{283} \\ \text{Amaymon}^{284} \end{array} \right\}$ | whose | $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Presidentiall} \\ \text{Councillors are} \\ \text{Messengers} \\ \text{are} \end{array} \right\}$ | $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} [\text{names follow:} \\ \text{see below}] \\ [\text{names follow:} \\ \text{see below}] \end{array} \right\}$ |
| Presidentiall
Councillors are | $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Neopheyn, Barbas, Sebarbas, Aligon.} \\ \text{Gordonizer, Zame.} \\ \text{Vassago, Othey, Um, Anaboth.} \\ \text{Aleche, Berith, Mala.} \end{array} \right\}$ | | | | | | | Messengers
are | $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Baal, Temel, Belfarto (or Belferith).} \\ \text{Belferth, Belial, Bawson, Rombulance} \\ \text{(or Ramblane), Alphasis.} \\ \text{Boulon, Ocarbidadon, Madicon}^{285} \end{array} \right\}$ | | | | | |

Oriens King of the East, appeareth with an hundred & two hundred Legions, having a fair Effeminate Countenance, & a goodly Crown upon his head, riding upon an Elephant, having trumpets, shalms & much Minstrelry of divers Instruments going before him, & when he is called he Cometh with other great [118r] Kings; butt if he be called alone, then he appeareth in the very likeness of a Royall Horse; He telleth the truth of all things, present, and & to Come, giveth mony, teacheth Sciences, Consecrateth Bookes, and willingly giveth answers to all demands & Questions, He Knoweth all Experiments, and hath power to teach them; There is a King under Oriens, whose name is Baal,²⁸⁶ whose office is to teach all manner of Sciences, and maketh a man to go Invisible, & hath ²⁸² This is written across the page, somewhat cramped; I have split the table in order to have it at a reasonable type size while retaining the general layout. These names, and the descriptions of the Kings, derive from the same De officiis MS. tradition represented in the Folger “Book of Magic” (p. 73 sqq.) although the conjurations and rubric have been rewritten (amongst other things, to remove any hint of Catholicism) and the account of the infernal chiefs, compared to the Folger text, have been redacted, e.g. omitting to mention that Beelzebub is wont to kill a magician who summons him without using the proper invocation and suffumigation, or that Satan will pester the invocant to pray for him to be restored to his former throne and place.

²⁸³ As written at this point in the MS., the name trails off after the ‘y,’ but it is given consistently as Egyn elsewhere in this section.

²⁸⁴ Written “Amamon” in MS. at this point, but given consistently as Amaymon elsewhere in this section.

²⁸⁵ These are the Messengers of Amaymon; none are named for Egyn.

²⁸⁶ In this instance, probably the same as Bael in the Ars Goëtia (Baall in V.b. 26 p. 81), who appears as a subject of the King of the East.

under him 250 Legions, whoso acteth by this Royall spirit Oriens, must direct his Countenance & actions toward the East, and at the first Constraine the spirit Temel, who is messenger of the East as followeth — first invoking for the aid and Assistance of Oriens Rex, &c.: of which Invocation an Example hereafter followeth in the practice of Hochma.

O thou spirit who art called Temel, messenger of the East, I adjure, call upon, bind, command and Constraine thee, by the power, dignity & authority of your Great and Royall Prince Oriens, the Supream Head of your Hierarchy, I adjure, Command, constraine & in the name, & by the supremacy of your Orders, I powerfully & Earnestly Urge thee, o thou spirit Temel messenger of the East, to appear & shew thy selfe Visible, affable, and in all mildness & serenity here before us, & in no wise turbulent, hurtfull or terrible unto us, or any other Creature whatsoever, upon the Earth, butt come ye peaceably, Quietly & in all plainness & humility, to give me truth & faithfull Answers and Resolves, readily and willingly, of my demands & desires, courteously fulfilling my Request in all things, according to you Orders & office, without delay, fraud, illusion or other deceitfull Crafts or impeditiions whatsoever, that may in any wise hinder, oppose or obstruct my Expectations in the least, move therefore &c.

This Conjuratiō being Repeated nine times, and if he appeareth not, then proceed to the Conjuratiō following, & Rehearse It severall times; and herein Act with Care & order, by returning again, to that above, & then again to this below, according to discretion:

[118v] O you spirit, Belfarto or Belferith, who art the messenger of the King of the East, I Exorcize, adjure, bind, Command and Constraine thee, in and through the name of our almighty, and Heavenly God, Creator of heaven & Earth, & of his onely begotten Son Jesus Christ, born of the Vigin mary, the Redeemer of the World, & our onely Mediator & advocate, with the Father, of all power mercy & goodness, in whose name, all the Quire of Cœlestiall Angells Rejoyce, before whom they Incessantly Sing, O mappa laman Hallelujah, and at whose name all knees, upon Earth doe bow, and all the Ayeriall Terrestiall and Infernall Host of spirits doe fear & tremble, wherefore I doe again adjure, bind, command & Constraine you, O you spirit Belfarto, or Belferith, and I also potently and powerfully urge & Enforce you, in the name, and by the dignity and Authority of your prince Oriens, and the head of your Hierarchy & orders, that now presently, and without tarrying or delay, that you Enforce the same spirit, which is Called Temel, to appear Visibly, affably and peaceably here before me, and no ways Turbulent, hurtfull or terrible to me, or any other Creature, and that he may faithfully, humbly, obediently, readily and willingly doe my Commandement and fullfill my desires in all things, according to his office, wherein he may or can without any let, hinderance, tarrying, delay, illusion, fraud, or any other Cra[[fty]] deceits or devices whatsoever, that may oppose, obstruct or deceive me, in my present & future Expectations; all which I Constraine and Command thee O thou Spirit Belfarto, or Belferit, in & through the mighty & binding name Tetragrammaton, Jehovah, &c.²⁸⁷

Amaymon is a King of the South. He is great & mighty, and appeareth in the Similitude of an old man, with a great Beard, His hair like to hors hair, & hath a bright Crown on his head, and Rideth on a firse Lion, usually roring at the first appearance, and shaking a Rod in his hand, his ministering spirits going before him, with all manner of musicall Instruments, and with him Cometh other three Kings, who are Emlon, Ocarbidadon, and Maditon, being messengers to the King of the South, he cometh with a Great Company [119r] and very obscurely &c: He giveth a true Answer to all demands, & maketh a man wonderfull Cunning and Expert, in all Learning, Philosophy, & Ars Notoria, he giveth the best acquaintance with nobility, & Confirmeth the doings thereof, as Dignity, promotion, &c: he may be detained one hour &c: and butt no Longer &c.: And when you goe to act by this spirit Amaymon, direct your Selfe & Countenance to the South, first Invocating & Constraining the spirit Emlon, after the same manner as is before Explained, in the Constraint of the spirituall messengers of the East, under Oriens, (viz) Temel and Belfirto, using the same Invocations, only altering the spirits names, and then Adjuring the other Spirits, Ocarbidadon and Maditon, as before.

Paymon is King of the west, he appeareth att first somewhat terrible, & speaketh with a Hoarse Voyce, butt being Constrained by a Divine Power, he then taketh the form of a Soaldier, and when he Cometh to the presence of the Invocant, is oft times apt to Cavill & make variance, He Rideth upon a dromedary, or a Camell, which is Crowned with a bright Crown, & hath the Countenance of a woman, & before goeth a Band of ministering Spirits, with all Kind of musickall Instruments, And when he appeareth, Let the Invocant Cast a paper to him, wherein is Inscribed, that he shall speake plainly & distinctly, so that the master may understand what he saith, And with him Cometh five other principall or Regall spirits, who are Belforth the messenger to the King of the West and Beliall a King, And Bawson a King, and Rombalence or, Ramblane and Alphasis, they may appear from the 3rd hour to the 12th &c.: It is also here to be observed, that the spirit Alphasis, is first to be Called upon, and Constrained by Invocation, as is to be understood before in the first, Temel, and then afterwards the Regall spirits Belial, Bawson, Rombalence, or Ramblane, according to the Example of spirit Belfarto, before recited.

²⁸⁷ I have inserted a paragraph break here: the MS. runs into the description of Amaymon without one.

Egyn is King of the north, he appeareth in the Likeness of a man, his face very fair and Clear, his nostrils very sharp like a Sword.²⁸⁸

* * * * *

[119v] The practice that M[aster]²⁸⁹ Hochmah, &c.—made use of, by these above named four Kings, Orience, Paymon, Egyn and Amaymon, is as followeth.

First, the four Kings, and their Partickular Precidentiaall Councillors, were distinctly Called upon, from there Severall & Respective Orders or mansions, to send such a spirit as was nominated, &c., to Effect & fullfill all such proposals, as should be demanded, all which is thus:

O thou great & potent spirit Oriens, King of the East, & bearing Rule & Command In the East Region of the Ajjer, I adjure, call upon & Constrain, and most powerfully and Earnestly Urge you, by & in, and through the Vertue power & might of these Efficacious & binding names, Tetragrammaton, Iehovah, Adonay, Agla, El, Sabaoth, Elohim, Even the Allmighty, Immense Incomprehensible & Everliving God, the omnipotent Creator of heaven & Earth, & in & through the names of our Lord & Saviour Jesus Christ, messias, Sother, Emannuel, the onely Begotten Son of god the father, born of the Virgin mary, the High King & Lord of all the world, whose name all the Coelestiall Angels honour & obey, and before whom all the holy Company and Quier of heaven, Incesantly Sing, O mappa laman, Hallelujah and at whose Divine & inestimable name, all Knees on Earth do homage and bow, and all the Aijeriall terrestiall and Infernall spirits doe fear & tremble, And now by all aforesaid I doe now again powerfully adjure, call upon, ²⁸⁸ This entry is drastically truncated for no clear reason: there is a rule under this short paragraph in the MS. indicating there is nothing lost in this copy; there may have been a page missing in the scribe's source text, of course. The entry for Egyn in V.b. 26 (p. 74) runs:

Egyn R[ex] is of the North, & appeareth in the liknes of a Man, & his face is very cleere, his nostrills are verie sharpe like a sworde, & out of his mouth commeth flames of fire, & he rideth upon a dragon & he is crowned with a crowne of pretious stones, & in his cheeks he beareth 2 tuskes, & he beareth one his right side 2 hissing serpents shininge & he cometh with a great noise & clamore before him goe sundry kindes of musicall Instruments & sweet orgaines, & he teacheth perfectly all physicke & singinge, & the arte Notaria & the arte of Nigromancye & the arte Memoratvia, & he speaketh of & in divers partes of the world, & of thinges to come paste & present, & of certayne secrete & hidd things, & of the beinge & compartinge of this world, & what the Earth is, & whether the water maye sustaine the earth, or the earth the water, & he telleth what a bottomless pitt is, commonly called Abissus, & where it is, & what the winde is, & from whence it cometh, & he giveth very good acquaintance & dignities, prelateshipes & and confirmeth the same, & maketh consecration of bookes, and other thinges, and giveth true aunswers of all questions & demaunds, & thou must looke to the North when thou callest him, & soe soone as he appeareth, shew him Sigillum Salomonis, & his Ringe, & forthwith he will fall downe, to the earth, & will worship the Master & the master shall take & thanke him therefore, & he hath 12000 Legions, & causeth a man to winne at all manner of games, & Rodabell, vel Radabelbes, be the messengers of the Kinge of the North.

In the conjuration immediately following, a "Lambricon vel Lambracaron" is called on to compel Robadell.

²⁸⁹ Represented by a scribal abbreviation. "Master Hochmah" (from Heb., חכמה, 'wisdom') was probably meant as the name or alias of a magician who devised or taught the process following.

constrain & more Earnestly urge you O you great & mighty spirit Oriens, King of the East Quandra^{[[nt]]} of the Aier, in and though the most Effectuall glorious Sacred & puissant name of him who saith & it is done, that now Imediately without farther tarrying or delay you doe send or Cause to be sent forth without one the spirit Marage, or any other from your orders, and to appear visibly, plainly, peaceably, affably in all Serenity and humility here apparently to my Sight and view, and positively effectually, faithfully and fully to serve me and to Resolve me in Such Queries, & Interrogatories, as I shall ask [120r] Requier & demand of him, & to fullfill my Requests, and doe my Commandement in all things, according to his office, wherein he may or can as I shall desire of him, and that without any delayance, Guile, deceit or other illusions whatsoever, that may In any wise hinder, oppose, obstruct or destroy our Expectations. And I doe againe Earnestly Importune, adjure, Urge and Constrain you powerfull & Regall spirit Oriens, to send forthwith immediately, and now at this present unto me, and to appear plainly Visible before me, the spirit Marage, or some other from your orders or mansions, in all mildness, peace & friendliness, with^{[[out]]} any hurt, disturbance, or any other Evill whatsoever, Either to me, or this place, wherein I am, or any other place, Person or Creature whatsoever, but that Quietly Curteously & obediently to serve me & fullfill my desires, & do my Commandement in all things where in he may &c:—All which I Earnestly Urge & Constraine thee, O thou Royall and potent spirit Oriens: to doe for me in N. P. F. SS.²⁹⁰

Lett this Constraint be altered (?) three times, then proceed to the following Exorcism, and say that seven or nine times, then Goe again to that above, which order observe one, two or, three hours, or as Ocation, shall Require &c.:—

O thou spirit Marage, I adjure, call upon, bind Constrain, and Command thee by the Authority & Dignity of thy prince & head of thy Hierarchy, unto whom thou owest honour & obedience, & by the truest and most Especiall names of your master, Commanding the Order and mansion wherein you Inhabite & Reside, I doe adjure, Command, constraine & Earnestly urge thee, o thou spirit Marage, to appear, and shew thyself visibly and affably in all serenity & meekness here before me, in a fair & decent forme, and in no wise turbulent, hurtfull or terrible unto me, or the place wherein I am, or to any other place or Creature whatsoever, or wheresoever, But Come ye peaceably, & in all humility, & shew thy selfe plainly & visibly here before me, to my full vision & Eye sight, speaking plainly, & to be understood, giving one faithfull & true answers to all my demands, and readily doing my Commandement, and fulfilling my Requests, in all such matters & things whatsoever, According to your office, wherein you may or Can, without any Illusion, or other fraudulent Delayances [120v] whatsoever that may tend to the Circumvention of my present desires or at all in the Least destructive to my hopes and Expectations. Move therefore, prepare ye & Come away, Shew thy Selfe, and make no longe tarrying or delay, and do for me as for the servant of the Highest.

²⁹⁰ Probably an abbreviation for in Nomine Patri, Filii & Spiritus Sancti.

* * * * *

and if $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Paymon} \\ \text{Egin} \\ \text{Amaymon} \end{array} \right\}$ King of the $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{West} \\ \text{North} \\ \text{South} \end{array} \right\}$ be invocated, bid him send $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Mirage, or Baal} \\ \text{Mirage}^{291} \\ \text{Marage} \end{array} \right\}$

* * * * *

Now by Changing the names of the spirits, and the Angle from whence they are Called upon, Respect being had to the other three, as is Exemplified in the Regall spirit Oriens, whose Invocation in this last Experiment of master Hochma, may serve also for those that are just next foregoing, and to be placed before the Invocation of the spirituall messenger Temel, and that or Paymon, to goe before the Constraint of Alphasis, and the Invocation of Amaymon, to preceed the Call of Emelon,²⁹² so that altering each name in Every severall and Respective Invocation, and observing the Ayeriall Angle, or Quarter, East, West, North & South, & so Invocating according to art, you can rarly Err or doe amiss &c.:²⁹³

* * * * *

There are other names, by which these four Regall spirits are Known, & have been Invocated, & been brought to familiarity & Verball Community by the L.C.E. of S.²⁹⁴ as

Oriens— $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{East} \\ \text{West} \\ \text{North} \\ \text{South} \end{array} \right\}$ King of the $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{East} \\ \text{West} \\ \text{North} \\ \text{South} \end{array} \right\}$ aliter $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Ories} \\ \text{Paynim} \\ \text{Egym} \\ \text{Mayrary} \end{array} \right\}$ by the Hebrews they are Called $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Samael} \\ \text{Azazel} \\ \text{Azael} \\ \text{Mahazel} \end{array} \right\}$

* * * * *

Finis

²⁹¹ Or possibly Merage; the second letter is ambiguous. S5 cites Mirage under Egin.

²⁹² As previously observed, the messenger of Egin is not named in the present text.

²⁹³ Another set of conjurations for the four Kings and some of their underlings, using the same set of names (or slight variants thereof) as the present text, appear in S1 fol. 158–165 & 178–187 (also in Bodleian Rawlinson MS. D 1363) as “Operations of the East Angle of the Ayre by Invocation made to the Regal Spirit Orients” (and similarly for the other three); for each quarter there is an invocation of the King to send various of his underlings (typically one or two of those listed as “messengers”) a conjuration of the aforementioned Messengers to compel the appearance of the other Messengers, and finally a conjuration directed at the other Messenger alongside Marage / Mirage. While the conjurations are given at length for all four quarters, they generally have trivial variations only apart from the names cited and the compass point.

²⁹⁴ Lord Cecil, Earl of Salisbury: See note to fol. 116r. The variant spellings of the names of the four Kings appear in the passage from the Spirit Action there quoted. The names “by the Hebrews” appear in Agrippa (OOP book III chap. 24), in turn deriving from Reuchlin’s De Arte Cabalistica.

[121r] Trithemius Redivivus

[This is an incomplete and abridged English translation / paraphrase of the first book of the Steganographia, hoc est Ars per Occultam Scripturam Animi Sui Voluntatem Absentibus aperiendi certa of Johannes Trithemius, Abbot of Spanheim, written ca. 1499 but not printed until 1606, although it circulated in MS. over the sixteenth century. Lib. I runs to 32 chapters, 93 quarto pages in the 1606 printing. As previously remarked, the entire scheme of spirits and other elements of the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia derive from Book I of the Steganographia (the scheme of spirits of the first part of the Pauline Art of the Lemegeton derives from Book II): further, while this particular copy was not the source for the redactor of the Lemegeton, there is some evidence (relating to how the lists of “dukes” under each chief spirit are arranged) that the Theurgia-Goëtia used a more complete copy of this translation rather than the printed Latin Steganographia.

The Steganographia, on a surface reading, is a work on magic, describing how to summon various spirits, some said to be good, others evil, in order to transmit messages to distant friends without risk of discovery or interception. When it was first printed, however, it was bound up with a Clavis Steganographiæ which explained the actual significance of the first two of the three “books” into which the work is divided: the “conjurations,” consisting generally of the name of a chief spirit followed by a string of seemingly senseless and barbarous words, are coded messages describing encryption systems for hiding your “secret message” in a seemingly innocuous letter (by, for example, applying a simple substitution cipher like a 3-place Cæsar shift to the text you want to hide, and then having the first letter of every other word in the letter spell out the message thus encoded); the simple characters associated with each chief spirit, which could pass as scribal flourishes, appended to the letter, indicate to the recipient (assumed to be conversant with the entire system) just which of the various systems was being used.

The third and shortest book of the Steganographia, only extant as an unfinished fragment (pp. 160–180 of the 1606 printed edition), was not explained in the Clavis and contained no obvious example messages, only extensive tables of numbers, so was for centuries widely believed to actually be a work on (astrologically based) magic.²⁹⁵ In 1676 a German writer, Wolfgang Ernst Heidel, published (as part of a commented reprint of the full Steganographia) a purported solution explaining it as a cryptographic system,²⁹⁶ but since this was itself printed in a cipher that none of his contemporaries could crack, he was generally assumed to be bluffing. It was not until the late 1990s that the third book was conclusively and publicly shown to itself contain a cipher system, by two independent studies in German²⁹⁷ and English;²⁹⁸ the former also solved Heidel’s cipher and showed that he was not bluffing and had actually solved it back in the 1670s.

The Steganographia, minus the Clavis, embodies its own subject-matter; much of the content is part of the cover-text with no significance to the actual cryptographic system, but serves to make it look more like a work on magic, a genre with which Trithemius had a more than passing familiarity.

The MS. makes heavy use of scribal abbreviations, much more so than the rest of S4, and several were unfamiliar to me. I have restored / expanded from context where possible.]

²⁹⁵ See for example Walker, Spiritual and Demonic Magic, pp. 87–8.

²⁹⁶ Johannes Trithemii [...] Steganographia [...] vindicate, reserata et illustrata.

²⁹⁷ Thomas Ernst, “Schwarzweiße Magie: Der Schlüssel zum dritten Buch der Steganographia des Trithemius” (1996). See also the same author’s “The Numerical-Astrological ciphers in the third book of Trithemius’s Steganographia” (1998) which includes a summary of the earlier work and was published alongside Reeds’ study.

²⁹⁸ Jim Reeds, “Solved: the Ciphers in Book III of Trithemius Steganographia” (1998).

The First part, And the First Chapter.

*The Key and operation whereof is held from the Principal Spirit Pamersiel, Anoyr, Madriel, by the ministry Ebra-Sothean, Abrulges, Itrasbiel, And Nadres, Ormenu, Itules, Rablion, Hamorphiel. Let a Commission be sent to those with the Exorcisme of them all.*²⁹⁹

The first and Principall Spirit is Pamersiel, who ruleth in the East, & whose seal is thus [T].³⁰⁰ He hath 1000 Spirits under him who are Presidents of the day, who possesse a Large dominion, & hath power & authority to chase away the Spirits of darknesse of or the night. Under these are 10000 subjected spirits, who are presidents of the night, who are always Conversant in darknesse & never come unto the sight, except by Command of there Princes unto whom they are continually subject and submissive. Under these again are many ministers & subservient having ample Authority, who issue forth in uncertain numbers att the Command of their princes (that is to say) as many of them for number as shall be called from the second or third Order, for producing the greatest effects; so many servants & keepers shall come with them to their great prince Pamersiel; There are againe under these, others, who serve as Messengers & porters, whose number is unknown, who being oftimes mixt with the other spirits come also with them &c.

The operation by this spirit Pamersiel and his presidents and subjects is somewhat difficult and a little dangerous for they are proud & rebellious & willingly obey no one, unless they be very expert in this Art, and if they be too much urgent they frequently offend the Operator with various elusions. There are also beside these many other ayeriall spirits, who are unfaythfull and refractory, unless they be very powerfully & strongly forced & constrained &c.

The Secrets which are comitted to these they oftimes unfaithfully declare to others for when they have been sent with letters they flew away to him whom they were sent to, and violently & disorderly rushing in filling the Ayre with boystrouse noyse by reason of their furious hastiness.

It is not necessary therefore to compel them or to require the ministry of the with much pains, labour, trouble, or Constraints because of their turbulency and infidelity, yet notwithstanding there are many of them that have been found very benevolent & on the Contrary do very readily & obediently offer themselves & doth faithfully fulfil the desires of the Operator.

²⁹⁹ The apparent magical words in the chapter title (saving Hamorphiel) are a cipher-text describing how to decode messages in the “Pamersiel” cipher: a variant appears in the body of the chapter as the “conjunction” beginning Lamarton Anoyr.

³⁰⁰ The spirit characters were apparently written in red ink in S4, which unfortunately also means they were barely-readable in the page images I was working from; in the present copy they are taken directly from page images of the 1606 printed Steganographia. It will be observed that they are a far cry from the elaborate sigils of the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia for the same set of spirits.

Now although we have breifly & fully explaines the uxe of this treatise in the foregoing Isogoge³⁰¹ annexed and appertaining hereunto, yet wee shall give some example in this chapter of the manner and forme of proceeding.

[121v] When att any time there should be an occasion to send a message, or Communicate any buisness of secresy or any <illegible>³⁰² importance to a known freind that is far of or in some other Countrey att a great distance doe thus. Prepare some pure white paper, In the name of the father, and of the Son, and of the holy Ghost &c. And write therein whatsoever sincere, evident, & plain narration you please, & in what language you please in such method & forme as you need not fear or care who seeth it, heareth it, or knoweth of it, of what the subject thereof is, haveing regard to turne your face towards the East being the mansion, Quarter, or point of the Compass in which Pamersiel and his subservient reside, And when you have written what you thinke fitt, inseret or affix, the sigil, seal or character of Pamersiel in a red inscription att the bottom of the letter, but write nothing of your secret intentions in the letter, for that must be verbally communicated to the Spirit.

Having finished what you intend and orderly observed what you ought to be diligent of herein and being ready to dispatch away the message turn your face towards the East & with good Courage & Confidence say the following Conjunction:

Pamersyel *oshurmy delmuson Thafloyn peano charustrea melany, lyaminto colchan, paroys, mady, moerlay, bulre + atloor don melcove peloin, ibutsyl meon mysbreath alini driaco person. Cirsolnay, lemon asosle mydar, icoriel pean thalmo, asophiel il notreon banyel ocrimos esteur naelma besfona thulaomor fronian beldodrayn bon otalmesgo mero fas elnathyn bosramoth.*³⁰³

³⁰¹ If this was ever part of this copy, it got separated from it before being bound up with the other materials in Sloane 3824.

³⁰² Word looks like ‘māāl’ (possibly: the second letter is unclear): from context, possibly meant for “mutual.”

³⁰³ The “Pamersiel” cipher is the simplest of the lot: the first letter of each word in the cover text spells out the plaintext: as suggested by the preceding passages, it is not very secure. Like all the methods of the first book of the Steganographia, it also requires much time and creativity on the part of the sender to compose an innocuous-seeming cover text, particularly in a language where word-order matters more than it does in Latin. Trithemius’ Polygraphia (written later, but printed in 1518) included a system, the “Ave Maria cipher,” that made the process more mechanical, by presenting a “code book” with 384 “alphabets”—lists of words by which each letter of the Latin alphabet (and the German ß ligature) could be represented, with prepositions & conjunctions to be inserted where needed—the result would read like a string of generic pieties of a kind that it would not be unusual for a devout Christian of the time to prefix to a letter: many of the examples in the Steganographia, indeed, were of this form.

In the “conjunctions” alternate words, and alternate letters in the remaining words, are to be ignored (the last word is also always to be ignored even if it would be signifying by the general sequence). So the “receiving” conjunction for Pamersiel, Lamarton anoyr bulon madriel traschon ebrasothea panthenon nabrulg Camery itrasbier rubanth yadres Calmosi ormenu lan, ytules demy rabion hamorphyn, decodes to nym di ersten bugstaben de omny uerbo, “take the first letters of every word.” The nature of this cipher means that certain copyist or typesetting errors (omitted or extra letters or word breaks) can make nonsense of the message: several such mistakes had crept in by the time the Steganographia was printed and were perpetuated into Trithemius Redivivus and it has not been practical to fix them all in this copy. Hence only a few “conjunctions” are deciphered in this edition.

Now after you have severall times rehearsed the forgoing conjuration (as occasion shall require) & the spirit should not yet appear, it is convenient that you cease & give over for that time least by too much Compulsion prejudice chance to ensure. But if they do appear & present themselves with any obedience unto you then Continue & persevere in the hitherto begun worke & deliver your letter to the messenger assigned for the purpose, but deliver the secret which you send to your friend by word of mouth to the spirit, and now will they immediately offer themselves with violence & clamouring voices &c. But let not that in the least trouble you.

They being now present before you are constrained to fulfil your requests: Then very earnestly urge and desire them faithfully to performe the charge you have committed to them & carefully to deliver the message you send by them to your friend, and to reveale the secret that you verbally send to him privately & to no person else, nor before any one that my probably att that time, be in Company with him, but to him onely &c.

Then will they vanish & immediately flee away &c. and now if you please you may cease action or further practice for that instant time except you will attend for a returne which may be done if your freind have any Knowledge in this Art &c.

When your freind to whom you sent (who ought also to be skilfull in this Art) receaveth the letter and seeth the seal of Pamersiel affixed thereto, & knoweth it, let him turne his face towards the East and say the following Conjuration with a good confidence & resolution.

Lamarton anoyr bulon madriel traschon ebrasothea panthenon nabrulges Camery itrasbier rubanthy nadres Calmosi ormenu lan, ytules demy rabion hamorphyn.

[122r] When your entire and trusty freind (who ought also to be learned in this Arte as aforesaid) to whom you send, hath red this foregoing Conjuration towards the East &c., The spirit will immediately reveal the secret privately, as you sent to him, verbally; the which secret was not convenient for you to committ either to letter or messenger, otherwise than by this Art. And so shall your freind hereby fully understand your mind &c.

And if it should so happen that your friend by in any Company att the moment of time when the letter and message cometh to him by the spirit you sent, the spirit will be invisible to all in the place except himself, and will give the letter privately to him then let him take leave to depart the Company for a little time & in his repose let him observe and performe what is above sayd. But if it should so happen that his ingagements in that moment cannot permit him opportunity or liberty to depart the place & company let him turn hiselfe to the East & with a low voice say the aforesayn Conjuration, and the Spirit will immediately reveal the secret Message you sayd verbally to him in his ear privately & not one in the Company perceiving &c.

The Secrets of this Chapter may be sent to a chief steward or Bayliff or any such like king of things according as occasion in such cases shall require. The Offices of these spirits is Likewise to bewray³⁰⁴ deceitfull Trustees &c.

Nota: It behoveth the Operator to be very prudently diligent & exquisite in the practise of this chapter by reason of the implacability thereof, for it is the most difficult in this Art.

Now understand that by the Exemplication of this chapter as it is here sett down the succeeding method is facile enough even to the meanest Capacity without further Instruction.

Chapter II.

The next Spirit in Order is called Padiel, who governeth in that mansion, quarter or point of the Compasse that lyeth directly East & by South,³⁰⁵ whose seal is thus [5]. He have under him 10,000 Diurnal & 200,000 Nocturnall minister, and many other servients whose number is uncertain.

The Diurnall Presidentiall Spirits have authority over all operations that are made in the day and are very friendly, & doe readily, willingly, & joyfully obey the master, and if they are called att a fitt & convenient time do immediately come without delay, and the secret that you shall committ unto their charge they will faithfully deliver & reveale to your friends, & to no one else.

These do lead forth the Nocturnall spirits unto obscure places of darkness who all shun the daylight except one, who is the Messenger to the Presidentiall Spirits. They are all very Courteouse and benevolent & not att all offensive, hurtfull or prejudiciall to the master (unless he be maliciouse, incredulouse, unskilfull, and not att all dignified, and then perchance to such they may prove noxiouse).

It is not requisite to call them altogether att one time because few may suffice, & sometimes one spirit is enough to fulfil the requests of the Operator, whether [122v] it be by day or by night. And as in company they are freindly, flexible, obedient & peaceable; so when alone, they are frequently solitary; but when they come in multitudes, and are numerouse even as it were numberless then they are somewhat boystrouse, filling the Ayre with an unusuall & strenge kind of humming noyse &c.

³⁰⁴ Obsolete word meaning “reveal,” “disclose.”

³⁰⁵ i.e., East-southeast. The Latin Steganographia attributes this spirit to subsolanus, a somewhat vague term for an easterly wind, but the accompanying figure indicates a direction midway between East and Southeast.

Now when any one is desireouse to operate by these spirits & to intimate by them the secrets of his mind to a trusty friend being absend and residing in some remote part, do thus:

Write upon the prepared paper what discourse you please, but note, insert not three in the proper secret that you intend to conceale to your friend, for that must be delivered verbally to the spirits as aforesaid, to prevent any discover thereof, that may accidentally happen by the Loss or carelesly throwing a letter or paper aside, or otherwise, as many times such a casualty happeneth to one's prejudice) & in what method you please, & in what language you please (it being a matter wholly indifferent & no sensible error)³⁰⁶ observing the same method as in the precedent chapter is specyfyd &c. All which being done in due Order according as the Art requireth, turne your face towards the East & by south and say this following Conjunction:

Padiel *aporsy mesarpon omeuas peludyn malpreaxo. Condusen, vlearo thersephi bayl merphon, paroys gebuly ma ilthomyon ilthear tamerson acrimy lon peatha Casmy Chertie, medony reabdo, lasonti iaciel ma atri bulomeon abry pathulmon theoma pathormyn.*³⁰⁷

Which being rehearsed as oft as is requisite you shall see one or two of these spritis affably present themselves before you, ready & willing to obey you, unto whome you shall by word of mouth commit the secrett message you intend to conceale to your freind, as aforesaid, and not by letter; and that or those spirits will faithfully & undoubtedly performe what they are enjoyned to, and will fully reveal the secret, & make known your mind to your freind, according to your trust & affiance.

When your freind receiveth the letter openeth it, and seeth the seal of the greate Prince, Padiel thereto annexet, let him turne himselfe to the East & by the South point of the Compass, and say the following Conjunction:

Padiel ariel vanerhon chio tharso phymarto merphon amprisco ledabarym, elsophroy meserpon ameorsy, paneryn atle pachumgel thearan vtrul vt solubito beslonty las gomadyn triamy mefarnothy.

Which Conjunction being by your absent freind truly & orderly rehearsed the spirits sent will presently very courteously appear unto him & will withal perfectly reveal the secret without deceit or danger.

The office of Padiel & his subservient spirits is to declare & publish secret avisations for the Correction of malefactors for their imprisonment and punishment &c.

³⁰⁶ The ciphers of the Steganographia are easier to operate in Latin where the sense of a sentence does not depend on word order to the extent that English does.

³⁰⁷ In the "Padiel" cipher the plaintext is formed from the first letter of the first, third, fifth, &c. words of the cover text.

[123r] As for example: A certain person is accused by his Prince to whom some criminall offence is imputed, touching the detriment of his highness (or any other such like matter) and the king desires to inflict some suitable punishment on this offender although he live at never so great a distance for him. Now because the King is not willing to write to him whom he so suspects, and is minded to accuse, least (being so advised) he should either make his escape or unite the strength of his friends to him, and so make resistance; wherefore the Prince forthwith writeth a letter to his Deputy, in such a manner & forme, as he neither feareth nor careth either who seeth, readeth or heareth it but communicates his mind or message secretly by word of mouth (as aforesaid) to the spirits whom he sendeth to his sayd deputy, to whom when they come (which will be almost as soon as thought) they will faythfully declare the Prince's secret: wherefore it is very requisite that both Prince & Deputy should be well instructed in this Art, where the Prince hath remote dominions, & suspicious subjects.³⁰⁸

There is another Character & conjuration that belongeth to the spirit Padiel (which we thought good to insert, thou there be no great necessity &c.) which other seal is thus [& Conjuration as followeth.

Padiel melion, parme, camiel busayr, ilnoma, venoga, pamelochyn.

Chapter III.

The third spirit in Order is named Camuel, who ruleth as a Prince in the South East mansion, whose is thus characteriz'd []. He hath 10 Diurnall, & 10 nocturnall Presidents. The Diurnall spirits shunneth not the darkness nor the nocturnall spirits the light. And when necessity requireth the one assisteth the other in the Commission of the master. The nature of this spirituall Prince Camuel is very benevolent, and he is ready to emitt his substitutes to him, who shall practise in this Art after a due & regular forme. He hath but few ministers, but every of them is obedient, faythfull & good, & being called upon doe readily attend the Master: And when they visibly appear the one is manifest in a beautifull habitt of a mixt colour, & the other are accustomed to stand in a Lucid & splendent forme: yet they usually appear onely in their sensible effects & manifest not themselves but att the pleasure of the Invocant. And wee shall heare mention so many of the Presidentiall Substitutes of Camuel, together with the number of their subservient as will suffice for purpose and practice.

Wee have in this table the names of some of the Diurnall & of some of the nocturnall Presidentiall substitutes of Camuel with the numbers of so many subservient as are properly attributed to each of them respectively. And where there is nothing sett over against Tediel, Moriel & Tugaros, it signifies that those spirits have no attendance: All the rest have so many subservient spirits officiateing under the Presidents as the numbers specifye which are sett against their names in the Table &c.

³⁰⁸ All the example letters (containing messages in the appropriate ciphers) are omitted in Trithemius Redivivus: translating them literally would have destroyed the hidden messages anyway.

| Diurnal Presidents | | Nocturnal Presidents | |
|---------------------------|------|-----------------------------|------|
| Orpeniel — | 10. | Assiniel — | 100. |
| Camyael — | 100. | Calym — | 100. |
| Budiel — | 10. | Dobiel — | 100. |
| Elcar — | 10. | Nodar — | 10. |
| Citgara — | 100. | Phaniel — | 10. |
| Pariel — | 10. | Maras — | 100. |
| Cariel — | 10. | Azymo — | 10. |
| Neriel — | 10. | Tediel — | 00. |
| Daniel — | 10. | Oriel — | 00. |
| Omyel — | 10. | Tugaras — | 00. |

When you would practise or operate any thing by the office or ministry of Camuel, and have the assistance of these spirits [123v] that appertain unto him; First observe & performe what is requisite in this art to be done (as is before taught) then direct your selfe and Invocations punctually South East being the residential mansion of Camuel, & his Spirituall Subservitors, & moderately say the following Conjunction:

Camuel aperoys, melym meuomanial, casmoyn craltly busaco aeli lunar photirion theor besamys, aneal Cabelonyr thiamo vesonthy.

And note, Let this Rule be carefully all along observed both in the foregoing & succeeding chapters and Conjunctions in this Treatise that where the Presidentiall Spirits are nominated or inserted, be sure let the name of that spirit which is appointed to officiate, or be the messenger, be expressed or inserted next after the name of the spirit in the Conjunction.

When you have seriously and silently sayd the foregoing conjunction & made as often repetitions thereof as is necessary then will you see the spirites appere presenting themselves ready & willing to fulfil your desires. Then Commissionate the appointed Spirit & emitt him who will immediately hast away & faithfully performe what he is enjoyned to &c.

Now is a return or an answer of the message be expected to be brought back from the absent friend by the same spirit you sent to him & he should not make such expedition again as otherwise might be thought he would doe, yet let not that in any wise beget any doubt of dishearten you by reason of delay, but persevere & attend for there is no question to be made of their fidelity answerable to your trust reposed in them. And let all things be done silently without any noyse or passionate disturbances whatsoever.

When he to whom the Message is sent, receaveth the letter, openeth it, and therein seeth the Seal of Camuel and knoweth it, observing first what is requisite to be performed in this Art, let him direct his countenance to the South East point of the Compasse, & silently rehearse the following Conjunction:

Camuel Busarcha, menaton enatiel, meran sayr abasremon, nacula pesarum nadru lasmon enoti chamabet usear lespony abrulmy pen sayr thubarym, gonayr asmonfriacha rynon ontry hamerson buccurmy pedauellon.

Which when he hath thus done the Spirit will immediately reveale the secret message unto him & will faithfully bring back any message fro him, if it be desired whereby you may as fully know your friends mind as he knows yours.

The Office of Camuel & his attending servitours in his Orbicular Mansion is to declare the comeing, intention, condition, wayse & journeys of messengers together with their Arrival & returne &c.³⁰⁹

Chapter IV.

The fourth Spirit in Order Successively is the great & potent Prince Aseliel, whose Seale is thus noted [☿] and who resideth in that mansion which is directly South & by East.³¹⁰ This poetent Prince Aseliel hath under him 10 Diurnal & 20 Nocturnal Presidents under whom are 30 principal Spirits, and under these again are as many subservient who are by order emitted to their offices when they are in due manner called by the Master Artist: And under whom again are likewise a greate number of subservient spirits who all Continually and gradually attended on the Prince of this Order.

| Diurnal Presidents | | Nocturnal Presidents | |
|--------------------|-----|----------------------|-----|
| Mariel — | 20. | Asphiel — | 20. |
| Charas — | 20. | Curiel — | 20. |
| Parniel — | 20. | Chamos — | 20. |
| Aratiel — | 20. | Odiel — | 20. |
| Cubiel — | 20. | Melas — | 20. |
| Aniel — | 20. | Sariel — | 20. |
| Asahel — | 20. | Othiel — | 20. |
| Arcan — | 20. | Bufar — | 20. |

[124r] Now if you would either diurnally or nocturnally operate in this Art by the Prince of this mansion & the spirits that appertain to him it is needless to invoke any more then one or two, for it is sufficient enough for any one or two purposes according to the tenour & property of this Offices: Some of the principal whereof or as many as are requisite to know, wee shall here nominate together with the number of the servitors &c.

Wee have in this annexed table nominated 16 of the Principal Presidents that under under the powerfull Prince Aseliel, eight whereof governe in the day & eight in the nigh, & every of them hath 20 subjected familiars whom they emitt to their Offices whensoever it is required by and proficient in this Art. And know, that all these Spirituall Presidentiall Princes are very benevolent & Courteouse, and with all readiness & submission doe willingly performe their Allegiance to the Master att his instant request and Command: but all their substituted familiars are not so, but are obtentimes somewhat obstinate refractory & implacable (and especially to such who are but weake sciolists & mean proficientes in this Art. All which (as wee sayd before) are sufficient to doe what wee please for us; for which purpose there are enough here nominated. Now whosoever hath a mind to practise by the ministry & Office of this Spiritual & great Prince Asiel & his substituted Presidents & servients must 1st observe & performe what this Art requireth, & turne his face directly to the South and by East point of the Compass, & with moderate earnestness & fervency invoke as followeth:

³⁰⁹ In the “Camuel” cipher, the initial letters of the second, fourth, sixth, &c. words of the cover text spell out the hidden message. I have not managed to completely decipher the “conjurations” which are probably corrupt.

³¹⁰ i.e., South-Southeast (Lat. Euroauster).

Asiel *aproysy, melym, thulnear casmoyn, mauear burson, charny demorphaon, Theoma asmeryn diuiel, casponti vearly basamys, ernoti chava lorson.*³¹¹

This being sayd the Spirits will appear in due Order ready & willing to obey ther Commissionale which soever of them is appointed or that you shall make choice of to be the Messenger & so emitt him away to his duty according to his Office who will infallibly forthwith performe & fulfil his taske. When the absent freind receiveth the letter & seeth the seal of Asiel thereunto annexed & knoweth it, let him first Observe & fulfil what in this Art is requires & then direct his Countenance to the South & by East, & with an humble & earnest intent read the following Conjuratiō:

Asiel *murnea casmodym bularcha vadusyn aty belron diuiel arsephonti si panormys orleuo cadon Venoti basramyn.*³¹²

This Contestation being rehearsed as often as is requisite & things of Course observed the spirituall messenger will visibly appear & reveale his secret message.

The Office of these spirits is to declare those things which belong to the love of women & whatsoever else appertaineth thereunto &c.

Chapter V.

The fifth mansion from the East is the South, whose great & potent Prince is the spirit Barmiel, whose seale is thus Charactered [☞]. He hath under his dominion 10 Principal Dukes with their subservient ruleing in the day, & 20 Ruleing in the night together with their Attendants.

[124v] Now wheres we see the nocturnall spirits more in number than the Diurnall, it is because the operation of this mansion is more frequently made in the night than in the day. And who so would make an experiment in this arte by this powerfull prince Barmiel, must call upon one of his princes (it matters not which) and he will immediately come with 20 Attendants; (for the Princes of this mansion seldome come alone or with less number). And herein observe this Caution, entrust not any secret to the subservient Spirits of this Order, for they are sometimes haughty, pertinacious and perverse; but to the Prince, for he is Courteouse, benevolent & faythfull &c.

³¹¹ post unam vacantem due valent.

³¹² una vacat, due soluunt. Roughly, skip one, take two: in the Asiel cipher the initials of the second, third, fifth, sixth (as so on) words in the cover text spell out the hidden message.

Wee shall nominate some of the best and choicest of them that are more ready & willing to obey upon occasion, being as many as wee Conceave either needfull or requisite &c.

| Diurnal Presidents | | Nocturnal Presidents | |
|---------------------------|-----|-----------------------------|-----|
| Sochas — | 20. | Barbis — | 20. |
| Tigara — | 20. | Marquus — | 20. |
| Chansi — | 20. | Caniel — | 20. |
| Keriel — | 20. | Acreba — | 20. |
| Acterar — | 20. | Marcaix — | 00. |
| Barbil — | 20. | Baabel — | 00. |
| Carpriel — | 20. | Gabir — | 00. |
| Mansi — | 20. | Astib — | 00. |

Here is presented in this table 8 Diurnall & 8 nocturnall Presidentiall ministering spirits appertaining to the great prince Barmiel, 16³¹³ whereof have 20 Subservients a piece attending them with whom also they are wont to appear: The other 4 have no servients but always come alone, and are very faythfull and dextrouse in their offices to doe all things that shall be enjoyed them.

Whosoever therefore is intended to prosecute any thing in this art by the ministry or assistance of Barmiel the cheife Prince ruleing & residing in the mansion of the South or any of his attending spirits ought first to observe and performe what is requisitie in this Art to be done, and then direct his intentions and Countenance to the South, say the following Contestation.

Barmiel, buras melo charnotiel malapos veno masphian albryon, chasmia peluo morophon apluer charmya noty Mesron alraco caspiel hoalno chorbem ouear aserea cralnoty carephon elcsor bumely nesitan army tu faron.

When the Spirits are seen to appear then communicate to the most trusty of them (as is fore specified) buy send a letter by which you please it matters not.

When the absent freind receaveth your letter, opens it and finds the seal of Barmiel thereunto affixed and knowing the same, let him first observe such directions as the Art requireth, then turne himselfe to the South and say this Contestation.

Barmiel any casleon archoi bulesan eris, Casray molaer pessaro duys anale goerno mesrue greal cusere drelnoz, parle cufureti basriel afly maraphe neaslo, carnoserne, damerosenotis any carpodyn.

All which being duly observed & performed then immediately will the Spirit entrusted with the secret reveal all things faithfully unto him without either the least danger, or any notice to be taken by whomsoever should be accidentally present.

³¹³ sic., .s.b. "12."

Chapter VI.

The 6th Mansion is in the South and by West,³¹⁴ the supreme prince possessing and governing is Gediel the great, whose seal is thus decyphered [𐄂𐄃𐄄]. He hath under his dominions 20 Diurnal, & 20 Nocturnall Captains, governing over many subservient Spirits.

[125r] Whosoever will practice in this Art by the ministry and assistance of this mighty Prince Gediel, and by his substituted Presidents, ought to invoke two of the Principall Subservient Dukes and their 20 Servants, without whom they avail not much. And as many of them as are needful to be known or called upon to their offices, either Diurnally or Nocturnally with the number of their Servients, followeth.

| Diurnal | | Nocturnal | |
|----------------|-------|------------------|-----|
| Coliel — | 20. | Reciel — | 20. |
| Naras— | 20. | Sadiel — | 20. |
| Sabas — | 20. | Agra — | 20. |
| Assabi— | 20. | Anael — | 20. |
| [[Sariel — | 20.]] | Aroan — | 20. |
| Ransiel — | 20. | Circas— | 20. |
| Mashel — | 20. | Aglas — | 20. |
| Bariel — | 20. | Uriel — | 20. |

Here is nominated in this annexed table 8 Diurnall³¹⁵ & 8 Nocturnall Spirituall Presidents serving under Gediel the great Prince and governor in the South and by West Mansion, and with whom they always abide. Now altho this great Prince together with many of his subservitors are oftentimes dangerouse and violent offering themselves not only invisibly but with terror and clamouring voyces to the amazement of the Invocant: yet those which are here nominated are very benevolent courteouse & secure and need not either be feared or doubted for they are faythfull and obedient, and are willingly ready to fulfil and performe those Commands that shall be imposed upon them, therefore they may safely be entrusted with any *<illegible>*³¹⁶ Secrets coherent to their offices.

Whoso would seek the ayd and assistance of this spirituall Prince & Potentate Gediel, and such of his substitutes as inhabite in his mansion upon any emergent business to an absent freind of her afar of, and cannot tell how to send or entrust anyone with a letter to him then let this art be made use of by calling to they helpe and supply such of the benevolent spirits of this mansion as are forespecified. To do which first observing to perform what in art is requisite then direct the Countenance & course of affairs directly to the South and by West, and confidently say the following conjuration:

Gediel asiel modebar mpiel, casmoyn, rochamurenu proys nasaron atido casmear vearsy, maludym velchain demosar otiel masduryim sodiuiel mesray seoramarlun, laueur pealo netus fabelron.

³¹⁴ i.e., South-southwest (Austro-africus).

³¹⁵ Sariel was omitted in the MS., leaving only seven diurnal spirits; restored from printed Steganographia.

³¹⁶ ‘māāl’ (?) again.

Which being done and things of course observes the 2 Princes nominated and called will be patient, obedient, (obedient) and affable and ready to fulfil whatsoever shall be requested according to the office and order of the Mansion and its Princes.

When the absent party receaveth the letter sent and seeth the seal of Gediel then & knoweth it, let him observe what is to be done, and what behoveth him in this art to doe, and then turne his countenance to the South by west and say this subsequent Contestation:

Gediel *aprois*³¹⁷ camor ety moschoyn diuial palorsan, sermel, asparlon Crisphe Lamedon ediur cabosyn arsy thamerosyn.

Which being orderly performed, the spirit sent will visibly appear to him and verbatim rehearse the secret message, not any one perceiving the present.

The office of Gediel and these spirits subordinate to him resideing in this 6th Mansion situate South by West is to declare all things that belongeth to the advisement of freinds, concerning any eminent & future dangers, & more especially to Princes for the dfence of their cities, castles, &c., and to publish all things that are profitable to freinds even against all enemies & adverseries whatsoever.

[125v] Chapter VII.

The 7th Mansion is situated directly South-West, the supreme spirit regulating wherein is the great and puissant Prince Assyriel,³¹⁸ whose seale is thus decyphered []. He hath under his dominion 20 Diurnal, & 20 Nocturnal Princes, who likewise have under them again many familiars, and subservient Attendants, all resideing in this Mansion.

Whosoever would require the ayd and assistance of the Prince of this South-West mansion Assyriel the great, or any of his substitutes, either by day or by night, this Rule ought to be observed, that if Diurnall spirits are to be invocated, then must 2 of the President Angells be called upon, because they are not accustomed to come alone nor unattended for they usually come attended with 20 subservitors waiteing on them. But if the Nocturnall Princes be invocated, then but one of those presidentiall spirits need to be called upon who comes attended onely with 10 servants. But for as many as are usefull, and fitt to be known, and how each one is accustomarily atteneded, is nominated and sett down in this annexed Table, being needless to insert any more, these being sufficient.

³¹⁷ aproijs originally written, corrected in margin.

³¹⁸ Asiriel in the printed Steganographia.

| Diurnal | | Nocturnal | |
|----------------|--------|------------------|--------|
| Astor — | 20—20. | Amiel — | 20—20. |
| Carga — | 20—20. | Cusiel — | 20—20. |
| Buniel — | 20—20. | Maroth — | 20—20. |
| Rabas — | 20—20. | Omiel — | 20—20. |
| Archisal — | 20—00. | Budar — | 10—00. |
| Adriel — | 20—00. | Aspiel — | 10—00. |
| Cusiel — | 20—00. | Fassus — | 10—00. |
| Malqueel — | 20—00. | Hamas — | 10—00. |

Here is inserted in this subjoined Table 16 of the principal servitors with the number of their attendants officiateing under the great Spirituall Prince Assyriel all bearing rule in the south west mansion. They are all benevolent enough but yet notwithstanding sometimes proud and haughty too and have this Custome among them that when the Exorcist speaketh to them they send forth their servants and returne back themselves alone, for they may not hear the Commission: And when the Master ceaseth speaking to the Prince, then doe the servants seem to be present.

And with all this Rule is to be carefully observed that when one or two Ruleing Spirits of this Mansion serving under Assyriel are called upon by their names, the number of their servants ought also to be expressed, because they being proud, it wonderfully pleaseth and delighteth them, for that they are sayd to have authority over a multitude of Clyentiall³¹⁹ spirits.

And that they may the better be discerned when they are present they are most Commonly wont to appear in a saffron or a Copper coloured Habitt, but their familiars usually appear in white Vestures.

Whosoever would call upon or invoke of the spirits resideing in this mansion first observe, what in Art is requisite, as aforesayd, and then turning to the South-West let the following Conjunction be devoutly rehearsed:³²⁰

[Asyriel aphorsy Lamodyn to Carmephyn drubal asutroy Sody baruchon, vsefer palormy thulncar asmeron chornemadusyn coleny busarethon duys marphelithubra nasaron veneer fabelronty.

After some seriouse repetitions of this Conjunction they will immediately appear ready to receave Commands, and to performe what is to be required of them according to their Offices.

And it is here to be observed that no letter or secrett message is with safety to be committed or entrusted to any of the inferior subservient under the Princes of this hierarchy, but to a Prince, because the superior spirits are more faythfull.

³¹⁹ I'm not sure if this was an English word at the time; represents clientelis in the Latin.

³²⁰ Due to scribal eye-skip, the latter part of this chapter is somewhat disarranged in S4: the scribe wrote the "receiving" (decoding) conjunction here, carried on to the end of the chapter, then noticed the omission and wrote the omitted text (here flagged by square brackets and restored to its proper place) in afterwards.

When the absent party to whom the letter or secret message is sent by the Spirits of this order, receaveth the sayd letter, openeth it and seeth the seal of Asyriel affixed thereunto, let him carefully observe and performe, what according to the prescript Rules in this Art is requisite, then keeping his Countenance turned to the South West lett him with Courage [[say]] the conjuration above written which beginneth thus, and so proceed to the end of this chapter: by reason of the mistake in the Conjuration.]

Asyriel onear Camor Laueuiel gamer sothin ianoz alnay bulumer palorson, irgiel lamdeon, ludiel Caparosyn nany asparlon nadiel bulephor ianos pesonry tresloty Camon elyr, mearsu nosy thamerosyn.

[126r] And anon the Spirituall Prince with his servants will visibly appear to him and faithfully by word of mouth will silently and gently deliver the secret message sent by thim to the Absent, tho he be never in so far a Countrey, or att never so great a distance even with such privacy that no other person (tho there should be more in place) shall either hear, see, understand or in the least discover, perceave or suspect any thing.

The offices of these spirits is to reveale & disclose secret matters & things of superlative, materiall and weighty Concernments &c.

Chapter VIII.

The eighth mansion is in that point of the Compass that is scituate directly west and by south,³²¹ where resideth and governeth the great Spirituall Prince Maseriel, with an infinite number of Princes, Dukes and Servants and whose seale is thus deciphered or noted []. He hath out of the former company appointed thirty Diurnall and thirty nocturnall ministering Spirits &c. But for as many as are needfull to be known are inserted in the ensuing table which are sufficient, for any persons practise soever, that that a mind to be Curious in this Art, but beware that you duly & truly observe Every Rule which is prescribed herein according to Art &c.

[126v] In this annexed Table is nominated 12 Diurnal, & 12 Nocturnal presidentiall spirits ruling as Princes & ministering under Maseriel in the West and by South Mansion together with a certain number of their subservients, who are all very benevolent & faythfull in whatsoever is required of them according to their offices not returning till all things that was committed to their trust be fully & effectually performed to good Likeing &c.

³²¹ i.e., West-Southwest (favonius).

| Diurnal | | | Nocturnal | |
|----------------|-----|--|------------------|-----|
| Mahuc — | 30. | | Arach — | 30. |
| Roviel — | 30. | | Maras — | 30. |
| Fariel — | 30. | | Noquiel — | 30. |
| Zeriel — | 30. | | Sarmiel — | 30. |
| Athiel — | 30. | | Amoyr — | 30. |
| Vessur | 30. | | Badiel — | 30. |
| Azimel | 30. | | Baros — | 30. |
| Chasor | 30. | | Eliel — | 30. |
| Potiel | 30. | | Earas — | 30. |
| Alsuel — | 30. | | Rabiel — | 30. |
| Aliel — | 30. | | Atriel — | 30. |
| Espoel — | 30. | | Salvar — | 30. |

They come quietly without any noyse or clamours, and either come alone, & sometimes with many, at other times again with few, & att some other times without any attendant, all att all even as they shall be desired neither terrifying nor affrightning the Invocant unless he be unskilfull in this Art presuming to undertake what he understands not &c.

Now who so hath att any times an emergent occasion to send to a freind who is far remote in some other Countrey & would have the assistance of Maseriel and his ministering subservient to officiate (to officiate) for him in carrying or communicating a secret message to his absent freind, let him be carefull in observing what the Art requires, & direct his Actions and Countenance to the west and by South, & rehearse the subsequent Conjunction:

Maseriel bulan lamodyn charnoty carmephin jabrun caresathroyn asulroy bevesy cadumyn turiel busan Sevear: almos lycadufel ernoty panier lethar care pheory bulan thorty paron Venio Fabel ronthusy.

Things of Course being thus duly performed the spirit that was called by name will forthwith visibly appear; Then Commisionate him and send him forth &c.

When the absent party receaveth the letter openeth it & seeth the Seal of Maseriel therein affixed, let him first observe and performe what in this Art is requisite to be done, and then turne his Countenance to the west & by South and silently with a devout Resolution rehearse the following Conjunction:

Maseriel onear Camersin, Cohodor messary lyrno balnaon greal, lamedon odiel, pedarnoy nador ianozaury chamyrin.

Which being done the spirit which was sent wil immediately appear to him and will also trustily by word of mouth very seriously & privately communicate the secret message as he was enjoyned, no body perceiving, tho any one should be in (in) place.

The Office of these Spirits is to declare and relate the Secrets of humane Arts as Philosophy magick, Arithmatick³²² &c. And all such wonderfull mysticall & occult learning, as is rarely known among the sons of men.

³²² Necromantiae in the Latin Steganographia (T1606 p. 25).

Chap. IX.

The 9th Mansion is in that point of the Compass that is Scituate directly West the Supreme Spirit governing wherein, is the great and Potent Prince [127r] Malgaras whose Seal is thus noted [𐄂𐄃𐄄]. He hath under him 30 Diurnall & 30 Nocturnall ministering Spirits, serving as Dukes who present themselves upon call to the Invocant according to their Orders and Offices. And here are as many select Presidentiall Spirits or Dukes serving under Malgaras nominated in this subjoined Table as is sufficient, being altogether needless to insert any more.

| Diurnal | | Nocturnal | |
|----------------|--|------------------|--|
| Carmiel — 30. | | Aroc — 30. | |
| Meliel — 30. | | Dobiel — 30. | |
| Boras — 30. | | Cubi — 30. | |
| Agor — 30. | | Libiel — 30. | |
| Casiel — 30. | | Raboc — 30. | |
| Rabiel — 30. | | Aspiel — 30. | |
| Cabiel — 30. | | Caron — 30. | |
| Udiel — 30. | | Zamor — 30. | |
| Oriel — 30. | | Amiel — 30. | |
| Misiel — 20. | | Aspor — 20. | |
| Barfas — 20. | | Deilas — 20. | |
| Aroiz — 10. | | Basiel — 10. | |

In this adjoyed Table is inscribed 12 of the Diurnall and 12 of the nocturnall Presidential Dukes and a certain number of their subservient officiating under Malgaras the supreme and mighty Prince in the Mansion of the West. And here it is too be understood, that Aroiz & Basiel do always come alone, and Misiel, Barfas, Aspor, Deilas may be called by two and two according as they are placed in the table, and the rest may be called by 3 and 3.³²³ But consideration³²⁴ and judgement is required in this point, that when one, two or 3 of the spirits of this Hierarchy are called upon, be carefull that there be no mistake, because the change of place is somewhat dangerouse. All these spirits are by nature very benevolent & courteouse and are att all times obedient to the calls of the Invocant and readily fulfill his requests; And especially the Diurnall Presidents because they are always accustomed to be conversant amongst men; but the nocturnall Spirits are not willingly frequent amongst men (altho they are by nature very benevolent too) but doe much fly from & detest the light desiring to be hid in darkeness (as being most delighting therein) and for that cause they are wont most frequently to appear (when they are called by Conjuratiō) like Bats or ³²³ The red rules across the table reflect how each section was split up by columns in the printed Steganographia.

³²⁴ Doubtful: word appears as ‘᾽Ραῶν’, the initial character being an abbreviation for ‘con’ or ‘com’ (not used by any of the other scribes of S4); this passage is fairly freely paraphrased from the Latin, which has cum volueris habere tres aut duos aut unum, cave ne erres in nominibus eorum.

The names of the “Dukes” in any case appear to be part of the cover text and have no part in the cipher system, since the only thing indicating to the recipient of your message which cipher you are using is the character of the principal spirit. The numbers of “diurnal” and “nocturnal” servitors mentioned in the main text in some instances appear to have reference to the particular cipher system, e.g. the “10 diurnal and 20 nocturnal” presidents under Asiel correspond to the cipher where one “filler” word in the cover text is followed by two signifying.

rear-mice &c. and are slow by nature, wherefore they doe not usually appear immediately: But by perseverance and a Continued reiterating or oft repeating the Conjunction they are at length even urged and Constrained to shew themselves visibly forth & so by degrees are brought to submission & obedience, notwithstanding the preceding difficulty.

Now when any thing is to be done by the ministry and assistance of the Spirituall Prince Malgaras, and these Spirits that officiate under him resideing in the mansion of the West; First, observe and perform what in art is required, and then have recourse to the precedent Table making choice of such spirits are are thought fitt to be employed in the administration of affayrs according to their Orders and Offices as therein they are nominated and distinctly sett down, by takeing one, 2 or 3 att a call being carefull not to mistake or change your³²⁵ places for then all is but labour in vain and to no purpose: But things of course being respectively observed and performed turne to the West, and say the following Conjunction.

Malgaras ador chameso bulueriny mareso bodyr Cadumir aviel casmyo tedy pleoryn viordi eare viorba, chameron vesy thuriel ulnavy, bevesy meuo chasmironty naor ernyso, chony barmo calevodyn barso thurba sol.

And then after a little pause these Spirits that are called by name according to the prescript Rules (or Requirements) in this Art will visibly appear, very courteous and affable [127v] then Comissionate them, and send them away &c.

When he to whom the letters are sent receaveth them and findeth the seal of the great Prince Malgaras therein affixed, let him first observe what in this Art is requisite, and having performed the same turne himselfe to the west & say the following Conjunction:

Malgaras apro chameron asoty mesary throes Zameda sogreal paredon adre Caphoron onatyr tirno beosy. Chameron phorsy mellon tedrumarsy dumaso duise Casmiel elthurny peson alproys fabelronty Sturno panalmo nador.

Then immediately will the Spirit that was sent visibly appear unto him and will faithfully with much privacy communicate the secret message he was entrusted with.

The office of these spirits is to declare the secrets & familiar trusts of one friend to another, and in those things that is common to men in all extemporary affairs, as money, goods paroned,³²⁶ lent or trusted &c. And also in any other matter of humane Commerce or concernment.

³²⁵ y^r in MS.; in context, possibly meant for "their."

³²⁶ Doubtful word, probably an obsolete useage.

Chap. X.

The 10th Mansion is in that point of the Compass scituate directly West & by North,³²⁷ wherein the mighty and powewrfull Prince Dorothiel beareth the Supreme and principal³²⁸ Sway, whose Seal is thus characterised [329

| For y ^e 1 st 6 hours of y ^e day | | For the last of y ^e day | | For y ^e 1 st 6 hours of night | | For the last of y ^e night | |
|--|----|------------------------------------|-----|---|----|--------------------------------------|-----|
| Mugael | 40 | Gudiel | 400 | Nachiel | 40 | Phutiel | 400 |
| Choriel | 40 | Asphor | 400 | Osysiel ³³⁰ | 40 | Cayros | 400 |
| Artinc | 40 | Emuel | 400 | Bulis | 40 | Narsiel | 400 |
| Efiel | 40 | Souiel | 400 | Moniel | 40 | Moziel | 400 |
| Maniel | 40 | Cabron | 400 | Pasiel | 40 | Arosziel ³³¹ | 400 |
| Suriel | 40 | Diviel | 400 | Gariel | 40 | Cusync | 400 |
| Carsiel | 40 | Abriel | 400 | Soriel | 40 | Uraniel | 400 |
| Fubiel | 40 | Danael | 400 | Darbori | 40 | Pelusar | 400 |
| Carba | 40 | Lomor | 400 | Paniel | 40 | Abael | 400 |
| Merach | 40 | Cesael | 400 | Curfas | 40 | Meroth | 400 |
| Althor | 40 | Busiel | 400 | Aliel | 40 | Cadriel | 400 |
| Omael | 40 | Larfös | 400 | Maziel | 40 | Lobiel | 400 |

[128r] Here are out of every Order of the Princes of Dorothiel, 24 Diurnal & 24 Nocturnall Dukes together with the severall numbers of their subservient respectively, as they stand inscribed in the precedent Tables, the which are sufficient for all operations any way properly appertaining to their Offices. Now the way of practising in this by the spirits of this mansion differeth from the rest, as shall be hereunder briefly declared.

It is therefore to be understood, that there 24 hours in the day & in the night, and they are governed by the 7 planetts: The 12 hours of the day are from ☉ riseing to ☉ setting:

³²⁷ i.e., west-northwest (Lat. chorus).

³²⁸ Doubtful; represented by an abbreviation that looks like 'prcāl.'

³²⁹ The following angular figure in red appeared in the printed Steganographia in this place, with the names Mugael, Choriel, Artinc and Efiel (also indicated as to be written in red, and with the number 0 next to each) in a column to the left of it. In S4 it was copied again twice in black to the right of the main figure.

³³⁰ Ofisiel in T1606 (apparently transcribed correctly in the main text).

³³¹ Arosziel in T1606.

And the 12 hours of the night are from Sun setting to Sun rising, as by the doctrine & books of Astronomy is more fully sett down, & amply to be understood, relation being thereunto had and observed, &c.³³²

Whosoever therefore att any time hath an occasion or is minded to make use of at any of the Presidentiall substitutes officiating under Dorothiel, first Consider & seriously view the fore-going Table, the use whereof is briefly thus: The first four spirits, as Mugael, Choriel, Artinc, Efiel, governeth in the first 2 hours of the day, this is, the 2 first Planetary hours, beginning att the ☉ riseing according to their equall or unequall proportions in length as the time or season of the year happeneth. The 2^d four spirits as Maniel, Suriel, Carsiel & Fubiel, governe in the 2^d two planetary hours, & so successively as they are placed in the Table, &c.

And so likewise again Nachiel, Ofsiel, Bulis, Moniel are to be called in the two first hours of the night, and so the rest following successively in their respected Orders as aforesayd, so that now the main observation herein is thus, that whosoever will call upon any of the Spirits in this Mansion serving under Dorothiel must have regard to the time or hour of the day or the night, and whether it be in the 1st, 2^d, 3^d, 4th, fifth or 6th two hours thereof according to the planetary Regiments & Regulations, which being known, then may those 4 Spirits, which are appropriates thereunto be called upon, or any one particular of them, who are always present³³³ in their order, time & government, but not otherwise, for it is Contrary to their natures &c.

The premises considered & observed, & things of course also rightly performed as in this Art is requisite and ought of right to be, then to the west & by north point of the Compasse then call upon one or more of the four Spirits which are present in their proper hours or times, saying the following Conjunction:

Dorothiel cusi feor madylon busar pamersy chear ianothym baony Camersy vlymeor peathan adial cadumyr renear thubra Cohagier maslon Lodierno fabelrusyn.

Then immediately will the Spirits, or Spirit called upon, appear willingly & readily obeying &c. unto whom any secret may be very securely Comitted, & then send them away.

When the absent party receaveth the letter, openeth it & seeth the Seal of Dorothiel therein affixed, let him first observe & performe what on his part of behalf in [128v] this ³³² This refers to the system of planetary “days and hours” whereby the first “hour” of each day (defined as one of 12 equal divisions of the time from sunrise to sunset, which will only be an actual hour at the Equinoxes) is referred to the planet to which the day is ascribed, and from thence cycling through the planets in the order of increasing apparent rate of motion seen from the Earth’s surface (i.e. Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Sol, Venus, Mercury, Luna), with the period from sunset to sunrise similarly divided into 12. Possibly because of how the ascription of days to classical Planets originated, this will result in an unbroken sequence through the week.

³³³ Doubtful: word represented by an unclear abbreviation, restored from context.

Art is required, and then turne his Countenance to the West and by North being the Mansion of this Hierarchy and with a Low voyce repeat the subsequent conjuration:

Dorothiel onear chameron vlyfeor madusyn peony oriel nyr druse mouayr pamerson etro dumseon, dauor caho. Casmiel hayrno, fabelrunthon.

Now if the spirit should not presently [[appear]] but delayeth his comeing or shew himselfe let him repeat the Conjuration, and in a short time he will certainly appear visibly to him and will faithfully by word of mouth deliver the secret message to him privately in his ear, no body else perceiving (though any should be in place).

The Office of these Spirits is to declare those Secrets that belong to Spirituall affairs And to Ecclesiasticall gifts, Benefices, Prelatures, Dignities and such Like &c.

Chap. XI

The 11th Mansion is in that point of the Compass scituate directly North-West, where ruleth the great Prince Usiel, whose Seale is thus noted [334

|  |  |  |  |
|---|---|---|---|
| Diurnal | | Nocturnal | |
| Abaria — | 40. | Ansoel — | 40. |
| Ameta — | 40. | Godiel — | 40. |
| Arnen — | 40. | Barfos — | 40. |
| Herne — | 40. | Burfa — | 40. |
| Saefar — | 40. | Saddiel — | 40. |
| Poriel — | 40. | Sobiel — | 40. |
| Saefar — | 40. | Ossidiel — | 40. |
| Maqui — | 40. | Adan — | 40. |
| Amandiel — | 30. | Asuriel — | 20. |
| Barsu — | 30. | Almoel — | 20. |
| Garnacu — | 30. | Phathir — | 20. |
| Hissam — | 30. | Marae — | 20. |
| Fabariel — | 30. | Laspharon — | 10. |
| Usiniel — | 30. | Ethiel — | 10. |

Out of the 40 Diurnal and 40 Nocturnall Presidential Princes serving under Usiel here are 14 of each inserted in this adjoined table together with a certain number of their servients the use thereof shall be amply and breifly declared att the latter end of this chapter. The Princes of this Mansion are by nature Courteouse, benevolent and obedient & usually doe appear willingly <willingly> and immediately upon call, except the undertaker be unlearned and unskilfull in this Art, and then they appear more slowly and remisse; And although they have many servants, yet I never see that they brought any with them (at least wise visibly) yet notwithstanding their servants are to be made use of in this Art, because they being subattendant under their Princes, and the Superior Spirits of this mansion are bound to obey both them and the Calls and requests of the Invocant according to their Offices &c.

³³⁴ The table has been rearranged from the printed Steganographia (T1606 p. 34-5). The characters above the “Diurnall” servitors originally appeared below the first set of 14 names (arranged in 4 columns by 4, 4, 3, 3) and the characters above the “Nocturnall” servitors were printed in the table, occupying the third row of the third and fourth columns respectively in the second division. In the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia they were adapted as the seals of Abari, Maqui, Ansoel and Adan.

At what time soever therefore any of the Princes or other the subservient spirits of this mansion ministering under Usiel are to be called upon, first observe & performe what in art is required, then to the N. West with a fixt intent say this Conjunction:

Usiel parnothiel chameron briosy sthrubal brionear Caron sotronthi egyptia odiel Chelory mear Chadusy notiel ornych turbelsi paneras thorthay pean adresmo boma arnotiel Chelmodyn drusarloz sodiuuel Carson, Eltrae myre notiel mesraym Venea dubleary mauear melusyron chartulneas fabelmerusyn.

[129r] Then immediately will the Spirit called upon forthwith appear unto whom a secret message may be committed together with the seale of the profound mystery, and then they may be comissionated and dispatched on their errand without doubting any thing.

When the absent party receaveth a letter, openeth it and seeth the seal of Usiel therein let him turne himselfe to the North-West, and seriously repeat the following Conjunction.

Usiel *asoyr paremon cruato madusyn savepy mavayr realdo chameron ilco paneras thurmo pean elsoty fabelrusyn iltras charson frymasto chelmodyn.*³³⁵

At which the Spirit sent will anon visibly appear unto him and will privately and trustily by word of mouth whisper the secret message sent by him, and bring another back.

The Office of the Spirits of this Hierarchy is to declare treasures hid in the earth and all such things as seem to conduce and belong to the discovery and findeing out of the same. And with all it is here to be understood that if the treasures should be great and belong to any Prince, then some spirit or other may be called out of the Order of four: And if it be our one then then one may be called out of the Order of three. And if it be private and of little value, then one may be called of the order of two, and if it be of very small account, then out of the order of one.³³⁶

The use thereof in this Art of Steganographia (besides their private Offices) is thus: suppose it be certainly known where some treasures lyeth hid in the earth or elsewhere, and that I have no freind at hand whome I can entrust & confide in to helpe me to bear it away, but that the most faythfullest freind I have is far absent, and yet I have a desire to reveale the buisness to him, and to none else, desireing his ayd & assistance therein, and I cannot without danger or fear of discovery committ the matter either to letter or to any other Messenger, then what I must thereby of necessity make use of in this Art &c. And then by observing those rules therein prescribed, without dispute the effects will prove successful enough in all respect.

³³⁵ This deciphers simply as syc ut supradictum est ita fiat, "let it be done thus as is said above."

³³⁶ i.e., those with "10" next to their name in the table. This passage was made obscure by the rearrangement of the table of the servitors of Usiel. As set out in the print edition (and in at least one of the extant 16th-century MSS.) the "day" servitors were arranged in two columns with four names, and two with three names; the "night" servitors similarly, but with the characters, already mentioned, splitting each column with two names above and one below. The Dukes arranged in groups of four all have "40" next to their name in the table, those in groups of three "30," those in groups of two "20" and those on their own "10."

And note that those two seals or characters of each order sett one against another att the top of the precedent Table serveth to secure or keep the hidden Treasure from any that by an accidentall chance may have an Item thereof and so attempt to take it privately away, ere my own designs or intents can be accomplished.³³⁷

Chap. XII.

The 12th Mansion is Scituate directly North and by west,³³⁸ where ruleth and resideth the great imperiall Prince Cabariel, whose seale is thus figured []. He hath under his dominion 50 Diurnall and fifty Nocturnall Presidentiall Spirits, under whom again are many ministering subservient, some whereof are inserted in the following Table, which are sufficient for any one that would practice in the ministry of this imperiall prince Cabariel &c.

| Diurnal | | Nocturnall | |
|----------------|-----|-------------------|-----|
| Satifiel — | 50. | Mador — | 50. |
| Parius — | 50. | Peniel — | 50. |
| Godiel — | 50. | Cugiel — | 50. |
| Taros — | 50. | Thalbos — | 50. |
| Asoriel — | 50. | Orym — | 50. |
| Etymel — | 50. | Ladiel — | 50. |
| Clyssan — | 50. | Morias — | 50. |
| Eliel — | 50. | Pandor — | 50. |
| Aniel — | 50. | Casul — | 50. |
| Cuphar — | 50. | Dubiel — | 50. |

[129v] Out of the 50 Diurnall and 50 nocturnall Princes of Cabariel, resideing in this mansion and nominated in this annexed Table, here are 10 of each sett down together with a disting number of some of their severall subservient being as many as is needfull. It is also here to be understood that the Diurnall Spirits are far more benevolent then those of the night for the nocturnall spirits doappear more remissly, wherefore it is requisite to Compell & constrain

them by often repeating the Conjunction being they are so aft to obscure and hide themselves. Whosoever therefore whould at any time converse with or make use of any of the presidential³³⁹ or subservient Spirits of this mansion serving under Cabariel the supreme and imperiall Prince of this Hierachy must first oberseve and performe what in this Art is on his part required, and directing his Actions & contenance to the north & by west, then say the following conjuration.

³³⁷ This final instruction was adapted into the entry for Usiel in the Theurgia-Goëtia: see “The Second Parte of the Art of King Solomon,” supra.

³³⁸ i.e., north-northwest, Lat. Circius.

³³⁹ Or possibly “principal”: abbreviated ‘p̄rīal.’

Cabariel *onear chameron fruani, parnaton fofiel bryosi magreal fabelrontyn adiel thortay nofruan*³⁴⁰ pean afefiel chusy.

Then if the experiment or Call be in the day the Spirit called upon will immediately appear and will offer themselves in all their Carriage and deportment with all readiness & humility for (as was sayd before) the spiri of the day are very benevolent and mild of nature. But those of the night are not so for they are more haughty, stubborne, & refractory delaying their Comeing and appearing more slowly therefore they ought to be urged by often repetition of the Conjurat[i]on as aforesaid, of which they doe stand in awe, and submission.

Then when they are appeared having every thing in readiness to lay to their charge they may safely be entrusted and so dispatched on their errand.

When the absent person receaveth a letter, openeth it and findeth the seal or character of Cabariel thereunto affixed, let him performe what he knoweth to be requisite, and ought to be observed in this Art, and the direct his Actions & Countenance to the north and by west, & with a low voyce say this Conjurat[i]on following:

Cabariel *afiar paermon chiltan amedyn sayr pemadon chulty mouayr sauepor peatha mal frimaston dayr pean cothurno febelrusyn elsoty chelmodyn.*³⁴¹

After due observation and performance hereof, according to Art the spirit sent will visibly forthwith appear unto him and will faithfully communicate the secret committed to his charge And will as faythfully bring back again any such message as shall be enjoyed & delivered to him with all trust and Secrecy.

The nature and Office of Cabariel and those Spirits resideing in this Mansion & Subservient in this Hierarchy is to forwarne people of dangers, especially freinds, to detect and discover treacheries and all kind of Clandestine designes, plots and such like contrivances as may probably tend to the utter ruine & destruction of some one freind undeservedly. Ex. gr. suppose I have a faythfull freind that is far absent whom I wish as well as my selfe, and I knowing that if he returne, snares are layd in his way in one platce or [130r] other by some powerfull rigid, adverse person. I being willing to acquaint my friend herewith but dare not commit my mind to Inck and paper fearing my letter should be intercepted or otherwise miscarry and thereby prove very dangerouse on all ³⁴⁰ The last letter is unclear: T1606 has nofruau, but nofruan is probably correct as it would make the hidden text na funff emgelden funffe and in the “Cabariel” cipher, per the Clavis Steganographiae, the initials of words 6–10, 16–20, &c., spell out the hidden message: so, loosely, “skip five, take five.” The reference to “50 diurnal and 50 nocturnal presidential spirits” is probably also an allusion to this.

³⁴¹ There appear to be some errors in this, perpetuated from the print edition: colthurno should be colthurmo at which point the last three words of the hidden message would become the familiar ut supradictum est, but for those to be signifying letters at all (rather than ‘lyaeomlarohroloy’ which does not appear to contain intelligible Latin or German) would mean that there’s one (or possible three) letters too few or many at the start.

hands, neither durst I trust any man therewith, fearing least he should reveal it or the like. Therefore that I may acquaint my friend herewith, and also that wee might both rest secure herein, I make use of this Art whereby all such intended mischeife is prevented and my friend mad sensible of the malignity of such dangerouse persons and their Evill practices thereby knowing how to Order his Affairs.

Chap. XIII.

The 13th Mansion is in that part or point of the Compass Scituate directly north, where resideth and ruleth the potent and imperiall Prince Raysiel, whose seale is thus charactered []. He hath under his command 50 Diurnal, and 50 nocturnal Presidentiall Princes who have also under them again many subservitors whose certain number is unknown, but howsoever here are as many nominated in this subsequent Table as is sufficient for any magicall practitioner to know.

| Diurnal D. | | Nocturnal D. | |
|-------------------|-----|---------------------|-----|
| | ☿ | | |
| Baciar — | 50. | Thariel — | 40. |
| Thoac — | 50. | Paras — | 40. |
| Sequiel — | 50. | Arayl — | 40. |
| Sadar — | 50. | Culmar — | 40. |
| Terach — | 50. | | |
| | ♀ | | |
| Ashiel — | 50. | Lazaba — | 40. |
| Ramica — | 50. | Aleasy — | 40. |
| Dubarus — | 50. | Sebach — | 40. |
| Armena — | 50. | Quibda — | 40. |
| Albhadur — | 50. | | |
| | ♂ | | |
| Chanael — | 30. | Belsay — | 20. |
| Fursiel — | 30. | Morael — | 20. |
| Betasiel — | 30. | Sarach — | 20. |
| | ♂ | | |
| Melcha — | 30. | Arepach — | 20. |
| Tharas — | 30. | Lamas — | 10. |
| Uriel — | 30. | Thurcal — | 10. |

Here is inserted in this adjoynd Table³⁴² the names of 16 Diurnall and 14 Nocturnall Dukes with the number of their Subservients attending on their Imperiall Prince Raysiel, in the Mansion of the North: And note that the Diurnall spirits are by nature very Courteouse and benevolent and come duefully when they are called and are readily submissive and obedient in all things &c. But those of the night are a little obstinate and stubborne nor doe they willingly come when they are called, neither are they easily brought to obedience [and more especially to such who are unskilfull in this Art] in regard they do much abhor and destest the light. And when they doe appear they are many times full of illusive motions and gestures, and usually (as it were) laughing in the Invocants face &c. unless he so bind them & constrain them in his Conjurations that they durst not disobey him; For they much fear the conjuration to abideing to be so often Conjured as the Diurnall Spirits: And although they are so much in awe when they are Constrained, yet for all that they unwillingly obey: but when once they are reduced to Obedience they are very faythfull & trusty in all things &c.

³⁴² The table is once again rearranged from that in the printed edition (T1606 p. 40–41), where the names of the “day” and “night” Dukes were each out in four columns: for the first, by 5, 5, 3, 3, with a planetary symbol at the head of each column; for the second by 4, 4, 3, 3 with Lamas and Thurcal at the top of the third and fourth columns respectively. This rearrangement was perpetuated into the entry for Raysiel in the Ars Theurgia-Goëtia, where Lamas and Thurcal appear at the end of the list of Dukes, suggesting that the compiler of the Theurgia-Goëtia used a complete copy of Trithemius Redivivus rather than the printed Steganographia.

Whosoever therefore would att any time call upon the great Prince Raysiel and any of the subservient Dukes or spirits of this Hyerarchy in the mansion of the North in such matters or affairs as appertain to their offices, Let him first observe & performe those precepts, which in this art is required, & then towards the north say the subsequence Conjunction:

[130v blank]

[The S4 copy of Trithemius Redivivus ends abruptly here: there is no catch-word and nothing written on the verso of fol. 130.]

[131r] The Magick AND Magicall Elements

OF

The Seven days of the week, with their Appropriate hours, and the four Annual Seasons

[This is a somewhat free adaptation of the Heptameron seu elementa magica of pseudo-Abano.³⁴³ It is possible, but by no means certain (based on considerations of style and recurring phrasing) that this work was redacted by the author(s) of the “Invocation of Angels” text-group and the material on fol. 3–15 of this collection.

It seems clear that the redactor of the following was working from multiple sources. The translation varies sufficiently from Turner’s (even leaving aside rearrangements, expansions and paraphrases) to indicate independent translation from the Latin: on the other hand, there are some questionable readings that indicate the redactor at least consulted the 1655 Turner edition (unlike the texts on fol. 22–29 there is nothing to definitely indicate dependence on T1665).

While the text appears to be in two significantly different hands, one of which appears to be the same as that used for the bulk of the first division of S4 (i.e., Elias Ashmole’s), the materials in the latter hand are not confined to marginalia or intralineal corrections, but frequently intrude into the main written area of the pages, or actually form part of the main text body. In other words, they were written during the scribing of the main text; most likely Ashmole and someone else alternated copying portions of the work, or possibly Ashmole affected a different hand in some sections for an unknown reason.]

³⁴³ First published under that title in 1559, bound up with the De occulta philosophia seu de caeremoniis magicis liber quartus, spuriously attributed to Cornelius Agrippa von Nettesheim; repeatedly reprinted and translated into European vernaculars (including, but likely not limited to, English, French, and German), it was probably the first ritual of western magic (as contrasted with theoretical works like Agrippa’s De occulta philosophia) to actually be printed and hence exercised an immense influence on subsequent Western magical literature.

Following the researches of Peterson (Elucidation of Necromancy) and Véronese (“Pietro d’Abano magicien à la Renaissance: le cas de l’Elucidarius magice”), the Heptameron is now known to be an edited and rearranged version of a late-mediaeval work with the same pseudoepigraphic author credit, variously known as the Elucidarium Necromantiae, Elucidarius Magice, Lucidarium in Arte Magica, Lucidarium artis nigromantice (henceforth cited simply as Lucidarium) which was mentioned in a 1508 work of Trithemius and is extant in at least three MS. copies (although one of these, Vatican MS. Reg. Lat. 1115 fol. 97–112, has material in the same hand appended explicitly sourced to the Fourth Book and thus post-dates the 1559 printing).

The Lucidarium in turn is synthesised from multiple mediaeval texts / traditions, including the Clavicula Salomonis, the Liber Iuratus Honorii and the Liber Salomonis (Sepher Raziel). Versions of the planetary conjurations and the seals of the Angels of the planets appear in the 15th-century “Munich Manual of Demonic Magic” (Bayern Staatsbibliothek, MS. Clm 849), which (as already noted) also contains a version of the Vinculum spirituum which forms the basis for the “Exorcism of the Aërial Spirits.”

Observations to be used on Sunday Die ☉.

Suffimigation for the Sunday, is Red Wheat or Red Sanders.³⁴⁴

The Spirits of the Sun, appear for the most part with a thick, full-set Body, mixed (as it were) like Crimson and Gold, whose motion is much like to the lightning of heaven. And are under the North Winde. The particular shapes and forms that these spirits do usually appeare in, are thus: A King riding upon a Lyon, holding a Scepter in his hand. A King Crowned. A Queen with Scepter in her hand. A Bird. A Lyon. A Cock. A Scepter. A Garment of a Gold colour, mixed (as it were) with a yellow & white.

The signe of their Appearance is to be discerned by their provoking of sweate in the Invocant.³⁴⁵

The nature of these Spirits is to procure Gold, Jewels, Carbuncles, Riches, Favour, goodwill, to dissolve all Disagreements, to give honours, to give Health or sickness.

The spirits³⁴⁶ that rule the Aire on Sunday are Barkam or Varcan the King; his Servants Ministers or Assistants, are Bibel, [131v] Malova, Buesebea, or Tus, Andas, Cynabal.

The Angels of Sunday, are, Michael, Bardiel (or Dardiel), Huratapel.

The Angels of the fourth Heaven, ruling on Sunday, which may be called upon from the four parts, or points of the compass, to Officiate according to their Offices, are as followeth:

| East: | West: | North: | South: |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------|----------------------------------|-------------------|
| Samael. | Anael. | Aiel. | Habudiel. |
| Baciel | Pabel. | Aniel. | Machasiel. |
| Atel. | Istael. | Masgabriel. | Charsiel. |
| Fabriel or Gabriel. | Buchat. | Sabriel or Sapiel. | Uriel. |
| Vionatraba. | Suceratos. | Malniel , or <illegible> | Naromiel. |
| | Capabel. | | |

³⁴⁴ T1655 mistranslated Sandalum rubeum as “Red Wheat”; it was corrected to “Red Sanders” in T1665. Generally, though, this text does not seem to depend on Turner; even leaving aside deliberate paraphrases and additions, the text has enough variation to make independent translation from the Latin credible.

³⁴⁵ This paraphrase and the preceding are drawn from the section on the forms familiar to the spirits of the Sun in the Fourth Book of pseudo-Agrippa.

³⁴⁶ The Latin Heptameron refers to the “Kings” of the seven days and their “Ministers” as Angeli; however, in the Lucidarium they are generally referred to as spiritus.

*Names of the Angells governing the Spring Season, for the day & hour of Sol, ☉.*³⁴⁷

[[Yayn]], Michael, Mishael, Dardiel,³⁴⁸ Huratapel, Talvi, Caracasa, [[Core, Amatiel, Commissoros, Spugliguel, Amadai]], Abraim,³⁴⁹ [[Agusita]], Varcan³⁵⁰ Rex, Tus, Andas, Cynabal.³⁵¹

Names of the Angells governing the Summer Season, for the day & hour of Sol, ☉.

Yayn, Mishael, Michael, Dardiel, Huratapel, Casamaran, Gargatel, Tariel, [[Gaviel, Tubiel, Festatui, Athemay, Armatas]] Varcan Rex; Tus, Andas, Cynabal.

Names of the Angells governing the Atumnall Season, for the day & hour [132r] of Sol, ☉.

Yayn, Michael, Michael,³⁵² Dardiel, Huratapel, Ardarael, Taraquam, Guabrael, Torquaret, Tabianara, Abragini, Melassignais, Varcan Rex, Tus, Andas, Cynabal.

Names of the Angells governing the Winter Season, for the day & hour of Sol, ☉.

Yayn, Michael, Michael,³⁵³ Dardiel, Huratapel, Ardarael, Parlas, Amabael, Ctarari, Altarib, Geremiah, Commutaff, Affaterim, Varcan Rex, Tus, Andas, Cynabal.

These Angells are to be called upon from the four Angles, East West South & North, for their benevolent Ayd, & Assistance: then towards the East say unto them:

O ye Benign Angels afforesaid, I earnestly Adjure, and Entreate you by the seat of Adonay, by Agios, Otheos, Iskyros, Athanatos, Paracletus, Alpha and Omega, and by these three secret names, Agla, On, Tetragrammaton, be ye furtherers of my petition, and assist me in my present Affaires, and full-fill what at this time I require.

³⁴⁷ These lists appear to be worked out as follows: the name of the first “magical hour” of the day, the main Angel of the day, the three Angels of the day (the first of whom is the same as the previous), then the full list of names for the season from the first part of the Heptameron (name of the season, Angels of the season, “head of the sign,” and the names of the Earth, Sun and Moon for the season); then the “King,” the angel or spirit of the Air ruling the day, and lastly his ministers. Some names (flagged by double square brackets) were unreadable in the image I’m working from and have been restored by cross-referencing from the other lists in this text or in the printed Heptameron. The “magical hours” Tanic, Thanu and Aglo (to use the orthography in the present text) are also ascribed to the planet of their particular day.

These sets of names derive from the Liber Iuratus Honorii and Liber Salomonis / Sepher Raziel, both of which found their own way into English magical MS. traditions, and hence it is entirely credible that the redactor or a copyist of the present text had a MS. source in which they significantly varied from the printed Heptameron, which was the source for the variants.

³⁴⁸ Note at side: “or Bardiel.”

³⁴⁹ Name written sup. lin. above a cancelled and unreadable word.

³⁵⁰ Note at side: “or Barcan.”

³⁵¹ Note at side: “or Bibel, Malolva, Bueseba.”

³⁵² Name written sup. lin., sec. man.

³⁵³ Name written sup. lin., sec. man.

The Invocation for Sunday.

I adjure and bind it by your Holy and powerfull Angels, by the Holy names of God, † Adonay † Eye † Eye † Eye † who was, is, and is to come; † Eye † Abraye And in the name of † Saday † Cados † Cados † Cados † who sitteth on high, above the Cherubims, and by the Omnipotent and and high God, Exalted above all the Heavens + Eye † Saraye † the first beginning, that created the world, the Heavens and the Earth, the sea, and all things that are in them, in the first day, and confirmed [132v] them by his holy names: And by the names of all the Angells that Govern in the fourth Sphear, and that serve before Salamia,³⁵⁴ the great and honoured Angel, And by the name of the Star which is the Sun, and by the greate name of the Everliving God, Jehovah, By all afforesaid, I urgently invoke, and earnestly entreat Thee; O thou great and glorious Angel Michael, who art made Governour of this day and by the name Adonay, the God of Israel, to Endeavour for me, and to be friendly unto me, and doe for me; as for the Servant of [[the]] Highest &c.³⁵⁵

Here make known your Petitions, and for what Cause this Invocation is made.

³⁵⁴ Note at side of text: “Some have called this Angels name different from this heere of Abano, viz’. Salaman.”

³⁵⁵ In addition to some slight paraphrases and deliberate changes, this has enough variation with Turner’s translation (T1665) of the conjuration of Sunday to make independent translation plausible. The final clause, “be friendly unto me, and do for me as for [the] servant of the Highest,” suggests certain recurring expressions in the “Invocation of Angels” texts, which in turn borrows phrasing from the English of Dee’s Claves Angelicæ.

Observations on Monday 𐌺

The Suffumigation for Monday is Aloes.

The spirits of the Moon appear for the most part in a great, full and Soft body, of a Flegmatick colour, much like unto a dark Cloud, The Eyes Red, Smooth, and full of water, the head blad, with Teeth like Beares Teeth, there motion is like a Tempest at sea, or like as unto the roaring of Watters, And are under the West Winde: The particular shapes that the spirits of the Moon doe usually appear in, are, A King with a Bow and Arrowes, riding on a doe; A little Boy; A woman that is an Huntress, with a bow and Arrowes, A Cow a little doe. A Goose. A Creature heaving many Feet. [or many Feet]³⁵⁶ An Arrow. A green, or white Garment.

The signe of their Appearance, is, A showr of Raine nere the Circle, The nature of these Angels is to give silver To move Things out of one place into another. To give swift horses And to tell the present and past Secrets of persons.

The Spirits that ruleth the Ayr on Monday, are Arcan³⁵⁷ Rex, his servants, ministers, or Assistants, are Bylet, Misabu, Abuzha.³⁵⁸

The Angels of Munday, are Gabriel, Michael, Samael.

[132r] The Angels of the first Heaven, ruling on Monday, which may be called upon from the 4 Angles,

| East: | West: | North: | South: |
|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------|-------------------------------|
| Gabril. | Sachiel. | Mael. | Curaniel. |
| Gabrael. | Zaniel. | Vuael. | Dabriel. |
| Madiel. | Habaniel. | Valnu. | Darquiel. |
| Deamiel. | Bachanael. | Balael. | Hanum . ³⁵⁹ |
| Ianael. | Corabiel. | Balaw. | Anayl . ³⁶⁰ |
| | | Humastraw. | Vetuel. |

Names of the Angels, Governing the Spring Season, for the day & Hour of Luna 𐌺

Yayn, Gabriel, Gabriel, Michael, Samael, Talui, Caracasa, Core, Amatiel, Comissoros, Spugliguel, Amaidai, Abraim, Agusita, Arcan Rex, Bilet, Missabu, Abuzaha.³⁶¹

³⁵⁶ The duplicated words are in square brackets and inline in the MS.

³⁵⁷ Note at side: "Or Harkam."

³⁵⁸ Note at side: "Or, Bylether, Byleth, Myka, Acuteba."

³⁵⁹ Note at side: "or Harnim."

³⁶⁰ Note at side: "or Anael."

³⁶¹ A note at the side of this list gives the variants of the last four names, already mentioned.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Summer Season, for the day & Hour of Luna 𐄂

Yayn, Gabriel, Gabriel, Michael, Samael, Casmara, Gargatel, Tariel, Gaviel, Tubiel, Festatai, Athemai, Armatus, Arcan Rex, Bilet, Missabu, Abuzaha.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Atumnnall Season, for the day & Hour of Luna 𐄂

Yayn, Gabriel, Gabriel, Michael, Samael, Ardarael, Tarquam, Guabrael, Tarquarets, Raabianara, Atragini, Matasignais,³⁶² Arcan Rex, Bylet, Missabu, Abuzaha.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Winter Season, for the day & Hour of Luna 𐄂

Yayn, Gabriel, Gabriel, Michael, Samael, Farlas, Amabael, Cterari, Altarib, Geremiah, Commutaff, Affeterim, Arcan Rex, Bylet, Missabu, Abuzaha.

These Angels are to be called upon from the four Angles in the severall seasons of the year, by the Invocant, according as it is specified in the following Introduction to the use of this Treatise. And then afterwards towards the East, saying as followeth.

O you benevolent Angels aforesaid, I earnestly Adjure and intreat you, by the Seat of Adonai, by Agios, Otheos, Iskyros, Athanatos, Paracletos, Alpha, & Omega, & by these three secret names, Agla, on, Tetragrammaton, to assist me in my present affaires, & by furtherers of my petition, and fullfill what at this time I desire.

The Invocation for Monday.

I Conjure and bind it by your power, O ye mighty & good Angels in the names of 𐄂 Adonay 𐄂 Adonay 𐄂 Adonay 𐄂 Eye 𐄂 Eye 𐄂 Eye 𐄂 Cados 𐄂 Cados 𐄂 Cados 𐄂 Achim 𐄂 Achim 𐄂 Achim 𐄂 Ia 𐄂 Ia 𐄂 the 𐄂 strong 𐄂 Iah 𐄂 Who appeareth in mount Sinai with the Glorification of King Adonay 𐄂 Saday 𐄂 Zebaoth 𐄂 Athanay 𐄂 Ia 𐄂 Ia 𐄂 Ia 𐄂 Marinata Abin 𐄂 Ieja 𐄂 who Created the seas, Lakes, & waters in the second day, who placeth some above the heavens, some in the Earth, who placed the sea on high by his name, and gave it bounds which it should not pass, and by the names of the Angels that rule in the lowest sphear, that serv Orphaniel that great Honoured and excellent Angel, and by the name of the star which is the Moon, By all afforesaid, I Humbly imploe, and most earnestly entreat thee, O thou Glorious & Cœlestiall Angell of the Lord God, Gabriel, who art constituted & appointed to be the Governour of this day, to endeavour for me, and to be friendly unto me, &c.³⁶³

³⁶² The names for Winter were originally written in error but have been cancelled, and these names written in sup. lin.

³⁶³ i.e., continue with the concluding phrasing of the conjuration of Sunday, then state your cause or business, and for what reason you're making the conjuration.

[134r] Observations on Tuesday ♂

Suffumigation for Tuesday is Pepper.

The Spirits of Mars Appeare in a tall Body, & for a long time with a Cholerick and ugly Visage, of a Swarthy, brown reddish coulered Countenance, with Hearts horns and Griphons Feet: They will roare and bellow like madd Bulls. Their motion is like burning Fire. They are subject to the East Winde.

The particular forms that the Spirit of Mars appear in, are, Armed King riding upon a wolf, A man Armed, A woman holding a Buckler upon her thigh, a Hee-Goate, a Horse, A Hart with many heads.³⁶⁴ A Cheeslip.³⁶⁵ A red Wolen Garment.³⁶⁶

The signe of their appearance is Thunder and lightning, & a Fire before the Circle.

The nature of these Spirits is to make wars, to cause mortalitys, Slaughter and Combustions, and by these meanes, at certain times to deliver over Souldiers to Sickness, Health, or Death.

The Spirits that rule the Aijr on Tuesday, are Samax³⁶⁷ Rex, with his Assistance, or Minsters, Carmax, Ismoli, [[Paffran.]]³⁶⁸

The Angels on Tusday, are:

| East: | West: | North: | South: |
|-----------------|-------------------------------|-------------------|-----------------|
| Friagne. | Lama. | Rahumel. | Sacriel. |
| Grael. | Astramy. | Hyniel. | Ianiel. |
| Damael. | Lobquin ³⁶⁹ | Rayel. | Galdel. |
| Calzas. | Soncas. | Seraphiel. | Osiel. |
| Arragon. | Iaxel. | Mathiel. | Vianuel. |
| | Isael. | Fraciel. | Zaliel. |
| | Iriel. | | |

³⁶⁴ In the copy of the Fourth Book in the “Beringos Fratres” editions of Agrippa’s Opera, corvus (crow) in the list of forms familiar to the spirits of Mars was misprinted cervus (stag). This was here further put together with multiceps, late Latin for “many-headed” (now the scientific name for various tapeworm species), which in pseudo-Agrippa’s list was a distinct point, coming at the end of the list.

³⁶⁵ Obsolete English word for the common woodlouse; a questionable rendering by Turner of multiceps.

³⁶⁶ In the Latin “Rubra vestis” (red garments) and “Lana” (wool) were distinct points.

³⁶⁷ Note at side: “or Ianimay.”

³⁶⁸ Note at side: “or Carmab, Harmael, Palframe.”

³⁶⁹ Apparently Lobquin in S4, with a barely-legible variant name next to it, possibly Lobquoni.

[134v] Names of the Angels, Governing the Spring Season, for the day & Hour of Mars ♂

Yayn, Samael, Samael, Satael, Amabiel, Talui, Caracasa, Core, Amatiel, Comissoros, Spugliguel, Amaidai, [[Abraim,] Agusita, Samax Rex, Carex, Ismolie, Paffran.³⁷⁰

Names of the Angels, Governing the Summer Season, for the day & Hour of Mars ♂

Yayn, Samael, Samael, Satael, Amabiel, Casmaran, Gargatel, Tariel, Gaviel, Tubiel, Festatai, Athemai, Armatus, Samax Rex, Carex, Ismolie, Paffran.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Atumnal Season, for the day & Hour of Mars ♂

Yayn, Samael, Samael, Satael, Amabiel, Ardarael, Tarquam, Guabrael, Tarquarets, Raabianara, Abragini, Matasignais, Samax Rex, Carex, Ismolie, Paffran.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Winter Season, for the day & Hour of Mars ♂

Yayn, Samael, Samael, Satael, Amabiel, Farlas, Amabael, Cterari, Altarib, Geremiah, Commutaff, Affeterim, Samax Rex, Carex, Ismolie, Paffran.

Then proceed as followeth in Monday &c.

The Invocation for Tuesday.

I Conjure and bind it by you, O ye Mighty and Holy Angels, by the names † Ya † Ya † Ya † He † He † He † Va † Hy † Hy † Hy † Ha † Ha † Va † Va † Va † An † An † Aie † Aie † Aije † and † Ay † Elibra † Elohim † Elohim † and in & through the name of the high God, who made the watter appear dry Land, and called it Earth, and brought out of it trees and Herbs and Established it by his Pretious, Honoured & Holy name, And by the Angels that [135r] rule in the fift Sphear, that serve Acimay, the great, mighty, and Powerfull Angel, And by the Star whose name is called Mars. By all afforesaide, I humbly Implore, and most earnestly and urgently intreat & adjure you Samael, who art appointed from the beginning of time to be the Governour of this day and by the name † Adonay † the true and ever living God, that thou endeavour for me, and be friendly unto me &c.

³⁷⁰ As before, a note at the side of this list gives the variants of the last four names, already mentioned.

Observations on Wednesday, ♀

Suffumigation for Wednesday is Mastick.

The Spirits of Mercury Appear for the most part in Bodyes of a middle Stature, Cold and moist, fair and affable of Speech, In shape and forme like unto an Armed man, of a bright and Clear Colour. Their motion is like unto silver coloured Clouds. They are under the south-west winde.

The particular forms that the spirits of Mercury, doe usaly appear in, are, A King riding upon a Bear, A fair young man, A woman holding Heaven,³⁷¹ or a Distaffe; A dog, A Bear, A magpie, A wand, A Staffe, A Garment of sundery chanble³⁷² Colours.

The signe of there Appearance is, That they strike a Fear & horror into the invocant.

The nature of these Spirits, are to give all mettals, and all Earthy things to reveale things present past and to come; to Appease Judges to give victories in Battel, to repaire and teach all Lost Sciences and experiments, to Change Bodyes mixed of elements one into another, to bring Infirmities or Health, to help the poore; and cast down the High ones, to Open seales, to bind or loose spirits, to open Lockes or Bollts, These spirits are saide to doe the accions of others and not of their [135v] own power but by cuning &c.

The Spirits that rule the Ayre on Wednesday, are Mediat, or Modiat³⁷³ Rex; with his Assistents or Ministers, Suquinos & Sallales.³⁷⁴

The Angels of Wednesday are, Raphael, [[Miel, Saraphiel]]

Angels of the second heaven, that may be Called upon from the four Angles on ♀ are:

| East: | West: | North: | South: |
|---|--|--|--|
| Mathlai.
Tarmiel.
Baraborat. | Ierescue. ^{*375}
Mitatron.

* Seale
 | Thiel.
Rael.
Iariahel.
Venahel.
Velel.
Abuiori.
Ucirnuel. | Milliel.
Melapa.
Babel.
Laquel, or Caluel. ³⁷⁶ |

³⁷¹ Mulier colum tenens; the double reading derives from confusing colus -i (a distaff) with cælum -i (heaven).

³⁷² i.e., “changeable” (the Latin has Vestis versicolor).

³⁷³ This double reading appears in the printed Heptameron. A note at the side of the text adds “or Sabba.”

³⁷⁴ A note at the side of the text adds, “or Hancy, Yron, Abiedio.”

³⁷⁵ The “Seale” of Ierescue is in the margin in the MS.

³⁷⁶ Originally three different angels, not one with two different names: Caluël, Luël, Laquël appear among the Southern angels of Wednesday in the Vadian Lucidarium; in the printed Heptameron, the second is Vël (i.e. Uël) which then got turned into “vel” and read as the Latin “or.”

Names of the Angels, Governing the Spring Season, for the day & Hour of Mercury ♀

Yayn, Raphael, Raphiel, Miel, Saraphiel, Talui, Caracasa, Core, Amatiel, Comissoros, Spugliguel, Amaidai, Abraim, Agusita, Mediat or Modiat Rex, Suquinos, Salleles.³⁷⁷

Names of the Angels, Governing the Summer Season, for the day & Hour of Mercury ♀

Yayn, Raphael, Raphiel, Miel, Saraphiel, Casmaran, Gargatel, Tariel, Gaviel, Tubiel, Festatai, Athemay, Armatus, Mediat or Modiat Rex, Suquinos, Salleles.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Atumnal Season, for the day & Hour of Mercury ♀

Yayn, Raphael, Raphiel, Miel, Saraphiel, Ardarael, Tarquam, Guabrael, Tarquarets, Raabianara, Abragini, Matasignais, Mediat or Modiat Rex, Suquinos, Salleles.

[136r] Names of the Angels, Governing the Winter Season, for the day & Hour of Mercury ♀

Yayn, Raphael, Raphiel, Miel, Saraphiel, Farlas, Amabael, Cterari, Altarib, Jeremiah, Commutaff, Affeterim, Mediat or Modiat Rex, Suquinos, Salleles.

The Invocation for Wednesday.

I Conjure and bind it by your Power, O ye mighty, Holy and Potent Angels in the name of the Great, High Immortal, and most fearfull † Iah † Adonay † Elohim † Saday † Saday † Saday † Eie † Eie † Eie † Asarie † Asarie † and in the name of † Adonay † the god of Israel, whwo Created the Great Lights to distinguish the day from the night, and by the names of all the Angels Serving in the second Sphear, before Tetra, the great, powerfull, and mighty Angel, and by the name of the star Mercury, By all aforesaid; I humbly implose, and most earnestly and urgently entreat and adjure you o thou great and benevolent Angel Raphael, who art from the beginning of time by the preordinate decree of (of) the Highest, constituted and appointed Governour of this day, and by the holy name which was written in the Brow of Aron, the Priest of the most high Creatour, and by the name of the seal,³⁷⁸ of the Creatures having six feet,³⁷⁹ &c., That thou endeavoure for me:

³⁷⁷ As usual, a note at the side of this list gives the variants of the last three names, already mentioned.

³⁷⁸ sic, s.b. “seat” (for sedis). T1665, while making that mistake twice in the “Exorcism of the Spirits of the Air” has the correct reading here, ³⁷⁹ sic, s.b. “wings” (alas). Still not as bad as rendering per nomen sedis Animalium, habentium senas alas “by the name and place of Ammalium” (as happened in the 1783 reprint “with great improvements” of Turner’s translations, further garbled into “name and place of Ammaluim” in Francis Barret’s The Magus, and “corrected” to “name and place of Animalium” in Stephen Skinner’s 2005 re-set).

Observations on Thursday, 𐌹

Suffumigation for Thursday is Saffron.

The Spirits of Jupiter Appear for the most part in Bodies of a Sanguine & Cholderick Complexion, of a middle Stature, Strange in motion, but a milde Aspect or Countenance, familiar and gentle of speech, and of an Iron Coulour, their motion is like to flashings of lightning [136v] with Thunder. They are under the South winde.

The particular forms that the Spirits of Jupiter doe usually appear in are; A King riding upon a Hart with a Sword drawn. A man in a long Robe, wearing a miter. A maide with a Crowne of Bayes adorned with Flowers. A Bull, A Hart, A Peacock. A Box-Tree. A Blew Garments.

The signe of their Appearance, will be men about the Circle, who will seem to be devoured of Lyons.

The nature of these Spirits, is, to obtaine the Love of women, to raise mirth and Joyfullness, to pacifie Enemies, and appease Contentions, to heale the weake, and weaken the whole, to bring or carry away.

The spirits that rule the Ayr on Thursday, are Suth Rex, his Mistres or Assistants, Maguth, Gutrix.³⁸⁰

The Angels of Thursday, are Sachiel, Castiel, Asasiel.

Now because there are no Angels found beyond the fift Sphear, therefore the Invocant shall say this following Oriation in the four Angles, &c.:—

O Almighty, most mercifull, and Immortal God of Host, Honoured and Worshipped through all Ages of the world, I humbly beseech thee, O Heavenly Father, that I may accomplish and fullfill this day that which I beg at thy mercyfull hands, even this my worke, and this my Labour, and that I may perfectly understand and effect it, O thou Omnipotent Creator of Heaven and Earth, who liveth and Reigneth World without end.³⁸¹

Names of the Angels, Governing the Spring Season, for the day & Hour of Jupiter 𐌹

Yayn, Sachiel, Sachiel, Castiel, Asasiel, Talui, Caracasa, Core, Amatiel, Comissoros, Spugliguel, Amaidai, Abraim, Agusita, Suth Rex, Maguth, Gutrix.³⁸²

³⁸⁰ Gutriz in the printed Latin Heptameron; Gutrix in Turner. A note at the side adds, “or Genthren, Genthem.”

³⁸¹ The Heptameron, deriving probably from the Liber Salomonis (Cephar Raziel), lib. vi., has four shorter fragment of prayers to be said to the quarters in turn: this is combined and slightly paraphrased from them.

³⁸² As usual, a note at the side of this list gives the variants of the last names, already mentioned.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Summer Season, for the day & Hour of Jupiter ♃

Yayn, Sachiël, Sachiël, Castiel, Asasiël, Casmaran, Gargatel, Tariel, Gaviel, Tubiel, Festatai, Athemay, Armatus, Suth Rex, Maguth, Gutrix.

[137r] Names of the Angels, Governing the Autumnal Season, for the day & Hour of Jupiter ♃

Yayn, Sachiël, Sachiël, Castiel, Asasiël, Ardarael, Tarquam, Guabrael, Tarquarets, Raabianara, Abragini, Matasignais, Suth Rex, Maguth, Gutrix.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Winter Season, for the day & Hour of Jupiter ♃

Yayn, Sachiël, Sachiël, Castiel, Asasiël, Farlas, Amabael, Cterari, Altarib, Geremiah, Commutaff, Affeterim, Suth Rex, Maguth, Gutrix.

Then turning to the East, say the Oration following

O ye³⁸³ Benevolent Angels aforesaid; I earnestly Entreat and adjure you, by the³⁸⁴ seate of Adonay, by Agios, Otheos, Iskyros, Athanatos, Paracletos, Alpha and Omega, and by these three secrete names, Agla, On, Tetragrammaton, to assist me in my present affaires, and by furtherers of my Petition, and fulfill what at this time I require.

The Invocation for Thursday.

I Conjure and bind it by your Power, O you Holy Angels, by the names † Cados † Cados † Cados † Echerie³⁸⁵ † Echerie † Echerie † Halim † Fortim † Iah † the Strong founder of Ages † Cantime † Iaimij † Calbat † Sabbir † Berifai † Alnaim † and by the name † Adonai † who Created fishes, and Creeping things³⁸⁶ in the watters, and Birds upon the Face of the Earth, flying towards the Heavens in the fift day, and by the holy great and Powerfull Prince of Angels, and by the Star which is called Jupiter, and by the name † Adonay † the high God, Creator of all things. By all afforesaide; I implore, and most earnestly and importunately entreat and adjure thee, O thou great Angel Sachiël, who art by the preordinate decree of the Highest, appointed to be governour of this day, that thou Endeavour for me, and be friendly unto me; &c.

³⁸³ “mighty” was originally written here, but is heavily cancelled.

³⁸⁴ “following” was originally written after “the” but is heavily cancelled.

³⁸⁵ Eschereie in all printed Heptameron versions including T1655, T1665.

³⁸⁶ “upon the earth” written after “things” but heavily cancelled.

Observations on Friday, ♀

Suffumigation for Friday is Costus or Pepperwort.

The Spirits of Venus, appear for the most part in Bodyes of a middle Stature, a Lovely and pleasant Countenance; of white or greenish Coulour, gilded over on the upper part, their motion is (as it wear) a Clear Star, And are under the West Winde.

The particular forms that the spirits of Venus doe usually appear in, are, a [137v] King on a Camell, having a Scepter in his hand. A faire maid wreathed, and beautifully dressed. A maiden naked. A Goat. A Camell, A dove: Flower of the Herb Savine. A white or green Garment.

The Signe of their Appearance will be maidens playing about the Circle, which will provoke and Stir up the Invocant.

The nature of these spirits is, To give Silver, To make men apt and prone to Lechery,³⁸⁷ to appease Enemyes by Luxury. To make Marages. To stir up men to the Love of women. To cause; or take away Infirmityes. And to doe all things that have motion.³⁸⁸

The Angels that rule the Ayr on Friday, are, Sarabotes³⁸⁹ Rex; his Ministers, or assistants, Amabiel, Aba, Abalidoth, Flaef.³⁹⁰

The Angels of Friday, are; Anael, Rachiel, Sachiel.

Angels of the third Heaven, ruling on Friday, which are to [[be]] called upon from the four Angles, are:

| East: | West: | North: | South: |
|-----------------------|-------------------------------|---------------------------|---------------------------|
| Serchiel. | Tariel. | Peniel. | Porna. |
| Chedusitaniel. | Coniel. | Penael. | Sachiel. |
| Chorat. | Rabiel. | Penat. | Chermiel. |
| Tamael. | Kadiel. ³⁹¹ | Raphael. | Sameal, or Sanael. |
| Tenaciel. | Maltiel. | Raniel, or Ramael. | Santaniel. |
| | Huphatiel. | Doremiel. | Famiel. |

³⁸⁷ "Lewdry" originally written, corrected sup. lin.

³⁸⁸ omnia quæ habent motum, facere.

³⁸⁹ Note at side: "Or Sarabortres."

³⁹⁰ Note at side: "Or Nasar, Manasa."

³⁹¹ Kadie in the printed Latin and English Heptameron.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Spring Season, for the day & Hour of Venus ♀

Yayn, Anael, Anael, Rachiel, Sachiel, Talui, Caracasa, Core, Amatiel, Comissoros, Spugliguel, Amaidai, Abraim, Agusita, Sarabotes Rex, Amabiel, Aba, Abalidoth, Flaef.³⁹²

Names of the Angels, Governing the Summer Season, for the day & Hour of Venus ♀

Yayn, Anael, Anael, Rachiel, Sachiel, Casmaran, Gargatel, Tariel, Gaviel, Tubiel, Festatai, Athemay, Armatus, Sarabotes Rex, Amabiel, Aba, Abalidoth, Flaef.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Autumnall Season, for the day & Hour of Venus ♀

Yayn, Anael, Anael, Rachiel, Sachiel, Ardarael, Tarquam, Guabrael, Tarquarets, Raabianara, Abragini, Matasignais, Sarabotes Rex, Amabiel, Aba, Abalidoth, Flaef.

[138r] Names of the Angels, Governing the Winter Season, for the day & Hour of Venus ♀

Yayn, Anael, Anael, Rachiel, Sachiel, Farlas, Amabael, Cterari, Altarib, Geremiah, Commutaff, Affeterim, Sarabotes Rex, Amabiel, Aba, Abalidoth, Flaef.

The Invocation for Friday.

I Conjure and bind it by you O ye mighty and Powerfull angels Cœlestiall, in the names † On † Hay † El † Ia † Ie † Adonay † Sadai † and in the name of † Saday † who Created the four-footed Beasts and Creatures, creeping things and man in the Sixt day & gave power to Adam over all Creatures (wherefore blessed by the name of the Creator in his place;) and in the names of the Angels serving in the third sphear, before Dagael, the great, mighty & powerfull Angel of the Highest, and by the name of the Star which is called Venus. By all afforesaid, I humbly implore, and most earnestly & urgently & urgently entreat and adjure you, O ye benign Angel Anael, who art by the primitive decreess of God, appointed to be Governour of this day, That thou endeavour for me; and be friendly unto me; &c.

³⁹² As usual, a note at the side of this list gives the variants of the last names, already mentioned.

Observations on Saturday, ♄

Suffumigation for Saturday is Sulphur.

The Spirits of Saturn appear for the most part in Bodyes of a tall thin, lean slender corporature, of an angry Countenance; They have four faces, one, before, and another behind in the head, and one upon each knee; all of them Beaked or nosed like an Eagle; they are of a Shining black Colour, Their motion is as the moving of the Winde; or much like to an Earth-quake. They are under the Sout-west Winde.

The particular forms that the Spirits of Saturn, doe usually appear in, are; A King with a Beard, riding on a Dragon. An Old man with a long Beard, having a Sickle in his right hand, and a Scepter of Juniper in his left hand. An old woman leaning upon a stick. A Juniper-Tree: A Crow,³⁹³ black Garments.

The signe of their Appearance will be; white Earth, whiter than any Chalk.

The propertyes of these Spirits, is to sow Discords and Hatred, to plant evill [138v] thoughts in the mindes of men, to give Lead at their pleasure; to kill and slay people; to lame or hurt any joint or member of the Body.

The Angels that rule the Ayr on Saturday are; Maimon Rex; his Assistant; Abumalith,³⁹⁴ Assaibi, Balidet.

The Angels of Saterday are; Cassiel,³⁹⁵ Machatan, Uriel.

Now because there are no Angels found beyond the fift Sphear, to rule the Ayr (as is Specified before in the observations of Thursday) therefore the Invocant shall say this Oration following in the four Angles, &c.

O Almighty, Immortall, Incomprehensible, most mercyfull, Bountifull and heavenly God of Host, which art without Beginning or Ending, Honoured and feared through all Ages, I humbly beseech thee; O Lord that I may accomplish and fullfill this day, that which I beg at thy mercifull Hands, even this my worke; and this my Labour, and that I may perfectly understand and effect it; through Thee, O Thou Omnipotent Creator of Heaven and Earth, who liveth and Reigneth World without End.

³⁹³ Nothing in the Latin reasonably gives "Crow"; as mentioned, Corvus was originally listed under the forms of the spirits of Mars, though later misprinted. The Latin has Rex barbatus, draconem equitans; Senex barbatus; Mulier vetula, baculo innixa; Porcus; Draco; Bubo; Vestis nigra; Falx; Iuniperus.

³⁹⁴ Note at side: "or Albeve, Malik."

³⁹⁵ Also appears as Caphriel, Cafriel, Cafziel, &c. Possibly at some point fr or fz got misread / mis-copied as ß, the German double "s" ligature, or vice versa.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Spring Season, for the day & Hour of Saturn 𐄂

Yayn, Cassiel, Cassiel, Machatan, Uriel, Talui, Caracasa, Core, Amatiel, Comissoros, Spugliguel, Amaidai, Abraim, Agusita, Maimon Rex, Abumalith, Assaibi, Balidet.³⁹⁶

Names of the Angels, Governing the Summer Season, for the day & Hour of Saturn 𐄂

Yayn, Cassiel, Cassiel, Machatan, Uriel, Casmaran, Gargatel, Tariel, Gaviel, Tubiel, Festatai, Athemay, Armatus, Maimon Rex, Abumalith, Assaibi, Balidet.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Autumnall Season, for the day & Hour of Saturn 𐄂

Yayn, Cassiel, Cassiel, Machatan, Uriel, Ardarael, Tarquam, Guabrael, Tarquarets, Raabianara, Abragini, Matasignais, Maimon Rex, Abumalith, Assaibi, Balidet.

Names of the Angels, Governing the Winter Season, for the day & Hour of Saturn 𐄂

Yayn, Cassiel, Cassiel, Machatan, Uriel, Farlas, Amabael, Cterari, Altarib, Jeremiah, Commutaff, Affeterim, Maimon Rex, Abumalith, Assaibi, Balidet.

The Invocation for Saturday.

I Conjure and bind itt by your Powers, Cassiel, Machatori, and Serapael, or Seraquiel, you great and Powerfully Angels by the names of 𐄂 Adonay 𐄂 Adonai 𐄂 [139r] Adonai 𐄂 Eie 𐄂 Eie 𐄂 Eie 𐄂 Acim 𐄂 Acim 𐄂 Acim 𐄂 Cados 𐄂 Cados 𐄂 Cados 𐄂 Ima 𐄂 Ima 𐄂 Ima 𐄂 Saday 𐄂 Ja 𐄂 Ser 𐄂 The High God, the maker of time, who rested the Seventh day, and of his owne will gave to his Children of Israel, to be observed as their Birth-Right, that if they firmly kept and sanctified it, they should receive therefrom a great Reward in another world, And by the Angels that serve in the Seventh Sphear, before Boel, the great Angel, and powerfull Prince; and by the Star which is called Saturn; By all aforesaid, and the vertues thereof, I humbly implore, and most earnestly and importunately entreat and adjure you, O ye great and Potent Angel Caphriel, or, Caphiel, or Cassiel, who art preordinately decreed by the Omnipotent Creator of Heaven and Earth to be Governour of this day, That thou Endeavour for me, and by friendly unto me & to fullfill all my Petitions and Desires, &c. and doe for me as for the Servant of the Highest &c.

³⁹⁶ As usual, a note at the side of this list gives the variants of the last names, already mentioned.

There follows a Table of the Planetary hours, being the same printed in A Treatise of Mathematicall Phisick by G.C. gent. 1599.

A Table of the Names of every Houre, & the Angells governing them, according to the Course of the daies & Nights Astronomicall &c:

| Houres of the day | ☉ | ☿ | ♂ | ♀ | ♊ | ♀ | ♎ |
|----------------------------|---------------|---------------|----------------|------------------|-----------------|---------------|-----------------|
| Names of the Houres | Sunday | Munday | Tuesday | Wednesday | Thursday | Friday | Saterday |
| 1 Yayn. | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel |
| 2 Ianor. | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel |
| 3 Nasnia. | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael |
| 4 Salla. | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael |
| 5 Sadedali. | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael |
| 6 Thamur. | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael |
| 7 Ourer. | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel |
| 8 Tanic. | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel |
| 9 Neron. | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel |
| 10 Iayon. | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael |
| 11 Abay. | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael |
| 12 Natalon. | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael |
| Houres of the Night | | | | | | | |
| 1 Berol | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael |
| 2 Baron | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel |
| 3 Thanu | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel |
| 4 Athir | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel |
| 5 Mathun | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael |
| 6 Rana | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael |
| 7 Nefros | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael |
| 8 Taffrac | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael |
| 9 Sassur | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel |
| 10 Aglo | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel |
| 11 Calerna | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael | Raphael | Sachiel |
| 12 Salam | Raphael | Sachiel | Anael | Cassiel | Michael | Gabriel | Samael |

| [139v] A Table of the diurnall Governments of the Angells, with their Seales & Characters usefull for the more ready making of the Circle, &c. | |
|--|--|
| Die Solis or Sunday; Angel is Michael, Seale or Character  Star ☉, Signe ♀ | Die Jovis or Thursday Angel is Sachiel Seale  Star ♃ Signe ♂ ♃ |
| Angels {
 Governing on Sunday are { Michael Dardiel
 Huratapel
 Varcen Rex
 Ruling the Ayre on Sunday are { Tus Andas
 Cynabal | Angels {
 Governing on Thursday are { Sachiel Castiel
 Asasiel
 Ruling the Aire on Thursday are { Suth Rex Maguth
 Gutrix. |
| Die Luna or Munday; Angel is Gabriel, his seale  Star ♀ Signe ☾ | Die Veneris or Friday, Angel is Anael, Seale  Star ♀ Signe ♂ ♀ |
| Angels {
 Governing on Munday are { Gabriel Michael Samael
 Ruling the Aire on Munday are { Arcan Rex Bylet
 Myssabu
 Abuzaha | Angels {
 Governing on Friday are { Anael Rachiel
 Sachiel
 Sarabotes Rex
 Amabiel
 Aba Abalidoth
 Flaef
 Ruling the Aire on Friday are { |
| Die Martis or Tuesday, Angel is Samael, Seale  Star ♂ Signe ♀ ♀ | Die Saturni or Saturday, Angel is Cassiel, his Seale  Star ♄ Signe ♀ ♂ |
| Angels {
 Governing on Tuesday are { Samael Satiel
 Ambiel
 Ruling the Aire on Tuesday are { Samax Rex Carmax
 Ismoli
 Paffran | Angels {
 Governing on Saturday are { Cassiel Machaton
 Uriel
 Ruling the Aire on Saturday are { Maymon Rex Abumalith
 Assaibi
 Balidet |
| Die Mercurii or Wednesday, Angel is Raphael, Seale  Star ♀ Signe ♀ ♀ | First Shamaim
 Second Raquie
 Third Saguin
 Fourth Heaven, is Machen
 Fift Machon
 Sixt Zebul
 Seaventh ³⁹⁷ |
| Angels {
 Governing on Wednesday are { Raphael Miel
 Saraphiel
 Ruling the Aire on Wednesday are { Mediat or Modiat Rex
 Suquinos
 Sallales. | |

³⁹⁷ The printed Heptameron did not give the name of the seventh Heaven. Other works of the period (e.g. the Liber Salomonis / Sepher Raziel version in BL Sloane 3846, and a table deriving from the Heptameron in Bodleian Rawlinson D. 253) have Araboc or Araboth (from Heb. ערבות).

[140r] A Table of Variations according to the four Quarters or seasons of the yeare &c.: serving also as the former for the more ready & easie making the Circle.

| Spring. | Summer. |
|--|--|
| Name of the Spring ————— Talui | Name of the Summer ————— Casmaran |
| Angels of the Spring ————— { Caracasa Core
Amatiel
Comissoros | Angels of the Summer ————— { Gargatel Tariel
Gaviels |
| Head of the Signe in the Spring — Spugliguel | Head of the Signe in the Summer — Tubiel |
| Name of the Earth in the Spring — Amadai | Name of the Earth in the Summer — Festatui |
| Names of the { Sun } in the Spring { Abraim
Moone } Agusita | Names of y ^e { Sun } in y ^e Summer { Athemay
Moone } Armatas |
| Autume. | Winter |
| Name of the Autume ————— Ardarael | Name of the Winter ————— Farlae |
| Angels of the Autume ————— { Tarquam
Gualbarel | Angels of the Winter ————— { Amabael
Ctarari |
| Head of the Signe in the Autume — Tolquaret | Head of the Signe in the Winter — Altarib |
| Name of the Earth in the Autume — Rabianira | Name of the Earth in the Winter — Gerenia |
| Names of y ^e { Sun } in y ^e Autume { Abragini
Moone } Matasignais | Names of y ^e { Sun } in y ^e Winter { Commutaf
Moone } Affaterim |

An Exemplification of foure severall Circles for foure severall daies in the four Various Seasons of the yeare for the first houre each day.

[141r]³⁹⁸ An Introduction, teaching the use of the foregoing treatis & thereby other experiments & operations of the like nature orders or offices as a president refer'd to the spirits of the Ayr, being a sufficient exemplification for any Phylosopher Skillfull in the Art of Magick, & well knowing how to make a trew & racionall distinction between the Cœlestiall & blessed Angells, or intelligences, and the Cœlestially Dignified Elementall Angells, or spirits of light, & also of other elementall powers, or spirits, both of light & darkness; & so by nature and office, both good & Evill, together with others, called wandering spirits of the Ayr, of the like nature & office, but of no orders, mansions, or proper place of Residence, but moving even like as flies in the son, without sensible subjections to any superior powers, together with Infernall powers, called spirits of Darkness, or Devils, who are saide by nature & office to be wholly evill, & therefore of themselves not to be invocated, moved, or called forth to visible Appearance, as the other Elementall powers, or spirits are; & may be; but other spirits of their nature, orders, & offices may be them, & the power given to them (by Divine permission in the blessed Trinity) & in their names be moved & called forth to visible appearance, for such, or those purposes, which may, & usually doth serve to the benefit of mankind; &c.

Of the making or Composure of the Circle.

The making of Circles are not allwaies one & the same, but are to be changed according to the variation of the season of the yeare; the day of the weeke; & the howre of the day; for all which there are necessary tables, & rules herewith annexed, therefore in composing a Circle consider the time of the yeare, the day of the weeke, & the hower of the day, & what spirits are Elected, chosen or set apart to be moved or called forth, to what star, order, Region, or mansion they do belong, & what nature or office they are; &c. And in making the Circle, let the Diameter thereof be nine foot (allowing 12 inches to the foot) & within the outward Circle, draw three Circles more, about a hands breadth distance from each other; then within the first Circle beginning at the East Angle thereof (as in the foregoing exemplified figures thereof is foreshewed) & first write the name of the King, then his 3 ministers in the other 3 angles, (being the Angel that governs the day, which is elected to make an experiment, or to invoke in) & the first [141v] Circle is finished: Then the second Circle, beginning at the East part therof, write the name of the hower, & the Angel governing the same, & his Character, then the name of the Angel that governs the day, & also of those who are assistance to him therein then the name of the present seane or quarter, of the Yeare, then the names of the Angels that governs that quarter; then the name of the head of the signe, and of the Earth, & of the son and Moon in that quarter and so the second Circle is finished, & in the innermost Circle

³⁹⁸ Fol. 140v bears six circular figures with planetary characters on them, with no captions and not explained or referred to anywhere in the text; they are omitted in the present provisional release.

(Circle) write these four Divine names ✚ Adonay ✚ Eloy ✚ Agla ✚ Tetragrammaton ✚ with crosses before & after them; Divide the inward Circle, with two cross lines, goeing quite Athwart the middle, joined to the first line thereof; which shall divide the inward vacuum into four parts, making the four Angles, East, West, North, & South, & in the East Angle write Alpha, & in the west Omega; & on the outside make four pentagons, and against each Angle, & so the whole Circle is finished, examples whereas is before inserted, &c. And be sure to have regard to the name of hower & the planet, that governeth the same & his Character, for they must be altered every hower, & he that is a Phylosopher knoweth our meaning, but he that is not, & yet shall ignorantly attempts what he understands not; & bringeth not his purpose to effect, he can blame nothing herein, but his own mistakes, for we dare not communicate all we know, & as for the method of practice, it is thus, first consider of & have a convenient place, which ought to be very private, & free from the over-seeing, or over-hearing of any passengers, or adjacent neibour-hood wheither it be within a house, or without a house, &c. which is also specified more at large in an introduction foregoeing; And let the invocant have a vestment of white linnen & the seale or Pentagone, on his breast, as a sworde; on the one [142r] side whereof should be ingraven this word ✚ Agla ✚ & on the other side this worde ✚ On ✚ And when the invocant putteth on his vestment, & goeth to enter the Circle, let him say thus.

Ancor; Amacor; Amides; Theodonias; Anitor; by the power of the blessed Trinity wherewith we are through faith dignified with Cœlestiall Supremisie & command over all spirits of what nature, orders, office, degree, Mansions, or place of being soever they are: Grant o Lorde that I putting on this vestment of safty, may powerfully (together with these my Associats) be defended from all the Assualts, surprises, frights, feares, & Amasements of wicked, or evill spirits, and that by the virtue & efficacy of our invocations we may effectually move, call forth, & constraine those Elementall Spirits, or Spirituall Powers, as we shall thereby move or call-forthe, whether by nature, name, orders, or office, visibly & peacibly to apeare unto us & faithfully to fullfill & to performe unto us whatsoever we shall accordingly request, & command them; without the least of hurt or iniury or any other evill deed to be don unto us, or to this place, or to any other place, or person whatsoever, through thee, o holy Adonai, whose mercy Endureth for ever, Amen.³⁹⁹

³⁹⁹ This may serve as an example of how the present text has bloated pseudo-Abano with additional verbiage. In the printed Heptameron, this prayer (versions of which can also be found in multiple Clavicula Salomonis versions) runs: ANCOR: AMACOR: AMIDES: THEODONIAS: ANITOR, Per merita Angelorum tuorum sanctorum Domine, induam vestimenta salutis ut hoc quod desidero, possim perducere ad effectum: per te sanctissime Adonay, cuius Regnum permanent, per omnia secula seculorum, Amen (In English: [voces magica], By the merits of thy holy Angels, O Lord, I will put on the vestments of salvation, that I may be able to bring to effect that which I desire, by thee, most holy Adonai, who Kingdom endures for ever and ever, Amen.)

Then the master, or invocant, being ready, heaving his vestments on, the seale on his Breast, his sword in his right hand, & his booke (or notes) in his left hand, Enter the Circle, & his Associates after him, & place himself in the East angle of the circle & then first humbly request beseech & supplicate⁴⁰⁰ the benevolent Aid, & Assistance of all the Angels particularly, that appertaine to the time of action, the [142v] which are both written about the Circle, & also to be found elsewhere, in there proper places in the diernall experiements, or directions, from the East; & so turning himself to the west Angle do the like; & also in like manner to the North, and lastly to the south as aforesaide, in manner & forme as followeth.

O all ye Glorious Angels of us at this time called upon by name; we the servants of the most high God, Reverantly here present in his holy feare do earnestly, & humbly beseeke you all, in the most true & especiall name of your God, & by the trew signe; seale, & head of your orders, Governing & bearing principal, & Respective power over you, as by the preordinate degree of the highest, in the blessed Trinity is appointed, & by the effecacyous virtue, & force thereof, to help us, to suport us, to assist us, & be friendly unto us, in these our present operations & Affaires that by the constraining power, & force of our invocations, & at our utterance; Reading & rehearsal thereof, we may thereby, potently, & infallibly move call forth & command all such, or those Elementall Spirits, as eather by orders office, name; or other wise we shall according invoke move or call forth to visible Appearance, that they may be also Enforced, compelled, & constrained, forthwith & immediately to appeare unto us plainly & visibly to the sight of our Eye, in peace, and quietness, silence, obediently & readily fullfilling & performing unto us all our desires, & requests, & serving us according to their severall & Respective natures, & office, in what soever we shall command them, without noise or other disturbances whereby [143r] to assault or surprise our senses with any falls motions, dreadfull Appearances, frights, feares, Amazments, to deceive, or delude us, or any other evill deed or ingury to be don to us, or to this place in any wise whatsoever, [& that they may obediently & readily fullfill & performe unto us all our desires, requests & serve us according to there serverall and respective natures & offices in whatsoever we shall command them,]⁴⁰¹ in all which & whatsoever els that shall be yet further nessesary & beneficiall for us herein, more then we are capable to relate: we do againe earnestly entreat & humbly beseech you, O all ye glorious Angells afforsaide, to do for us, as for the servant of the most high God wherein we move you in power & assistance as ⁴⁰⁰ From "the East angle" to here written in sup lin. in the same hand as the main text.

⁴⁰¹ Text in square brackets written sup lin. and spilling into the right margin, in the same hand as the main text.

afforesaide whose works & benevolence unto us herein, shall be a song of honour & the praise of your God in your creation. Amen.⁴⁰²

All which being duly observed, *<illegible>*⁴⁰³; let the master invocant here declare, shew forth, & make knowne the cause, or ocasion why he thus calleth upon them, for their Aid & assistance; heaving the same fairly written in a paper or parchment in his hand ready to utter; &c. Then let the master proceed on, & in the next place devoutly to read the invocation assined to the day, & thereby humbly to implore & beseeke, the Cœlestiall Asistance of the blessed Angels, or intelligences governing that day wherein he laboureth, mentioning also therein his desires, as in the saide invocation it is to be repeated, & may be further understood, relation being thereunto had; the which also nextly followeth in order; & then afterwards let the invocant turne his face towards that Angle or point of the compass from whence [143v] the appointed spirit is to be moved, or called forth, & then placing his associates orderly by him, then let him invoke the spirit, or Spirits by name &c. as accordingly is appointed hereafter following, with other suitable directions necessary to be well understood, as to the Apparitions, & other matters of note.

*The Invocation moving & calling forth the Spirits of the Aire, mentioned in the foregoing Treatise, of the seaven Diurnall or daily Observations.*⁴⁰⁴

O you Spirit, or Spirituall power; who is known of use from the tradition of our Ancestours, & called by the name N:⁴⁰⁵ having power given you to visit the earth, & to execute the commandements of the highest, & also by divine permission plainely & visibly, & in faire decent forme to appeare unto the sones of men, servants of the most high God, livieng on earth, whensoever you shall be of them invocated, commanded, called-forth, moved, & thereby conjured, & constrained there-unto to obey them, to serve them, & to be friendly unto them & readily fourthwith to fullfill & performe all such their commands & requests, which they shall make, wherein by nature office order, places or power, you many in any wise be concerned or servesable, know therefore o you Spirite called by name N: (as aforesaid) that we the servants of the most high [144r]

⁴⁰² The final clause is a variant / expansion of the conclusion of the sixth of Dee's Claves Angelicae, which in the English reads "Wherefore harken unto my voice, I have talked of you and I move you, in power and presence, whose works shalbe a song of honor and the praise of your God in your Creation." Variations occur frequently in the "Invocation of Angels" text-group.

⁴⁰³ One or two rubricated words unreadable in the scans I'm using; proably something like "as aforesaid."

⁴⁰⁴ This, besides being a grotesque bloating of the "Exorcism of the Aerial Spirits" of the Heptameron (which in turn is derived from the Vinculum spirituum), is likely the source of the "General Invocation, Conjuraton or Constringation" of Longobardus (vide supra, fol. 13v-15v): while the latter has some variations, other parts are verbatim with the present text, and the context suggests the Longobardus text was adopted from the current conjuration rather than vice versa.

⁴⁰⁵ Here substitute the name of the Spirit.

God, & reverently here present in his holy feare, do conjure, command, constrain, move & call you forth to visible Appearance in the name of the most high Madilzodarp, even the almighty, allpowerfull, immense, incomprehensible & immortall God & lord of hosts the only Creatour of heaven & earth, & of all things whatsoever that is contained therein [and also more distinctly & in particular by the truest & most especiall name & attribute of your God, whome you also in place & office in all due reverence & feare meekely serve honor worship & obey, (who &c.)]⁴⁰⁶ who in the beginning of time, by his all divine & eternall degree, amongst other wonderfull, greate & Marvelous works of your creation, by the mouth of his holy Spirit in the blessed Trinity, saide let us make man according to our Image similitude, & let him beare rule over the works of our hands & have soverigne power & command over all sublunar spirits, both Ayeriall, Terestriall, & otherwise Elementall, & other wandering Spirits, & infernall spirits of all oders & offices whatsoever, both of light & darkness, & by your seale or Character most firmly & solidly binding, subjecting & obliging you by orders & offices, both to the Divine command of the highest; and his servants the sones of men, calling forth, & moving your thereunto: And we do also further conjure, compel, command, constrain, call forth & move you, o ye spirite called by the name N: to visible appearance, move therefore, o ye spirit N: come away & appeare ye visibly unto us before this Circle in faire and decent forme; not in any wise terrible or affrightfull unto us, to amaze or surprise us, or in any violent, [144v] or turbulent manner hurtfull to us, or this place, or to any other person or place whatsoever, but come & appeare ye in all serenity, peace and mildness shewing forth likewise unto us a visible signe or teste forgoeing your Appearance, and by the virtue, power, efficacy & influence of these great; mighty & sacred names of the most high God which Adam heard and speake, & by the name Agla, which Lott heard & was save with his family, And by the name of Gyn, which Noah heard & speake after his was delivered from the flood, And by the names which Abraham heard and did know God; And by the name Joth, which Jacob heard, and was delivered from the hand of his brother Esau: And by the name Tetragrammaton; which he heard of the Angel striveing with him; And by the name Anapheketon; which Aron heard, & speaking was made wise; and by the name Zebaoth; which Moses names, & the watter of Egypt was turned into blood; And by the name Escherie oriston, which Moses named, and all the rivers belched out frogs, & they went into the Egyptians houses, destroying all things; And by the name Adonay, which Moses named, and there were locusts appeared upon the Land of the Egyptians, and Eat up that which was remaining; And by the name Elion; which Moses named, & there was such a storme of haile, as was not from the begining of the world; [145r] And by the name Primeumaton; & the most wonderfull power and Effecacy thereof; mich Moses named and the Earth opened her mouth, & swallowed up Corah, Dathan, &

⁴⁰⁶ Words in square brackets written in the top margin, with an insertion mark after “contained therein”

Abiram, and all their Generation and people; And by the name that Moses heard from the mids of the burning bush, & was astonished; And by the name that the Israelits heard upon the mount Sina, & they dyed for feare; And by the name Burne, and by the vertiue and power whereof the sea parted in sunder; And by the effecacy of that name, at the Reharsing whereof the watters was Divided; and by the mighty power of that great name, at the speaking whereof, the stones burst and relented; And by the name Schemes Amathia, which Joshua named, And the son staid his course, And by the name Alpha and Omega; which Daniel named, and destroyed Bell and the Dragon; And by the name Emanuel, which the three Children, Shadrack, Mesach, & Abednego, sang in the fiery furnace & where dilivered; And by the imperiall throne; And by the Majesty and Deity of the Almighty, Everlasting & true God of hosts, we do call upon you O you spirit who is called N: And being dignified by the power of his holy Spirit, & strengthened by his all powerfull Arme; & being thereby supported with his Cœlestiall and Divine Assistance, Do conjure, command, constraine, call-forth & move you o you Spirit N: to visible appearance; move therefore and appeare, yea, & shew yourself visibli & affebly in faire [145v] and decent forme unto us before this Circle, & com yea in all serenity, mildness, peace, & friendship, & in no wise terrible or hurtfull to us or in this place or to any other place or person whatsoever; And make true and faithfull⁴⁰⁷ Answeres unto all such, or those our demands & requests as we shall make; & desire of you, & also effectually to accomplish, fullfill, & performe unto us whatsoever we shall thereby Enjoyne & command you, Wherin your orders & office is in any wise properly Appertayning & Concerned. Now therefore O you spiret N: Prepare ye, & be not Obstanett, Refrectory, nor pertonatiuous, but come ye away forthwise & emediatly from your orders, Mantion, or place of Residence Vissibly unto us before this Circle, & Depart ye not from our presents, Until you have trewly & fully Effected & performed all such our Commandments we shall Enjoyne you, without any Delay, fraud, guile, or Illusion whatsoever: now therefore harken unto our Voyce O you spirit N: & be not Obstanett, Refrectory, nor disobedient; know ye that we the servants of the Most High God, being Dignified, fortified, supported, assisted, & Incorridged, by his omnipotent, Divine & Cælestiall power; & by the virtue, power, Influence, & Efficacy thereof, & by this his most High, Great & Might Name Jehovah Tetragrammaton, who saith and it is done, whome all creatures, both Cœlestiall, Elementall & Infernall, with feare & Reverence do most humbly serve, honnour & obey; & wherein all the world was formed, which being heard, The Elements Thunder, the Ayre is sheken, the sea goes back, the fire is quenched, the earth Trembleth, & all the heavenly, Earthly & Infernall host do tremble, & are troubled, do conjure, command, compel, constraine call forth & move you to visible Appearance. Wherefore O ye Spirit called N: now presently, & without any further tarring illusion hinderance or delay, Move ye immediately, Even at this very Instant call, make hast & come away, & appeare ye [146r] visibly affably, courteously and peacibly, in faire and decent forme unto us, before this Circle, And to shew forth unto us a true & visibly sighne foregoeing your comming & Appearance, And come ye in all serenity, quietness & friendship, without noyce or turbulencie, or in any violent manner, hurtfull to us, or this place, or to any other place or person whatsoever, or otherside; either to assault, surprise, or Amaze us Either in spirit or bodily senses, with feare Astonishment, or other dreadfull or tirable visions, or false motions & appearances, in any wise to affright, obstruct or delude [...];⁴⁰⁸ and make <make> us Rationall true & faithfull Ansawares, speaking to plainly unto us as that we may perfectly heare and understand you; Readily & willingly fullfilling all our desires, which by your office and power in any wise properly you may or can; move therefore, & come away in the name of omnipotent; Everliving, and true God Helioren; And appeare ye as afforesaide, visibly here before us in the names Aye Saraye, Aye Saraye, Aye Saraye; make hast, & defer not your coming, in & through these names Eloy, Archima, Rabac; And obey your master who is called Octinomos; Now then finally, know ye o ye sperit N: that we being Dignified by Cœlestiall power, do by the contents of this our great and Royall Invocation (as aforesaid) & by the virtue; power, influence & effecacy thereof Conjure, command, compel, constraine, call forth & move you to visible appearance; immediately even at this very minnit: Give ye now therefore present Audience, Attendance, & obedience hereunto, and come away with speed, & appeare ye visibly unto the sight of our eyes, in faire & decent form before this Circle, & shew forth unto us a visible signe foregoeing your appearance, persisting herein to the full, & effectually accomplishment and fullfilling of all our demands, & requests that we have; or shall make unto you, even unto the very utmost (as have before saide) without further Appology, excuse, pretence, hinderen, [146v] or tarring, delay, delusion, deceit, subtilty, craft, disguise, interruption, flase motions, disturbance, feare, fight, Amazement, by any dreadfull or terrable assault, or surprisall or any other Illusion whatsoever.

⁴⁰⁷ Originally "Skillfull"; corrected sec. man. (?).

This Invocation being for three tymes distinctly read or said, & that o visible or sensible appearance should as yet plainely present it self or shew forth any signall offer or considerable Testimony, or other materiall signes thereof to the sight or hearing of the Master Invocant, & his Assotiats, or to any one or either of them, &c.: then let the Master earnestly with good devotion read & make often repitition of this — following Replication.⁴⁰⁹

⁴⁰⁸ Indistinctly written word, possibly “is,” but the context suggests “us” was meant.

⁴⁰⁹ This paragraph of rubric and the title and first line of the next invocation is in an apparently different hand to the main text.

Invocation Replicatory

O yee Spirit whom wee have moved & called forth by the name N: And also by orders & office, as well as mansions, Residence, or place of abode appointed you by the devine decree of the highest in the preordinate dispensation of the Blessed Trinity, & likewise wheresoever else you may, or shall happen at this present time to be; & yet notwithstanding the force & power of our invocation, you appeare not visibly here before us in faire and decent forme, without turbulence or violence, or in any other, fearfull, dreadfull, hurtfull, or terrible manner, to dismay, or delude us, according as we have Earnestly & powerfully invocated, moved, Requested, & thereby commanded you; nor any apparent Singne, or visible testimony, or other permanent Signature of your coming, or Appearance, or that by this your not coming, nor Appearance, nor any visibile signe thereof is at all Represented, or offered, or how otherwise you may be disposed of by Divine appointment, or shall happen Chancely to be absent frome orders, mansion, or proper place of abode, is at this time shewed forth; or mande appeare to us, whereby we cannot otherwise but Rationally [147r] conjecture that all this want of due performance in this our certain expectation, of your personall & reall appearance, obviously heare before us, & also true & visible foregoeing signes thereof in manner & forme accordingly as we have saide before, but that all together procede rather from perverse, willfull stubborn, refractory & obstinate dissobediance then otherwise, by all which we cannot otherwise but imagine then of your hatred, Malice, Rancour Enmity, & envie to us & towards all mankind, moveing calling forth, & commanding you to such their purpose & service; as the most high God, by orders and office, in place accordingly, hath appointed you, to his honnour & Glorie, and the benefit of his servaants the sones of men, lieving on earth, for whose comfort & use all things, & creatures in the Creation, both Annimall, vegetable, & mineral, were firstly ordained, and afterwards freely bequeathed, & given; Maugere⁴¹⁰ the despight of all malignant, or evill spirits or other spirituall powers of darkness that shall enviously strive, or seeke to oppose, obstruct, or withstand them. Know therefore O ye spirit N: that we the servants of the most high God do yet further & againe move command, constraine & call you forth to visible appearance by the name N: here before us, in faire and decent forme, & shape without noyse; or any turbulent or violent manner or otherwise dreadfull, hurtfull, or affrightfull unto us, whereby to assault us, or our senses with feare & Amazaement; to dismay or delude us, & also without doeing the leasts of harme or injury to us, or to this place, or to any other person or place whatsoever upon the earth, but come ye & appeare visible here before us, in faire & decent forme, quietly & peaceably, not in any wise terrible or troublesome to us by any false motions, or Delusions, but in all friendship, Mildness & ⁴¹⁰ An obsolete word meaning "in spite of" (more usually found as mauger).

serenity, as aforesaid, now therefore we the servants of the Most High God, Do, by & in the true & most Especiall names of your God, & by [147v] the Cœlestiall power, wherewith we are at this time dignified and fortified, & by the virtue & power of these our Invocations made (as affore said) unto you, & all the Royall words & sentences therein Contained, & by the head of your orders, & the true signe & seale thereof; & by your particular Seal or Charector of Creation confirming you in orders, office & mansion, & thereby confining & commanding you, at the naming thereof; first, unto the service of God, & his Divine commandements, & secondly, unto the service & benefit of his servants the sones of men living on Earth, whensoever they shall have urgent occasion, or other nescesity to move & call you forth to their helpe and assistance, wherein by orders & office, you are bound accordingly to serve and obey: By all afforsaide, & by these presents, we do finally & againe powerfully exorcize, conjure, command, constraine, call forth, & move you by name orders & office, o ye spirit who is called N: to visible Apperance in faire & peaceable order & manner as afforesaide, move thereore prepare ye; & by the virtue & power of all afforesaide, we constraine move & command you to come away & appeare ye immediately forthwith visibly here before us, & also to shew forth plainly unto us a true signe or signes foregoing your coming & appearance, or otherwise to send, or shew forth unto us such a true signe, or signes of your not coming & Appearing here before us at this time that we may be truly and Rationally satisfied thereof: make hast therefore & come or ssend a way immediately, at this very moment from your orders, Mansion, or place of Residence, or whresoever els you are at this present, & stay not, nether delay, nor defer [148r] the time of your comming & visible Appearance unto us one minute longer, as you will answare this your contempts & willfull obstinacy, at your utmost peril: move then (we say) & by the constraining power & the force & vertue thereof wherewith we have at this time commanded & called you forth, & appeare ye visibly heare before us, in manner & forme as before we have saide without any further tareing, hinderence, delay, or Delusion whatsoever, in the true name of that your God, who shall certainly iudge all the wicked, perverse, obstinate, pertinacious Refractory & Disobediant spirits, not onely with great severities duering the continuance of time here, but also with greater judgments hereafter, even by fire & utter dissolution, to totall Distruction, & finall subversion of all ye Adverse, Rebelious, Reprobate Spirits, who shall therefore in that day bee cast forth into endless & Eternall forgetfulness; Behold therefore your Conclusion, & be not yet further obstinate nor disobedient.⁴¹¹

This Replication being about seven times devoutly reade and Repeated or other otherwise at the discession of the invocant, as the occasion thereof shall require &c. And then perchance, before any reall Apparition sheweth it selfe there may be severall signes & tokens, as forerunners thereof; present themselves, as is before specified in the Diurnall observations, & many times may be heard Organs, & other Musicall instruments of severall kinds playing, & many motions may be discerned, As it were Archers, & the similitude of terrible Beasts, to pass to & fro, as furiously & violently as if they would devour all before them, & when such things are discerned, let not the Master invocant trouble himself to looke much upon them, or to cast is eye stedfastly, [148v] or Directly at them, except he pleaseth, but his companions may, be reason they ought to observe all passages, but then they must not be faint hearted, but of an undaunted spirit and resolution &c. For probably the signes of the appearance, may bee somewhat terrable, & full of severall strange, various & [[...]]able vision, fearce motions, & sudden frightfull, and terrable delusions, which forme themselves on purpose to strike the invocant, & his associats into feare, to dismay them; yet let them fear nothing, but be courageous and undaunted, persisting with constant resolutions, the master Phylosopher having great respect to the business & charge; which is to constraine & exorcize them: & if they should not forthwith appeare in such shape & similitude as they were commanded & expected, & continue as yet obstinate and in Disobediant to the command and constraint of the master, then let him stretch forth his hand with his sword in it, and first touching the seale on his breast, say thus:

⁴¹¹ The next passage of rubric continues without a paragraph break in the MS., though a heavy line is drawn above, below and to the left of the first letter, to clearly demarcate it.

Let this your iniquity and willfull obstinacy fly away, & obediently appeare visible here (here) before us in faire & decent forme, & with humble & peaceable submission, readily & willingly to serve us, in performing and fullfilling all such, & those our commandements whatsoever we shall request & make demand of, unto you, in the great & most especiall name, & by the dignitie Power & might of your most high, true & just God; &c.

Then will there be heard hisings⁴¹² & will be seen many swift & great motions in all parts about the Circle; which when they shall be perceived by (by) the Master of any of his associates, then shall the invocant say,

Why doe you linger; why do you delay; what doe you doe, prepare ye, come away, & obey these our commands, the true name of the most high & all powerfull God, Bathat or Bachat, rushing upon Abrac; Abeor, comeing upon Aberer.

⁴¹² This translation of the expression in pseudo-Abano's Latin (sibilet in quatuor Angulis mundi) is highly doubtful, although the same mistake was apparently made independently by two English translators of the Heptameron: the copy in Sloane MS. 3851, independent of and probably pre-dating Turner, rendered it "ther wilbe a hissing." That whole section of rubric derives from the Liber Iuratus Honorii (cap. CXXXIII) and in context it is an instruction to the magician to whistle: the construction of the whistle is described in cap. CXL of the Liber Iuratus. See Peterson's Elucidation of Necromancy & notes to the online text of the Heptameron.

[149r] Then immediately will all the superfluous motions & the other impertinent signes & Appearances vanish, & be noe more seen, and the spirit called forth, will presently appeare, & shew itself visibly & affably in decent forme, (or else in its own proper shape) before the Circle; then shew unto it your seale touching it with the sword saying thus unto it, Behold your Conclusion⁴¹³ & be not dissobedient.

Then presently will it become obedient, & reddy to fullfill the desire & proposal of the master invocant; which when either he or his associates shall perceive him thus, saying,

Welcome you most noble spirit: behold as we have moved, & called you forth, in by & through the true & great name of the most high incomprehensible & immortall God; to whome all knees do most reverently & obediently bow, both of Cœlestiall, Terrestiall, & infernall; Creatures, in whose hands all Kingdoms are, neither is there anyone who dare oppose his Almighty Majesty, nor his devine will & pleasure, so we do likewise in by & through the same devine; omnipotent; Great most sacred & true name of your God, And by the dignity, power, Effecacy, force & vertue thereof, Adjure command, & constraine, you to tell us your name, & your office, & what orders you are of & what mansion & where is your Residence, & under whome you are, & to shew plainly to me & my Associates, or to some one or more, or all of us, the true seale or Character of your Creation upon your breast, to the which you beare obedience; & always stick Close: And now we command, binde, & constraine you, in by & through the vertue & Effecacy of that most great mighty & powerfull name of the most high God; [149v] who thereby hath limited, & set bounds unto the sea, which it cannot surpass, exceed, or go beyond, And in by & through these great, powerfull, & most effecacious names whereby King Salomon moved, called-forth, constrained, bound, inclosed shut up spirits, Elbrach, Ebanber, Agla, Goth, Ioth, Othie, Venoch, Nabrach, that ye stay, and tarry here visibly, affebly, & friendly to us before this Circle, so long & so Constant ats we shall thike expedient; & that you depart not from hence, without our leave, nor untill you heave fullfilled our will & desires in all respects without any delay, fraude, or deceite, or any evill dede, matter or thing to happen unto us or any other Creature upon the face of the Earth.

Then will the Spirit appeare, & say into the invocant: <illegible>⁴¹⁴

⁴¹³ Ecce conclusionem vestram. “Conclusion” might be better translated “doom” (Peterson suggests “confinement”) in the context. Other texts (e.g. the Vadian Lucidarium) have “confusionem”; the Liber Iuratus (apud Hedegård), Ecce coniurationem vestram.

⁴¹⁴ The following speech (about 3 lines in the MS.) is almost completely unreadable in the scans I’m working from: it possibly begins, “What would you like [...]” The corresponding speech in the Latin Heptameron is, Pete quid vis, quia nos sumus parati complere omnia mandata tua, quia Dominus ad hæc nos subiugavit. Roughly: “Ask what you will, for we are prepared to comply with all your commands, for the Lord has subjected us to them.”

Then let the Invocant make his proposals & Command what he will & it will be done, then afterwards licence the spirits thus to depart:

O you most noble spirit; wee thanke your Master & you also; & now you may depart hence, & goe in peace to your orders, or other places of Residence, appointed & preordained, for you, by the devine Dispensation of the most high God, & Lord of hosts; in whose onely true & Great name; & by the vertue & power thereof; & by the principle head of your orders; let there be a firme & lasting peace, between you & us whensoever we shall have occaision to move & call you forth againe in N: P: Et Fi: Et SP: S.⁴¹⁵ Amen.

[The remainder of the text, consisting of a series of increasingly strongly worded threats, constraints and curses for uncoöperative Spirits, has no direct parallel in the Heptameron, whose main rubric concludes with the license to depart.]

<illegible>,⁴¹⁶ that if the Spirit, or [150r] spirits, invocated, should be very obstinate & perverse after many invocations & constraints, they are yet perverse & disobedient thereto, & Appeare not, they have used to constraine them by the following Constraint, which if well observed & duly performed, with Authority, is the greatest & most powerfull secret in this Art.

The method or manner of Constraining or Compelling any obstinate Spirits to visible Appearance & proceeding to Sentence of Condemnation thereby enforcing them to an Obedience or forever to suspend them or degrade them of all power & banish them from the presence both of Cœlestiall & terrestriall hopes, light favour, familiarity or other benignity whatsoever.⁴¹⁷

First, take a piece of kid-skin parchment, & write thereon the name of the spirit, and bind it up with an iron wire, or Chaine, & put it into a black Box, with store of sulpher, then binde up the Box also, then make a fire of Eglantine or sweet bryar in a pan, placing it the Angle frome whence the spirit was invocated, & then throwing indeferent store of Sulpher therinto, & holding the box over the fire & fume, on the point of the sword; Call upon the spirit againe very urgently, & constrainingly; Concluding the invocation wit this, saying.

Behold your conclusion & be not Disobedient.

And if he cometh, then cease, & proceed as is before taught; but if yet he cometh not, then observe the method following, as thus.

⁴¹⁵ Conventional abbreviation for in Nomine Patri et Filii et Spiritus Sancti.

⁴¹⁶ About half a line of rubricated text (five or six words), unreadable in the images I'm working from.

⁴¹⁷ This paragraph / title written sec. man.

Make a fire of Charcoale in a convenient [Copper (Vessell)] Vessell fit for that purpose & place it right before you, in that Angle from whence the Spirit is called forth, & having the black box prepared & bound or [150v] chained up as aforesaid by itself, then put the same in the midst of a Bundle or Brush, or Fagot of Bryer or sweete Brier and lay the same just before at four feete, & so proceede to prepare the Fire in manner & forme as followeth.⁴¹⁸

We Exorcize & conjure the o fire by him who can make the world tremble, & shall come to judge the living & the dead, & the world by fier, & who hath prepared Hell fire for the reward & punishment of the Damned, that you burn & torment this obstinate pervers disobedient, & pertinacious spirit N: & afflict him with paines unspeakeable, & so do it, that he may sensibly feel & endure it forever unles he doth immediatly, forthwith at this very moment, & at this yet my further constraining invocations, Readyly, willingly, peacibly, Affably, & visibly appeare in faire & decent forme here before us, accordingly as we have here before moved & commanded.

The first Constraint.

Then with Earnest Devotion read very Distinctly, with a passionate sober Temperature, & mental Reservation of spirit this following invocation.

O you disobedient, parverse & obstinate spirite N: Know ye that we being made, or Created after the Expres image; & Idea of the most high God, & <illegible>⁴¹⁹ dignified through divine Grace in the highest; with sovereigne power & command over all sublunar spirits both of light & darkness, of all orders & offices, whether Ayeriall, Terrestriall, or otherwise Elementall, or infernall, or other wandering powers whatsoever, with great benefit [151r] being geiven, confermed, & continued unto mankind; by the seale of Creation prefixed from the begining of time, & thereby inherent to all posterity, even to the utmost period thereof; we as the Children, or seed of the faithfull, & Cœlestiall Consubstantiate, & become one with superior parts, and participations, proceeding by an ordinate Coherence from the most high omnipotent, and Incomprehensible God-head, Angels Heavens, elements, and Elementall things, a devine benefite given only to makeinde, and to noe other Creatur, thereby makinghim the most Excellent & surpassing all sublunar things of the Creation, by the vertue, power, dignity, effecacy, influence & symbolically union, whereof we have at severall & many times moved & called you forth to visible Appearance; by the strength & force of our invocations, & constringations & yet notwithstanding all which, & also that Cœlestially Sovereign power, wherewith we are (through devine Grace in the Blessed Trinity) ⁴¹⁸ This paragraph of rubric written sec. man.

⁴¹⁹ Word looks like “Argwarably” but ‘arguably’ doesn’t really fit in the context.

dignified, defended, fortified, supported, & preseed, nor at whatsoever else we have saide, mentioned, or Charged unto you, but that you rather still Continue & persiste on in obstinate, Refractory, willfull, & stuborne disobedients both unto the true & most especiall Name of your God, & the principle head of your orders, and of us the true servants of the most high God, & of our commandements, whereby we have so often at severall times, both now & of late heretofore, moved & called you forth to visible Appearance in manner & forme as before we have saide, and as hitherto you have neither given Either attention, Attendance, or Appearance unto us, after all these our invocations maide & moved unto you which you have certainly both made & shewed your selfe notoriously guilty of high misdemeanors, & of grand obstancy, usurpation, disobedance, and Rebellion, against all Cœlestiall & Terrestiall Authority, whereof you being now, by all both Cœlestiall, & Terrestiall powers, found permanently culpable, & therefore accordingly convicted, we shall by that mighty power, & the force [151v] thereof; wherein we have moved & called you forth; for this your implacable dissobedience & rebellion we shall utterly & forever excommunicate & cast thee forth in perpetuall forgetfulness, & condem thee into endless, & unspeakable tofments, & shall destroy thy name; the which lieth here inclosed, & inter'd, & also bound, chained, and shut up in this Box, and which we shall bury, & combure in Sulpherous flames as a true mysticall representment or type of a reall, & corporall ordination, conjoined & knit up in the very body, & essetiall being of your selfe, & thereby throw you headlong into Eternall oblivion, & so into endless paines, & punishments in fire unquenchable, & in darkness unavoydabl even pass all hopes of Redemption or dilivieri, as judgment justly due unto your deservings; and all other obstinate, perverse, disobedient, and Rebellious Spirits. Now therefore yet once more & againe, we do in the true and great name of your God, & by the principle head of your orders, & by the devine Attribut reffered thereunto, & the true seal or Character thereof conferring the same, & all so binding & commanding you all, but such your orders & offices proper, from the superior to the inferiour, unto both Cœlestiall & Terrestiall service, homage & obedience & by the true & perticular seale or Charactor of your Creation, & in by & through these great powerfull & most efficacious names whereby King Salomon moved, called-forth, constrained, bound, inclosed, or shut up Spirits, Elbrack, Ebanher, Agla, Goth, Joth, Athie, Venach, Nabruch; & by the power, vertue force influence effecacy, dignity, & Authority of all, & also of all those invocations, & constringations, whereby we have so often, & earnestly moved, & called you forth to visible appearance, & by all the great & Royall words, & sentences therein contained, & also we doe (as before we have saide) yet once more and againe powerfully conjure, command, constraine, call-forth, & move you o ye spirit by name called N: from your orders, mansion, or place of Residence; or wheresoever else you are at this [152r] present; or otherwise may chansly happen to be, (excepting by Devine Appointment) immediately, & forthwith at this very moment without any further excuse, hinderance, tarring, delay, delusion, or other pretence whatsoever, to come with hast away, & Appeare in faire & decent forme, visibly here before us, & in peaceble & serene order & manner, & no wise terrable, hurtfull, dreadfull, or affrightfull to us, thereby to Astonish or assault us, or to surpasse our senses with any sudden terrour, feare, & Amazement, and without any the least injury, harme or damage to this place or to any other place person or thing whatsoever or wheresoever upon the Earth, speaking plainly, & making true & faithfull Answers unto us, in whatsoever we have or shall have to say unto or ask of you, so as that we may both sensibly heare & understand you, & also to obsrve & keep our precepts invially unto (?) us and as faithfully to effect, performe, & fullfill unto us, all & every our demands, desires & requests, that we shall make unto you, as you shall answer the contempt thereof, at your untmost perrills, and as you will avoide the penalty of that most dreadfull & terrable sentence; which in case of your further persistence in this your disobedience & Rebelious obstinacy; wherefore now then behold O ye pertinacious, Disobediant & perverse & Refractory Spirit N: behold (we say) your conclusion, & be noe longer thus disobedient & willfully obstinate, but move, come away, & appeare ye visible here before us in manner & order, as before we have said, &c.

If yet the Spirit appeareth not, neither any signes of its coming or shew thereof, as yet visibly appeareth to sight or apprehension, then having a fire of Charcole or any other fuell before the Circle, in manner & place accordingly as [152v] aforesaid &c: throw some Brimstone therinto, & holding up the Box [upon the point of the sword],⁴²⁰ being bound or chained up with Iron Bond, first by itself, & then within a Brush, or Bundle of Bryer or sweete Brier in manner & forme also as before mentioned, & holding by the same (say as followeth) still casting more Brimstone into the Fire, as it consumeth, &c:⁴²¹

The second Constraint:

Behold o you Spirit N that noew because you are still pertinacious, Refractory disobedient & Rebellious, And as yet Appeareth not visibly unto us, nor sheweth any certaine signe or apprehensive testimony thereof, nor otherwise Answered our expectations, notwithstanding we have so often, & so powerfully moved, commanded called-forth, & constrained you thereunto, for the which you having thereby proved your selfe Guilty of most high contempt, Rebellion, dissobediance, and of the grand offences, and unpardonable crimes, both against your God & us also his servants; we shall now therefore in the true & most especiall name of your God, & Lord, both of heaven & earth, the only creator & most high judge & marvelous desposer of things both Cœlestiall Terrestiall & Infernall, visible & invisible; according to such his great mercyes, or very ⁴²⁰ Words in square brackets written as a marginal note in the MS.

⁴²¹ This paragraph of rubric written sec. man.

severe judgments, & punishments, as the just rewards due unto their deservings doth merit or shall require, in whome, through Grace & mercy, by devine dispensation, united in the Blessed Trinity, we are at this time powerfully dignified, fortified, & supported, & by the vertue, force, influence, effecacy thereof, & of all whatsoever hath been saide before unto you, & also by the vertue & power of those greate, mighty, & powerfull names Elbrack, Ebanher, Agla, Goth, Joth, Athie, Venach, Nabruch, whereby King Solomon moved, called-forth, constrained, bound inclosed, or shut up spirits; [153r] we shall (we say) for ever excommunicate, deprive & cast you forth, out of all office power & liberty o you Spirit N: for this your most high dissobediance, contempt & Rebellion, into utter darkness & perdition, into they bottomless pit, or lake of unquenchable fire wherein you shall be also Chained, or bound up, in perpetuall & unspeakable torments, even to the utmost period of time, unless you immediatly obey, & at this very instant moment; Move come away, & Appeare visibly unto us, and also to shew-forth true signs thereof; and move therefore, & yet againse at last we say unto you, O ye spirit N: we do powerfully hereby constray you to move, come away & Appeare visibly here before us in manner & forme, as we have before saide; as you will Answare these your great & unpardonable contempt before that your most high & true God, who shall undoubtedly judge, & reward, all the wicked, Rebellious, Refractory, dissobediant, Adverse & obstinate Spirits, with such endless paines & punishments, as in his devine justice shall be adjudged, most justly due unto these your dissobediant, & Rebellious deservings, the which in his most high great & mighty name; & by his most invincible power, trough Cœlestiall Grace, & mercy, dispensate in the Blessed Trinity, wherewith we are att this time powerfully dignified, Armed, & invested; we shall accordingly judge & condeme you, & the which, with as great severity, shall be of us (as the true servants of the most high God) assuredly; and certainly inflicted upon you, behold therefore this your last conclusion, & be no longer dissobediant.

Heere make a little Pause, & if no visible appearance or signe thereof shall as yet be seene or perceived, then procede on as followeth, the which observe with greate care & diligence.⁴²²

[153v] The third Constraint, being the great Chaine or Sentence

O you spirit, who by name art called N: Know ye that in the truest, & greatest name both of your, & of our most high, Almighty omnipotent immortall, eternall, immense, incomprehensible, inscrutable, & just God, & Lord of hosts, in the unity of the blessed Trinity, after whose Image we are expressly made, & the which we do accordingly beare & in whome (through divine grace, & paternall goodness mercifully descending) by the strength of our hope, faith, frust & stedfast confidence, we are also dignified with Angelicall power, & invested with coelestiall sovereignty, & Authority as Terrestiall Monarchs, of the Creation, being consubstantiate, & choherent symbolically with the God-head, heavens, Angells, elements, & Elementall things; thereby Receiveing from a Certaine connexive inherence an Absolute & imperiall power & command over all Angellicall spirits, & other spirituall powers, & Creatures, Whether Elementall or infernall, or of Light, or Darkness, Dignified or undignified, or as messegers of devine justice either of mercy or penal severity, from the Superiour to the Inferiour of what order, office, degree, or nature soever they are; Know ye therefore (we say againe) O ye spirit N: that you being found (by having proved yourself) most notoriously & positively Guilty of the greatest obstinacy, dissobedeance, & Rebellion, against heaven, & against us truly Symbolising therewith, and against all whatsoever we have as yet hitherto saide; Reahearsed or otherwise more expressly moved, Requested, or commanded you that by the virtue power & efficacy of all, we have before saide, & by [154r] the influence & force of all the Royall words & sentances therein contained, & by the mighty power of those great & ineffable names wherewith King Solomon moved, called forth, constrained, bound, inclosed, or shut up spirits: Ebrack, Ebanher, Agla, goth, Joth, Othie Venoch, Nabrach; we do (in the name & by the power of devine justice) for this your most notorious Guilt, of so great obstinacy, dissobediance, & Rebellion, utterly excommunicate & forever deprive & cast you forth O thou spirit N: out of all office, power, & liberty, & be thou (o thou spirit who art by name called N:) hereby, & by the virtue & power of all before saide, for ever excommunicate & utterly cast out from before the presence both of Coelestiall & elementall power, office, & light; & also utterly deprived of all hopes⁴²³ of devine Grace, mercy, or deliverance, during the which continuance, & untill the utmost period of time into the bottomless pit, or lake of perpetually darkness, & Forgetfulness, or other place of Tenebrous or internall Terroure; & severest punishments, prepared for all Rebellious, disobedient, obstinate, & pertinacious spirits, whose portion shall be with the damned, in fire unquenchable, & torment unspeakable: & behold (O thou disobedient, Rebelious & obstinate; Spirit; who by name art called N:) that as thy name inclosed in this box, being Rationally a true Terrestiall tipe, really Representing your spirituall body by a certain mutuall Consubstantiation, mystically uniting Terrestriall ordiantions, & operations, with Spirituall parts & participations, as they are corporally passive, & subject thereunto, is chained, or bound up & shall be choked in sulphurous & stinking substances & burnt in this matterall fire; so behold (O you spirit N:) we do powerfully hereby cast you forth into the bottomless pit of unquenchable flames or other place of darkness, even the most terrible Tophet of endless & unspeakable torments, wherein you shall remaine bound, [154v] or Chained up, untill the dreadfull and great day of judgement and there shall never be more remembrance of thee, before the face of God, who shall come to judge the quick & the dead, & the world by fire, as a due & just reward of this your disobedience, obstinacy & Rebellion, fiat, fiat, fiat.

⁴²² This paragraph of rubric and the title of the next "Constraint" written sec. man.

⁴²³ Doubtful; "all <something> of" written sup. lin., very cramped and partly obscured by descenders of the letters of the line above, and I am not sure I have transcribed the second word correctly.

Bibliography

Manuscripts

Chicago, Newberry Library:

Case MS. 5017, “Book of Magical Charms”

Dijon, Bibl. municipal:

MS. 448, “Sigismund Fever Charm”

London, British Library:

Additional MS. 36,674

Cotton Appendix XLVI parts i & ii.

Harley MS. 6483

Sloane MSS. 1727, 3188, 3191, 3821, 3824, 3825, 3846, 3847, 3850, 3851

London, Wellcome Institute:

Wellcome MSS. 110, 3203

Manchester, Chetham’s Library:

MS. Mun.A.4.98

Munich, Bayern Staatsbibliothek:

Clm 849, 10085

Bodleian Library, Oxford: e Mus. 173, Rawlinson D. 252

St. Gallen, Kantonsbibliothek:

Vad Slg 334

Vatican City, Vatican Library:

MS. Reg. Lat. 1115

Washington, D.C., Folger Shakespeare Library:

MS. V.b. 26, “Book of Magic with instructions for evoking spirits,” MS. X.d. 234

Printed books (16th / 17th century)

Agrippa von Nettesheim, Heinrich Cornelius: De occulta philosophia libri tres. [Köln], 1533; reprinted, Lyon: Godefroy & Marcello Beringen, 1550; reprinted with additions, “Lyon” [Basel]: “per Beringos fratres” [Peter Perna], n.d. [1567]; critical Latin edition (ed. V. Perrone Compagni) Leiden: E.J. Brill (Studies in the History of Christian Tradition), 1992, reprinted 2012.

— Three Books of Occult Philosophy. English translation by ‘J.F.’ [John French] of De occulta philosophia; London: Printed by R.W. for Gregory Moule, 1651. Cited as OOP. Facsimile reprint, London: Chthonios, 1986; re-set reprint with notes and additional material (ed. Donald Tyson), St. Paul, Minnesota: Llewellyn, 1993.

- [et al.]: Opera in duos tomos concinne digesta &c. &c. &c. “Lyon” [Basel]: “per Beringos fratres” [Thomas Guerin], n.d. [1579]; facsimile reprint of this edition Hildesheim: Georg Olms, 1970; reprinted with additions “Lyon” [Strasburg], “per Beringos fratres” [Lazarus Zetzner], 1600; further reprints, generally undated and with spurious imprints.
 - [spurious attrib.]: Liber quartus de occulta philosophia, seu de Cerimoniis Magicis. Cui accesserunt, Elementa Magica. Marburg: [Andrea Koble], 1559; reprinted [Basel: Peter Perna], 1565 and [Köln: Johann Birkmann], 1567; texts included in Agrippa [et al.], Opera, tom. i.
 - [et al.]: Henry Cornelius Agrippa his Fourth Book of Occult Philosophy, of Geomancy, Magical Elements of Peter de Abano, &c. &c. &c., Translated into English by Robert Turner, Φιλομαθης. London: Printed by J.C. for John Harrison, 1655. English translations of six tracts that appeared as supplements to De occulta philosophia in tom. i of Agrippa’s Opera in duos tomos, only one of which (“Of Geomancy”) is credibly by Agrippa. Cited as T1655. Facsimile reprint with an introduction by Stephen Skinner, London: Askin, 1978.
 - [et al.]: Henry Cornelius Agrippa his Fourth Book of Occult Philosophy, of Geomancie, Magical Elements of Peter de Abano &c. &c. &c., translated into English by Robert Turner, Philo-Med. London: Printed by J.C. for Tho. Rooks, 1665. A reprint of the 1655 edition, expanded by the addition of English translations of the conjurations in the Heptameron. Cited as T1665.
- Arbatel de Magia Veterum*: Basel: [Peter Perna], 1575. Included in Agrippa [et al.], Opera in duos tomos, tom. i. English translation by Robert Turner in Henry Cornelius Agrippa his Fourth Book of Occult Philosophy, of Geomancy &c. &c. &c.
- Casaubon, Meric (ed.): A True & Faithful Relation of what passed for many Yeers between Dr. John Dee [...] and some Spirits &c. &c. &c. London: Printed by D. Maxwell, for T. Garthwait, 1659. Reprinted London: Askin, 1974 (introduction by Stephen Skinner). Reprinted New York: Magickal Childe, 1992 (introduction by L.M. DuQuette). Cited as T&FR.
- Reuchlin, Johannes: De Arte Cabalistica libri tres. Hagenau: Thomas Anshelm, 1517.
- Scot, Reginald: The Discoverie of Witchcraft, wherein the lewde dealing of witches and witchmongers is notable detected, &c. &c. &c. London: William Brome, 1584; many reprints. “Third Edition” with anonymous additions (as The Discovery of Witchcraft, proving that the Compacts and Contracts of Witches with Devils and all Infernal Spirits or Familiars, are but Erroneous Novelties and Imaginary Conceptions &c. &c. &c.), London: Printed for A. Clark, 1665. Re-set reprint including the 1665 additions (ed. Brinsley Nicholson), London: Elliot Stock, 1886.
- Trithemius, Johannes: Steganographia, hoc est ars per occultam scripturam animi sui voluntatem absentibus aperiendi certa. Frankfurt: printed by Matthias Becker for Johann Berner, 1606; reprinted Darmstadt, Balthasar Aulænder for Johann Berner, 1621. Turner (trans.): On the Supreme Mysteries of Nature.
- Wier, De Praestigiis Daemonum, & incantationis ac veneficiis Libris Sex. (fifth edition). Basel: Oporiniana, 1577. This was the first edition to include Pseudomonarchia Daemonum.

Printed works (20th / 21st century)

- Bain, Frederika: "The Binding of the Fairies: Four Spells," In Preternature: Critical and Historical Studies on the Preternatural 1.2 (2012).
- Briggs, Katherine: "Some Seventeenth-Century Books of Magic." In Folklore, vol. 64, no. 4 (December 1953).
- The Anatomy of Puck: an examination of fairy beliefs among Shakespeare's contemporaries and successors. London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1959.
- Butler, E.M.: Ritual Magic. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1949; reprinted Stroud: Sutton, 1997 and University Park, PA: Pennsylvania State University Press (Magic in History series), 1998.
- Campbell, Colin D (ed.): A Book of the Offices of the Spirits: The Occult Virtue of Plants and Some Rare Magical Charms & Spells, transcribed by Frederick Hockley from a Sixteenth Century Manuscript on Magic & Necromancy by John Porter. York Beach, Maine: Teitan Press, 2011.
- Chardonens, László Sándor: "Magic Manuscripts from Somers and Jekyll in the Collections of the British Library." In Societas Magica Newsletter, issue 35 (Spring 2017).
- Ernst, Thomas: "Schwarzweiße Magie: Der Schlüssel zum dritten Buch der Steganographia des Trithemius." In Daphnis: Zeitschrift für Mittlere Deutsche Literatur, vol. 25 no. 1 (Amsterdam, 1996).
- "The Numerical-astrological ciphers in the third book of Trithemius's Steganographia." In Cryptologia, vol. 22 issue 4 (1998).
- Harms, Daniel: "Hell and Fairy: The Differentiation of Fairies and Demons within British Ritual Magic of the Early Modern Period." In Brock, Raiswell & Winter (eds.), Knowing Demons, Knowing Spirits, Palgrave MacMillan, 2018.
- Harms, Daniel & Clark, James (ed. / trans. / illus.): Of Angels, Demons and Spirits: A Sourcebook of British Magic. Woodbury, MN: Llewellyn, 2019.
- Hazlitt, William Carew: English Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases. London: John Russell Smith, 1869; second edition, London: Reeves and Turner, 1882.
- Hedegård, Gösta (ed.): Liber Iuratus Honorii: A Critical Edition of the Latin Version of the Sworn Book of Honorius. Stockholm: Almqvist & Wiksell, 2002.
- James, Geoffrey: Enochian Evocation of Dr. John Dee. Gillette, NJ: Heptangle Books, 1984; reprinted (as The Enochian Magick of Dr. John Dee), St. Paul, MN: Llewellyn, 1994; reprinted under original title, York Beach, Maine: Red Wheel / Weiser, 2009.
- Kieckhefer, Richard: Forbidden Rites: A Necromancer's Manual of the Fifteenth Century. Stroud: Sutton, 1997; reprinted University Park, PA: Pennsylvania State University Press (Magic in History series), 1998.
- Klaassen, Frank: The Transformations of Magic: Illicit Learned Magic in the Later Middle Ages and Renaissance. University Park, PA: Pennsylvania State University Press (Magic in History series), 2013.
- Peterson, Joseph (ed.), Mysteriorum Libri Quinque. Felindenys, Wales: Magnum Opus Hermetic Sourceworks, 1985. Revised reprint as John Dee's Five Books of Mystery, York Beach, Maine: Red Wheel / Weiser, 2003.

-
- (ed.): Lemegeton Clavicula Salamonis: the Lesser Key of Solomon. York Beach, Maine: Weiser, 2001.
 - (ed. / trans.): Elucidation of Necromancy: Lucidarium Artis Nigromantie attributed to Peter of Abano, including a new translation of his Heptameron, or Elements of Magic. Berwick, Maine: Ibis Press / Nicholas Hays, 2021.
 - Peterson, Joseph, Harms, Daniel & Clark, James (ed. / trans. / illus.): The Book of Oberon: A Sourcebook of Elizabethan Magic. Woodbury, MN: Llewellyn, 2015.
 - Rankine, David (ed.): The Book of Treasure Spirits. London: Avalonia, 2009.
 - Reeds, Jim: "Solved: the Ciphers in Book III of Trithemius's Steganographia." In Cryptologia vol. 22 issue 4 (1998).
 - "Breakthrough in Renaissance Cryptography: A book review." In Cryptologia vol. 23 issue 1 (1999). A review of Ernst's "Der Schlüssel zum dritten Buch der Steganographia"
 - Skinner, Stephen & Rankine, David: Keys to the Gateway of Magic: Summoning the Solomonic Archangels and Demon Princes. Singapore: Golden Hoard Press (Sourceworks of Ceremonial Magic series), 2005.
 - Turner, Robert (et al.): Elizabethan Magic: The Art and the Magus. Shaftsbury: Element, 1989.
 - Walker, D. P.: Spiritual & Demonic Magic from Ficino to Campanella. London: Warburg Institute, 1958; reprinted Stroud: Sutton & University Park, PA: Penn State University Press (Magic in History series), 2000.
 - Whitby, Christopher: John Dee's actions with spirits: 22 December 1581 to 23 May 1583 (2 vols.). New York: Garland, 1988; reprinted in one volume, London & New York: Routledge, 2013.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Celephaïs Press

Ulthar - Zanarkand - Inquanok - Leeds

celephaïspress.blogspot.com

Liber Juratus

or

The Sworne Booke of Honorius

Edited by Joseph H. Peterson, copyright © 1998. All rights reserved.

Permission is hereby granted to make one handwritten copy for personal use, provided the master bind his executors by a strong oath (juramentum) to bury it with him in his grave. Beyond this, whoever copies this sacred text without permission from the editor will be damned.

INTRODUCTION:

Liber Juratus is one of the oldest and most influential texts of Medieval magic. The almost legendary reputation of this work led to the forgery of the so-called Grimoire of Pope Honorius, a ridiculous work so despised by Eliphas Levi and A. E. Waite.

According to Lynn Thorndike, Magic and Experimental Science II, 281 ff, it is also known as Liber Sacer or Liber Sacratius by which name it is mentioned at least twice in the thirteenth century.

Editions

Latin. A critical edition of the Latin text has recently been published by Gösta Hedegård: LIBER IURATUS HONORII -- A Critical Edition of the Latin Version of the Sworn Book of Honorius (Stockholm : Almqvist & Wiksell International, 2002)

English The only attempt at publishing any significant portion of the English translation was Daniel Driscoll's The Sworn Book of Honourius (sic) the Magician, Heptangle Books, 1977. Unfortunately, Driscoll did not make use of the best manuscripts, omitted large portions, misread and misplaced angelic names and words from the prayers, and otherwise took serious liberties with the text. It is however a fine example of the book publisher's craft, and has become a valuable collectable.

Manuscripts

The Sworne Book is represented in several manuscripts including the following found in the British Museum:

- Royal MS 17AxlII (Latin and English, dated mid-sixteenth century because of borrowing from Agrippa not found in the older manuscripts). 82 folios. The title in the catalog reads 'The Sworne Booke of Honoryus':

'THE SWORNE BOOKE' of 'Honoryus' (see f. 4 b, 11. 3, 6): a translation of a book of magic, entitled (see Sloane MS. 3854, f. 138 b) 'Liber de vita anime rationalis, qui liber sacer uel liber angelorum vel liber iuratus nuncupatur, quem fecit Honorius magister Thebarum', purporting to be compiled by Honorius filius Euclidis as the result of a conference of 89 magistri from Naples, Athens, and Toledo, convened by the authority of the Pope and cardinals (cf. also Sloane MSS. 313, f. 1, 3885, f. 58). Beg. 'When wycked sprites ware gathered together'.

On f. 82 is a charm, in a 16th cent. band, on the word, 'Calendant' against ague.

Vellum; ff. 82. 7 1/2 in. x 5 1/2 in. XV cent. Gatherings of 4 leaves (viii5, xiv6, xv10, xix2). Sec, fol. 'and ye cause'. Pen-drawings of angels and spirits and marginal floral ornament, usually coloured, sometimes in gold; chapter-headings in red, blue, or green. On the fly-leaf (f. 1) are some late 16th cent. pen-drawings with the initials R. T. This MS. and the next two are bound together.

- Sloane MS 313 (late fourteenth or early fifteenth century). This manuscript is known to have been in the collection of John Dee, and contains marginal notes in his handwriting. The title in the catalog reads simply "Tract on Magic.", or "Salomonis opus sacrum ab Honorio ordinatum, tractatus de arte magica"
- Sloane 3826 (fol. 58-83) 16th century. Excerpts from LJ. The catalog of angels found in Royal MS 17AxlII also has parallels in Sloane 3826.
- Sloane 3849 (art. 7) Excerpts from LJ.
- Sloane 3853 fol 163f: Catalogued as 'The Divine Seal of Solomon', this manuscript actually contains large portions of the Sworn Book. Mid 16th century, also with excerpts from Agrippa (with citations). English and Latin.
- Sloane 3854: (art. 9, fol 117-144) 14th century. "Honorii Magistri Thebarum liber cui titulus 'Juratus.'" or "Liber Juratus, vel liber de vita Animæ rationalis Qui Liber Sacer, vel Liber Angelorum nuncupatur quem fecit Honorius Magister Thebarum," etc.
- Sloane 3883: (fols. 1-25) 17th century. "De modo ministrandi sacrum" (revealed to Solomon by an angel)
- Sloane 3885: (fols. 1-25) 17th century. "Liber sacer Salomonis," repeated at fold 96v-125; (fols. 58-96) "Tractatus de re magica ab Honorio filio Euclidis magistro Thebarum ex septem voluminibus artis magicæ compilatus, et intitulatus Liber sacer, sive juratus.", or "Opera Salomonis ab Honorio ordinata" (cursive script).

Of these, Sloane 3854 is the most reliable, complete, and readable.

The following text is from the Royal MS (abbreviated R) with variant readings from Sl.3885 (abbreviated S), Sl.3854 (designated S2), and Sl.3853 (designated S3).

Variants are of some interest. Note the recurring sound changes: "i" (R manuscript) becomes "g" (S manuscript), e.g. "ienomos" [R] = "genomos" [S], ..iel [r] = ..ihel [S], e.g. "kariel" [r] = "karihel" [S]; also frequent interchange of y to i and i to y; ..am [r] = ..um [S], e.g. "lemeliham" [r] = "lemelihum" [S]. possible evidence of mss tradition in some other script [Hebrew or Greek?] or oral tradition.

The diagram of the Sigillum Dei Aemeth is taken from Sloane 313. This is very close to the (although considerably corrupted) version shown in Athanasius Kircher in his monumental work Oedipus Aegyptiacus \(1562\). The drawing of the sigil does not occur in Royal, Sloane 3854 or Sl.3885. The version in Sloane 3853 (reproduced in C.J.S. Thompson, The Mysteries and Secrets of Magic, New York, 1973, pg. 186, but without identifying the source) is somewhat different.

John Dee, in his Mystical Experiments, was originally told to use a version found in one of his books. Dee consulted several sources, and consulted the angels to resolve the discrepancies. This prompted them to detail an almost totally new version of the Sigil. One of Dee's sources was apparently Sl.313.

Roberts and Watson, in their 1990 John Dee's Library Catalogue, pg. 168, identify Sloane 313 as being one of Dee's manuscripts. They give it catalog number DM70, and note, "On fol.9 (originally the first leaf, fol.1-8 having been misbound) is [Dee's ladder symbol] and, very faint, 'Fragmentum Magicum', which may be in Dee's hand. At the foot is 'Sum Ben: Jonsonij liber'."

Note also that the section 'On the composition of the Divine Seal' also occurs in the Hebrew version of the Key of Solomon (fol. 3b-5b).

Also of interest are the 'scribal doodlings' on the first folio of the Royal MS (as well as other illuminations and drawings of angels later in the MS -- which I hope to add at a later time) which are very reminiscent of the mysterious Voynich Manuscript, which also went through the hands of Kircher.

Note too that the Orations found in Liber Juratus parallel (and are probably derived from) those found in the Ars Notoria, for example:

| Liber Juratus: [Oratio 17, Royal, fol. 37v] | Ars Notoria: The oration of the physical art |
|---|--|
| O Jesu the sonne of the incomprhensible god hancor hanacor hamylos [or hanylos] iehorna theodonos helyothos [heliotheos] phagor corphandonos norizaue corithico hanosae helsezope phagora. Eleminator candones helos helee resphaga thephagayn thetendyn thahonos micemya [S2:
 uicemya] hehor tahonas [heortahonos] nelos [uelos] behebos belhores hacaphagan belethothol ortophagon corphandonos
 borne in the shape of a man for us sinners and yow holy angells heliothos phagnora herken and teche me and gouverne me (hic dic petitionem tuam sed p visione diuina dic ut sequitr.) that i may come to obtayne the visyon of the deyte thorow the glorious and moste gentle and moste almighte creator oure lyuyng lorde holy infinite godely and euerlastinge to whome be prayse honor and glorye worlde withowt ende. amen. | IHesus fili Dominus Incomprehensibilis: Ancor, Anacor, Anylos, Zohorna, Theodonos, hely otes Phagor, Norizane, Corichito, Anosae, Helse Tonope, Phagora. Another part of the same oration. Elleminator, Candones helosi, Tephagain, Tecendum, Thaones, Behelos, Belhoros, Hocho Phagan, Corphandonos, Humanae natus & vos Eloytus Phugora: Be present ye holy angels, advertise and teach me, whether such a one shall recover, or dye of this infirmity. |

[Liber Juratus

or

The Sworne Booke of Honorius]

[1r] when wycked sprites were gathered to gether intending to sende devills in to the hartts off men to the entente thay wolde dystroy all thinges profytable ffor mankynde and to corrupte all the whole worlde even to the uttermost off there powr sowing ipocrysye and envy and rooting bysshops and prelates in pryde even the pope him selfe and his cardenalles which gathering them selves to gether sayde won to another as here folowethe //////

[I. Prologue]

When wicked spirits were gathered together, intending to send devils into the hearts of men, to intent they would destroy all things profitable for mankind, and to corrupt all the whole world, ever the uttermost of their power, sowing hypocrise an envy, and rooting bishops and prelates in pride, e
the pope himself and his cardinals, which gatherin themselves together said one to another as here follows:

the helth which the lorde hathe gevin his people is now through magecke and negromancy turned in to the damnayon of all people, for even the magyans them selves being intoxycated and blynded by the devill, and contrary to the order of christes church and transgressing the commandement of god, which dothe saye thou shalte not tempe the lorde thy god, but him only shalte yu serve,

but these negromancers or magyans denying the sacryfye dew unto god and inn tempting him hathe

The health which the Lord has given his people is now through magic and negromancy turned into t damnation of all people. For even the magians themselves, being intoxicated and blinded by the devil, and contrary to the order of Christ's Church and transgressing the commandment of God, whic says, "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God, but only shalt thou serve"

But these negromancers or magians, denying the sacrifice due to God, and in tempting him have dc

donne sacryfyce unto devills and abused his name in calling of them contrary to the profession made at there bapting, [1v] for there it is sayd: for sake the devill and all his pompes, but thes magyans and negromancers dothe nott follow only the pompes and workes of sathan but hathe also brought all people through there mervelus ellusyons in to ye errors drowing the ignorant and suche lyke in to the damnasyon bothe of sowle and body, and they thinkinge this for no other purpose but that by this they shulde destroye all other scyences, it is thought rite therfore to plucke up and utterly to dystroy this dedly roote and all the followers of this arte, but they throughe the instygasyon off the devill and being moved wt envy and covetusnes under the simylytude of truthe they did publyshe and spred abrode ye falshed speking false and unlykely things, for it is nott possible yt a wiche and unclen man shulde work trwly in this arte, for men are not bownde unto sprites, but the sprites are constrayned agaynst yr wills to answeere men yt be clensed or clene, and to fulfill there requestes, yet agaynst all yos willes we have gone abowt to set forrthe the princyple of this arte [2r] and ye cause of truthe, and for that cause thay had condemned this arte and judged hus to dethe.

we therfore throughe godes sufferance having a foreknowledge of that judgement knowing also yt by it shulde folow miche mischefe and yt it was impossible to us to scape the handes of the people by owre owne strengthe wt owt the helpe of sprites dowting yt a greter danger would folow upon it, for the wicked power of the sprites att owre commandement wolde have destroyed them all utterly in on, wherfore we called on generall counsell off all the masters in the which counsell of 811 masters which camme owte of naples athence and tholetus we dyd chuse on whose name was honorius the sonne of eucludus master of the thebares in the which cytye this art was redd yt he shulde worke for us in this sayde arte, and he throughe the counsell of a certayne angell whose name was hocroel dyd wryte 7 volumes of arte magicke, geving unto hus the kernel and unto others the shalles owt of the which bookes he dru owt 93 chapters in the which is bryffely containyd [2v] the effecte off this arte, off the which, chapters he made a booke which we doo call the sacred or sworne booke for this cause, for in it is containyd ye 100 sacred names of god and therfor sacrifice to devils, and abused His Name in callin them, contrary to the profession made at there baptism, for there it is said, "Forsake the devil and his pomps." But these magians and negromancers not follow only the pomps and works of Satan, but have also brought all people through their marvel illusions into the errors, drawing the ignorant and such like into the damnation both of soul and bod and they thinking this for no other purpose but that this they should destroy all other sciences.

It is thought right therefore to pluck up and utterly destroy this deadly root, and all the followers of this art, but they through the instigation of the devil, a being moved with envy and covetousnes under the similitude of truth, they did publish and spread abroad the falsehood, speaking false and unlikely things. it is not possible that a wicked and unclean man should work truly in this art, for men are not bound to spirits, but the spirits are constrained against their wills to answer men that are cleansed or clean, and fulfill their requests. Yet against all those wills we have gone about to set forth the principles of this art and the cause of truth, and for that cause they had condemned this art and judged us to death.

We therefore, through God's sufferance, having a foreknowledge of that judgement, knowing also that by it should follow much mischief, and that it was impossible to us to escape the hands of the people by our own strength without the help of spirits, doub [i.e. fearing] that a greater danger would follow upon it, for the wicked power of the spirits at our commandment could have destroyed them [i.e. those who condemn us] all utterly at once.

Wherefore, we called a general council of all the masters. And out of the which council of 811 masters which came out of Naples, Athens, and Toledo, we did choose one whose name was Honorius, the son of Euclid, master of the Thebians, in the which city this art was read, that he should work for us in this said art. And he through the council of a certain angel whose name was Hocroel, did write seven volumes of art magic, giving to us the kernel, and to others the shells. Out of the which books he drew out 93 chapters, in the which is briefly contained the effect of this art, of the which chapters he made a book which we do call The Sacred or Sworn Book for this cause, for in it is contained the 100 sacred names of God, and therefore it is called sacred, as you would

it is calyld sacred as ye would saye made of holy things, or elles be cause by this booke he came to the knowledge of sacred or holy things, or elles be cause it was consecrated of angells, or elles be cause the angell hocroell did declare and show unto him yt it was consecrated of god, then they princes & prelates being pacefied wt burning of certen fables or tryffles, thought verely this arte had bin utterly destroyed, and therfore we being somwhate moved made this othe amounge oure selves, first yt this book shulde be delyveryd to no man untill suche tyme as the master of the arte were in jeoberdye of dethe and yt it shulde be copyed but unto 3 att the most, and yt it shulde be delyveryd to no woman nor to any man excepte he were off lawfull aghe which shulde also be both godely and faythfull whose godely behavior had bin tryed by the space of a whole yere, and yt this booke shulde no more here after [3r] be destroyed, but yt it shulde be restored agayne to ye honore or to his successors, and yf there cane nott be founde an able and a sufficyent man to whome this booke nighte be delyveryd, yt then the master bynde his executors by a stronge othe to bury it withe him in his grave, or ells he shall him selfe whyle he liveth bury it him selfe, in some place honestly and clenly, and newer affter to revele the place by any curcumstances to any creature, and yf the master shall have nide of any scollers or will prove then any man of wayes yt for to fulfyll his commaundenentes yff nide be they shall even suffer dethe rather then they will declare ayther the sayinges or doinges of there master, or yt he knoweth any suche thinges, nor declare any suche thing by any man of surcumstances. and lyke as a father dothe cause on of his sonnes to love another, even so doth the master unytte and kintt together his discyples or schollers in concorde and love so yt alwayes the on shall helpe to bayre the others burthen, nor on shall nott revele the secretes of a nother, but they shall be faythfull off on mynde and concorde, and he yt [3v] he shall trewly performe observe and kepe every artycle off his othe and for this cause this is calyd the sworne booke: (*ffinis prologu /////*

"made of holy things," or else because by this boc came to the knowledge of sacred or holy things, or else because it was consecrated by angels, or else because the angel Hocroel did declare and show h that it was consecrated of God.

[The oath]

Then the princes and prelates being pacified with burning of certain fables or trifles, thought verily this art had been utterly destroyed, and therefore v being somewhat moved, made this oath among ourselves:

- First, that this book should be delivered to 1 man until such time as the master of the art were in jeopardy of death, and
- That it should be copied but to three at the most, and
- That it should be delivered to no woman, n any man except he were of lawful age, and should also be both Godly and faithful, whc Godly behavior had been tried for the space a whole year, and
- That this book should no more hereafter be destroyed, but that it should be restored aga to the honor, or to his successors, and
- If there cannot be found an able and a suffi man to whom this booke might be deliverc that then the master bind his executors by a strong oath to bury it with him in his grave, else he shall himself while he lives bury it himself in some place honestly and cleanly, never after to reveal the place by any circumstances to any creature, and
- If the master shall have nide of any scholar: will prove then any man of ways that for to fulfill his commandments if need be, they s even suffer death rather than they will decl: either the sayings or doings of their master, that he knows any such things, nor declares such thing by any man of circumstances. A like as a father causes one of his sons to lov another, even so does the master unite and l together his disciples or scholars in concor and love, so that always the one shall help t bear the others burden, nor one shall not rev the secrets of another, but they shall be faitl of one mind and concord, and he that he sh: truely perform, observe, and keep every art of his oath.

And for this cause this [book] is called The Sworr Book

End of prologue.

in the name off the almighty god ye lorde jesus christ
the trew living god. i honoryus have thus appoined in my booke the workes of salomon i have first apoynted the chapters yt it maye be the more playne
///////////////*

heare be geneth the chapters of the first worke)

- the first chapter is of the composysyon of the great name of god which the hebrues call sememphoras which dothe consyst of 72 h. t. o. e. r. o. r. a. b. a. l. a. y. q. c. l. y. s. t. a. l. g. a. a. o. w. o. s. v. l. a. r. y. t. c. e. k. r. p. f. y. o. m. e. m. a. n. a. r. e. l. a. t. e. v. a. t. o. n. o. n. a. o. y. l. e. o. t. s. y. n. a. letters which is the beginning in this arte
- the 2 chapter is of the visyon of the deytey,
- the 3 of the knowledge off the devyne power,
- the 4 of the for gyuenes off synnes,
- the 5 that a man shuld nott fall into dedely sine,
- the 6 of the redemsyson off 3 sowlles out of purgatorye /////////*

the chapters off the .2. worke /////////*

- the 7 chapter is off the knowledge off the heavens,
[4r]
- the 8 to know the angells off every heaven
- the 9 to know every angell his name and his power,
- the 10 to know the seales off every angel,
- the 11 to know under whome every angel is,
- the 12 to know the offyce of every angell,
- the 13 of the invocatyon of every angell and of his company,
- the 14 how a man shude obteyne his will by every angell,
- the 15 to obtayne all scyences,

[II. Contents]

In the name of the almighty God, the Lord Jesus Christ, the true living God. I Honorius have thus appointed in my book the works of Solomon. I ha first appointed the chapters that it may be the mor plain.

Here begins the chapters of the first work.

1. The first chapter is of the composition of th great name of God, which the Hebrews call Schemhamphoras which consists of seventy two letters: h. t. o. e. r. o. r. a. b. a. l. a. y. q. y. s. t. a. l. g. a. a. o. w. o. s. v. l. a. r. y. t. c. k. r. p. f. y. o. m. e. m. a. n. a. r. e. l. a. t. e. t. o. n. o. n. a. o. y. l. e. o. t. s. y. n. a., whicl the beginning in this art.
2. The second chapter is of the vision of the D
3. The third of the knowledge of the devine power,
4. The fourth of the forgiveness of sins,
5. The fifth that a man should not fall into dea sin,
6. The sixth of the redemption of three souls c of Purgatory.

The chapters of the second worke.

7. The seventh chapter is of the knowledge of heavens,
8. To know the angels of every heaven
9. To know every angel, his name, and his po
10. To know the seals of every angel,
11. To know under whom every angel is,
12. To know the office of every angel,
13. Of the invocation of every angel and of his company,
14. How a man should obtain his will by every angel,

- the 16 to know the hower of dethe,
 - the 17 to know all thinges present past and to comme,
 - the 18 to know the planetts and the starres,
 - the 19 to know the vertu of the planetts and starres and there influences,
 - the 20 to alter or chaunge ye influence of the planetts and starres,
 - the 21 to change the daye in to nighte and the nighte in to ye daye,
 - the 22 to know the sprites of the ayre,
 - the 23 to know the sprites of the fyer, and there names and there superyors, there seales power and vertu,
 - the 24 to know the names and ye powers off the higher sprites,
 - the 25 to know there seales,
 - the 26 to know the alteratyon and changing of the elymentes and of the bodyes that be mixte of them,
 - the 27 to know all herbes, [4v] plantes, and bestes being upon the earthe and of there vertues,
 - the 28 of the knoledge off the nature of man and of all his dyedes and his thoughtes,
 - the 29 to know the sprites of the water and there vertuse and there superyors,
 - the 30 to know the erthely sprites and infernalles,
 - the 31 of the sighte of purgatorye and hell and the sowlles there being,
 - the 32 off the bond or oblygasyon yt the sowle and bodye shall returne agayne,
 - the 33 of ye consecrating off this book
//////////
15. To obtain all sciences,
 16. To know the hour of death,
 17. To know all thinges present, past, and to co
 18. To know the planets and the stars,
 19. To know the virtue of the planets and stars, their influences,
 20. To alter or change the influence of the plan and stars,
 21. To change the day into night, and the night the day,
 22. To know the spirits of the air,
 23. To know the spirits of the fire, and their nai and their superiors, their seals, power, and virtue,
 24. The twenty-fourth, to know the names and powers of the higher spirits,
 25. To know their seals,
 26. To know the alteration and changing of the elements, and of the bodies that be mixed o them,
 27. To know all herbs, plants, and beasts being upon the Earth, and of their virtues,
 28. The knowledge of the nature of man and of his deeds and his thoughts,
 29. To know the spirits of the water, and there virtues, and their superiors,
 30. To know the earthly spirits and infernals,
 31. Of the sight of purgatory, and hell, and the souls their being,
 32. Of the bond or obligation that the soul and body shall return again,
 33. Of the consecrating of this book

End of the chapters of the second work.

ffinis of the chapters of the secode worke //*/

the chapters of the 3 worke ////////*/

- the 34 of the constrinksyon of sprites by wordes,
- the 35 of the consthinksyon of sprites by seales,
- the 36 of the constrinckesyon of sprites by tables,
- the 37 to give every sprite his shape,
- the 38 off inclosing of sprites,
- the 39 off a sprite yt is inclosed yt he maye answere or nott,
- the 40 to cause thunder and lightening,

The chapters of the third work.

34. Of the constrinksyon of spirits by words,
35. Of the consthinksyon of sprits by seals,
36. Of the constrinckesyon of spirits by tables,
37. To give every spirit his shape,
38. Of enclosing of spirits,
39. Of a spirit that is enclosed, that he may ans or not,
40. To cause thunder and lightening,
41. Of burning to be made,
42. Of the purging of the air,
43. Of the corruption of the air,

- the 41 off burning to be made,
- the 42 of the powrging of they ayer,
- the 43 off ye corruptyon of the ayer,
- the 44 to cause snow [5r] and yse,
- the 45 off dewes rayne,
- the 46 to cause flowers and frutes,
- the 47 to go invysybbe,
- the 48 off a horse,
- the 49 to bringe agayne a man that is gone saffe in an hower,
- the 50 to have a thing carryed whether thow willte in a moment,
- the 51 to take a waye a thinge,
- the 52 to bringe a thinge agayne,
- the 53 to change the shape of every thinge,
- the 54 to make a fludde in a dry grounde,
- the 55 to make a commotyon att thy preasure,
- the 56 to distroy a kingdone or an empyre,
- the 57 to have power over every man,
- the 58 to have a 1000 armed men,
- the 59 to forme a castell yt shall never be dystroyed,
- the 60 to make a wicked glasse,
- the 61 to destroye a place or a holde by a wicked glasse,
- the 62 off a glasse wherin thow shalte se the whole worlde,
- the 63 to bringe agayne a thiffe which yt he hathe stollen,
- the 64 to open lockes,
- the 65 to cause discorde and debate,
- the 66 to cause unyte and concorde,
- the 67 to have the favor of everybodye,
- the 68 to obtayne or gett rytches,
- the 69 to [5v] hele all man of disseses,
- the 70 to cast in to sickenes whome ye will,
- the 71 to kill whome ye will,
- the 72 to cause danger bothe by se and lande,
- the 73 to delyn a shipe yt is stopped in the sea by the adamaint stone,
- the 74 to avoyde all man of dangers,
- the 75 to gayther byrdes together and to take them,
- the 76 to gether fysshes together and to take them,
- 77 to gather wylde bestes to gether and to take them,
- the 78 to cawse warre amonge fysshes fowlles and suche lyke,
- the 79 to make burninge to apeyre,
- 44. To cause snow and ice,
- 45. Of dewes [and] rain,
- 46. To cause flowers and fruits,
- 47. To go invisible,
- 48. Of a horse,
- 49. To bring again a man that is gone safe in an hour,
- 50. To have a thing carried where you will in a moment,
- 51. To take away a thing,
- 52. To bring a thing again,
- 53. To change the shape of every thing,
- 54. To make a flood in a dry ground,
- 55. To make a commotion at your pleasure,
- 56. To destroy a kingdom or an empire,
- 57. To have power over every man,
- 58. To have a thousand armed men,
- 59. To form a castle that shall never be destroy
- 60. To make a wicked glass,
- 61. To destroy a place or a hold by a wicked gl
- 62. Of a glass wherein you shall see the whole world,
- 63. To bring again that which a thief has stoller
- 64. To open locks,
- 65. To cause discord and debate,
- 66. To cause unity and concord,
- 67. To have the favor of everybody,
- 68. To obtain or get riches,
- 69. To heal all man of diseases,
- 70. To cast into sickness whom you will,
- 71. To kill whom you will,
- 72. To cause danger, both by sea and land,
- 73. To delyn a ship that is stopped in the sea by adamant stone,
- 74. To avoid all man of dangers,
- 75. To gather birds together, and to take them,
- 76. To gather fishes together and to take them,
- 77. To gather wild beasts together and to take t
- 78. To cause war amongst fishes, fowls, and suc like,
- 79. To make burning to appear,
- 80. To make jugglers or maidens singing to ap
- 81. To make gardens or castles to appear,
- 82. To make fighting men to appear,
- 83. To make gryphons and dragons to appear,
- 84. To make all wild beasts to appear,
- 85. To make hunters and their dogs to appear hunting,
- 86. To make a man to think he is in a place wh he is not,
- 87. To make all pleasures to appear

- the 80 to make juggelers or maydens singing to apeyre,
 - the 81 to make gardens or castells to apeyre,
 - the 82 to make fightinge men to apeyre,
 - the 83 to make gryphons and dragons to apeyre,
 - the 84 to make all wylde bests to appeyre,
 - the 85 to make hunters and there dogges to appeyre huntinge,
 - the 86 to make a man to thinke he is in a place where he is nott,
 - the 87 to make all pleasures to appeyre
- ////*

ffinis of the chapters of the 3 worke ////

[6r]

- the 88 to delyur them yt be in pryson,
- the 89 to locke a gayne the gattes of the castell,
- the 90 to haue all treasures mettalls pressyns stones and all other thinges hyd in the grounde,
- the 91 off the appeyryng off ded bodyes that thay seme to aryse agayne and to speke,
- the 92 that ye shulde thinke beastes to appeyre created agayne off the earth but these 2 chapters haue we takyn awaye be cause they be agaynst the will of god.

But these two chapters have we taken away, because they be against the will of God.

thus endeth the nottes off all the chapters
 ///////////////////*

///////////////

we therfore thorow godes helpe intendinge to folow the stepps and precepes of salomon, therfore to thy receyuing of suche an highe misterye we preffess to be oone chiffe prynciple or begininge. note therfore that the first and chiffe prynciple or begininge is the devyne maiestye, and the trew invocatyon must cume frome the very faythe of the harte, the which faythe
the workes shall declare, [6v] ffor salomon sayde there is one only god one mighte, or power, oone faythe, of whome oone worke, oone prynciple or begininge, and of whome the prefectyon and effecte of every worke

dothe comme althoughe this be deuyded into many parts, ffor lyke as all the holle partes doo saver and smel of the body even to lyke wyse dothe of these thinges comme all perfectyon and effect //

in the name therfore of the true and lyuing gode which is alpha et omega ye beginninge and the ending which is the father the sonne, and the holy gost 3 persones and on god the gyuer off lyffe and the destroyer off dethe for he destroyed oure dethe and thurgh his resurrectyon restored us agayne to lyffe //

off the makinge off the seale of god, for the knowledge of the first parte, of the knowledge of the deytie, for the knowledge of ye 2 parte. in ye 3 parte of the vysyon of angells, the 4 of ye constrinkesyon, [7r] the 5 parte off the bownde of deadmen //

off angels there are 3 kyndes //

some be celestyall, and some of the ayre and some be of the earthe. off the celestyall there are also 2 kyndes somme of them doo serve god only and those be the 9 orders of angells that is to saye cherubin, and seraphin, trons, domynatyons, vertuse, princypates, and potestates, arkangells and angells off whome it is to be spoken amounge mortall men, for they will not be constrayned by any artyfysyall powr, and therfore they oughte nott to be invocated for they alwayes stande before the deuyne maiestye and are neuer seperated from his presens yet be cause the sowle of man was created with theme and to there lykeness, lookinge to be rewardyd with them maye through the gyfte and grace of god his bodye yet lyuing beholde the deuyne maiestye, and with them to prayse and to know god ye creator, and this knowledge is nott to know god in his magestye [7v] and power but ever as adame and the prophettes dyd know him, but this is princypally to be noted that there are 3 kyndes off men yt worke in this arte jwes, christyans and pagans, the pagans doo sacryfyce to the sprites of the ayre and of the earthe but they doo nott constrayne or bynde them, but the sprites doo fayne them selves to be bownde by the wordes of there law, to the intent they maye make them to committ idoletrye, and neuer turne to the true faythe, and by cause there faythe is nought therfore there workes be nawght, he yt will worke after yt man must forsake the lyuing god, and must doo sacryfyce unto sprites divided into many parts. For like as all the whole parts do savour and smell of the body, even so likewise of these things come all perfection and effect.

In the name therefore of the true and living God, which is Alpha and Omega the beginning and the ending which is the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, three persons and one God, the giver of life, and the destroyer of death. For he destroyed our death and through his resurrection restored us again to life.

Of the making of the Seal of God, for the knowledge of the first part, of the knowledge of the deytie, for the knowledge of the second part, in the third part of the vision of angels, the fourth of constrinkesyon, the fifth part of the bonds of men.

Of angels there are three kinds. Some are celestial some are of the air, and some are of the earth. Of celestial, there are also two kinds. Some of them are God only, and those are the nine orders of angels, is to say, cherubin, seraphin, thrones, dominations, virtues, principates, potestates, archangels, and angels. Of whom it is to be spoken among mortal men, for they will not be constrained by any artificial power. And therefore they ought not be invocated they always stand before the Divine Majesty, and never separated from His presence. Yet because the soul of man was created with them, and to there likeness, looking to be rewarded with them may through the gift and grace of God, his body yet live behold the Divine Majesty, and with them to praise and to know God the creator, and this knowledge not to know God in his majesty and power, but even as Adam and the prophets did know him.

But this is principally to be noted, that there are three kinds of men that work in this art: Jews, Christian and pagans. The pagans do sacrifice to the spirits of the air and of the earth, but they do not constrain or bind them, but the spirits do fain themselves to be bound by the words of their law, to the intent they may make them commit idolatry, and never turn to the true faith. And because their faith is nought, therefore their works are nought. He that will work after that man must forsake the living God, and must do sacrifice to spirits and idols. For it is faith that and idoles for it is faythe that worketh in a man good or euill, wherefore it is sayde in the gossell ye faythe hathe made the saffe, the jwes doo in no wyse worke to obtayne the visyon of the deytte, for by the comminge of christe they lost there prehemynence nor they can nott comme to heauen, for the lorde dothe saye [8r] he that is nott baptysed shall be damned, and so in all angells they worke imperfectly, nor they canontt throughe there inuocatyons bringe any worke to effecte excepte they be liue in christe. ffor it is sayd by the prophet, when the kinge of kinges and the lorde of lordes is cume then shall youre anyntinge cease which shulde neuer haue ceasyd yf they cowlde haue wroughte effectually by this arte, and so there workes are noughte, and althoughe the jwes in that yy are jwes are condemnyd of yet they doo worship the highe creator but nott after a dew sorte, yet thorow the powr of the holy names of god spirrites are constrayned to comme. but jwes be cause they are nott signed wt the signe of god that is to saye with the signe of the crosse therfore they sprites will not answeere them trewly, therfore the christyan man only dothe worke trewly to cum to the vysyon of the deyte, and in all other workes. and althoughe 3 sortes of men doo worke by this arte magyke, yet [8v] it is nott to be thoughte yt there is any euill in this name magyan, for this same name magyan dothe signefy in the grike twunge a philosopher, and in the hebru twunge a scribe, and in the latten twunge it signefyeth wyse and so this name of arte magyke is compownded of this worde magos wiche is as muche to saye as wyse and of ycos wiche by interpretasyon is knowledge for by it a man is made wyse, for by this arte a man maye know thinges present past and to come *///////// here folowithe the makeinge off the seale off the trwe and lyuinge god [S: De compositione signi dei vivi] /////////

Primo fac unum circulum cuius diameter sic trium digitorum propter tres clauos domini [deest S], vel 5 propter 5 plagas, vel 7 propter 7 sacramenta, vel 9 propter 9 ordines angelorum, sed communiter 5 digitorum fieri solet. Deinde infra illum circulum fac alium circulum a primo distantem duobus granis ordeï propter duas tabulas moysi, [9r] vel distantem a primo tribus granis propter trinitatem parsonarm. Deinde infra illos duos circulos in superiori parte quæ dicitur angulus meridiei fac works in a man good or evil. Wherefore it is said the Gospel, "your faith has made you safe."

The Jews do in no wise work to obtain the vision the Diety, for by the coming of Christ they lost th preeminence, nor can they come to heaven, for th Lord says, he that is not baptized shall be damned And so in all angels they work imperfectly. Nor c they through their invocations bring any work to effect, except they believe in Christ. For it is said the prophet, "when the king of kings and the Lord Lords is come, then shall your anointing cease," which should never have ceased if they could hav wrought effectually by this art. And so theire wor are nought. And although the Jews in that they ar Jews are condemned, of yet they do worship the I Creator, but not after a due sort. Yet through the power of the holy names of God, spirits are constrained to come. But Jews because they are n signed with the sign of God, that is to say with th sign of the cross, therefore those spirits will not answer them truely.

Therefore, the Christian man only works truely to come to the vision of the Diety, and in all other works. And although three sorts of men do work l this art magic, yet it is not to be thought that there any evil in this name Magian, for this same name Magian signifies in the Greek tongue a philosoph and in the Hebrew tongue a scribe, and in the Lat tongue it signifies wise. And so this name of art magic is compounded of this word magos which i much to say as 'wise,' and of ycos which by interpretation is 'knowledge.' For by it a man is m wise. For by this art a man may know things presi past, and to come.

[IV] Here follows the making of the Seal of the true and living God

First, make a circle with a diameter of three finge on account of the Lord's three nails, or five on account of the five wounds, or seven on account c the seven sacraments, or nine on account of the ni orders of angels, but generally five fingers are customary.

Deinde infra illum circulum fac alium circulum a primo distantem duobus granis ordeï propter duas tabulas moysi, vel distantem a primo tribus granis unam crucem, cuius tibia aliquantulum intrat [S: intret] circulum interiorem. Deinde a parte dextra crucis scribe .h. aspirationem deinde .t. deinde .o. deinde .e. x [S: y] . o. r. a. b. a. [S adds: e] l. a. y. q. c [S: t]. i. y. s. t. a. l. g. a. a. o. w [S, S2: n, R also has this correction supra linea]. o. s. v. l. a. r [R sup. lin.: t]. y. t. c [deest S]. e. k. x [S, S2, R (sup. lin.): s]. p. f. y. o. m. e. m. a. n [S: x(?), S2: u]. a. r. e. l. a. t [S, S2: c]. e. v [S, S2: d; R (sup. lin.): t]. a. t. o. n. o. n. a. o. y. l. e. [R sup. lin. adds: p] o. t. s. y. m. a. [S, S2: ..yleyotma] et iste [S: istæ] literæ sunt eque [S: æque] distantes, et circumdant circulum. eo ordine quo sunt prenominate et sic magnum nomen domini schemhamphoras [S2: semenphoras; S: shemhamphorash] 72 literarum erit completum. hoc facto in medio circulorum scilicet in centro fac unum pentagonum talem,  in cuius medio sit signum tau tale  et super illud signum scribe hoc [deest S, S2] nomen dei el, et sub nomine aliud nomen dei .l. [deest R; S: et sub nomen aliud dei

sz] .ely. isto modo  Deinde infra angulum superiorem [S: inferiorem] pentagoni scribe istas duas litteras .l.h [S, S2: lx]. Et infra alium angulum dextrum [S, S2 add: istas duas] .a.l. Et in alio [9v] post istum [S2 adds: "istas duas .l.a. et in alio post istum .l.c. Et in alio post istum" S. adds simply: "istas duas"] .n.m. [S: .v.m.] Deinde circa pentagonum fac unum eptagonum [S: heptagonum] cuius latus superius secundum sui medium contingat angulum superiorem pentagoni ubi .l.h. [S, S2: .l.x.] scribebatur, et in eodem latere eptagoni [S: heptagoni] scribe hoc nome~ scante [S, S2: sancti] angeli quod est [S, Sl. 3854 add: .casziel. Et in alio latere a dextris istud nomen alterius sancti angli quod est] .satquiel. Deinde in alio .samael. et in alio .raphael. postea .anael. postea .michael. postea .gabriel. et sic 7 latera eptagoni [S: heptagoni] sunt [S, S2: erunt] adimpleta [S: adimpleti], Deinde circa istum eptagonum [S: heptagonu~] predictum fac alium eptagonum [S: heptagonu~] non quoquo modo factum propter trinitatem parsonarm. Deinde infra illos d circulos in superiori parte quae dicitur angulus meridiei fac unam crucem, cuius tibia aliquantulu intrat circulum interiorem. Deinde a parte dextra crucis scribe .h. aspirationem deinde .t. deinde .o. deinde .e. x . o. r. a. b. a. l. a. y. q. c. i. y. s. t. a. l. a. o. n. o. s. v. l. a. r [t]. y. t. c. e. k. s. p. f. y. o. m. a. n. a. r. e. l. a. c. e. d. a. t. o. n. o. n. a. o. y. l. [y]. o. t. m. a. et istae literae sunt aequae distantes, circumdant circulum. eo ordine quo sunt prenominate et sic magnum nomen domini schemhamphoras 72 literarum erit completum. facto in medio circulorum scilicet in centro fac ur pentagonum talem,  in cuius medio si signum tau tale  et super illud signum scribe hoc nomen dei el, et sub nomine aliud nomen dei

sz .ely. isto modo

Deinde infra angulum superiorem [S: inferiorem] pentagoni scribe istas duas litteras .l.x. Et infra ali angulum dextrum istas duas .a.l. Et in alio post ist [S2 adds: "istas duas .l.a. et in alio post istum .l.c. in alio post istum" S. adds simply: "istas duas"] .r [S: .v.m.]

Deinde circa pentagonum fac unum heptagonum cuius latus superius secundum sui medium contin angulum superiorem pentagoni ubi .l.x. scribebati in eodem latere heptagoni scribe hoc nomen sancti angeli quod est .casziel. Et in alio latere a dextris istud nomen alterius sancti angli quod est .satqui Deinde in alio .samael. et in alio .raphael.

postea .anael. postea .michael. postea .gabriel. et : 7 latera heptagoni erunt adimpleta [adimpleti], Deinde circa istum heptagonum predictum fac ali heptagonum non quoquo modo primus factus est : taliter quod unum latus ipsius intercedet latera alterius, Deinde fac alium heptagonum talem qual primus fuit cuius anguli 7 contingant angulos * h3eptagoni secundi quibus esse videtur.

prius sed [S: non q^o m^o primus factus est sed] taliter quod unum latus ipsius incarceret [S, S2: intercedet] latera alterius, Deinde fac alium eptagonum [S, S2 add: tale~] qualis prius [S: primus] fuit cuius anguli 7 contingant angulos 7 eptagoni secundi quibus esse videtur. Hic tamen eptagonus infra perdictum secundum concludetur, [S, S2 add: unu~] latus secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] supernudo et aliud subenudo, [S adds: sed; S2 adds: squo(?)] latus primo angulos [S: angulo] succedens subenudo ibit. et quæ [S2: que] sequuntur [S2: secuntur] serie supereuntis et subeuntis alterutrum se habebunt, Deinde in quolibet angulo secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] una crux depingatur, Deinde [10r] in illo latere secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] quod transit ab ultimo angulo [S, S2 add: eiusde~] ad secundum angulum eiusde~ in eadem parte quæ est super [S: supra] .casziel. sillabe cuiusdam scaneti [S, S2: sancti] dei nominis scribatur [S: scribantur], Ita quod hac sillaba .la. scribatur in illo loco lateris perdicti [S: prædicti] qui est supra primam sillabam de .casziel. et hac [S2: hec; S: hæc] sillaba .ya. in illo loco [S, SI3185 add: eiusdem] lateris qui est supra ultimam sillabam eiusdem de [deest S, S2] .casziel. et hæc [S2: hec, S: hæc] silliba .ly. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est latus intersecans predictum latus et crucem secundi anguli eiusdem, Deinde in [S: a] latere illo quod tendit ab angulo primo eiusdem secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] ad tertium angulum eiusdem scribatur hoc nomen sanctum dei [S: hoc sanctum nomen dei] .narath. ita quod hæc [S2: hec] sillaba .na. scribatur in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra primam sillabam de .satquiel. et hæc [S2: hec] sillaba .ra. in illo loco qui est supra ultimam eiusdem, et [S2 adds: hec; S adds hæ] dua [S2: due, S: duæ] literae .t.h. [S: .c.h.] in illo loco qui est in eodem [S, S2 add: latere] inter latus secans ipsum [S: illud] et crucem tertiam [S: tercia~], Deinde in illo latere eiusdem secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] quod tendit .a. tertio [S reads simply: tendit a 3^o...] angulo eiusdem ad quartum eiusdem [10v] scribatur hoc creatoris nomen sanctum quod dicitur .libarre. ita quod hæc [S2: hec] sillaba .ly. scribatur supra primam sillabam, de .raphael. et hæc [S2: hec] sillaba .bar. supra ultimam sillabam [S2 adds in margin: i~ illo] * eiusdem, et hæc sillaba .re. in illo loco * [text between * deest in S2] eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum et quintum angulum eiusdem secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni], Deinde in illo latere eiusdem secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] quod est .a.

Hic tamen heptagonus infra perdictum secundum concludetur, unum latus secundi heptagoni superr et aliud subenudo, sed latus primo angulo succedens subenudo ibit. et quæ sequuntur serie supereuntis et subeuntis alterutrum se habebunt, Deinde in quolibet angulo secundi heptagoni una crux depingatur, Deinde in illo latere secundi heptagoni quod trans ultimo angulo eiusdem ad secundum angulum eiusdem in eadem parte quæ est supra .casziel. si cuiusdam sancti dei nominis scribantur, Ita quod l sillaba .la. scribatur in illo loco lateris prædicti qui supra primam sillabam de .casziel. et hæc sillaba in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra ultimam sillabam eiusdem de .casziel. et hæc silliba .ly. in loco eiusdem lateris qui est latus intersecans predictum latus et crucem secundi anguli eiusdem Deinde in latere illo quod tendit ab angulo primo eiusdem secundi heptagoni ad tertium angulum eiusdem scribatur hoc nomen sanctum dei .narath quod hæc sillaba .na. scribatur in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra primam sillabam de .satquiel. hæc sillaba .ra. in illo loco qui est supra ultimam eiusdem, et hæc duæ literae .t.h. in illo loco qui est in eodem latere inter latus secans ipsum [S: illud] crucem tertiam, Deinde in illo latere eiusdem secundi heptagoni quod tendit .a. tertio angulo eiusdem ad quartum eiusdem scribatur hoc creatoris nomen sanctum quod dicitur .libarre. ita quod hæc sillaba .ly. scribatur supra primam sillabam, de .raphael. et hæc sillaba .bar. supra ultimam sillabam eiusdem, et hæc sillaba .re. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum et quintum angulum eiusdem secundi heptagoni.

Deinde in illo latere eiusdem secundi heptagoni quod est .a. quinta cruce vsque ad ultimam scribatur hoc aliud sacrum creatoris nomen .libares. ita quod hæc sillaba .ly. scribatur in illo loco lateris qui est supra primam sillabam ipsius .michael. et hæc sillaba .la. in illo loco lateris qui est supra ultimam sillabam eiusdem, et hæc sillaba .res. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum et ultimam crucem. Deinde in illo latere eiusdem secundi heptagoni quod vadit a secundo angulo eiusdem secundi heptagoni ad quintum [S: quartum] scribatur hoc aliud sanctum nomen dei .halg. cum coniuncta ita quod coniuncta in illo loco eiusdem lateris scribatur qui est supra primam sillabam de .Sama et hæc litera .ly. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra ultimam eiusdem, et hæc sillaba .alg. in loco eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum quinta cruce [S reads simply: quod est a 5^{ta} cruce] vsque ad ultimam scribatur hoc aliud sacrum creatoris nomen .libares. ita quod hæc [S2: hec] sillaba .ly. scribatur in illo loco lateris qui est supra primam sillabam ipsius .michael. et hæc [S2: hec] sillaba .ba. in illo loco lateris qui est supra ultimam sillabam eiusdem, et hæc [S2: hec] sillaba .res. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum et ultimam crucem. Deinde in illo latere eiusdem secundi iptagoni [S: exagoni] quod vadit a secundo angulo eiusdem secundi eptagoni [S: exagoni] ad quintum [S: quartum] scribatur [S, S2 add: hoc] aliud sacrum [S: sanctum] nomen dei [deest S, S2] .halg. [S: lialg] cum coniunctina ita quod coniuunctina in illo loco eiusdem lateris scribatur quid [S: qⁱ; S2: qui] est supra primam [11r] sillabam de .samael. et hæc litera .ly. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra ultimam eiusde~, et hæc sillaba .alg. in loco eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum et quartam crucem, Sed caue quod ra [deest S] coniunctina sic debet scribi et [deest S] cum titulo intersecante propter timorem dei malum volitum [S2, S: nolitu~] diuideutem, Deinde in illo latere eiusdem eptagoni [S: hexagoni] tendente a quarta cruce ad sextam scribatur hoc aliud sacrum [S: sanctum] dei [S2: aliud dei sacrum] nomen .veham. [S2: ucham] ita quod hæc sillaba .ve. [S2 ue; S: Ne(?)] scribatur in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra primam sillabam de .anael. et hæc litera .h. supra ultimam sillibam et hæc sillabam .am. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est latus secans ipsum et sextam crucem, Deinde in illo latere quod tendit a sexto [S2 adds: angulo] eiusdem secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] ad primum angulum scribatur hoc aliud sacrum [S: sanctum] dei nomen .yalgal. ita quod hec [S: hæc] litera .y. scribatur in alla [S2: in illo loco] eiusde~ lateris qui est [S: scribatur in illo loco lateris eiusdem qui est] supra primam sillabam de .gabriel. et hæc sillaba .al. super [S: supra] ultimam et hæc sillaba .gal. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum et primam [11v] crucem, Deinde in medio latere [S2, S: lateris] primi et tertii eptagoni [S: hexagoni] a dextris [S: dexteris] scribatur .vos. [S: Avs(?)] et in sequenti latere eiusdem tertii eptagoni [S: hexagoni] a dextris [S: dexteris] hoc Nomen .duymas. [S: dvynas] et in alio .Gyram. et in alio .Grani. [S2, S: Gram] et in alio .Aysaram. et in alio .Alpha. et ω . in alio [S: et in alio . ω .]. Deinde in alio spaciolo quod est sub secundi et tertii angulo primo eptagonorum [S: est sub angulo primo 2ⁱ et 3ⁱ hexagonoru~] scribatur hoc quartam crucem, Sed caue quod ra coniunctina sic debet scribi et cum titulo intersecante propter timorem dei malum nolitum diuideutem, Deinde in illo latere eiusdem heptagoni tendente a quarta cruce ad sex scribatur hoc aliud sacrum dei nomen .veham. ita quod hæc sillaba .ve. scribatur in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra primam sillabam de .Anael. et hæc litera .h. supra ultimam sillibam et hæc sillabam .am. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est latus secans ipsum et sextam crucem, Deinde in illo latere quod tendit a sexto angulo eiusdem secundi heptagoni ad primum angulum scribatur hoc aliud sacrum dei nomen .yalgal. ita quod hæc litera .y. scribatur in loco eiusdem lateris qui est supra primam sillabar de .Gabriel. et hæc sillaba .al. supra ultimam et h sillaba .gal. in illo loco eiusdem lateris qui est inter latus intersecans ipsum et primam crucem, Deinde in medio lateris primi et tertii heptagoni a dextris scribatur .vos. et in sequenti latere eiusdem tertii heptagoni a dextris hoc Nomen .duymas. et in alio .Gyram. et in alio .Gram. et in alio .Aysaram. in alio .A. et in alio . Ω .

Deinde in alio spaciolo quod est sub secundi et tertii angulo primo heptagonorum scribatur hoc nomen dei .el. et in alio spaciolo quod est a dextris sub angulis secundi et tertii heptagonorum sub secunda cruce hoc nomen .ON. et in illo alio spaciolo sub tertia cruce. iterum hoc nomen .el. et in alio sub quarta cruce iterum .ON. et in alio sub quinta cruce iterum .el. et in alio sub sexta cruce iterum .ON. et in alio sub septima cruce . Ω . Deinde in illo spacio quod clauditur inter angulum primum secundi heptagoni secundum angulum eiusdem et primum latus tertii heptagoni et portionem circuli contingentem illos angulos depingatur una crux, in medio scilicet spacioli illius. Et in bucca superiori a leua crucis scribatur hæc litera .a. et super buccam crucis secundam a dextris hæc litera .g. Et sub bucca inferiori a dextris scribatur hæc alia litera .a. Et sub quarta bucca hæc alia litera .l. Deinde in alio spaciolo sequenti a deinde in medio scribatur hoc nomen dei .Ely. et in alio hoc nomen .Eloy. et in alio .Christos. et in alio .Sothe. et in alio .ADONAI. et in alio .Saday.

nomen dei .el. et in alio spaciolo quod est a dextris sub angulis [S: angulo] secundi et tertii eptagonorum [S: hexagonorum] sub secunda cruce hoc nomen .ON. et in [S2, S add: illo] alio spaciolo sub tertia cruce. itarum [S2: iteru~] hoc nomen .el. et in alio sub quarta cruce iterum .ON. et in alio sub sequenti [S2: qⁱnta; S: 5^{ta}] cruce iterum .el. et in alio sub sequenti [S2: sex^u; S: 6^{ta}] cruce iterum .ON. et in alio sub septima cruce .Ϙ. Deinde in alio [S2, S: illo] spacio [S: spaciolo] quod clauditur [S: claditur] inter angulum [S2, S add: primum] secundi eptagoni [S: hexagoni] et secundum angulum eiusdem et primum latus tertii eptagoni [S: hexagoni] et portionem circuli contingentem illos angulos depingatur una crux, in medio scilicet [S2: .S.; S: si] spacii illius. Et in bucca superiori a leua crucis scribatur hæc litera .a. [S: A] et super buccam crucis secundam a dextris [12r] hæc litera .g. Et sub bucca inferiori a dextris [S: dexte=/is] scribatur hæc [S2, S add: alia] litera .a. [S: A] Et sub quarta bucca hæc [S, S2 add: alia] litera .l. Deinde in alio spaciolo sequenti a dextris in medio scribatur hoc nomen dei [deest S2, S] .ely. [S: Ely] et in alio hoc nomen .eloy. [S: Eloy] et in alio .christos. et in alio .sother. [S: Sother] et in alio .ADONAI. [S2, S: Adonay] et in alio .Saday.

Deinde scias quod communiter in exemplaribus [S2, S: q^d in exemplaribus communiter] pentagonus fit de rubeo cum croceo in spaciis tincto. Et prim~ [S2, S: primus] septagonus [hex^tagonus] de azurio, secundus de croceo, tertius de purpureo, et circuli de nigro, et spacium inter circulos ubi est nomen de maximum. ac venerabile [S2 omits "de maximum ac venerabile"] .schemhamphoras. tingit^r croceo, omnia alio [S2, S: alia] spacia viridi habent tingi, Sed in operationibus aliter fieri debet, quia de sanguine aut. talpæ. aut .turturis. at [S2: aut] .vpupæ. aut .vespertilionis. aut omnium horum figuratur, et in pergameo~ virgineo vituluio [S2, S: vitulino], vel equino, vel ceruino, et sic completur dei sigillum, Et par [S2, S: per] hoc sanctum et sacrum sigillum quando erit sacratum poteris. facere operationes quæ postea dicentur [S: sequuntur] in hoc libro [S2: libro sacro; S: sac^o]. Modus autem sacrandi hoc sacrum sigillum talis [S: talitur] sicut sequitr [S: seqⁱtur] debet esse. //////

[S3: After this thow shalt knowe that comonly in the examplars the fyve cornarde cyrkyll or anullet is made of redd died w^t saffron w^tin the spaces & the

After this you shall know that commonly in the exemplars the five-cornered circle or amulet is made of red dyed with saffron. Within the spaces and the first circle with seven corners of azure, the second saffron, the third of purple and the round circle of Black. And the space between the circles where the name Schemhamphoras is, is dyed with saffron. . other spaces are to be coloured with green. Where Tetragrammaton ye & the xkyll abowght that with the Angels names and planets. But in operation it must otherwise be done. For it is made with the blood either of a mole or of a turtledove, or a lapv or of a bat, or of them all, and in virgin parchmen a calf, or of foal, or a hind calf. And so is the Seal God perfect.

And by this holy and consecrated seal after it is consecrated, you may work operations which shall be declared afterwards in this book. The manner of consecrating of this holy seal ought thus to be as followeth.

ffirst c^tkell w^t 7 corners of azure, the seconde of saffron. The thirde of purple & the rounde cerkelie of Black. / & the space betwene the circules wher the name Shemhamphoras is: is dyed w^t saffron. Att other spaces are to be coloured w^t grene. wher tet'grammaton ye & the xkyll abowght that wyght w^t
the Angells names & planetts. / But in operacyons it must other wyse be done. for it is made w^t the blode either of a mowlle or of a turtyll doue. or a lappwyng or of Backe or of the all & in virgynu~ parchment of a calfe or oa foole or a hynde calfe. and so is the seale of god perfecte. / and by this holy & consecrated seale aft^r it be consecrated thou mayest worke operacions wich shalbe declared afterwarde in this Booke. The man^r of consecratyng of this holy seale ought thus to be as folowethe.]

[12v]

Inspirante domino dixit Salomon unus est solus deus, sola fides, sola virtus, quam dominus hominibus voluit revelari et distribui hoc [S2, S: tali] modo. Dedit [S2, S: Dixit] Angelus .Samael. Salomoni hoc [S2: hic] dabis populo Israel qui et aliis similiter tribuent [S2, S: add: sic placuit creatori] et inbet ipsum Dominus [S: dominus ipsum] taliter consecrari, Primo sit mundus operans non pollutus [S: polutus], et cum deuotione faciat non astute, non commedat neque bibat, donec perfecerit opus, Et sanguis quo scriptus [S2, S: scriptum] fuerit primo sit benedictus sicut postea dicetur, Deinde suffumigetur [S2, S: suffumigetur], hoc sigillum ambra, musco, aloë, lapdano, albo, et rubeo, mastice, olibano, margaritis et thure. Invocando et

By the inspiration of god, Solomon said: there is one God, one faith, and one virtue, which the Lord intended to be revealed to men and distributed of wise. The angel said to Solomon, "This shall you to the people of Israel who also shall likewise give others. So it has pleased the creator."

And the Lord commands it thus to be consecrated First, let the worker be clean, not polluted, and let him do it with devotion, not deceitfully. § Let him not eat nor drink till he has done his work. § And blood wherewith it shall be written, first must be blessed as shall be said afterward. Then the seal must be perfumed with amber, musk, aloes, lapdanum white and red mastick, olibanum margarith, and Frankincense, calling upon and praying to the Lord orando dominum sicut postea de visione divina erudietur, Post [S: postea] invocando angelos sicut etiam [deest S] infra [deest S2] Dicetur, mutabitur tamen [S2: tñ; S: tantum] peticio hoc [S2, S: tali] modo,

[S3: By the inspiracion of god, Salomon said: y^{er} is only one god only faith only vertue w^{ch} the lord wolde to be reueled to men & distributed of this wyse. The angell said to Salomon this shalt thou geve to the people off Israell whiche also shall likewise geve to others, so it hathe pleased the creato^r. / & the lorde comaundeth it thus to be cōsecrated / ffirst let the worker be cleane not polluted & let hym do it w^t deuocion not deceytfully / let hym not eate nor drynke tyll he heaue done his worke / & the blode where^{tr} it shalbe written first must be blessed as shalbe said afterward. than the seale must be fumed w^t amber, muske, aloes, lapdanum the white & redd / mastyke, Olibanum margarith & encensce, callyng uppō & prayng to the lorde & all holy angels, by sayng as foloweth.]

[S: Oratio]

ut tu domine per annunciationem conceptionem et citera. Hoc sacratissimum nomen ac sigillum tuum benedicere et consecrare digue ris [S2, S: digneris] ut per ipsum et [S2, S: te] mediante possim vel possit talis [S2: "tal."; S: "tali"] .N. celestes [S: cælestes] coniungere [S: convincere] potestates aereas et terreac [S2, S: terreas] cum infernalibus subingere, invocare, transmittaere [S2, S: transmutare]. coniurare [13r] constringere, excitare, congregare [S: congregare], dispergere, ligare ac ipsos innocuos reddere homines placare, et ab eis suas [S2: tuas] petitiones graciosius [S: graciosi] habere, inimicos pacificare, pacificatos disimigere, sanos insanitate custodire vel infirmare. infirmos curare. homines bonos a malis custodire. et distinguere, et cognoscere, omne corporale periculum euadere, Judices in placito placatos reddere, victoriam in omnibus obtinere, peccata carnalia mortificare et spiritualia fugare vincere, et euitare, divitias in bonis augmentare et dum [S2: du~; S: domine(?)] in die iudicii apparebit. a dextris tuis cum sanctis et electis tuis tuam possit cognoscere [S2: agnoscere] maiestatem ////

[S3: That thou lorde by the annunciacion, conceptiō &c. wilt vouchesafe to blesse & cōsecrate this thy and all holy angels, by saying as follows:

Oration.

That thou, Lord, by the annunciation, conception, and [?] wilt vouchsafe to bless and consecrate this thy most holy name and seal, that by it through thy mediation I (or such one) N. may convitco heavenly powers airy, earthy, and infernal, to subdue,
invoke to alter, conjure, constrain, raise up, congregate, drive away, to bind and to make though not able to hurt or harm, to pacify men and of them to have graciously mine (or
his) petitione to quiet enemies.
Them that be at peace to disseun, and to keep sick them in health, or to make them sick, to make sick men whole, to keper evil men from good and to divide and to know them, to escape all bodily danger, to make judges pacified at pleasure, to obtain victory in all things, to mortify

most holy name & seale that by it through thy mediacion I may or suche one maye N. convitco heuenly powers ayrely earthy & infernall to subdue invoke to alter coniuere, cōstrayne, reyse up, cōgregate dryve away to bynde & to make tho not able to hurte or harme to pacifie men & of them to haue graciouslye myne or his peticione to quyet enemyes. / them y^t be at peace to disseu~ & to kape seke ,e~ in helth or to make the~ seeke./ to make seke men whole, to keper evyll men from good & to dyvide & to know them. / to skape all bodely daunger, to make Iudges pacified at pleasure./ to obteyne victory in all thyngs, to mortifie carnall synnes & to dryve away ouercome & avoyde, the spirituall./ to encrease riches in good thyngs & whau~ in the daye of Iudgement. I or he shall appere of thy ryght hande w^t thy saynts & electe I or he maye knowe thy maiestie.]

Et tunc illa nocte sub aere [S2, S add: sereno] extra domum dimittat, Tunc habeas chirotecas [S: chirothechas] nouas sine creace factas in quas quis numquam manum posuit [S2, S: posuerit] in quibus signum glutetur, et sic complebitur hoc sacrum [S2:
sacrosc~m; S: sac^osctmus (?)] sigillum, Cuius primus eptagonus [S: heptagonus] .7. ordines, Secundus .7.
Articulos Duplos tertius .7. sacramenta Designat [S: designant] //////

[S3: Than that nyght let hym ley it w^tout the house in the cleare ayre, then, thou shalt haue new gloves made w^tout fyng^rstherou~, in to the w^{ch} no man~ eu~ dyd put his hande in the whiche the seale shalt be fast put & thus is complisshed this holy seale.]

Prima mundatio that is to saye the beginninge of the clensing or powrginge of him y^t shall worke in this arte ffor he must be cleane ffrom all filthynes of soule and bodye ///*

[13v]

N^ow that we haue fynisshed the composityon or makinge of the seale of god, let us procede to know how we shall obtayne the visyon or sighte of the carnal sins and to drive away, overcome, and avoid, the spiritual,

to increase riches in good things and when in the Day of Judgement, I (or
he) shall appear at thy right hand with thy saints and elect, I (or he) may know thy majesty.

Then that night let him lay it without the house in clear air. Then you shall have new gloves made without fingers therou~, into the which no man ev did put his hand, in the which the seal shall be fas and thus is accomplished this holy seal.

[V] The beginning of the cleansing or purging of him who shall work in this art for he must be clean from all filthiness of soul and body

Now that we have finished the composition or ma of the Seal of God, let us proceed to know how w shall obtain the vision or sight of the Diety.

First he that shall work must be very penitent and deite.

ffirst he y^t shall worke must be very penitent and trewly confessed of all his sinnes. he muste vtterly forbere y^e company of women and all there intycements, in so muche y^t he maye nott looke upon them, ffor as salomon sayeth, it is better to abyde withe a bere or a lyon in there dennes then to be in a howse w^t a wickyd woman, he maye kepe no company w^t wicked or sinfull men, for as dauid sayethe w^t y^e holy thow shalte be holy, and w^t the wicked thow shalte be wicked. therefore he muste leade a pure and clene lyffe. for dauid sayeth blyssed are the undefyled and those y^t walke in the lawe of y^e lorde, lett not his apparryll be filthe but rather new, or elles very cleane waschyd, salomon meanithe here by y^e new garmentes vertu and purenes of lyffe, ffor god and his holy angells care for no wordely thinges, and that dothe appere, for the pore men doo soner worke effectually in this arte then the ryche men, but in this worke folowinge clene apparryll [14r] is necessarye, for angells doo abyde w^t me~ and they be clene, and therfor they desyre to haue clene apparryll, and therefore salomon did speke generally aswell of the clennes of y^e soule as of the clennes of apparryll, and let him that shall worke neuer be ydell least his harte doo the soner encline to synne for the scripture sayeth, be alwayes doinge some thinge lest ye be fownde ydle, and lett him alwayes praye unto god withe these prayers folowinge for the scripture sayethe blessed is the seruant whome the lorde when he commethe shall fynde wakinge ///

the suffumigatyon as heare foloweth *///

This section is not present in other manuscripts of Liber Juratus (S, S2, or Sl.313); They jump directly to the [Orations]

Thimiamate for the satter daye is all good things and well smelling roottes as ys costus (?) and herbe thuris,
/////////

Thimiamate upon saunday is masticke, muscus and suche lyke and all other good [14v] gumes of good odoure, as thus [thure], beniamen [benjamin, i.e. benzoin], storax, labdanum, ambre armoniacum, and such lyke /////////

thimiamate upon mondaye is folium mirti, and lawlri, truly confessed of all his sins. He must utterly for the company of women and all their enticements, insomuch that he may not look upon them. For as Solomon says, "It is better to abide with a bear or lion in their den than to be in a house with a wick woman." He may keep no company with wicked sinful men, for as David says, "With the holy you shall be holy, and with the wicked you shall be wicked." Therefore he must lead a pure and clean For David says, "blessed are the undefiled and th that walk in the law of the Lord." Let not his appa be filthy, but rather new, or else very clean washe Solomon means here by the new garments virtue pureness of life, for God and his holy angels care no worldly things, and that does appear (?). For th poor men do sooner work effectually in this art th the rich men. But in this work following clean app is necessary, for angels do abide with men and th be clean, and therefore they desire to have clean apparel. And therefore Salomon did speak genera both of the cleanness of the soul and of the cleanr of apparel. And let him that shall work never be i lest his heart do the sooner incline to sin. For the scripture says, "Be always doing something lest y be found idle." And let him always pray to God w these prayers following. For the scripture says, "blessed is the servant whom the Lord when he co shall finde waking."

The suffumigations as here follows.

[The following sections on suffumigations and the names of angels is not found in other manuscripts of Liber Juratus (S, S2, or Sl.313).
They jump directly to the Orations]

Thimmiamate for Saturday is all good things and well smelling roots such as costus and the herb th

Thimiamate for Sunday is mastic, musk, and suc like, and all other good gums of good odor, as thu benjamin, storax, labdanum, amber armoniacum, such like.

Thimiamate for Monday is folium mirti, and lav and leues of good odor of all swet flowers

///////*

thimiamate on the tewsdaye is sanders the redd blake and white, and all swete woodes as lygnum aloes cipres, balsami and such lyke
/////////*

thimiamate on the wedsoun daye is the ryndes of all swete woodes, as cinamum, cassia ligina corticus, lauri, and macis and all swete sedes /////* thimiamate on the thowrsdaye is all swete frutes as nuttmuges, cloues, the ryndes of orenge and citrynes drye and powdred with suche lyke of good odoure

///*

thimiamate on the frydaye is mace roses [15r] violates and all other frutes or flowers of good odoure as crocus and such lyke ///*

Hermes sayde of thimiamate, of the  is cinamonium, and lignum aloes, and masticke, and crocus, and costus, and maces, and mirtus we put this y^t yche planett haue a partye in it ///////*

Salomon making a destinctyon upon the dayes and planettes of the spyce with y^e which aman oughte to make thimiamate, sayde that of  is eche good rootte in good and euill, of  all frutes, of

 eche tree, of  eche gumme, of

eche rynde, of  eche flowers and odoriferus

herbe, of the  eche lefe, ///* bacce, and leaves of good odor of all sweet flowers.

Thimiamate for Tuesday is sanders, the red, bla and white, and all sweet woods as lignum aloes, cypress, balsam, and such like.

Thimiamate for Wednesday is the rinds of all sweete woods, as cinnamon, cassia ligina corticus lauri, and macis, and all sweet seeds.

Thimiamate for Thursday is all sweet fruits as nutmeg, cloves, the rinds of oranges and citrines, and powdered with such like of good odor.

Thimiamate for Friday is mace, roses, violets, a all other fruits or flowers of good odor, as crocus
such like.

Hermes said of thimiamate, of the Moon is cinnar lignum aloes, mastic, crocus, costus, maces, and myrtle. We put this that each planet has a part in i [Cp. Agrippa I-xliv: "But Hermes describes the most powerful fume to be, viz. that which is compounded of the seven aromatics, according to the powers of the seven planets, for it receives from Saturn, pepperwort, from Jupiter, nutmeg, from Mars, lignum-aloes, from the Sun, mastic,

from Venus, saffron, from Mercury, cinnamon, and from the Moon, the myrtle."]

Solomon, making a distinction upon the days and planets of the spice with which a man ought to m thimiamate, said that of Saturn is each good root i good and evil, of Jupiter all fruits, of Mars each tr of Sol each gum, of Mercury each rind, of Venus flower and odoriferous herb, of the Moon each lea Bacce, cardamomum wax, put also with these thin cardamonum wax, put also with ^{thes} things

//////

hermes sayeth that he founde in an olde booke y^t
these were y^e more suffumigatyons thimiamate grecum, masticke, sandalus, [15v] galbanum, muscharlazerat, mirram and ambram and these be y^e collectyons of spirites ///* and he saythe there is no suche suffumigatyon to call spirites as is ambra, lignum aloes, costus muscus crocus and bloode of a lapwinge w^t thimiamate mixt all to gethere w^t equall porcions, so y^t it be odiferus of the goumes

//////

Suffumigacions compounded of sartaine thynges heare foloweth. atribited unto the planettes

/////////*

For the sonne take saffrone, amber, muske, lignum, aloes, lignumbalsami, the frutte of laurell, w^t cloues, mir, and thuer equall porcions so y^t it be mixt all to gether after such manner y^t it be veri swete of odour of the goumes aforsaide, put to this y^e braines of an eygell and the bloude of an whytte coke suche quantite as yt may be [16r] verie odiferus as before sayde and makeyt in lyttell balles or pylls and kepe yt verie close frome the aier or wynde for youre use

/////////////////*

For the mone take the heades of froges made of the aier which you may gather after some showers of raigne, with the eyes of a bull and the sede of whytt popye w^t thure, and camphyre equall porcions, mixt all to gethere w^t sangine menstuo, and the bloud of a whytt gander suche quantyte as yt may be verie odiferus, and laye ytt safflye up for youre use as before sayde //////

For mars take euphorbium, bedellium, armoniacum, the rottes of bothe y^e hearbes called elleborus, of

Hermes says that he found in an old book that the
were the more suffumigations: thimiamate grecum mastic, sandalus, galbanum, muscharlazerat, myrr and amber, and these be the collections of spirits.
he says there is no such suffumigation to call spir
as is ambra, lignum aloes, costus muscus, crocus, the blood of a lapwing, with thimiamate mixed al together in equal portions, so that it be odiferus of gums.

Suffumigations compounded of certain thinges here follow, attributed to the planet.

This section is evidently based on [Agrippa I-xliv: "The compositions of some fumes appropriated to the planets." For suffumigations of the planets see also Picatrix Ed. Pingree pp. 200-2.]

For the Sun take saffron, amber, musk, lignum, aloes, lignum balsam, the fruit of laurel, with clov myrrh, and thuer equal portions, so that it is mixe together after such manner that it be very sweet o odor of the gums aforesaid. Put to this the brains o eagle and the blood of an white cock, such quanti it may be very odiferous as before said. And maki into little balls or pills and keep it very closed fro
the air or wind for your use.

[Agrippa: We make a suffumigation for the Sun in this manner, viz. of saffron, ambergris, musk, lignum-aloes, lignum-balsam, the fruit of the laurel, cloves, myrrh, and frankincense, all which being bruised, and mixed in such a portion as may make a sweet odour, must be incorporated with the brain of an eagle, or the blood of a white cock, after the manner of pills, or trochisks.]

For the Moon take the heads of frogs made of th which you may gather after some showers of rain with the eyes of a bull and the seed of white popp with thure, and camphir, equal portions, mixed al together with sangine menstuo, and the blood of white gander, such quantity as it may be very odiferus, and lay it safely up for your use as befor said.

For Mars take euphorbium, bedellium, armoniac the roots of both the herbs called Helleborus (of s

some yt is called bearfotte, w^t the powder of the stone called magnes, and mirr, w^t alyttell sulphuer, but of the other equall porcions, mixt all to gether [16v] w^t the braines of a rauē, and humayne bloude w^t the bloude of a blak catt suche a quantie [sic] as yt maye be verie odiferus, and laye yt up for youre use as before saide

*/ */

For marcurie take mastike, thuer, cloues, the hearbe called sunckfoyle and of the stone in poudre called an agath, of equall porcions and mixt all thes to gethere, w^t the braines of a fox and of a wesell, w^t y^e bloude of a pye called a hagester, suche a quantyte as shalbe expedient, so y^t it be verie odiferous of the gummies aforesaide, and laye yt up saffe for youre use as before is first wrytten /////////*

For the planett iubiter take the seede of a~ aychre tree, lignum aloes, storax, beniamē~ and of the stone y^t is called lapis lazuli, and the greate endes of the quiells of [17r] a pecoke equall porcions, and mixtall thes to gether w^t the bloude of a storke, of a swalowe, and the braines of stagge called an hartte when he is kylled in the precens of the prince, the male or female will serue, but take suche a quantite as yt may be verie odiferus of the foresaide gumes, and layeyt up vere well for youre use as before saide /////

For the planet Venus, take muscke, ambre, lignum aloes, redd roses, and of the stone in powder called corall, of y^t whiche is redd equall porcions and mixt all thes to gethere, with the braines of sparowes male and female, and w^t the bloude of a turcledour or of a howse doue being whytte, hauinge allwayes respect that it be odifires of the gummies as afore mencioned, and kepe yt verve well for youre use, ut supra,

[17v] For the planet saturne take the sedde of blake popye the sede of henbane, the rotte of mandragg, and of the stone in powder called magnes, and of mirr, equall porcions, mixt all thes to gethers with the braines of ablake catt, and the bloude of backes called fluider myse, hauinge respecte to the quantite that it be odiferouse of the goumie afore specified, kepeinge
it verie well for youre use as is first wrytten

Heare foloweth of maruelous efficacei sartaine suffumigacions accordinge to the demonstracion of lerned and wyse men after the opnione of philosophye *////

A suffumigacion made of thes hearbes as foloweth causeth a man to see scecrete visions to fore shewe and pronogsticate hidd and secreat mystires concernge the hole use of the world, and to revele and openley declarre the qualities and operacion [18r] therof /////////

Take of sede of flex the sede of the hearbe called flesede, the rottes of violettes the rottes of persley, and make a fumigacion accordinge to the use as you shalbe tawghe [sic] in this booke, and you shall thorowe the grace and healpe of allmightie god haue your desyere //////

A suffumigacion made of thes erbes cansethe visions in the ayer or els wheare to apeare

/////////

Take coriander of some called colender and henbane, and the skine y^t is witheyn the pound garnet and the fumigacion made yt is finished y^t you desyere ///

A suffumygacion made of these hearbes as folowithe causethe visions of the earthe to appeare

/////////

Take the rotte of the came reede, and [18v] the rott of fenill giaunte, which is called ferula, with the skynne y^t is w^t in the pourgarnet, and henbaune, and the herbe tassi barbassi and reed saunders and blake poppie, the conffeccione of thes made it is finished that you desyere /////////

But iff this hearbe perslie with y^e rote of ytt be added unto the fore sayde confecscion yt destroyethe the forsayde matter and maketh it cleane voyde from all places and yt shall come to no effecte ////

A suffumigacion made of thes hearbes as foloweth expellyth and driuith away all visions, and fantices in slepe or other wuse

/////////

Take piones peniriall, mintes and y^e hearbe called palmacrist, and make a confeckecion therof at your goinge to bedd or at ani other tyme when as nede requireth and yt shalbe donne that [19r] you requier philosophy

A suffumigation made of these herbs as follows causes a man to see scecrete visions to foreshow prognosticate hidden and secret mysteries concern the whole use of the world, and to reveal and openly declare the qualities and operation thereof.

Take of seed of flex the seed of the herb called fleseed, the roots of violets, the roots of parsley, and make a fumigation according to the use as you shall be taught in this book, and you shall through the grace and help of almighty God have your desire.

A suffumigation made of these herbs cause the visions in the air or elsewhere to appear

Take coriander of some called colender, and henbane and the skin that is within the pound garnet. And if a fumigation made, it is finished [=accomplished] that [which] you desire.

A suffumigation made of these herbs as follows causeth visions of the earth to appear

Take the root of the cane reed, and the root of giant fennil, which is called ferula, with the skin that is within the pourgarnet, and henbane, and the herb barbassi, and red sanders, and black poppy. The confection of these made, it is finished that [which] you desire.

But if this herb parsley with the root of it be added to the foresaid confection, it destroys the foresaid matter and makes it clean void from all places, and it shall come to no effect.

A suffumigation made of these herbs as follows expels and drives away all visions, and fantasie sleep or otherwise

Take peonies, pennyroyal, mints and the herb called palmacrist, and make a confection thereof at your going to bed, or at any other time when as need requires, and it shall be done that [which] you require

/////////////////*

A suffumigacion made as folowith dryvith and expellith all poysons and venomes

Take the pemies of a peroke the hidden partes of the longes of an asse and make a conffeccion thereof and yt is donne that you desire

/////////////////*

A suffumigacion made as folowith cawsyth a howse or suche places where yt is made to sime as yt were full of water or blowde

/////////////////*

Take the galle of the fyshe called a cuttle the swete gum called arminioicum & rosses and lignum aloes, if then the sayde conffeccion be put in the place wher ani water of the sea hathe benne or ani bloude hath benne or put of the sayde water or bloude in to the sayde conffeccion y^t beinge congelyd and dried and therof afimigacion made in a howse or ani place [19v] where you are dyssposed to proue this and yt shalbe donne that you desyere and put into thys place where you worke thys forsayde matter ther earth y^t fallyth or hangeth on a plowe, and it wyll sem that all the earthe dothe tremble and shake.

A suffumygacion made as hereafter folowith in anie place where you will cawseth all things there hiddin never to be founde or reuelyd

/////////////////*

Take thes hearbes, coriander, and saffron, henbanne, parslye and blake popie the water therof the popie dysstilld and tempered w^t the iuce of the pougarnet skine the which is w^t in the sayde pougarnet this being in a conffeccion made and laye w^t yt golde syluer or anie other precious thinge w^t in the water the earthe or anie other place where you will, or make a fumigacion of the foresayde [20r] conffeccion upon the sayde place which thoue wilte hyde anie thinge in the at the same present be in coniunccion w^t th sonne in the .4. howse which is y^e angle of the earthe or the pointe of midnight and yt shalbe allways kepte secrett for beinge found or reuelyd by anie

A suffumigation made as follows drives and ex all poisons and venoms

Take the pemies of a peroke the hidden parts of th lungs of an ass, and make a confection thereof, an is done that [which] you desire.

A suffumigation made as follows causes a hous such places where it is made to seem as it were of water or blood.

Take the gall of the fish called a cuttle, the sweet called armoniac, and roses, and lignum aloes. If th the said confection be put in the place where any water of the sea has been, or any blood has been, put [some] of the said water or blood into the said confection, that being congealed and dried, and thereof a fumigation made in a house or any place where you are disposed to prove this, and it shall done that [which] you desire. And put into this pl where you work this forsaide matter, the earth tha falls or hangs on a plow, and it will seem that all t earth trembles and shakes.

A suffumigation made as hereafter follows in a place where you will, causes all things there hidden never to be found or revealed

Take these herbs, coriander, and saffron, henbann parsley, and black poppy, the water thereof the pc distilled and tempered with the juice of the pougarnet skin, the which is within the said pougarnet. This being in a confection made and with it gold, silver, or any other precious thing wi the water, the earth, or any other place where you will, or make a fumigation of the foresaid confect upon the said place which you would hide anythin in. The Moon at the same present [=instant] be[in conjunction with the Sun in the fourth house, whi the angle of the earth, or the point of midnight, an shall be always kept secret, for being found or revealed by any way or means, it is certain and tr

waye or means it is sartaine and true
/////////////////*

A suffumygacion made of, as after folowith cawseth visions in the ayer & the shaddowes of sepulcours of the arthe to appeare

/////////////////*

Take the naturall seed of the fyshe called a whalle, lingnum aloes, costus, muske saffronne, armoniacum, w^t the blude of the foule called a lapwinge, and make a conffeccion therof, w^t this sayde conffeccion make a fumigacion in a conuenient place, and you shall see visyons in the ayer, take of the sayd conffeccion and make [20v]

a fumygacion aboute the sepulkers and vissions of the dedd shall and wyll appeare

And note and marke all this well, that thes saide matters hath the tymes and dew, obseruacions perffytly to be donne and keepte properley under the trew frome and concourse of the heaunes, according to ther proper qualites and influences, in eche degre. for the whiche you maye worke as in the chapters before wrytten yt apperethe more plainley

/////////////////*

the suffumigacions of the .12. signes, and of there facies /////////////////

- [aries] take for y^e fumigacion of the singe of
aries mir
- [taurus] take for the fumigacion for y^e singe of
taurus, costus
- [gemini] take for the fumigacion for the singe
of gemini, mastike
- [cancer] take for the fumigacion for the singe of cancer, camphyer,
- [leo] take for the singe of leo, thi fumigacion, thu
[21r]
- [virgo] take for the fumygacion for the singe of
virgo, saunders
- [libra] take for the singe of libra, this fumigacion, galbanm
- [scorpio] take for the singe scorpio, thys fumygacion, oponianac
- [sagitori] take for the singe of sagitori, thys fumygacion, lingnum

A suffumigation made of, as after follows, caus visions in the air and the shaddows of sepulche of the earth to appeare

Take the natural seed of the fish called a whale, lingnum aloes, costus, musk, saffron, armoniac, wi the blood of the fowl called a lapwing, and make a confection thereof. With this said confection mak fumigation in a convenient place, and you shall se visions in the air. Take of the said confection, and make a fumigation about the sepulchers, and visio of the dead shall and will appear.

And note and mark all this well, that these said matters have times and due observations perfittly t done, and kept properly under the true frame and concourse of the heavens, according to their prop qualites and influences, in each degree. For the w you may work, as in the chapters before written it appears more plainly.

The suffumigations of the twelve signs, and of their faces

- [Aries] Take for the fumigation of the sign Aries myrrh.
- [Taurus] Take for the fumigation for the sig
Taurus, costus.
- [Gemini] Take for the fumigation for the si of Gemini, mastic.
- [Cancer] Take for the fumigation for the sig Cancer, camphor.
- [Leo] Take for the sign of Leo, the fumigat
thu.
- [Virgo] Take for the fumigation for the sig Virgo, sanders.
- [Libra] Take for the singe of libra, this fumigation, galbanum.
- [Scorpio] Take for the sign Scorpio, this fumigation, oponianac.
- [Sagittarius] Take for the sign of Sagittariu this fumigation, lingnum [aloes].
- [Capricorn] Take for the sign of Capricorn, fumigation, asam

- [Aquarius] Take for the sign of Aquarius, the fumigation, euphorbium
- [Pisces] Take for the sign of Pisces this fumigation, thimiamatis, called armoniacum

[Compare Agrippa I xliiv: The twelve signs also of the Zodiac have their proper fumes, as Aries hath myrrh; Taurus, pepperwort; Gemini, mastic; Cancer, camphor; Leo, frankincense; Virgo, sanders; Libra, galbanum; Scorpio, opoponax; Sagittarius, lignum-aloes; Capricornus, benjamin; Aquarius, euphorbium; Pisces, red storax.]

Suffumicacions of the facies of the .12. signes

Prima facies [aries] teuer mirram .2. scamonum .3. pip nigrum . prima [taurus] costum .2. cardamonum .3. coprsum, prima facies .[cancer]. muscum .2. succhum .3. nucem muscatum, prima .[libra].
galbanium .2. ut almea, [21v] .3. garyophilum, prima facies .[capricorne]. asafetida .2. celephama, .3. pip longum, prima .[aquarie]. euforbium, .2. ruberberum .3. scamonea, prima .[pysses]. tenet thimiam .2. crocum .3. sandalum album .1. .[leo]. tenet thus .2. lingnum balsum, .3. mir muscata,
prima .[virgo]. sandalus .2. crocum, .3. masticem.
And looke what fumigation we giue the first hower of the  the same muste you giue all that daye & so lykewyse of other

///////////////////

De suffumigationibus temporum

//////////////*/

In primo tempore lignum aloes, thus, et crocum, in secundo tempore thimiama, id est armoniacum, costum, masticem, in tercio tempore sandalos, cassia et mirtum, in quarto tempore muscum succum et lignum balsami, Suffumigations of the faces of the twelve signs.

- Prima facies ♄ teuer mirram; 2. scamonum pip nigrum.
- Prima [taurus] costum; 2. cardamonum; 3. coprsum.
- Prima facies [cancer] muscum; 2. succum; nucem muscatum.
- Prima [libra] galbanium; 2. ut almea; 3. garyophilum.
- Prima facies [Capricorn] asafetedam; 2. celephamam; 3. pip longum.
- Prima [aquarie] euforbium; 2. ruberberum; scamoneam.
- Prima [Pisces] tenet thimiama; 2. crocum; 3. sandalum album.
- 1. [Leo] tenet thus; 2. lignum balsum; 3. mi muscata.
- Prima [Virgo] sandalus; 2. crocum; 3. masticem.

And look what fumigation we give the first hour of the ☉; the same must you give all that day, and so likewise of others.

De suffumigationibus temporum

- In primo tempore lignum aloes, thus, et crocum.
- In secundo tempore thimiama, id est armoniacum, costum, masticem.
- In tertio tempore sandalos, cassia et mirtum
- In quarto tempore muscum succum et lignu balsami.

De fumigationibus quatuor pertium mundi quatuer elementorum

///////////////*

In oriente parte et super ignem sunt ambra, [22r] musculus, et alba cera, in parte meredei, et terræ, sunt algalya, almea, et tyryaca, in occidentalii parte et in aere sunt balsamus, camphora, et olium olmarum, in septentrione et aqua sunt lignum aloes, nux muscata, et maceys ///////////*

De fumigationibus quatuor pertium mundi quatuer elementorum

- In oriente parte et super ignem sunt ambra, musculus, et alba cera.
- In parte meredei, et terrae, sunt algalya, almea, et tyryaca.
- In occidentalii parte et in aere sunt balsamus, camphora, et olium olmarum.
- In septentrione et aqua sunt lignum aloes, nux muscata, et maceys.

The names of the angells that haue powr upon ye .7. dayes in the wicke and upon the .7. sterres and goethe upon the .7. heauens and other whyle in there chayers be these ///////////

Capziel . satquiel . Samael . raphael . anael . l .
Amael . Michael . et gabriel. and the powr of theys is that capziel is the power of sabaday .  . satquiel of Zedet [sic] .  . samael of madin .  .

raphael of hamina .  . anael of noga .  .

michael of cocab .  . and gabryel of labana .  . and euery wan of thes sitteth in his heauen. ///////////*

Nomina aeris in quatuor temporibus

in primo tempore dicitr ystana, in secundo .surail. in tertio . oadyon in quarto gulyon, et nomina angeloru~ qui habent potestatem in aere et super sunt hæc Raphael . guabryel . michael . cherubin . seraphyn .
[22v] orchyne . pataceron . mycraton . sandalson .

[The names of the angels.]

The names of the angels that have power over seven days of the week, and over the seven star and who go upon the seven heavens, and other while in their chairs be these.

Capziel, Satquiel, Samael, Raphael, Anael (or Annael), Michael, and Gabriel.

And the power of these is that Capziel is the power
Sabbathai (Saturn), Satquiel of Zedek (Jupiter), Samael of Madim (Mars), Raphael of Hamina (Sc Anael of Nogah (Venus), Michael of Cocab (Mercury), and Gabryel of Labana (The Moon). And every one of these sits in his heaven.

Nomina aeris in quatuor temporibus

- In primo tempore dicitr ystana.
- In secundo, surail.
- In tertio, oadyon.
- In quarto gulyon,

Et nomina angelorum qui habent potestatem in aere super sunt hæc: Raphael, Guabriel, Michael,
Cherubin, Seraphin, Orchyne, Pataceron, Mycraton Sandalson, Barachyel, Rageyel, Tobyell, et nominabis . eos in omnibus rebus quae facias in aere et deo adiuuante prosperabis.

Nomina terrae in quatuor . temporibus anni:

barachyel . rageyel . tobyell et nominabis . eos in omnibus rebus quæ facias in aere . et deo adiuuante prosperabis //////////

Nomina terræ in quatuor . temporibus anni in primo dicitur nyguedam in secundo yabassa . in tercio .
tobell, in quarto . aradon, et angeli terræ sunt hæc
///////

Samael . yatayell . baranyell . oryell . arfanyel .
tatgryel . danael . affaryell . pactryell . baell .
byenyell . et nominabis hæc nomina angelorum super terram in his rebus quæ facis in terra, et deo adiuuante
prosperabis //

the names of the monthes be these *//

nisan . yar . mantanius . abelul . tysyryn .
marquesnam . quislep . tobenor thus tebethe sabat .
adar . postadar . postremus .

The names of the potestates be these and they
be .12. princes or ruls . that is one uppon euerye month of the .[moon]. and the rather is .oryel .
sasuyell . amaryel . noryel . beraquiel . magnyuya .
suryel . barfiell . adoniel . anael . gabryel . romyel . lacyel and euery of these [23r] hathe so many potestates or helpars more or greater as there be dayes in the monthe or many other seruantes of them.

the names of the angells of the .12. monthes.

The names of the angells that be mighty and more mighty in the first monethe which is sayde nysan, be these . oryel . malaquiram . acya . zaziell . paltifur .
yesmachia . yaryel . araton . robyca . sephatya .
anaya . guesupales . seniquiel . sereryel . malquia .
aricasom . pacyta . abdyel . ramadon . cafiel .
nascyasori . sugni . aszrus . sornadaf . admyel .
necamya . caysaac . benyh . q~uor . adziriyell .

- In primo dicitur Nyguedam.
- In secundo, Yabassa.
- In tercio, Tobell.
- In quarto, Aradon.

Et angeli terræ sunt hæc.

Samael, yatayell, baranyell, oryell, arfanyel, tatgr danael, affaryell, pactryell, baell, byenyell. Et nominabis hæc nomina angelorum super terram i rebus quæ facis in terra, et deo adiuuante
prosperabis.

The names of the months are these:

Nisan, Iyar, mantanius, abelul, Tishrei, marquesn
Kislev, Tevet, Shevat, Adar, postadar, postremus

[Jewish month names are: Nisan, Iyar, Sivan, Tammuz, Av, Elul, Tishrei, Heshvan, Kislev, Tevet, Shevat, Adar. Compare with the list given below.]

The names of the potestates are these,

and they are twelve princes or rulers, that is, one i every month: Oriel, Sasuyell, Amariel, Noriel, Beraquiel, Magnyuya, Suriel, Barfiell, Adoniel, Anael, Gabriel, Romiel, Laciell.

And every one of these has as many potestates or helpers, more or greater as there are days in the month, or many other servants.

The names of the angels of the twelve months.

The names of the angels that are mighty and m mighty in the first month, which is called Nisan are these:

Oriel, Malaquiram, Acya, Zaziell, Paltifur, Yesma Yariel, Araton, Robica, Sephatia, Anaya, Guesup, Seniquiel, Sereriel . Malquia, Aricasom, Pacita, Abdiel, Ramadon, Cafiel, Nascyasori, Sugni, As Sornadaf, Admiel, Necamia, Caysaac, Benyh, Q~ Adziriel.

the names of the .2. monthe which is sayd yar in the language of hebrowe *//////

Safuelor . sasnyeil . santon . cartemat . alyel .
paltnya . bargar . galmus . necpys . aarom . manyt .
aadon . quenanel . quemon . rasegar . affrye .
absamon . sarsall . aspy . carbyel . regnya . athlas .
nadys . abytsky . abytan . palylet .
//////

the names of the angells of the .3. monthe that is sayd *// sifan be these.

Amaryl . tabryell . casmuch . nastyfa . almur . naa= [23v] mab . mamica . zicaran . samysarach . naaseyn .
andas . paltamus . abrys . borzac . saforac . yayat . dalya . azyger . nabsuf . abuihor . zenam . dersam .
cefanya . maccasor . naboon . adyell . maasyell .
szarzyr . tartalyon . adyysar .

these be the names of y^e angelles of y^e .4. monthe y^t is sayd thamuth

. noryel . safyda . asaf . mazica . sarsac . adryyaac .
nagron . galuf . galgal . danroc . saracu . remafydda .
lulyaraf . nedylar . tyaf . taanat . lafayel . genyda .
nedyr . delqua . maadon . samyel . amrael . lezaydi .
as . ohoc . nasyby . razyarsady . yadna . caspa .
garytan . elysafan . pastama . maday .

the names of the angells of the .5. monthe be these Ab

bera quyell or bera quyel . mäh . or amarya . haya .
byny . madrat . aman . tulyell . cossuro . fartis .
nactif . nekyff . pegner . tablic . manuat . amasya .
guatyell . reycat . gnyzzy . palyel . gadeff .
nesgnyraf . abrac . animiter . carnby . nachall . cabake loch . macrya . sase . essaf .

these be the names of y^e angells of the .6. monthe that is sayd elul.

manyny . arabyell . hanyell . nacery . yassar . rassy .
boell . mathyall . naccameryf . zacdon . nafac .
rapyon . saspy . salhy . rasers . malquyell .
sanytyell . yoas . gualaly . danpy . yamla . golum .
zaszyell . satpach . nassa . myssyn . macratyf .
dadyell . carcyell . effygmat //

The names of the second month, which is called Iyar in the Hebrew language.

Safuelor, Sasnyeil, Santon, Cartemat, Aliel, Paltn Bargar, Galmus, Necpis, Aarom, Manit, Aadon, Quenanel, Quemon, Rasegar, Affrie, Absamon, Sarsall, Aspin, Carbiel, Regnia, Athlas, Nadis, Abitasi, Abitan, Palilet.

The names of the angels of the third month the called Sivan are these:

Amariel, Tabriell, Casmuch, Nastifa, Almur, Naa Mamica, Zicaran, Samisarach, Naasein, Andas, Paltamus, Abris, Borzac, Saforac, Yayat, Dalia, Aziger, Nabsuf, Abuifor, Zenam, Dersam, Cefani Maccasor, Naboon, Adiell, Maasiell, Szarzir, Tartalion, Adyysar.

These are the names of the angels of the fourth month, which is called Tammuz.

Noriel, Safida, Asaf, Mazica, Sarsac, Adryyaac, Nagron, Galuf, Galgal, Danroc, Saracu, Remafyd Lulyaraf, Nedylar, Tyaf, Taanat, Lafayel, Genida, Nedir, Delqua, Maadon, Samiel, Amrael, Lezaydi
As, Ohoc, Nasyby, Razyarsady, Yadna, Caspa, Garitan, Elysafan, Pastama, Maday.

The names of the angels of the fifth month, call Av, are these:

Beraquiel, Manhy (or Amarya), Haya, Byny, Mac
Aman, Tuliell, Cossuro, Fartis, Nactif, Nekeyff, Pegner, Tablic, Manuat, Amasya, Guatiell, Reyca
Gnyzzy, Paliel, Gadeff, Nesgnyraf, Abrac, Animi
Carnby, Nachall, Cabake, Loch, Macria, Sase, Es

These are the names of the angels of the sixth month, which is called Elul.

Manyny, Arabiell, Haniell, Nacery, Yassar, Rassy
Boell, Mathiall, Naccameryf, Zacdon, Nafac, Rap
Saspy, Salhy, Rasers, Malquiell, Sanytiell, Yoas
Gualaly, Danpy, Yamla, Golum, Zasziell, Satpac Nassa, Myssyn, Macratyf, Dadiell, Carciell, Effygmat.

these be the names of y^e angells of the .7. monthe that is sayd tysyrin.

surgell or suryel . sarycam . guabryza . szncaryell .
sabybyall . ytrnt . cullya . dadyel . marham .
abercaysdon . sacdon . pagnlan . arsabon . asyramon .
agnyel . sastyracnas . alt= [24r] ym . masulaef .
salamyel . sascunyel . barcaran . yahnt . alycas .
vlysacyaia . abry .

the names of the angells of the .8. monthe that is sayde marquesnan.

be these barbyts . or barfiell . tylzdyell . raamyell .
nehubaell . alysaf . balyel . arzaf . rashyel . alson .
naspyell . becar . palyel . elysu . aiguap . nacpas .
sansany . aesal . maarym . sascy . yalsenac . mabynt .
magdyell . saneinas . maalyel . arsafael .
nanyseyorar . becabalaf . napybael . sucyel . nabnell .
saryell . sodyel . marenell . palytam .

the names of the angells of the .9. monthe be these which is sayde quislep.//*

edoniel . radyel . maduch . racyno . hyzy . maryel .
azday . mandyel . gumyel . seryel . kery . sahaman .
osmyn . sechiel . pazeheym . chalchyphey . gey .
Idael . necad . mynael . arac . ararygugel . galnel .
gimon . satuel . elynzy . baquylaguall the names of the angells of the .10. monthe that is sayde thebeth be these.//*

Anael . amyel . acyor . naclya . rapynes . raacpel .
pacrel . halion . guanrynasnihe . aslaom . naspaya .
neapry . sanihay . hasasylgason . gastaset . yfaryamy .
man . polimas sarananuf . olyab . saryel . canel .
razyell . pmla . nisquem . sarman . malysan . asyzat .
marimoe .

the names of the angells of the .11. monthe which is sayd cyuanth be these.//*

gabryel . ysrael . natryel . gaszyel . nassam . abrysaf .
zefaell . zamyel . mamyel . talyel . myryel . sahinyel .
guryel . samhyell . daryel . banorsasty . satymn .
nasyel . ransyel . talguaf . lebrachiel . dalyell .
gandryel . sahuhaf . myschiel .

These are the names of the angels of the seventh month, which is called Tishrei.

Surgell (or suriel), Sarycam, Guabryza, Szncariell Sabybiall, Ytrnt, Cullia, Dadiel, Marham, Abercaysdon, Sacdon, Pagnlan, Arsabon, Asyram Agniel, Sastyracnas, Altym, Masulaef, Salamiel, Sascuniel, Barcaran, Yahnt, Alycas, Vlysacyaia, Abry.

The names of the angels of the eighth month, which is called marquesnan [Heshvan], are the

Barbits (or Barfiell), Tylzdiell, Raamiell, Nehuba Alysaf, Baliel, Arzaf, Rashiel, Alson, Naspiell, B Paliel, Elysu, Aiguap, Nacpas, Sansany, Aesal, Maarym, Sascy, Yalsenac, Mabint, Magdiell, Saneinas, Maaliel, Arsafael, Nanyseyorar, Becab Napybael, Suciell, Nabnell, Sariell, Sodiell, Maren Palytam.

The names of the angels of the ninth month, which is called Kislev, are these:

Edoniel, Radiel, Maduch, Racino, Hyzy, Mariel, Azday, Mandiel, Gumiel, Seriel, Kery, Sahaman, Osmyn, Sechiel, Pazeheym, Chalchyphey, Gey, I Necad, Mynael, Arac, Ararygugel, Galnel, Gimor Satuel, Elynzy, Baquylaguall.

The names of the angels of the tenth month, which is called Tevet, are these:

Anael, Amiel, Acior, Naclia, Rapines, Raacpel, Pacrel, Halion, Guanrynasnihe, Aslaom, Naspaya
Neapry, Sanihay, Hasasylgason, Gastaset, Yfarya Man, Polimas, Sarananuf, Olyab, Sariel, Canel, Raziell, Pmla, Nisquem, Sarman, Malysan, Asyzat
Marimoe

The names of the angels of the eleventh month, which is called Shevat, are these:

Gabriel, Ysrael, Natriel, Gasziel, Nassam, Abrysa Zefaell, Zamiel, Mamiel, Taliel, Myriel, Sahiniel, Guriel, Samhiell, Dariel, Banorsasty, Satymn, Na Ransiel, Talguaf, Lebrachiel, Daliell, Gandriel, Sahuhaf, Myschiel.

the names of y^e angells of the .12. monthe that is sayde adar be these.//* romyel . patyel . [24v] guryel . azryel . paamyel . cartyel . el . anunalbeh . parhaya . ysaël . beryel . laell . tenebyel . panten . panteron . fanyel . falason . mancyel . pataron . labyel . ragael . cetabyel . nyazpatael .

the names of the angells of the .13. moneth y^t is sayde büsextilis which is sayde adar the laste in marche be these,

lacyel or lantyel . ardyel . nosmyel . ardyel . celydael . amyel . malquyel . gabalyel . susuagos . barylaguey . yabtasyper . magos . sangos . yayell . yel . yasmyel . steluyel . garasyn . ceyabgos . sacadyel . garacap . gabanael . tamtyel .

the names of y^e dayes of the wicke w^t there angells stronge and mighty upon euery daye, and euery won in his daye .

the names of y^e angells that seruithe in the daye of

be these.

danyel . olyeyll . saffeyll . dargoyeyll . yelbrayeiyell . cemaguyl . gebarbaya . faceyeyll . caram . neyeyll . talgylueyl . bethtaez . raneyl . salha . hyeyll . armaquieyeyll . romayl . gybryll . zemayl . mychaze . zarsayeiyell . amayl . antorayeiyell . ronayeiyell . reniayeiyell . barhyl . marhyll . rarorhyll . merhyll . zarafyll . zarayll . an . quyhym . ceýtatynyn . eznayah . vehych . dunedryneylyn . yedemkyeyl . esmaadyn . elbedagryn . zamaanel . yocaleme . detryeyll . aryeyl . arnaeyll . veremedyn . vnaraxidyn .

these be the angells in the daye of the semhazylyn . semyhylym . yasrozyn . agrasnydyn . aymsylyn . cathneylyn . alrasachysyn . abrachasyn . layralosyn . lang [25r] hasyn . anaenym . niangaroryn . aezonyn . montazyn . labelas . mafatyn . feya . rachyn . cadanagyn . laeradonyn . caffrnbyn .

The names of the angels of the twelfth month, which is called Adar, are these:

Romiel, Patiel, Guriel, Azriel, Paamiel, Cartiel, E Anunalbeh, Parhaya, Ysaël, Beriel, Laell, Tenebie Panten, Panteron, Faniel, Falason, Manciel, Patar Labiel, Ragael, Cetabiel, Nyazpatael.

The names of the angels of the thirteenth mont which is called Büsextilis, which is called Adar last in March, are these:

Laciel (or Lantiel), Ardiel, Nosmiel, Ardiel, Cely Amiel, Malquiel, Gabaliel, Susuagos, Barylaguey, Yabtasyper, Magos, Sangos, Yayell, Yel, Yasmie Steluïel, Garasyn, Ceyabgos, Sacadiel, Garacap, Gabanael, Tamtiel.

The names of the days of the week with their angels, strong and mighty upon every day, and every one in his day.

the names of the angels that serve in the day of are these:

Daniel, Olyeill, Saffiell, Dargoyeill, Yelbrayeiyell, Cemaguill, Gebarbaya, faceyeill, Caram, Neyeill, Talgylueil, Bethtaez, Raneil, Salha, Hyeill, Armaquieyeill, Romail, Gybrill, Zemail, Mychaze Zarsayeill, Amail, Antorayeill, Ronayeill, Reniay barhil, Marhill, Rarorhill, Merhill, Zarafill, Zarail An, Quyhim, Ceytatinin, Ezniyah, Vehich, Dunedryneylin, Yedemkieil, Esmaadin, Elbedagri Zamaanel, Yocaleme, Detryeill, Aryeil, Arnaeill, Veremedin, Vnaraxidin.

These are the angels in the day of the Semhazylin, Semyhylym, Yasrozin, Agrasnydin, Aymsylin, Cathneylin, Alrasachysin, Abrachasin, Layralosin, Lang, Hasin, Anaenim, Niangarorin, Aezonin, Montazin, Labelas, Mafatin, Feya, Rach Cadanagin, Laeradonin, Caffrnbrin, Bachramin, Varthalin, Amnanyneylin, Hacoynlin, Balganaychi Aryeylin, Badeylin, Abranorin, Tarmanydin, bachramyn . varthaly . amnanyneylyn . hacoylyn .

 balganaychyn . aryeylyn . badeylyn . abranoryn .
 tarmanydyn . amdalysyn . sahgragynyn . adyanienyn .
 sacstoyeyn . latebayfansyn . caybeinylyn .
 nabyaly . cyzamanyn . abramacyn . laryagathyn .
 bofealyquyn . bayealadyn . gasoryn . asaphyn .
 daryenyn . macnayelyn . gomraoryn . marybyn .
 yebyryn . arylyn . faryelyn . nepenyelyn . banyelyn .
 astyeylyn . ceradadyn .

Amdalysin, Sahgragynin, Adyanienin, Sacstoyein Latebayfanisin, Caybeininin, Nabyalin, Cyzaman Abramacin, Laryagathin, Bofealyquin, Bayealadi
 Gasorin, Asaphin, Daryenin, Macnayelin, Gomra Marybin, Yebirin, Arilin, Faryelin, Nepenyelin, Banyelin, Astyeilin, Ceradadin.

these be the angells that serue in y^e daye of These are the angels that serve in the day of samayelyn . tartalyn . doppeyl . racyelyn . farabyn .

 cabyn . asyomolyn . mabareylyn . tralyeylyn .
 rubbelyn . marmaryn . tafanyelyn . fuheylyn . ruffar .
 aneylyn . rabsylyn . eralyn . pyrteplyn . brofylyn .
 cacyrylyn . naffreynyn . nupury . raffylyn . nyrylyn .
 nyenyolyn . nybyryn . celabryll . tubeylyn . haayn .
 veyn . paafyryn . cetenoyn . letytyeylyn . rarafeyll .
 canueyl . bastaylyn . costyryn . montyelyn . albylyn .
 parachbeyll . alyeyll . vaceyll . zalcycyll . amadyell .
 vsararyeyll . lyncodoneyl . daffrypeyl . vnlylyn .
 carfzoneyll . gronyeyll . gabrylyn . narbeyll .

Samayelin, Tartalin, Doppeil, Racyelin, Farabin, Cabin, Asymolin, Mabareilin, Tralyeylin, Rubbeli Marmarin, Tafanyelin, Fuheilin, Ruffar, Aneilin, Rabsilin, Eralin, Pyrteplin, Brofilin, Cacyrilin, Naffreinin, Nupurin, Raffilin, Nyrilin, Nyenyolin, Nybirin, Celabrill, Tubeilin, Haain, Vein, Paafirir
 Cetenoilin, Letytyeylin, Rarafeill, Canueil, Bastail Costirin, Montyelin, Albilin, Parachbeill, Alyeill, Vaceill, Zalcicill, Amadiell, Vsararieill, Lyncodoi Daffripeil, Vnlilin, Carfzoneill, Gronieill, Gabrini Narbeill.

the names of y^e angells that serue in y^e daye of
 be these.

The names of the angels that serve in the day o
 be these.

michael . beerel . dafngel . aryhyryel . boel . baryel .
 meryel . amyel . aol . semeol . aaen . beryon .
 saryno~ . keineryon . feynon . aneynyn . zamazynyn .
 cananyn . aall . merygall . pegal . gabal . veal . aum= [25v] eal . faranyeal . gebyn . carybyfyn . autarylyn .
 metorylyn . nabyafsyn . fysfyn . barsslylyn .
 caruphylyn . danyturla . fenynturla . geumyturla .
 amya . alnamya . tabynya . nafya . myacha . tyagra .
 bec . alacaorynyll . benenonyll .

Michael, Beerel, Dafngel, Aryhyriel, Boel, Bariel
 Meriel, Amiel, Aol, Semeol, Aaen, Berion, Sarinc
 Keinerion, Feynon, Aneinin, Zamazinin, Cananin Aall, Merygall, Pegal, Gabal, Veal, Aumeal, Faranyeal, Gebin, Caribifin, Autarilin, Metorilin, Nabyafsin, Fysfin, Barsslilin, Caruphilin, Danytu Fenynturla, Geumyturla, Amia, Alnamia, Tabinia, Nafia, Myacha, Tyagra, Bec, Alacaorinill, Benen

y^e names of y^e angells in y^e daye of these.

The names of the angels in the day of ⁴ are
 these:

satquyel . ahyell . yebel . anenyel . Jumyel . Junyel .
 amyel . fanyel . ramuel . sanfael . saccynyel . galbyel .
 lafyel . ,azyel . ymraell . memyell . paryel .
 pamhynyel . toupyel . ambanyel . omyell . orfyell .

Satquiel, Ahyell, Yebel, Aneniel, Jumiel, Juniel, Amiel, Faniel, Ramuel, Sanfael, Sacciniel, Galbie Lafiel, Maziell (?), Ymraell, Memiell, Pariel, Pamhiniel, Toupel, Ambaniel, Omiell, Orfiell, A Hearel, Memiel, Ynel, Syumeliel, Tranfiel, Mefer Antquiel, Quisiell, Cumiriel, Rofiniel, Rubyeyel, ael . hearel . memyel . ynel . symelyel . tranfyel .

mefenyel . antquyel . quisyell . cumyryel . rofynyel .
rubyeyel . beell . baryel . cheduryel .

Beell, Bariel, Cheduriel.

the names of the angells of y^e daye of be these.

hasuayeyl . barneyeyl . verday . heyll . alzeyeyll .
szeyeyll . bacapel . zelfayeyll . morayeyll . borayeyll .
alpheyeyll . arobylyn . canofylyn . ourylyn .
zaryalyn . marylyn . bacoraye . kolfayelyn .
azrayeylyn . ambayeyryn . mayeylyn . cabueyryn .
alseyryn . asueyryn . alneyryn . nenanryn . rayoryn .
orynyn . gedulyn . hareryn . namylyn . halylyn .
hymeylyn . refflylyn . narraabylyn . hahyeylyn .
landelyn . esfylyn . thefelyn . patnelyn . keyalyn .
naylyn . leyrayell . ablayeyll . talraylanrayn .
barkalyn . bahoraelyn .

The names of the angels of the day of ♀ are the

Hasuayeil, Barneyeil, Verday, Heill, Alzeyeyll, Szeyeill, Bacapel, Zelfayeill, Morayeill, Borayeill Alpheyeyll, Arobinlin, Canofilin, Ourilin, Zaryalin, Marilin, Bacoraye, Kolfayelin, Azrayeylin, Ambayeirin, Mayeylin, Cabueirin, Alseirin, Asuei Alneirin, Nenarin, Rayorin, Orinin, Gedulin, Harerin, Namilin, Halilin, Hymeilin, Reffilin, Narraabilin, Hahyeilin, Landelin, Esfilin, Thefelir Patnelin, Keyalin, Nailin, Leyraiell, Ablayeyll, Talraylanrain, Barkalin, Bahoraelin.

y^e names of y^e angells in y^e daye of be these.

myeraton . pacrifon . polypon . capeyell . ehenyton .
alfyton . cheryon . sandalson . panyon . almyon .
erpyon . paxon . calyrxon . horryon . melyson .
unryon . tonelyn . refaeblylon . monyteon .
bornaylon . paxylon . lelalyon . onoxyon . quybon .
quyron . vyxasmyon . relyon . cassylon . tyfonyon .
muryon . degyon . dapsyon . lenayon . orleunyon .
foylon . monychyon . [26r] gabyon . paxonyon .
pynsylon . lepyron . loeloon . saron . salyon . pyon .
nargerion . aaron . selyypon . pinmybron . raconcall .
zelybron .

The names of the angels in the day of ♂ are the

Myeraton, Pacrifon, Polypon, Capeiell, Eheniton, Alfiton, Cherion, Sandalson, Panion, Almion, Erp
Paxon, Calirxon, Horrion, Melison, Unrion, Tone
Refaebilion, Moniteon, Bornailon, Paxilon, Lelali Onoxion, Quibon, Quiron, Vixasmion, Relion, Cassilon, Tifonion, Murion, Degion, Dapsion, Lenaion, Orleunion, Foilion, Monichion, Gabion, Paxonion, Pinsilon, Lepiron, Loeloon, Saron, Sali Pion, Nargerion, Aaron, Selyypon, Pinmibron, Raconcall, Zelibron.

ffinis ////////////////

Finis

Before that these .3. prayers folowinge be sayd ouer the bloude ye must go towards Ierusalem that Is estwarde and ye must saye ouer the blood y^e

[CXXXVII 20-22]

This introductory paragraph to the rite of exorcism of blood is "discussed but not given in full" in the Latin manuscripts (Hedegård, p. 17).
Also, the Latin manuscripts mention only salt, exorcisme that Is sayd ouer y^e salte that Is putt Into haly water, and that must be sayd .3. but that y^e names must be changed thus. I exorcyse the o y^e creature of bloude, In the styde of y^e creature of salte, which god commaundyed by salomon to be putt In to y^e seale, In y^e stide of which god commaundid by his prophet helyzeus to be putt Into water and so forthe of the resydewe, and this exorcysme thus sayd .3. with astole abowt thy neke the~ saye the prayers folowing thryse that donne y^e bloude shall be consecrated and mete for the seale.

hot substituting blood.

Before that, these three prayers following must be over the blood. You must go [=face] towards Jerusalem, that is, Eastward, and you must say over the blood the exorcism that is [also] said over the which is put into holy water. And that must be said three [times], except that the names must be changed thus, "I exorcise thee O thou creature of blood", instead of "... thou creature of salt," which God commanded by Solomon to be put into the seal, instead of which God commanded by his prophet Helyzeus to be put into water, and so forth of the and this exorcism thus said three [times], with a st [=scarf] about your neck, then say the prayers following thrice. That done, the blood shall be consecrated, and meet [=suitable] for the seal.

Compare the following exorcism with that in Scot, Discovery of Witchcraft Book 15, chapter 15.

Exorcizo te creatura sanguis + per deum vivum + per deum verum + per deum sanctum + per deum qui Salomonem In eius diuinam Sigillum primum In ssic: vt sanaretur sterilitas Sanguis efficiaris exorcizatum In salutem credencium: et sis omnibus te Sumentibus Sanitas anime et corporis et effugiat atque desendat ab Iste sanguine omnia samasia et nequitia vel versucia diabolice fraudis: omnisque spiritus In mundus adiuratus per eum qui venturus est Iudicare vivos et mortuos et seculum per Ignem. Amen.

Exorcizo te creatura Sanguis que In nomine + Dei patris omnipotentis et In nomine + [26v] Iesu xpi filii eius dni nostri, et In virtute Sps Sancti, vt fias Sanguine exorcizate ad effugandam omnem potestatem Inimiel et Ipsum Inimicum eradicare et explantare valeas cum angelis

Exorcizo te creatura sanguis + per deum vivum + per deum verum + per deum sanctum + per deum qui Salomonem in eius diuinam Sigillum primum in ssic: ut sanaretur sterilitas Sanguis efficiaris exorcizatum in salutem credentium: ut sis omnibus te summentibus sanitas animae et corporis et effugiat atque disendat ab iste sanguine omnia samasia et nequitia vel versucia diabolicae fraudis: omnisque spiritus in mundus adiuratus per eum, qui venturus est iudicare vivos et mortuos et seculum per ignem. Amen.

Exorcizo te creatura Sanguis que In nomine + Dei patris omnipotentis et In nomine + Iesu Christi filii eius domini nostri, et in virtute Spiritus Sancti, ut fias sanguine exorcizate ad effugandam omnem potestatem inimiel et ipsum inimicum eradicare et explantare valeas cum angelis suis apostaticis, per virtutem eiusdem

Suis apostaticis, per virtutem eiusdem dni nostri + Iesu xpi qui vnturus est Iudicare vivos et mortuos et Seculum per Ignem. Amen. * * *
*

O Inuisyble god, O Inestymable
god, O Ineffable god, O Incommutable god, O Incorrvptyble
GOD, O most mercyfull god, O most Swettest god, O Highe and glorious god. O god of Infynite mercy, I althought vnworthe Synner full of Iniquyt deceyte And malyce most Humbly come unto thy mercy prayinge and beseching the not to haue respecte to all & Innumerable myn Iniquytes, but even As y^u arte wonte to haue mercy upon Synners, and to here y^e prayers of y^e Humble and meke, even so I beseche y^e to vouchsaffe to here me thy Seruant althoughe vnworthy yet calling vnto y^e ffor y^e blessinge And consecrating of this bludd thy creature that It maye be made apte and worthy ffor y^e ynke of thy most precyous and Holy Seale and of thy name . SememphoraS . so y^t It maye haue y^e aptnes and metenes whith It ought to haue by thy most Holy name, which Is written with .4. letters . Joth . He .
vau . Deleth . Agla . eloy . yayin . theos . Deus . which being harde all celestyall terrestyall and Infernall creatures doo tremble feare & [27r] worship It, and by thyes thy most Holy names . on . Alpha et omega .
principium . el . ely . eloe . eloy . elyon . Sother . emanuel . Sabaoth .

domini nostri + Iesu Christi qui
vnturus est iudicare vivos et mortuos
et seculum per ignem. Amen.

[CXXXVII 1-19]

O Invisible God, O Inestimable God,
O Ineffable God, O Incommutable God, O Incorruptible God, O most mercifull God, O most Sweet God, O High and Glorious God. O God of infinite mercy, I, although an unworthy sinner, full of iniquity, deceit, and malice, most humbly come to your mercy, praying and beseeching you not to have respect to all and innumerable mine iniquities, but even as you are wont to have mercy upon sinners, and to hear the prayers of the humble and meek, even so I beseech you to vouchsafe to hear me, your servant, although unworthy, yet calling unto you for the blessing and consecrating of this blood, your creature, that it may be made apt and worthy for the ink of your most precious and Holy Seal, and of your name Schemhamphoras, so that it may have the aptnes and meteness which it ought to have by your most holy name, which is written with four letters, Joth, He, Vau, Daleth, Agla, Eloy, Yayin, Theos, Deus, which being heard all celestial, terrestrial, and infernal creatures do tremble, fear, and worship it. And by these your most holy names, On,
Alpha and Omega, Principium, El,
Ely, Eloë, Eloy, Elion, Sother, Emmanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, EGge, Ya, Ya, Ye, may this creature of blood be blessed, prepared, and made apt for the ink of your holy seal, and of your most holy name,

Adonay . egge . ya . ya . ye . this creature of bludd may be blessyd preparyd and made apte ffor y^e ynke of thy Holy seale and of thy most Holy name . SememphoraS . which Is blessyd worlde with owt ende .
Amen .

Another prayer ffor the Same

O good Iesu christ ffor thy Ineffable mercy Spare me and haue mercy upon me and here me now thorow the Invocatyon of the name of the Holy trynity the father the Sonne and the Holy goste and that y^u woldest accept and take In good worthe the prayers and wordes of my mouthe, by the Invocatyon of thy .100. Hooly names that Is to Saye . Agla monhon .
tetragramaton . olydeus . Ocleiste .
Amphinethon . lamtara .
Ianemyer . Saday . Hely . Horlon . portenthymon . Ihelur .
Gofgamep . emanuel . On .
Admyhel . Honzmorp . Ioht .
Hofob . Rasamarathon . Anethi . erihona . Iuestre . Saday . maloht .
Sethoe . elscha . Abbadaia . Alpha et omega . leiste . Oristyon .
Ieremon . Hosb . merkernon . elzephares . egyryon . betha .
Ombonar . Stymulamathon .
Orion . eryon . noymos . peb .
nathanothasy . theon . ysyston .
porho . Rotheron . lethellethe . ysmas . Adonay . Athionadabir .
Onoytheon . Hosga . leyndra .
nosulaceps . tutheon . Gelemoht . paraclitus . Occymomyon .

Schemhamphoras, which is blessed, world without end. Amen.

Another prayer for the same.

O good Jesus Christ, for your ineffable mercy, spare me and have mercy upon me and hear me now through the invocation of the name of the Holy Trinity, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, and that you would accept and take in good worth the prayers and words of my mouth, by the invocation of your one hundred holy names, that is to
saye, Agla, Monhon, Tetragramaton, Olydeus, Ocleiste, Amphinethon, Lamtara,
Ianemyer, Saday, Hely, Horlon,
Portenthymon, Ihelur, Gofgamep, Emmanuel, On, Admihel, Honzmorp, Ioht, Hofob, Rasamarathon, Anethi, Erihona,
Iuestre, Saday, Maloht,. Sethoe, Elscha, Abbadaia, Alpha et Omega, Leiste, Oristion, Ieremon, Hosb, Merkernon, Elzephares, Egirion, Betha, Ombonar, Stimulamathon, Orion, Erion, Noimos, Peb, Nathanothasy, Theon, Ysiston, Porho, Rotheron, Lethellethe, Ysmas, Adonay, Athionadabir, Onoytheon, Hosga, Leyndra, Nosulaceps, Tutheon, Gelemoht, Paraclitus, Occymomion, Erchothas, Abracio, Anepheneton, Abdon, Melche, Sother, Usirion, Baruch, erchothas . abracio . anepheneton .

 Abdon . melche . Sother . usiryon . baruch . Sporgongo . Genonem .
 messyas . pantheon . zabuather .
 Rabarmas . Yskyros . Kyryos .
 Gelon . Hel . Rethel . nathi .
 Ymeynlethon . Karex . Sabaoth .
 Sallaht . cirhos . Opyron . nomygon . Oryhel . theos . ya .
 Horha . christus . Holbeke . tosgac . Occymomos . elyorem .

[27v] Heloy . Archyna . rabur .
 humbly & faythfully beseching the althoughe unworthe yet trusting In y^e that y^u woldest sanctefy & blesse this bloude by thy most Holy names afforsayd, & by this na^me .
 Sememphoras . of .72. letters that by y^e power Holynes and vertue of y^e same na^mes & by yⁱ deuyne mighte & power this bloude maye be coⁿsecrated, blyssed, & strengthened by y^e vertu of yⁱ most Holy bodye & bloude y^t It may haue y^e vertue & aptnes which it oughte to haue w^t out any discet, y^t it maye be worthy to wrighte yⁱ Holy seale y^t it may haue y^e effecte which it ought to haue thorow o^r lorde Iesus which syttethe in y^e hyghest to whome be honor prayse & glorye worlde w^t owt ende Amen.

:::::the blessing of It:::::

God the father blesse y^e God y^e sonne blesse y^e God y^e Holy gost blesse y^e Hooly marye mother of o^r lorde Iesu christ maye blesse &

Sporgongo, Genonem, Messias, Pantheon, Zabuaather, Rabarmas, Iskiros, Kyrios, Gelon, Hel, Rethel, Nathi, Ymeinlethon, Karex, Sabaoth, Sallaht, Cirhos, Opiron, Nomigon, Orihel, Theos, Ya, Horha, Christus, Holbeke, Tosgac, Occimomos, Eliorem, Heloy, Archina, Rabur. humbly and faithfully beseeching you, although unworthy yet trusting in you that you would sanctify and bless this blood by your most holy names aforesaid, and by this name Schemhamphoras of seventy-two letters, that by the power, holiness, and virtue of the same names and by your divine might and power this blood may be consecrated, blessed, and strengthened by the virtue of your most holy body and blood, that it may have the virtue and aptness which it ought to have without any discet (?), that it may be worthy to write your holy seal, that it may have the effect which it ought to have through our Lorde Jesus, who sits in the highest, to whom be honor, praise, and glory, world without end. Amen.

The blessing of it.

God the Father bless you, God the Son bless you, God the Holy Ghost bless you. May Holy Mary mother of our Lord Jesus Christ bless and sanctify you, Oh blood, that you

Sanctefy y^e, o bloude y^t y^u mayst Haue y^e mighte and power of a sacrament In wryting of y^e Seale of God. All Holy virgins maye blesse y^e this, Daye & euer. All y^e Holy & electe of God and All y^e celestyall powers maye blesse the and confyrme and Strengthen the, All Angells and Archangells vertues, principates, potestates, thrones, and domynatyons, cherubin & Seraphin by y^e auctoryte & lycency of god may blesse y^e, by y^e marytes & all y^e prayers of thy sayntes O lorde Iesu christ y^t y^u woldest blesse + sanctify + & consecrate + this bloude & strengthe~ it, by thy almighty pow^r, & y^t thy seale y^t shall herew^t be wrytte~ may haue y^e power which it oughte to haue & for y^t purpose & intent for y^e which it is ordeyned thorow o^r lord Iesu christ whose reygne & empyre dothe contynue worlde w^t owt ende.
 Amen ::::

may have the might and power of a sacrament in writing of the Seal of God. May all holy virgins bless you this day and ever. May all the holy and elect of God, and all the celestial powers bless you, and confirm and strengthen you. May all angels and archangels, virtues, principates, potestates, thrones, and dominations, cherubin, and seraphin, by the authority and license of God, bless you, by the merits and all the prayers of your saints, O Lord Jesus Christ, that you would bless + sanctify + and consecrate + this blood, and strengthen it, by your almighty power, and that your seal that shall herewith be written may have the power which it ought to have, and for that purpose and intent for the which it is ordained through our Lord Jesus Christ, whose reign and empire does continue, world without end. Amen.

MAGIC IN HISTORY

Forbidden RITES

A Necromancer's Manual of the Fifteenth Century

RICHARD KIECKHEFER

Copyrighted material

FORBIDDEN RITES

MAGIC IN HISTORY

FORBIDDEN RITES

A NECROMANCER'S MANUAL OF
THE FIFTEENTH CENTURY

RICHARD KIECKHEFER

THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE UNIVERSITY PRESS
UNIVERSITY PARK, PENNSYLVANIA

Copyright © 1997 Richard Kieckhefer

Published in 1998 in the United States of America and Canada by
The Pennsylvania State University Press, University Park, PA 16802

First published in 1997 in the United Kingdom by Sutton Publishing Limited

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Kieckhefer, Richard.

Forbidden rites : a necromancer's manual of the fifteenth century / Richard Kieckhefer.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 0-271-01750-3 (cloth : alk. paper)

ISBN 0-271-01751-1 (pbk. : alk. paper)

1. Bayerische Staatsbibliothek. Manuscript. Clm 849. 2 Magic—History.
3. Demonology--History. I. Title.

BF1593.K525 1997

133.4'3--dc21

97-26745

Printed in the United States of America

Third printing, 2003

It is the policy of The Pennsylvania State University Press to use acid-free paper for the first printing of all clothbound books. Publications on uncoated stock satisfy minimum requirements of American National Standard for Information Sciences—Permanence of Paper for Printed Library Materials, ANSI Z39.48—1992.

CONTENTS

| | |
|---|-----|
| TABLES | vi |
| ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS | vii |
| 1. Introduction
MAGICAL BOOKS AND MAGICAL RITES | 1 |
| 2. The Munich Handbook of Necromancy
Clm 849 | 22 |
| 3. Banquets, Horses and Castles
ILLUSIONIST EXPERIMENTS | 42 |
| 4. Love, Favour and Madness
PSYCHOLOGICAL EXPERIMENTS | 69 |
| 5. Learning Hidden and Future Things
DIVINATORY EXPERIMENTS | 96 |
| 6. Formulas for Commanding Spirits
CONJURATIONS AND EXORCISMS | 126 |
| 7. Demons and Daimons
THE SPIRITS CONJURED | 154 |
| 8. THE MAGIC OF CIRCLES AND SPHERES | 170 |
| 9. CONCLUSION | 186 |
| EDITION OF THE NECROMANCER'S HANDBOOK IN Clm 849, FOLS 3r-108v | 190 |
| PLATES | 349 |
| SELECTIVE BIBLIOGRAPHY | 378 |
| INDEX | 381 |

TABLES

| | | |
|----|---|-------|
| A. | Experiments in Clm 849, fols 3-108 | 27 |
| B. | Types of necromancy found in Clm 849 | 38 |
| C. | Spirits named in the conjurations | 162-5 |
| D. | Spirits listed in no. 34 | 165-7 |
| E. | Specifications for each day of the week | 181 |
| F. | Specifications for day hours | 182 |
| G. | Specifications for night hours | 182-3 |
| H. | Gatherings of Clm 849 | 190-1 |

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am indebted to the Bayerische Staatsbibliothek for providing a microfilm and photographs of Clm 849; to the British Library and Cambridge University Library for providing relevant materials; to Martina Stratmann for supplying a codicological analysis of Clm 849; to Barbara Newman, H.C. Erik Midelfort, Steve Muhlberger, John Leland and Frank Klaassen for reading my analysis, sharing with me their insights, giving me the benefit of their suggestions, and helping to protect me from errors; to Charles Burnett in particular, who read both the analysis and the edition of the manuscript with meticulous care and expertise and helped resolve many problems; to Vincent Cornell and Sani Umar for information about Arabic texts; and to Persephone, a familiar companion who reminds me constantly about the significance of my work.

Cave! terrentia hac in scientia latent, si cupis scire occulta, pericula multa pro te et upupis!

INTRODUCTION: MAGICAL BOOKS AND MAGICAL RITES

We are what we read - and the power of books to transform the minds and personalities of their readers can give cause for anxiety as well as for celebration. A cluster of related developments in late medieval Europe brought heightened concern about what people were reading. The spread of literacy and the rise of a far wider reading public, lay as well as clerical, brought greater demand for written material. The availability of paper, a medium far less costly than parchment, made books more readily accessible than they had previously been, and allowed for more abundant supply of reading matter to feed this demand, even before the invention of printing with movable type. And the emergence of silent reading habits made reading a more private activity.¹ Historians have attended to the impact of these developments on medieval heresy, on churchmen's fear that literacy contributed to the diffusion of heretical views, and on the efforts at censorship that ensued. But less work has been done on the dissemination of magical texts, which in some ways represented an even more sinister threat to orthodox culture, and on attempts to control these texts.² A book of magic which deliberately and expressly invited contact with demons presented all the hazards of reading in their deepest and most pressing form.

Beginning around the early fourteenth century, possession and use of magical writings becomes a recurrent theme in the records of prosecution. When Bernard Délicieux was accused in 1319 of having used necromancy against the pope, he was cleared of that charge but nevertheless condemned to prison for merely possessing a book of necromancy.³ Fear of necromancy and of necromantic writings was becoming an obsession at the time, especially at the court of Pope John XXII, who in the previous year had commissioned the bishop of Fréjus and others to investigate a group of clerics and laymen charged with using books of necromancy, geomancy and other magical arts.⁴ In 1320 Matteo and Galeazzo Visconti were tried for using necromancy against Pope John; the offence here was actual use of the art, yet when one witness said he had been shown a book filled with experiments for love, hatred, finding of stolen objects and so forth, the very sight of such a book was evidently cause for horror.⁵ In 1406-7, informants claimed that a group of clerics had used formulas from magical books against Benedict XIII and the king of France, and the ensuing inquiry uncovered a box filled with booklets containing prayers, hymns and conjurations.⁶ But in 1409, at the Council of Pisa, Benedict in turn was charged with using necromancy and hiring necromancers. The pope, it was said, had sought out a book of necromancy available only from the Saracens and had purchased it for some 1,000 francs. A book of necromancy was allegedly found under the pontiff's bed.⁷ In such cases the uncovering of necromantic writings made more plausible the charge that necromancy had actually been used, but more fundamentally the books themselves would have impressed contemporaries as unsavoury and incriminating, somewhat as the discovery of Satanic paraphernalia might seem incriminating today. Not surprisingly, inquisitors and other judges used such discoveries as propaganda in their zealous campaigns against magic. In 1382 an inquisitor wrote to the government of Siena about a band of magicians at Rugomagno: one Agnolo di Corso had been found in possession of a book of seventy chapters, which others had copied, and which spoke of invoking evil spirits to murder people or constrain their affections.⁸ Two years later Niccolò Consigli was executed at Florence for practicing necromancy and unlicensed exorcisms; his judges confiscated and burned the books of necromancy from which he had taken conjurations.⁹ One might even say it was common for books of magic to be set forth as codefendants alongside their owners and users – and indeed, as we shall see, those who condemned books of magic in some ways ascribed to them a kind of personality.¹⁰ When the books were burned, there were those (as we shall see) who heard the voices of demons in the crackling of the flames.

The book-burning might at times be voluntary: according to a fifteenth-century biographer, Gerard Groot studied magic in his youth, and was accused of practising it as well, but when he converted to a life of piety and foreswore the art of necromancy, he consigned his books of magic to the flames.¹¹ The movement he went on to found, the Devotio Moderna, was one of the most influential forces in the devotional culture of pre-Reformation Europe, a movement of inner piety nurtured by devout reading, manifested in the copying out of pious phrases in personal florilegia, and financially supported by the copying of manuscripts – a movement, in short, firmly grounded in the book-culture of late medieval Europe, and initiated with an act of penitential book-burning.

From the early years of Christianity, conversion to Christ had meant, among other things, doing away with books of magic. The scene at Ephesus, as described in the Acts of the Apostles (18:19–19:20), perhaps epitomized what happened on a smaller scale elsewhere. When Paul arrived in the town and made converts to the new faith, 'a number of those who practised magic arts brought their books together and burned them in the sight of all, and they counted the value of them and found it came to fifty thousand pieces of silver'.¹² (This comes to roughly 1,666 times as many silver pieces as Judas received for betraying Christ.) By the later Middle Ages, treatment of those found with offending literature was often more judicial than pastoral. To be sure, a monk of Sulby monastery was treated leniently when he was found possessing books of magic in 1500. A superior in the Premonstratensian order had heard of a brother named Thomas Wryght who had been using books of experiments and gone about paying people generously to teach him the occult arts.

Faced with the evidence – one of his books of experiments – he insisted that he owned such books only out of curiosity, not for actual use. The matter was treated as a disciplinary one within the monastic setting, and the brother received a light penance.¹³ But in an age when books of this sort were held in deep suspicion one could never count on such clemency, as Bernard D'Élieux well knew.

Anything that arouses such deep anxiety is a subject of historical interest, and books of magic hold considerable fascination indeed. To know why books of magic aroused fear we must gain a fuller understanding of what the books themselves were likely to contain. Most of them no doubt have perished in the inquisitors' flames, but some eluded detection and have survived. The focus of following chapters in this study is arguably among the most interesting sources we have for the study of medieval magic: a fifteenth-century handbook of explicitly demonic magic, or what contemporaries called 'necromancy'. This compilation is contained in a manuscript in the Bavarian State Library in Munich. To be sure, the text is neither edifying nor profound, nor is it particularly original; in late medieval Europe there were no doubt many compilations equally illustrative of common magical practice, most of them now lost. But among the manuscripts that survive, few are quite as diverse in content, or as full, explicit and candid in their instructions as this work.

Detailed examination of such a compilation may most obviously help us understand the mentality of the necromancers themselves who copied such books, whether for curiosity or for use. But study of this handbook may clarify several other factors in the history of magic, and three in particular. First, examination of a necromancer's manual sheds light on the function and cultural significance of a magical book itself. We will know more about the cultural significance of books generally – and we will know more fully the range of meanings a book could have – when we have grasped the role of this exceptional category of books. Second, the mentality of the necromancers' opponents becomes clearer from examination of such a compilation: the views of the Renaissance magus (such as Marsilio Ficino and Johannes Reuchlin) who insisted that they practised a higher and purer form of magic than did these base necromancers, and those of the demonologists (Heinrich Kramer and his successors) for whom necromancy was a dark filter shading their perception of witchcraft. The reactions of the opponents may be historically more important than the attitudes of the necromancers themselves, because they tell us more about the culture as a whole, but we cannot begin to comprehend these reactions without knowing the realities on which they were based. Third, the rites contained in this compendium illustrate strikingly the links between magical practice and orthodox liturgy. The analogy I will use is that of a tapestry, whose display side implies a reverse side: so too, a society that ascribes a high degree of power to ritual and its users will invite the development of unofficial and transgressive ritual, related in form to its official counterpart, however sharply it may differ in its uses.

A BOOK OF MAGIC AS A CULTURAL ARTIFACT

A book of magic is also a magical book. It not only tells how to perform magical works, but shares in the numinous qualities and powers of the rites it contains. To be sure, not all magic is book magic: much magical practice arises from oral culture, is transmitted orally, and is used without needing inscription on paper or parchment, even if it is the largely accidental circumstance of its having been transcribed at some point that accounts for its survival and its accessibility to us. But in the later Middle Ages certain forms of magic were increasingly assimilated to liturgy and increasingly written, so that a magical act was the performance from a script, or the observance of a rite whose details were enshrined in a text. This development surely owed much to the spread of literacy among the laity, but even more to the practice of magic among the clergy, particularly those on the fringes of the clerical elite. Judicial and anecdotal evidence suggests that explicitly demonic magic, called 'nigromancy' or 'necromancy',¹⁴ was largely the domain of priests, perhaps especially those without full-time parish employment, as well as ordained monks with some education and esoteric interests, university students and others who had been received into minor orders.¹⁵ It was within this context that a book of magic would most naturally be perceived as a magical book, sharing in the numinous quality of the rites it prescribes.

Christian ritual had from early centuries been the enactment not of oral tradition but of texts embodied in books. With the unprecedented late medieval diffusion of literacy, availability of reading matter and expansion of the clergy, books might still be accessible only to an elite, but it was a much expanded elite, and the numbers and varieties of books available were far greater than in previous centuries, so that maintaining control over this diffusion and this variety was scarcely possible, however much hierarchs may have attempted to censor the available reading matter. Little surprise, then, if books of magic found their way onto some readers' shelves, whether for use or for mere curiosity.

Apart from its function as a repository of information and insight, a book can be of interest as a physical object, as a mirror of its writer's life and mind, and as a mirror of the society and culture from which it emanates and to which it returns. The surviving books of medieval demonic magic repay study from each of these perspectives, although their claims to significance differ from those of ordinary texts: a book of magic is a physical object like any other book, but even as object it is perceived as having sinister power, as a kind of negative relic; it reveals something of the writer's life and mind, but more often than in most other cases, and for more obviously compelling reasons, the authorship remains anonymous or pseudonymous; and it serves as a mirror of the surrounding culture, but often the mirror is a distorting one, a deliberately transgressive adaptation of what the society takes to be holy.

Any book of rituals serves as point of contact between sacred texts (permanent, authoritative repositories of power) and their performance (which utilizes this power for specific occasions). The book itself, like a liturgical vessel or a sacred building, is consecrated; when a formula is read from it, the power of the text is enhanced by the sacrality of the book from which it is read. A book of magic may also be consecrated, to confirm the numinous power resident in the physical object. A book of magic is thus significant not only as a source for information about magical practice – generally more reliable than court records, denunciatory treatises and literary accounts – but also as itself a magical object, treasured and closely guarded by its possessors, and condemned to burning by judges in mimicry of the punishment that might await the magicians themselves.

This perception of a book of magic as itself a magical object, and therefore as suspect, is seldom so dramatically manifested as in the canonization proceedings for Archbishop Antoninus of Florence (the man from whom, incidentally, the Malleus maleficarum derived most of its misogynist tropes).¹⁶ One witness to the sanctity of the archbishop told how the saint had gone one day to a barber-surgeon of Florence named Master Peter to have his hair cut. During the process the prelate began to wonder how a man who read no Latin was able not only to cut hair but also to cure the sick people who came to him. He learned that the barber had obtained a 'book of surgery' from a Cistercian and had learned from it the art of healing. Antoninus asked Peter to bring forth this book and show it to him; the man readily complied.

The archbishop recognized that the book was full of incantations, and formulas and signs belonging to the wicked magical arts. So one day he went to San Marco for lunch, and when certain members of the city's nobility were with him in the cloister after the meal, he had fire brought in an earthen vessel, and he set fire to the book. Immediately the air was so darkened that the citizens were afraid, and clung to the archbishop. He comforted them, saying that when the book was fully burned this darkening and clouding of the air would cease, as indeed happened. Then, calling these citizens and Master Peter about him, he explained that the book contained incantations, and that at some point a mass had been celebrated over it for conjuring and summoning demons, so that wherever the book was, a multitude of demons resided there.

The burning thus served as an exorcism; the very pages seemed quite literally infected by demons, who needed to be banished. Once this was accomplished, Antoninus admonished Peter to find some other means for healing the sick; the man obeyed this admonition, and the canonization proceedings assure us that God did not allow his family to go lacking.

The notion that demons could infest a book appears elsewhere: Michael Scot told of a magical book inhabited by spirits who call out when the book is opened, 'What do you want? What do you seek? What do you order? Say what you want and it shall be done forthwith.¹⁷ The theme admits at least two interpretations. One might see it as a way of symbolizing the ubiquity of malign spirits, their eagerness to seize any opportunity for mischief, and their dense concentration in those places and objects seen as special 'occasions of sin'. Beyond this, it can express obsessive anxiety about the book itself as an object invested with a kind of negative sacrality, something taboo, a source of spiritual and psychological contagion. The difference is not that the first interpretation is cultural and the second psychological; both interpretations function on both levels, relating the concerns of individual observers to the shared perceptions of the society. But the first interpretation places greater weight on the theological assumption that malevolent forces are secretly present in the world, an 'objective' assumption in the sense that it is widely diffused within the culture, eliciting and appealing to a diversity of personal concerns and anxieties, while the second stresses the aversion of the individual observer, a reaction inevitably both experienced and expressed in culturally conditioned terms.

Archbishop Antoninus's authority was perhaps too great for a mere barber-surgeon to challenge his interpretation of the book he had been using, but not all practitioners were so amenable to instruction. In the 1340s, the inquisitor Pietro da l'Aquila charged the Florentine physician Francesco di Simone with having purchased a book on the virtues of herbs, in which (according to the inquisitor) there was necromantic content. The physician testified that he had indeed bought such a book, but that there was no taint of necromancy in it, and if he had known that the volume contained anything prohibited he would never have bought it.¹⁸ It makes little difference for our present purposes whether the inquisitor's or the archbishop's reading of a particular book was correct, or grounded in a careful reading of the volume's contents. Either of them might have been scandalized by simple charms of a sort that a theologian would in principle have deemed innocent but a careless or overly zealous critic might perceive as tainted and implicitly demonic.¹⁹ In other cases it seems more likely that magical books condemned as demonic were in fact collections of expressly demonic magic: Piero di ser Lippo claimed that the book he confiscated from Agnolo di Corso contained formulas for adoration and invocation of spirits such as Satan and Beelzebub, and there is no reason to doubt that the inquisitor encountered a work of genuine demonic magic, of the sort that have on occasion survived.

Less dramatic than the action of Archbishop Antoninus, but similar to it in certain respects, was the judicial treatment of a magical book by the secular authorities at Dijon:

Concerning the execution [exécution] of a book of devilry [deablerie]. On the sixth day of August, in the year 1463, at the command of my lords of the Chambre des comptes at Dijon, after consultation in this Chambre, a book made of paper and covered with leather that was colored green was brought from the house and residence of the widow and heirs of Thomas of Dampmartin, during his life resident of Dijon. In this book were written many evil and false invocations of devils [deables], divinations, charms [charmes], and other things of the magical art, which give very bad example and are against God and the holy Christian faith. In it were contained many depictions of devils and other detestable figures and characters. At the end of this book were several chapters and articles on necromancy [nigromance] and chiromancy. This book had been seen by my lords of the Council and the Chambres des comptes. And after they inspected it with great and serious deliberation in the presence of lord Jehan Bon Varlet, priest of the chapel of my lord the duke of Dijon, dean of Saint-Seigne, vicar and scelleur of the reverend father in God my lord the bishop of Lengres in Dijon; master Jehan de Molesmes, secretary of my lord the duke; Ayme d'Eschenon, mayor of the town and commune of Dijon; Jehan Rabustel, procurator of that town; Aimé Barjod, procurator of my lord in the district of Dijon; and many others - this book was cast into the fire and totally burned to cinders, to the despite and confusion of the evil enemies [of the faith], and so that it could never again be used in any manner.²⁰

Here there is no allegation of supernatural phenomena, and the book is not seen as infected or possessed by demons needing to be exorcized. None the less, the book itself is treated as if it were a human subject, to be examined and, once found guilty, executed by burning. Nothing in the account need be taken as implying that the book itself possesses numinous powers, yet the book elicits the loathing and the judicial reaction normally reserved for a personal agent and embodiment of evil. From one perspective there is nothing unusual about investing a book with personality: the reading of any book can be perceived as a kind of dialogue between the reader and the text. Rarely, however, is the perception carried to this extreme.

The numinous quality of a book of magic could resemble that of a liturgical or devotional book, and in some cases the distinction between a devotional and a magical work could be obscure. The chronicle of Saint Denis tells how in 1323 a monk of Morigny was found to possess a book of devotions inspired by curiosity and pride, although he claimed to have been inspired rather by visions of the Virgin Mary. In her honour, he had had many images of the Virgin painted on his pages. He thus sought to renew the 'heresy and sorcery' known as the ars notoria, which involves the use of special figures, contemplation of these figures amid prayer and fasting, and invocation of mysterious and presumably demonic names, all for the sake of knowledge, wealth, honour or pleasure. His own book promised such rewards, but required invocations, the special copying of the book (at great expense), and the inscription of one's name in the book itself two times;

the physical object, in other words, needed to be customized for its user. This book was so evil, the chronicle declares, that judges at Paris consigned it to the flames.²¹ In other cases the boundary between devotion and magic was complicated by various factors: the combination of devotional and liturgical material with natural magic;²² the tendency in books of conjuration to juxtapose formulas for invoking angels, demons and spirits of neutral or indeterminate standing, and the use of prayers to God for power over demonic and other spirits. Thus, when the necromantic plot against Benedict XIII was divulged in 1406, and investigation produced a coffin filled with books of prayers as well as conjurations, it is impossible to know whether even the 'prayers' were orthodox or deviant.

Tales of sorcerers' apprentices emphasize that the wondrous powers of a magical book are not easily controlled: one exemplum tells of a pupil who reads a chapter from his master's magical tome and thereby arouses a tempest which can be quelled only when the master comes back and reads a chapter equal in length.²³ One might say that in such a tale it is not the book itself but the magic it contains that is powerful and uncontrollable, but the emphasis on use of a chapter of equal length suggests that the process of reading may have magical, quantifiable efficacy distinguishable from that of the specific contents.

THE BOOK OF CONSECRATIONS

The perception of a book of magic as possessing numinous power is not merely an obsession of the inquisitors; it is grounded in the writings of the magicians as well, who guarded the secrecy of their writings perhaps mainly for fear of detection, but also out of a sense that the books themselves were sacred objects.

A late medieval book of demonic magic is in at least one respect decidedly not like a cookbook. If one discovers that the recipes in a cookbook tend to come out badly, one may reasonably wonder whether there are errors in detail – whether, for example, the author meant a teaspoon rather than a tablespoon of salt, or a pinch and not a pound of nutmeg – but to take the faulty book to a priest and have it blessed would normally be thought eccentric at best. Yet that, or the rough equivalent, is indeed what a late medieval necromancer might have done with a defective book of magic. He might suppose that verbal flaws in the conjurations were partly to blame,²⁴ but, as we will see, the variants in late medieval necromantic texts seem to have been so common that a practitioner might have despaired of ever finding a flawless text to recite. In any case, the problem of verbal flaws was perhaps not the necromancer's greatest concern. A short, anonymous work called the Liber consecrationum (Book of Consecrations), which circulated in late medieval manuscripts in varying forms, makes clear that the book itself was a sacred object requiring elaborate consecration, and that its contents might lose their magical efficacy.²⁵ According to this Book of Consecrations, the magician must seek to recover the lost efficacy of his formulas by subjecting the book itself to an elaborate process of recharging, or reconsecration.

The prologue to this work insists that its proceedings are especially valuable, being dedicated to the names of God, and should not be used in vain. By invoking God's names, the 'exorcist or operator' can renew the power of a magical experiment which has lost its efficacy. Many people seek to achieve great works, and possess writings by which they will attain their desire, but they accomplish nothing, because their experiments are corrupt. The operator must refrain from every pollution of mind and body, and for nine days must be abstinent in food and drink, must keep from idle or immoderate words, and must be clothed in clean garments. On each of these days he must hear mass, carrying this book with him and placing it on the altar during the mass, which seems to assume the celebrant's complicity, if the owner of the book is not in fact himself a cleric. He must execute this procedure devoutly, with prayer and fasting, so as to attain knowledge of sacred mysteries, and then he must carry the book back home. He should have a secret place, sprinkled with holy water, in which he can place the book, after binding it with a priestly cincture and a stole placed in the form of a cross. Kneeling toward the east he must say seven psalms (presumably the seven penitential psalms), 'the litany' (meaning the litany of the saints), and a further prayer before opening the book. Then he may open the book with humble devotion and with heartfelt desire 'that God may sanctify and bless and consecrate this book, devoted to his most sacred names, so that it may fully obtain the power it should have, that it may have power for consecrating the bond of spirits and for all invocations and conjurations of [spirits], and likewise all other experiments'.

These instructions are followed by a prayer, to be said after the litany of the saints - actually three prayers of varying length. The first is a plea that God may hear the operator's prayers despite his unworthiness. The second, addressed to Christ, repeats this central entreaty, and asks that he may consecrate this book:

by the power of these your most sacred names, On, Jesus Christ, Alpha and O. El, Eloy, Eloye, Sithothith. Eon, Sepmelamaton, Ezelphates, Tetragramaton, Elyoram, Ryon, Deseryon, Erystion, Ysyornus, Onela, Baysyn, Moyn, Messias. Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, and by all your secret names which are contained in this book, so that by the virtue, sanctity, and power of these names this book may be consecrated * and blessed * and confirmed * by the virtue of the sacrament of your body and blood, so that it may effectively, without any deception, [and] truly obtain the power that this book should obtain, for consecrating the bond of spirits, and for consecrating all corrupt experiments, and that they may have the fulness of virtue and power for which they are ordained, through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, who is seated on high, to whom be honour and glory throughout unending ages. Amen, amen, amen, amen, amen.

This second prayer then invokes all the heavenly powers to bless the book. The third and briefest simply calls upon Christ to bless the book. The procedure is then complete. If the operator later wishes to consecrate a particular experiment, or add a new one, he should use a series of further prayers, along with which he must say the Confiteor, take holy water, and make the sign of the cross on his forehead. At all times he must take care that this book, which the wise adepts (sapientissimi phisichi) dedicated to God's holy names, not fall into the hands of the foolish. Why this caution might be necessary becomes especially clear toward the end of the supplementary prayers, in which the 'exorcist or operator' specifically requests power to summon 'malign spirits' from wherever they may happen to be lurking.

THE MENTALITY OF THE NECROMANCERS AND THEIR OPPONENTS

It would be a mistake to think of necromancy as a peripheral phenomenon in late medieval society and culture. Secular as well as ecclesiastical courts took it seriously and at times executed those charged with its practice; monarchs and popes as well as commoners lived in fear of becoming its victims. This fear may have been in some cases or to some degree feigned or pathological, but it was also grounded in realistic awareness that necromancy was in fact being practised, and in an almost universally shared conviction that it could work.

The history of magic sometimes claims a place in academic study as a field within intellectual history. This claim is plausible when the subject is a writer such as al-Kindi or Marsilio Ficino, deeply concerned with the practical operation of magic but also with the philosophical principles by which magic worked. This is not the type of material I will chiefly be examining in this study. The focus here will be formulas of frankly demonic magic, with only the most meagre of intellectual pretensions; I wish to suggest, perhaps perversely, that such a text none the less repays close examination. The rites contained in a manual of necromancy are flamboyantly transgressive, even carrying transgression toward its furthest imaginable limits, and in today's academic environment one might justify studying them on these grounds. I am impelled more by a simple urge to grapple with late medieval culture in its entirety, including its most problematic and conflicted manifestations – warts and all, to use a fitting cliché – and to explore how the underside of the culture related to the side more often displayed. This too is part of the historian's challenge of discerning how things made sense in an alien culture.

First, then, the surviving necromantic texts provide a useful starting point for the sources of late medieval magic. Certain aspects of the necromancy laid out in these writings are clearly derived from the Arabic tradition of astral magic that became widely diffused in Europe from at least the thirteenth century onward. At times, as we shall see, the experiments are indebted to Jewish magical traditions, whether explicitly or implicitly, although the impact of Jewish magic on the forbidden rites of Christendom has been less studied and is harder to trace in detail than the influence of Arabic tradition. There are even materials in late medieval necromantic manuscripts closely resembling the magic of antiquity. It is often tempting to suppose that the forms of magical practice are essentially similar across cultures and throughout time, or at least over a very extended longue durée. Indeed, one might easily be persuaded that there is a history of the uses of magic and reactions to magic, but not a history of magic itself: virtually every magical technique one encounters appears so deeply rooted in tradition that magical practice seems essentially timeless and perennial. Indeed, it is possible to cite analogues and possible sources for late medieval magic from widely diverse cultures: in search of such parallels one could wander endlessly through thickets of the history of magic, from the Greek magical papyri of antiquity, through Arabic and Byzantine sources, and on to the grimoires of the early modern era. Yet when certain more or less well defined classes of practitioner take an interest in magic, they will adapt to their own use forms of magic taken from various sources. If the history of magic is to be anything other than a night in which all cats are black, it must attend to the characteristics of specific mélanges of magical tradition. The chief purpose of this study is therefore not to trace the history of individual elements but to reconstruct the configurations into which these elements enter: the patterns of magical practice worked in a particular historical setting, the relationship between these forms of magic and other aspects of the culture, and the perceptions of magic within that culture.

Furthermore, we cannot understand the opposition to magic in late medieval Europe without knowing fully what sorts of magic were being practised in that culture. Apart from the exempla by Caesarius of Heisterbach and others telling of the dangers of necromancy, there is considerable literature by late medieval theologians directed against these practices. For instance, the Paris theologians who in 1398 issued a general prohibition of magic were clearly aware of necromantic practices and concerned to eradicate them.²⁶ The theological literature against necromancy is incomprehensible without knowledge of the necromancers' formulas, and has at times been seriously misunderstood.²⁷ Nor can we understand the virulence of the critics' assault on magic without knowing the purposes magic was believed to serve. The glorification of the transgressive and the vilification of persecutors has perhaps too often blinded us to the recognition that much magic was intended for sexual coercion and exploitation, or for unscrupulous careerism, or for vigilante action against thieves that could easily lead to false accusations. I do not propose to moralize about these activities, but as a corrective to naive romanticizing I do want to make clear the kinds of magic one can expect to find in a late medieval source. It would be too much to claim that fear of clerical necromancy was a major source of pre-

Reformation anti-clericalism - in Boccaccio, for example, when clerics make pretence of magical power this is exercised in the service of their lechery, and lust rather than magic is the focus of the satire - but the realization that certain clerics were dabbling in conjuration could hardly have made a positive contribution to the image of the clergy at a time when for other reasons there was increasing distrust of priests and priestcraft.²⁸

If we neglect the literature of necromancy we cannot grasp what it is that the Humanist mages (Marsilio Ficino, Giovanni Pico, Johannes Reuchlin, Johannes Trithemius and others) so vigorously claimed not to be doing, or what they were often suspected of doing despite their protestations. Even the rise of the witch trials in the fifteenth century is related to increasing consciousness of this explicitly demonic magic. It was surely in large part because they were aware of the demonic magic described in these manuals and evidently practised in their midst that orthodox authorities often became sceptical about the notion of non-demonic, natural magic. They seem to have misconstrued ordinary magical procedures, interpreting them as working, like necromancy, through demonic agency.²⁹ Cesare Lanza hinted at the connection when he remarked in 1579, 'Today a lowly little woman does more than all the necromancers accomplished in the ancient world.'³⁰ In so far as necromancers contributed to the plausibility of claims about witches, they bear indirect responsibility for the rise of the European witch trials in the fifteenth and following centuries. To the extent that these early witch trials focused on female victims, they thus provide a particularly tragic case of women being blamed and punished for the misconduct of men: women who were not invoking demons could more easily be thought to do so at a time when certain men were in fact so doing.

Natural magic was always, in some quarters, a suspect category, and understandably so: its mechanisms remained unclear, and its claims to empirical confirmation were perhaps even by medieval standards not impressive. Demonic magic, in contrast, was a straightforward notion, and its efficacy was easy for virtually all medieval people to believe. Small wonder if for some authorities in late medieval Europe this became the paradigmatic form of magic, and if other forms came to be interpreted as implicitly grounded in demonic aid, so that a theologian, an inquisitor, or an educated lay judge might be sceptical about claims that some magic was natural rather than demonic.

More generally, knowledge of this material adds significantly to our understanding of later medieval clerical culture. A society that had a surplus of clergy inevitably spawned an underemployed and largely unsupervised 'clerical underworld' capable of various forms of mischief, including necromancy, and indeed this underworld seems to have been the primary locus for this explicitly demonic magic. Not all those accused of conjuring demons were clerics; the charge was attached at times to laymen and occasionally women.³¹ But the examples cited already suggest that clerics were disproportionately represented, and when we examine the Munich handbook of necromancy in following chapters what we will find there is a characteristically clerical form of magic, using Latin texts and presupposing knowledge of mainstream ritual.³² The beliefs and ritual operations found in necromancy mimic those of established rites, somewhat as the threads are the same on both sides of a tapestry, and the patterns they form on the underside are recognizably related to those on the front. One might even suggest that a culture in which ritual occupies so central a place will naturally if not inevitably engender forbidden rituals, somewhat as the production of a tapestry necessarily produces on the underside a distorted version of the intended image. The study of late medieval necromancy gives an exceptionally clear and forceful picture of the abuses likely to arise in a culture so keenly attentive to ritual display of sacerdotal power. Our own society, more fascinated with sexuality and its abuse, has its own concerns about miscreant priests and their abuse of young boys; the clerical misconduct most feared in the late Middle Ages was of a different order.

DEMONIC MAGIC AND THE THEORY OF RITUAL

I have spoken of demonic magic as the underside of the tapestry of late medieval ritual culture; more must be said about the character of magic as ritual. If the book of magic is on the one hand a magical book, an object possessing preternatural power, a habitation in which demons may even be supposed to reside, it is on the other hand a script whose formulas are meant for enactment, a guide for ritual action. The book of magic thus functions both as a repository of magical power and as a guide to magical process, a liturgical compendium with rites to be observed, scripts to be enacted. The rites of magic suggest questions analogous to those raised by any rites, even if they differ in the sources of power they mean to exploit. Three issues in the study of ritual are of particular relevance to our understanding of a necromantic text: the relationship between official (or public) and unofficial (or private) ritual; the efficacy ascribed to ritual, and the role of language in ritual.

Émile Durkheim and Marcel Mauss took the chief difference between religion and magic to lie in their social context. To paraphrase their perception, religion is the official observance of a collectivity (such as a Church), while magic is the unofficial practice of an individual (often on behalf of a client). But if one takes religion to be the spiritual practice of a community specifically acting as a community, one excludes private prayer – while if one takes it to be the spiritual practice sanctioned by a community, even when carried out individually, one relegates any and all disapproved practice, regardless of the grounds for disapproval, to the category of magic.³³ Eamon Duffy has emphasized that magical or superstitious formulas in charms share a common vocabulary with liturgical prayers, which already suggests the need for a nuanced sense of the relationship between religion and magic. The complexity of this relationship may be seen with particular clarity in the comparison of exorcism and conjuration. As we shall see in a later chapter, in medieval parlance these terms were used interchangeably, and the practices are in fact in all ways but one identical. What we now call exorcism was practised by an individual, usually a cleric (although some laypeople claimed the role), who addressed demons with formal commands, whose power was derived chiefly from the sacred realities invoked in the formulas of command. What we now call conjuring was also practised by an individual, usually a cleric, who addressed demons with formal commands essentially identical to those of the exorcists, again powerful by virtue of appeal to sacred realities. In neither case was the command automatically efficacious: both exorcists and conjurers reckoned on the possibility that the demons might resist their invocations and refuse compliance, in which case the rituals of command would be redoubled. Both the exorcist and the conjurer were engaged in spiritual wrestling matches with the demons, and in both cases they were keenly aware of the dangers. Exorcism was in principle carried out on behalf of a demoniac; conjurations could be done as ways of afflicting enemies, and could be carried out on behalf of clients. In both cases, then, the ritual performer was acting as an individual but within a social context. If exorcisms were allowed, at least to authorized clergy, while conjuring was prohibited to all, it was because of the one key difference: the exorcist's intent was to dispel the demons, while the conjurer's was to summon them, and mainstream opinion held that it was better to be rid of malign spirits than to invite them into one's life. Study of conjurations in subsequent chapters will suggest that there is no other essential difference between this form of magic and religious practices, and that it is better to perceive demonic magic as an illicit form of religion than as a cultural phenomenon distinct from religion.

The efficacy of magical rites, like that of any rituals, can be seen as real, objective, and (within the historical culture) rational, or as emotional, subjective, and symbolic: the magicians' operations may be viewed as actually accomplishing certain ends, or as symbolic expressions of their emotions and their desires. In Ludwig Wittgenstein's classic formulation, 'Magic . . . gives manifestation to a wish; it expresses a wish.'³⁶ Echoing such earlier formulations, Joseph Gusfield suggests that 'in symbolic behavior the action is ritualistic and ceremonial in that the goal is reached in the behaviour itself rather than in any state it brings about'.³⁷ This pragmatist perception of ritual may be useful as a way for an observer to excuse someone else's otherwise irrational practice, but there is little evidence that most practitioners themselves view the effect of their rites as merely expressive and not objectively effective.³⁸ Magic rituals in medieval Europe were clearly intended to produce results: to arouse passion, to drive people mad, to find stolen goods, and so forth. Judicial evidence makes it clear that the practitioners, the clients and the victims all expected magic to have objective effect, and when it did not this was because the specific practitioners were inept or did not perform rituals with sufficient strength to command the demons they summoned.³⁹

In one sense, however, Gusfield's formulation does apply to magic. Magical rites, like prayers of petition, may be used for practical ends, but any goals extrinsic to the ritual presuppose an effect intrinsic to it. The prayers and actions that constitute orthodox ritual first of all transform the relationship between the praying person and God, as also the relationship with the persons prayed for, with others in whose company one is praying, and with others throughout history who have said the prayer in question. If such ritual is transformative, the transformation is in the first instance one that occurs within the ritual itself. The participants in the ritual become different, and the network of relations in which they stand is reconfigured. Even if no further results ensue, for the duration of the ritual the world of the participant is transformed. Normally one undertakes a ritual with the expectation of further, extrinsic changes, moral or physical, but these are secondary, at least in a logical sense, however important they are to the participant: they are secondary because they presuppose a prior change within the ritual itself, an empowerment of the participant that then makes extrinsic change possible. Ritual can be effective for other purposes only if it first is effective as ritual. It can have secondary efficacy only by virtue of its primary efficacy. The principle holds in the case of magical rites, and perhaps most especially those involving demonic magic: even if they are undertaken for the sake of some practical end, that purpose can be accomplished only because within the ritual there is a transformed relationship between the magician and God, between the magician and the demons, and perhaps also between the magician and other humans. Calling upon the aid of God, the magician seeks power over the demons; the primary purpose of the ritual is to build sufficient power that the magician may compel the spirits to do his will. Only if within the ritual itself this transformation of power is attained can the magician accomplish any other goal.

The efficacy of ritual ex opere operato must be perceived in this light. Thomas Aquinas was stating the common perception of theologians in the later Middle Ages when he recognized the mass and sacraments as having objective effect independent of the disposition and moral status of the celebrant and minister. That ritual was inherently efficacious (ex opere operato), apart from any further effect to be gained by virtue of the minister's or participants' disposition (ex opere operantis), by no means meant that the rite was magical. Whether an operation qualified as magic or not depended chiefly on which powers it invoked: if it called upon celestial or manifest natural powers it was not magic, but if it appealed to demonic or occult natural powers it was magic.⁴⁰ Rituals that called upon angelic aid formed an ambiguous category, possibly but not necessarily magical, but mainly because the identity of the angel summoned might be in doubt.⁴¹

A ritual, magical or otherwise, could have efficacy ex opere operato precisely because it transformed the status of the performer and his or her relationship with God, with other spirits, and with humans. It was clearly this fear of the efficacy of magic ex opere operato that led an actor playing in the Jeu de Sainte Barbe in 1470 to make a notarized counterpact declaring that 'by the invocations and anathemas of the demons which he makes in the play . . . he does not intend to speak from the heart but only in the manner of the play, and that on that account the enemy of human kind, the devil, should not have any claim on his soul'.⁴² But the force of magical ritual was not in all respects analogous to that of other rites. Ordinary prayer and official ritual assume that the spirits invoked are in general well disposed toward humankind, and enter readily into a helping relationship. The praying person's invocation of God or a saint is an appeal to a benevolent being. In this respect the rituals of demonic magic differ from other rites: they invoke fallen spirits taken (by the necromancers as well as by their critics) to be unwilling, uncooperative, inimical and treacherous. The operations of demonic magic, more than other rituals, are thus explicit contests of wills. The necromancer recognizes a need to heap conjuration upon conjuration, and to buttress these formulas with supporting means of power, precisely because the demons are reluctant to come, and if they come will do everything in their power to escape the magician's control, threaten him, and deceive him. To gain the upper hand in the contest, the magician must hold the strongest possible means for power over the demons, and must adjure them in the name of all that is holy to come in non-threatening form, to cause no harm, and to tell only the truth. Yet all of these factors, far from undercutting Gusfield's analysis, actually strengthen it: they show how vitally important it was for the magician to focus his attention and his energies on the immediate consequences of his ritual action. His rites could be efficacious for extrinsic purposes only if they were first effective as rites, as ritual contests with cunning and powerful spiritual adversaries who could nevertheless be induced to fulfill his command.

The function of language within magical ritual is a subject to be explored in detail when we examine formulas of conjuration in a later chapter. The general topic is one S.J. Tambiah has discussed, with focus on the use of special languages, or the use of elements from various languages, in magical practice.⁴³ Necromantic conjurations of the late Middle Ages are almost entirely in Latin, which marks them not as specifically magical but as similar to ordinary liturgical formulas. Some experiments give formulas in what is said to be Chaldean, thus making an appeal to the authority of ancient Jewish magic analogous to that of later Christian Kabbalists. But when a child medium is used, he is sometimes licensed to conjure the spirits in the vernacular. On one level one might say that the choice of language is a matter of indifference: the demons or other spirits being conjured know all human tongues and can be addressed effectively in any of them. Yet in a different way the selection of language was important, because it was only formulas in Latin that were clearly related to the prayers of mainstream liturgy. Necromancers who had command of Latin and could use it to demonstrate the groundedness of their rites in the liturgical tradition of the Church could no doubt gain readier acceptance as authentic masters of their art. And even if demons could understand other languages, they seemed (like God) to pay special attention when addressed in Latin.

In any case, within medieval culture, magical words were seen as effective not per se but rather as means for evoking the effective presence of the archetypal powers to which they refer. Magical language is thus not in a simple sense the cause of efficacy but rather its occasion; the cause is a network of forces released and coordinated by the magician's verbal cue. The situation is analogous to that of the eucharist: the priest's utterance of the words of consecration is not the cause of transubstantiation but rather the divinely ordained occasion for divine intervention. One might suppose that this distinction is too subtle to have been clear to the common necromancer, but in fact the point is clearly articulated in the conjurations themselves, which not only acknowledge but insist that the sources of their own power are the archetypal forces they bring to bear upon the situation at hand.

The magic we are dealing with, then, borrows the conventions of liturgical prayer and has efficacy resembling that of the sacraments. In other respects, however, the fitting comparison is not so much with liturgy and sacraments as with the private devotions that were proliferating in the late Middle Ages, and the analogue to the book of magic is less the missal than the private prayer book. Ritual magic and devotions alike showed how liturgical formulas could be adapted for private and domestic use; indeed, one central point of devotionism was to provide a network of connections between church and home, bonding them in an increasingly complex relationship, and imparting to the home some of the fervour and sacrality of the church. Magic resembles the devotionism of the books of hours and other prayerbooks in its translation of official rites into an unofficial and largely private setting.⁴⁴ Books of magic, like books of devotion, proliferated in the expanding marketplace of privately owned and privately read texts.

PLAN OF THIS BOOK

The following chapter will introduce the manuscript to which this study is chiefly devoted. Subsequent chapters fall into two blocks. Chapters 3-5 examine the experiments according to the chief purposes for which they are performed: entertainment (illusionist experiments), power over other individuals (psychological ones), and knowledge (divinatory ones). The chief point of these chapters is to show that within this body of material there are in fact fairly clearly distinguishable subtraditions, and to sketch the common characteristics of each. Chapters 6-8, then, analyse the sources and techniques used to gain magical power, in particular the conjurations (and the demonology assumed by these conjurations), the magic circles, and the formulas of astral magic techniques that cut across the categories discussed in the earlier chapters, and thus represent elements of continuity within the diversity of necromantic practice.

Throughout the book I will give translations (my own, unless otherwise noted) of source material for the study of late medieval necromancy. Most of these passages are from the Munich handbook; to give a sense of the cultural context, I have included some material from other writings of the magicians and from writings about and against demonic magic. I have opted not to give a complete translation of the Munich handbook; both specialists and general readers, I assume, will be better served by selective translation of representative and particularly interesting passages (selected perhaps disproportionately but not exclusively from the earlier sections of the handbook), integrated into my analysis. This option seems especially appropriate given the largely repetitive nature of the material, and the need to situate it in its cultural context. The Latin text is, in any case, available at the end of the volume for those who wish to probe more deeply.

Notes

1 On the general topic of literacy in the late Middle Ages see Eamon Duffy, The Stripping of the Altars: Traditional Religion in England, 1400-1580 (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1992), 53-88; Malcolm B. Parkes, 'The literacy of the laity', in David Daiches and Anthony Thortby, eds, Literature and Western Civilization, 2 (London: Aldus, 1973), 535-77; Paul Saenger, 'Silent reading: its impact on late medieval script and society', Viator, 13 (1982), 367-414; and, for a somewhat earlier period, Brian Stock, The Implications of Literacy: Written Language and Models of Interpretation in the Eleventh and Twelfth Centuries (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1983).

2 See especially Peter Biller and Anne Hudson, eds, Heresy and Literacy, 1000-1550 (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1994); and Nicholas Watson, 'Censorship and cultural change in late-medieval England: vernacular theology, the Oxford translation debate, and Arundel's Constitutions of 1409', Speculum, 70 (1995), 822-64. On certain aspects of books as magical objects see Peter Ganz, ed., Das Buch als magisches und als Repräsentationsobjekt (Wiesbaden: Harrassowitz, 1992), esp. Brian P. Copenhaver, 'The power of magic and the poverty of erudition: magic in the Universal Library', 159-80.

3 Barthélemy Hauréau, Bernard Deltieux et l'Inquisition albigeoise, 1300-1320 (Paris, 1877), 143-65; Lea, History, vol. 3, 451f.; Conrad Eubel, 'Vom Zaubereienwesen anfangs des 14. Jahrhunderts (mit urkundlichen Beilagen)', Historisches Jahrbuch der Görres-Gesellschaft, 18 (1897), 628f.; Joseph Hansen, Zauberzaub, Inquisition und Hexenprozeß im Mittelalter, und die Entstehung der großen Hexenverfolgung (Munich: Oldenbourg, 1900; repr. Aalen: Scientia, 1964), 253f. The relevant documents are now available in Alan Friedlander, ed., Processus Bernardi Delitiosi: The Trial of Fr. Bernard Deltieux, 3 September-8 December 1319 (Transactions of the American Philosophical Society, 86/1) (Philadelphia: American Philosophical Society, 1996).

4 Joseph Hansen, ed., Quellen und Untersuchungen zur Geschichte des Hexenwuns und der Hexenverfolgung im Mittelalter (Bonn: Georgi, 1901; repr. Hildesheim: Olms, 1963), 2-4; Norman Cohn, Europe's Inner Demons: An Enquiry Inspired by the Great Witch-Hunt (London: Chatto, 1975), 193.

5 Eubel, 'Vom Zaubereiwesen', 609-25; Robert Michel, 'Le procès de Matteo et de Galeazzo Visconti: l'accusation de sorcellerie et d'hérésie, Dante et l'affaire de l'envoûtement (1320)', Mélanges d'archéologie et d'histoire, 29 (1909); Hansen, Zauberwahn, 333f.; Colin, Europe's Inner Demons, 192.

6 Pierre Luc, 'Un complot contre le Papa Benoit XIII (1406-7)', Mélanges d'archéologie et d'histoire de l'École de Rome, 55 (1938), 374-402.

7 Margaret Harvey, 'Papal witchcraft: the charges against Benedict XIII', in Derek Baker, ed., Sacred and Secular: The Church and the World (Oxford: Blackwell, 1973), 109-16; J. Vincke, 'Acta Concilii Pisani', Römische Quartalschrift, 46 (1938), esp. 183-208.

8 Gene A. Brucker, 'Sorcery in early Renaissance Florence', Studies in the Renaissance, 10 (1963), 19f., 23., citing G. Sanesi, 'Un episodio d'eresia nel 1383', Bullettino senese di storia patria, 3 (1896), 384f.

9 Brucker, 'Sorcery', 13-16, 22f.

10 Nicolaus Eymericus: Directorium inquisitionum, ii.43.1, (Rome: Georgius Ferrarius, 1587), also tells of having captured necromancers' books and had them burned in public.

11 Lynn Thorndike, A History of Magic and Experimental Science, 3 (New York: Columbia University Press, 1934), 511, citing Rudolf Dier de Muiden, Scriptum de magistro Gerardo, ed. G. Dumbar in Analecta seu retracta aliquot scripta inedita (Deventer, 1719), 1-12.

12 Quotation from the New Revised Standard Version. For a discussion of the distinctive setting at Ephesus see Clinton E. Arnold, Ephesians: Power and Magic: The Concept of Power in Ephesians in Light of its Historical Setting (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1989).

13 Francis A. Gasquet, ed., Collectanea Anglo-Praemonstratensia, 3 (London: Royal Historical Society, 1906), 117f. The text appears corrupt in more than one place, but the sense is sufficiently clear.

14 One might suggest that the term nigromantia not be re-Graecized as 'necromancy' but left as 'nigromancy'. While in some respects preferable, this usage would mistakenly suggest that medieval usage distinguished between two terms. Both DuCange's Glossarium (s.v. nigromantia) and the Oxford English Dictionary (s.v. 'necromancy') make it clear that nigromantia was not a term distinct from necromantia, but an alternative version of the same word, influenced by the Latin niger. Dives and Pauper, for example, is quoted as reading (in the 1496 printing), 'nygromancye, that is wythecrafte done by deed bodyes'. The equivalence thus conflated 'black divination' (construed broadly with reference to the magical arts in general, but at least by implication these arts conceived as demonic) with 'divination by consulting the dead'. The first part of the word was also at times spelled nygro-, nigro-, egro-, etc.

15 On this 'clerical underworld' see Richard Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1989), esp. 153-6.

16 Hjalmar Grohn, 'Die Summa theologica des Antonin von Florenz und die Schätzung des Weibes im Hexenhammer', Acta Societatis Scientiarum Fennicarum, 32/4 (Helsingfors, 1903).

17 See Lynn Thorndike, Michael Scot (London: Nelson, 1965), 120.

18 Mariano da Alatri, 'L'inquisizione a Firenze negli anni 1344/46 da un'istruttoria contro Pietro da l'Aquila', in Iudorus a Villapadierna, ed., Miscellanea Melchior de Pobladora, 1 (Rome: Institutum Historicum O.F.M. Cap., 1964), 225-49.

19 On the relationship between licit and illicit charms, see, e.g., Thomas Aquinas, Summa theologiae, II/II, q. 96, a. 4. and the comments of Heinrich Kramer (traditionally ascribed to him and Jakob Sprenger) in The Malleus maleficarum, ii.2.6, trans. Montague Summers (London: Pushkin, 1948), 179-88. Johannes Nider, in his Præceptorium divinae legi, summarized in Henry Charles Lea, Materials Toward a History of Witchcraft, ed. George Lincoln Burr, I (Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1939), 269f., explains that it is licit to adjure demons in an imperative mode but not in the deprecatory mode that he associates (incorrectly) with necromancers.

20 Jacques Paviot, 'Note sur un cas de sorcellerie à Dijon en 1463', Annales de Bourgogne, 65 (1993), 43-5.

21 G.G. Coulton, trans., Life in the Middle Ages, I (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1928), 162-63, from the Grandes Chroniques de St Denis, vol. 5, 269.

22 Duffy, The Stripping of the Altars, 266-87.

23 Frederic C. Tubach, Index exemplorum: A Handbook of Medieval Religious Tales (FF Communications, 204) (Helsinki: Suomalainen Tiedakatemia, Akademia Scientiarum Fennica, 1969), 61, no. 737.

24 For a list of possible explanations for the failure of magic, at least in one cultural setting, see E.E. Evans-Pritchard, Witchcraft, Oracles and Magic among the Azande (Oxford: Clarendon, 1937), 475-8.

25 There are two copies in Clm 849, on 52r-59v and 135r-139r, and both are edited below. In addition, there is fragmentary version in Bodleian Library Rawlinson MS D252, 85r-87v; and a French Livre de consecration in Trinity College Cambridge MS 0.8.29, fols 183r-186v.

26 Jean Gerson, Œuvres complètes, ed. Palémon Glorieux (Paris: Desclée, 1961-73), 10, pp. 86-90.

27 For example, Paul Diepgen, in 'Arnaldus de Villanova De improbatione maleficiorum', Archiv für Kulturgeschichte, 9 (1912), 385-403, clearly had no notion what necromancy entailed and was thus seriously mistaken regarding the intent of Arnald's work.

28 Giovanni Boccaccio, The Decameron, trans. Mark Musa and Peter Bondanella (New York: Mentor, 1982), 7.3, 7.5 (involving an alleged priest), 8.7 (involving a scholar) and 9.10.

29 See Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages, ch. 7.

30 Guido Ruggiero, Binding Passions: Tales of Magic, Marriage, and Power at the End of the Renaissance (New York: Oxford University Press, 1993), 211, 227.

31 E.g., Hansen, Quellen, 524-26, and Carl Buxtorf-Falkeisen, Baslerische Stadt- und Landesgeschichten aus dem sechzehnten Jahrhundert (Basle: Schweighausen, 1863-8), vol. 4, 1-25.

32 Duffy, The Stripping of the Altars, Ch. 6, is surely correct in arguing that knowledge of Latin was shared in varying degree by diverse sections of the population, and was not exclusive to the clergy. It is not the language of necromancy alone, but the command of ritual vocabulary and the assumption of entitlement to use that vocabulary that suggests the necromancers were primarily clerical, and this assumption is confirmed by images of the clerical necromancer found in literature as well as in the judicial records.

33 For discussion of a range of issues in the theory of ritual see Roy A. Rappaport, 'The obvious aspects of ritual', in Roy A. Rappaport, Ecology, Meaning and Religion (Richmond, CA: North Atlantic Books, 1979), 173-221.

34 Émile Durkheim, The Elementary Forms of Religious Life, trans. Karen E. Fields (New York: Free Press, 1995), esp. 39-44; M. Mauss, A General Theory of Magic, trans. R. Brain (London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1950).

35 Duffy, The Stripping of the Altars, ch. 8.

36 Ludwig Wittgenstein, Remarks on Frazer's 'Golden Bough' / Bemerkungen über Frazer's 'Golden Bough', ed. Rush Rhees, trans. A.C. Miles (Retsford: Brynmill, 1979) ('Die Magie aber bringt einen Wunsch zur Darstellung; sie äußert einen Wunsch'), discussed in Stanley Jeyaraja Tambiah, Magic, Science, Religion, and the Scope of Rationality (New York: Cambridge University Press, 1990), 54-63, and in Rodney Needham, Exemplars (Berkeley: University of California Press, 1985), 149-77.

37 Joseph Gusfield, Symbolic Crusade: Status Politics and the American Temperance Movement, 2nd edn (Urbana: University of Illinois Press, 1986), 21.

38 On this point see Richard Kieckhefer, 'The specific rationality of medieval magic', American Historical Review, 99 (1994), 813-36.

39 See, for example, the case of Niccolò Consigli, in Gene A. Brucker, ed., The Society of Renaissance Florence: A Documentary Study (New York: Harper & Row, 1971), 361-6.

40 Kieckhefer, 'The specific rationality', 813-36.

41 Invoking an angel established as unfallen, such as the archangels Michael or Gabriel, could be superstitious if the means of invocation were inappropriate (e.g., if one used circles and conjurations in calling upon them) but would not thereby have qualified as magical by medieval definitions.

42 Jacques Chiffolleau, La comptabilité de l'en-ded: les hommes, la mort et la religion dans la région d'Arignon à la fin du Moyen Âge (vers 1320-vers 1480) (Rome: Ecole française de Rome, 1980), 389, n. 92; translation from R.N. Swanson, Religion and Devotion in Europe, c. 1215-c. 1515 (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1995), 188.

43 Stanley J. Tambiah, 'The magical power of words', Man, n.s. 3 (1968), 175-208; also in Stanley J. Tambiah, Culture, Thought and Social Action (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 1985), 17-59.

44 For an overview of the subject see Richard Kieckhefer, 'Major currents in late medieval devotion', in Jill Raitt, ed., Christian Spirituality, 2 (New York: Crossroad, 1987), 75-108.

THE MUNICH HANDBOOK OF NECROMANCY: Clm 849

In other areas of medieval studies, the 'new philology' is urging renewed attention to particular manuscripts, with respect for their variant readings of texts as well as attention to their physical make-up, evidence of the ways they were used, the disposition of text on the page, and the relationship between text and images. The individual manuscript actually put together by medieval hands and used by medieval readers, rather than the artificial standardized edition, is increasingly seen as a means for understanding how texts functioned within their historical culture.¹ In the same vein, I wish to propose that for the history of magic – especially in the late Middle Ages – what we need most is a series of detailed studies of particular representative manuscripts. This more than any other type of study will contribute toward a concrete and realistic sense of how magicians conceived and represented their art, especially if it is possible to divine the process by which a manuscript was compiled, and to say something about the mentality of the compiler as it changed through different stages of compilation.

Clearly there were those in late medieval Europe whose interest in magic was more theoretical than practical. The monk of Sulby mentioned in Chapter 1 claimed that his fascination with the occult was purely theoretical or speculative. We know that William of Auvergne and Nicholas Eymericus studied works of magic in the interest of analysing them, refuting their assumptions, and condemning them more effectively, while Albert the Great and Roger Bacon had theoretical interests in the occult that grew in large part out of their scientific research. There may well have been many less known figures who took a keen interest in knowing about magic through widely disseminated books such as Picatrix, even if they did not intend to practise this learning.²

The magical texts probably of greatest interest from a theoretical or scientific viewpoint were integrally conceived and titled works, even if these were pseudonymous or anonymous, as opposed to miscellanies. Works integrally composed by single authors, such as al-Kindi or Marsilio Ficino, or pseudonymous works ascribed to Aristotle, were likely not only to prescribe recipes for specific purposes but to develop more or less explicit theories of occult process. Miscellanies might contain material that implies an understanding of how magic worked, but they were less likely to develop a theoretical viewpoint explicitly or coherently. To be sure, this distinction between an integrally conceived work and a miscellany is by no means rigid. While Picatrix is one of the great works of Arabic astral magic, infused with a more or less coherent theory of how magic operates,¹ it is also in large measure a compilation. The Pseudo-Albertan Book of Secrets is systematic in its organizing principles – it surveys the magical properties first of herbs (nettle, wild teasel, periwinkle, and so forth, one by one), then of stones, then of beasts, and finally of the planets – but the contents gathered under these headings might be found in a miscellany as well, without benefit of organizing structure. Yet while the distinction between an integrally conceived work and a miscellany is thus not absolute, it is none the less real.

It is a distinction worth noting, because the works of magic that survive from medieval Europe include large numbers of miscellanies, and in light of their importance they have been too little studied. When we read in a judicial record or a literary work of a magician who owned and used a book of magic, this is at least as likely to have been a miscellany as an integrally composed treatise. For while miscellanies may be of less interest from a theoretical viewpoint, they had compensating features that may often have made them more useful to the practising magician. The materials assembled in them were selected not to round off some theoretical notion of magic and its component parts, but because individually they were taken to be effective. They are documents of use, analogous to the Greek magical papyri.⁴ A treatise on conjuration, such as the Thesaurus necromantiae ascribed to Roger Bacon,⁵ may explain systematically how conjuring spirits works, and how different spirits are related to different astronomical bodies; a necromantic miscellany is more likely to lay out a single ‘experiment’ (experimentum, or, less often, experientia, a concrete and experienced application of ritual for magical effect), with all of the required preparations and conjurations, step by step. Historians of magic who are mainly interested in the field from the perspective of intellectual history or the history of science are likely to be drawn mostly to single-author treatises, but those interested in the actual practice of magic and its relevance to cultural, social, judicial, religious and political history must take a keen interest in miscellanies as well. Furthermore, whereas an integrated treatise claims to represent a point of view distilled and isolated from the course of its own development, a miscellany can more fully serve as a biographical document illustrating moments in the life of its compiler, presenting its reader with the challenge of discerning the trajectory of its compiler’s shifting interests.

Willy Braekman has edited the magical portions of a Middle Dutch miscellany of the fifteenth century, now at the Wellcome Historical Medical Library in London.⁶ This manuscript illustrates the variety of magical materials we might expect to find in a miscellany. Included along with non-magical material are experiments to identify the thief who has stolen milk, beer or wax; to become invisible; to see ‘extraordinary things’; to learn about past or future events; to ease childbirth; to transport oneself rapidly by use of an ointment (made of seven herbs, goat’s fat and bat’s blood). Various love charms or summoning experiments are given, as well as a procedure for preventing a wife from having intercourse with another man by tracing a circle around her genitals with the tail of a lizard.

In the category of magical trickery or parlour games are experiments to cause people to grow dirty while bathing; to cause white birds to hatch from the eggs of black birds; to make a newly hatched peacock white; to cause a woman to leap naked from her bath; to cause a dog to dance; to compel a horse to stand still; to hold a serpent in one's hand without harm, and to cause a horse to collapse as if dead. More useful are procedures to expel mice and flies by use of magical images. The manuscript gives the first half of a moon book, explaining the moon's influence under each zodiacal sign. And it includes a set of experiments ascribed to Solomon, and twelve experiments involving snake-skin, widely attributed to Johannes Paulinus but in fact translated from the Arabic. Most of the experiments in this manuscript are of natural magic, but not all: Braekman's no. 20, especially, calls upon 'the power and might of these spirits, Beheydras, Anleyuz, [and] Manitaynus', to aid in the magical seduction of a woman.

Bodleian MS Rawlinson D 252, a fifteenth-century English manuscript, contains formulas for explicitly demonic magic, to which Frank Klaassen has called my attention, and which he will describe in his own research now in progress. It is devoted chiefly to lengthy conjurations intended for divination, most often to detect thieves, although there are multi-purpose experiments as well. The bulk of the material is in Latin, but the manuscript also gives lengthy passages in Middle English. The manuscript differs from Braekman's Middle Dutch text in various ways, of which three are immediately apparent: it is more consistently devoted to magical experiments, most of its operations are for a particular kind of magic, and it more regularly calls upon the aid of demons. I will refer to this miscellany on occasion in following chapters.

CODEx LATINUS MONACENSIS 849

We turn now to the specific focus of this study, a fifteenth-century manuscript in the Bavarian State Library, Clm 849, and in particular the texts on folios 3 through 108 of this manuscript. (The material on the following folios is related in kind and approximately contemporary but in different hands and different languages, and evidently not intended as part of the same compilation.) The compiler of this main block of material was evidently German; the appended materials seem to have come from various sources, and one passage contains a formula in Italian.⁷ The manuscript is a small one, approximately 8¼ inches high and 5½ inches wide. The description of this manuscript in the published catalogue is nondescript: it appears there as a book of incantations, exorcisms and sundry bewitchments.⁸ Lynn Thorndike made no reference to it in his monumental History of Magic,⁹ and while he did cite it briefly in a later article published in a festschrift,¹⁰ it has generally been neglected in the literature on witchcraft and magic. In my survey of Magic in the Middle Ages I highlighted this text, but without examining it fully and systematically.¹¹ Yet it deserves careful attention, not because it was influential but because of what it represents. It is a rare example, essentially intact, of what must once have been a flourishing genre: the manual of explicitly demonic magic, or necromancy. It is clearly a miscellany, with little linkage, clustering or other organization of its materials, and no effort to develop a coherent theory to support or explain the 'experiments' it contains. Yet its limitations are also its strengths: the lack of a systematic framework means that each section, essentially self-contained, has a coherence and clarity often lacking in more fully developed writings.

The first two folios of the manuscript are missing, a circumstance which may help to explain how the manuscript evaded detection and thus survived. (Indeed, it is not uncommon for the first folio of a magical manuscript to be missing.)¹² The 107 folios that remain in the main block (rectifying an error in foliation gives us one extra folio) are devoted primarily to a series of forty-two magic experiments. Interspersed with these are a version of the Liber consecrationum (no. 31); a list of spirits, with descriptions of the forms in which they appear and the functions they perform (no. 34); a manual of astral magic (no. 37); a list of favourable and unfavourable days for writing magical inscriptions (no. 46); and a fragment of a chemical prescription, with a gloss in the German language (no. 47).

All but a few of the experiments fall into the three main categories. There are twelve illusionist experiments, designed to make things appear other than as they are – to conjure forth an illusory banquet or castle, to obtain a wondrous means of transportation (usually a demon in the form of a horse) that will carry the magician across land or water, or to make a dead person seem alive or vice versa. Seven psychological experiments are intended to have influence on people's intellects or wills – to arouse love or hatred, to gain favour at court, to constrain the will of others, or to drive a person mad. Fully seventeen experiments are divinatory techniques for gaining knowledge of future, past, distant or hidden things. Most of these experiments entail catoptromancy, or scrying: the magician's assistant, usually a young boy, stares at a reflecting surface until he sees figures, taken here to be apparitions of spirits, who can reveal the desired information. As should become clear in following chapters, these three types of experiment are significantly different from one another: we find an element of playful fantasy in the illusionist experiments, an often violent effort at coercion in the psychological ones, and an insistence on detecting truth and righting wrongs in most of the divinatory ones. Differences in tone and in purpose are accompanied by variations in technique: conjuring spirits is of central importance in most of the experiments, but the magic circle plays its most prominent role in the illusionist rituals, sympathetic magic is more prevalent in the psychological experiments, and scrying is itself the key to most of the divination. Rather than a single technique, the necromancy of this handbook represents a congeries of distinct procedures, most of which can be sorted fairly neatly into these three categories.

Roughly speaking, we can say that the moving forces behind the magic of the handbook are the exercise of imagination, the hunger for power and the thirst for knowledge. To be sure, all three elements are at work in all the necromantic experiments. One might say that the main issues raised by the practice of necromancy are those of the relationship between sacrality and power: the necromancers perceived their art and office as sacred and saw themselves as invoking the sacred powers of heaven by which they could constrain the equally numinous but malign and treacherous powers of hell. At the same time, one must recognize that all these experiments required exercise of imagination and were inspired in large part by curiosity. Yet the characteristic emphases differ, and we may safely generalize that it is the imaginative element which dominates in the illusionist experiments, the quest for power in psychological experiments, and the yearning for knowledge in the divinatory ones.

All forms of necromancy presupposed and played upon tensions. Basic to illusionist experiments was the tension between fantasy and reality, all within the border realm in which readers and practitioners were asked to suspend their disbelief, or perhaps rather to entertain possibilities that would normally defy belief but within this ritual context might gain credibility. In psychological experiments the tension was chiefly between the will of the necromancer and that of the victim over whom the master sought to exercise his power. In divinatory experiments it was perhaps most importantly a tension between truth and deception; these rituals were intended to ascertain truth but left themselves open to the constant hazard of error.

The materials in the manuscript that do not fit into these three categories are a procedure for gaining knowledge with the aid of a demon tutor (no. 1), a brief experiment called the 'Key of Pluto' for opening all locks (no. 26), a fragmentary operation for averting harm (no. 44), a chemical recipe (no. 47), and generic materials that can serve diverse ends (nos 31, 32, 34, 36, 37, 42 and 46).

Strikingly absent from this compilation are magical rituals for healing and protection and necromantic procedures for inflicting bodily harm or death. The judicial records provide ample evidence of necromancers charged with undermining the health of their victims, and other necromantic literature evidently provided guidelines for such magic. The compiler of this manuscript seems not to have been a man of conventional morality or scrupulous disposition, yet he seems also not to have taken an interest in these kinds of magic. Not all necromantic manuals were squeamish in this regard. The Key of Solomon insists that magic must be used only to glorify God and extend kindness to neighbours, but in fact the work prescribes methods for causing enmity, war, death, destruction, and so forth; as E.M. Butler says, the intentions 'seem to have been of the best; but they were literally of the kind which pave the way to hell'.¹³

The following table shows the order of the forty-two experiments and other materials, most of which are assigned to three broad categories: psychological ('Psych.'), illusionist ('Illus.'), and divinatory ('Divin.'). The numbers for each item are editorial additions.

Table A. Experiments in Clm 849, fols 3–108

| No. | Purpose | Fols | Type |
|------------|---|-------------|-------------|
| 1. | For gaining knowledge of the liberal arts | 3r–5v | |
| 2. | For causing a person to lose his senses | 6r–7v | Psych. |
| 3. | For arousing a woman's love | 8r–11v | Psych. |
| 4. | For gaining dignity and honour | 11v–13v | Psych. |
| 5. | For arousing hatred between friends | 13v–15r | Psych. |
| 6. | For obtaining a banquet | 15r–18v | Illus. |
| 7. | For obtaining a castle | 18v–21r | Illus. |
| 8. | For obtaining a boat | 21r–23r | Illus. |
| 9. | For obtaining a horse | 23v–25v | Illus. |
| 10. | For resuscitating a dead person | 25v–28r | Illus. |
| 11. | For invisibility | 28r–29v | Illus. |
| 12. | For obtaining a woman's love | 29v–31v | Psych. |
| 13. | For constraining a man, woman, spirit or beast | 32r–33r | Psych. |
| 14. | For obtaining a horse | 33v–34r | Illus. |
| 15. | For obtaining a flying throne | 34r–35v | Illus. |
| 16. | For finding something in sleep | 35v–36r | Divin. |
| 17. | For obtaining a horse | 36r–36v | Illus. |
| 18. | The mirror of Floron, for revelation of past, present and future | | |
| | | 37r–38r | Divin. |
| 19. | The mirror of Floron, second version | 38r–39v | Divin. |
| 20. | Another way of using a mirror | 39v–40v | Divin. |
| 21. | For invisibility | 40v | Illus. |
| 22. | For discovering a thief or murderer by gazing into a vessel | | |
| | | 41r–42r | Divin. |
| 23. | First mirror of Lilith | 42r–43r | Divin. |
| 24. | For learning about any uncertain thing by gazing into a crystal | | |
| | | 43r–43v | Divin. |
| 25. | For information about a theft by gazing into a crystal | 43v–44r | Divin. |
| 26. | Key of Pluto, for opening all locks | 44v | |
| 27. | For obtaining information about a theft by gazing into a fingernail | | |
| | | 44v–45v, | |
| | | 51r, | |
| | | 46v–47v | Divin. |
| 28. | For obtaining information by gazing at a bone | 47v–49r | Divin. |
| 29. | The true art of the basin | 49r–49v | Divin. |
| 30. | Twelve names for making spirits appear in a boy's hand | 49v–50v | Divin. |
| 31. | The Book of Consecrations | 52r–59v | |
| 32. | Conjuration of Satan/Mirage | 59v–62v | |

| No. | Purpose | Fols | Type |
|------------|---|-------------|-------------|
| 33. | For obtaining information from a mirror | 62v-65r | Divin. |
| 34. | List of spirits | 65v-65r bis | |
| 35. | For obtaining a woman's love | 65r bis-67v | Psych. |
| 36. | Generic preparation for conjuring spirits | 67v-68v | Divin. |
| 37. | Manual of astral magic | 68v-96v | |
| 38. | For obtaining information about a theft by gazing into a fingernail | 96v-99v | Divin. |
| 39. | For obtaining information by gazing into a fingernail | 99v-103r | Divin. |
| 40. | For obtaining information about a theft by gazing into a fingernail | 103r-105v | Divin. |
| 41. | For discovering hidden treasure in sleep | 106r-106v | Divin. |
| 42. | The name Semiforas | 106v-107r | |
| 43. | For obtaining a horse | 107r-107v | Illus. |
| 44. | Fragment of an experiment for averting harm | 107v | |
| 45. | For invisibility | 107v-108r | Illus. |
| 46. | Favourable and unfavourable days of the month for inscriptions | 108r-108v | |
| 47. | Fragment of a chemical prescription
(with a note in German) | 108v | |

After the first (truncated) experiment in the manual, an entire series of fourteen experiments can be gathered into four clusters, two psychological and two illusionist:

Cluster I: Nos 2-5 (for inflicting dementia, gaining the love of any woman, obtaining dignity and honour, arousing hatred between friends)

Cluster II: Nos 6-11 (for obtaining a banquet, obtaining a castle, obtaining a boat, obtaining a horse, resuscitating a dead person, obtaining invisibility)

Cluster III: Nos 12-13 (for obtaining a woman's love, constraining a man or woman or spirit or beast)

Cluster IV: Nos 14-15 (for obtaining a horse, obtaining a flying throne)

Much less of the subsequent material falls into clusters, and the groupings that do occur are devoted exclusively to divination (unless we count the astral magic of no. 37 as itself constituting a cluster):

Cluster V: Nos 18-20 (the mirror of Floron, alternative version of same, another way of using a mirror)

Cluster VI: Nos 22-25 (for discover a thief or murderer by gazing into a vessel, first mirror of Lilit[h], for knowing about any uncertain thing by gazing into a crystal, for information about a theft by gazing into a crystal)

Cluster VII: Nos 27–30 (for obtain information about a theft by gazing into a fingernail, for obtaining information by gazing at a bone, the true art of the basin, twelve names to make spirits appear in boy's hand)

Cluster VIII: Nos 38–41 (for obtaining information about a theft by gazing into a fingernail, for obtaining information by gazing into a fingernail, for obtaining information about a theft by gazing into a fingernail, for discovering hidden treasure in sleep)

Before no. 35 the manuscript gives the heading, 'Here begin good and tried experiments', which suggests that the compiler either reordered materials he was taking from elsewhere or copied this particular experiment from the beginning of some other compilation. The arrangement of folios within the gatherings is highly erratic (with many folios excised, and others elsewhere inserted), but apart from the two folios missing from the front of the manuscript, there is in general a high degree of continuity both within and between the gatherings, the main exception being in the apparently careless fragmentation of experiment no. 27.¹⁴ This discontinuity existed already, and the folios in question had already been excised, at the time of the original (fifteenth-century) foliation. In other words, it is likely that we have the necromancer's manual nearly intact, and possible that, despite the codicological complexity, the discontinuities that exist are the result of the compiler's carelessness rather than later loss of text or errors in binding.

Following all this material from fols 3 through 108 are 48 originally separate folios, 109–156, which again contain miscellaneous material: a conjuration of a demon named Mirage (given fols 109r–118r and again fols 139r–146r); German magico-medical prescriptions (fols 119r–132v); a series of divinatory experiments (fols 133r–134v), with a short 'prayer' in Italian (asking God to ensure the truth of the ensuing revelation) to be recited into the ear of a child who serves as medium;¹⁵ the Liber consecracionum (fols 135r–139r); a lunar calendar (fol. 146r); instructions for magical circles (fol. 146v); a treatise on astral magic, the Opus Zoal et angelorum et spirituum eius (fols 147r–154v), and a German book of lunar astrology (fols 155r–156v). This material will be discussed here mainly in so far as it resembles or otherwise relates to the main block of material. The only materials from folios 109–156 that are edited here are the second version of the Liber consecracionum (given along with no. 31, in parallel columns) and the conjuration of Mirage (given alongside no. 32, in parallel columns).

It may seem – and may indeed be – hazardous to devote such attention to a manuscript that survives in this condition. It is possible that the missing first folio contained a title, named an author, or gave other information that would be important for locating this text within its historical context. If we had such information we might be able to tell more confidently whether this compilation is in fact unique or whether there are other copies.¹⁶ While recognizing the hazards of proceeding with this project, I am moved to do so chiefly by the conviction that this is an exceptionally rich and interesting compilation, that one of the most urgent needs in the history of magic is detailed analysis of specific manuscripts representative of the materials magicians are likely to have used, and that such texts thus hold significance going well beyond their meagre intellectual pretensions. I will make some effort to situate the component parts of the text within their literary context – to cite sources and parallels. For the most part, however, I will focus on the contents of this specific compilation, this microcosm of clerical magic as it was known in the late Middle Ages.

NECROMANCY AND NECROMANCERS IN FIFTEENTH-CENTURY MUNICH

The fact that our necromantic manuscript is now in the Bavarian State Library is not, of course, any indication that it came originally from Munich or even from Bavaria, but its inclusion among the earlier codices of the collection suggests that, wherever its materials were first assembled, they may have been brought to Munich and acquired by the ducal library at an early date. Even if this connection is conjectural, it may thus be interesting to inquire what we know of the practice and perception of necromancy in late medieval Munich. The short answer to this question is that not a great deal is known about necromancers and necromancy specifically in and around Munich in the fifteenth century, yet there are some clues that may help place Clm 849 within a general historical context.

The witch trials conducted in the Dauphiné during the years 1428–47 provide an interesting side light of possible relevance. One of the many subjects brought before the judges in this campaign was a sixty-year-old man, Jubertus of Bavaria, from Regensburg, tried in 1437 at Briançon.¹⁷ Apart from accusations more or less typical of the incipient prosecution for conspiratorial witchcraft (flight to nocturnal assemblies, killing of infants, etc.), Jubertus was charged with activities more often found in connection with clerical necromancy:

First, the aforesaid Jubertus said and confessed, under freely taken oath . . . that he is sixty years of age, and that for ten years and more he served a certain powerful man in Bavaria who was called Johannes Cunalis, who is a priest and plehanus, in a city called Munich in Bavaria, near Bohemia.

Likewise, he said and confessed that this Johannes Cunalis had a book of necromancy [librum de nigromancia], and that when he who spoke opened this book at once there appeared to him three demons, one named Luxuriosus, another Superbus, and the third Avarus, [all of them] devils. And the first appeared to him in the form of a charming maiden of twelve years, and she slept with him at night and took their pleasure together.

Likewise, during the night he adored that devil as a god, on bended knee, then turned his posterior toward the east and made a cross on the ground, and spat on it three times, and trampled on it three times with his left foot, and urinated and defecated on it, and wherever he saw a cross he spat upon it and thrice denied God.

Likewise, at dawn he adored Superbus in the same way . . .

Likewise, he gave Superbus what was left over when he ate and drank, and to Luxuriosus he gave three or five pence on Holy Friday before Easter, and he committed both his bodily members and his soul after death. And these devils wanted him to deny that God whom they called an accursed prophet [maledictum prophetam], and when he adored those three demons as gods he turned his face toward the west and his posterior toward the east, saying what he said, and when he had his dealings with Luxuriosus the others laughed. . . .

Likewise, he said that when he passed along the roads and was with the demons and found a cross, the devils fled from it and made a great detour around it, and they forbade him to do good deeds and to adore the sacred host, and when it was elevated he was to close his eyes, and they forbade him to take holy water and to kiss the cross or the pax [=osculatory], asserting that they alone were almighty gods.

Likewise, he said and confessed that on Sunday, the seventeenth of this month, all three demons were standing with him in prison, and their eyes glowed like sulphurous fire, and they said to the prisoner that they would guard him well if he did not reveal these things. Then he had dealings and mingled carnally with Luxuriosus, and he said furthermore that these demons would have freed him from prison if he had not revealed these things.

Likewise, he said and confessed that these devils then told him that he would be examined more subtly the next day, and that he would have to tell the full truth, and that he would thus be given over to death . . .

Likewise, he said and confessed that once he was passing with his master through a forest in which there were thieves, but they put them to flight with a multitude of devils who appeared in the form of soldiers. He said further that the world is filled with invokers of demons, and that these devils profit greatly from these things, especially because the world is full of sins, wars and dissensions.

Likewise, he said and confessed that one night with the aid of demons his master had a bridge constructed over a river in Bavaria at a place called Sancta Maria Heremita.¹⁸

Likewise, he said and confessed that he had proposed to blind Johanneta, the widow of Johannes Paganus of the present place, because she displeased him. With two keys he had traced her image, in a manner and form which he explained in the examination; he did this on a Sunday, depicting her image beneath the name[s] of devils, using implements, materials and techniques described in the examination, just as he had done in the duchy of Austria in the case of a man called Johannes Fabri of Vienna. And he had disclosed this deed and boasted of it before his capture. . . .

Likewise, he said and confessed that about two years ago he was in the city of Vienna in Austria, and one Thursday there were three drunken cooks in a tavern who refused to let him drink, and when they withdrew at a late hour one of them said to the other two, 'Get up, in the devil's name, and let me pass by!' And at once, at the behest of the accused, all three demons of his master seized those three, snatched them out the door, and cast one of them into a well, another into the sewer or privy of the Dominicans, and the third into the privy of the Franciscans, and none of them but the one cast into a well was killed, the others being freed by the friars at the time of matins.

Likewise, he said and confessed that poisons were made by the aid of devils, by which men could be killed, through their working or by the aid of demons, either at once or in a lingering death, according to the will of the one administering, and according as more or less of the poison is administered, in the name of the devil, in a manner and form contained in the examination, and taken from a basilisk, toad, serpent, spider or scorpion. . . .

Likewise, he said and confessed that when he was passing through the roads and saw images of the Virgin Mary or a cross, he spat at them three times in despite of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, and that on the feast of Saint John the Baptist he gathered certain herbs for medicine, as specified in the proceedings, and on bended knees he first adored them, then extracting them in the name of his devils, and in despite of almighty God, the creator of all. . . .

The link between necromancy and witchcraft emerges also from the work of Johannes Hartlieb (c. 1400–68). Hartlieb served the duke of Bavaria in Munich during the last three decades of his life, and between 1456 and 1464 he wrote Das buch aller verpoten kunst (The Book of All Forbidden Arts) at the behest of Margrave Johann ('the Alchemist') of Brandenburg-Kulmbach.¹⁹ Some have seen the work as marking a departure from earlier work of Hartlieb's that dealt with the occult arts in a more sympathetic manner, but the attribution of most of these works is at best doubtful: writings that he had in his library and consulted to inform himself about the occult arts were in some instances falsely ascribed to him. Some have read Das buch aller verpoten kunst as a clever excuse for relating otherwise forbidden information to a curious reader, but Hartlieb does not give enough particulars for his work to be of much use in magical practice. Frank Furbeth is surely correct in placing the work in a tradition of catechetical writings for lay instruction, influenced in particular by Nicholas Magni of Jawor and by the work of certain contemporary Viennese writers.²⁰ Hartlieb lists necromancy (nigramancia) as the first of the seven forbidden arts, along with geomancy, hydromancy, aeromancy, pyromancy, chiromancy and spatulamancy. His chapter 22 defines the term:

Nygramancia is the first forbidden art, and is called the black art. This art is the worst of all, because it proceeds with sacrifices and services that must be rendered to the devils. One who wishes to exercise this art must give all sorts of sacrifices to the devils, and must make an oath and pact [verpintnuß] with the devils. Then the devils are obedient to him and carry out the will of the master, as far as God permits them. Take note of two great evils in this art. The first is that the master must make sacrifice and tribute to the devils, by which he denies God and renders divine honors to the devils, for we should make sacrifices only to God, who created us and redeemed us by his passion. The other is that he binds [verpint] himself with the devil, who is the greatest enemy of all humankind.²¹

Hartlieb's categorization adapts that of Nicholas Magni and harks to much earlier discussions of the branches of the magic arts. Isidore of Seville, who deals with magic and especially magical divination in his Etymologies,²² speaks of four species of divination which employ the four elements (geomancy, hydromancy, aeromancy and pyromancy), but among other forms of divination mentions the necromantici who resuscitate and interrogate the dead. Hugh of St Victor's Didascalicon borrows from Isidore, but organizes the divisions of magic into five categories, of which the first, mantice, includes divination by necromancy and by the four elements.²³ Hartlieb cites Isidore of Seville's more restricted use of the term 'necromancy', for conjuring the shades of the dead, but he himself uses it in the broader sense, essentially interchangeable with 'demonic magic'.²⁴

As indicated, Hartlieb's portrayal of necromancy displays close links between this art and the conspiratorial witchcraft that was emerging in both trials and treatises at the time he wrote. The necromancer conjures the Devil with characters and secret words, with fumigations and sacrifices, in addition to making a pact with the Devil.²⁵ The Devil acts as if the conjurer caused him pain by his exorcizing and conjuring (besuern und pannen), although they actually give him great satisfaction. In all these respects he might be taken as describing the conspiratorial witch, although his explicit subject is the necromancer. Hartlieb even discusses early witch trials at Rome and at Heidelberg within the context of necromancy.²⁶ Hartlieb's reading and experience were wide: he claims to have consulted with Greeks, Tartars, Turks and Jewish women about the practice of these forbidden arts.²⁷ His book is thus by no means specifically about the magic practised in and around Munich. But it was while serving as counsellor to the Duke of Bavaria that he gathered information from diverse sources, making his study at Munich in effect a clearing house for knowledge about magical activities.

The early history of Clm 849 is not established,²⁸ and its ownership obviously cannot be demonstrated. It is tempting to speculate that Hartlieb had it at his disposal, along with numerous other books of necromancy and the allied arts. Many of the practices Hartlieb describes are laid out in Clm 849 (e.g., the anointing of a boy's fingernail for scrying, or the conjuring of a demon in the form of a horse for magical transportation), although, to be sure, there is little if anything in his work that he could not have derived from other sources. Those eager to fill in all the blanks might suggest that Jubertus actually consorted with Johannes Cunalis, the priest of Munich, and that the Munich handbook of necromancy was in fact the liber de nigromancia owned and used by this cleric. The spontaneous appearance of Luxuriosus, Superbus and Avarus would on this interpretation would have to be a way of talking about the spirits which inform such a book – and it is perhaps no distortion to suggest that the spirit of lust (luxuria) is one main incentive for the psychological experiments, the spirit of pride (superbia) is a prime factor in the illusionist ones, and the spirit of avarice (avaritia) is a key motive of the necromancer, and sometimes of his client, for staging the divinatory ones.

Even if it were possible to establish a clear connection between Clm 849, Jubertus and Hartlieb, one would hesitate to speak of Munich as in any special way a centre for the practice of necromancy, or to postulate a distinctive character to the magic used there. In all likelihood necromancy was studied and practised within a kind of clerical underworld through much if not most of Western Europe in the later Middle Ages. We have no reason to suppose that Munich was in this respect different from any other city.

THE COMPOSITION OF THE MUNICH HANDBOOK

For reasons I have already touched upon, any discussion of how Clm 849 came to be compiled must remain conjectural: the first two folios are missing, the provenance of the manuscript remains obscure, there are no indications of either authorship or ownership, and the disposition of the manuscript is complex. Nonetheless, we can make some reasonable assumptions about the process by which this handbook came into existence, and thus about the workings of the 'clerical necromancy' that would have produced and employed such a book.

We cannot speak of the writer of this manual as its 'author', because we do not know to what extent he devised the formulations that he gives, or how far he merely reproduced other people's work. In some cases he deliberately gave alternative forms of demons' names,²⁹ which suggests that he was working from a previous manuscript and was unsure of the reading. The writer's own orthography was highly erratic; within the same experiment he sometimes slipped from one version to another in his names for demons, and while the variations were sometimes slight they were not always so.³⁰ (At the end of the fifteenth century, Humanist mages such as Johannes Reuchlin protested that the debased magic of contemporary necromancers could have no effect because the very names they used for the spirits were corrupt; the present manuscript might have served as a case in point.)³¹ Whether the writer composed badly or copied badly, one constant factor in the manuscript is that its Latin usage is unconventional by medieval (let alone classical or Humanist) standards. In one experiment the writer speaks of a 'whole white dove' (columbam totam albam) when he means a 'totally white dove' (columbam totaliter albam); he writes that a woman 'will love all things above you' (super te omnia diligit) when he clearly means the reverse; he confuses 'without' (sine) with 'or' (sive), and he evidently substitutes 'prepare' (parare) for 'obey' (parere).³² More often than one would expect, he leaves other words out altogether. At times his sentences give way to grammatical nonsense. The formula 'May your arts fail . . . as Jamnes and Mambres failed' (Deficiant ergo artes tuae . . . sicut defecerunt Iamnes et Mambres), referring to the names of Pharaoh's magicians according to a tradition reflected in II Timothy 3:8, is given once in the main block of Clm 849, and twice in later sections of the manuscript, by two different hands (no. 32). But in the main block the point of the allusion is lost and the comparison comes out in utterly garbled form as 'May your arts fail . . . so you and members have now ceased' (sic cessauerunt jam vos et memeros), while in the other versions the passage begins 'Your ears will fail' (Deficient ergo aures tuae . . .).

What seems quite clear is that the writer was a cleric – probably a priest, and at least a person in minor orders. His use of Latin makes this a prima facie likelihood, even if his Latin is bad. The more compelling evidence is his assumption that the user of the manual will, like him, be acquainted with ritual forms used in the Church's services: he gives the opening line of Psalm 50 (from the Vulgate) and assumes the user will know the text (no. 33); he prescribes the seven (penitential) psalms and the litany (of the saints) and presumes that these too will be familiar and accessible (no. 36). In short, the work appears clearly a product of that clerical underworld in which late medieval necromancy seems to have found something of a natural home. It may have been exercised and feared as a means for gaining otherwise elusive power within a competitive clerical establishment. It may have been a pastime for underemployed clerics with time on their hands and a fondness for this quintessentially clerical form of dark and daring entertainment. It may have been a service rendered to credulous clients by unscrupulous providers of ritual. Like the Ouija board in latter day culture, it may well have been all of the above, an amusement constantly in danger of becoming serious, dark and threatening.

In certain important respects there are shifts in the content and tone of the manuscript, suggesting changes in the compiler's interests and his attitudes toward the material. Along with a shift from illusionist and psychological experiments to rites of divination comes a general flattening of the prose. It is in the front of the manual that the writer is inclined to tell entertaining anecdotes and to provide testimonials to the authenticity and efficacy of the rituals. The earlier materials suggest more authorial self-consciousness, a clearer sense of authorial voice. Later sections are less developed with narrative and other embellishments. Even the magic circles required for the experiments and illustrated in the manuscript tend to become less complex and less interesting in the later sections of the compilation. The manual shifts also in its engagement of the reader. In the earlier experiments the writer regularly addresses the reader in a direct and personal manner, urging him to 'attend carefully' (no. 2), taking him into his confidence by entrusting him with secret information (nos 4 and 9), reminding him of a situation in which he has seen the master perform an experiment (no. 6), and referring to his own needs and desires – 'If you want to have the love of any woman . . .' (no. 3), 'If you wish to infuse a spirit into a dead person so that he appears alive . . .' (no. 10), 'If you wish to be taken for invisible and imperceptible . . .' (no. 11), 'If you wish to know about any matter on which you are doubtful . . .' (no. 24). Subsequent experiments are couched in far more impersonal rhetoric; the reader is instructed with blunt imperatives and subjunctives, with no expression of interest in entertaining him or engaging his interest. The later materials are less ambitious in their imaginative depth, but more ambitious in laying out procedures likely to be put to actual use.

The most basic question about the actual composition of the book is whether it is taken from a single source (as a set of excerpts from a cohesive treatise or as a copy of some previous miscellany) or from multiple sources. The latter scenario seems far more plausible, largely because there are occasional discontinuities that suggest the compiler was working with a collection of unbound materials that were not in perfect order, and he was perhaps not certain about where to fit them into his series of experiments. The effect was similar to that of assembling diverse materials in a scrapbook and finding that some of the odds and ends assembled are not complete or entirely coherent. This type of discontinuity would have been possible if the writer had been drawing excerpts from a cohesive work or copying an earlier miscellany, but in the former case one might have expected the individual units to remain cohesive, and in the latter one might have thought the copyist would have rationalized or deleted the incoherent fragments. At any rate, it appears not at all unlikely that the materials bound together with the main handbook are examples of the sort of material from which the compiler worked. My hypothesis is that the compiler and scribe took a lively interest in various kinds of magical materials, put together a personal collection of them from various sources, and had readily at hand perhaps both bound and unbound writings of diverse character and provenance (at least one bit of appended material contains a fragment of Italian); that the materials that he copied into his own anthology represent his own selection (and perhaps, as in the abridgement and reformulation of the conjuration of Mirage,³³ his own adaptation) from this body of material, and that when his own compilation was originally bound, or perhaps when at some later date it was rebound, some of his sources may have been appended to it, perhaps simply those of compatible format, forming fols. 109–56. This hypothesis rests solely on the partial overlapping of contents between the main block and the appended material, not on paleographic or codicological evidence; indeed, it could be argued that at least some of the appended material seems to be by later hands, although the chronological ordering would be difficult to establish with confidence.

Alternative hypotheses cannot be altogether dismissed. It is possible, for example, that the compiler worked simultaneously on two distinct collections of material, perhaps fols 1–51 and fols 52–108, and that what appears to be a shift from one mode of presentation to another results simply from the binding together of what were intended as separate compilations. Had this been the intent, however, one would have expected a clearer and more decisive shift than in fact occurs: it is not the case that all the divinatory experiments, or all the materials of any sort, are grouped together.

We can only speculate about the identity of the compiler. In two passages he represents himself as connected with a court. He could have been a learned courtier with an interest in the occult arts, such as Johannes Hartlieb, although Hartlieb is more likely to have owned and consulted such a manuscript than to have assembled it or used it.³⁴ A closer model might be Michael Scot, who served at the court of Frederick II and had an interest in astrology, as apparently did the counsellors of several other German emperors, but there is no real evidence that these astrologers dabbled in necromancy.³⁵ The compiler might have been a cleric, perhaps a member of the lower clergy, possibly a figure such as the priest-necromancer who befriended Jubertus of Bavaria: or, to compromise between these possibilities, he could have been a cleric of higher or middling status who aspired to some position at court. If we could take seriously the unlikely notion that Hartlieb began by taking an active interest in magic and later became its critic and opponent, we might guess that this collection is his and represents an early phase in his own development. To judge by the book's Latinity, I incline toward the hypothesis that what we have here is the work of a man with some but not a great deal of learning, who would have tended more toward the fringes of society than toward court, even if he had aspirations for higher status that found expression in the early sections of his book but waned over the time he worked on it.

While recognizing that this reconstruction is and must be conjectural, I suggest, then, that the compiler of this miscellany was a moderately educated member of the lower or middling clergy who began by writing colourful and imaginative experiments in hopes of establishing a reputation for expertise in the occult, and perhaps a foothold at some court, possibly that of the Duke of Bavaria in Munich, but whose aspirations were thwarted, and who eventually turned his attention to forms of magic that were less fanciful, playful and

Table B. Types of necromancy found in Clm 849

| | Manicist | Psychological | Divinatory |
|---|---|---|---|
| Purposes | causing things to appear other than as they are: illusory banquet, castle, horse or other means of transportation; make a dead person seem alive or vice versa imagination | influence on people's intellects or wills: love or hatred, favour at court, constraint of others' wills, madness | knowledge of future, past, distant, or hidden things: detection of a crime or criminal (usually a thief, less often a murderer), recovery of stolen goods, discovery of hidden treasure |
| Motivating impulses | between fantasy and reality | power | knowledge |
| Tensions | | between the will of the necromancer and that of the victim | between the demand for truth and the fear of deception |
| Affinities* | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • with literary fantasies • with the mythology of witchcraft | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • with works of astral magic (in translations from Arabic) | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • with divinatory practices developed esp. in Judaism |
| Central features* | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • either highly complex (with complicated magic circles, rituals, and repeated conjurations) or very simple (with no circles, relatively simple rituals, and single conjurations) • emphasis on secrecy, although purpose is display • often accompanied by stories or testimonials • themes central to conception of witchcraft | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • elaborate preparation and ceremonies (often over more than one day) • purposes and forms resembling those of astral magic • techniques of 'sympathetic' or 'imitative' magic, with meaning explicated by incantations (and less emphasis on circles and conjurations) • violent procedures and results • secrecy, to evade detection and punishment | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • scrying (sometimes psychologically interpreted) combined with conjurations emphasized (but with little emphasis on circles) • participation of a medium, usually a young boy, who alone sees the spirits |
| Correlation with Jakobus's spirits | Superbus - grandeur of display being a matter of primary concern | Luxuriosus - seduction or rape being one of the most common purposes | Avarus - recovery or discovery of goods being a main purpose, and this being a potentially lucrative form of divination |

* See Chapters 3-5 for elaboration of these points.

fantastic, but more in demand for practical application and thus more lucrative, and in any case still revealing of the diversities of magic in late medieval culture.

Table B summarizes the characterization already given of the three types of necromantic experiment found in Clm 849 and anticipates further discussion (in the next three chapters) of these categories. As should be obvious, it consists of broad generalizations, which require some qualification and nuance when applied to particular concrete experiments. While I have decided to use this chart in the interest of clarifying the patterns, the distinctions, and the correlations I mean to emphasize, I am aware of the hazards of fixing these categories too sharply and making them rigid when they should remain fluid. In highlighting the affinity of the psychological experiments with those of Arabic astral magic, for example, and the divinatory ones with practices well known in Judaism, I by no means wish to suggest that the techniques in question were exclusively or even specifically Arabic on the one hand, Jewish on the other. The world of magic is clearly more complex than that, and the boundaries between Jewish and Muslim magic too difficult to define. Still, in some ways the heart of this study – at least its attempt to distinguish different elements in the necromancers' own perception of their art – is sketched on this chart in schematic form. I do not adhere strictly in subsequent discussion to the organizing principles that might be suggested by the table, but everything laid out here is covered at some point either above or in following chapters.

Notes

1 Bernard Cerquiglini, Éloge de la variante: histoire critique de la philologie (Paris: Seuil, 1989). See also Stephen G. Nichols, 'Introduction: philology in a manuscript culture', Speculum, 65, no. 1 (Jan. 1990), 1–10; Siegfried Wenzel, 'Reflections on (new) philology', ibid., 11–18; and the other articles in that issue of the journal.

2 Picatrix: The Latin Version of the Ghāyat Al-Hakim, ed. David Pingree (London: Warburg Institute, 1986).

3 See, among recent works, Jean Clam, 'Philosophisches zu Picatrix: Gelehrte Magie und Anthropologie bei einem arabischen Hermetiker des Mittelalters', in Albert Zimmermann and Andreas Speer, eds, Mensch und Natur im Mittelalter, 1 (Berlin and New York: de Gruyter, 1991), 481–509, and Toufic Fahd, 'Sciences naturelles et magie dans Ghayat al-Hakim du Pseudo-Mayriti', in E. García Sánchez, ed., Ciencias de la naturaleza en al-Andalus, 1 (Granada: Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas, 1990), 11–21.

4 Hans Dieter Betz, ed., The Greek Magical Papyri in Translation, Including the Demotic Spells, 1 (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1986). On the cultural significance of miscellanies see Stephen G. Nichols and Siegfried Wenzel, eds., The Whole Book: Cultural Perspectives on the Medieval Miscellany (Ann Arbor: University of Michigan Press, 1996).

5 Roger Bacon, De Nigromancia, ed. and trans. Michael-Albion Macdonald (Gillette, NJ: Heptangle, 1988).

6 W. Brackman, 'Magische experimenten en toverpraktijken uit een middelnederlands handschrift', Verslagen en mededelingen van de Koninklijke Vlaamse Academie voor Taal-en Letterkunde, 1966, pp. 53-118; also published separately (Ghent: Seminarie voor Volkskunde, 1966).

7 Fol. 134r: 'et postea dixerat in auricula pueri ista oratio: "O deo fare disperiti spiritali cum lamina bocha te roga pre [deleted?] pregere che spiriti a questo palo vergeno in questa angustia d'iby mandare che diga emenstre laurita de quello chio roio domandare".'

8 Catalogus codicum Latinorum Bibliothecae Regiae Monacensis, 2nd edn, vol. 1, pt 1 (Munich: Bibliotheca Regia, 1892), 202 (Liber incantationum, exorcismorum et fascinationum variorum).

9 Lynn Thorndike, The History of Magic and Experimental Science (New York: Macmillan and Columbia University Press, 1923-58).

10 Lynn Thorndike, 'Imagination and magic: force of imagination on the human body and of magic on the human mind', in Mélanges Eugène Tisserant, 7 (Vatican City: Biblioteca Vaticana, 1964), 353-58.

11 Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages, esp. 6-8.

12 I have this information from Frank Klaassen, who is studying manuscripts of ritual magic in English collections.

13 E.M. Butler, Ritual Magic (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1949), 62.

14 See the codicological analysis of the manuscript given in the final chapter.

15 See n. 7 above.

16 It is worth noting that Thorndike, 'Imagination and magic', evidently did not recognize the handbook as an example of anything else he had seen.

17 Hansen, Quellen, 539-44. On the witch trials in this region and their context see now Pierette Paravy, De la christianité romaine à la Réforme en Dauphiné: notables, fidèles et déviants (vers 1340-vers 1530) (Rome: Ecole française de Rome, 1993), and for this case in particular pp. 814-16.

18 Paravy, p. 815 n. 4, suggests that this is a reference to the pilgrimage shrine at Einsiedeln. She also cites literature on the theme of the diabolical bridge, in particular B.M. Galanti, 'Le leggenda del "Ponte del Diavolo" in Italia', Lavori, 18 (1952), 61-73.

19 Johann Hartlieb, Das Buch aller verbotenen Künste, des Aberglaubens und der Zauberei, ed. and trans. Falk Eisermann and Eckhard Graf (Ahlerstedt: Param, 1989).

20 Frank Fürbeth, Johannes Hartlieb: Untersuchungen zu Leben und Werk (Tübingen: Niemeyer, 1992), 88-132.

21 Hartlieb, ch. 22, pp. 34f.

22 Etymologiae, viii.9, in the Patrologia latina, 82:310-14.

23 Hugh of St Victor, Didascalicon: De studio legendi, vi.15, ed. Charles Henry Buttimer (Washington, DC: Catholic University of America Press, 1939).

24 Chs 22, 28.

25 Chs 22-24.

26 Chs 33-34.

27 E.g., ch. 85.

28 Otto Hartig, Die Gründung der Münchener Hofbibliothek durch Albrecht I. und Johann Jakob Fugger (Abhandlungen der Königlichen Bayerischen Akademie der Wissenschaften, philosoph.-philolog. und hist. Klasse, vol. 28, sect. 3, 1914), gives the history of the library that provided the earliest foundation for the Bavarian State Library, but does not give the provenance of this manuscript.

29 There are two instances in experiment no. 7, and one in no. 27.

30 See the variation in names in nos 4, 7, 9, 10 and 11.

31 The relationship between demonic and other forms of magic in the Renaissance is a primary theme of D.P. Walker, Spiritual and Demonic Magic, from Ficino to Campanella (London: Warburg Institute, 1958). See also Charles Zika, 'Reuchlin's De verbo mirifico and the magic debate of the late fifteenth century', Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes, 39 (1976), 104-38, esp. 112-14 (see p. 114, n. 30, Tota Magia, quae in usu est apud modernos, et quam merito exterminat ecclesia, nullam habet firmitatem, nullum fundamentum, nullam veritatem, quia pendet ex manu hostium veritatis, potestatum harum tenebrarum, quae tenebras falsitatis, male dispositis intellectibus obfundunt).

32 Fols 8r-11v.

33 See no. 32 in the edition, where a conjuration edited from two versions in the later folios is addressed to a spirit named Mirage, while an alternative form in the main block addresses Satan.

34 The Schriftproben in Fürbeth, Johannes Hartlieb, p. 280, show that Hartlieb's handwriting is not at all like that in fols 3-108 of Clm 849; it more closely resembles that of some later folios, but not enough that any of this material could be assigned to him.

35 Thorndike, Michael Scot, esp. 32-39 and 116-21. See also the interesting article of Helmuth Grössing and Franz Stuhlhofer, 'Versuch einer Deutung der Rolle der Astrologie in den persönlichen und politischen Entscheidungen einiger Habsburger des Spätmittelalters', Anzeiger der Österreichischen Akademie der Wissenschaften, Philosophisch-historische Klasse, 117 (1980), 267-83. On court astrology in England see Hilary M. Carey, Courting Disaster: Astrology at the English Court and University in the Later Middle Ages (New York: St Martin's Press, 1992).

BANQUETS, HORSES AND CASTLES: ILLUSIONIST EXPERIMENTS

The fifteenth-century writer of the Rawlinson necromantic manuscript tells how to summon a demon in the form of a horse by using conjurations, a ring with the Tetragrammaton inscribed on it, and a diagram made with the blood of a hoopoe or a bat. The magician must stand in a circle that extends to the east window of his chamber. When the conjuration is complete, a multitude of spirits will appear in the sky, with many horses; the magician must choose the horse with the red bridle, which will descend outside his chamber. He may then ride off, with sceptre and sword in hand. But he must beware of committing any sins while engaged in this experiment, because if he is unclean he can no longer command the demon. The writer then tells a cautionary tale – from his own experience, he says – to impress upon the reader the importance of not sinning in the course of this adventure:

For I myself once travelled from Alexandria to India in the space of an hour, and there I saw women whom I found very pleasing indeed, and at once I had my will with one of them. But there was no chance of finding a confessor unless I waited quite some time. I returned to my horse, which was standing where it had been conjured [to stand], but when I seized the end of the bridle the horse began to bolt, not allowing me to put my foot in the stirrup because of my uncleanness. I held on to the bridle firmly, and the horse hurled me forty feet into the air. Finally, seeing that I was going to perish miserably, I let go and fell, breaking my leg quite badly. So I lay there in India for four months, and until I had recuperated I could not go and see my horse.

But when I had recovered I went to confession and did penance. Then I prepared a chamber for myself, and had a sceptre, sword and ring newly made, since the ring which I had defiled had lost its power. When these instruments had been fashioned and newly consecrated, I summoned those same spirits as before, and had them bring the same spirit or horse. With conjurations I commanded that horse and mounted him peacefully, and I kept on riding him continually for an entire month, except when I dismounted to sleep and eat or drink, and thus I circled the globe eight times. And I had him carry me through the sky until I was practically suffocated because of the pressure of the air. In circling the globe I discovered many and wondrous treasures, whose virtues I learned later on under the instruction of one of the spirits, whom I then locked up. And thus [by this long riding] I caused my horse much grief.

When I finally dismounted from him and asked him why he had harmed me, he replied that from that point on he was unable to do so, but he said he would rather have been in hell than keep riding for so long a time. So he asked me not to cause him such grief any more, and he would minister to me faithfully when I summoned him, so long as I was clean. And thus I repaid him evil for evil.¹

The ceremony given here for conjuring the horse is borrowed, perhaps directly, from the De nigromancia or Thesaurus spirituum ascribed to Roger Bacon.² In the cautionary tale the reader will recognize a variation on a story known from The Thousand and One Nights, from the French romances (especially Li Roumans de Cléomadès of Adenès li Rois), and from Chaucer's abbreviated and mock-naturalistic retelling in The Squire's Tale.³ In the Arabic and French versions, a magical flying horse cannot be made to descend where the rider wishes to land, and the change of plan that results becomes a factor in development of the plot. In the Rawlinson manuscript as in the literary versions of the tale, the Orient is portrayed as exotic and romantically alluring, although the seduction scene has become a peremptory telling of a male fantasy, with little trace of the écriture féminine that has been seen in the literary narratives.⁴ What concerns the narrator here is less the seduction than its consequences. Very much like Lancelot in the Quest of the Holy Grail, the magician is unable to continue his mission until repentance and confession wipe away his disability.⁵

The moral implications of this story need not detain us now, although the moral ambiguity recurs in this manuscript, in a lengthy Confiteor which admits to every manner of sin but terminates in a prayer for power over certain spirits.⁶ As for the world of flying horses, it seems not unlike that of Jubertus of Regensburg, who flew to diabolical assemblies with wondrous speed not on the back of a horse but on the excrement of a mule or horse, ministerio dyabolorum.⁷ For present purposes what is most relevant is that the form of magic related in this story is intended chiefly for the sake of the magician's own entertainment, and the story about its use is, despite the tone of moral seriousness, a means of entertainment presumably both for writer and reader. The compiler of the Munich handbook, too, is most inclined toward the anecdotal when he is telling his reader how to conjure illusions in which demons appear as horses, castles appear out of nowhere, banquets are brought forth with many apparent but illusory courses, and the magician dons a cloak of invisibility so as no longer to appear at all.

Depictions of magic in medieval literature often tease the reader with uncertainties about the boundary between illusion and reality.⁸ When the water level off the coast of Brittany is raised so as to cover the rocks, in Chaucer's Franklin's Tale, is the transformation real or merely an illusion?⁹ When wondrous pageants and spectacles are brought forth by inexplicable means at court, are they genuine or delusory, and are they worked 'by craft or necromancy'? The literature of magic is replete with stories of magicians who produce magical banquets, horses or boats that can transport people over land and sea, castles with armed warriors, all of which have a tendency to vanish abruptly, suggesting that they rest on dubious ontological foundations. From antiquity and through the Middle Ages, critics of magic insisted it was all illusion, by which they could mean many things: that it was a means by which demons deluded and ensnared the gullible, that its accomplishments were unreal and not lasting, that healings as well as spectacles worked by magic were unreliable.¹⁰ The pagan Celsus, taunting his Christian contemporaries in late antiquity, compared the miracles of Jesus with 'the works of sorcerers who profess to do wonderful miracles, and the accomplishments of those who are taught by the Egyptians, who for a few obols make known their sacred lore in the middle of the market-place and drive daemons out of men and blow away diseases and invoke the souls of heroes, displaying expensive banquets and dining-tables and cakes and dishes which are non-existent, and who make things move as though they were alive although they are not really so, but only appear as such in the imagination'.¹¹ But it was not only the critics who saw at least some types of magic as entailing illusion: the magicians themselves seemed to revel in their role as illusionists. Not surprisingly, then, many of the formulas in our necromantic handbook – and several of the most interesting – involve some form of illusion.

ILLUSIONIST EXPERIMENTS IN THE MUNICH HANDBOOK

Twelve of the experiments in Clm 849 are 'illusionist' ones, intended to make things appear other than as they are: to make people perceive some object or scene that is not in fact present, to obtain a means of transport such as a horse or a boat, to make the dead seem alive or vice versa, or to become invisible. This category might be seen as a subset of the 'psychological' experiments, but the emphasis here is less on deception of the senses than on production of an objective display that seems different from what it is.

The distinguishing features of these experiments are chiefly four. First, either they are highly complex, with complicated magic circles, intricately worked-out rituals, and at least two conjurations, or else (less often) they are very simple, with no circles, relatively simple rituals, and single conjurations. Second, they often emphasize the need for secrecy, yet the basic point of the experiment is the fascinating and awe-inspiring display of magical powers. Third, these experiments are often accompanied by stories (such as the one from the Rawlinson manuscript) or by testimonials assuring the reader of their efficacy. Fourth, these illusionist experiments, for all their exuberant fantasy, come closer than any others in the handbook to touching on themes that would become central to the late medieval and early modern conception of witchcraft.

Seven complex experiments (nos 6-11 and 15) involve relatively elaborate magic circles and intricate rituals, with two distinct conjurations (first the master summons the spirits, who appear to him, then he commands them to execute some illusion, and they do so). Among further complications are offerings made to induce the spirits to carry out the commands, oaths required of the spirits, and provisions for repeating on some future occasion, with less effort, an experiment already produced once. The simpler experiments (nos 14, 17, 21, 43 and 45), by way of contrast, require no magic circles at all, and have illusionist effect following directly from a single conjuration, without an intervening apparition of spirits. The difference may be the result of nothing more than the handbook's general tendency toward simpler, less colourful and imaginative formulations in its later sections, a tendency seen even in this most fanciful category of magic.

At certain points in the illusionist experiments of the Munich handbook the writer comments explicitly on the need for secrecy. At the end of one experiment (no. 8) the writer comments that this book, containing generally unknown names and figures of spirits 'according to their characteristics' (proprietates), should be kept in a hidden place because its contents have ineffable efficacy. Experiment no. 10, which can make the living appear dead and the dead alive, must be kept secret because of its great power. In this and in no. 11 the master goes to a remote and secret place outside town to carry out his experiment. Experiment no. 15 must be carried out in a high and secret place. This concern with the esoteric nature of necromancy is not exclusively found in the illusionist experiments – no. 5 also emphasizes the importance of performing the ritual in a secret place, and the text insists that this experiment must be kept secret because it has 'ineffable virtue' – but it is a theme found perhaps most often in this category, and the breathless tone thus imparted adds to the entertainment value of these illusionist experiments.¹² Elsewhere, rather than emphasizing the need for secrecy, the writer comments on the rarity of knowledge about certain formulas. He declares that the art of conjuring an illusory banquet in no. 6 is practically unknown in his day, and that 'Matthew the Spaniard' was utterly ignorant of this magic; he notes that the art of obtaining a cloak of invisibility, in no. 11, is also virtually unknown in his day. But the themes of secrecy and obscurity are not unrelated: they are both ways of emphasizing the esoteric nature of these experiments, and stressing that the reader is being initiated into arcane lore that should arouse not only curiosity but also excitement and a sense of privilege. Yet it is in the nature of these experiments that in one way or other most of them are shared: in some cases the result of the magical is a spectacle that may be put on for the wonderment of others, and even when the point is for the magician to become invisible, his very state of non-visibility is a way of relating to others.

The testimonials asserting the efficacy of the experiments take various forms. The writer declares that he has seen one experiment (no. 8) worked in various ways, but the way he gives is the best, entailing least effort and no danger. In recounting the effects of another experiment (no. 10) he claims that he has personally experienced them all, and that he leaves unmentioned those effects he has not experienced. Nor is he shy about claiming the testimony of authorities: Socrates himself, he claims, speaks of the power of one circle (no. 9) in his book of magic. More simply, he asserts that experiment (experiencia) no. 10 is 'most worthy'. At one point (no. 6) the writer addresses a courtly reader, whether real or imagined, claiming to remind him of occasions when the magic has worked: 'You have often seen me exercise this art in your court, namely that of bringing forth stewards'. In a similar vein he tells how he once carried out experiment no. 7 while the emperor and his nobles were out hunting in a dark wood, causing an illusory castle to appear, with demons in the form of knights who attacked the emperor and his men.

What are we to make of all this? Are we to assume that the illusionist experiments in this manuscript – and the tales that the writer spins, testifying to the efficacy of his own illusions – were intended merely as entertainment? Is it unthinkable that the clerical necromancers actually hoped to visit exotic lands on flying horses, to explore phantom castles, to feast at magical banquets? The question is difficult to answer in any simple way, because what one writer will write tongue in cheek another may intend as fact, and because in many ways the border between imaginative fantasy and perceived fact is readily permeable: fantasies about harm that other people might inflict shade into paranoid fears of harm that they are inflicting; erotic fantasies, encouraged by techniques of erotic magic, can serve as prelude to actual seduction; purely recreational play with a Ouija board or tarot deck gives occasion for traumatic expression of deep-seated fantasies and anxieties; words spoken as playful boasts may be heard as confirmation of sinister powers.

The tales told in this necromantic manuscript are perhaps best described as literary boasts, analogous to those in medieval literature.¹³ And yet they are no less fantastic than those recorded in the witch trials of the later fifteenth and following centuries, and in some ways these tales are not unrelated to aspects of witchcraft. Indeed, this category of experiments more than others has points of contact with the 'cumulative concept' of witchcraft that became established in the fifteenth century, even if the parallels are not exact.¹⁴ When the master has the demons take an oath (no. 6), this is conceived as unilateral; it is therefore not a pact. The spirits swear on an unspecified but consecrated book, and they bind themselves first by the God who created them and all things, second by the (presumably demonic) lords whom they fear and adore, and third by 'the law that we observe'. The second and third elements in this oath presuppose what scholastic demonology did in fact generally assume, that demons are bound by a perverse hierarchy of their own – an inversion of the angelic hierarchy – and that there are infernal laws by which the demons are bound.¹⁵ The banquet that demons bring forth is in one particular like the feasts ascribed in later years to witches at their sabbaths: the food does not really exist, so that the more one eats the hungrier one becomes, and a starving man who eats such fare will die just as if he ate nothing at all.¹⁶ And in both no. 17 and no. 43, the magician is told that when he is flying on an illusory horse he must not make the sign of the cross, or the horse (in fact a spirit in the form of a beast) will flee from him, just as the witches were said to be warned.¹⁷ (By way of contrast, the instructions for no. 8 specify that while riding in a magically produced ship the master may invoke holy things, as in true Christian religion, because the spirits involved are between good and evil, neither in hell nor in paradise.) The parallel with notions from the witch trials is extended by a passage from the manuscript edited by Willy Braeckman, which suggests that to travel quickly wherever one wishes, one should make an ointment from seven herbs, the fat of a goat and the blood of a bat, and smear it on one's face, hands and chest, while reciting a short formula.¹⁸ While this specific recipe may not be explicitly necromantic, it appears alongside instructions for demonic magic, and is strikingly parallel to the means witches were thought to use for their flight.¹⁹

AN ILLUSORY BANQUET

The first two illusionist experiments in the Munich handbook have in mind a courtly setting: one is a procedure to conjure forth a lavish banquet, with entertainment of various kinds; the other creates the illusion of a castle in which an unnamed emperor may hold out against demonic troops. While the first illusion is simply for entertainment, the second is an elaborate trick on unwitting victims, though they may be supposed to have taken the hoax in good spirits.

The experiment for obtaining an illusory banquet, with service and entertainment (no. 6), is one of the longest in the manuscript, and illustrates well the complexity so often found in these experiments:

You have often seen me exercise at your court the art of summoning banquet-bearers.²⁰ First one must invoke fifteen spirits, in this manner: At the outset one must go outside town, under a waxing moon, on a Thursday or Sunday, at noon, carrying a shining sword and a hoopoe, and with the sword one must trace circles in a remote place. When this is done, inscribe sixteen names with the point of the sword, as will appear below in the figure.

When you have done this, you should draw the sword toward the east within the inner circle, as the diagram shows. When this is done, you should bind the hoopoe to yourself in such a way that it cannot escape from the inner circle, in which you should stand.

Then you should kneel, turn to the east, take the sword in both hands, and say, 'Oymelor, Demefin, Lamair, Masair, Symosfor, Rodobayl, Tentetos, Lotobor, Memoyr, Tamafin, Leutaber, Tatomofon, Faubair, Selutabel, Rimasor, Syrama, most cheerful, glad and joyous spirits, I, so-and-so, adjure you . . . to come to me here in a gentle, pleasing, and cheerful form and make manifest whatever I say.'

When you have said this twelve [sic] times – four times facing east, then four times facing south, then four times facing east, then four times facing north – holding the sword in your hand the whole time, and while you are saying the conjuration constantly drawing it in each location, finally position it where it was at first, when the conjuration was first spoken, as has been said.²¹

When you have said this, constantly kneeling, again turn to the east, holding the sword in your right hand, and the hoopoe in your left hand, and say, 'Come, O aforesaid spirits, come to me, come, for I command you by the eternal glory of God. Amen.'

When you have said this once, turn with the sword and the hoopoe toward the west, and you will see sixteen splendid and stalwart knights. They will say to you, 'You summoned us and we have come, obedient to your will. Ask what you will, confident that we are ready to obey.' Say in reply, 'Make me see your power, that I may behold tables with many people reclining at them, with an infinite array of dishes.' They will tell you that they are pleased to do so.

At once many pages [domicelli] will come, carrying three-legged tables, towels and other necessary equipment. Then the most noble of folk will come and recline, and butlers to serve, carrying an infinite array of dishes. And you will hear singing and music-making, and you will see dancing and innumerable games. And you may be sure that these twelve [sic] will not withdraw from you, but will stand just outside the circle, speaking with you and watching. You should also know that three kings will come to you beside the circle from among those who are reclining, and will ask you to come and eat with them. You should reply that you are quite unable to leave. When you have said this, they will return at once to those who are reclining, and you will hear them telling the others that they were unable to persuade you to move out of the circle. Then they will send a butler with some food or other, which you may safely eat, and you should offer some of it to the sixteen standing beside the circle, and they too will eat of it. Then you will see everyone rise from the tables and mount their horses in order.

At last, all will vanish from your eyes except those twelve, who, standing by you, will say, 'Our spectacle [ludus] has pleased you, has it not?' You will reply cheerfully that it has. When you have responded, they will ask you for the hoopoe, which, strange to say, will at once become alarmed.²² You will say to them, 'I am willing to give you the hoopoe if you swear to come to me and enact this spectacle whenever I please.' They will say that they are ready to swear. You should have some book brought to them at once, and on it you should have them swear in this manner: 'All twelve of us swear on this sacred book . . . to come to you without delay whenever you invoke us, and to have tables laid, such as you have seen and even better.' And they will swear at once.

And when they have sworn, you will give them the hoopoe, and when they have it they will ask your leave to withdraw. You will give it to them, saying, 'Go forth wherever you wish to go, and be attentive to me.' They will say that they remain obliged to you from then on. Having said this, they will go. You too may leave the circles and erase them so that nothing remains, and, taking your sword, you may withdraw.

You should note that the hoopoe is possessed of great virtue for necromancers and invokers of demons [nigromanticis et demones invocantibus], on which account we use it much for our safekeeping.

When you want them [the spirits] to come to you, in secret or openly, or in whatever place, gaze at the above-written circles and figures in the book, and in a quiet voice read the names found in them. When you have read them once while thus gazing, read this conjuration once: 'Oymelor, Demefin, Lamair, Masair, Simosor, Rodobail, Tentetos, Lotobor, Memoir, Tamafin, Zeugaber, Tatomofon, Faubair, Belutabel, Rimasor and Sirama, I ask, conjure and adjure you by the true majesty of God to make your subordinates come here and bring dishes, first of all so-and-so and so-and-so, and make a grand banquet, with games, singing, music-making and dancing, and in general all those things that can gladden the hearts of those standing about [cf. Ps. 103:15 Vulg.].' When you have read this [conjuration] once, splendid pages will come and prepare beautiful tables. When these are set up, you will hear trumpets, harps and an untold multitude of songs. When you call out loudly, 'Bring water', it will be brought forth at once. Likewise, 'Bring forth the meal', and at once it will be brought. And there will be butlers and stewards serving excellently, and handsome pages, and players providing countless entertainments. And you can have a thousand types of dish brought, if it pleases you, and those who eat them will find them uncommonly delicious.

You must know that no matter how much they eat, they will be all the more hungry, because they will seem like dishes but they will not exist, so that if a famished person were to gorge himself, believing them to be real, he would no doubt die just as if he ate nothing.

And when you wish to do away with the spectacle, say that they should take away the tables. At once the tables will be removed, but all those standing around will remain. If you wish for them to sing or play or make the entire spectacle, say, 'Do thus and such', and you will see what you wish, for these are spirits of spectacle and all entertainment, and they will do all that they are told. And when you want them to depart, say, 'Withdraw, all of you, and whenever I call you to me, come forth without any excuse.' They will reply, 'We will do so most gladly!' And when they have withdrawn, all will depart, wondering at this art.

And here this art is concluded, which is virtually unknown among people today; and of which Matthew the Spaniard was utterly ignorant, etc.

The circle to be used for this experiment is depicted: a quadruple band with a pentangle inscribed in the centre, a sword depicted at the top (extending downward across all four bands, with its point on the top of the pentangle) and other figures (likewise extending across all four bands) on the upper left, upper right, lower right, and lower left. The cardinal directions are given outside the outermost band, with east on top. Within the bands the names of sixteen spirits are inscribed.²³

Two points may suffice here by way of commentary. First, the idea of conjuring an illusory banquet is widespread. Celsus compared Christ with a magician who conjures forth an illusory banquet, and the same trick is found in an adjuration in the Greek magical papyri for obtaining a daimon as one's assistant. Among the spirit's myriad functions is that of procuring every manner of food except fish or pork. The magician need only imagine a banqueting hall and order the daimon to prepare a banquet, and immediately he will create a hall with marble walls and golden ceiling, all of which will seem partly real, partly illusion. He will bring fine wine, and further daimones made out as suitably attired servants.²⁴ Second, this experiment is exceptional for the Munich handbook in the degree of emphasis on the sacrifice of a hoopoe to the demons. This bird is famous for its magical virtues.²⁵ The present experiment notes explicitly that the hoopoe has great power for necromancers and invokers of demons, and for that reason is much used by such practitioners. Oddly, the text says that necromancers use the hoopoe a great deal for their safekeeping or protection (ad nostri tutelam), which perhaps means that they are safer in the company of demons if they have an offering to make them. The safety of the hoopoes seems not to be an issue.

The fading of this insubstantial pageant might well recall that of a more famous illusion:

Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits, and
Are melted into air, into thin air . . .²⁶

But of course the books from which that experiment derived have not survived for comparison with the Munich handbook.

AN ILLUSORY CASTLE

The following experiment (no. 7) is designed to obtain an illusory castle, with defenders. It is introduced in grandiose manner, as a 'splendid experiment' by which the magician can convoke spirits to produce an elegant castle with armed men. As in the preceding case, there are two phases, first the summoning of spirits and then having them work the illusion, although for reasons that we will see shortly, the second phase does not precisely involve a conjuration.

Here follows another experiment²⁷ for invoking spirits so that a man can make a fine and well fortified castle appear, or for summoning countless legions of armed men, which can easily be done, and among other things is deemed most beautiful.

First, go out on the tenth [day of] the moon, under a clear sky, outside of town to some remote and secret place, taking milk and honey with you, some of which you must sprinkle in the air. And with bare feet and head, kneeling, read this while facing west: 'O Usyr, Salaul, Silitor, Demor, Zanno, Syrtroy, Risbel, Cutroy, Lytay, Onor, Moloy, Pumotor, Tami, Oor and Ym, squire spirits, whose function it is to bear arms and deceive human senses wherever you wish, I, so-and-so, conjure and exorcize and invoke you . . . that, indissolubly bound to my power, you should come to me without delay, in a form that will not frighten me, subject and prepared to do and reveal for me all that I wish, and to do this willingly, by all things that are in heaven and on earth.' Having read this once facing west, do so again facing south, east, and north.

And from far off you will see a band of armed men coming toward you, who will send ahead a squire to say that those you summoned are coming to you. You should tell him, 'Go to them and tell them to come to me in such a state that they frighten no one, but I may abide safely with them.' When you have said this, he will return at once to them.

After a short interval they will come to you. When you see them, show them at once this circle, which has great power to terrify those fifteen demons;²⁸ they will see it and say, 'Ask whatever you wish in safety, and it will all come to pass for you through us.' You should then tell them to consecrate their circle so that whenever you gaze on it and invoke them they must come to you quickly and do that which is natural to them, namely make fortifications and castles and moats and a multitude of armed men appear. They will say they are willing to do so. You should extend a book to them, and you will see one of them place his hand on the book and speak certain words, which you will not understand. When this is done, they will restore it to you.

Then they will ask you to permit them to leave, because they cannot depart from you except with permission. You should say to them, 'Make a castle here, so that I may see your power.' Immediately they will make a castle around you, with many other things, and you will see yourself in the middle of the castle, and a great multitude of knights will be present. But these fifteen will not be able to depart from you. After the space of an hour they will ask you that they may depart, and you should say, 'Be ready whenever I gaze on this circle and invoke you to return at once.'²⁹ They will swear to come immediately. Then tell them to depart wherever they wish. And the entire spectacle [ludus] will be destroyed, and no one will remain there.

When all this is done, return home, guarding well the book in which all power is found. And when you wish to work this fine art, gaze at the circle, reading the names, beginning from the east, saying, 'O Usyr, Salaul, Silitol, Denior, Zaimo, Syrtroy, Ristel, Cutroy, Lytoy, Onor, Moloy, Pumiotor, Tamy, Dor, [and] Ym, I summon you to come here, by the consecration of this circle, in which your signs are inscribed, and to make a well fortified castle appear for me, with a deep moat, and a plenteous company of knights and footsoldiers.' And suddenly a splendid castle, with all that is necessary, will appear there. If you wish to enter it, you can, for a knight will at once stand by you, to whom you may command that all you wish should appear, and he will have it done.

Once when I [wished to test] this art I exercised it with the emperor, when many nobles were accompanying him on a hunting expedition through some dark forest. This is how I proceeded. First I gazed at the circle, calling the aforesaid demons with a clear voice. And at once a handsome knight came to me, whom no one but I could see, and who said to me, 'I am one of the spirits you have invoked; I am named Salaul, and the others have sent me. Command what you will, and it will be done.' I said to him, 'I want you to have a legion of armed men appear, whom the emperor and his companions will take to be rebels.' He said, 'It is done.' And then all the counts and the emperor himself turned and looked to the north, and from far off they saw coming to them an innumerable multitude of knights and soldiers. One of them dismounted, and before an hour's time [ante magne hore spacium] came to the emperor and said, trembling, 'Lord emperor, behold, an innumerable horde is coming toward us, swearing to put us and all your counts to death and to kill you pitilessly.' On hearing this, the emperor and the counts did not know what to do. Meanwhile, the spirits approached. Seeing and hearing them, and their terrifying weapons, they began to flee, but the others followed them, shooting arrows, and cried with one voice, 'You cannot escape your death today!' Then I said, 'O Salaul, make a wondrous castle before the emperor and his men, so that the emperor and the others can enter it.' And it was done. A perfectly safe castle was made for the counts, with towers and moat, and the drawbridge down. It seemed excellently constructed and filled with mercenaries, who were crying out, 'O lord emperor, enter quickly with your companions!' They entered, and it seemed that servants and many friends of the emperor were in it; he supposed he had come upon people who would defend him manfully. When they had entered, they raised the drawbridge and began to defend themselves. Then the spirits with their war machines attacked the castle with wondrous power, so that the emperor and the others feared all the more. Then Salaul said to me, 'We do not have the power to remain here longer than a quarter of the day, so we must now withdraw.' Then the castle disappeared, and the attackers, and everything else.³⁰ The emperor and the others then looked around and found themselves in some marsh, which left them greatly astonished. I said to them, 'This episode has been quite an adventure!' And after this experiment I made a dinner for them.

Remember that this art cannot last longer than a quarter of a day, unless it lasts one quarter one time [and is then renewed for another quarter day], etc.

One might have supposed that the trick played on the emperor constituted an act of rebellion deserving of execution; the tale, which must be read as such, asks us to suspend our disbelief and assume the emperor had unlimited capacity for being amused. The milk and honey that the magician sprinkles evidently serve as a kind of offering, which comes this time at the beginning rather than at the end of the ritual, as in no. 6; it is perhaps worthy of note that this theme of sacrifice occurs specifically in illusionist experiments set at court, and one might perhaps speculate that the offering is somehow analogous here to a courtly gift, but two examples provide too little evidence for such generalization. A further aspect of this experiment that calls for attention is the formula for recalling the spirits. Having summoned them, the master proceeds at once to an arrangement which will ensure multiple recurrence of the desired illusion. The formula to be used on further occasions is simple, and does not use the language of conjuration; presumably the demons are already bound by their own consecration of the circle, and need not be bound by the force of a formal conjuration.

While extensive pursuit of parallels would lead to endless digression, two especially interesting ones deserve comment. The first is from The Quest of the Holy Grail, in which a lady who seeks in vain the love of Sir Bors threatens that she and her maidens will kill themselves by leaping from a tower unless he satisfies her. As they plunge from the battlements, Sir Bors crosses himself, and immediately is 'enveloped in such a tumult and shrieking that it seemed to him that all the fiends of hell were round about him: and no doubt there were a number present. He looked round, but saw neither the tower nor the lady who had been soliciting his love . . .'. Thus he knew 'it was the enemy who had laid this ambush for him'.³¹ In this case the phantom tower is a demonic snare, but not a work of magic created by demons at the behest of a magician. The second parallel, from much further afield, from the eleventh-century life of the Tibetan Buddhist saint Milarepa, is in this way more closely analogous to the tale in our necromantic handbook. When the lama Marpa had Milarepa construct a tall tower, the lama's enemies attacked it, but 'the lama conjured up some phantom soldiers, clad in armor, and put them everywhere, inside and outside the tower. His enemies said, "Where did Marpa get all these soldiers?"' Terror-struck, they prostrated themselves and became disciples of the lama.³² In this context sainthood and magic may be more closely related than in medieval Christianity; indeed, even in modern Tibet lamas are said to have risked moral defilement by using magical weapons against Chinese invaders.³³ Yet even within Tibet, not all magic is judged morally equivalent: Marpa may work a harmless trick of magical illusion without jeopardizing his standing, but the tower Milarepa is constructing is part of his arduous penance required for works of destructive magic in his life before attaining sainthood.

EXPERIMENTS TO OBTAIN A HORSE

As we have already seen, magical flying horses are part of the stock in trade of magic lore; they migrate not only across the face of the earth but also between the magicians' own writings and courtly literature.³⁴ Johannes Hartlieb speaks of horses that come into an old house and transport a rider over many miles, and he hints rather vaguely at how it is done: one takes bat's blood and binds oneself to the Devil with secret words such as 'Debra ebra'; after riding one dismounts and takes the bridle; to return to one's place of origin one need only shake the bridle and the horse will appear – but the horse is, of course, only a devil. Magic of this sort, he says, is widely known among princes. He also tells how unhulden and others use a salve called the unguentum pharelis, made of seven herbs mixed with the blood of a bird and the fat of an animal, smeared on benches, chairs or other objects, on which they then ride; this too counts for him as necromancy.³⁵

One might challenge the inclusion of these experiments in the category of magical illusion, since the journeys undertaken are at least represented as real. In one key sense, however, even from the magicians' perspective there is an element of illusion: the creature that appears is not in reality a horse but a demon in the form of a horse. The illusion is perhaps not so complete as in the case of a banquet with food that does not nourish or satisfy hunger, but this is only to say that from a perspective shared by magicians and theologians alike the demons had real but limited power over the natural order, and while they could effect genuine locomotion through assumed bodies they could not confect food with the substantiality of real food. One might ask further why they could not transport real food, perhaps even bringing grapes from distant lands in midwinter, and the answer to that would presumably be that they could do so but were content in all these cases to create just enough of an illusion to last through the duration of the experiment, and once they began troubling to transport food from abroad they would be extending themselves beyond the contracted arrangement.

However one wishes to resolve these subtleties, the Munich handbook in any event gives four experiments for obtaining a spirit in the form of a horse on which to ride. Let us begin with the most extended of these (no. 9):

I also wish to explain to you how to obtain a horse -- that is, a spirit in the form of a horse -- who can bear you across water and land, through hills and across plains, wherever you wish.

First, on the sixth [day] of the moon, a Tuesday, having fasted, you should go out with a bridle that has never been used, and in a secret place, and make a circle with a nail or an iron stylus, as appears here, inscribing in it the names and figures that appear. When this is done, remain in the middle and kneel on the bridle facing east, and in a somewhat loud voice say, 'O Lautrayth, Feremin, [and] Oliroomim, spirits who attend upon sinners, I, so-and-so, trusting in your power, conjure you by Him who spoke and [all things] were made, and who knows all things even before they come to pass, and by heaven and earth, fire and air and water, Sun and Moon and stars . . . to send me three [spirits], who should come to me gently, without causing me fear, but in such a way that I may remain safe, and you should fulfil entirely whatever I command you, and bring it effectively to pass. Likewise, I conjure you aforesaid spirits by Him who is to come to judge the living and the dead and the world by fire, and by the fearful Day of Judgement, and by the sentence that you must hear on that day, and [by] this circle with which you are effectively invoked, that you should be compelled to come here without delay and humbly fulfil my commands.'

When you have said this three times, you will see three knights come from afar. On seeing them, before they arrive in your presence, say, 'I have lifted to you my eyes unto the mountains, from which my help shall come. My help is from the Lord, who made heaven and earth' [Ps. 120:1f. Vulg.; cf. Ps. 122:1]. And when they come to the circle they will at once dismount from their horses and greet you cheerfully. You will say to them, 'May the Lord in his mercy bring you back to your pristine status.' Then the spirits will say, 'O master, we have come to you, all of us prepared to obey your commands. So command us to do that for which you have made us come here, and it will be fully brought about.' You should reply, 'I wish for you to consecrate this bridle' – which you should hold with both hands – 'so that whenever I shake it a horse will come before me, in whose mouth I may place it, and I may be able to mount it and ride safely on it, and proceed wherever I desire.' Then they will say they wish to take the bridle with them and return it on the third day. You will give it to them. And when you have done so, they will mount their horses and withdraw without delay. When they have gone, leave the circle, without erasing it, and withdraw from that place.

Return there on the evening of the third day and you will find the same spirits offering the bridle to you, assuring you that your request has been carried out. When you have taken the bridle, say, 'I conjure you by the God of gods that you will be unable to depart from here without my leave.' Then they will reply that they will remain there as long as you wish. Then shake the bridle, and at once a black horse will come. Place the bridle on him, and ride. Then dismount and remove the bridle, and at once the horse will depart.

When the horse has left, say, 'I conjure you [spirits] by all the aforesaid things, and by all those things that have power against you, that you should swear always to compel that horse to come to me.' They will swear and promise to do so at once. When they have sworn, tell them to withdraw in safety.³⁶ When they have gone, leave the circle and erase it totally, and take the bridle with you.

And when you wish the horse to come, say, shaking the bridle, 'Lutrayth, Feremim, Oliroomim', and the horse will come at once. Then place the bridle in its mouth and ride. You should ride a bit back toward its haunches,³⁷ which will be gentler, and you should do this each time. And when you want it to gallop, spur it on or lash it, and it will fly like an arrow, but you will not be able to fall off, so do not fear. And when you wish to dismount, it will never depart until you have removed the bridle from its mouth, whereupon it will disappear at once.

We have made such bridles very thin, so we can carry them in a small place, and they can never break or wear out because of the consecration.

One should note that if the circle given above is inscribed on horsehide with the blood of a horse and with the tooth of a white horse, and then is shown to horses, they will die at once. And if you carry it with you, written in this manner, no horse can come near you. And Socrates speaks of the power of this circle in his book of magic.

The figure shown is a single circular band, with a square inscribed, and a circle inside the square. Short bars extend outward from the middle of each side of the square and touch the inner side of the circular band. Names of the cardinal directions flank each of these bars. 'The place of the master' is marked in the center of the circle. The band contains the names Lantrayth, Feremni and Oliomim,³⁸ plus astronomical and other signs.

Four points about this experiment call especially for comment. First, as in other illusionist experiments, but not typically in other ones, the spirits conjured come in the form of courtly figures, in this case knights, which reinforces the aura of courtly romance intended to characterize these texts. Second, the means for control over the horse is a bridle, which should not be surprising, since that is the usual purpose of a bridle, except that in this case the instrument of control is used in unconventional ways and becomes more an effective symbol of the magician's power than a practical implement. Third, the circle which serves to gain control over a demon in the form of a horse can also, differently employed, be used to threaten an actual horse; while these illusionist experiments may not be overtly concerned with establishment of power relations (as are the psychological experiments to be examined in the next chapter), they do entail the exercise of power, sometimes over a human agent such as the emperor, and in this case (as in the tale from the Rawlinson manuscript) over an animal. Fourth, the term used for 'shake' or 'shake violently', squassare, may possibly suggest that this material derives from an Italian source. That verb passed over into modern Italian, and may be more expected in Latin texts from Italy than in those from elsewhere.

The three other experiments for obtaining a horse are much simpler. In one (no. 14) the master looks toward the eastern sky, kneeling and with folded hands as if he were in prison, and with firm hope of obtaining his will he says a 'prayer' seven times to the 'most high and benign king of the east', adjuring him to send an 'airy spirit' on which he can ride to a specified place. A horse comes, and the master conjures it to carry him to that place without danger or disturbance. When he arrives at his destination he thanks the king of the east for bestowing this favour, and offers to serve him forever and obey his commands, 'and may his name be praised forever'. Another experiment (no. 17) is exceptional in that it does not begin with a conjuration, but with merely the inscription of magic names. The master writes six of these on the door of a vacant house, at twilight, 'in the Hebrew manner', then he withdraws for a while. When he returns he finds a horse ready. He conjures it to carry him without harm or trouble to a specified place. He may then mount it confidently, for it cannot harm him. When he arrives at his destination he dismounts and takes the horse's bridle. Having finished his business, he shakes the bridle vigorously and repeats the conjuration to summon the horse. In the third of these simple experiments (no. 43) the master again writes a series of names on the door of a vacant house, at dusk, with bat's blood, then withdraws for a brief time. When he returns he finds a horse awaiting him. After he has ridden the animal, he dismounts, removes the bridle, and hides it underground. When he wishes to return, he retrieves the bridle and shakes it, whereupon the horse returns at once. He then repeats the conjuration, plus the words 'kostolya, elogo, yetas', and off he rides.

OTHER EXPERIMENTS FOR ILLUSORY MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION

In addition to these four experiments, the handbook provides two similar ones, both complex, for conjuring a magical ship (no. 8) and a flying throne (no. 15). The ship will sail quickly over the seas, wherever one wants, with whomever one wishes. The master first fasts on a Monday; then goes out under a waxing moon to a remote place with the rib of a dead man or woman. Having sharpened a point on the rib, he uses it to trace a circle with a horizontal band across the centre and a vertical band across the top semicircle (forming an inverted version of the T-O pattern commonly found in medieval world maps). Superimposed on this design is a crescent shape, possibly representing a ship, with two small circles below it. The place of the master and his companions is marked at the bottom of the crescent, and 'East' is marked toward the bottom. This circle is the 'insignia' of the spirits to be invoked. The master enters the circle at the designated spot and fumigates it with the marrow of a dead man. He will hear voices in the air. Holding the rib in his right hand, he conjures eight spirits to come without delay.

He then sees eight sailors, who will announce in reverential tone that they have been sent to fulfil his command. Before the ship may be employed, the spirits must take an oath to fulfil the master's wishes. Then he commands them to transport the circle and those within it to a specified place. They do so, and it will seem as if the company is sailing on the high seas. In a brief time, they arrive at their destination. When he has arrived at his destination he can command the spirits to return him quickly to the point of departure, and they will do so. Then he gives them permission to leave. When they have done so, he destroys the circle and buries the rib. He can make the spirits swear that they will repeat their service upon demand: whenever he wishes to sail again, the master makes a circle with iron, wood, his finger, or anything else, and tells his companions to enter at the specified place without fear, then he invokes the eight spirits by virtue of the oath they have already taken, ordering them once again to transport him where he wishes to go, and eight sailors will appear and transport him, within an hour, in a ship; when he wants to return, they will take him back. In one key respect this experiment differs from others for means of transportation: the transport comes with the spirits' appearance, not at a later stage after they have sent a spirit specifically delegated for the purpose. But as in other experiments involving transportation, the third stage is a return to the master's original location, and then there are measures for repeating the experiment.

The greater part of the elaborate and fanciful experiment to obtain a flying throne (no. 15) is a ritual for summoning the throne itself; spirits themselves do not appear overtly. The text plunges directly into the instructions, with no introduction. The master must go to a high and secret place when the weather is serene, with no wind. He says various prayers (the Ave Maria, part of Psalm 50, the Lesser Doxology, etc.), then makes a circle, into which he places three jars with him, and he casts into one jar ashes and flour, into another fire and salt, into the third water and chalk. He sits in the middle of the circle and calls the king of the clouds to send three guides (or spirits with the rank of duke, duces) to carry him without harm or danger to the place he wants to go. A small cloud appears, and from the three jars he hears voices calling, 'Rise up! Rise up! Rise up!' After thrice saying a conjuration, the master sees a throne in the midst of the cloud. He ascends it and conjures the three guides to carry him without delay, without harm or danger to body or soul. The later part of the text is much concerned with defence against adversaries during the flight. If the rider perceives in flight that someone is trying to harm him by causing the throne to descend toward the south, he conjures the spirit Baltim, who comes and brings a storm upon the adversary. If the harm comes from other directions, other spirits are conjured in defence. If storms, serpents, birds or other terrifying things appear above the master on his way, he conjures a certain king to remove these terrors. Perhaps the most extraordinary feature of this experiment is the sense of peril, which comes not from the potential treachery of the spirits conjured, nor from the danger of breaking the charm (perhaps by making the sign of the cross) and plunging from a great height, but rather from unspecified adversaries, presumably spirits inimical to those invoked. Whether the aiding or the opposing spirits qualify as 'spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places' (Eph. 6:12) remains unclear; the writer might claim that the spirits on both sides are neutral, or capable of both good and evil, help and harm.

EXPERIMENTS FOR INVISIBILITY

The theme of magical invisibility by means of a ring, a cape or some other object is, of course, ancient. The ring of Gyges is one of the best known manifestations because it provides the basis for a classic thought experiment regarding the virtue of a person whose invisibility allows him to act with impunity.³⁹ Probably the most commonly recommended means for becoming invisible in medieval works on magic was to carry an opal on oneself, so that its brilliance would blind all potential viewers - a method that is supposed to have worked for Constantius Africanus.⁴⁰

The Munich handbook contains one complex experiment and two simple ones to make the magician invisible. The complex one (no. 11) provides a cloak of invisibility:

I shall treat also of the art of invisibility, unknown in these days to nearly all.

When you wish to become invisible and insensible to all beings, both rational and otherwise, first, under a waxing moon on a Wednesday, in the first hour of the day, having remained chaste for three days beforehand, and with cut hair and beard, and dressed in white, in a secret place outside of town, under a clear sky, on level ground, trace a circle such as appears here, with a magnificent sword, writing these names and everything shown along with them.

When this is done, place the sword toward the west, on [the name] Firiël. And while you have it placed there, have a vessel in which there is fire with frankincense (thus), myrrh and other incense (olibano), and with the smoke from these go about the circle, suffumigating it, begining and ending with [the name] Firiël. When you have done this, take blessed water and sprinkle yourself and the circle, saying, Asperges me, Domine, ysopo . . . [Ps. 50:9 Vulg.]. When you have done this, kneel facing the east, and in a strong voice say, 'I, so-and-so, conjure you. O Fyriel, Mememil, Berith, [and] Taraor, powerful, magnificent, illustrious spirits, in whom I place all my trust, by the one, inseparable and undivided Trinity . . . that all four of you should come here with utmost humility, bound, constrained, and sworn to carry out my command, whatever I ask of you. Come without delay . . .'

When you have said this invocation four times - once toward Firiël, once toward Melemil and toward Berith and Tarator – four spirits will at once be present in the circle, saying to you, ‘Tell us what you wish, and we will obey you completely.’ You will say to them, ‘I wish a cloak of invisibility, which should be thin and incorruptible, so that when I wear it no one can see me or sense my presence.’ When you have said this, one will withdraw, and within an hour will bring forth a cloak, which you asked them to bring you. They will reply that they cannot give it to you until you first give them your white garment; you will give it to them, and when you have done so they will give you the cloak. One of them will at once put on the garment given to them; you likewise should at once put on the cloak. When you put it on, you will say to the spirits, ‘Go in peace’, and at once they will withdraw. And when they depart, you should leave the circle, carrying the sword.

On the third day, return there with the cloak, and you will find your garment, which you will take. Be sure to remember; if on the third day you do not return, or you do not take the garment left there, on the fourth day you will find nothing, but in seven days you will die. Having taken it on the third day, you will burn it in the same place. And know that when you burn it you will hear great lamenting and complaining. And when you burn it, sprinkle the ashes in the air, saying, ‘I conjure you, Firiël, Melemil, Berith, [and] Taraor, by your virtue and power, and by all things having power against you, to have no virtue or power to harm me by this cloak, but may Jesus Christ protect and defend me . . .’ When you have said this, take blessed water and sprinkle the cloak, saying, ‘I conjure you, cloak, by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, and by this water, that whenever I put you on, no one may sense my presence or see me. . . .’

The figure required here is a plain circle, with the positions east, south, and west labelled, a sword lying toward the east (with its point near the centre), the position of the master inscribed near the center, and the names Firiël toward the west, Melemil to the south, Berith to the east, and Taraor to the north, along with two characters. One of the most striking features of the experiment is the suggestion that when the master burns the returned garment he will hear lamentation and complaint, as if the garment, like the book Antoninus of Florence is said to have burned, was infested with malign spirits, contained within it in such a way that they were subject to the will of the person who disposed of the physical object.

The two simple experiments in this category are in different ways exceptional: the first (no. 21) because the techniques are without parallel in this manual, and the second (no. 45) because it not only entails a sacrificial offering to the demons but explicitly states that these spirits are worthy of sacrifice. The first of these experiments (which again has no introduction) requires the practitioner to eviscerate a black cat born in March, cut out its heart and eyes, and insert a heliotrope seed in place of each eye and two such seeds in the mouth, while saying a conjuration for invisibility. Then he buries the body in a closed garden, and waters it for fifteen days with human blood mixed with water, whereupon a plant will grow. He determines which of the plant's seeds bears the power to make him invisible by testing each seed: repeating a series of names, he takes a mirror and puts the newly grown seeds into his mouth, one by one, beneath his tongue, and when he finds the seed that causes invisibility he vanishes from the mirror.⁴¹ In the second experiment (no. 45) the master takes a white dove and a sheet of virgin parchment and on a Saturday night goes to a stream by a crossroads. He sacrifices the dove and says, 'O you to whom sacrifice is due, aid in fulfilling my will'; he repeats this formula while facing in each of the cardinal directions. Then he inscribes a figure (a complex sign, with mainly horizontal elements and elaborations) with the dove's blood. Before sunrise he returns, and he finds another sheet with a coin enclosed; when he binds this to his hair he becomes invisible. He must be sure to leave the dove and the parchment behind, presumably as sacrifices to the spirit. The text does not say how to undo the invisibility, but presumably it suffices to remove the seed from one's mouth (taking care meanwhile not to swallow) or the sheet from one's hair.

POWER OVER LIFE AND DEATH

As we have seen, the term 'necromancy' was used interchangeably in medieval parlance with various forms of 'nigromancy', which could be taken to mean 'black magic', or more literally 'black divination'. One possible reason for the conflation of these terms and concepts was the widespread assumption that when one engaged in necromancy in the original sense, conjuring the spirits of the deceased, the spirits which in fact appeared were demons in the forms of the dead. Most famously, the shade of Samuel conjured by the witch of Endor (I Samuel 28) was taken to have been a demon in the guise of Samuel.⁴² While 'necromancy' was most often used in later medieval parlance for the conjuring of demons, necromancy in its original sense was not unknown in the magic of the era. The Rawlinson necromantic manuscript, for example, gives procedures for raising the shades of the dead.⁴³ The Munich handbook comes closest in an experiment (no. 10) by which the necromancer can make a living person appear dead or a dead person appear alive:

When you wish to infuse a spirit into a dead person, so that he appears alive as he was previously, this is the procedure to follow. First have a ring made of gold. Around the outside these names should be carved: Brimer, Suburith, Tranaut; on the inside, these names: Lyroth, Beryen, Damayn. When the names have been carved, on a Sunday before sunrise, go to running water and place the ring in it, and let it remain there for five days.

On the sixth day, take it out and take it to a tomb, and place it inside, so that it remains there on Friday and Saturday. On Sunday, before sunrise, go outside of town under a clear sky, in a remote and secret place, and make a circle with a sword, and on it write with the sword the names and figures that appear here.

When this has been inscribed, enter into it [the circle] as is designated, and place the sword beneath your knees, and, facing south, recite this conjuration: 'I conjure you, all the demons inscribed on this ring' - which you should have in your hand - 'by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, and by almighty God, maker of heaven and earth . . . that all of you, constrained and bound to my will and my power, should proceed hither in benign form, so that I will not fear, and should consecrate this ring in such a way that it may possess this power, namely that whenever I place it on the finger of a dead person, one of you will enter him, and he will appear alive as before, in the same likeness and form . . .'

When you have said this once, six spirits will at once appear at the circle, requesting the ring, which you will give them. When you have given it, they will depart, and you likewise should leave the circle, taking the sword with you, and not destroying the circle.

On the sixth day, return with the sword, and say, facing south, 'I conjure you, O Brimer, Suburith, [etc.] . . . that you should come to me now without delay, bearing the consecrated ring, so that when I place it on the finger or in the hand of a living person he will fall to the ground as if dead, and when I take it away he will return to his former state, and when I place it on a dead person, as aforesaid, a spirit will enter him and he will appear alive as before . . .'

When you have said all this four times, first toward the south, and likewise toward the west, then toward the north and toward the east, you will see toward the east someone coming on horseback, who, when he arrives at the circle, will say, 'So-and-so' - naming the names written above - 'send you this consecrated ring, but they say they cannot come to you because it is not fitting; you will experience [or test] the power of the ring, and if it does not have the power that you requested, they say they are prepared to come to you whenever you wish.' You will take the ring, saying to him, 'Thanks to you and to them.' When you have said this, he will at once withdraw,⁴⁴ and you too shall depart from the circle, destroying it completely.

Keep this ring with you, wrapped in a sheet of white cloth. When you wish to cause someone to appear dead, so that he will seem to everyone devoid of life, place this ring on his finger, and he will appear to be a corpse; and when you remove it, he will return to his former state. And when you wish a corpse to appear animated, place the ring as aforesaid, or bind it to a hand or foot, and within an hour it will arise in the form to which it is previously accustomed, and will speak before all with a living voice, and will be able to display this quality for six days, for each of these [spirits] will remain in it for a day. And if you wish it to be as previously before the assigned terminus, remove the ring. And in this manner you can revive a dead person.

This most worthy experiment is to be kept hidden, because it holds great power.

The circle given above has many powers, of which I shall mention three known to me. If you draw it on a Friday with the feather of a hoopoe and with its blood on a freshly prepared sheet of parchment, and touch a person with it, you will be loved by that person above all others forever. And if you place that circle, written as aforesaid, on the head of a sick person without his knowledge, if he is to die he will say that he can by no means recover, and if he is to recover he will see that he is altogether freed. And if you carry this circle, written in like manner, on your person, no dog will be able to bark at you. And I have experienced these effects; I do not mention those I have not experienced.

The figure shown for this experiment is a double circular band with a pentagram inscribed. The names carved on the ring are repeated, along with astrological signs, within the two bands. The position of the master is indicated in the centre of the pentagram, and the cardinal directions are marked outside the bands.

The reference to the monumentum, the white shroud, and Sunday morning before dawn all make it clear that this resuscitation is intended as a replication or perhaps a parody of Christ's Resurrection. Yet pretending to resurrect the dead was one specialty associated traditionally with Antichrist. Indeed, the question whether Antichrist could genuinely revive the dead was much discussed in medieval theology. Honorius of Regensburg in his Elucidarium had his disciple ask whether Antichrist will truly raise the dead, to which the master replies:

By no means; rather, the Devil by his bewitchments [maleficiis] will enter someone's body and carry it about and speak in it, so that it will appear as if living, as it is said, 'In all signs and lying wonders' [II Thess. 2:9].⁴⁵

Hildegard of Bingen agreed that Antichrist's miracle is an illusion, and insisted that 'he is allowed to do this only occasionally, for a very short time and no longer, lest his presumption bring God's glory into scorn'.⁴⁶ The directions in The Play of Antichrist say that the person resuscitated is to be a man lying in a coffin and feigning death in battle;⁴⁷ here we have pretence of death rather than of resurrection, but the miracle remains an illusion, just as Christian theology from Patristic sources onward saw magic as inherently a delusion.

These experiments in the Munich handbook make no effort at all to dispel or counteract this viewpoint, but rather presuppose it, and indeed revel in it. But there is no sense here that the magician is trying to use his deception to seduce followers. His tricks are meant fundamentally as entertainment, chiefly for himself, perhaps, but potentially for others as well – and certainly for the reader who, in the privacy of his chamber, fantasizes about these wonders much as one might share in the fantasies of romance and related literature.

In commenting on the allegations pressed at the Council of Pisa against Benedict XIII, Margaret Harvey remarks: "The charges . . . were almost certainly a tissue of nonsense. . . . The folklore [in them] is itself interesting however, and so are the circumstances in which it could be delivered solemnly as fact to auditors at a general council by a powerful group including doctors of law and even a cardinal."⁴⁸ One might add to this that it is not altogether anachronistic to see the notion of necromancy as nonsense. At its most playful, it was a deliberate violation of sense, a fantasy of illusion, perhaps intended more for imaginative entertainment than for actual use. Yet the boundaries between sense and nonsense are rarely quite stable, and themes that seem to an outsider absolutely nonsensical could be taken in deadly earnest by some observers within the culture. What is perhaps most fascinating about these illusionist experiments is precisely their teasing ambiguity, which perhaps made it possible for writers on witchcraft to believe about witches what they had been conditioned to believe just might be true of the necromancers before them. The playful fantasies of the necromancers, then, became sources for the Boschian nightmares of the witch trials.

Notes

1 Rawlinson MS D 252, fols 75v-76v: Quia seme[re] eram egomet in India ab Alexandria infra horam et ibi mulieres ridebam michi placentissimas, et statim compleri cum tua desiderium meum, nec ibi erat oportunitas confessorum pro tunc nisi diutius expectassem, et cum ad equum meum venissem stetit tibi conuulsus est, et cum apprehendissem [76] finem fieri equus incepit se mouere non permittendo me ponere pedem in scropam, racione mee inmundicie, et ego tenui fortiter frenum et equus leuauit me in aerem per 40 pedes in altum ac tandem uidens me misere peritulum remissi manum et cecidi et fregi crux meam mirabiliter, et in India iacui per 4 menses, nec amplius visque furram sanus equum ridebam. Cum autem sanus fueram, confessus eram et egi penitentiam, et parando nucha cameram, fecerum moniter fieri sceptrum et gladium et anulum, quia anulus quem polueram virtutem perdidit. Et factis istis instrumentis, et nouiter conseruatis, vocaui istos eodem spiritus, et eundem spiritum re[re] equum michi fieri apportari [MS apportari]. Et factis conseruacionibus eundem comitavi et ascendebam pacifice, et per unum mensem continue nisi quando descendebam ad dormiendum et comedendum vel bibendum- [76v] dum semper equitavi orbes circulando totum orbem. Et in aerem feceram cum me drachere quousquo ego fere propter impressiones aeris furram suffocatus. Sed in circulando orbem plures [MS plures] repperi thesaurus et mirificos, quos postea nomi in virtute docente me tuo spirituum, quem postea inuadebam. Et sic vexaui equu[m] meum, qui cum climate ab eo descendebam et petente me quare me leui, respondit quod inde [sic] facere non potuit, dixit tamen se tam diu cicus in inferno fore quam per tantum tempus amplius equitare. Et isto modo me rogauit et amplius cum tam diu non vexarem et ipse michi cum fuero mundus fideliter cum vocaero ministraret. Et sic malo pro malo retribuerebam ei.

2 De Nigromancia of Roger Bacon, iv.5, ed. and trans. Michael-Albion Macdonald (Gillette, NJ: Heptangle, 1988), 65-70.

3 H.S.V. Jones, 'The Squire's Tale', in W.F. Bryan and Germaine Dempster, eds, Sources and Analogues of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales (New York: Humanities, 1958), 357-76. On the general theme of magical horses see Stith Thompson, Motif-Index of Folk-Literature: A Classification of Narrative Elements in Folktales, Ballads, Myths, Fables, Medieval Romances, Exemplars, Fables, Jest-Books, and Local Legends, rev. edn (Bloomington: Indiana University Press, 1955-8), B184.1 (magic horse), D1442.1 (magic bridle restrains all horses), D1626.1 (artificial flying horse), F401.3.1 (spirit in form of horse).

4 Kathryn L. Lynch, 'East meets West in Chaucer's Squire's and Franklin's Tales', Speculum, 70 (1995), 530-51, esp. 539f.

5 The Quest of the Holy Grail, trans. P.M. Matarasso (Harmondsworth: Penguin, 1969), 134-61.

6 Fols 49r-50r.

7 Hansen, Quellen, 539-44.

8 On illusionist magic in medieval literature see W. Eamon, 'Technology as magic in the late Middle Ages and Renaissance', Janus, 70 (1983), 171-212; Sydney H. Ball, 'Luminous gems, mythical and real', Scientific Monthly, 47 (1938), 496-505; Joan Evans, Magic Jewels of the Middle Ages and Renaissance (Oxford: Clarendon, 1922); Laura H. Loomis, 'Secular dramatics in the royal palace, Paris 1378, 1389, and Chaucer's "tragetoures"', Speculum, 33 (1958), 242-55; Marvin Alpheus Owings, The Arts in the Middle English Romances (New York: Bookman Associates, 1952), 138-64 ('The supernatural'); Helen Cooper, 'Magic that does not work', Medievalia et Humanistica, n.s., 7 (1976), 131-46; M. Sherwood, 'Magic and mechanics in medieval fiction', Studies in Philology, 44 (1947), 567-92; Haldeen Braddy, 'Cambyuskan's flying horse and Charles VI's "cerf volant"', Modern Language Review, 33 (1938), 41-4; W.A. Clouston, Notes on the Magical Elements in the 'Squire's Tale', and Analogues (Chaucer Society, ser. 2, vol. 26) (London: Trubner, 1890).

9 Anthony E. Luengo, 'Magic and illusion in the Franklin's Tale', Journal of English and Germanic Philology, 77 (1978), 1-16; W. Bryant Bachman, Jr., '"To maken illusion": the philosophy of magic and the magic of philosophy in the Franklin's Tale', Chaucer Review, 12 (1977), 55-67.

10 Several early Christian writers spoke of magic as deception (fraus), delusion (elusio) or phantasm - which could mean purely natural sleight of hand within the capacity of any skilled human, but it could also apply to tricks only demons could perform, which would still be illusory in the sense that what appeared to be present would not in fact be. On this theme see Francis C.R. Thee, Julius Africanus and the Early Christian View of Magic (Tubingen: Mohr, 1984), esp. 349-52 (Irenaeus), 374-6 (Origen) and 394f. (Hippolytus). For a particularly well done fictional exploration of the motif see Anita Mason, The Illusionist (New York: Holt, Rinehart & Winston, 1984).

11 Origen, Contra Celsum, i.68, trans. Henry Chadwick (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1953), 62-3.

12 It would be pointless to attempt a survey of the theme in other writings, but to take merely one example, see Picatrix: The Latin Version of the Ghayat Al-Hakim, ed. David Pingree (London: Warburg Institute, 1986), 17-18.

13 On this wide-ranging subject see, e.g., Lorne Dwight Conquergood, 'The Anglo-Saxon Boast: Structure and Function' (Northwestern University dissertation, 1977), and Daniel Cliness Boughner,

The Braggart in Renaissance Literature: A Study in Comparative Drama from Aristophanes to Shakespeare (Minneapolis: University of Minnesota Press, 1954).

14 See Joseph Hansen, Zauberwesen, Inquisition und Hexenprozeß im Mittelalter, und die Entstehung der großen Hexenverfolgung (Munich: Oldenbourg, 1900; repr. Aalen: Scientia, 1964), 1-36, on the formation of a Sammelbegriff or Kollektivbegriff of witchcraft.

15 Summa theologiae, i.109.1; Mellus maleficarum, i.4, trans. Montague Summers (London: Rodker, 1928; repr. London: Pushkin, 1948), 28-31.

16 Roswell Hope Robbins, The Encyclopedia of Witchcraft and Demonology (New York: Crown, 1959), 420-21 (with a relevant quotation from Lancashire); Francesco Maria Guazzo, Compendium maleficarum, i.12, trans. E.A. Ashwin (Secaucus, NJ: University Books, 1974), p. 37.

17 Mellus maleficarum, ii.1.3, p. 105; cf. ii.1.1 and ii.1.4, pp. 97 and 113, in which the sign of the cross is said to have similar effect but outside the context of flight. A warning against the sign of the cross outside the context of flight occurs also in Clm 849, no. 1.

18 W. Brackman, 'Magische experimenten en toverpraktijken uit een middelnederlands handschrift', Verslagen en mededeelingen van de Koninklijke Vlaamse Academie voor Taal- en Letterkunde, 1966, 28-32.

19 See Robbins, Encyclopedia of Witchcraft and Demonology, 364-7, and Richard Kieckhefer, European Witch Trials: Their Foundations in Popular and Learned Culture, 1300-1500 (London: Routledge & Kegan Paul; Berkeley: University of California Press, 1976), 41-2 (and sources in the notes).

20 I translate dapiferus thus, rather than as 'stewards', to convey somewhat more clearly that these figures actually produce the illusory banquet rather than serving at a conventional feast.

21 This passage seems to mean that one is to draw the sword itself not only to the east but to the other directions while reciting the conjuration, and then again hold the sword toward the east.

22 As I can attest from personal experience, even in the absence of demons and magicians an excited or agitated hoopoe flutters its crest, which otherwise lies back on its head.

23 Oymelos, Symofos, Manoir and Faubair in the outermost band; Demefin, Rodobayl, Tarnafin and Abelutabel in the next; Lamair, Tentetos, Leutaber and Rimazor in the next; and Masair, Lotobor, Tatomofof and Sirama in the innermost. (The forms of the names are exceptionally variable: Symofos appears elsewhere in the experiment as Symofor or Simofor, Manoir as Memoir or Memoir, Rodobayl as Rodobail, Abelutabel as Selutabel or Behutabel, Leutaber as Zeugaber, Sirama as Syrama.)

24 The spell of Pnouthia, PGM 1.42-195, in Hans Dieter Betz, ed., The Greek Magical Papyri in Translation, Including the Demotic Spells, 1 (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1986), p. 6, lines 107-14.

25 On the lore of this bird see John Gotthold Kunatmann, 'The Hoopoe: A Study in European Folklore' (University of Chicago dissertation, 1938); W.R. Dawson, 'The lore of the hoopoe', Ibis, ser. 12, 1 (1925), 31-9; Samia Al Azharia Jahn, 'Zur Volkskunde eines Zugvogels: Der Wiedehopf (Upupa Epops L.) in Nordeuropa und in den islamischen Ländern Afrikas', Anthropos, 76 (1981), 371-92; and R. Lops, 'La huppe: histoire littéraire et légendaire d'un oiseau', in Q. Mok, et al., eds, Mélanges de linguistique, de littérature et de philologie offerts à J.R. Smeyers (Leiden, 1982), 171-85. For some of these references I am indebted to Baudouin van den Abeele, Albert the Great, Man and the Beasts: De animalibus (Books 22-26), xciii.112, trans. James J. Scanlan (Binghamton, NY: CEMERS, 1987), 321.

reports that smearing hoopoe blood on the temples before sleeping causes nightmares, and that enchanters seek the bird's organs (especially its brain, tongue and heart) for 'their own purposes'. See also Betz, The Greek Magical Papyri, I, pp. 13 (PGM II.1-64), 29 (III.424-66), 129 (VII.411-16), and 210 (PDM xix.116).

26 Prospero, in Shakespeare's Tempest, IV.i.

27 For experientia, although the heading gives experimenta.

28 A largely conjectural reading of qui habet multum ipsos 15 demones pauciores uel spontaneos, the writer seems to have been copying from a source and unable to determine what the verb should be.

29 The MS reads modetis, but the context calls for modatis or the equivalent.

30 This translation simplifies and clarifies a somewhat confused passage.

31 P.M. Matarasso, trans. The Quest of the Holy Grail (Harmondsworth: Penguin, 1969), 192-94.

32 Lobsang P. Lhalungpa, trans. The Life of Milarepa (Boston and London: Shambhala, 1985), 52.

33 On the relationship in medieval Europe, see my article, 'The holy and the unholy: sainthood, witchcraft, and magic in late medieval Europe', Journal of Medieval and Renaissance Studies, 24 (1994), 355-85, reprinted in Scott L. Waugh and Peter D. Diehl, eds, Christianism and its Discontents: Exclusion, Persecution, and Rebellion, 1000-1500 (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1996), 310-37. The information about modern lamas was related to me by Janet Gyatso.

34 See also Frederic C. Tubach, Index exemplorum: A Handbook of Medieval Religious Tales (FF Communications, 204) (Helsinki: Suomalainen Tiedekatemia, Akademia Scientiarum Fennica, 1969), 245, nos 3,130 and 3,134, and the Malleus maleficarum, ii.1.3.

35 Chs 31-2.

36 Or perhaps 'with a farewell' (cum salute).

37 For de cuius clau[is] aliquantulum incidere debet.

38 The nomenclature is again variable: Lantrayth appears also as Lautrayth and Lutrayth, Feremni as Feremin and Feremim, Oliromim as Otiroomim.

39 The classic source is Plato's Republic, book 2, 359d-360c. For medieval versions of the tale see Tubach, Index exemplorum, 189, no. 2,391. For other examples of using rings for invisibility see Betz, Greek Magical Papyri, I, pp. 136 (VII.628-42) and 109 (V.447-58).

40 Albertus Magnus, The Book of Secrets of Albertus Magnus, of the Virtues of Herbs, Stones and Certain Beasts, also A Book of the Marvells of the World, ed. Michael R. Best and Frank H. Brightman (Oxford: Clarendon, 1973), 26f. The assumption was that the brilliant luminosity of the stone would blind people to one's presence; on the general subject of luminous stones, see Sydney H. Ball, 'Luminous gems, mythical and real', Scientific Monthly, 47 (1938), 496-505; and Joan Evans, Magic Jewels of the Middle Ages and Renaissance (Oxford: Clarendon, 1922).

41 Perhaps the closest classical analogue to this procedure is from the Greek magical papyri, which recommend holding a snapdragon under the tongue while sleeping, and reciting specified names on rising early, to become invisible; see Betz, Greek Magical Papyri, I, p. 135 (PGM VII.619-27, from a collection called the Diadem of Moses). See also an Italian experiment for invisibility mentioned by Charles Burnett in Magic and Divination in the Middle Ages: Texts and Techniques in the Islamic and Christian Worlds (Aldershot: Variorum, 1996), IX, pp. 6-7, where five beans are placed in a woman's skull and buried.

42 For a survey of relevant sources see Robbins, Encyclopedia of Witchcraft and Demonology, 159-60.

43 Fols 66v-67v.

44 The MS uses the second person, but the reference is clearly to the horseman.

45 Elucidarium, iii.10, in Patrologia latina, 172, col. 1163. See Linus Urban Lucken, Antichrist and the Prophets of Antichrist in the Chester Cycle (Washington: Catholic University of America Press, 1940), 63–5. On Antichrist generally see Bernard McGinn, Antichrist: Two Thousand Years of the Human Fascination with Evil (San Francisco: Harper, 1994). See also Nancy Caciola, 'Wraiths, revenants and ritual in medieval culture', Past & Present, 152 (August 1996), 3–45.

46 Hildegard of Bingen, Scivias, xi.27, trans. Mother Columba Hart and Jane Bishop (New York: Paulist, 1990), 503.

47 The Play of Antichrist, trans. John Wright (Toronto: Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, 1967), 89f.

48 Margaret Harvey, 'Papal witchcraft: the charges against Benedict XIII', in Derek Baker, ed., Sacred and Secular: The Church and the World (Oxford: Blackwell, 1973), 109.

LOVE, FAVOUR AND MADNESS: PSYCHOLOGICAL EXPERIMENTS

When we speak of one individual as 'charming' or 'fascinating' another, we still use the traditional language of magic to suggest the power that personalities can exert over each other. We know that the human mind is subject to subtle and often threatening or frightening influence; it comes as no surprise that practitioners of magic have claimed to make such influence into a kind of science available for their employment. Nor is it surprising if at times magic intended to bend the minds and wills of other persons has its desired effect, since this form of magic more than any other lends itself to the power of suggestion.¹ Outside the context of clerical necromancy, magic of this sort occurs in trials such as that of Matteuccia di Francesco at Todi in 1428. Among the many charges against Matteuccia was this:

... in the month of December of 1427 a certain woman of that territory went to Matteuccia and, after confessing that she loved a certain man, said that she would like to spread her hatred so that her man would abandon his wife and, loving only herself, do everything she wanted. Matteuccia told the woman to wash her hands and feet facing backwards and with her knees bent and when she had done so to take the water and throw it where the man and woman were going to pass, with the spirit, intent and belief that this would generate hatred between them. The woman did this and reported to Matteuccia that the water had generated hatred between the man and the woman as she had intended, so that they could not meet, but instead hated each other.²

The alienation of affection in this case is more than usually complicated: the same ritual simultaneously disrupted the married couple's relationship and bound the husband's affections, causing him to love the client so intensely that he complied with her every wish. In other cases Matteuccia prescribed such water rituals as a means for regaining affection and for transferring disease, presumably on the assumption that the fluidity of water made it a fitting symbol and medium for emotional instability, but also perhaps implying that the sort of water one might expect to find in a medieval city could plausibly be viewed as a means for contamination and contagion.

PSYCHOLOGICAL MAGIC IN THE MUNICH HANDBOOK

The Munich manuscript contains seven experiments that might be termed psychological, because they are intended to influence people's minds or wills: to cause madness or hatred, to gain favour with a potentate, to constrain the will of others, or to arouse the love of a woman. Five general features characterize these experiments. First, they typically involve elaborate preparation and ceremonies which may require more than one day. Second, the purposes and forms (other than the conjurations) have much in common with those of astral magic. Third, the basic techniques are those of 'sympathetic' or 'imitative' magic, whose meaning is explicated by accompanying incantations; magic circles either are not used or are simple and relatively unimportant, and conjurations are less significant and elaborate here than in other forms of nectromancy. Fourth, the procedures and the expected results are typically more violent than in other experiments, amounting in the erotic experiments to a kind of rape. Fifth, with rare exceptions, the magician works strictly by himself, in secret, without companions (unless one includes the women he sets out to seduce, in erotic forms of this magic); whereas the secrecy in illusionist experiments adds to the sense of excitement and adventure, the point here is more simply to evade detection in circumstances that would be extremely damaging.

The preparation and ritual is sometimes protracted over several days (nos 2, 4, 5), or at least involves multiple operations performed on a single occasion (nos 3, 12, 13, 35). One is tempted to speculate that such magic can best take effect if its victims are aware that it is being used and if they are liable to the power of suggestion, and that the more elaborate the procedures, the greater the chance that the intended victims will learn the fate that is to befall them. Indeed, in one of these experiments (no. 2) the master is instructed to go to the victim and warn him in advance of his fate. John Gager suggests in a similar context that magicians may have been 'less than totally discreet about their business, perhaps intentionally so, and let it be known that a "fix" had been put on so-and-so'.³ Such deliberate indiscretion would be especially appropriate for magic that depended entirely on psychological effect.

The purposes served by these psychological experiments are among the most common purposes found in the astral magic translated into Latin from Arabic sources such as Picatrix and Thabit ibn Qurra's De imaginibus.⁴ Thabit's treatise is devoted to experiments for such goals as destroying a city or region, becoming ruler of a place, securing the favour of a king, and arousing friendship or enmity between two persons. The magician is in every case expected to use images, not so much as aids to sympathetic magic, but as channels of astrological power; the astrological conditions for use of these images are thus of paramount importance. The psychological experiments in the Munich handbook are generally much longer and more fully developed than the materials in these Arabic sources. What they add are chiefly conjurations and operations of sympathetic magic.

These rituals consistently entail sympathetic procedures: they rely on the basic principle of sympathetic magic, sicut hic, ita illic. More often than not the master is supposed to inflict some kind of violence upon the victim's image, so that a corresponding violence will occur to the actual victim. In other words, ritual rape is a means for accomplishing physical rape. A representative object may be consumed or destroyed: a candle melted (no. 2); stones beaten together, buried, heated and crushed (no. 5); an image pierced with needles (no. 12); a bone placed in fire (nos 13 and 35). Elsewhere the representative object is used for an imitative operation symbolizing submission: one metal image is placed in a position of subordination to another (no. 4). The specifically demonic or necromantic element in these experiments is typically an appendage to this sympathetic magic, and the demons generally play a less prominent role than in illusionist or divinatory experiments. Other features of necromancy, while present, are also relegated to a position of secondary significance. The conjurations used in these experiments tend to be relatively simple. Instead of conjurations, incantations explicating the significance of the sympathetic ritual ('Just as . . . so too . . .') occupy a central position. Even the magic circles called for in these experiments are comparatively simple: indeed, in three cases there are no circles at all (nos 4, 5, 35), and in four others there is either a simple circle (nos 2, 3, 12) or a simple shield-figure substituting for a circle (no. 13).

EXPERIMENTS TO INFLICT HARM

Later medieval books of magic are seldom shy about giving straightforwardly harmful formulas. A fifteenth-century Liber de angelis, annulis, karecteribus et ymaginibus planetarum (Book of angels, rings, characters, and images of the planets) in the Cambridge University Library contains an experiment called the Vindicta Troie (Vengeance of Troy), which can be used to arouse hatred or to cause bodily harm or even death. The procedure calls for making an image on the day and in the hour of Saturn, in the name of the person to be harmed. The image must be made of wax, preferably from candles used at a funeral. It should be made as ugly as possible; the face should be contorted, and there should be hands in place of feet and vice versa. The victim's name should be inscribed on the forehead of the image, the name of the planet Saturn on its breast, and the seals or characters of Saturn between its shoulders. The operator should call upon the spirits of Saturn to descend from on high and afflict the named victim. The image should be fumigated with various substances, including human bones and hair, then wrapped in a funeral cloth and buried in some unclean place, face downward. If the magician wishes to harm any particular member of the victim's body, there are instructions for binding the corresponding member on the image with a funeral cloth and piercing the image with a needle; to kill the victim, the magician should insert the needle into the spine, from the head down to the heart. To cure the victim afterward (unless, presumably, the experiment has succeeded in killing him), one must unbury the image, remove the needle and anoint the wounds that are left, rub out the inscriptions, and wash the image in a fountain. The Liber de angelis also prescribes a technique for arousing discord: the operator makes one image of Saturn and another of Mars (which counted as 'unfortunate' planets), one holding a lance and the other a sword, and buries them positioned over against each other.⁵

If one were to judge from the trial records, one might suppose that necromancy was used chiefly to bring personal harm and death to enemies. Thus, Guichard of Troyes was charged in the early fourteenth century with hiring a witch and a friar to kill the queen of France by image magic and invocation of demons,⁶ and in 1441 Eleanor Cobham was accused of employing a witch and two scholars learned in astrology and necromancy, in part to kill the king of England,⁷ to cite only two examples. Yet of all the experiments in the Munich manual, only two (nos 2 and 5), are designed specifically and exclusively to cause harm, and the damage is specifically psychological; the manuscript contains no experiments for killing enemies or inflicting physical harm on them. Even these two experiments designed to bring harm provide countermagic for the master to use if he wishes to undo his own mischief (as does the Liber de angelis).

Let us look first at an experiment designed to bring enmity between two friends (no. 5):

When you wish to sow hatred and mortal enmity between two men or women, or a man and a woman, you must take two shiny round rocks from a river.⁸ On one you must carve the name of one person, with the names Cartutay, Momabel, Sobil and Geteritacon. On the other [you must carve] the name of the other person and the names Puzanil, Pimaton, Folsitoy, and Mansator. These names are highly antipathetic to each other. When they are carved, you must bury one under the threshold of the one in whose name it was made, if you can, and if you cannot, bury them beneath the threshold of any inhabited house, and the other likewise under the threshold of the other, as has been said, or under some house, as is written above.⁹ And let them remain there seven days and seven nights.

Then remove them before sunrise, take them to a secret place, and cast them into a fire, saying, 'I conjure you most inimical spirits, by the glory of the everlasting God, to sow and arouse as much hatred between so-and-so and so-and-so, whose names are carved here on these stones, as there is between you.' When you have said this three times, take the stones from the fire, saying, 'When their fury is enkindled against us, perhaps the waters had swallowed them up' [Ps. 123:3f. Vulg.]. Then cast [proiciamus] them into very cold water and let them stay there under a clear sky for three days and nights. On the fourth day take them and fumigate them with sulphur, saying, 'I conjure all you hateful and malignant, invidious and discordant demons . . . to arouse at once between so-and-so and so-and-so as much hatred as there was between Cain and Abel. Arouse them and inflame them so much that one cannot stand to see the other, and one will afflict the other with immeasurable hatred, as a rebel.¹⁰ May all love, affection, fraternity and concord be removed from them; let them be turned to enmity and utter hatred.' When you have said this three times, with constant fumigation, store them [the stones] away.

The next night, beat the rocks together and strike one against the other, saying, 'I do not smash these stones, rather I smash so-and-so and so-and-so, whose names are written here, so that one will at once afflict the other and they will torment each other from now on with unconditional hatred.'

And do this three times, each night and day, for several days. And immediately you will see or hear that they have become enemies and hate each other bitterly, so that neither can abide to see the other.

If you wish to separate them altogether, causing one to flee the other, proceed as follows. Arise before sunrise on a Sunday, under a waning moon, especially when it is in combustion, and proceed in the direction of the sunrise.¹¹ When you have done this, take two stones that you have brought with you there, and rub them together vigorously, pounding one against the other, saying, 'I do not smash these rocks, etc.' When you have said this three times, bury whichever of them you wish. Then withdraw and go toward the west, and make a ditch there and bury the other in that place, saying, 'As I have separated these stones, thus may so-and-so separate himself from so-and-so, and may they be as distant as these stones.' When it has been buried, withdraw. And you will see them estranged, each separated from the other.

This experiment must be kept secret, for it possesses ineffable power, and no remedy is to be found before they have been estranged and hate each other bitterly.

But if you wish to restore them to their initial friendship, unbury the stones and place them in a furnace, and when they are well cooked smash them to little bits, and paste them together with water, and let [the newly formed mass] dry. When it is dried, cast it into the water of a river, saying, 'Let all enmity be taken away that was between so-and-so and so-and-so, and let them return to their former affection, by the mercy of the gracious God, who does not regard the misdeeds of sinners. Amen.' And you may be sure that on account of this they will be joined together at once, and all anger will be taken away, and they will enjoy their initial concord.

Not only is the imitative action with stones at the heart of this experiment, even the conjuration involves an extension of the principle of imitative magic: the enmity produced by the magic is already manifested in the 'hateful and malignant, invidious and discordant demons' whose services are invoked, and the archetypal enmity between Cain and Abel serves as a paradigm for that intended by the magician. Apart from the verbal formulas, the magic is simple to the point of seeming primitive: the symbolic objects are not carved in the forms of the individuals represented, but are mere rocks, and the abuse to which they are subject is fairly simple exposure to the inimical elements of earth, fire and water. One might wonder why the sympathetic reversal provided in this experiment does not have the effect of utterly destroying the victims. The stones have all along symbolized the victims, and the crushing should have dire effects on them if the logic of sympathetic magic is consistently maintained. Obviously, however, this is not how the writer of the manual viewed matters. From his perspective the operations evidently took effect not simply ex opere operato but in accordance with the intentions of the operator as expressed in the accompanying words.

Elsewhere the procedures for separation magic were more imaginative but still essentially imitative. Riccola di Puccio of Pisa was executed at Perugia in 1347, in part for using magic to bring disaffection between a husband and wife; she recited charms and conjurations over an egg from a black hen, calling upon 'Mosectus, Barbectus and Belsabuct, the prince of demons', as well as other demons of various ranks, then he cut the egg in half and gave one part to a female cat and the other to a male dog, saying, 'In the name of the aforesaid demons may the love between [the two] be sundered as this egg is divided between the dog and the cat, and let there be such affection between them as between this dog and this cat.'¹²

The other experiment in this category in the Munich handbook (no. 2) is intended to inflict dementia. The practitioner goes to his victim and openly recites a conjuration commanding the malign spirit Mirael to enter and afflict his brain. Then he makes a pen with wood from the victim's door, and he inscribes a brief conjuration and a magic circle – a single band with the names of Mirael and the victim in the centre, and the names of ten demons within the band – on a piece of linen, and conjures the demons thrice. A set of sympathetic operations follows. The master goes to the victim's house, urinates 'in the manner of a camel',¹³ and buries the cloth; while doing so he says, 'I bury you, so-and-so, in the name of the demons written round about you, so that these demons may always be around him, and all your power may be buried.' He goes home and makes a candle, inscribed as was the circle. He lights the candle, saying, 'Just as this candle, made for the destruction of N., burns and is consumed, so may all the power and knowledge he possesses be turned to madness . . .' He then extinguishes the candle, saying, 'Just as this candle is extinguished, so may all the power in N. be utterly consumed.' When he has repeated the procedure over seven days, the victim will become demented, and all who see him will marvel, though he himself will not recognize his condition and will assume that others are mad. If he wishes to restore the victim's sanity, the master goes to his house and enjoins the demons to depart, thus counteracting the effects of his triple conjunction. Then he further nullifies the magic by removing the inscribed cloth and casts it into a fire, saying, 'Just as this fire consumes this cloth, so may all this craft (ars) done by me against N. be wholly undone,' then he casts the ashes into a flowing stream.¹⁴ While the countermagic is itself sympathetic, it is not (in the same way as with no. 5) strictly a reversal of the original sympathetic magic involving the burning and extinguishing of a candle.

There are recipes for madness in Picatrix, which involve not imitative magic but potions (made from the body parts of a cat, a hoopoe, a bat, a toad and other creatures) to be taken in food or drink, or a fume to be inhaled, whereupon the victim will be bedevilled (demoniabitur), losing his senses and memory, and not even knowing where he is.¹⁵ The Munich handbook is perhaps remarkable for its thoroughgoing avoidance of such potions. It rarely combines the techniques of demonic with those of natural magic, and avoids giving recipes for potions whose magical virtue would normally be seen as inherent and natural, but does use imitative rituals, more readily seen as signs and signals to demons.

The burial of some symbolic object is a recurrent theme in these psychological experiments, far more than in other types. Parallels can easily be cited in astral magic, for example in one section of Picatrix, which prescribes burying astrological images to attain friendship or love, to secure the fondness and obedience of a ruler's subjects or a lord's servant, to separate two friends, to cause a person to fall under the wrath of a king, to bring love between men and women – but also to destroy an enemy or a city or house, to prevent the construction of a building, to release a captive, to put a person to flight, to get rid of scorpions, to increase the fertility of the fields.¹⁶ The psychological experiments of the Munich handbook which prescribe burial of some object may perhaps be borrowed from astral magic and elaborated with conjurations and other embellishments. Burial ensures secrecy, fixes the object's location, and perhaps implies an appeal to demons or other chthonic powers. It makes the most obvious sense when a particular location is to be affected: like dragons hidden beneath the foundations of a building and causing its disruption, a buried image can work insidiously on the place where it lies. When the magic is psychological, the point is presumably to affect the victim's mind by establishing a kind of magical force field within his or her environment. One might even speak of this as environmental magic, designed to afflict individuals indirectly by planting sinister forces in or near the places they frequent.

AN EXPERIMENT FOR GAINING FAVOUR

Magical techniques for ensuring favour in the eyes of a dignitary, or for prevailing over one's adversaries in a court of law, are common in the literature of medieval magic, although they rarely if ever become subject matter for prosecution. They presuppose a magician connected to court circles or perhaps to the ecclesiastical hierarchy, or else a magician serving a client with political ambitions. In short, the context for use of such magic is precisely the sort that Edward Peters envisages: a courtly world rife with ambitions and ensuing tensions because of the possibilities for upward mobility and the threat of precipitous downward mobility.¹⁷ The magic recommended for such purposes is often fairly simple. One fifteenth-century compilation prescribes writing out the SATOR-AREPO square on virgin parchment with the blood of a white dove, then carrying it on one's person or in one's hand, to ensure favour in the sight of all. The same collection says that various herbs, collected before sunrise in the sign of Virgo, will prevent people from speaking evil against the bearer.¹⁸ Another compilation recommends writing out certain characters and carrying them in one's left hand as a way of obtaining favours from any person.¹⁹

From one point of view any attempt to manipulate another person's mind or will is a hostile act. There are none the less significant differences from one experiment to another in the apparent attitude of the master and in the expected attitude of the victim: in the experiments we have examined above, the master is overtly hostile to the victims and expects them to undergo experiences that will be unpleasant for them; in the next experiments the master displays no overt hostility and anticipates that the people affected will become favourably disposed toward him, without feeling harmed or afflicted, and if anyone feels aggrieved it will presumably be either a rival claimant to favour or the victim at a later stage, when he realizes his will has been manipulated.

The Munich handbook provides one rather elaborate experiment designed to gain favour with any manner of dignitary (no. 4):

. . . I wish for you to read a well tested art for obtaining dignity and honour, status, and the supreme and undying love of a king, prelate, lord or, in general, any man you wish.

First, you should have two soft rocks, which you should rub together so that their surfaces are entirely flush. When you have done this, you should carve in one the image of him [whose favour] you wish, beginning from the head and proceeding to the feet, making first the front and then the back side, and carving a crown on the head if it is a king, and so forth according to his dignity. When this is carved, you will carve on the [other] stone your own form, as best you can, beginning with the head, as before, first the front and then the back. When you have done this, inscribe his name on the forehead of the first [image], in the manner of a seal, and your name on yours. When you have done this, in the first hour of Sunday under a waxing moon take silver or tin and melt it over a fire. When it is melted, cast it in his form, saying, 'I, so-and-so, wishing to obtain favour and be revered by him, and honoured and feared forever, form [this] image, made and carved in his name, by virtue of which he should love me without measure forever.'

When you have done this, you should have an iron stylus, and on his forehead carve the name 'Dyacom'; on his chest, the three names 'Pumeon', 'Terminas', and 'Peripaos'; and on [his] shoulders the six names 'Midam', 'Fabni', 'Gebel', 'Darail', 'Vmeloth' and 'Thereoth'; and on his stomach the name 'Byreoth'. When you have inscribed these things, you should have a clean linen cloth, and wrap the image in it, then store it away carefully.

On Thursday, at the first hour of the day, kindle a fire and similarly melt the tin and cast it in your form, saying, 'I, so-and-so, form my own image according to my likeness, by which I may rule forever over so-and-so and be loved and feared by him for all eternity.' When you have made this, wrap it likewise in another linen cloth.

Note that the image of him whose grace you wish to obtain should be the length of one *semis*²⁰ when it is carved in the stone, and the proportions of the stone should be such that your image may be larger than his by a third. And you should place a sceptre on your image as well.

When you have done these things carefully, as instructed, on the following Friday at the first hour you should fumigate his image with these aromatics - cinnamon, long pepper and the herb agrimony - saying, 'I, so-and-so, exorcize you, image formed in the name of so-and-so, by the inseparable, unique, and undivided Trinity, and by all the thrones, dominations, and powers, and principalities, and [by the virtue] of all creatures, that by your power I may obtain the favour and love of so-and-so, in whose name it is made.'

Having said this three times, continue as follows: 'O Dyacon, Pumeon, Termines, Peripaos, Midain, Fabin, Gebel, Dorayl, Vmeloth, Tereoth and Bireoth, most benevolent spirits who sow concord, with the greatest vehemence I, so-and-so, pray you, I supplicate you, [and] I beg you, by the only Son of God, who by the shedding of his blood raised the dead human race, that by this image made in the name of so-and-so you may bind him to me in such a manner that he will revere me above all mortals, never wavering from agreement with me, but always obeying my commands. May he take pains to please me, by our same Lord Jesus Christ, who lives and reigns unto ages of ages. Amen.'

When you have said this prayer, take your hold your image in your right hand, and the other in your left, and join his image to yours, saying three times, 'He has subjected the nations to us, and the peoples under our feet' [Ps. 46:4 Vulg.]. Then take a small iron chain and bind it to the neck of his image, placing the other end in the right hand of your image. Then, when it is firmly bound, say, 'Just as you, O image formed in the name of so-and-so, are subjected and bound to my image, thus may so-and-so be bound to me utterly for all eternity.' Then take both hands of his image in your hands and bend them behind his back, saying, 'By this image I bind the hands of so-and-so, that his hands may never have any power against me.' Bend the head of his image to the ground, saying, 'As this image, made in the name of so-and-so, stands before me with bended neck, thus may so-and-so never waver from my will, but follow me at all times and always serve me and love me and revere me for ever above all others, and strive to praise me.'

When you have done this, with constant fumigation, take your image and place the other at its back, so that its face touches the shoulders of your image, and while holding them thus, say, 'As this image, made and fashioned in the name of so-and-so, stands in the greatest subjection to this image made in my name, thus may so-and-so be subjected to me, as long as these images are preserved.' Then wrap them up, as has been said, in a clean linen cloth. When they have been wrapped, place them in some kind of vessel and carry them secretly through the city and before his presence in his dwelling, if you can. And you should do this for an entire day. In the evening you should bury the images in such a place and far enough down that they will [not] be discovered, and you will see wonders. But if you cannot go before him or into his dwelling, bury [them], as has been said, wherever you will, and you will be loved by him above all things.

For Parmen[ides] used this experiment to obtain favour from the king of the Persians.

This experiment requires two conjurations: one addressed to the image of the dignitary in question, which is thrice 'exorcized' that it may secure honour from the person represented; the other a 'prayer' addressed to eleven spirits distinguished for their benevolence and their skill at inspiring concord. But the heart of the experiment is a series of five imitative rituals involving both images: first binding the two figures together, second binding the dignitary's image to the magician's own with a small iron chain, third binding the hands of the dignitary's image behind its back, fourth bowing the head of the dignitary's image to the ground, and fifth placing the two figures together, with the dignitary's face touching the shoulders of his own image as a sign of subjection.

The sympathetic operations here are complex but suggest a sort of play, almost like a child's playful use of a toy. Like many experiments in the manual, this one comes with a historical testimonial: 'Parmenides', we are told, used this procedure to gain favour with the king of the Persians. Testimonials of this kind are of course window-dressing, comparable to a herbal master's fanciful claim that one remedy was used by Plato himself.²¹ The concluding promise that the magician 'will see wonders' is again a common formula,²² which blurs any distinction between the magical and the wondrous or marvellous.

EROTIC MAGIC: BACKGROUND

If certain of these experiments can be seen as 'friendly' and others as hostile, the experiments for love represent a curious mixture. The imitative procedures involve violence: the image or other object that magically represents the desired woman is burned or pierced. The immediate effect on the victim is likewise violent: she is afflicted with obsessive passion, and has no rest until she yields to the master's desires. Ultimately, however, the woman does submit and is made to feel more than mere friendship. The conception of love that is here assumed may owe something at least indirectly to the tradition of courtly literature, and in particular to its Ovidian sense that love is a disease or an affliction. One Netherlandish compilation gives detailed instructions for 'the best and surest experiment in the world to secure friendship or love between a man and a woman', and says that in Latin such love is called 'amor herreo', and is burning and indissoluble.²⁵

The subject of erotic magic is too extensive to cover fully here,²⁴ but at least eight key points should be made by way of overview. First, magic may be used to persuade or coerce another person to consent to sex (sex-inducing magic), to intensify the sexual experience of already willing partners (sex-enhancing magic), or to induce a lasting amorous relationship (love-magic). Second, the most common technique for love-magic was administration of potions, as can be seen from penitential prohibitions and secular legislation as well as literary sources.²⁵ Certain objects or substances borne on one's person were also thought to have aphrodisiac qualities, such as the stone allecory and the herb henbane.²⁶ Third, while various herbs were used as aphrodisiacs (St John's wort, valerian, vervain),²⁷ there seems to have been a preference for animal parts or human substances (such as semen) either literally or symbolically associated with sex and procreation.²⁸ Fourth, in trials for erotic magic it was usually women who were charged with alienating men's affections through magical means, but the surviving formulas for sex-inducing magic typically envisage the use of this magic by men to entice unwilling women.²⁹ Fifth, in both the trials and the manuscript prescriptions, love-magic is most commonly intended to restore the lost affections of a partner.³⁰ Indeed, certain women accused of witchcraft seem to have been specialists in such restoration of affection.³¹ Sixth, in astral magic with erotic intent, the magical virtues whose potency seemed most relevant were, obviously enough, those of Venus. Thus, a stone, metal plate or image might be made on the day of Venus (Friday), at the hour of Venus, and bearing the sign of Venus for use in such magic; one might even be advised to say a 'prayer' to the spirit associated with that planet.³² Seventh, the power of the sacred might be employed in erotic magic, in ways that would presumably seem blasphemous to authorities: a slip of parchment with a psalm on it might be left where a prospective lover would walk, or a woman who kissed her husband while holding a consecrated host in her mouth might gain his affection.³³ A prayer addressed to God might lead into a conjuration to compel a husband, or a litany adapted to form a coercive spell.³⁴ Eighth, erotic magic figures prominently in medieval literature – in the romances especially, herbal love potions frequently play a prominent role – but the significance of this magic is often ambiguous. For example, in Thomas of Britain's version of Tristan the love potion seems to function as a symbol of the love that Tristan and Iseult have already begun to feel, rather than as in any simple sense the cause of that love.³⁵

The techniques for erotic magic mentioned so far were natural rather than demonic, but sexual submission could also be won by necromancy. Oldradus da Ponte explained in the early fourteenth century that invoking demons to tempt women is mortally sinful but is not heresy, because temptation is proper to the nature of demons and their use for this service thus implies no false belief.³⁶ Formulas for such magic do survive. An experiment for love in the Libre de angelis requires going to a crossroads or a gallows, entering a circle traced on the ground, sacrificing a dove, tearing its flesh apart, dispersing the remains in the air, and invoking a spirit of dubious character named Zagam ('O Zagam, accept this dove which I sacrifice to you!'). One must repeat this operation a second and a third time; after the last of these sacrifices one adds, 'I ask you, O Zagam, and all your companions, to bring forth [the desired woman]', who should be burning with love for the magician and should comply with his will. The next morning he must return to the circle and pick up whatever 'figure' he finds there; he need only show this to the desired woman and she will love him without bounds – as has been proven, the text adds.³⁷ In a trial from the later fifteenth century at Tournai, where a priest was charged with attempting to seduce a girl by drawing her image in charcoal on a tile, baptizing the figure, sprinkling it with holy water, making a second figure out of wax and baptizing it as well, then conjuring demons according to a book of magic.³⁸

The case from Tournai is highly reminiscent of the Netherlandish experiment mentioned earlier as a technique for effecting amor hereticus,³⁹ combining prayer and conjuration with image magic:

You must do it on a Friday in the first hour after midnight, under a waxing moon. Take a tile fresh out of the oven and draw a picture, while saying, 'I, N., draw this picture in the form and likeness of the person N., daughter or son of so-and-so.' Make the picture with a steel pin [punte]. Begin with the head and proceed downward, saying, 'May Venus help.' . . . When [the image] is done, make fire with any wood you will. Stand up, take the image in your hand, turn south, and read this [Latin] prayer: 'Almighty, eternal God, who in the beginning created heaven and earth, the sea and all that is in them; who created Adam and Eve according to your likeness and placed them in the earthly paradise . . . I invoke you in supplication, most gracious Father; in your great power hear me as I ask and knock [cf. Mt 7:7], that I may be able to constrain those malign spirits, the angels who have power to bind a man to a woman, and vice versa, a woman to a man, and especially those four spirits who hold dominion and power over those spirits in the four parts of the globe, to wit, Astaroth, Aroch, Godras, [and] Vynicon.' Say this prayer three [more] times [to north, east, and west]. Then say the following [Latin] conjuration, turning first to the south: "O Astaroth, prince of the south, I conjure you with all the [spirits] under your command, who have power to compel the love of a woman or a man, by Alpha and Omega, the first and last, Abios, Abics, Rubeus, Rubet, Caste, Hely, Messias, Sabaoth, Adonay, Sother, Emanuel; I conjure you, N.; by the Annunciation of our Lord Jesus Christ; by his Passion; by his Resurrection . . . by the head of your prince and King Lucifer . . . and by all the infernal powers by whom you can be conjured and entreated, that you should withdraw from your proper place in the south and [carry out my command]."⁴⁰

The case at Tournai is in at least one respect typical necromantic practice : the alleged perpetrator was a cleric. Similarly, the use of Latin formulas in the Dutch experiment suggests that the intended user was clerical, even if he was not in major orders. Analogous cases are easily adduced. When the Carmelite friar Peter Recordi was tried by an inquisitorial tribunal at Carcassonne in 1329, he confessed that over five years he had performed terrible conjurations over wax images, smeared and sprinkled with blood from a toad and from his own nostrils, all as sacrifice to the Devil. He then placed the images beneath thresholds of women he wanted to seduce, and thus he had his way with three women and had been on the verge of success with others. He had believed that these images held power to coerce women, or, if the victims were refractory, to bring down upon them affliction at the hands of demons. On one occasion he pierced one of the images in its stomach, and blood oozed out.⁴¹ Again, an English chaplain named William Netherstreet was charged in 1377 with using 'conjurations and incantations' to bring a married woman to his chamber at night so he could 'take her violently in adultery'. He protested his own innocence.⁴²

In other cases it was non-clerical males who were charged with using specifically demonic magic for love. At Carcassonne in 1410, Geraud Cassendi, a notary, was tried by an inquisitor for invoking demons as a means for debauching women and girls. He was said to have placed on his shirt gold scrapings from an image of the Virgin. Then he invoked demons with conjurations read from a book, but when a swarm of evil spirits actually appeared, a witness to the rite was so terror-struck that he hurled a shoe at them and bade them withdraw, which they did. On another occasion as well Cassendi is supposed to have gone into the woods and invoked demons.⁴³ And when the inquisitor Piero di ser Lippo wrote to the government of Siena in 1382 about magicians in the village of

Rugomagno, he reported that one Agnolo di Corso had worshipped and invoked Satan and Beelzebub, and had invoked demons to kill people and to compel men to go to women.⁴⁴

To be sure, there are cases in which women, too, were said to use specifically demonic magic for erotic effect. In 1324 Alice Kyteler was charged with using 'the intestines and innards of cocks sacrificed . . . to demons', with other materials, partly for erotic magic,⁴⁵ and a woman tried by Heinrich Kramer at Innsbruck in 1485 was said to have instructed others in the art of invoking the devil to arouse love or illness.⁴⁶ In these cases it seems less clear that the demonic element was explicit, that the women were in fact making use of necromantic techniques, and that their magic was marked with the same degree of ritual complexity as can be seen in the clerical practice of erotic necromancy. What is perhaps more likely is that women's natural magic was being interpreted as if it were similar to the demonic magic more often practiced by clerics and at times by other men.

AN EROTIC EXPERIMENT IN THE MUNICH HANDBOOK

Our necromantic manual in Clm 849 includes four experiments said to induce love – one may assume sexual compliance is the main intent – and at least three of them are complex rituals analogous to the erotic necromancy seen in the judicial records. The first of these experiments (no. 3) is in one sense the least violent: rather than inflicting physical harm on the woman's image, the master afflicts it with a kind of spiritual harm by inscribing on it the names of demons which are to afflict her. In any case, the writer has no scruples at all about bringing severe psychological pressure to bear in his magical seduction:

When you wish to have the love of whatever woman you wish, whether she is near or far, whether noble or common, on whatever day or night you wish, whether for the furtherance of friendship or to its hindrance, first you must have a totally white dove and a parchment made from a female dog that is in heat, from whom it is most easily to be had [de qua est habere leuissimum]. And you should know that this kind of parchment is most powerful for gaining the love of a woman. You should also have a quill from an eagle. In a secret place, take the dove and with your teeth bite into it near the heart,⁴⁷ so that the heart comes out, and with the eagle's quill write on the parchment with the [dove's] blood the name of her whom you wish, and draw the image of a naked woman as best you can, saying, 'I draw so-and-so, N., daughter of so-and-so, whom I wish to have, in the name of these six hot spirits, namely Tubal, Satan, Reuces, Cupido, Afalion, Duliatus, that she may love me above all others living in this world.'

When you have done this, write on the forehead her name and the name

'Tubal', saying, 'You are so-and-so, daughter of so-and-so, from now on disposed to my will, and you are Tubal [inscribed] on her forehead. I command you to remain, binding the senses of her head and causing her to love me alone.'

Then write on her right arm 'Satan', and on her left arm 'Reuces'. When these [names] have been written, say, 'As you, Satan, and you, Reuces, are inscribed on this image made in the name of so-and-so, may you so afflict her arms without delay, so that she can do nothing but desire to embrace me.'

When you have this, write your own name near the heart of the image, saying, 'As I am on the heart of this image, may so-and-so, N., thus have me in her heart day and night.'

When you have done this, write on the genitals of the image the name 'Cupid', saying, 'As you, Cupid, are on the genitals of this image, may you thus remain always on the genitals of so-and-so, arousing her so that she despises all men of this world and desires me alone, and may the fire of love for me torment and inflame her.'

When you have done this, write on the right leg 'Afalion', and on the left leg 'Duliatius'. When these have been written, say, 'As you Afalion, and you Duliatius, are inscribed on this image, may you sit on the legs of so-and-so, afflicting her legs with such vehement love for me that she has no wish or desire to go anywhere but here.'

When you have said this, take the image with both hands, kneel, and say, 'I have drawn the heart and mind of so-and-so with this image, and with powerful invocation I arouse her to love, desire, and yearn for me, and to have me in mind all night in her sleep, through Our Lord Jesus Christ, who lives and reigns and commands forever.'

When you have said this, take myrrh and saffron, kindle a fire, and fumigate the image, saying this conjuration: 'I conjure all you demons inscribed on this image, by your lords to whom you are bound in obedience - Sobedon, Badalam and Berith - that you should inflame so-and-so, whose image is designed in this name, to love of me, so that day and night she may think of me, [and] may hope for me, until she fulfils my will with ardor [cum affectu]. And as you are inscribed and fixed on this image, may you thus dwell in her until I do with her whatever I wish.'

When you have said this conjuration three times, and made the fumigation, take a hair from the tail of a horse and suspend the parchment with this hair, so that it moves in the air, and let it hang. On that day, or the next, or some other, or whenever you can, go to that woman, and without doubt she will be very glad to see you, and will say she cannot live without you. And this will occur immediately, and she will do your heart's desire, and will love you above all things for all eternity.

If you keep this image formed in her name, in which there is such power, you will obtain from it, more wondrous yet, this sign: before you have seen her, as soon as this image is made, when you proceed toward her she will be so enamoured [filocapta] of you that when she sees you, you will not withdraw from her company deprived, but rather you will attain satisfaction in whatever you desire. If you cannot approach her, whether from fear or because of distance or any other obstacle, you can still have her brought by the aforesaid demons, who are so effective that if you were in the east, within an hour they could carry her without danger from the west, and likewise they could return her, without exposure.

The image having been made as has been said, and suspended on a particular day, at any hour of the day, you may blow on it so that it moves with your breath, and likewise on the second and third day. On the night of the third day, or on the day itself, either alone or with three faithful companions, take the image and hang it around your neck with the [horse's] hair, and have it lie on your chest. And take a sword and make with it a circle on the ground. When you have made the circle, stand inside it and summon your companions (if you have any), who should do nothing but stand in the circle and watch the spectacle [ludum] – but it is better if you do not have them. Take an iron stylus and trace [a band with names in it] round the circle, as is shown here, preserving constant silence.

The circle is shown as a single band containing the names Rator, Lampoy, Despan, Brunlo, Dronoth, Maloqui, Satola, Gelbid, Mascifin, Nartim and Lodoni. The centre of the circle is labelled 'Place of the Master'.

When you have done so, say this conjuration: 'I conjure you demons inscribed in this circle, to whom is given the power and capacity to seduce and bind in the love of men, by the virtue and power of the divine majesty; and by the thrones and dominations and powers and principalities of Him who spoke and they were made; and by those who ceaselessly cry with one voice, "Holy, holy, holy . . ."; and by these names which cause you terror, namely Rator, Lampoy, [etc.]; and by this ring that is here; and by the innumerable powers belonging to you and your superiors, that wherever you are, you should rise up from your places without delay and go to so-and-so, and immediately, without deception lead her here, and take her back when I wish. And let no one be aware of this or take account of it.'

When you have said this three times, gazing at a ring, you will hear a voice, saying, 'Behold, we are here!' Immediately you will see six handsome and gentle young men, saying to you with one voice, 'We are here, ready and willing to obey your command. Tell us what you wish, and at once we will do it.' You should say, 'Go to so-and-so and bring her to me without delay.' When you have said this, they will at once depart, and within an hour they will bring her without harm.

You should know that none of these [six] can enter the circle, but they will bring her to it and she will stretch out her hand to you, and you will draw her in. She will be a bit astonished, but quite willing to remain with you. I should inform you that it is better to make the circle as large as possible, because in it you can make a circle [sic], and in it you can stretch out more effectively. For if anything of yours [any part of your body?] should go outside the circle, it would be bad for you. When the woman has come, all the spirits will vanish.

You can keep the woman in the circle as long as you please. For when the woman has entered the circle, you should say to the spirits, 'Let one of you go to the place from which you brought so-and-so and remain there in [her] form while I have her here.' When you have said this, they will all depart in silence. On the day or night and month and year when it pleases you to have her return home, say: 'O you spirits, who brought so-and-so here, take her and carry her to her home. And whenever I wish her back, be compliant in carrying her here. Go, therefore, by the wondrous powers which you ineffably exercise.' When you have said this three times, five spirits will come and carry her off in your sight.

When she enters the circle and you greet her, remember to touch her with the image that you have around your neck, and on this account she will love you for all eternity and will not care to see anyone but you. While you are with the woman, the image which you should keep around your neck will always be invisible to the woman herself, and when she leaves you should take it from your neck and lay it aside carefully in some sort of vessel. When it is thus laid aside, erase the entire circle, and you may depart safely. And when you wish to have [her] again come to you, do as is said above.

And note that this experiment is most effective and is not at all dangerous. By this experiment alone, Solomon had whatever women he wished. And let this suffice on the subject of obtaining women. And it should be carried out with the greatest solemnity.

This experiment contains conjurations, but they play a less prominent role than the auxiliary magical techniques, especially the use of an image for sympathetic magic. The sympathetic identification of the image with the woman portrayed is accomplished solely through assignation of her name: the writer does not emphasize that the image should be in any way realistic (e.g., that it should have some specific feature in common with the prototype), nor does he advise that the image be baptized in the woman's name. The suspension of the image to be blown about freely in the air is reminiscent of a type of aeromancy catalogued by Johannes Hartlieb, involving the suspension of a wax image or atzman, left to blow in the wind so that the person in whose name it is prepared will thereby be afflicted.⁴⁸ The blood of a dove must be used here — and a dove must be offered as sacrifice in the amatory experiment from the Liber de angelis given above -- presumably because the dove is traditionally associated with Venus.⁴⁹

The experiment contains an elaborate contingency procedure, used to fetch the woman, which differs markedly from the original sympathetic magic. The woman's image is still used: the experimenter wears it around his neck, although it is invisible to her; as she leaves the circle he touches her with it, and from then on she will love only him; when she departs, he should take it off and keep it safe in a vessel. For immediate purposes at hand, however, the image becomes less significant and the role of the demons becomes proportionally greater. It is the demons who fetch the woman in response to a conjuration, and it is a demon who takes the woman's place and prevents others from noting her absence. When the magician orders one of the spirits to go and take the woman's place and assume her form while she is absent, we have an element of illusionist magic embedded in an experiment designed mainly for psychological effect. Both the problem and the solution are obvious enough that it is not surprising to find parallels in other cultures. Thus, Krishna is said to have used his powers of illusion (māyā) to fashion replicas of his female devotees (the gopīs), so that when they went for trysts with him their doubles could lie beside their husbands.⁵⁰ The contingency procedure in the Munich experiment differs from the original formula also in its use of a circle, which is simple in form but important in its effects, serving both as a location for the conjuration and as a place for rendezvous with the woman.

The experiment is referred to as a kind of game or spectacle, a ludus, and any companions present are to serve merely as spectators, suggesting that the necromancer's initial ritual may have the character of a performance, contrasting sharply with the privacy of the tryst itself, the sexual games that follow, which not even the spirits may witness. That something more serious than a game is involved is suggested by the reference to the woman as filocapta, bound by love, a condition which the Malleus maleficarum speaks of as 'the best known and most general form of witchcraft'.⁵¹

AN EROTIC EXPERIMENT INVOLVING IMAGE MAGIC

For the next experiment in this category (no. 12) the manuscript once again proceeds directly to the instructions, without any introductory heading. The master must first obtain hairs from the woman he wishes to seduce,⁵² plus other objects. Again he goes out with companions in the initial stage of the ritual itself. In contrast to the elaborate preparations, the heart of the ceremony is relatively simple, involving two sympathetic stages and a single conjuration.

Take virgin wax, rendered virginal by art [ceram virgineam, arte virginizatam], and do this on a Thursday or Sunday, at the hour of Venus or the hour of Jove; and from this wax make an image over burning coals placed in a pot, without smoke. And the master should have some of the hairs of the woman for whom he wishes to act, and three bristles of red hair, and you should have with you a knife with a white handle made for this purpose.⁵³ And go to the place where a craftsman makes needles, and have the same craftsman make them, from the hour of the Sun until the hour of Saturn. Then the master should take two faithful companions and go to a fruit-bearing tree, and the master should make a circle. And the master should begin this operation, making an image of the woman for whom you perform it, murmuring constantly in your heart, 'Thou, Belial, and thou Astaroth, and thou, Paymon, be my helpers in this undertaking.' Likewise, you should murmur the words, 'I, N., form this image for the love of so-and-so, that it may accomplish that for which it is made. And may thou, Belial, principal prince, be my helper in this undertaking.' Then the master should make the image of this wax, beginning at the hour of Jove, and proceeding until the hour of Saturn. And when the image has thus been made, the master should have nine needles made by an experienced craftsman, who should be bathed and dressed in sparkling clean [nitidis] garments when he makes them; he should make the needles from the hour of the Sun until the hour of Saturn. Then the master should fix the needles in the image, placing one in the head, another in the right shoulder, the third in the left, the fourth where people are accustomed to locate the heart, saying, 'Just as this needle is fixed in the heart of this image, so may the love of N. be fixed to the love of N., so that she cannot sleep, wake, lie down, sleep, [or] walk until she burns with love of me.' He should fix the fifth in the navel, the sixth in the thigh, the seventh in the right side, the eighth in the left, the ninth in the anus. When the image has thus been made, you should baptize [christianizes] it, giving it the name [of the woman] for whom you perform the operation, immersing it three times and saying, 'How shall it be called?', with the response, 'N.' And you should say, 'I baptize thee, N., in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.' And then place the image in a new and clean cloth, leaving it aside from the hour of the Sun until the hour of Mars. Then make this conjuration under the fruit-bearing tree, with the burning coals; turning toward the east, say, 'O so-and-so, N., I conjure your head, your hair, your eyes, your ears [etc.]. O N., I conjure your entire substance, that you may not sleep or sit or lie down or perform any work of craft until you have satisfied my libidinous desire. I conjure you by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit . . . I conjure you and exorcize you and command you, that as the deer yearns for a fountain of water [Ps. 41:2 Vulg.], so you, N., should desire my love. And as the raven desires the cadavers of dead men, so should you desire me. And as this wax melts before the face of the fire, so should N. [melt in] desire for my love, so that she cannot, etc.'

The signs [to be sought in] the woman are these: solitude, dizziness [inuolucio] of the head, lamenting, sighing, beating [of the breast], wakefulness, [and] wailing. Then the master or the one who is taking action [viz., for whom it is performed?] should go to her, and if he sees her standing or sitting alone, then the master should continue the conjuration unto the fifth day. And if she is anywhere in the countryside, she will be consumed;³⁴ but if she is in a town or passing through another city, the master should perform the conjuration until she can come.

And in this all the Spanish, Arabic, Hebrew, Chaldaean, Greek and Latin astrological necromancers [nigromantici omnes astrologici] are in accord. And this experiment was taken [from the book] On the Secret Arts of the Imaginary Art, [from the book] On the Flowers of All Experiments, etc.

In its general form this experiment bears a resemblance to a procedure well known in antiquity and described in a Greek magical papyrus: to obtain a woman, one makes wax or clay figures, one an armed and threatening man with sword in hand, the other a kneeling woman with hands behind her back. One then writes inscriptions on each member of her body, then pierces each with copper needles, thirteen in all, while saying, 'I am piercing your brain, N.', and so forth. Then one inscribes a lead sheet, affixes it with thread knotted 365 times, and places the ensemble beside the tomb of a person who has died a violent or untimely death. One version adds a further spell, which reads in part, 'Let her be in love with me, N. . . . Let her not . . . do anything with another man for pleasure, just with me alone, N., so that she, N., be unable to drink or eat, that she not be contented, not be strong, not have peace of mind, that she, N., not find sleep without me . . . and do not allow her, N., to accept for pleasure the attempt of another man, not even that of her own husband, just that of mine, N. Instead, drag her, N., by the hair, by the heart, by her soul, to me, N., at every hour of life, day and night, until she comes to me, N., and may she, N., remain inseparable from me.' There is also archeological evidence for such procedures; for example, one Egyptian statue of a naked woman, pierced with thirteen needles, was discovered in a clay pot and is now in the Musée du Louvre.³⁵ This does not mean there are specific connections between texts of late antiquity and the prescriptions of the Munich handbook; rather the Munich compilation supports its conjurations with a variety of techniques, some of which are widely diffused and of considerable antiquity.

Among the many further parallels to this experiment is a fifteenth-century version given in a mixture of Hebrew and Yiddish. The magician is told to make a female image of virgin wax, showing the sexual organs clearly delineated, and resembling the woman to be enchanted. On both the breast and the back he should write 'N., daughter of N. [father] and N., daughter of N. [mother].' He must recite the words, 'May it be Thy will, O Lord, that N. daughter of N. burn with a mighty passion for me.' Then buries the figure for a time, then washes it in the name of Michael, in that of Gabriel, and in that of Raphael, places it in urine, then dries it off. The image being thus prepared, the magician may use it when he wishes to cause the woman pain, by piercing a needle into whatever part of her body he wishes to afflict, presumably as a way of bending her to his will, very much in keeping with the violent and coercive tendencies generally found in such magic.⁵⁶

It is entirely possible that the piercing with needles was itself meant or taken to have direct sexual significance,⁵⁷ but more fundamentally it was a kind of magical acupuncture intended to cause suffering that could only be alleviated through sexual compliance. The piercing with needles is thus no different in principle from that in image magic intended to work bodily harm or death, although here the affliction could be relieved through submission. It is not that the magician brings about bodily pain that is extrinsically related to the erotic goal and can be cured by compliance, nor is it the case that the magic arouses pleasurable feelings of passion. Rather, the sexual passion aroused by the ritual is itself a kind of suffering for which the woman must obtain relief. The victim of magic cannot sleep, sit down, lie down, or pursue any activity until she relents, because she is compelled to share in the obsessive passion of her pursuer.⁵⁸ Her state is almost a parody of the mystic's absorption in the Beloved, of Mechthild of Magdeburg's mystical love-sickness: 'I cannot rest, I burn without respite in Thy flaming love.'⁵⁹ But, as Richard of Saint-Victor insisted, such obsession was as debasing in human relations as it was elevating in relations with God; that it should be magically induced by experiments such as those in the Munich handbook is a possibility Richard may never have entertained.⁶⁰

EROTIC EXPERIMENTS INVOLVING RITUALS WITH BONES

Two experiments (nos 13 and 35) involve inscribing letters and names on bones and then subjecting the bones to fire. The first is designed primarily to constrain a woman's or man's will, presumably again with erotic intent (the relevant sections are indicated below with [A]), although the experiment may be adapted for constraining a beast [B] or a spirit [C] as well.

By this experiment a person, woman, man, spirit, [or] beast of any condition is constrained.

These names must be written in this manner on a shoulderblade.

When all this is finished, choose which [variant] you want. If you wish to constrain any spirit, write his name on the shoulderblade between B and E, and in the name which is Bel. If you wish to constrain any man, write his name between L and A. And if you wish to constrain any beast, write its name between A and N, and its colour. For spirits and for men and for women, this is to be done at the same hour in which the shoulderblade has been prepared, and it is necessary at the outset to seek out wood from a white thorn or wood floating on water, and make fire with it, and collect coals and place them in a new pot, and gradually place the shoulderblade on them, and gradually increase the fire, until the shoulderblade becomes hot.

And then invoke the aforesaid spirits, and say this conjuration: 'Asyel, Castiel, Lamisiel, Rabam, Erlain, [and] Belam, I command you' -- [A1] If [the operation is] for a man or a woman whom you wish to arouse to love for you, say, 'that you should at once, etc.', as given below. [B] If [it is] for a spirit, name that spirit whom you wish, that he may come to you openly, humbly, with comely visage, and gentle speech, saying, 'I conjure you, Asyel, etc., that you should make spirit N., who has power over all that I wish to ask of him, come to me openly, humbly, with gentle speech, in the form that I have specified -- that is, of a comely soldier -- to carry out all that I wish to command him.' [A2] And if you wish to do this for a man or a woman, first make known to him where you can be found, for he [or she] will go mad with fury on not being able to find you. [C] If [it is] for a beast, [say:] 'I conjure the aforesaid spirits that they should constrain this beast' which you wish, that it may be unable to depart from the place in which it is until you wish.

The experiment concludes with the conjuration used to constrain a man or woman:

'Asyel, Castiel, Lamsiyel, Rabam, Erlain, Elam, Belam, I conjure you by the true God . . . ; likewise, I conjure you by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit . . . , and by this conjuration I command you to seduce the heart and mind of N. to love me, immediately and swiftly and at once and without delay. And just as this shoulderblade grows hot and burns, so may you cause him or her, N., to burn and grow hot with the fire of love for me, and in such a way that he [or she] may not be able to rest until completing my will. In the name which is Bel, etc.'

The figure depicted is in the shape of a shield, representing the shoulderblade, divided into sixteen horizontal bands, with one vertical band down the centre. Horizontal bands bear the names Asyel, Castyel, Lamsiyel, Rabam, Erlain, Olam and Belam. In the vertical band are the letters A-B-E-L-A-N. Across the intersection of the vertical band and the twelfth horizontal band Leo is written. To the side is a note: 'Likewise note that this shoulderblade should be from an ass, a hare, a goose or a capon, according to its diverse [uses].'

The second of these experiments is somewhat simpler, and more unambiguously erotic. The magician compels a woman to passionate love by writing the names of the 'infernal spirits' Bel and Ebal on a rib, and in between his own name and that of the woman he wishes to seduce. Then he burns the rib, and when it is hot he should conjure Bel and Ebal not to rest until they cause the woman's heart to burn, so that she cannot sleep, wake or do anything else until she fulfils his desire. Again, therefore, we find the emphasis on compelling the woman's compliance through erotic affliction, aroused through means that are straightforwardly violent both on the symbolic plane and in their bodily and psychic effect.

In general, then, these psychological experiments are the most manipulative and abusive materials in the necromancer's handbook, and they are quite unabashedly so. The formulas give no hint of a guilty conscience, and they show no awareness of the incongruity involved in appealing to the power of the sacred for the ends here sought. With no evident sense of irony, the writer can recommend formulas such as, 'I conjure you demons inscribed in this circle, to whom is given the power and capacity to seduce and bind in the love of men, by the virtue and power of the divine majesty . . .' Even merely to read the illusionist experiments might be entertaining, and the divinatory ones might be perceived as useful means for gaining true knowledge, but the rituals for psychological magic could claim little by way of redeeming social importance, and thus they help to clarify the aversion to magic found in most of late medieval society. Yet these rites are interesting, in large part because of the way they fuse relatively simple and largely perennial conceptions of image magic with the formulas of Latin conjuration or exorcism derived more specifically from clerical culture. Guichard of Troyes and Eleanor Cobham were accused of employing both learned male magicians and popular female ones, but the psychological rites of the Munich handbook represent with particular clarity the mingling of magical traditions and ritual forms.

Notes

1 See Robert Mathiesen, 'Magic in Slavia Orthodoxa: the written tradition', in Henry Maguire, ed., Byzantine Magic (Washington: Dumbarton Oaks, 1995), 174-6.

2 Domenico Mammoli, The Record of the Trial and Condemnation of a Witch, Matruccia di Francesco, at Todi, 20 March 1428 (Rome: Res Tudertinae, 1972), trans. (with slight adaptation), pp. 28-40.

3 John G. Gager, Curse Tablets and Binding Spells from the Ancient World (New York: Oxford University Press, 1992), 21.

4 Picatrix: The Latin Version of the Ghayat Al-Hakim, ed. David Pingree (London: Warburg Institute, 1986), and 'Thabit ibn Qurra's De imaginibus', in Francis J. Carmody, The Astronomical Works of Thabit b. Qurra (Berkeley: University of California Press, 1960), 180-97.

5 Cambridge University Library, MS Dd.xi.45, fols 134v-139; Juris G. Lidaka spoke about this manuscript and gave a transcription of the text at the International Congress on Medieval Studies at Kalamazoo, Michigan, 4 May 1995. The manuscript is associated with 'Bokenham', but its connection with Osbern Bokenham or any other individual is unclear.

6 Abel Rigault, Le procès de Guichard évêque de Troyes, 1308-1313 (Paris, 1896). Cf. Guillaume Mollat, 'Guichard de Troyes et les révélations de la sorcière de Bourdenay', Moyen Âge, 21 (ser. 2, 12) (1908), 310-14; Conrad Eubel, 'Vom Zaubereiunwesen anfangs des 14. Jahrhunderts (mit urkundlichen Beilagen)', Historisches Jahrbuch der Görres-Gesellschaft, 18 (1897).

7 George Lyman Kittredge, Witchcraft in Old and New England (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 1929; repr. New York: Russell & Russell, 1956), 81-84.

8 A partly conjectural reading of duos lapides viuos et rotundes [rotundos?] cuius ponderis, qui debent esse flumini.

9 I am reading lumen for times throughout.

10 For ymo cno reliquum in innummerabili odio rebellis affligat.

11 For et maxime quando est in combustione, et ire versus solis ortum facias.

12 Ugo Nicolini, 'La stregoneria a Perugia e in Umbria nel Medioevo: con i testi di sette processi a Perugia e uno a Bologna', Bollettino della Deputazione di storia patria per l'Umbria, 84 for 1987 (1988), 30-38.

13 T.H. White, trans. and ed., The Book of Beasts, being a translation from a Latin Bestiary of the Twelfth Century (London: Jonathan Cape, 1954), 79-80, says nothing whatever about the camel's urination, but one is presumably to imagine the man crouching with knees bent outward.

14 Lynn Thorndike described this portion of the MS in his article, 'Imagination and magic: force of imagination on the human body and of magic on the human mind', in Mélanges Eugène Tisserant, 7 (Vatican City: Biblioteca Vaticana, 1964), 353-8.

15 Picatrix, 161.

16 Picatrix, pp. 16 (friendship, love), 17 (obedience), 18 (destruction), 18-19 (construction), 19 (separation, wrath of king, release, flight), 20 (scorpions), 21 (love, destruction), 22 (fertility).

17 Edward Peters, The Magician, the Witch, and the Law (Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1978), 110-37.

18 Bodleian Library, MS Wood empt. 18, fol. 32r. On the famous SATOR-AREPO square see especially Heinz Hofmann, Das Satorquadrat: Zur Geschichte und Deutung eines antiken Wortquadrats (Bielefelder Papiere zur Linguistik und Literaturwissenschaft, 6) (Bielefeld: Universität Bielefeld, Fakultät für Linguistik und Literaturwissenschaft, 1977) and Richard Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1989), 77-8.

19 Bodleian Library, MS e Mus. 219, fol. 186v.

20 Taking semissi for semissis, genitive of semiss, a coin.

21 Jerry Stannard, 'Greco-Roman material medica in medieval Germany', Bulletin of the History of Medicine, 46 (1972), 467.

22 E.g., British Library, Sloane MS 38, fols 24v (multa mirabilia que videbis) and 25v (in ista operatione videbis mirabilia); De Nigromancia of Roger Bacon, ed. and trans. Michael-Albion Macdonald (Gillette, N.J.: Heptangle, 1988), 81; Picatrix: The Latin Version of the Ghayat Al-Hakim, ed. David Pingree (London: Warburg Institute, 1986), 18-19. See also Shakespeare's Merry Wives of Windsor, V. 1, lines 11-12. For an off-colour adaptation of the theme see the text given in Charles Burnett, Magic and Divination in the Middle Ages: Texts and Techniques in the Islamic and Christian Worlds (Aldershot: Variorum, 1996), IX, p. 7.

23 W. Brackman, Magische experimenten en toezpraktijken uit een middelnederlands handschrift (Ghent: Seminarie voor Volkskunde, 1966), 38–40 (also published separately in Verslagen en mededelingen van de Koninklijke Vlaamse Academie voor Taal- en Letterkunde, 1966, 53–118). On the concept of lovesickness, see Mary Frances Wack, Lovesickness in the Middle Ages: The Viaticum and its Commentaries (Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1990).

24 I have discussed the topic in my article, 'Erotic magic in medieval Europe', in Joyce Salisbury, ed., Sex in the Middle Ages: A Book of Essays (New York: Garland, 1991), 30–55, giving fuller discussion and documentation. Ioan P. Couliano, Eros and Magic in the Renaissance, trans. Margaret Cook (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1987), interprets certain dimensions of the subject. See also Frederic C. Tubach, Index exemplorum: A Handbook of Medieval Religious Tales (FF Communications, 204) (Helsinki: Suomalainen Tiedekatemia, Akademia Scientiarum Fennica, 1969), 242, nos 3,093 and 3,126. For early examples see, e.g., Marvin Meyer and Richard Smith, eds, Ancient Christian Magic: Coptic Texts of Ritual Power (1994), 147–69.

25 John T. McNeill and Helena M. Gamer, Medieval Handbooks of Penance: A Translation of the Principal Libri poenitentiales and Selections from Related Documents (New York: Columbia University Press, 1938), 90; cf. 252, 305; Monumenta Germaniae historica, Leges, sect. 2, 2, ed. Alfred Boretius and Victor Krause (Hannover: Hahn, 1897), 44. The most famous literary example is in The Romance Tristan & Isolt, as Retold by Joseph Bedier, trans. Hilaire Belloc and Paul Rosenfeld (New York: Thistle Press, 1960) (and many other translations); see Dorothy James Roberts, The Enchanted Cup (New York: Appleton-Century-Crofts, 1953). De La Warr Benjamin Easter, 'A Study of the Magic Elements in the Romans d'aventure and the Romans Bretons' (Johns Hopkins University diss., 1905), 70–73, cites the love potions in Cligès, the Tristan romances of Thomas and Béroul, Partonoprus, and La Violette, and an ambiguous potion in Dolopathos.

26 Albertus Magnus, Book of Minerals, trans. Dorothy Wyckoff (Oxford: Clarendon, 1967), 73; Michael R. Best and Frank H. Brightman, eds, The Book of Secrets of Albertus Magnus of the Virtues of Herbs, Stones and Certain Beasts, also A Book of the Marvels of the World (Oxford: Clarendon, 1973), 21; Evans, Magical Jewels, 197; Joan Evans and Mary S. Serjeantson, eds, English Medieval Lapidaries (Early English Text Society, orig. ser., 190) (London: Oxford University Press, 1933), 59, 68.

27 P.V. Taberner, Aphrodisiacs: The Science and the Myth (Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1985), 58; Lynn Thorndike, The History of Magic and Experimental Sciences (New York: Macmillan and Columbia University Press, 1923–58), vol. 2, 555.

28 Book of Secrets, ed. Best and Brightman, 81; British Library, Sloane MS 3132, fols 56r–56v; Wardale, 'A Low German-Latin miscellany', 17; Alan Hull Walton, Aphrodisiacs: From Legend to Prescription: A Study of Aphrodisiacs Throughout the Ages, with sections on Suitable Food, Glandular Extracts, Hormone Stimulation and Rejuvenation (Westport, CT: Associated Booksellers, 1958), 99; McNeill and Gamer, Medieval Handbooks of Penance, 196, no. 15 and n. 94; Aldo Cerlini, 'Una strega reggiana e il suo processo', Studi storici, 15 (1906), 67.

29 See, for example, John M. Riddle, Marbode of Rennes' (1035–1123) De lapidibus, Considered as a Medical Treatise, with C.W. King's translation (Sudhoffs Archiv: Zeitschrift für Wissenschaftsgeschichte, Beiheft 20) (Wiesbaden: Steiner, 1977), 69, lines 445–46. Regarding vervain, see Henry Ellis, 'Extracts in prose and verse from an old English medical manuscript, preserved in the Royal Library at Stockholm', Archaeologia, 30 (1844), 395f.; W.I. Wardale, 'A Low German-Latin miscellany of the early fourteenth century', Niederdeutsche Mitteilungen, 8 (1952), 11; British Library, Sloane MS 3,132, 56r-56v; Bodleian Library, Oxford, MS e Mus. 219, fol. 187v; and Wood empt. MS 18, fol. 33v.

30 Book of Secrets, ed. Best and Brightman, 8, 45, 91; Evans, Magical Jewels, 226; Bodleian Library, Oxford, MS e Mus. 219, fol. 186v (a series of characters to be placed beneath the threshold of a couple who have quarrelled).

31 Candida Peruzzi, 'Un processo di stregoneria a Todi nel "400"', Lares: Organo della Società di Etnografia Italiana-Roma, 21 (1955), fasc. I-II, 9-11; Certini, 'Una strega reggiana', 64f.

32 Picatrix: The Latin Version of the Ghāyat Al-Hakīm, ed. David Pingree (London: Warburg Institute, 1986), 16, 21, 70-72, 113, 115f., 130-32, 156f., 229, 233.

33 Gene A. Brucker, 'Sorcery in early Renaissance Florence', Studies in the Renaissance, 10 (1963), 10f.; C. Kayser, 'Gebrauch von Psalmen zur Zauberei', Zeitschrift der Deutschen Morgenländischen Gesellschaft, 42 (1888), 460; Peter Browe, 'Die Eucharistie als Zaubermittel im Mittelalter', Archiv für Kulturgeschichte, 20 (1930), 134-54. For similar use of holy christm see Certini, 'Una strega reggiana', 67.

34 Jerzy Zatywy, 'Modlitwa z XIV wieku o charakterze zaklęcia, mająca zapewnić zonie miłość męża', Białeży Biblioteki Jagiellońskiej, 34/35 (1984/85), 63-4; Peter Dronke, 'Towards the interpretation of the Leiden love-spell', Cambridge Medieval Celtic Studies, 16 (1988), 61-75.

35 Thomas of Britain, The Romance of Tristram and Ysolt, ch. 46, trans. Roger Sherman Loomis (New York: Dutton, 1923), 129-35. On the theme see especially Helen Cooper, 'Magic that does not work', Medievalia et Humanistica, n.s., 7 (1976), 131-46.

36 Nicolaus Eymericus, Directorium inquisitionum, ii.43.8 (Rome: Georgius Ferrarius, 1587); translated in Alan C. Kors and Edward Peters, eds, Witchcraft in Europe, 1100-1700: A Documentary History (Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1972), 84-92.

37 Cambridge University Library, MS Dd.xi.45, fols 137v-138.

38 Paul Fredericq, ed., Corpus documentorum inquisitionis haereticarum pravitatis Neerlandicarum, 1 (Ghent and The Hague, 1889-1906), 428f.

39 Brackman, Magische experimenten, 38-40.

40 The conjuration breaks off at this point.

41 Lea, History, vol. 3, 657-59. Cf. Hansen, Quellen, 449; Lea, History, vol. 3, 455f.

42 Margaret Aston, Thomas Arundel: A Study of Church Life in the Reign of Richard II (Oxford: Clarendon, 1967), 63, 404f.

43 A. Germain, 'Inventaire inédit concernant les Archives de l'Inquisition de Carcassonne', Mémoires de la Société Archéologique de Montpellier, 4 (1883), 305; reprinted in Hansen, Quellen, 454f.

44 Brucker, 'Sorcery', 19f., 23, from G. Sanesi, 'Un episodio d'eresia nel 1383', Bollettino senese di storia patria, 3 (1896), 384f.

45 Thomas Wright, ed., A Contemporary Narrative of the Proceedings against Dame Alice Kyteler (Camden Society, 24) (London: Nichols, 1843), 2.

46 Hartmann Ammann, 'Der Innsbrucker Hexenprocess von 1485', Zeitschrift des Ferdinandeums für Tirol und Vorarlberg, ser. 3, 34 (1890), 29.

47 See the experiment with a hoopoe heart mentioned in Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages, 142, from British Library, Sloane MS 3,132, fol. 56v.

48 Johann Hartlieb, Das Buch aller verbotenen Künste, des Aberglaubens und der Zauberei, ch. 79, ed. and trans. Falk Eisermann and Eckhard Graf (Ahlerstedt: Parua, 1989), 90f. On the term atze in this context see Leander Petzoldt, Klimes Lexikon der Dämonen und Elementargeister (Munich: Beck, 1990), 25–7.

49 For this suggestion I am indebted to John Leland.

50 See Edward C. Dimock, Jr., The Place of the Hidden Moon: Erotic Mysticism in the Vaisnava – Sahajiyā Cult of Bengal, new edn (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1989), 202. I am grateful to Amy Ong for this reference.

51 Malleus maleficarum, ii.2.3, trans. Montague Summers (London: Rodker, 1928; repr. London: Pushkin, 1948), 170.

52 The manuscript does not say whether the hair is to be from the woman's head or from her pudenda. A famous instance of the magic requiring a woman's pubic hair occurred in the late sixteenth-century Scottish trial of Doctor Fian, who thought he had the hair of a young woman but in fact worked his magic over the hair from a cow, which became passionately attached to him; see James VI/I, Demonologie, 1597 [and] News from Scotland, Declaring the Damnable Life and Death of Doctor Fian (Bodley Head Quartos, 9) (London: John Lane; New York: Dutton, 1924).

53 One might have expected a black-handled knife; see Richard P.H. Greenfield, Traditions of Belief in Late Byzantine Demonology (Amsterdam: Hakker, 1988), 256, and Richard P.H. Greenfield, 'A contribution to the study of Palaeologan magic', in Henry Maguire, ed., Byzantine Magic (Washington, DC: Dumbarton Oaks, 1995), 142, n. 83.

54 Or perhaps, rather, 'if she is anywhere on Earth [in terra amine]'; in either case, I am reading consumatur for consumatur.

55 PGM IV:296–329, in Hans Dieter Betz, ed., The Greek Magical Papyri in Translation, Including the Demotic Spells, 1 (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1986), 44–7; also D.G. Martinez, P. Michigan XVI.: A Greek Love Charm from Egypt (P. Mich. 757) (Atlanta: Scholars, 1991), and John G. Gager, ed., Curse Tablets and Binding Spells from the Ancient World (New York: Oxford University Press, 1992), no. 27, pp. 94–97. For the Egyptian statue see Gager, Curse Tablets, p. 98, fig. 13.

56 Joshua Trachtenberg, Jewish Magic and Superstition: A Study in Folk Religion (New York: Behrman, 1939; New York: Atheneum, 1970), 125–26. Cf. the love spell of Klaudianos, in Betz, pp. 141–2 (PGM VII.862–918), and the parallels in Greenfield, Traditions of Belief, 266–7.

57 Gager, Curse Tablets, 81.

58 For one precedent see Meyer and Smith, Ancient Christian Magic, 159.

59 The Revelations of Mechthild of Magdeburg (1210–1297), as The Flowing Light of the Godhead, ii.25, trans. Lucy Menzies (London: Longmans, 1953), 54–8.

60 Richard of Saint-Victor, 'Of the Four Degrees of Passionate Charity', in Selected Writings on Contemplation, trans. Clare Kirchberger, (New York: Harper, 1957), 213–33.

LEARNING HIDDEN AND FUTURE THINGS: DIVINATORY EXPERIMENTS

A fifteenth-century manuscript from Yorkshire tells of a lord from whom food had been stolen.¹ As it happened, a labourer employed in digging, referred to as 'a great worker and eater', was staying in a room in the lord's house, and when he was hungry he would slip downstairs to where meat was hanging, and would cook and eat it, even during Lent.

The lord of the house, seeing that his meat was thus cut into, asked his servants about the matter. They all denied guilt and purged themselves with oaths, so he threatened to go to a certain necromantic wizard [maleficum quendam nigromanticum] and find out through him about this strange affair. On hearing this, the digger was terribly afraid, and went to the friars and confessed his offence in secret and received sacramental absolution. The lord of the house went as threatened to the necromancer, who anointed the fingernail of a young boy, then with his incantations inquired of him what he saw. [The boy] replied, 'I see a menial worker with clipped hair.' [The necromancer] told him, 'Conjure him, then, to appear to you in the most comely form that he can assume.' And the boy did so, and then declared, 'Look at that! I see a really beautiful horse!' And then he saw a man with the appearance of the aforesaid digger going down stairs and cutting off pieces of meat, with the horse following him. And the cleric [i.e., the necromancer] inquired, 'What are the man and the horse doing now?' And the boy replied, 'Look at that! He is cooking and eating those pieces of meat!' [The necromancer] asked further, 'And what is he doing now?' And the boy said, 'They are going to the church of the friars, and the horse is waiting outside, and the man is going in and kneeling and speaking with one of the friars, who is putting his hand on his head.' Again the cleric asked the little boy, 'What are they doing now?' [The boy] answered, 'Both of them have just vanished from my eyes. I cannot see them any more, and I have no idea where they have gone.'²

The manuscript clearly suggests not only that such divination can in principle work, but that it works through the cooperation of demons: it gives the tale the caption, 'How a penitent thief after confession vanished from the eyes of a demon', which is to say that the demon who was providing information through the boy could no longer do so once the thief had been absolved. As in other tales of the later Middle Ages, it is assumed that the demon has a certain power over a soul in a state of sin, and the capacity to know the sins in some detail, but the wiping away of sins through sacramental confession removes them from the sphere of demons' knowledge.³ The narrator also assumes the reader will expect a necromantic wizard to be a cleric: the fact is mentioned quite incidentally, after the story is well under way, as a fact the reader might be trusted already to have known.

The form of magic here related figures prominently in John of Salisbury's catalogue of divinatory techniques in his Policraticus. When John himself was studying Latin grammar as a boy, the priest who taught him made John and a fellow pupil participate in such activities. The priest anointed the boys' fingernails, or used a polished basin, to provide a reflecting surface in which figures might be seen. He then recited incantations, which led the fellow pupil to see 'misty figures', although John himself saw nothing.⁴ One entry in Robert Reynys's commonplace book reveals that unfallen angels as well as demons could be invoked by such means. In Reynys's version of the ceremony, the conjurer takes a child between seven and thirteen years of age, places the lad between his legs, winds a red silk thread around his thumb, scrapes his thumbnail clean, and writes on it the letters 'AGLA'. He then says devoutly, 'Lord Jesus Christ, king of glory, send us three angels to tell us the truth and not falsehood in all matters about which we shall inquire.' Three angels will appear in the boy's nail. The boy then repeats a formula addressed to these angels: 'Angels of the Lord, I command you by God the Father almighty, who created you and us out of nothing, and by the virginity of Blessed Mary and Blessed John the Evangelist and of all virgins, and by the virtues of all the holy names of God, to show us the truth and not falsehood in all matters about which we shall inquire.'⁵

The general term for such divination is 'scrying', which is sometimes subdivided into specific forms such as catoptromancy (divination by means of a mirror), crystallo-mancy (by a crystal), cyclicomancy or lecanomancy (by a cup or basin filled with liquid), hydromancy (by water in a natural body), onychomancy (by an anointed nail); 'catoptromancy' is sometimes also used as the generic term.⁶ Synodal legislation as early as the fifth century condemned specularii who engaged in these practices, and the condemnation was often repeated. The Fasciculus morum condemns those phitonici and specularii who gaze into mirrors, bowls, polished fingernails, and so forth, and claim that marvellous things are thus revealed to them.⁷ In 1311 the bishop of Lincoln instructed one of his officials to investigate people who were practising divination by conjuring spirits in their fingernails and in mirrors, as well as in stones and rings.⁸ Surely the most famous of these reflecting surfaces is John Dee's 'show-stone', through which Edward Kelly and other mediums communicated with angels.⁹ One particularly dramatic notion about the magical properties of mirrors is the legend, most famously associated with Virgil, of a far-seeing mirror by which a ruler could guard his realm.¹⁰ But the notion of perceiving hidden and future realities in a mirror receives its ultimate extension in the Neoplatonic notion of the divine mind itself as a mirror in which particularities can be foreseen, so that it can be said of a saint with the gift of prophecy that 'in the mirror of divinity everything to be was present to him'.¹¹

Johannes Hartlieb tells how a zaubermeister stands behind a child and recites secret words into his ear in the practice of hydromancy. In pyromancy as well, he says, the master may set an innocent child in his lap and lift his hand so he can see the fingernails; then he conjures the child and his nail with a long conjuration and recites three secret words into his ear. The master may take oil and soot from a pan and anoint the hand of an innocent girl or boy so that it shines brightly, then he speaks secret words into the child's ear, thus making a vow and forming a pact. Another form of pyromancy involves engraving many characters and figures around a steel mirror, then whispering secret words into the ear of boy as a prelude to interrogation. Alternatively, the child may be made to gaze at a polished sword – Hartlieb knew one great prince who used an old executioner's sword for this purpose – or a crystal. When the master is interrogating the boy, he asks if he sees an angel; if so, he asks what colour. If the angel is red that means he is angry, or if black he is very angry, and they must pray more, light more candles, and offer more incense and other gifts to assuage his anger, until the angel who appears is white. Hartlieb, echoing the much earlier judgement of John of Salisbury, confirms the conventional wisdom when he speaks of such dealings with young children as a form of abuse: 'I was often witness to such proceedings and established that the children by exposure to such words suffered not insignificant harm'.¹²

Writers might differ in their interpretation of these phenomena. Ibn Khaldūn explained the scryers' visions as products of their imaginations: the scryer does not actually see a vision on the reflecting surface, but rather imaginative phantoms are projected outward from the eyes onto a sort of misty veil that forms between the eyes and the object.¹³ The related interpretation summarized by Pedro García in the late fifteenth century was perhaps more influential and deserves to be quoted at some length:

From what has been said and from the conclusions reached [in the preceding discussion] it is clear that divination of occult things and the wonders of magical art are brought about by the aid of demons. But because the proponents of natural magic attempt to reduce [the works of magic] to purely natural causes, we must inquire whether the divination of hidden affairs and the accomplishment of wondrous works can be done thru the power of nature. Let us first ask about the divination of hidden matters, concerning which some people say and write that a person can know and divine hidden things naturally, through the power of the soul. The first manner [of doing so] is by gazing at luminous bodies and instruments. The principle here is that the acies of the human mind in one who gazes on such instruments reflects back upon itself, for the luminosity of the instrument prevents direction or concentration of the mind on exterior things, and repels it, and turns it back upon itself, so that it is forced to gaze upon itself. Thus, according to the philosophy of Plato, if it is purged and cleansed of defilements, which come from the body and cling to the soul, they see as in a clear and clean mirror, and when they inquire about all hidden things, or some portion of them, or some particular hidden thing, it is no surprise that the soul, turned back into itself, should see such hidden things, for according to Plato the human soul is created fully inscribed with the forms of all knowable things, in respect of its intellectual power . . .

Thus it is, according to the opinion of these magicians, that these luminous bodies function, and particularly mirrors. When the soul of the gazer is turned back on itself, it absorbs the attention and fixes the acies of the intellect in its inward turning, and the more inwardly it is fixed, the more fully and clearly it turns upon itself and knows and divines hidden things - and the more it is filled within by God, so that the beholding is turned into the soul, which can be so turned in to itself and as it were recollected within itself,¹⁴ that the recollection becomes rapture or a state near to rapture, or ecstasy or a condition near to ecstasy. Thus, those who operate in works of this kind close the eyes of children, and hold their eyes tightly closed after they have seen such revelations, until the soul has returned from this recollection to its original state and is extended in the usual manner throughout the body and its organs - which is to say, until it recovers its powers and the organs from which it appears to have withdrawn, at least somewhat. Otherwise, it is said, there is threat of danger to the body of the child, or perhaps madness. According to the philosophy of the Platonists, this is one manner of saving the divinations of hidden matters through [demonstration] of purely natural causes without any aid of demons, explicit or secret.¹⁵

García goes on to refute these claims, chiefly by mounting an explicitly Aristotelian refutation of what he takes as standard Platonist psychology; most fundamentally, he denies that the mind is capable of grasping truth by being directed to innate knowledge found within itself. Both Ibn Khaldūn and García's opponents believe divination can be explained in natural terms, but the mechanisms they posit are different. For Ibn Khaldūn (a rationalist intending to deflate the claims of magicians to preternatural knowledge) attention is focused on an outward substance that reflects projections of the mind, while for the adversaries of García (Platonist mages intending to defend their practice against the charge of demonic inspiration) it is directed instead within the mind itself. Neither view sufficed to convince most contemporaries that the mind could so readily be converted into an instrument of divination without demonic aid - but the very attempt to formulate an explanation in natural terms is historically interesting, whether the point is to debunk the supernatural pretensions of the diviners or to defend the validity of the art.

Perhaps most often, those who wrote about these matters did so to condemn them and warn of their danger. This was the point of John of Salisbury's tale of his own early experience. Nicolas Oresme, too, warned that if young boys stared for long intervals into polished surfaces they might become blind; worse, they might suffer disfigurement of their faces and disturbing changes in their personalities.¹⁶

Judging from the cases reported in the judicial records and chronicles – and judging also from the experiments contained in the Rawlinson necromantic manuscript – divination of this sort seems to have been used mostly to recover lost or stolen goods. At London in 1311, unspecified offenders were investigated for invoking spirits to appear in fingernails, mirrors, stones, rings, and so forth, to reveal the future or the location of lost objects.¹⁷ When a band of monks and canons wished to recover stolen money near Paris in 1323, their plans involved standing in a circle made from the skin of a cat: within that circle they were to invoke the demon Berith, who would answer their inquiries.¹⁸ In 1419 a chaplain named Richard Walker was arrested by the prior of Winchester and tried for using magical arts, the evidence against him included two books containing conjurations and figures, and he acknowledged that he had attempted to use the experiments in one of his books, but to no avail, so he did not believe in their power.¹⁹ In 1440 the Augustinian canons at Leicester accused their own abbot, William Sadyngstone, of using such arts: when no one confessed to stealing certain funds, he had allegedly recited incantations, applied ointment to the thumbnail of a boy called Maurice, asked this medium what he saw there revealed, and learned that the culprit was one of the canons, Brother Thomas Asty. The other monks reported the incident to the bishop, who condemned the abbot for sorcery.²⁰ Again at Westminster during the 1450s, and at London repeatedly in the later fifteenth century, victims of theft were said to have solicited the services of alleged necromancers ('negremaunsers' or 'nigromansiers').²¹

The Devil being notoriously a liar and the father of lies, it is hardly surprising to find much concern with the question whether he could be constrained to tell the truth, even if their keen and subtle minds and long experience gave them command of exceptionally wide knowledge.²² Peter Brown has spoken of exorcisms as forms of judicial torture, in which the demons, like criminals, were compelled even against their will to confess what they knew.²³ When the divination was intended to identify a thief, the obvious danger – and probably the chief reason for judicial action against the diviners – was that of false accusation. One is not surprised to read in the Rawlinson necromantic manuscript, which is devoted mainly to this kind of magic, that the spirits must be strictly enjoined not to defame any innocent parties.²⁴ The point is made forcefully in a story from Stephen of Bourbon, who does not hesitate to ascribe a diviner's revelation to demons, but argues how little the spirits can be trusted:

While I was a student at Paris, one Christmas Eve when our companions were at Vespers, a certain most noted thief entered our hostel, and, opening the chamber of one of our fellows, carried off many volumes of law-books. The scholar would have studied in his books after the feast; and, finding them not, he hastened to the wizards, of whom many failed him, but one wrought as follows. Adjuring his demons and holding a sword, he made the boy gaze upon the blade; and he, after many things there seen, beheld at last by a succession of many visions how his books were stolen by one of our fellows, his own cousin, whom he thought the most upright of our fellowship; whom the possessor of the books slandered not only among the scholars but also among his friends, accusing him that he had stolen them. Meanwhile the aforesaid thief stole other things and was detected, whereupon he fled to a certain church where he lay in the belfry, and, having been duly examined, confessed all that he had stolen, and where, and what he had done with his thefts. When therefore certain scholars who lodged hard by our hostel had found by his means a mantle which they had lost and he had stolen, then he who had lost his books could scarce rest until he had gone to enquire of this thief; who answered and told him when and where he had taken his books, and the Jew's house where he had pledged them, where also my friend found them. This I have told that ye may clearly mark the falsehood of those demons who showed the vision in the sword-blade in order that they might slander that good man and break the bonds of charity between those kinsfolk, and bring the man who believed in them to eternal perdition, both him and his.²⁵

Not surprisingly, the diviners themselves could be subject to prosecution on the ground of false accusation, as when the sum of £40 was stolen from John Haddon of Coventry in the mid-1480s, and he consulted necromancers to find the thieves; they charged one William Lee, a poor man, who had been seen wearing the same garments that the necromancers had determined were worn by the guilty parties. Lee petitioned on his own behalf, pleading that the accusation rested on false and illicit proceedings:

Humbly sheweth and pitiously complaineth unto your good lordship your daily orator William Lee of the city of Coventry, that where forty pounds of money was taken and withdrawn from one John Haddon of the said city, draper, as the said John hath reported and said, whereupon the said John, to get knowledge of the takers of the said money, caused certain persons using the crafts of sorcery, witchcrafts and necromancy [Nygromancy] to inquire by their

crafts of the takers of the said money, and thereupon the said persons using the said unlawful crafts advised and counseled the said John Haddon to take and examine your said orator for withdrawing of the said money, for as much as they perceived that your said orator used and wore such garments and clothing as they determined by their unlawful witchcrafts that the takers of the said money had and used at the time of the taking of the said money. And thereupon the said John Haddon, having no other cause against your said orator nor matter of suspicion, arrested and put in prison your said orator and kept him there by the space of a month and more. And after this the said John, having no other cause nor nothing of untruth could prove against your said orator, suffered him to depart and go at his large. And after this the said John Haddon, intending the further vexation and trouble of your said orator, made a plaint of trespass before the mayor and sheriffs of the said city against your said orator concerning the taking of the said money, supposing that your said orator the Wednesday next before the feast of the Annunciation of Our Lady last past took and bore away the said money. In the which plaint of trespass your said orator is like to be condemned, for as much as your said orator is in poverty and the said John Haddon is of great might and power and great alliance in the said city. Wherefore and for as much as the said cause of trespass and the said wrongful arresting and keeping of your said orator in prison was by means and judgment of the said persons using the said unlawful crafts of necromancy and witchcraft, to whom credence ought not to be given, for that is contrary to the faith of Holy Church. In consideration whereof that it would please your good lordship to grant a certiorare to be directed to the said mayor and sheriffs, etc.²⁶

Divinatory conjuration could, of course, be used for other purposes as well, such as finding buried treasure. A group of men were tried in Norfolk in 1465 for using necromancy to discover such a trove. Allegedly they invoked and made sacrifice to accursed spirits. When a spiritus aërialis appeared, at Bunwell, they promised it the body of a Christian man in exchange for its leading them to treasure; the spirit revealed in a crystal the location of a hill filled with treasure, whereupon the adventurers baptized a rooster with a Christian name and sacrificed it to the spirit.²⁷ Thomas Forde was sentenced to the pillory at London in 1418 for having defrauded women by claims of magical power: he had extorted money from one woman, and attempted to gain her hand in marriage, by suggesting he could determine where her late husband had buried a chest containing over £200; he had told another of his victims that he could recover for her the gold cloth that had been stolen from her.²⁸ Other cases too may have involved a substantial measure of straightforwardly cynical charlatanry, but in these instances it seems all the more apparent. It is magic of this sort that gives rise to jest in the tale of Mary of Nijmegen, where the Devil boasts:

I am beginning to teach people how to find hidden treasure; and only yesterday it cost one of them his life. I told him where there was a treasure hidden and growing mouldy, in a stable, underneath a beam on which the whole weight of the stable was resting. I told him that he would have to dig deep into the ground, and he would find pound upon pound of the hidden treasure. At once he started to dig there, but as soon as he had dug so far that he undermined the beam and the posts supporting it, the beam fell to the ground and crushed this poor idiot under it!²⁹

At least in cases for detection of thieves, however, otherwise responsible individuals seem rather often to have placed credence in the claims of the diviners, perhaps because they were desperate, and perhaps because what they really sought was a way of persuading others to support a suspicion they themselves already harboured.

DIVINATORY EXPERIMENTS IN THE MUNICH HANDBOOK

The largest number of experiments in Clm 849, nineteen in all, is divinatory. While it is sometimes said that these experiments may be used for any of various purposes, the usual end is detection of a crime or criminal (usually a thief, less often a murderer) and recovery of stolen goods, more rarely to determine the location of hidden treasure. The text of one experiment (no. 25) insists that the procedure must not be used for any base or frivolous purpose, but only for a serious one, because one must not take the name of God in vain.

As for the techniques used in these experiments, the characteristic features in most of them are two. First, the primary magical technique is scrying, combined with conjurations; magic circles either are not used or have little significance.³⁰ Second, cooperation of a medium, usually a young boy, is vital; it is he alone who actually sees the spirits that are conjured.

Approximately half of these experiments entail the use of a circle or some other figure among the means for conjuring the spirits. The medium typically sees the spirits in a mirror, crystal, vessel, bone, polished thumbnail or fingernail. In most cases the medium must be a virginal boy, who actually sees and communicates with the spirits.³¹ Sometimes we are told that he must be younger than twelve, and born of legitimate marriage.³² Occasionally a girl may be used as well as a boy;³³ but this provision is relatively rare. The use of young and putatively innocent boys in divination must be seen as part of a broader clerical fascination with the ideal of innocent boyhood. In liturgical drama young boys dressed and acted 'in the manner of virgin women', at least in part 'to project the theme of virginity'. as Nicholas Orme has phrased it.³⁴

The use of a medium could well be a means for expression of socially shared convictions about the likeliest suspects, but it is not entirely obvious that this mechanism came importantly into play. Because the ritual was private, it could more easily become a tool for the expression of individual prejudice and animosity. Yet the one who saw the visions was neither the client nor the master but instead a young boy, in all likelihood not one with a personal interest in the outcome of the experiment. Apart from the obvious matter of the youth's sacred non-sexuality, his youth may have been important mainly because it put him at some remove from the preformed judgements of the adult principals and made possible a relatively neutral accusation. It is, of course, also possible that the mere pretence of childish innocence, neutrality and distance from adult biases was more important than any real immunity of this sort.

EXPERIMENTS INVOLVING MIRRORS

In his account of scrying with a steel mirror, Johannes Hartlieb says, 'I have seen masters who maintain they can prepare mirrors such that any man or woman can see in them what they will.' He also says that other reflecting surfaces can be used; there are even priests who will use the very paten that serves at mass to hold the host; they believe (falsely, adds Hartlieb) that only angels and not demons can appear on such a consecrated object.³⁵ One might suppose that a mirror would make an ideal tool for divination that requires concentration on a reflective surface, because mirrors are designed specifically for reflection. A modern mirror, however, might be distinctly inappropriate for this purpose precisely because it reflects too well and too realistically, giving too little scope to imaginative play and the power of suggestion. Perhaps the mirrors used in divinatory experiments were less polished, but at least in some cases the magician is instructed to use a polished mirror. We must assume that the point was not for the child medium who gazed into the mirror to focus closely on his own face but to use the mirror as a means for perceiving more numinous revelations. To be sure, there are cultures in which the spectator's own face reflected in a mirror becomes a point of reference for visionary encounter; after staring for hours at one's own reflection one may identify one's face with that of an ancestor, or one may perceive it as a manifestation of one's own true, inner or archetypal self.³⁶ In the Munich manuscript, however, there is no suggestion that the medium's own realistic image plays any role whatever.

The handbook contains five such experiments: two versions of the Mirror of Floron (nos 18 and 19), the First Mirror of Lilith (no. 23), and two others (nos 20 and 33). The Mirror of Floron in its first version may serve as a useful introduction to these experiments:

Have a mirror made of pure steel, measuring one palm around, with a handle for holding it, and have it bright and shiny like a sword. And have it made in the name of Floron, and around the rim of the mirror, on the part that is not polished, have these ten names [Latranoy, Iszarin, Bicol, Danmals, Gromon, Zara, Ralkal, Sigtonia, Samah and Meneglasar] inscribed with ten characters, with the name of the aforesaid spirit [Floron] written in the middle. After it has been made, it should be anointed with pure and bright balsam, and fumigated with aloes, ambergris, myrrh and white frankincense.

When this has been done, the master of this work should sit and have this mirror held with both hands by a virgin boy before his chest. The master himself should be bathed and dressed in clean garments. Before he begins to exercise this work he should sprinkle in the air honey, milk and wine, mixed together in equal proportions, while saying, 'O Floron, respond quickly in the mirror, as you are accustomed to appear.'

When he has said this, he should read this conjuration before the mirror: 'Bismille araathe mem lissim gassim gisim galisim darrgosim samaiaosim ralim ausini taxarim zaloimi hyacabanoy illete laytimi hehelmini betoymi thoma leminao vnuthomin zonim narabanorum azarethia thathitat hinanadon illemay sard lucacef illemegiptimi sitaginatim viaice hamtamice tatiala taltarini aloht haleytum gaptametuntij morto orfail geibel huabaton albita hualopin halmagrilie hualeon huastanie hualtamemeth huatorzor illenie giptimi tatgnie gathegine lesuma lesanim aptasale albberoahit vlleath alfard vsemeth aptisile abfluwarth vllelath ant clulamoralie habysitimi waleles lithimi caegine catliegineles mirabolamini abtasile albiwahith alleath halamaton vnitia gaytatalon huaia gay soze cemeselis phalmorath bethathure huaba lagis illeameammitimi gelgine gathegine lesmiraptalibe albiwath vleuth.'

When he has recited this conjuration, the master should look in the mirror, and he will see an armed knight seated on a horse, and his squire accompanying him. The knight will dismount from the horse and his squire will hold the horse. He will greet the knight [with the words], se desperata, decentissime visibiliter greciomo. And then the master may ask him about past, present and future things, and he will at once give full response in writing.

This should not seem unbelievable to you, whoever may execute this work, for when you have carried out these things nine times this same spirit will clearly reveal face to face, orally, all things which previously he has indicated in writing.

And so, when you have completed everything according to your will, command this spirit to withdraw in peace, and to return according to the command of his master when he is summoned.

The second version of this Mirror of Floron adds certain details: the mirror should be made on the first hour on Friday, under a waxing moon; the sculptor or workman must be chaste for nine days beforehand, must be bathed, and must wear clean clothes; the words in which the master conjures the spirit are identified, implausibly, as 'Chaldean'; the master's greeting to the knight is Parate insilitio gytromon, which approximates an obviously meaningful statement even less than the greeting in the first version; and the knight who has at first answered questions in writing will answer per exercitium at night and orally throughout the day, revealing all things beneath the moon.

The First Mirror of Lilith (spelled Lilit or Lylet) is dedicated to this ancient Hebrew demon and to her followers and her 'knights' - although the text seems to slip into calling the spirit Bylet before the experiment is over.³⁷ The master commands these 'demons' to appear in non-threatening form and answer questions. The mirror itself can be made in the form of a shield, but need not be. The master prays to Lilith to come in her own appearance, not in that of ravens, conjuring her to sit with him whenever the master wants. She will appear in a mirror with two or more servants, and will tell the truth or give appropriate signs regarding a theft, murder, or other circumstance.

In one of the remaining experiments (no. 20) the master goes to a secret place at a conjunction of Venus and Jupiter, with burning candles and a polished steel mirror, made under a particular phase of the moon. He makes a circle, and puts the mirror on a piece of wood in the form of a knife. He implores God to make the mirror grow and become bright. Then he recites a brief conjuration three times, and the mirror will seem to grow and become bright. Many people will appear, as in a field. The master may ask them anything he wants, and will obtain an answer. After the first time, he may work this procedure whenever and wherever he wishes, though he must always do so in a secret place; once consecrated for that purpose, the mirror can be used repeatedly. In the other experiment (no. 33), the master smears olive oil on a mirror, says a doxology, enters a magic circle that is sprinkled with verbena, turns to the east, and conjures a spirit. When it comes, he conjures it to tell him the truth, without causing any harm. If the spirit refuses, the master reads the unbreakable 'bond of Solomon', an extended conjuration.

As in some of the illusionist experiments, spirits who appear to divulge information are here designated as knights. But three of these experiments are more distinctive in being given titles, taken from the chief spirits to whom they appeal, Lillith and Floron. The former is familiar from Hebrew tradition, while the latter is known from the writings of Cecco d'Ascoli.³⁸ The conjuration (and presumably also the greeting) in 'Chaldean' (actually garbled Arabic, as we shall see in Chapter 6) adds a touch of exoticism to some of these experiments. But perhaps the most curious feature, found in the Mirror of Floron, is the reference to the spirit's giving written responses, through a mechanism that is not clearly specified; perhaps the master is to see the spirit holding a written message for his inspection, or possibly patterns discerned on the surface of the mirror are to be interpreted as some form of writing.

EXPERIMENTS INVOLVING CRYSTALS

For the use of crystals and related objects in scrying, Johannes Hartlieb is again a helpful source of information:

Some take a clear, fine, polished crystal or beryl and have it consecrated, then keep it clean, and lay incense, myrrh, and so forth on it. Then when they wish to exercise their art they wait for a clear day, or use a clean room with many consecrated candles. The masters go to a bathing room, taking an innocent child, and dressing themselves in pure white clothes. They sit down and speak magic prayers (zauber bätt), and burn magic offerings (zauber opffer), then order the boy to look into the stone and whisper secret words into his ear, which are allegedly most holy – but are indeed devilish words.³⁹

The Munich handbook gives two divinatory experiments entailing the use of crystals, both of them extremely brief and simple. The implement used may be something like the legendary crystal ball; when the Rawlinson necromantic manuscript refers to crystals it speaks of them as 'stones', which surely were polished, whatever their shape. In one experiment (no. 24) the master first takes a crystal and washes it with wine, then he writes certain names of Christ on it with olive oil, and asks for two or three angels to appear in that crystal and reveal the truth to a virgin boy. The boy conjures these angels to come in the crystal so he may see them. When they come, the boy conjures them thrice to sit on golden seats and not withdraw from the crystal without the master's permission. For the other experiment (no. 25) the master takes a crystal in the form of a seal or mirror and places it in wax. Then he writes the name 'Honely' on it with oil. He prays Christ to bestow wondrous and useful powers upon this stone, as he has done to other stones, to herbs, and to certain words; the text refers to this prayer as a conjuration, but the writer does not have quite the temerity to conjure Christ himself. He does then conjure certain angels to come at once and appear in the crystal, and not withdraw from it until they have answered the questions he has to ask.

It is probably not an accident that in both of these experiments, unlike most, the spirits conjured are expressly referred to as angels, and in one of them names of Christ are invoked (which is not uncommon in these experiments), while in the other the conjuration is preceded by a prayer to Christ (which is altogether uncommon). The other reflecting surfaces have a kind of artificial reflectivity: some of them need to have oil applied to them, and a mirror is a manufactured object. The crystal, however, was thought to have natural luminosity as one of the properties bestowed on it in its creation. Perhaps for this reason it seemed more natural for a crystal to serve as a medium for the conjuring of unfallen spirits, although this explanation would have greater force if it were supported by substantial evidence from other sources.

A COMPLEX EXPERIMENT INVOLVING APPARITIONS IN A THUMBNAIL

Five divinatory experiments in the Munich handbook - as many as those using mirrors - require the medium to gaze into his own polished fingernail or thumbnail. These tend to be elaborate rituals, with preliminary measures followed by multiple conjurations, then interrogation of the spirits who appear, and in some cases procedures for terminating the experiment. Most of these rituals are intended specifically to learn about the circumstances of a theft, although the text indicates that no. 27 (and presumably others as well) can serve to provide information about whether a friend is well or sick, whether someone is on the road, or other matters. A fingernail may seem an odd instrument for divination, and the image of a boy carrying on a conversation with an elaborately described demon moving about on such a small screen may seem somewhat comic, but fixing the boy's attention on so narrow a space may in fact have been an aid to concentration: the smaller the surface, and the closer it is held to the eye, the more it will be in focus and potential distractions will be out of focus.

No. 27 is broken into two 'chapters', the first of which reads as follows:

To find out about a theft, take a virgin boy of legitimate birth, at whatever hour you wish before noon, and scrape well the thumb nail of his left hand with a knife. Then bind to the same thumb, beneath the nail, a slip with the following names written on it. And these are the names: Egippia, Benoham, Beanke vel Beanre, Reranressym, Alredessym, Ebemidyrr, Fetolinie [?]. Dysi, Medirini, Alhea, Heresim, Egippia, Benoham [repeated], Haham, Ezirohias, Bohodi, Hohada, Anna, Hohanna, Ohereo, Metaliteps, Aregereo, Agertho, Aliberri, [and] Halba.

When this is done, if the boy does not see something, etc. [sic!]. But if he does see something, bind a strap of sheepskin, which you have had with you while hearing three complete masses, on the slip, around the thumb, while saying this conjuration: 'O you demons, who have appeared before me in the nail of this boy, by Him who is Alpha and Omega, I order and command and conjure you, by the most sacred names Ely, Eloy, Messias, Sother, Emmanuel, Sabaoth, [and] Adonay, and by On, which is the first name of the Lord, Pantocraton [sic], Anetheten, and by the other names known and unknown to me, that you should have no power to withdraw with your companions until you have fulfilled my will completely, without any falsehood or harm to anyone. And if you disdain to do this, I command you to be bound beneath the deep waters of the sea, by these two names, Joth [and] Nabnoth, by which Solomon bound demons in a glass vessel. I conjure you by the seven signs of Solomon, and by his seal and wisdom, that you should have no licence to withdraw from here until you have told and shown me the truth about all that I ask.'

When you have said this, if the boy does not speak straightaway, recite this conjuration in his ear: 'I conjure you, virginal youth, by the true God Basyon, and by the name[s] On, Berion, Sabaoth, [and] Adonay, [etc.], to have no power of concealing from me, but to manifest all that you see.'

When you have recited these conjurations three times, if the spirits do not hasten to your service, add this conjuration: 'You demons from the east, you demons from the west, you demons from the south, you demons from the north, open up to us, Discobermath, Archidemath, Fritath, Altramat, Pestiferat. Helyberp, Hegergibet, Sathan.'

When you have spoken or repeated this conjuration three times, the boy will see all things clearly.

This experiment is good also if someone wishes to know the condition of his friends, whether they are well or ill, and it will determine whether or not they are under way.

The conjuration over the strap is as follows. When mass has been finished on any particular day, say this conjuration over the strap: 'I conjure you, Sona, by the name of the Lord Tetragrammaton, and by the name of God Joth, and by the name of God Nabnoth, [etc.], to receive such power that wherever you are bound, these spirits will have no power to withdraw until they fulfil the will of the one who binds.'

The second chapter begins with a lengthy conjuration summoning the spirits to appear in the boy's nail, and is followed by another conjuration commanding the boy to gaze into his nail and tell the truth about what is there revealed. The text continues:

Then ask the boy if the nail is brighter than before. If he says not, read the conjuration again from the beginning, and a third time if necessary. If he says it has become brighter, ask if he sees anything. If he says he sees a man, the master should have the boy conjure the one he sees, in the mother tongue, as follows: 'You who are before me, I conjure you by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, and by Saint Mary and her virginity, and by Saint John and his virginity, [etc.], to go quickly for your king and have him come before me, so that I may see and understand him clearly.'

Then ask the boy if the king has come. If not, have the boy conjure again, as before. If he has come, have the boy tell the king to dismount from his horse and have a throne brought forth on which he can sit. Then have the boy ask the king if he wishes to eat. If he says no, then ask about whatever you will. If he says yes, have the boy tell the king to send wherever he will for a ram to be skinned and cooked, and then he should have a table set, and should rise and wash his hands, and sit at the table and have the ram set before him, and he should go ahead and eat it. After he has eaten, he should get up, take water, and wash his hands.

Then have the boy tell the king to remove the crown from his head and place his right hand on top of his head and swear by his crown and by his sceptre and by that which he holds beneath his right hand, to respond truly to all the master's questions. Then the master should ask whatever he wishes, through the boy. After the master's questions have been answered properly, the spirits may be given licence to leave, and the boy should say, 'Go. Peace be between us and you. And when the master calls you, be prepared to obey him in all things and by all things.'

The conception of a demon as a king or prince is not uncommon (see Chapter 7), and it is in keeping with the dignity of the spirit that he is allowed the privilege of a throne and a meal, although he supplies them himself, within the scene played out on the fingernail of the medium. Elsewhere as well the spirits may be instructed or invited to seat themselves on thrones; in the Rawlinson manuscript the medium is told to have three white-robed spirits fetch three gold thrones for themselves.⁴⁰ It is perhaps not surprising that apparitions as elaborate as these might require repeated conjuration. No doubt they also assumed child mediums of exceptional virtuosity, and a master who had found such a child must have been proud indeed to have discovered such a resource.

SIMPLER EXPERIMENTS INVOLVING FINGERNAILS OR THUMBNAILS

While the preceding experiment is more complex than most, others resemble it in their essentials. In experiment no. 30, the master obtains a powder by burning resin and collecting the ash from the bottom of a basin that is inscribed with certain characters. He anoints four joints of the boy's left hand with olive oil and with this powder, in alternation, until the boy's fingers shine like a mirror. (Johannes Hartlieb gives a similar account of how child mediums are instructed to gaze not only into their fingernails but into their hands anointed with oil and soot from a pan.⁴¹) Then he summons twelve spirits. Three times the master makes the sign of the cross with his right thumb on the boy's forehead, each time praying that Christ himself may sign the boy, as he gave his blessing at Cana. Then he repeats the twelve names, and may make the sign of the cross on his own forehead as well as the boy's. The names are recited until six spirits appear on the boy's hand. Then the boy commands them to sit, except for one, who is to rise and answer the master's questions. When the spirits have answered the master's questions, the boy commands them to depart, in the name of the Trinity; if he wishes, the master may at this point sign the boy's forehead again.

The next three experiments all take place within a simple circle, consisting of three concentric bands, within which the boy sits on a three-legged stool, around which are inscriptions (the boy's name, other names, the Tetragrammaton).⁴² In no. 38 the master blesses the boy while waving a sword around his head. He gives the sword to the boy, then signs him with the sign of the cross (saying, 'May the cross sanctify you, and may the prayers of all priests bless you'), scrapes his nails with a knife, anoints them with olive oil, then blesses himself and his companions, who sit silently by the circle, with swords in hand. The boy shuts his eyes; the master blesses all those present by reading the opening verses of John's gospel. The boy looks at his anointed nail and conjures specified demons to make the nail grow large and bright so that various information can appear in it: the thief, the circumstances of the theft, and the place where the stolen object is concealed. The master conjures certain demon princes to come in the form of black men and appear in the boy's nail. If the boy cannot yet see any figures in his nail, the master repeats the conjuration. He asks the boy if he sees a demon leaping and rejoicing. The master and his companions speak to the boy to keep him from fear. Again the master conjures the demons to divulge the desired information. At the end of the experiment, the master rubs his fingernail clean with his tunic, and makes the sign of the cross over four parts of his body with the sword. Then the boy takes the sword and holds it before himself while leaving the circle. The companions and the master himself exit in the same manner.

In no. 39 the master scrapes the boy's right thumbnail, using a knife with a handle of black or white horn, and recites psalm verses. He then signs the boy's forehead with the sign of the cross, says a prayer asking God to have the boy tell the truth, and whispers the names of demons three times into the boy's right ear. Then he enters the circle and stands in front of the boy, anoints his nail with olive oil, gives him the knife, and recites a longer series of demons' names. He conjures the demons (repeatedly, if necessary) to make the boy's nail grow large and bright, so that the details of the theft will appear in it. When this happens, the master conjures the demons (again as often as needed) to come and appear to the boy in the forms of the thieves. When the demons appear, the master conjures them to give the boy power, so that he can make the necessary inquiry and behold the desired information. Afterward the master has the boy close his eyes, then he cleans his nail, signs him with the sign of the cross (super eum, ante eum, and retro eum), takes the knife from his hand, blesses both himself and the boy, erases the circle, and departs along with the boy. The 'kings' will return to their own kingdoms, but the master conjures them to return whenever he wishes.

In no. 40, the master turns to the east, scrapes both of the boy's thumbnails, places one of the boy's thumbs over the other, writes the name of the boy and the name Astaroth on the knife handle, gives the knife to the boy and has him hold it beneath his thumbs, anoints with olive oil the uppermost of the boy's thumbnails, making the form of a cross on it with all devotion, then himself takes a seat, holding the boy between his knees, and instructing him to look carefully at his thumbnail. (The position of the boy suggests an intimacy that is surely erotic, even if subtly so.) The master conjures the demons to appear in the thumbnail in the form of the thief or thieves, 'as they have promised'. He also prays to Christ, to manifest the truth make the boy report it. Again he conjures the demons to appear, and to make the boy's nail grow large and bright. At the end of the experiment, the master says the prayer, 'Protect, save, bless, [and] sanctify all the people by the sign of the Lord's cross. Fend off afflictions of body and soul. Let no peril prevail against this sign. Amen. May Jesus Christ defend us by this sign of the cross. Amen.'

EXPERIMENTS INVOLVING VESSELS

Perhaps among the most ancient and widespread means for divination is gazing at the surface of a fluid in a bowl or other vessel. The materials for such operations would have been available virtually anywhere, even if suitable mirrors were not on hand. A letter to King Psammetichos, included in the Greek magical papyri, gives instructions for bowl divination: one should take a bronze bowl or saucer and fill it with water, then add green olive oil, recite an incantation over it, and ask questions of whatever god one wishes; the deity will reply, after which he can be dismissed with a powerful name of a hundred letters, a name which commands gods and daimones, causing the universe to tremble.⁴³ Elsewhere there are bowls or other vessels on which magical formulas have been inscribed, but these are usually intended for types of magic other than divination.⁴⁴

In two brief experiments from the Munich handbook, the reflecting surfaces that furnish information are vessels or basins. No. 22 involves tracing a circle on the ground with the point of a special knife, entering the circle with a virgin boy or girl, carving various sacred names on a vessel, well cleaned inside and out, and writing on the vessel with a feather from the left wing of a black hen, with accompanying prayers. The master conjures the child to divulge the information revealed regarding a thief or murderer, then he invokes God to grant this knowledge to the child. The child gazes intently into the vessel, and continues doing so until figures appear. In 'The True Art of the Basin' (no. 29), the master recites ten names into a boy's ear, conjures spirits to appear in a basin and divulge information, writes three names on a slip of parchment or paper, and places it in the basin. Then he asks God with humble devotion to give the boy knowledge so that he can respond truly, and he asks Christ to illumine the boy's mind. He conjures the demons to appear to the boy in a mirror or on the blade of a sword. When the demons appear, the boy tells their king to sit down, and has him send for a ram, a feature reminiscent of no. 27. Then follow various conjurations. The experiment terminates with an exchange between the young boy and the demon king, again in the manner of no. 27.

These divinatory experiments are unusual in their emphasis on sitting: the master, the medium, any companions, and the spirits themselves are instructed or invited repeatedly to sit, whether on thrones, at table, on stools, or simply on the ground. It would perhaps be misleading to seek a single meaning in this posture;

the spirits' being enthroned in their capacity as kings can hardly have the same significance as the medium's being seated on a stool. Yet this feature of the experiments is consonant with another peculiarity of this category which distinguishes it from the psychological and illusionist rituals: in these experiments the conjurations are intended specifically to bring about consultation between the magicians and the spirits, rather than their dialogue being a prelude to some further result, and thus the parties on both sides are in effect sitting down to do business. This is not to say that their being seated is necessary, but that it makes a kind of sense here that it would not make elsewhere.

AN EXPERIMENT INVOLVING A BONE

For no. 28 the master anoints the right shoulder blade of a ram with olive oil and puts it beneath the handle of a knife. He holds a lighted candle and conjures six demons to appear in the reflective surface before a virginal boy (under twelve years of age) and answer questions. If the boy sees the shoulder blade grow larger and brighter, the master conjures the demons again to appear. When a spirit appears in the form of a black man, the master asks him questions through the mediation of the boy. The master can conjure the boy so that he has the power to see a spirit, but not the power to lie. The experiment closes with miscellaneous instructions: While making a circle, the master should say 'Sator Arepo Tenet Opera Rotas', then two prayers, one for aid in undertakings, the other for sending the Holy Spirit upon the boy to illumine his mind so that he can see and reveal truths. Names of God are given, to be inscribed on the shoulder blade. And to send the demons away, the master makes the sign of the cross over the shoulder blade and says, 'Behold the cross of the Lord. Take flight, O hostile powers (Fugite partes aduersae). The lion of the tribe of Juda, the stem of David, has conquered. Go in peace to the places from which you came.'

Johannes Hartlieb tells how the shoulder blades of various large animals are examined in the form of divination known as spatulamancy,⁴⁵ but does not speak of operations performed over these bones in the manner prescribed by the Munich handbook.

EXPERIMENTS INVOLVING VISIONS IN SLEEP

The last two divinatory experiments in the handbook, both short and simple in form, differ from the preceding divinatory rites because they do not involve gazing into reflective surfaces, but rather the inducement of revelatory dream visions. The Egyptians had been famous for their dream interpretation, whether the dreams were induced or spontaneous, and the Greek magical papyri from Egypt contain instructions for obtaining a revelation in sleep:

according to one passage, the person seeking the vision goes to bed in the presence of a lamp fuelled with sesame oil mixed with cinnabar, and recites a prescribed formula; to ensure that the revelation is not lost to oblivion, he must have a small tablet nearby to write it down. No. 16 has the master write a series of sacred names within a double band on virgin parchment, plus specified names. Three times he conjures the names themselves, that they may send the angels Michael, Gabriel and Raphael to reveal whatever information he is seeking. The master then places this parchment beneath his right ear when he goes to sleep.

No. 41, designed to discover hidden treasure, is exceptional for the extent to which it blends magic with pious devotion:

'To know where a treasure is hidden, first a person must make a general confession of all his sins, under a waxing moon, on a Sunday, when the Sun is in Leo, early in the morning. And when you first arise, sprinkle yourself with holy water, saying the antiphon, Asperges me, domine, ysopo, etc., in its entirety. Then go to a crucifix and say before it, Miserere mei, deus [Ps. 50 Vulg.], in its entirety, gazing constantly at the crucifix, with utter devotion. And when you say these things, then say most devoutly and with contrite heart, 'O rabbi, rabbi, my king and my God, and Lord of lords, you who are creator of all things, hear the prayer which I, a wretched and unworthy creature, make, and [be mindful?] of your redemption in this hour and always, and may my unworthy cry come unto Thee.'

When you have said this, go to your house and into your chamber, which should be thoroughly cleaned, and, facing east, say this prayer as devoutly as you can: 'O gracious Orient . . . strengthen my understanding in this work by the dominion of your kingdom, which is never lost. Guide and fear [?] me in this my supplication. And I pray you by your kings . . . that on the following night Haram, a benign spirit, may come to me in my sleep and enkindle my heart and my mind, that I may know how to find a treasure, if there is any in these parts or elsewhere, and may he lead me and make a sign there, so that I may know it as true, and [I may know] the truth itself. . . . I call out and implore that you may deign to send me a spirit of truth this night in my sleep, that he may reveal to me a hidden treasure.' Say this facing east, and on bended knees. Say this prayer three times.

When you go to bed, say nine times, 'Orient, Orient, Orient. I pray, beg, and ask, O most benign Orient, that you may fulfil my petition and desire to respect my entreaties.' Then a spirit will come to you, who will not displease you, but will make you dream of a treasure, and will lead you directly to the place.

The next morning, when you arise, give three portions of alms in honour of the great knowing King, and go out, accompanied or alone, to the place where there is treasure in your home [?], and take it. When you have the treasure, have three masses sung: the first in honour of the Holy Trinity, the second for the sins of the deceased, the third for the safeguarding of your life, etc.

It is by no means surprising to find orthodox, traditional prayers used in the practice of magic, or for non-standard petitions to be referred to as prayers, or even for the magician to prepare himself by a regimen of confession and purification. The offering of alms and the subsequent celebration of three masses is perhaps less expected; in any case, what we have here is a mixture of magic and devotion that assumes no incompatibility between the two, and in the mind of the practitioner there presumably was no incongruity.⁴⁷

POSSIBLE JEWISH SOURCES

Magical practices are often so widespread that it is impossible to trace specific patterns of transmission, and the divinatory rituals found in the Munich handbook are at least as widely diffused as any other magical techniques. Nevertheless, there is some reason to suppose that these divinatory practices show the influence of Jewish divination in particular. This should not be surprising, in the light of frequent suggestions that Christians learned or obtained their magic from Jews.⁴⁸ One might suspect that this theme merely reflects stereotypes of the reprobate Jew,⁴⁹ but there is nothing implausible about Christians seeking to amplify their own repertoire of magical practices by borrowing from those of a people antecedently categorized as having a reprobate subculture. The formulas of the Munich handbook, like those of the Greek magical papyri from antiquity, often imitate those of Judaism, as if in homage to a culture perceived as having superior magic. The centrality of the Tetragrammaton,⁵⁰ the occasional use of Hebrew letters, and the use of the pentacle of Solomon in Clm 849 and other necromantic texts are evident signs of Jewish influence, however indirect and distorted the transmission may have been. No. 42 gives 'the great name Semiforas' (meaning the Shem ham-M'forash) as a series of Hebrew and pseudo-Hebrew words beginning 'Saday, Hay, Resel'; the scribe seems uncomfortable with the material, and at one point leaves a blank space in his transcription of the name, but does recognize it as a Hebrew name for God, which he says was written on the forehead of Aaron the priest.⁵¹

Samuel Daiches has edited and analysed a series of Jewish magical texts that resemble the divinatory practices of the Munich manuscript closely.⁵² Of special interest are the procedures in three manuscripts from the collection of Theodore Gaster. Codex Gaster 315 tells how to conjure the 'princes of the thumb' by tracing a circle in the earth with a black-handled knife and then placing a young boy in the circle, anointing the boy's thumbnail and forehead with pure olive oil, and whispering a conjuration into his ear while he gazes at his nail. The conjunction reads, in part, 'I adjure you, princes of the nail . . . that you should bring the king Minon in this nail, and the queen shall also come with him, and that his two servants shall come and that they shall bring there two lambs, one black and one white, and they shall slaughter them . . . and that they shall bring there three glass cups . . .' When the king and queen appear in the boy's nail, they should be invited to eat and drink, after which they will give all the information the operator desires.⁵³ Another ritual from the same manuscript, for conjuring 'the princes of the hand', requires invoking a series of names; if the boy sees nothing in his hand the master must repeat the invocation, then if necessary say, 'I adjure you, Ator, Sator, Somani, Ator' (a garbled version of the SATOR-AREPO formula). If the boy sees a man dressed in black he must have him don white garments, and then he invites him to eat and drink.⁵⁴ Similar rituals are prescribed in Codices Gaster 443 and 1,000. They all require as a medium a young boy (seven years old in one ritual) or girl, or in some cases a pregnant woman, in which case Daiches assumes it is the innocence of the unborn child that facilitates the divination.

The manuscripts Daiches uses are all late – from the sixteenth or seventeenth century, or, in the case of Codex Gaster 443, as late as 1775 – but Daiches argues for close parallels with much earlier Jewish and even Babylonian practice. One Babylonian ritual tablet of around 2000 BCE speaks of 'the master of the nail of this finger'; the slaughter of the lambs, the use of three cups, the invitation of the spirits to eat and drink, and the assurance that they will answer questions truly all find parallels in Babylonian divinatory texts. Rashi in the eleventh century referred to 'work of the demons' called 'princes of the thumb' that involved use of a black-handled knife, a glass cup, and so forth. Further evidence for the continuity of such practices in medieval Judaism comes from the Sefer Hasidim and related texts, which report visions in which demons or the spirits of the dead were summoned to appear in dreams or on reflecting surfaces, often to identify thieves or to locate lost objects. Around the turn of the thirteenth century, Jacob of Marvège recorded a series of dreams in which he received answers to questions he had posed (she'elat halom).⁵⁵ None of this evidence proves that the rituals found in the modern manuscripts preserve in detail the formulas used in medieval magic. Yet it seems likely that the divinatory rituals of the Munich handbook can be traced to medieval Jewish precedent, and thus indirectly to Babylonian prototypes; this is in any event more likely than the reverse, that the Gaster manuscripts contain Jewish borrowing from Christian sources.

AN EXPERIMENT FOR INSTRUCTION

The very first experiment in the Munich manuscript fits only loosely into the category of divination: it is intended for acquiring knowledge of all the liberal arts through the instruction of a demon. Because the first two folios of Clm 849 are missing, this experiment begins in medias res, yet even in truncated form the experiment is reasonably intelligible; in all likelihood there was either prefatory material or another experiment on folios 1 and 2, and only a small part of the present experiment has been lost. In the missing lines the magician is evidently instructed to take a piece of cloth and draw on it a 'circle', meaning a simple band made of two concentric circles, within which the names of various demons are to be inscribed. The markings on this cloth are to be made with the blood of a bird, perhaps a hoopoe, and evidently the magician is to use the heart of this bird as a writing instrument: at later points in the experiment reference is made to writing with 'the aforementioned blood' by means of a heart.

This experiment is built around four conjurations: the first, addressed to three "kings" among the demons, results in the initial presentation of a teacher to the magician; the second, again addressed to these kings, is for the return of the teacher and inception of lessons; the third, addressed to the same demons plus four others, is for the same effect; the fourth, addressed to the teacher himself, leads directly to his return and to the instruction. The magician commands the demons Apolin, Maraloth and Berith to send yet another demon as a teacher, or magister, a term used elsewhere in the manual for the magician himself.

. . . toward the east. Then you must say: 'Apolin, Maraloth, Berith, I, so-and-so, exorcise and conjure you . . . to send me a certain spirit who is expert in teaching of all the sciences, and may he be kindly, faithful, and pleasing to me, and teach every knowledge that I desire, coming in the form of a master, so that I may feel no sense of fear. . . Likewise, I conjure you . . . that you three great kings and companions of mine may endeavour to send to me, your petitioner, one of your subordinates, to serve as master of all the sciences and arts, coming to me in a pleasant and splendid human form, and instruct me lovingly, so that within thirty days I may acquire this knowledge, and after I have received this knowledge I may give them licence to withdraw.' And this must be said so many [=three?] times.

When you have said this, put down the sword and wrap it in the aforesaid cloth, and, having made a bundle, lie down on it and sleep for a little while. After sleeping, rise and clothe yourself (for when the bundle has been made a man must undress and enter a chamber, placing this bundle beneath his head). You must know that when these conjurations have been said, sleep comes by divine power. In the sleep, three great kings [will] appear to you with countless servants, knights, and footsoldiers, among whom there will appear a certain master, whom the three kings will command. [You will see] him ready to come to you. For you will see the three kings, shining with wondrous beauty, who will speak to you in this sleep with one voice, saying, 'Behold, we give you what you have many times requested.' And they will say to the master, 'Let him be your student, and we command you to teach him every science or art that he wishes to hear. Instruct and educate him so that within thirty days he will be regarded among others as supreme in whatever science he wishes.' And you will see him reply, 'My lords, I shall most gladly do whatever you wish.' When this has been said, the kings will depart and the master alone will remain, and will say to you, 'Arise, behold your master.' When this has been said, you will be aroused; at once you will open your eyes, and you will see a master, excellently attired, who will say to you, 'Give me the sword which you have beneath your head.' You will say, 'Behold your student, ready to do whatever you wish.' But you must have a tablet, and must write down all that he tells you.

First you must ask, 'O master, what is your name?' He [will] tell, and you must write it down. Second, from what order, and likewise write it down. When this has all been said, you must ask for the sword, and when you have it he will withdraw, saying, 'Wait until I return.' You will say nothing, but the master will leave and take the sword.⁵⁶ After his withdrawal, you must unwrap the cloth, as appears below. And you should write in this circle his name, as you have written it down, and you must write it with the aforementioned blood. When it is written, wrap up the cloth and hide it well.

When all this has been done, you must dine on bread and pure water alone, and that day you must not exit your chamber. And when you have eaten, take the cloth and enter the circle facing Apolin. Say: 'O King Apolin, great, powerful, and venerable, I, your servant, believing and wholly trusting that you are strong and mighty, ask by your incomprehensible majesty that your servant and subject, so-and-so, my master, should come to me as quickly as he can, by your virtue and power, which is great and supremely great unto ages of ages. Amen.' And you must speak likewise facing Maraloth, changing the name. And likewise facing Berich. When all this has been said, take some of the aforesaid blood and write your name in the middle of the circle with the aforesaid heart, as is shown below. Then write these names, as shown here, with this heart on the corners of the cloth. But if the blood of one bird is not enough, you may kill as many as you wish.

When all this has been done, sit in the circle for the entire day, gazing at it, and saying nothing. When evening comes, wrap up the cloth, undress, and enter the chamber, placing it beneath your head. And as you lie down, say in a clear voice, 'O Apolin, Maraloch, Berith, Sathan, Belial, Belzebuc, [and] Lucifer, I implore you to command the master - here naming his name - to come to me tomorrow before sunrise and teach me thus-and-such science, without any error . . .'

Beware and take caution not to make the sign ☩ of the cross, on account of the great danger in sleeping. You should know that you will see the master speak with you throughout the night, asking you which science you wish to learn. You should reply, 'Thus-and-such', so that, as said, you may speak with him throughout the night. If you awake during that night, rise and light a candle, and take the cloth and unwrap it, and sit on it - that is to say, in the circle, where your name is written on the spot ordained for you - and call on the name of your master, saying, 'O so-and-so, of thus-and-such an order, given to me by your greater kings as a master, I beseech you to come in a kindly form and teach me thus-and-such a science, in which I may become more expert than all mortals, learning it with great joy, without any effort, and with no tedium. . . .'

When you have said this, looking toward the east you will see the master come with many students, and you will ask him to command that they all depart, and at once they will withdraw. Then the master will say, 'Which science do you wish to hear?' You will say, 'This-and-such', and then you will begin.

Bear in mind that you will learn all that he tells you and commit it to memory, and within thirty days you will acquire every science that you wish to have.

And when you wish him to leave the chamber, fold and hide the cloth, and at once he will withdraw. And when you wish him to come, open the cloth, and at once he will appear there, continuing the lessons. After thirty days, having become well learned in science, have him give your sword to you, and then tell him to go, and he will withdraw in peace. You must repeat what you have said when you invoke him to gain knowledge of another science, and he will proclaim himself ready to oblige your will.

This is the end of the chapter on [gaining] knowledge.

The circle required for this first experiment is a single band inscribed within a square. Inscribed in and around the band are the names of seven spirits and the four cardinal directions. 'The name of the master, of such-and-such an order' and 'The name of the student' are marked in the centre.

This experiment contains one incidental feature of some interest: the sword, which the demonic teacher claims at the beginning of the lessons but relinquishes to the magician at the end of the month when instruction is over, may be intended as a kind of sacrifice, albeit a temporary one. It serves, at any rate, to symbolize the relationship between the magician and the demon that exists throughout the thirty days of instruction: although the magician (as the source and ultimate owner of the sword) has conjured the demon and has authority to command his presence, the demon (as temporary keeper of the sword) exercises the authority over his pupil that comes from his possession of superior knowledge. It is only when the demon has imparted knowledge of all the liberal arts that the magician has become, to that extent, his equal and thus regains the sword.

One might suppose that the magician conceives the sword further as a symbol for the power brought by his newly gained knowledge, but the manuscript gives little indication of a coherent and consistent quest for power, least of all in the political sphere. It is true that the writer claims to have connections at court: in one experiment he reminds the reader, 'You have often seen me carry out this work at your court.' Elsewhere he tells of a trick that he played on an emperor and his courtiers. Even if we assume that this is not all pretence, however, the manual gives only meagre hints of specifically courtly interests. Only one experiment is designed to gain the favour of a potentate. Experiments to cause madness or to turn friends into enemies could be used at court, but could just as well be employed elsewhere. On the whole the manual is remarkably devoid of specifically political concern: there is little sense that the writer is intent on building or destroying kingdoms, nor does he display the combination of magical lore and practical engineering found in the real-life courtier Conrad Kyser.⁵⁷ His procedures for divination seem to focus on personal rather than political matters. Some of the illusionist experiments bespeak the fanciful attitude toward magic often found in courtly romance: an illusory banquet is intended as an entertaining spectacle. The writer is perhaps here manifesting a distant fascination with courtly culture rather than a direct involvement in the life of any court. Any common necromancer, after all, might well fantasize about being called into the emperor's service and serving as Michael Scot was supposed to have served Frederick II.⁵⁸

One might seek precedent here too in Jewish magic designed to foster learning. Formulas occur in various early Jewish mystical texts for mastery of the Torah. The assumption is that angels have opposed God's bestowal of the Torah upon humankind, and that this opposition accounts for students' failure to memorize the sacred text. The solution is to adjure the appropriate spirits, particularly the 'Prince of the Torah' (sar ha-torah), by the power of the sacred names; the specific purpose of such adjuration is to master and memorize the Torah.⁵⁹ More immediate precedent, however, may be found in the later medieval magic of the so-called ars notoria, which uses prayers and invocation of angels to gain mastery of the liberal and mechanical arts.⁶⁰ Although the ars notoria did not call upon demonic aid, and ostensibly revolved around the recitation of devotions to the Virgin and to unfallen angels, its techniques were untraditional and superstitious, and an unsympathetic observer might pardonably have categorized it with this first experiment in the Munich handbook.

It may also be instructive to compare the magic of this experiment with that narrated in a story told by Caesarius of Heisterbach, in the early thirteenth century, 'concerning a schoolboy who made homage to the devil to have verses composed':

In the church of Saint Simeon in the diocese of Trier there was a little schoolboy. One day his master gave him a subject on which he was to compose verses, but he was unable to do so, and sat about disconsolate. The Devil appeared to him in human form as he sat by himself, and said to him, 'Why are you so unhappy, little boy, and why are you sitting there looking so sad?' The boy replied, 'I'm afraid of my master, because I cannot compose any verses on the subject he has given me.' The Devil said, 'If you pay homage to me, I will compose the verses for you.' The boy was unaware that he was dealing with the Devil, the enemy of all, who was bent on mischief, so he replied, 'O yes, sir! I am ready to do anything you command, as long as I can have the verses and not get beaten!' For he did not know who it was. He stretched out his hand to the Devil, paying homage to him. At once he received the verses, written on tablets, and then he no longer beheld their writer. When he gave them to his master at the appropriate time, the latter was amazed at the excellence of the verses, and feared that the knowledge he found in them was supernatural [divinam] and not that of a human. He said, 'Tell me, who wrote these verses for you?' The boy said, 'I did, master.' But the master, not believing, repeated his interrogation of the lad many times over, until the boy confessed everything he had done, from beginning to end. Then the master said, 'My boy, that versifier was an evil one, the Devil himself.' Then he added, 'My dear child, are you sorry that you paid homage to that seducer?' The boy replied, 'O yes, master.' The master said, 'Now renounce the Devil and his homage, and all his pomps and all his works.' And he did so. Then the master cut off the sleeves of his surplice and offered them to the Devil, saying, 'These sleeves are yours, O seducer of men, but you will possess nothing more of this creature of God!' At once the sleeves were snatched away with a thunderbolt in the sight of all, while the boy's body remained unharmed. All this was told me by a prior from the church of Trier.⁶¹

The schoolboy's deed is both more innocent and more guilty than the necromancer of the Munich handbook: it is more innocent because he is unaware that the source of his verses is an evil spirit, and also because he does not conjure the spirit but merely accepts his offer, yet in itself his action is more profoundly guilty because he makes homage to the demon. Joseph Hansen sees the concept of homage to a demon as a high medieval innovation inspired by the obvious feudal analogue, the vassal's homage to his lord.⁶² It seems to be only in orthodox literature condemning magic, however, that those who profit from the demons are seen as making such homage, or that sacrifices to the spirits are perceived as involving the same worship that would be implied by sacrifice offered to God. The magicians themselves, as in the Munich handbook, typically perceive any sacrifice as merely a quid pro quo. Oddly, the lad's schoolmaster recognizes that the demon has some legitimate claim on the boy as a result of the transaction, and offers the spirit the sleeves of the pupil's surplice (superpellicii) as his due, even after the boy repeats his baptismal renunciation of Satan's works and pomps. The most basic difference between the two cases, in any event, is that Caesarius's schoolboy, unlike the Munich magician, receives no new knowledge: he has polished verses handed to him but does not himself become an accomplished versifier. The quest of knowledge through magical means seems to be a theme more deeply embedded in Jewish sources, and in the Solomonic literature related to those sources.

Notes

- 1 M.R. James, 'Twelve medieval ghost-stories', English Historical Review, 37 (1922), 420f.
- 2 Ambo simul ruerunt ab oculis meis et amplius non video eos, et nescio sine dubio ubi sunt.
- 3 See the analogues in Caesarius of Heisterbach, The Dialogue on Miracles, trans. H. von E. Scott and C.C. Swinton Bland, 1 (London: Routledge, 1929), 112-14. Barbara Newman has found parallels in several thirteenth- and fourteenth-century collections of exempla.
- 4 John of Salisbury, Frivolities of Courtiers and Footprints of Philosophers, ii.28, trans. Joseph B. Pike (London: Oxford University Press, 1938), 146-7.
- 5 The commonplace book of Robert Reynes of Arle: An Edition of Tanner MS 107, ed. Cameron Louis (New York: Garland, 1980), 169f.; C.L.S. Linnell, ed., 'The commonplace book of Robert Reynys of Arle', Norfolk Archaeology, 32 (1958-61), 114 (Linnell's edition of the text is badly flawed).
- 6 For the following see generally Benjamin Goldberg, The Mirror and Man (Charlottesville: University Press of Virginia, 1985), 3-25 (esp. 8-19), and Henry C. Bolton, 'A modern oracle and its prototypes', Journal of American Folklore, 6 (1893), 25-37. For early instances see W.R. Halliday, Greek Divination: A Study of Its Methods and Principles (London: Macmillan, 1919), 145-62 (which gives numerous parallels from various cultures) and A. Bouch-Leclercq, Histoire de la divination dans l'Antiquité, 1 (Paris: Leroux, 1879), 176-88.
- 7 Siegfried Wenzel, ed. and trans., Fasciculus morum: A Fourteenth-Century Preacher's Handbook, v. 30 (University Park: Pennsylvania State University Press, 1989), 578-9.
- 8 George L. Kittredge, Witchcraft in Old and New England (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 1929), 185.
- 9 See Peter J. French, John Dee: The World of an Elizabethan Magus (London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1972).
- 10 Domenico Comparetti, Vergil in the Middle Ages, trans. E.F.M. Benecke (London: Swan Sonnenschein, 1895), 303-5, citing the Romans des Sept Sages, Cleomades, and the Renart contrefait. For parallels, see ibid., p. 304, n. 9.
- 11 Charles Plummer, ed., Vitar sanctorum Hiberniae, 1 (Oxford: Clarendon, 1910), 150: in speculo eorum diminitatis omnia futura sibi presentia erant.
- 12 Johann Hartlieb, Das Buch aller verbotenen Künste, des Aberglaubens und der Zauberei, ed. and trans. Falk Eisermann and Eckhard Graf (Ahlerstedt: Param, 1989), chs 56, 83-84, 86, 88-90.
- 13 Ibn Khaldūn, The Muqaddimah: An Introduction to History, i.194, trans. Franz Rosenthal, 2nd edn. vol. 1 (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1967), 216-17; Bolton, 'A modern oracle', 37.
- 14 Reading intra for infra.
- 15 Petrus Garsia, In determinationes magistrales contra conclusiones apologetas Ioannis Pici Mirandalani

Concordie Comitis premium (Rome: Eucharius Silber, 1489), sig. k iv verso through k v recto (the discussion continues through l ij recto); see Lynn Thorndike, History of Magic and Experimental Science, 4 (New York: Columbia University Press, 1934), 497–507.

16 Thorndike, History of Magic and Experimental Science, 3 (New York: Columbia University Press, 1934), 430.

17 Registrum Radulphi Baldock, ed. Fowler (Canterbury and York Series, 7), vol. 1, 144f.; Kittredge, Witchcraft, 187.

18 Paris, Les grandes chroniques, vol. 5, 269–72; Récueil des historiens, vol. 20, 633f., 710–12; G.G. Coulton, trans., Life in the Middle Ages, 1 (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1928), 160–62. Willielmi capellani in Brederode postea monachi et procuratoris Egmundensis chronicon, ed. C. Pijnacker Hordijk (Amsterdam: Muller, 1904), 127–30.

19 Kittredge, Witchcraft, 80, 187, from David Wilkins, ed., Concilia Magnae Britanniae et Hiberniae, 3 (London, 1737), 393f.

20 Kittredge, Witchcraft, 187, from A. Hamilton Thompson, ed., Visitations of Religious Houses in the Diocese of Lincoln (London: Canterbury and York Society, 1915–), 208–13.

21 Reports of the Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts, 8 (London: Eyre & Spottiswoode, 1881), 265; William Hale Hale, A Series of Precedents and Proceedings in Criminal Causes from 1475 to 1640, Extracted from Act Books of Ecclesiastical Courts in the Diocese of London, Illustrative of the Discipline of the Church of England (London: Rivington, 1847), 10f.; C. Trice Martin, 'Clerical life in the fifteenth century, as illustrated by proceedings of the Court of Chancery', Archaeologia, 60 (=ser. 2, vol. 10) (1907), 371f., 377; Kittredge, Witchcraft, 188, 195f.

22 The demons' capacity for knowledge and foreknowledge is discussed in the influential work of Saint Augustine, 'The divination of demons', in Roy J. Deferrari, ed., Saint Augustine: Treatises on Marriage and Other Subjects (New York: Fathers of the Church, 1935), 415–40.

23 Peter Brown, The Cult of the Saints: Its Rise and Function in Latin Christianity (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1981), 106–13, esp. 109. Brown quotes Victorinus of Rouen on the effects of exorcism: 'A torturer bends over the unclean spirit, but is not seen. There are no chains here now, yet the being who suffers is bound. God's anger has other hooks to tear the flesh and other racks to stretch invisible limbs.' The theme is one which Barbara Newman will address in forthcoming research on thirteenth-century accounts of exorcism.

24 Fol. 156r.

25 Translation from G.G. Coulton, ed. and trans., Life in the Middle Ages, new edn, 1 (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1967), no. 46, pp. 85f.

26 Translation from C. Trice Martin, 'Clerical life in the fifteenth century, as illustrated by proceedings of the Court of Chancery', Archaeologia, 60 (=ser. 2, vol. 10) (1907), 377f.; see Kittredge, Witchcraft, 188.

27 Augustus Jessopp, Random Roaming and Other Papers, 2nd edn (London, Unwin, 1894), 109–12. Cf. Kittredge, Witchcraft, 94, 206.

28 Kittredge, Witchcraft, 195.

29 Mary of Nijmegen, attributed to Anna Bijns, in Eric Colledge, trans., Medieval Netherlands Religious Literature (New York: London House & Maxwell, 1965), 208; repr. in Elizabeth Alvilda Petroff, ed., Medieval Women's Visionary Literature (New York: Oxford University Press, 1986), 364.

30 Nos 19, 24, 25, 27, 29, 30, 41 (not used); nos 18, 20, 23, 33, 38, 39, 40, 22, 28, 16 (not highly significant).

31 For examples of the use of a boy medium in antiquity, see Hans Dieter Betz, ed., The Greek Magical Papyri in Translation, Including the Demotic Spells, I (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1986), PGM IV.88, I.42, VII.540, V.370, IV.850, V.1 and VII.348.

32 No. 28 specifies that the boy should be under twelve. See also Rawlinson MS D 252, fol. 109r–109v.

33 No. 22 in the Munich handbook; Rawlinson MS D 252, fol. 114v; Johann Hartlieb, Das Buch aller verbotenen Künste, ch. 84.

34 Nicholas Orme, 'Children and the Church in medieval England', Journal of Ecclesiastical History, 45 (1994), 580f.

35 Chs 86, 88, 94.

36 On these possibilities see James W. Fernandez, 'Reflections on looking into mirrors', Semiotica, 30 (1980), 27–39.

37 The writer's B and L might readily be confused, especially in the lower case; see, for example, the references to Belial in no. 12. One might suppose that Bylet is simply an alternative spelling for Lilit, but there is in fact a spirit known as Beleth, Bileth, Bilet or Byleth, on whom see Gustav Davidson, A Dictionary of Angels, Including the Fallen Angels (New York: Free Press, 1967), 73.

38 Lynn Thorndike, Michael Scot (London: Nelson, 1965), 120.

39 Ch. 89.

40 Rawl. 8v, 151v.

41 Chs 83–84.

42 In no. 41 he writes 'Tetragrammaton' (probably that word, though possibly the four letters for which it stands) beneath the boy's feet, then he puts two stones on top of this inscribed word, lest the boy touch the sacred name with his feet.

43 Betz, The Greek Magical Papyri, I, pp. 40–43 (PGM IV.154–285).

44 Joseph Naveh and Shaul Shaked, Amulets and Magic Bowls: Aramaic Incantations of Late Antiquity (Jerusalem: Magnes Press, Hebrew University; Leiden: Brill, 1985); see Michael Ofori Mankata, Hohov – the Magic Bowl: A Ghanaian Folk Tale (Accra: Afram, 1995).

45 Chs 115–31. See also Charles Burnett, Magic and Divination in the Middle Ages: Texts and Techniques in the Islamic and Christian Worlds (Aldershot: Variorum, 1996), XII–XV.

46 The dream oracle of Besas, in Betz, Greek Magical Papyri, I, pp. 122–23 (PGM VII.222–49). On Egyptian dream interpretation see Joseph Kaster, trans. and ed., The Wings of the Falcon (New York, 1968), 153–8.

47 Bodleian Library, MS e Mus. 219, contains a miscellany of magical experiments, among which are similarly pious recommendations on fol. 187v: to recover a lost object, recall the cross of Christ (which was found) and give bread to four paupers; to avert affliction, recall the blows of Christ; for release from captivity, recall that of Christ; to survive a duel, fast, give as much as possible in alms, have three masses sung (those for the finding of the Holy Cross, the exaltation of the Holy Cross, and the Ascension), and wash the hands and feet of three paupers (or five, seven or thirteen).

48 E.g., Edmond Albe, Autour de Jean XXII: Hugues Gérard, docteur de Cahors: L'affaire des poisons et des enchantements en 1317 (Cahors, 1904); Margaret Harvey, 'Papal witchcraft: the charges against Benedict XIII', in Derek Baker, ed., Sacred and Secular: The Church and the World (Oxford: Blackwell, 1973), 109–16.

49 On this subject see especially Joshua Trachtenberg, The Devil and the Jews: The Medieval Conception of the Jew and its Relation to Modern Anti-semitism (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1943), and more recently R. Po-chia Hsia, The Myth of Ritual Murder: Jews and Magic in Reformation Germany (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1988) and Jeremy Cohen, ed., From Witness to Witchcraft: Jews and Judaism in Medieval Christian Thought (Wiesbaden: Harrassowitz, 1996); on the reputation of Jewish magic in late antiquity see John M. Hull, Hellmistic Magic and the Synoptic Tradition (Naperville, IL: Allenson, 1974), 30–35.

50 Jacob Z. Lauterbach, 'Substitutes for the Tetragrammaton', Proceedings of the American Academy for Jewish Research (1931), 39–67; Kaufmann Kohler, 'The Tetragrammaton (Shem ham-M'forash) and its uses', Journal of Jewish Law and Philosophy, 1 (1909), 19–32.

51 Robert Eisler, 'Le Mystère du Schem Hammephorasch', Revue des études Juives, 82 (1926), 157–9.

52 Samuel Daiches, Babylonian Oil Magic in the Talmud and in the Later Jewish Literature (London: Jews' College, 1913).

53 No. B1, text 1, pp. 14–16, with notes on pp. 28–32.

54 No. B1 text 2, p. 16, with notes on p. 38.

55 Ibid., pp. 28–38; Encyclopaedia Judaica (Jerusalem: Keter; New York: Macmillan, 1971–2), articles on Visions and Jacob of Marage.

56 If one reads presentare for postulare, the context becomes clearer: rather than asking for the sword, the magician must give it to the spirit; quo habito then becomes 'when he has it' rather than 'when you have it'.

57 Conrad Kyser, Bellifortis, ed. and trans. Götz Quarg (Düsseldorf: VDI, 1967).

58 Charles Homer Haskins, Studies in the History of Mediaeval Science (Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 1924), 272–98; J. Wood Brown, An Enquiry into the Life and Legend of Michael Scot (Edinburgh: Douglas, 1897); Lynn Thorndike, Michael Scot (London: Nelson, 1965).

59 Peter Schäfer, The Hidden and Manifest God: Some Major Themes in Early Jewish Mysticism, trans. Aubrey Pomerance (Albany: SUNY Press, 1992), esp. 49–53, 73–5, 89–95, 109–17, 150–57; Michael D. Swartz, 'Patterns of mystical prayer in ancient Judaism', in Paul V.M. Flesher, ed., New Perspectives on Ancient Judaism, 6 (Lanham, MD: University Press of America, 1989), 173–86; and esp. Michael D. Swartz, Scholastic Magic: Ritual and Revelation in Early Jewish Mysticism (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1996).

60 Thorndike, A History of Magic and Experimental Science, 2 (New York: Macmillan, 1929), 281–3. Papers from a session on an ars notoria manuscript – Nicholas Watson, 'A fifteenth-century ritual magic manuscript in the McMaster University Library', Richard Kieckhefer, 'The historical background of the McMaster manuscript', and Michael Camille, 'Aspects of art in ars notoria manuscripts' – delivered at the 30th International Congress on Medieval Studies, Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Michigan, 5 May 1995, are to be published in a volume edited by Claire Fanger.

61 Caesarius von Heisterbach, Die Fragmente der Libri VIII Miraculorum des Caesarius von Heisterbach, ed. Aloys Meister (Römische Quartalschrift für christliche Alterthumskunde und für Kirchengeschichte, supplementary vol. 14) (Rome: Herder, 1901), 85f.

62 Joseph Hansen, Zauberworte, Inquisition und Hexenproceß im Mittelalter, und die Entstehung der großen Hexenverfolgung (Munich: Oldenbourg, 1900; repr. Aalen: Scientia, 1964), 275–7.

FORMULAS FOR COMMANDING SPIRITS: CONJURATIONS AND EXORCISMS

A collection of sermon exempla from the 1270s relates a story of considerable interest for later medieval notions of what it meant to conjure demons. The compiler has been discussing the feast of the Assumption, the primary Marian feast of the era, and adds this sidelight for its unexpected relevance to that occasion:

Something further concerning the feast of the Assumption of the glorious Virgin, which was once told to me and to Brother Roger called Bacon at Paris, must not be passed over in silence. A certain surgeon from my home country, and in fact even a native of my very parish, named Master Peter of Ardene, well known to all clerics from Ireland at that time, had taken a wife at Paris and in my day was a Parisian citizen. He told me and Brother Roger Bacon that a certain Spanish magician [magus] was on close terms with him. Every now and then he would summon the man, and they would come to his home for company and amusement. So this magician, wishing to return the favour for Master Peter, took him outside the city one night, with companions whom he wished to take with himself, and made a circle according to his art, and called upon his demon [vocavit demonem suum], who, on coming, responded to all the questions they asked. The man took them there for five nights, and each night dealt similarly with the demon he summoned. But the fifth night was the vigil of the Blessed Virgin's Assumption, so when the demon was called by the rite of the art as it was passed down he delayed his coming. And so he was summoned repeatedly, to the point that the devilish master became much agitated in regard to the devil. Finally the devil arrived, mourning and sighing, and with deep and plaintive sighs like a boy that has been beaten he said to them, 'You people are really strange [Mirum est de vobis], for the angels in heaven are celebrating the feast of the Virgin Mary, and you cannot take your rest here on earth!' Hearing this, they were astonished, and, not surprisingly, quite fearful. And Master Peter himself spoke to the demon, as he swore, taking pity on him, and said, 'What is your problem?' [The demon] said to him, 'Things are very bad for me.' Then they dismissed him and returned to their dwellings. So much for the story [Explicit exemplum].

Behold, O Christian, with what joy you should celebrate the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin, when even the devil, the enemy of the glorious Virgin, is compelled to preach that it should be celebrated, and when the angels celebrate it with so much festivity. When the devil said that he was very bad off amid this festive solemnity, the reason for this, as a great man whom I consulted about the matter suggested, is that on the solemnities of the Blessed Virgin and the saints their punishment is augmented. How this happens I leave to the judgement of those wiser than myself.¹

Among the interesting features of this story, three are of particular relevance here: first, the suggestion that the demon can be made to appear, but that the magician's summons is one element among many in a cosmic network of potentially competing forces; second, the notion that the demons are subject to punishment with varying degrees of severity (so that, as we shall see, the magicians themselves can threaten to bring greater torment upon these fallen spirits); and third, the representation of the magician and his friends as adventurous inquirers daring to conjure the forces of hell to satisfy their curiosity and their quest of forbidden entertainment. The exemplum speaks of the magician as summoning the demon by a traditional rite, but, being uninterested in advertising techniques for necromancy, does not give the actual words of conjuration. From other sources, however, we know what such a rite would involve.

Central to most of the experiments in the Munich manual are formulas of varying length that hinge on the terms coniuro, adiuro and exorcizo, which are essentially interchangeable with each other and with other words meaning 'I command'. Indeed, the conjurations are so centrally important to necromantic experiments that the art of necromancy (as that term is commonly used in later medieval parlance) can even be referred to simply as the conjuring of spirits. Reduced to its generic essentials, the typical conjuration is in the form, 'I conjure you, thus-and-such spirits, by the holy names, by all the saints of God, etc., to carry out my will.' We may speak of the declaration ('I conjure you'), the address ('thus-and-such spirits'), the series of invocations ('by the holy names, etc.'), and the instruction ('to carry out my will') as the four primary elements virtually always found in conjurations. While each is of fundamental significance, they are important in different ways: the instruction indicates the nature of the command, the address makes it clear whom or what the necromancer is commanding, the declaration is the expression of intent to command, and the invocations are the sources of power by virtue of which he is able to command. In all these essential elements conjurations are analogous to exorcisms; indeed, the terms 'conjuration' and 'exorcism' are essentially interchangeable in medieval usage, regardless of whether the intent is to summon or to dispel the evil spirits.

Not all the verbal formulas used in the handbook are conjurations: there are also incantations that serve as glosses interpreting sympathetic magic (especially in the psychological experiments), and at times prayers addressed to God (especially in the Book of Consecrations, but note also that no. 22 speaks of a coniuracio with reference to the prayer Deus, creator omnium rerum, while no. 36 uses the term oraciones for a series of verses beginning 'I adjure you, King of kings and Lord of lords . . .').² But because the most common formulas are conjurations, it is entirely appropriate for necromancy to be known also as the art of conjuring demons.

The conjurations of the necromancer are in certain respects perhaps similar to the liturgical curses that Lester Little has analysed: they adapt ritual language to purposes that seem morally doubtful, although cursing a violator of monastic property rights might have appeared less problematic to a medieval monk than it does to a modern reader.³ But while the necromancer's formulas do at times curse the spirits and threaten prospective victims,⁴ in formal and structural terms the language of the conjurations does not closely resemble that of the curses Little discusses. Further, liturgical curses are inherently the communal acts of a community such as a religious house or cathedral chapter, whereas the conjurations express the will of a single necromancer. The curses assume direct divine agency, while the conjurations presuppose the compliance of created spirits.

The following (from no. 3) may be taken as a representative conjuration:

[Declaration:] I conjure [Address:] you demons inscribed in this circle, to whom is given the power of seducing and binding women in the love of men,

[Invocations:]

- by the virtue and power of the divine majesty,
- and by the thrones and dominations and powers and principalities of Him who spoke and they were made,
- and by those [angels] who do not cease to cry out with one voice, saying, 'Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of Sabaoth, heaven and earth are full of your glory. Hosanna in the highest. Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest,'
- and by these names, which cause you fear and terror: Rator, Lampoy, Despan, Brulo, Dronoth, Maloqui, Satola, Gelbid, Mascifin, Nartim and Lodoni,
- and by this ring which is here,
- and by the innumerable powers that you and your superiors possess,

[Instruction:] that wherever you are, you should rise up from your places without delay and go to so-and-so, and immediately without deception lead her here, and take her back when I wish. And let no one be aware of this or take account of it.

More complex in its structure is this conjuration (from no. 7):

[Address:] O Vsyr, Salaul, Silitor, Demor, Zanno, Syrtroy, Risbel, Cutroy, Lytay, Onor, Moloy, Pumotor, Tami, Oor and Ym, arms-bearing spirits, whose role it is to bear arms and to deceive human senses wherever you wish, [Declaration:] I, so-and-so, conjure and exorcize and invoke you,

[Invocations:]

- by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, who are called the holy Trinity;
- and by the creator of heaven and earth and of all things, visible and invisible,
- and by him who formed man from the mud of the earth,
- and by the annunciation of our Lord Jesus Christ,
- and by his nativity,
- and by his death and passion.
- and by his resurrection
- and by his ascension.

Likewise, [Declaration:] I conjure [Address:] all you aforesaid demons

[Invocations:]

- by the gracious and most merciful and undefiled and incorrupt virgin Mary, the mother of our Lord Jesus Christ, who underwent death for us miserable sinners and recalled us to the heavenly fatherland.

Likewise, [Declaration:] I conjure [Address:] you aforesaid spirits

[Invocations:]

- by all the holy men and holy women of God,
- and by all the apostles, martyrs, confessors, virgins and widows,
- and by these most precious and ineffable names of the Creator of all, by which you all are bound, and which arouse fear in all things in heaven, on earth, and in hell, to wit Aa, Ely, Sother, Adonay, Cel, Sabaoth, Messyas, Alazabra and Osian.

Likewise, [Declaration:] I conjure and exorcize you [Invocations:]

- by the virtue and power of all your princes, kings, lords, and superiors,
- and by your virtue and capacity and power,
- and by your dwelling place, of which this [circle] is the form,
- and by all the figures present within it,

[Instruction:] that, inseparably bound to my power, you should come to me without delay, appearing in such a form that you will in no way frighten me, submissive and prepared to do and manifest to me all that I wish, and that you should do this by [the power of] all things on heaven and on earth.

To 'conjure' or 'adjure' someone meant basically to command him or her, and the terms had broad application. At one point in the Song of Songs the Bridegroom says, 'I adjure you, daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and the hinds of the fields, not to arouse or awake the beloved.'⁵ In the Merovingian era, a Bishop Nicetius wrote in a letter to one Clotsinda, 'I conjure you, Lady Clotsinda, by the tremendous Day of Judgement, that you both read this letter carefully and often try to expound it to your husband.'⁶ Even in this context, where the message is clearly political and has nothing to do directly with incorporeal spirits, the command is supported by appeal to an eschatological event. In the vita of Saint Brendan, one sea monster says to another, 'I adjure you in the name of Saint Bridget . . . to leave me alone,' and the efficacy of the adjuration becomes a sore point in Bridget's holy rivalry with Brendan, whose power the monster does not bother to invoke even though he, unlike Bridget, is physically present.⁷ In a context closer to that of demonic magic, ghosts too might be conjured, as becomes manifest from a series of fifteenth-century ghost stories emanating from a Cistercian house in Yorkshire. The ghosts typically cause disruption to arouse the attention of the living, but it is only when they have been conjured or commanded by someone with spiritual power, and in the name of that which is holy, that they can speak and accomplish the business for which they have come back to earth. In one case, for example, a spirit who wished poshumously to confess his sins (allegedly including murder) had to be conjured by a parish priest 'in the name of the Holy Trinity and by the power of Jesus Christ' to answer all the priest's questions, whereupon he 'spoke from his inmost bowels, not with his tongue, but as if inside an empty barrel', and received absolution.⁸

The conjurations used in late medieval Europe are no different in principle from those used in other cultures, but the precise forms are in part culturally specific. In medieval Jewish conjurations, many of which survive from the Cairo Geniza, God's authority may be brought to bear on angels or demons to induce them to do the magician's bidding. These formulas are similar in their overall force but different in structure from the conjurations used within Christendom. Typically they are marked by six elements: first, the spirits are invoked in the name of God; second, they are adjured to perform specific tasks; third, the client is identified; fourth, the expected favours are listed; fifth, the requests are repeated and reinforced with quotations from the Bible and elsewhere, and sixth, the formulas conclude with a solemn liturgical 'Amen' or 'Selah'.⁹ The resemblance to the conjurations of the Christian world is close enough that one might posit influence of Jewish magic on its Christian equivalent, but not so close as to prove simple and straightforward borrowing from one tradition to the other.

The conjurations of the Munich handbook are not always in the same form. One notable exception is a conjuration given in pseudo-Chaldean (no. 18): Bismille araathe. . . . This formula actually derives from an Arabic prototype: Bismillahi ar-Rahmān ar-Rahim, the opening line of the Quran ('in the name of God, the merciful, the beneficent'), is a standard beginning to a Muslim invocation, and other words in the formula appear also to be garbled versions of Arabic. Shorter or longer texts of such pseudo-Chaldean appear elsewhere as well (nos 19, 20 and 21), but in these cases the very esotericism is more important than any vestigial structure.

Normally the language for conjurations in late medieval Western sources was Latin, but at times - perhaps most often when a young child was being used as a medium - the conjuration is translated into the vernacular. The Munich handbook instructs the master at one point to have the child conjure the spirit in the mother tongue (no. 27). In the Rawlinson manuscript, the text shifts to the vernacular particularly for formulas addressed to the spirits when they have come, in one case for a threat addressed to them if they do not come, and once for a 'binding' conjuration (coniuracio ligacionis); the intent in at least some of these cases may be that the master's young companion, who might be a mere beginner in Latin, should use the vernacular.

THE DECLARATION

One of the most widespread ways of distinguishing between magic and religion is the notion that magic is coercive whereas religion is petitionary. Martin Buber seems to assume such a contrast when he says that 'Magic desires to obtain its effects without entering into relation.'¹¹ Yet this distinction is questionable, partly because it is not a mode of distinction that would have been familiar to medieval Europeans, also because it provides little aid in disentangling magical and religious elements that tend to be inextricably intertwined or even fused. It seems more useful to view demonic magic as inherently a kind of religious activity, and natural magic as lending itself readily to the intermingling of devotional elements.¹² It is the case, however, that the necromancers typically saw themselves as commanding, constraining and binding the spirits they invoked, and one of the arguments most insistently made in the theological condemnations of magic in the late Middle Ages is that such constraint is in fact not possible.¹³ The magicians' conception of what they were doing is signalled already in the very opening of a formula of conjuration: the declaration is a statement of intent, indicating how the conjurer perceived his relationship with the spirits. They saw themselves as having a power analogous to that by which Christ astonished those about him (Mk 1:27, Lk 4:36), that of commanding unclean spirits and compelling their obedience.

At times the declaration is simple and unpeated: 'I conjure you' (coniuro vos or coniuro te) is by far the most common declaration, occurring fully 147 times in the Munich handbook; equivalent formulas, such as 'I order you', 'I adjure you', 'I exorcize you' and 'I invoke you', are also common.¹⁴ Elsewhere the declaration is compound: 'I invoke and adjure you' or 'I conjure you and command you'.¹⁵ In longer conjurations, the declaration may be repeated intermittently as a way of breaking the litany of invocations: 'I conjure you' is in six conjurations repeated once or twice, but may occur as often as five or even eleven times.¹⁶ Elsewhere the recurring declarations vary in their form:

I conjure . . . I conjure you . . . I conjure you and exorcize you [and] command you . . .

I conjure you . . . I conjure you and call you to witness . . . I adjure you [followed by eight more occurrences of 'I conjure you'].

At times the recurrence and compounding of declarations becomes forceful and dramatic:

I conjure you and exorcize you and call you forth . . . I conjure you . . . I conjure you and order and command you . . . I call you forth . . .

I invoke you powerfully . . . I invoke and conjure you powerfully and exorcise you . . . I invoke and conjure and exorcize and constrain you . . .

we exorcize and command you . . . we exorcize and manfully command you.

I invoke you on behalf of (ex parte) the Father, I provoke you on behalf of the Son, I invoke you on behalf of the Holy Spirit¹⁷

Approximately 43 per cent of the time the second and following declarations are preceded by 'likewise' (item), which reinforces the sense and the force of the serial construction.

But while the declarations are most often statements of command, not infrequently they express supplication: 'I supplicate you'; 'I beseech you'; 'I beseech you, I supplicate you, I request of you'; 'I pray you'; 'I pray, ask, and entreat'.¹⁸ Alternatively, the declaration may be one not of command alone but also of constraint ('I invoke, conjure, and constrain you'), a claim to yet higher power over the spirits.¹⁹ A command may in principle be refused; coercion may not. As with humans, however, so too with demons, the distinction becomes blurred: a command supported by sufficient authority, or coupled with compelling threats, may be as compelling psychologically as brute force is physically.

THE ADDRESS

If the declaration is the conjurer's statement of intent, indicating how he perceives his action vis-à-vis the spirits, the address is the element in the conjuration that shows which spirits were being called upon – not an insignificant matter, either from the magicians' perspective or from the viewpoint of authorities investigating the practice of magic. The address is our chief source of information for the demonology and angelology of the magicians. This topic will be explored more fully in the next chapter, but may be touched upon here. The address is sometimes an apostrophe, in the vocative case ('I conjure you. O Brimer, Suburith, Tranayrt, Lyroth, Berien, Damay'), and sometimes an appositive phrase, in the accusative case ('I conjure all you demons inscribed on this ring').²⁰ While the spirits are commonly both named and characterized, the name and the description do not always occur in the same part of the conjuration. And the conjuration mentioned above refers first to 'all you demons inscribed on this ring' and then addresses them twice by name. When the declaration is repeated, the address is sometimes replicated exactly as it was first given, but frequently the later declarations addresses merely the 'aforesaid demons' (preminatos demones), as often as ten or eleven times in a single conjuration.²¹ When multiple demons are being conjured they are usually all named, but one conjuration addresses the demon Lylet along with her companions (socii), who remain unnamed.²²

In divinatory experiments, not only the informing spirits but also the boy serving as the necromancer's medium are often conjured to tell the truth. In such cases the conjuration is addressed to the boy simply as puer (no. 22) or, more often, as 'young virgin' or 'virginal youth' (virgo iuuenis).²³ Less often, objects used in the experiments are at times conjured and thus addressed: an image or a cloak. Power-bearing names are also addressed ('O ye most holy names').²⁴ Two experiments have conjurations addressed to the spirit who has taken the form of a horse.²⁵ In most contexts, the beings whose support is most needed and whose resistance is most feared are the spirits, and they are thus the ones chiefly subject to the magician's conjuration.

THE INVOCATIONS

As the fundamental source of efficacy by which a conjuration works, the invocations call upon the sacred power of numinous beings, names and events, power that can be wielded against the addressees and can make them to carry out the master's will. For example, a conjuration in one experiment (no. 7) invokes the power of God; events in the life of Christ; various sacred personages (Mary, the saints, then specifically the apostles, martyrs, confessors, virgins, and widows); the sacred names of God (which bring great fear to 'all things in heaven, on earth, and in hell'); the power of the demons' own princes, kings, lords, and superiors; the spirits' own powers; their habitation, of which the circle is a representation, and 'all the figures present within it', although in fact there are no figures thus depicted. The invocations are strung together in a manner reminiscent of a litany, in most cases between two and eight in a single conjunction, but not uncommonly as many as twenty-four. Only four experiments, all divinatory and involving the cooperation of a child medium, have conjunctions with more than twenty-four invocations, and one of these runs to fully fifty-eight.²⁶

Invocations can be found in mainstream Christian prayers from the late Middle Ages as well as in conjunctions. The Obsecro te found in the Little Office of the Blessed Virgin, invoked Mary by the joy she experienced at the Annunciation, by the tender care with which the Son of God entered her womb, by the joys she had in her Son, by the compassion she felt before the cross, and so forth.²⁷ The difference is that here the events are conceived as having psychological force: they are persuasive because they are remembered, and the point of the prayer is to call them to the Virgin's mind so that, moved by the recollection of what she herself experienced, she will have compassion on those for whom the events of Christ's life were performed – just as Christ himself is reminded of his Passion in the Dies irae and urged to mercy so that his suffering may not be in vain. In magical conjunctions, the sacred persons, events, and objects cited serve more as powerful but impersonal weapons in a contest of wills, by which the magician may gain the upper hand over an unwilling spirit – as arma nigromantica, so to speak. A closer orthodox equivalent would be the petitions in the Litany of the Saints in which Christ is asked to 'free' humanity (libera nos, domine) by the successive acts of his life and death (per natiuitatem tuam, and so forth), but here the wording posits a natural and objective relationship between the sacred events and the desired effect: the normally expected effect of Christ's passion and death is to redeem humankind, not to give necromancers power over demons. Although the invocations are often by far the lengthiest in the elements of a conjunction, their meaning thus depends on the far shorter wording of the declaration and the instruction. If the purpose of the invocations is to call upon the sacred power of persons, objects and events, this power is like electricity, capable of running the most various machines and working diverse effects, both beneficent and brutally maleficent.

The subjects whose power is invoked fall into nine general categories. The examples given here are more than merely illustrative – they include the most common and significant cases within each category – but not exhaustive:

1. God:

'by God' (no. 20)

'by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit' (no. 11)

'by the undivided and inseparable Trinity in which are three persons, namely the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit, who proceeds from both' (no. 8)

'by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, to which every name is bowed [sic – cf. Phil. 2:10] and every tongue proclaims Hosanna' (no. 11)

'by the living and true God' (no. 25)

'by Him who is everlasting and eternal, and by Him who gave us the grace not to stand in Hell' (no. 8)

'by God almighty, by Jesus Christ his Son, and by his Trinity, and by that providence which God had in [His] mind before the world was made, by the wisdom of God's eternity by which he made heaven stand above and established and perfected the world below . . . and by the prudence by which God separated light from darkness and created both, by the Word of God by which he made heaven and earth . . . ' (no. 39)

'by the creator of heaven and earth, and by Him who created all things for the praise and glory of his name, and by the living God, and by the holy God, and by the true God' (no. 43)

'by the virtue and power of the divine majesty' (no. 3)

'by the ineffable virtue and omnipotence of the creator' (no. 33)

2. Sacred names for God or Christ:

'by the names which strike fear and terror in you' (no. 3)

'by the holy names by whose power you are bound' (no. 1)

Tetragrammaton (passim)

Adonay (nos 1, 7, 10, 13, 23, 25, 27, 28, 33, 35, 39)

El (nos 14, 28, 33, 39)

Ely (nos 7, 14, 23, 25, 27, 28, 35)

Eloy (nos 25, 27, 28, 33, 35, 39)

Alpha et O (nos 10, 25, 27, 28, 33, 39)

Emanuel (nos 20, 23, 25, 27, 28, 33, 39)

Messyas (nos 7, 10, 23, 27, 28, 39)

Soter (nos 7, 10, 25, 27, 28, 39)

Sabaoth (nos 1, 5, 7, 10, 13, 23, 25, 27, 33, 35, 39)

62 unspecified names of Christ (no. 39)

99 names spoken by the daughters of Israel (no. 33)

3. Events from the life of Christ (usually emphasizing the Passion):

'by the Incarnation of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the baptism of Christ; by the fast of Christ; by the death of Christ; by the Passion of Christ; by the resurrection of Christ; by the ascension; by the coming of the Holy Spirit, the Paraclete' (no. 40)

'by the annunciation of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the sacred fast of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the baptism of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the temptation of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the passion of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the 1,006 wounds of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the 106 wounds of Our Lord Jesus Christ; by the 56 wounds of Our Lord Jesus Christ, not including the others from his head to his feet; by the crown of thorns which they placed on the head of Our Lord Jesus Christ, and they knelt down [and] mocked him, saying "Hail, king of the Jews"; by the reed and the blows with which they struck Christ; and by the three nails; by the lance with which the sacred body of Our Lord Jesus Christ was pierced, and at once blood and water flowed out; by the outburst of the holiness of Our Lord Jesus Christ, "Into thy hands I commend my spirit"' (no. 38; cf. no. 39)

4. The saints:

'by all the holy men and holy women [sanctos et sanctas] of God'

'by the four evangelists, Luke, Mark, Matthew, [and] John; by the four sermons; by the twelve apostles; by the three magi, Caspar, Balthasar, [and] Melchior; by the patriarchs [and] prophets; by the martyrs and confessors; and by all the popes of Rome, and all the virgins and widows; and by all the bishops; and by all the abbots; by all the priors; by all the provosts; by all the archdeacons; and by all deacons; by all monks; by all nuns; by all priests; by all deacons and subdeacons; by all the saints of God; by the merits of all the saints; by all the Christian people; and by all the saints who are in heaven and on earth; and by the 144 thousand innocents . . . ' (no. 38)

'by the faith of the prophets, by the proclamations of the patriarchs, by the dignity of the twenty-four elders, by the creed of the apostles, by the passion of the martyrs, by the confessing of the confessors, by the chastity of the virgins, by the gospels of the evangelists . . . ' (no. 39)

by the virginity of Mary, John the Evangelist, Catherine, Agatha, Cecilia, and Barbara (nos 27, 28).²⁸

'by all the bodies of the saints that lie in Rome' (no. 12)

5. The Virgin Mary:

'by Saint Mary the virgin' (no. 29)

'by the gracious and most merciful and undefiled and uncorrupt virgin Mary, the mother of Our Lord Jesus Christ, who, dying for us wretched sinners, called us to the heavenly fatherland' (no. 7)

by her virginity (no. 28)

by her tears (no. 40)

by her milk (no. 12)

by her names - Queen, Flower, Rose, Lily, Ladder, Wisdom, Life, Sweetness, Mercy, and Hope (no. 10)

6. The angels:

'by the angels and archangels, thrones and dominations, principalities, powers, virtues of the heavens, cherubim and seraphim' (no. 40)

'by the thrones, dominations, powers, and principalities of Our Lord Jesus Christ; and by all the angels and archangels who dwell before the throne of God, crying out with one voice, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of Sabaoth, heaven and earth are full of your glory. Hosanna in the highest. Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest."' (no. 9)

'by the nine orders of angels' (no. 29)

by the archangels Michael, Gabriel and Raphael (no. 38)

7. Material creatures:

'by all things that were and are and will be' (no. 2)

'by all things that exist beneath the heavens' (no. 35)

'by all the powers of heaven and earth' (no. 35)

'by heaven and earth, by the sea, by all things that are in them, by all emperors, by all kings, by all princes, by all counts, by all knights, by all citizens' (no. 38)

'by all things that the four parts of the world contain, and by the ages of the world, and by all animals that exist beneath the heavens, and by serpents and flying things, bipeds, tripeds, quadrupeds' (no. 40)

'by heaven and earth, the sea and hell, and all things existing in them' (no. 11)

by the heavenly and earthly Paradise (no. 10)

'by the eternity of all creatures' (no. 5)

by the five secula and seven etates of the world (no. 39)

'by the Sun and Moon and all the heavenly stars, and by all those things which have [power] to frighten and constrain you, and by the power of which it behoves you to come to us who summon you' (no. 6)

'by all things which have [power] to terrify, constrain, and bind you, and whose command it behoves you to fulfill completely' (no. 11)

'by your virtue and power, and by all things that have power against you' (no. 11)

by the sacraments of baptism (no. 33)

by the eucharist (nos 12, 38, 39)

by the four rivers of Paradise (no. 8)

8. The Last Judgement:

'by the fearful day of judgement' (no. 35)

'by the fearful day of judgement of God most high, and by the fiery consumption, and by the glassy sea which is before the gaze of the divine majesty, and by the four animals . . . before the throne of the divine majesty, with eyes before and behind' (no. 33)

'by the fearful day of judgement, on which you are all to be damned' (no. 40)

9. The rulers of the demons:

'by Toth, your prince; by Zambrim et Mambrim; by Vsuel [and] by Saduel, to whom you are held to obey and tell the truth' (no. 33)

'by the power and dignity of Lucifer, Aphaleon and Neutrion' (no. 8)

'by your master Astaroth' (no. 40)

'by all your princes, kings, lords and superiors, and by your hell, and by all those things that exist in it'. (no. 10)

'by the virtue and power of all your princes, kings, lords and superiors, and by your [own] virtue and potentiality and potency [possibilitatem ac potenciam], and by your dwelling place, of which this [circle] is a form, and by all the figures abiding in it' (no. 7)

The invocations used by far most often and consistently are those in the first two categories - those appealing to the power of the divine persons, powers and names. Of these, the most common is the Tetragrammaton, the nomen altissimum in no. 14, spelled Tetragramaton (nos 1, 10, 13, 14, 25, 27, 28, 35), and also produced as Y-V-E and HX-V-V-HV, while Y-V-E-X is given as a name used by Abraham (no. 33).²⁹ The most extended and perhaps the most interesting series of invocations referring to the divine names is one (no. 33) with thirty-one specific names associated with events from salvation history, particularly the Exodus:

We exorcise and command you by the most mighty and potent name of God, El, strong and wondrous; by Him who spoke and it was made; by all his names; and by the Name YVE, which Moses heard and spoke . . . and by the name YVEX, and with the name [Y]V[E]X, which Abraham heard, and he knew the almighty God; and by the name Joth, and with the name Joth, which Jacob heard from the angel accompanying him, and he was freed from the hand of his brother Esau; and by the name Eyzaserie, and with the name Eyzaserie, which Moses heard on the mountain, and he merited to be now with God, and to hear him speaking in the flame; and by the name Anathematon, and with the name Anathematon, which Aaron heard, and he became eloquent and wise . . .

This conjuration proceeds to invoke the names Sabaoth, Oristion, Eloy, Yephaton, Arbitrios, Elyon, Adonay, Pantheon and Arimon, by which Moses caused the plagues in Egypt; Geremon, by which he freed the Israelites; Yegeron, by which he divided the Red Sea; Anabona, by which he merited to receive the tablets of the law; Egryon, by which Joshua overcame his foes; Patheon, by which David was saved from Goliath, and so on.³⁰

Names for Christ are sometimes derived from biblical images, especially in one extended series (no. 39):

Messyas, Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, Panthon, Panthocrathon, Eloy, Theos, Hon, Vision, Saviour, Alpha and Omega, First and Last, First Born, Beginning and End, way, truth, and wisdom, virtue, Paraclete. I am who am, who are, mediator, lamb, sheep, ram, calf, serpent, kid, Word, image, glory, grace, salvation, light, salt, peace, splendour, bread, font, vine, shepherd, prophet, undying hope, king, father, almighty, merciful, eternal, highest good, Trinity, unity, Father, El, Eloy, Eloë, Eleon, Saday, Symator, Tu, Ye, Ye, Prince of Peace, Enstriel, spirit, fear, goodness, thou, unity of unities, threefold godhead.

Occasionally names for God are derived from Hebrew or Greek liturgical formulas: AGLA (no. 33), the common magical abbreviation for the Hebrew Ale giber leolam Adonai ('Thou art mighty for ever, O Lord'); Theos (no. 39), Ischiros (no. 28), and Athanatos (nos 28, 33), names derived from the liturgical trisagion, taken over into the Latin liturgy of Good Friday in the original Greek); Eleyson (no. 28), from the Kyrie eleison. Other names derived from Greek titles are ho òn (nos 14, 23, 27, 28, 33) or simply Hon (no. 25) ('The Existing One'), and Pancraton (nos 28, 33) or Panthocrathon (no. 39), presumably variants on Pantocrator, 'the Almighty' or 'Ruler of All'.³¹

In short, what Joseph Kaster says about mastery of the divine names in ancient Egyptian ritual applies in Jewish and Christian contexts as well: 'whoever knows the god's real name, secret and ineffable and taboo, has control over him in the sense that he can evoke his power. In all ceremonial magic, the essential portion of the spell is the calling forth of the spirit or deity by name, when he is evoked by his real name, he must work the desire of the magician who "controls" him. This is "a name to conjure with".'³²

On occasion the names of the demons, like those of God and Christ, are represented as possessing power: one invokes the demonic names Apolyn, Gebel, Astaroth, Tereol, Falmar and Tyroces (no. 5); another has an invocation 'by the name of your highest prince' (no. 27).

Certain conjurations invoking events from the life of Christ make explicit what is presumably implied elsewhere, that they are calling not so much upon the events themselves as upon the power manifested in the events: 'by the power by which Our Lord Jesus Christ entered in to his disciples when the doors were closed' (no. 35); 'by the power of Our Lord Jesus Christ, to wit that for us humans he descended from heaven and was born of the virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate . . .' (no. 38).

On rare occasions the invocations appeal to the very practice of magic, whether historical or present: spirits are conjured by 'all the experiments of Virgil [the necromancer]' (no. 38),³³ by the ring brought for the experiment (no. 3), or by the magical circle used for the experiment, 'by which you are effectively called forth' (no. 9). In view of the magical powers often ascribed to Solomon, it is not surprising to find his rings invoked, along with the signs and names inscribed on them (nos 28, 33); his seven signs, his seal, and his characters (nos 27, 38); or his wisdom (nos 12, 30, 38).⁵⁴ Often the invocations show a preference for saints grouped in threes: most especially the three magi, Caspar, Balthasar and Melchior; also the three young men Sydrac, Mysaach and Abdenago and the three patriarchs Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.⁵⁵ The virgin child medium conjures spirits by his own virginity, and the master conjures him by the virginity he has maintained and the baptism he has received (nos 27, 28).

When Oriens is conjured, the invocations refer to his own dignities and subordinate spirits: 'by your kings, and by all your royal powers; by Sotuem [and] Sortfen; by your Sun, a most holy and sacred radiant treasure, bright and shining, which your excellence sends forth and which your manifest and benign power sends back; and by all your dignities and commands' (no. 41).

A conjuration from the supplementary material in Clm 849 commands the demons by virtue of two biblical analogies:

O you demons, and all princes and every kind of demons, whom your guilt cast out from heaven on high, I adjure you and order you to obey my command and my precepts. Just as God commanded the Jordan and it stood still that the children of Israel might walk across without hindrance, so to I command you to obey my precepts day and night, at all hours and moments, [and be subject] to my precepts. Just as the Red Sea obeyed Moses and Aaron when it divided and presented a dry path for the children of Israel, so by invocation of Our Lord Jesus Christ I command you to obey me without delay, without harm or deception to me or any living thing . . .⁵⁶

The Rawlinson necromantic manuscript, too, uses analogies in some of its conjurations: as Christ was 'fixed' to the cross by the Jews, so may the aerial spirits be 'fixed' by the power of the holy names; as the almighty Father (sic!) lay in the tomb for two days and arose on the third day, so may the aerial spirits rise up and come forth; may the master proceed securely along his way, as Jesus proceeded through the midst of his enemies and none of them laid a hand on him because his hour had not come.⁵⁷ These formulas are similar in form to invocations, and presumably the intended force is the same: the purpose of the analogy is presumably not only to clarify what the conjurer intends (in which case it would be ancillary to the instruction) but to call upon the power of the sacred event that is recalled.

THE INSTRUCTION

The part of the conjuration directing the addressee what to do is typically introduced with the conjunction meaning 'that' (ut, or sometimes quatenus, more rarely quod). The formula of instruction may be repeated once, twice, or more often (in one conjuration for experiment no. 39 as many as ten times), in which case the manuscript may give the full version only the first time and only the incipit for subsequent occurrences.³⁸ Necromantic texts sometimes speak of 'obediencial conjurations', intended to compel the spirits' submission; 'bonds' or binding conjurations such as the 'bond of Solomon' (vinculum Solomonis), used in the Munich handbook's divinatory experiments to keep the spirits from departing until they have answered all questions;³⁹ and 'licencial conjurations', dismissing the spirits and requiring them to return at the magician's will.⁴⁰ The conjurations found in the Munich handbook, however, can most usefully be divided into 'summoning conjurations' and 'executing conjurations'.

Summoning conjurations are used to instruct a spirit or spirits to come before the necromancer ('that you come in a benign form', 'that you should come to me', 'that you should have no rest until you come to me', 'that you should at once proceed here', or 'that you should be compelled to come here').⁴¹ They may be commanded to appear in a reflecting surface as part of a divinatory experiment ('that you should all appear') or to send another spirit or spirits for that purpose ('that you should command your master that he himself should come', 'that you should take pains to send one of your subordinates', 'that you should send me a certain spirit', 'that you should have your subordinates come here', 'that you, N., should make spirit N. come to me').⁴²

Executing conjurations, which require the spirit or spirits to carry out the will of the master, are more varied in proportion to the various purposes of the experiments. In psychological experiments the spirits are enjoined to affect the minds and hearts of the individuals singled out as victims ('that you should sow and stir up hatred between them', 'that you should seduce the heart and mind of N. to my love', 'that you should never have rest until you make her heart burn with my love').⁴³ In divinatory experiments involving a young boy as medium, either the master or the boy may conjure the father of lies or his minions to tell the truth, or the master may conjure the boy himself to do so ('that you should relate to us whatever you see', 'that you should tell me the truth', 'that you should show me the truth', 'that you should have no rest unless you reveal to this boy the thief and the theft').⁴⁴ The spirits may be instructed to make possible the conditions for the bestowal of information – to enlighten the boy's mind, or to cause his fingernail to grow bright and appear large.⁴⁵ These conjurations may even involve the explicit insistence that the spirit or the child not lie, nor even have the power to conceal or deceive ('that you should have no power of concealing, but should manifest all that you see').⁴⁶ The spirits may be conjured to entrust a treasure to the master ('that you should leave me a treasure'), to fetch and replace a woman ('that you should go to so-and-so and immediately fetch her here, and return her when I wish'), to guard some object, not to harm the master in the course of the experiment ('that you should have no power to harm me'), to protect the master ('that you should forthwith have these terrors removed', 'that you should avenge me against him who is trying to harm me'), or to obey the master's command generally ('that you should obey my command').⁴⁷ The child medium may be conjured not only to tell the truth but, at an earlier stage, to gaze into his fingernail ('that you should gaze into [your] nail and see whether it becomes bright or not').⁴⁸

In some conjurations, to be sure, the distinction between summons and execution breaks down. In divinatory experiments the spirits may be simultaneously commanded to come, to make themselves seen, and to provide information ('that you should appear to me and give true responses', 'that you should come and appear and tell me the truth', 'that you should come and appear and reveal this to us', 'that you should appear and respond and reveal all the truth', 'that you should appear and reveal to us the truth', 'that you should come and answer me and tell the truth').⁴⁹ Elsewhere they may be told to come and bring an object ('that you should come to me, bringing a consecrated ring'), to come and transport the necromancer ('that you should come to me without delay, and carry me to such-and-such a place'), to come and consecrate an object ('that you should come here and consecrate this ring'), or simply to come and fulfill the master's will ('that you should come to me and carry out my entire will').⁵⁰

Executing conjurations need not be addressed to the spirits by whose power the operation is done. Experiment no. 12 contains two instructions to the woman whose passionate love is required, although the second of these vacillates between the second and the third person: 'that you should be unable to sleep until you complete my libidinous desire' and 'that, as the hart longs for the fountain of water [Ps. 41:2 Vult.], so you, N., should long for my love; and as the raven longs for the carcasses of dead people, so you should long for me [sic!]; and as this wax melts before the fire, so you, N., should long for my love, so that you are unable . . .' In experiment no. 11, for a cloak of invisibility, the master conjures the cloak itself 'that no one may be able to see me'. In the simple experiments to obtain a horse, as in the complex experiment to procure a flying throne, the master conjures the horse or the throne to transport him, usually to a specified location ('that you should carry me', 'that you should lead me to such-and-such a place').⁵¹

A BOND OF SATAN OR MIRAGE

One lengthy conjuration appears both in the Munich necromancer's handbook (no. 32) and again twice in the appended material; versions of it by three different hands are thus included in Clm 849.⁵² The two isolated versions, which agree quite closely in their wording, are addressed to the demon (or 'ancient serpent') named Mirage; the version incorporated into the manual, which differs markedly from these at many points, addresses the Devil, or Satan, 'most wicked enemy of the faith, death of the human race, tempter of righteousness, lover of evils, root and kindling of vices, seducer of humans, and master', 'most wicked dragon', 'accursed and most mendacious spirit' and 'author of diabolical power, inventor of evils'. The conjuration begins anomalously with a statement regarding the powers being brought to bear against the Devil ('may the angels and archangels accuse you . . . may the elect of God accuse you'), followed by a prayer for divine aid ('God . . . I invoke your holy name . . . I humbly implore that you may deign to give me aid against this spirit Satan'). These elements are followed by simply commands addressed to the spirit himself ('Hear, therefore, Devil . . . come forth . . . I adjure you . . . to be subject to my commands and carry them out'). The instructions are for the most part purely generic: 'I adjure you . . . to do quickly whatever I command you', or 'to do quickly whatever I order and command of you', or 'I adjure and constrain and command you . . . to obey me without any impediment or harm or wound or affliction to my body or soul'. At the end, however, the instruction is specific but allows for such variation that the effect is still to make this a generic conjuration, for virtually any purpose:

[Come] to me in this hour, without any harm or injury or affliction to my soul or my body, or send another [spirit] or have him come, who will know perfectly how to fulfil my every desire, and will not withdraw from me until I have given him leave and he has fully satisfied my will. I conjure you by all that is written above to make a spirit come to me carrying gold and silver [coins] and [hidden] treasures, before I withdraw from this place. And as often as I invoke him, let him appear at once, benign and humble, harming no one, and ministering to me in all things, and fulfilling my will. So be it, so be it, amen. And bring or send me a spirit willing and competent in all knowledge. May he have the power to make me invisible whenever I wish. And let him please me, and be always under my power. And provide him also with the power to consecrate books and experiments, and everything that I wish. Amen, amen, amen.

Repeatedly the will of the conjuror is identified with that of God: the spirit is told that God himself commands him, or that the conjuror does so not by his own power but by that of God, or 'by the power which I have over you, Mirage, given me by God almighty in baptism and the other sacraments'. At one point the conjuration reads, 'The Word made flesh commands you. He who was born of the virgin commands you, Jesus of Nazareth commands you, He who created you commands you to carry out quickly what I ask or wish to have from you or desire to know; the more you delay in doing what I command you, the greater will be your punishment from day to day.' The reminder of the punishment awaiting the spirit on the Day of Judgement, and the threat of heightened torment as a penalty for disobedience, is also repeated – somewhat as elsewhere (no. 2) a spirit is threatened with being cast forever into the depths of the sea.⁵³

The conjuration of Mirage, from the supplementary material in the codex, is followed by material that the main block does not take over: a set of instructions for constructing a circle in a secret location, with various prayers, and supplementary conjurations in which Mirage is threatened with intensified pains if he does not present himself: 'If not, I exorcize you that the chains of your punishment may be rife with sulphur and pitch.'⁵⁴ The spirit is to be conjured a second and third time, if necessary, but no more.⁵⁵

EXORCISMS AND CONJURATIONS

Adolf Franz published a lengthy formula of exorcism taken from a West Frankish manuscript of the ninth century, which reads in part:

. . . I conjure you, Devil, Satan, Enemy,

- by God the Father almighty;
- and by those virtues which the Lord himself made and makes;
- by those angels he has before himself in [his] mind; . . .
- by those four animals which uphold the world itself;
- by every good creation that God has made in heaven and on earth;
- and by the light and the earth and all its creeping things;

by all these things I conjure you that you should not have power to remain, for he commands you who ordered you to be cast down from the kingdom of heaven on high. Hear, therefore, and be afraid [Audi ergo et time ergo], Devil, Satan, Enemy; you are banned, and again I speak to you and conjure you

- by that king who rules and commands all things . . .

Again I have said to you, O infernal enemies, by all things that I have had in mind for you [in] so great a conjuration as this, that you should not have power to remain or to do harm or to rebel. . . . I exorcize you, O accursed one, most unclean spirit, basilisk dragon, noxious serpent . . . that you should go out from this temple of God . . . I exorcize you, O unclean spirit, author of sins, deceiver of souls, envious one, insatiable homicide who endeavoured to kill the immortal man whom God created by his power. . . . In the name of Our Lord Jesus Christ I adjure you, O enemy . . . I conjure you and entreat [obtestor] you, O enemy, [that] you should not have power to remain here in this person's soul or body . . . I adjure you

- by the gates of Paradise;
- by the six golden candlesticks [Apoc 1:12] . . .

I speak to you in truth, O unclean spirit, dragon, I adjure you,

- by the Holy Spirit;
- I adjure you by the six fiery furnaces;
- I adjure you by the cherubim and seraphim;
- I adjure you by the wings of the winds;

- I adjure you by the mystery of Christ's [passion];
- I adjure you by the resurrection of Christ the Lord;
- I adjure you by the precious pearls;
- I adjure you by the years [and] by the days;
- I adjure you by the passion of the saints;
- I adjure you by him who freed the people Israel from the Red Sea, who freed Daniel from the lion's den, who illumined the blind, healed the paralytics, [and] cleansed the lepers.

I adjure you now by him, O enemy, unclean one, inveterate dragon, [that] you should depart from the soul and withdraw from the body or from all the inward parts of [this] servant of God. . . .

It is not I who command you, nor my sins, O most unclean spirit, but the immaculate lamb, Jesus Christ Our Lord, the Son of God, commands you.

The angels press upon [urgenti] you, the archangels press upon you, the prophets press upon you, the apostles press upon you, the martyrs press upon you, the confessors press upon you. Therefore may the arts of the Devil fail [deficiat ergo artes diaboli] by day [and] by night . . .

I exorcize you, O author of diabolical power, inventor of malice . . .³⁶

The essential elements of this formula are exactly those seen in necromantic conjurations of a much later era. There are, to be sure, distinctive embellishments. First, the devil being expelled is not only named (Devil, Satan, Enemy) but characterized: he is the 'accursed one, most unclean spirit, basilisk dragon, noxious serpent', or the 'unclean spirit, author of sins, deceiver of souls, envious one, insatiable homicide who endeavoured to kill the immortal man whom God created by his power', and as the 'author of diabolical power, the inventor of malice'. and so forth. Second, he is expelled from the energumen's body as well as his soul. Third, it is expressly said not merely that the exorcist commands in the name of Christ (as in Acts 16:18) but that Christ himself is the one who commands, even if through the exorcist. Fourth, various sacred figures are represented as participating in the exorcist's struggle with the malign spirit: the angels, archangels, prophets, apostles, martyrs and confessors all place pressure upon the possessing devil (urgenti, for urgens), or denounce him (reading arguent). And fifth, the second-person address is interrupted with a third-person subjunctive urging that the Devil's arts or snares may come to naught. The essential structure of the formula remains unaffected by these elements, but the network of relations is rendered more complex. The exorcist insults the spirit with whom he is engaged in struggle, identifies his own action as that of Christ, and calls upon the angels and saints not simply as possessors of power that can be tapped through invocation but as active participants in the contest. The representation of the exorcism as a cosmic combat, perhaps a local instance of that apocalyptic conflict that Christ initiated in his own exorcisms and carried forward in his passion and resurrection, here becomes exceptionally dramatic and explicit.

As already indicated, the conjurations of the necromancer are identical in form to the exorcisms designed to dispel demons. The resemblance may be seen in a manual for exorcizing the possessed that was printed several times in the late fifteenth century went by the title The Conjuration of Malign Spirits Dwelling in the Bodies of Prople, as it is Done in Saint Peter.⁵⁷ The simplest form of exorcism used here is simply, 'I exorcize you, unclean spirit, in the name of God the Father almighty * and in the name of Jesus Christ his Son * and by the power of the Holy Spirit * that you should recede from this servant of God, N.' Like the conjurations of exorcists, however, the formulas used here become extended through repetition of the instruction and through numerous invocations:

I conjure you, O Devil, by the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, and by the patriarchs and prophets, apostles, evangelists, martyrs, confessors, virgins, and all the holy men and holy women of God . . . and by our Lord Jesus Christ I conjure you, that you should recede from this servant of God, N. I conjure you, O Devil, by the passion of our Lord Jesus Christ, which he endured for the human race, that you should recede from this servant of God, N. I conjure you, O Devil, by the holy cross on which our Lord [died for] the servant of God, N., that you should not be able to conceal yourself in his body, nor in his members, nor in his head. I conjure you, Devil, by the nails of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which his hands and feet were affixed to the cross, that you should withdraw from this servant of God, N., that you not be able to conceal yourself in his mouth or head. I conjure you, Devil, by the lance that Longinus held, by which he pierced the side of our Lord Jesus Christ, and blood and water flowed out, that you not be able to conceal yourself in his throat or on his tongue or under his tongue, or in his other members. I conjure you, Devil, by the death and burial of Christ, from which he rose from the dead on the third day, that you not be able to conceal yourself in his bowels or inward parts. I conjure you, Devil, by the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ, in which he appeared to his disciples, saying, 'It is I, do not be afraid,' and he commanded them, saying, 'Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creatures; he who believes and is baptized will be saved, but he who does not believe will be condemned'; by the aforesaid words I conjure and admonish you that you should recede from this servant of God, N. I conjure you, O Devil, by the ascension of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you should recede from this servant of God, N. I conjure you, Devil, by the Holy Spirit, the Paraclete most high, whom our Lord Jesus entrusted to his disciples in fiery tongues, that you should recede from this servant of God, N., and not return any more, nor make any [spirit] return to him, and as God separated heaven from earth, truth from falsehood, good from evil, sweet from bitter, so may you be separated from this servant of God and not be able to approach him any more . . .

The exorcist claims directly the authority of Christ, proclaiming that Christ himself commands the spirit to withdraw:

He commands you, accursed devil, who walked on the sea with dry feet. . . .
He commands you, accursed devil, who commanded the winds and the sea and the storms. He commands you, accursed devil, who ordered that you be cast from the heights of heaven to the depths of Earth. . . .

He further threatens the spirit by reminding him of the punishments prepared for him: 'Nor should you be unaware, Satan and Belzebub, that pains and torments will come upon you in the day of judgement and in that eternal day when God will come like a fiery furnace to judge the living and the dead. . . .' Not only the general structure of the formulas but even the precise wording echoes the conjurations of the Munich handbook and other necromantic texts. At one point, for example, the manual for dispelling a demon parallels the conjuration of Mirage:

You, therefore, most evil spirit, enemy of humankind, death's plunderer [raptor], evader of justice [iustitie declinator], root of evils, font of vices, seducer of humans [deductor hominum] . . . master of demons . . .

You, therefore, most evil Mirage, enemy of the faith of humankind, inventor [reptor] of death, herald of injustice [iniusticie declarator], root of evils, inciter of vices, seducer of humans [seductor hominis], master of demons . . .³⁸

Unlike the rite in this oft-published work, the exorcism of elves and other 'demons' from a fifteenth-century medico-magical manuscript makes no pretence of official status, yet it is identical in its basic form to other exorcisms and conjurations:

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, amen. I conjure you, elves and all kinds of demons, of the night or of the day, by the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit, and the undivided Trinity, and by the intercession of the most blessed and glorious ever virgin Mary, by the prayers of the prophets, by the merits of the patriarchs, by the intercessions [suffragia] of the angels and archangels, by the intervention of the apostles, by the passion of the martyrs, by the faith of the confessors, by the chastity of the virgins, and by the intercession of all the saints, and by the Seven Sleepers, whose names are Malchus, Maximian, Dionysius, John, Constantine, Serapion, [and] Mortian [MS Martimanus], and by the name of the Lord God which is blessed forever *A*G*L*A*, that you should cause or inflict no harm or any evil on this servant of God, N., whether in sleep or while awake. * Christ has conquered [sic] * Christ reigns * Christ rules * may Christ bless us * [and] defend us from every evil. * Amen.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, amen. * In my name they will cast out demons, they will speak with new tongues, they will take up serpents, and if they drink any poison it will not harm them, [and] they will put their hands on the sick and will cure them. * Wondrous cross, dispeller of sorrow, recovery of health. * Behold the cross of the Lord; flee, adverse ones [partes adverse]. * The lion of the tribe of Judah has conquered, the root of David has sprouted [allam?]. * Christ conquers * Christ reigns * Christ rules * may Christ defend this servant of God from every fantasy and every vexation of the Devil, and from every evil, at every hour and everywhere, by the power of the holy cross * Amen * agios * hyskyros * athanathos * eleyson *.⁵⁹

The same may be said of an exorcism of 'malignant spirits' found in the same manuscript:

Hear, O accursed Satan, I adjure you by the name of the eternal God and of Our saviour, His Son Jesus Christ. Depart, trembling and sighing, overcome with your envy. Let there be nothing in common between you and your angels and the servant of God, N. Do not harm him or appear visibly before him, in his sleep or while he is awake. Again I conjure you demons or malignant spirits, whoever you are, by the sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ on the cross, and by his bloody wounds. Again I conjure you by the death of Jesus Christ on the cross and the giving up of his spirit, which descended into hell and despoiled it, that now and henceforth you should always flee from this servant of God, N., and never enter into him, but go out and withdraw from him. Again I conjure you by the power of the words written here, if thou art or ye are within him, that thou shouldst or ye should (if you are many) go out from him, so that he may have no terror or disturbance from henceforth. This compels you: may the Word made flesh * the holy cross of Christ, the nails, [and] the crown of thorns drenched in the blood of the Lamb of God on the cross save him, defend the bearer here and everywhere from every adversity and perversity of the Devil. In the name of the Father, etc.⁶⁰

In exorcisms the boundary between mainstream tradition and deviant usage is difficult to define with precision, but the extreme cases are easy enough to determine. One late medieval manuscript requires that the energumen be laid before an altar after mass, inside a chalk diagram, with three stoles binding his body; another requires that the possessed person be dressed in a chasuble and stole and made to lie on his back, with feet turned toward the altar, while the exorcist recites a ritual bond (vinculum) to control the evil spirits by the power of various divine names.⁶¹ When Niccolò Consigli was tried at Florence in 1384, for example, he was accused not only of summoning demons to work harm but also of exorcizing the possessed and thus usurping clerical prerogatives. When a ten-year-old girl was brought to him he cured her of possession by laying her on a rug, and intoning a diabolical incantation that began 'Tant muructa? tiri?'⁶² In comparison, the exorcisms cited above share their basic form (from declaration through instruction) with the necromantic conjurations we have examined, and they all rest on the mainstream theological assumption that the will of the demons can be constrained, with God's permission and aid, and through the power of the sacred. The necromancers shared with fully official exorcists a belief in the power of the holy to command and ultimately constrain the unclean spirits.

Following a suggestion of Lynn White, André Goddu has sought to explain what he sees as the 'failure of exorcism' in the fifteenth century largely in terms of a heightened consciousness of the possibility that exorcism may be ineffective. Faced with these diminished expectations, theologians began to argue that exorcism was indeed effective on the spiritual plane even if residual bodily effects remained. Alternatively, one could fall back on the time-honoured notion that if exorcism did not succeed then prima facie the condition was not truly one of demonic possession.⁶³ Interesting as his argument is, it rests upon the questionable assumption that the use of exorcism in fact declined. What Goddu shows is that in the October volumes of the Acta sanctorum there is diminished occurrence of exorcism in materials from the fifteenth century. But he seems to be referring mainly not to actual exorcisms performed by saints while they were alive, but rather expulsion of demons worked at the tombs of deceased saints, which have indirect relevance at most to the study of exorcism. More compelling is the suggestion of Nancy Caciola, that precisely in the fifteenth century there was increasing interest in exorcism as a quasi-liturgical ritual, and that extensive manuals on exorcism, with formulas and instructions for its use, are chiefly the produce of this century. To be sure, there were lengthy formulas in earlier eras, mainly derived from baptismal exorcisms, but before the fifteenth century exorcisms tended to be more concise, and the techniques in large measure improvised.⁶⁴ The Munich handbook was thus riding on the crest of a new development: what it represents is a particular version (or, from an orthodox perspective, perversion) of a more general interest in the elaboration and assembly of materials for the commanding of malign spirits. Once again we can see conjuration as the reverse side of a tapestry whose obverse consists of orthodox exorcism – both taking on new significance, as it happens, at the same time that literal tapestries were becoming more significant and more elaborate in European artistic practice.

Notes

1 A.G. Little, ed., Liber exemplorum ad usum praedicatorum, saeculo XIII compositus a quodam Fratre Minore Anglico de provincia Hiberniae, secundum codicem Dunelmensem editus (Aberdeen: Typis Academicis, 1908), 22. Barbara Newman, who is working on the theme of demon-preachers in and around the thirteenth century, called this text to my attention.

2 See Richard P.H. Greenfield, Traditions of Belief in Late Byzantine Demonology (Amsterdam: Hakert, 1988): 277, on texts in which it appears that God is being commanded or conjured.

3 Lester K. Little, Benedictine Maledictions: Liturgical Cursing in Romanesque France (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1993).

4 See the curse directed against thieves in the Rawlinson necromantic manuscript, fols 121r-121v: Obscuratus oculi eorum ne videant et dorsum eorum semper incarna. Irruat super eos formido et paues in magnitudine brachij sui. Fiant immobilis quasi lapis, donec perforaverit populus tuus, domine, donec perforaverit [sic] populus tuus [sic] iste quem possedisti, etc. . . . (Cf. 124r-124v.)

5 In the Vulgate, Song of Songs 2:7, Adiuro eos, filiae Hierusalem, per capreas et rosaeque camporum, ne suscitatis neque exiguare faciatis dilectum.

6 C. Stephen Jaeger, The Origins of Courtliness: Civilizing Trends and the Formation of Courtly Ideals, 939-1210 (Philadelphia, 1985), 238, citing Nicetius, Epistulae Austrasiacae, in MGH Epp. Merow. et Karol. aec., 1/3/9, 119-22.

7 Charles Plummer, ed., Vitae sanctorum Hiberniae, 1 (Oxford: Clarendon, 1910), 143: illa bestia fugata ad persequendum se voce humana dixit: 'Adiuro te in nomine Brigide, virginis Hibernensis, ut me dimittas.'

8 M.R. James, 'Twelve medieval ghost-stories', English Historical Review, 37 (1922), 413-22 (no. 3). On these cases see Jean-Claude Schmitt, Les revenants: les vivants et les morts dans la société médiévale (Paris: Gallimard, 1994), 168-73.

9 Michael D. Swartz, 'Scribal magic and its rhetoric: formal patterns in medieval Hebrew and Aramaic incantation texts from the Cairo Genizah', Harvard Theological Review, 83 (1990), 163-80.

10 Rawl. 19r-20r, 124v; 139r-142r, 151v; 155r-156r; 148r-149r; 153r.

11 Martin Buber, I and Thou, 2nd edn, trans. Ronald Gregor Smith (New York: Scribner, 1958), 83.

12 See Richard Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1989), 78-80.

13 See Iohannes de Francofordia, Quaestio, utrum potestas cohercendi demonis fieri possit per caracteres, figuras atque verborum prolationes (1412), in Joseph Hansen, ed., Quellen und Untersuchungen zur Geschichte des Hexenwahn und der Hexenverfolgung im Mittelalter (Bonn: Georgi, 1901; repr. Hildesheim: Olms, 1963), 71-82. See also the conclusions of the Paris theologians, from 1398, in Jean Gerson, Oeuvres complètes, ed. Palemon Glorieux (Paris: Deacle, 1961-73), vol. 10, p. 89: article 17 condemns the belief 'That by such arts demons are truly coerced and compelled and do not feign such compulsion to seduce people'.

14 Precipio vobis occurs six times (e.g., no. 38 and no. 39); adiuro vos/te twice; exorcizo te, rogo vos, invoco vos, and absolvo vos also occur.

15 Te invoco et adiuro (no. 14); coniro vos et precipio vobis (no. 39).

16 No. 27 (five times in a single conjuration), no. 39 (eleven times).

17 No. 12 (coniro . . . coniro te . . . coniro vos et exorcizo vos [et] impero vobis); no. 39 (coniro vos . . .

coniaro et contestor vos . . . adiuro vos followed by eight more occurrences of coniaro vos; no. 8 (vos coniaro et exorcizo, et promoco vos . . . coniaro vos . . . coniaro vos et impero alique precipio vobis . . . vos aduoco); no. 15 (vos potenter inuoco . . . vos inuoco et coniaro potenter et exorcizo . . . vos inuoco et coniaro et exorcizo et constringo); no. 33 (vos exorcizamus alique imperamus . . . exorcizamus alique viriliter imperamus); no. 11 (inuoco vos ex parte Patris, promoco vos ex parte Filij, inuoco vos ex parte Spiritus Sancti). Further examples: coniaro vos et aduoco, followed by coniaro vos twice; coniaro vos six times, followed by precipio vobis, vos exorcizo et coniaro . . . coniaro vos; vos coniaro et exorcizo et inuoco . . . coniaro vos . . . coniaro vos et exorcizo, vos coniaro . . . coniaro vos . . . precipio vobis; vobis precipio . . . precipio vobis; coniaro vos . . . precipio vobis; vobis impero et precipio et coniaro . . . coniaro vos.

18 No. 1 (supplicio vobis and te deprecari); no. 4 (vos deprecor, vobis supplico, vos rogo); no. 22 (te deprecor); no. 23 (te exoramus); no. 24 (rogo . . . rogo vos); no. 29 (te deprecari); no. 41 (precor te . . . rocor et contestor and precor, rogo, et prelo).

19 E.g., no. 6 (rogo vos, coniaro et adiuro). no. 15 uses the forms coniaro et constringo te, te inuoco, coniaro, et constringo, and te inuoco et coniaro et constringo.

20 Both from no. 10; the latter reads Coniaro vos, omnes demones scriptori in hoc anulo.

21 No. 39 and no. 40.

22 Nu. 23.

23 In no. 27 he is addressed several times by that designation and also as simply rogo or infans.

24 Nos 4 (ymage), 11 (cappa), 24 (O vos sanctissima nomina). no. 40 addresses Jaspar, Balthasar, Melchior, Smeagel, Emmanuel, et deus fortis, but this appears to be a mistake; these names should appear in invocations rather than in an address.

25 Addressed as aque bone in nos 17 and 43.

26 A conjuration in experiment no. 38 has thirty-four, one in no. 40 has forty-six, one in no. 33 has forty-nine, and one in no. 39 has fifty-eight.

27 Eamon Duffy, The Stripping of the Altars: Traditional Religion in England, c. 1400-c. 1580 (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1992), 262f.

28 Cf. The commonplace Book of Robert Rynnes of Acle: An Edition of Tanner MS 407, ed. Cameron Louis (New York: Garland, 1980), 169-70.

29 Nos 1, 10, 13, 14 (where it is called the nomen altissimum), 25, 27, 28, 33 (where it is said to have been used by Abraham) and 35. On the Jewish background for magical use of the divine name see K. Kohler, 'The Tetragrammaton (Shem ham-M'Yorash) and its uses', Journal of Jewish Law and Philosophy, 1 (1919), 19-32.

30 Compare the wording of the conjuration in Bodleian Library MS Rawlinson D 252, fols 87v-89v.

31 Nos 33 (AGLA); 39 (Theos); 28 (Yschiros); 28 and 33 (Athanatos); 28 (Eleyson); 14, 23, 27, 28, 33 (On); 25 (Hon); 28, 33 (Pancratou); 39 (Panthocrathon). One of the more extraordinary invocations is per legem legalem et per spem sperantem et per karitatem karitativam (no. 14), presumably an adaptation or garbling of the three theological virtues.

32 Joseph Kaster, trans. and ed., The Wings of the Falcon (New York, 1968), 60.

33 On the lore of Virgil see Domenico Comparetti, Virgil in the Middle Ages, trans. E.F.M. Benecke (London: Swan Sonnenschein, 1895), and J.W. Spargo, Virgil the Necromancer (Cambridge, MA, 1934).

34 See esp. F.C. Conybeare, 'The Testament of Solomon', Jewish Quarterly Review, 11 (1899), 1-45, but also John M. Hull, Hellenistic Magic and the Synoptic Tradition (Naperville, IL: Allenson, 1974), 30-35.

35 E.g., no. 20.

36 Fols 141r–141v.

37 Rawl. MS D 252, fols 16v–17v, 72r–72v.

38 E.g., nos 27, 35, 40.

39 No. 25, et non recedatis . . . quousque certificati fuerimus de omni re dubitabili; no. 27, et non habebitis licentiam recedendi . . . donec . . . michi dicatis . . . veritatem, and et non habebitis potestatem recedendi . . . donec . . . meam voluntatem adimplueritis, and et virtutem talem recipias quod quocumque furris ligata, ipsi spiritus non habebant potestatem recedendi quousque velle ligatoris perficiant. They may also be used to ensure that the spirits will repeat the desired effect on later occasions, at the master's will (no. 9, et inuere vos debeatis et predictum equum semper ad me venire cogetis). The term 'bond' (hoc vinculum est legendum) occurs in no. 33.

40 E.g., Rawlinson D 252, 4v, 43v (conservatio obedientialis) and 12r, 14v, and 36v (conservatio licentialis).

41 Nos 1, 6, 8, and 9. Also nos 7 and 9, quatenus . . . ad me venire debeatis, and et hic venire debeatis; and no. 11, quatenus . . . hac venire debeatis.

42 Nos 1, 6, and 13. Also no. 24, et mittatis . . . angelos . . . qui dicant michi veritatem; no. 27, et . . . vobis pro rege tuo et facias eum crinire; no. 38, et vestrum cuius . . . veniat et iste puer possit cum . . . ridere; no. 41, et michi spiritum veritatis . . . mittere digneris.

43 Nos 5, 13, and 35. Also no. 2, et satis . . . et relinquatis talem in statu priori, and et . . . [talem] personam . . . circumatis, et sensus eius . . . affligatis; no. 4, et . . . ipsum [?] iuxta me taliter aligatis, et me . . . remittatur; and no. 5, quatenus . . . edicam . . . inseratis.

44 Nos 22, 24, 27, and 38. Also no. 38, et michi sitis obedientes et isto puero . . . quod verum est . . . dicatis, and no. 39, quod . . . ostendatis et dicetis huic puero . . . ubi acceptum vel reconditum sit hoc furtum.

45 No. 22, quatenus isti puero tribuas scienciam et intellectum, et michi veritatem enunciet; no. 29, illumina istius pueri cor [et] mentem, et fac et michi veritatem . . . dicat . . . et [?] indicet omnia, and et isti puero tribuas scienciam et intellectum, et michi veritatem . . . dicat; no. 38, et . . . iste puer . . . possit videre furem cum furto; no. 39, quod vobis datus auctoritatem huic puero . . . audiri, interrogandi, et videndi, and et . . . enguem huic pueri . . . crescere et clarescere faciat . . . et apparere possit . . . et videre in eo furem et furtum; no. 40, et . . . faciat enguem istius pueri . . . crescere et clarescere . . . quod iste puer . . . in eo videre possit furem vel fures et furtum.

46 No. 27.

47 Nos 33, 3, 43, 15, 39, 40.

48 No. 27; cf. no. 22.

49 Nos 23, 27, 28, 29, 33.

50 Nos 10, 15, 10, 39.

51 Nos 14, 15, 17, and 43.

52 The conjuration on fols 59v–69v is abbreviated; the full text is given on fols 109r–118r and 139r–146r. Compare the conjuration in Bodleian Library MS Rawlinson D 252, fols 24r–29r.

53 For parallels see Marvin Meyer and Richard Smith, eds, Ancient Christian Magic: Coptic Texts of Ritual Power (1994), 157, and Kaster, Wings of the Falcon, 151–2. See also Malleus maleficarum, ii.1.13, p. 141.

54 Fols 115v and 144r, Alioquin exorcizo te ut cathene penales tue secundantur [or, on 144r, perhaps secundantur] sulphuris et pice.

55 Fols 111v–118r and 141r–146r.

56 Adolf Franz, Die kirchlichen Brundktionen im Mittelalter, 2 (Freiburg im Breisgau, 1909), 587–96.

57 Coniuratio malignorum spirituum in corporibus hominum existentium prout in Sancto Petro (Rome: Stephan Planck, ca. 1492; also Rome: Eucharius Silber, ca. 1495, and other editions).

58 Clm 849, fols 109r–109v, 139v.

59 British Library, MS Sloane 962, fols 9v–10r: In nomine patris, et filii, et spiritus sancti, amen. Coniuro uos elues et omnia genera drmonum nocturna siue diuturna per patrem, et filium, et spiritum sanctum, atque individuum trinitatem, et per intercessionem beatissime et gloriose semperque virginis Marie, per oraciones prophetarum, per merita patriarcharum, per suffragia angelorum et archangelorum, per in[er]uentum apostolorum, per passionem martyrum, per fidem confessorum, per castitatem virginum, et per intercessionem omnium sanctorum, et per septem dormientibz, hos quorum nomina sunt hec: Malchus, Maximianus, Dionisius, Iohannes, Constantinus, Seraphion, Martinianus, et per nomen domini dei quod est benedictum in secula * A * G * L * A * et non noceritis neque aliquid mali faciatis vel inferatis huic famulo dei N. neque dormiendo neque rigilando. * Christus uicis [sic] * Christus regnat * Christus imperat * Christus nos benedicat * [et] ab omni malo defendat * Amen. In nomine patris, et filii, et spiritus sancti, amen. * In nomine meo demonis eiciunt, linguis loquentur noctis, serpentes tollunt, et si mortiferum quid biberint non eis nocebit, super egros manus imponunt et bene habebunt. * Crux admirabilis, euacuatio doloris, restitutor sanitatis. * Ecce crucem domini, fugite partes [sic?] aduersae. * Vixit leo de tribu iuda, radix David [Apoc 5:5] allem [sic?]. * Christus vincit * Christus regnat * Christus imperat * Christus huic famulum dei N. ab omni fantasia et ab omni vexatione diaboli et ab omni malo omni hora et ubique per virtutem sancte crucis defendat * Amen * agnus * hyssyros * athanathos * elyson *.

60 Fol. 10r: *Contra malignos spiritus. Audi maledicte Sathana, adiuro te per nomen eterni dei et saluatoris nostri filij eius Ihesu Christi, cum tua victus insidia, tremens gemonisque, discede. Nichil tibi neque angelis tuis sit commune cum famulo dei N., neque nocras ei, neque apparas coram illo visibiliter, sompniando neque rigilando, et iterum coniuuro eos demones siue spiritus malignas, quicumque sitis, per aspersionem sanguinis Ihesu Christi in cruce, et eius vulnera cruentata. Et iterum coniuuro eos per mortem Ihesu Christi in cruce et spiritus emissionem, qui ad infernum descendit et ibidem spoliavit, et nunc et a modo semper fugiatis ab hoc famulo dei N. et nunquam in eum introitis sed exeratis et recedatis ab eo. Et iterum coniuuro eos per virtutem verborum istarum infrascriptorum hic [MS hac?], si infra eam sis vel sitis, et exeat vel exeat, si plures sitis, ab illo et nullo a modo habeat terrorem neque vexationem. Hoc vos rogat, verbum caro factum * crux Christi sancta [MS sacra or sancta], clavi, corona spinosa in sanguine agni dei in cruce perfusa, saluent ei, deffendant hic et ubique ferentem [sic] ista ab omni aduersitate diaboli et peruersa. In nomine patris, etc.*

61 Franz, Die kirchlichen Benediktionen, 2, p. 573.

62 Gene A. Brucker, ed., The Society of Renaissance Florence: A Documentary Study (New York: Harper & Row, 1971), 261–6; Gene A. Brucker, 'Sorcery in early Renaissance Florence', Studies in the Renaissance, 10 (1963), 13–16, 22f.

63 André Goddu, 'The failure of exorcism in the Middle Ages', in A. Zimmermann, ed., Soziale Ordnungen im Selbstverständnis des Mittelalters (Berlin, 1980), 540–57.

64 Nancy Caciola, 'Discerning Spirits: Sanctity and Possession in the Later Middle Ages' (University of Michigan dissertation, 1994), Ch. V: 'Exorcism from spectacle to ritual'.

DEMONS AND DAIMONS: THE SPIRITS CONJURED

In his recent study of late Byzantine demonology, Richard Greenfield distinguishes between a 'standard orthodox' tradition of demonology and 'alternative' traditions. The former sees demons as immaterial, as ranked under a single chief (Satan, the Devil), and as acting only with God's permission or through illusion (which they use because, weakened by Christ, they must dupe humans into believing they still wield power). The latter ascribe some degree of materiality to them, classify them in various hierarchies with multiple leaders, and ascribe some power to the demons themselves.¹ Greenfield says that in the alternative traditions, 'it is always assumed that the demons are free to obey the practitioner or are capable of doing what he wants as long as sufficient or coercion is provided. There is no suggestion that they can only do so if allowed to by God for the ends of divine providence or economy, the state of affairs required by standard belief – indeed, many of the purposes for which they are employed would seem to be most inappropriate, if not actually contradictory to normal Christian concepts of God's purposes.'² Greenfield does not mean to suggest a clear or sharp dichotomy, but rather a strong difference in tendency between the theological purists and those with alternative and at least implicitly non-orthodox views.

With perhaps some differences in nuance, one can make the same rough distinction for the later medieval West as well, and some if not all of the specific contrasts that Greenfield isolates would apply in the West. Most fundamentally, one can discern – in the Munich manuscript, as in Western magic generally – a tension between the early Christian notion of demons as fallen angels, whose status is determined by their free moral act of rebellion against God, and the Graeco-Roman conception of daimones (or daemones in Latin) as spirits linked with the world of nature, whose status is fixed by their natural position within the hierarchy of beings. Apuleius's De deo Socratis remained long influential in Christian tradition, despite its incongruence with the notion of demons as fallen angels; for Apuleius, daemones were rational beings whose natural sphere was the sublunary air, just as gods and humans are rational beings residing in the ether and on earth respectively. They are not naturally evil, but may be either good or evil.¹ The conjurations of late medieval necromancers, resembling as they do the exorcisms intended for the possessed, presuppose that the spirits in question are the same sort of fallen ones that Christ expelled from the energumens of first-century Palestine. But intermingled with references to such manifestly maleficent beings are notions of benign or neutral spirits, neither angels nor demons in classical Christian terms, a category not recognized in the orthodox theology of the late Middle Ages.⁴ One might thus say that the conjurations betray a tension between 'demonology' and what we might call 'daimonology'.

Theologians as well as necromancers believed that the demons held various ranks, in a kind of hierarchy that parodied that of God's heavenly court, or rather a 'Lowerarchy', as C.S. Lewis called it.⁵ The notion of a demonic hierarchy, with a multiplicity of named and ranked spirits, stems chiefly from the Neoplatonists, and above all Iamblichus. Proclus, drawing on Iamblichus's elaborate categorization, spoke of daimones as ruling the fire, the air, the water, the earth and the underground region; to this system Psellus added lucifugues (or light-fleeing) demons, and Johannes Trithemius lent the weight of his authority to this system.⁶ The basic notion became part of mainstream theological tradition: that demons are organized into an infernal parody of the celestial hierarchy is an assumption that the Malleus maleficarum shared with Thomas Aquinas.⁷ For the later medieval West, at least, one thus cannot speak of such conceptions as part of an alternative tradition, although it is true that a fascination with the details of the infernal hierarchy was left to the fringes of the theological community.

Altogether 189 spirits are addressed by name in the Munich handbook's conjurations, of whom 88 are referred to expressly as demonēs. Further specification is common: 'malign demons'; 'most inimical spirits'; 'all hateful and malign, invidious and discordant demons'; 'arms-bearing [or squire] spirits, whose role it is to bear arms and . . . deceive human senses'; 'spirits who dwell in the water [and] endanger ships'; 'spirits who attend to sinners'; 'infernal spirits'; 'fornicator, tempter, seducer, possessor of humans'.⁸ In short, the compiler of this manual was far from squeamish about invoking clearly and explicitly fallen angels.

The conjurations of the Munich handbook sometimes refer to demons by their rank in the infernal hierarchy: five are 'princes of the demons'; three are powerful, magnificent, and illustrious spirits; Bartha is a king; Baltim, Galtim, and Saltim are dukes; Belial is 'foremost prince'; seven demons are 'subjects' of Lytim.⁹ On rare occasion the spirits referred to in the Munich handbook are clearly conceived as unfallen - a claim that would elicit skepticism from orthodox authorities. Experiments no. 24 and no. 25 both refer to 'angels', and in other cases as well the characterizations could be taken as implying unfallen angels: 'most benign spirits, who sow concord'; 'most pleasant, happy, joyful spirits'; 'powerful, magnificent, and illustrious spirits, in whom I place full trust'.¹⁰ In two experiments the spirit addressed is named Orient, and in both cases he is explicitly conceived as a benevolent figure: he is addressed, 'O most high and benign king Orient', 'O benign Orient, maker of the greater part of the world, heaven, and earth, at whose command all things on heaven and on earth were wisely made'.¹¹ It would be hazardous to posit a direct connection here with the goddess-figure Oriente said to have been venerated in the territory of Milan in the late fourteenth century,¹² but in both cases the traditional medieval primacy of the direction east obviously lies behind the construction of a chief deity. In several experiments God himself is addressed: 'God, creator of all things'; 'Almighty, everlasting God, Lord Jesus Christ'; 'God of heaven, God of earth, God of the angels, God of the archangels, you who are king of all the saints, the patriarchs, and the prophets'; 'Lord Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, who, according to the will of the Father, with the cooperation of the Holy Spirit, by your death gave life to the world'; and 'King of Kings and Lord of Lords, eternal and unchanging Lord God'.¹³

Sometimes the nature of the spirit addressed cannot be determined. In one case the subject of the address is the indeterminate 'N.' (no. 12), and elsewhere the spirit who appears to a boy is addressed simply as 'you who are before me' (no. 27). Another experiment provides a conjuration with the indeterminate address, 'O so-and-so, of thus-and-such an order' (no. 1).

A few of the experiments list demons whose names are familiar from other sources: Astaroth, Baruch, Belial, Belzebub, Berith, Castiel, Lucifer, Mirael, Paymon and Satan or Sathan.¹⁴ The experiments that list such familiar spirits do not restrict themselves to these, however, but also address less familiar or entirely unfamiliar names: one conjures not only Belzebub, Berith, Lucifer and Sathan, but also Apolin, Beliath and Maraloch; another addresses not only Mirael and Astaroth but also Belferith, Camoy, Noryoth, Ocel, Oreoth, Pinen, Sismael, Sobronoy and Tryboy; a third gives the altogether well established name Satan (spelled 'Sathan') but also the exceptional ones Altramath, Archidemath, Discobermath, Fritath, Hegergibet, Helyberp, Pestiferat and Sona; a fourth lists not only Berith, Belzebub and Astaroth, but also Althes, Cormes, Dies, Diles, Dilia, Fabar, Felsmes, Mithiomo, Molbet, Natheus, Onaris, Pist, Progemon, Thobar, Vmon and Vralchim.¹⁵ In some cases the names listed could be corrupt or variant forms of more familiar ones: Apolin could be Apollion, Arath could be Arathiel, Astra could be Astrael, Damay could be Dahnay, Erlain could be Erel(l)im, Gana could be Ganael, Gebel could be Gebiel, Lamair could be Lama, Oor could be Or, Safrit could be Safriel, Tami could be Tamiel, Taraor could be Tara, Tatomofon could be Tatonon, Thomo could be Thomax, Ym could be Im, and Zanno or Zaimo could be Zainon.¹⁶ Even so, of the 189 names addressed in the conjurations, only 17 per cent at most seem to be well established ones. Of the eleven spirits named in experiment no. 34, only Curson has broad currency (unless Hanni is equated with Haniel). When the list of spirits in this manual is compared with that in Picatrix, what is striking is the singular lack of correspondence.

The crucial question for the necromancers of Western Europe is whether the demons can be compelled to appear, and their own assumption – that the demons can be so compelled, but only with God's permission and aid – is not fundamentally different from the assumption that underlies orthodox exorcism and mainstream theology. John of Frankfurt devoted a treatise in 1412 to the question, 'whether it is possible to have the power of coercing a demon through characters, figures, and recitation of words' (utrum potestas coercendi demonis fieri possit per caracteres, figuras atque verborum prolationes), and he insisted that it was not – that the demons may pretend to be compelled only to lure the conjurers deeper into their own perfidy, but that they come, if at all, of their own free will.¹⁷ He seems not to have taken fully into account that the necromancers, exactly like orthodox exorcists, claimed the power of coercing demons specifically with divine aid. To be sure, their goals were at variance with orthodox morality, yet they saw their appeal to sacred powers as itself a sacred activity, and if it led to the killing and coercion of other individuals, that did not sway them from this conviction.¹⁸ In any event, while their critics and judges saw the necromancers as in league with the demons, they perceived themselves as calling upon God to help them control and exploit the spirits.

One reason it appeared to critics that the necromancers were bound to the spirits they conjured, rather than vice versa, is that they seemed to make sacrifice to these spirits: fumigations and other acts could readily be seen as sacrifices. Nicholas Eymericus explains that some conjurers exhibit the honour of latria to the demons they invoke by sacrificing to them, adoring them, reciting execrable prayers to them, dedicating themselves and promising obedience to the demons, swearing by them and adjuring one demon by the name of a higher one, singing songs in their honour, genuflecting and making prostrations, observing chastity out of respect for them, fasting and otherwise macerating the flesh in their honour, wearing black or white out of reverence to them, using characters and unknown names, lighting lamps and offering fumigations, sacrificing birds and beasts and even their own blood, and so forth.¹⁹

Some of the experiments in the Munich handbook and elsewhere do indeed involve offering something, such as a hoopoe, to the demons. Whether such offerings count as sacrificial depends on one's definition of sacrifice. If any exchange with spirits implying do ut des is a sacrifice, then the term applies. From the necromancers' perspective, however, a fumigation would surely be more a means for alluring and gaining power over the spirits, and the offering of a hoopoe would be payment for services rendered. There is no explicit acknowledgement in the handbook that the magician is serving the spirits; to the contrary, he sees himself as commanding and exploiting them.

The spirits invoked may on occasion be represented as unfallen ones. Some are referred to as 'most benign', which could suggest but does not prove that they are unfallen; even an evil spirit may relate in a kindly manner toward his own. In one experiment (no. 9) the master greets the spirits when they appear with a wish that God may restore them to their original status, which makes it clear that they are fallen yet suggests that they are none the less redeemable.²⁰ Most interesting is the suggestion that the spirits who provide a magic ship (no. 8) are of intermediate status: 'And you should note carefully that in this ship you are able to mention holy things, as in true Christianity, because these spirits are between good and evil, dwelling neither in Hell nor in Paradise.' The Paris theologians in 1398 condemned the belief that there are good and benign demons, omniscient demons, and demons who are neither saved nor damned but somewhere in between.²¹ At times the spirits summoned are threatened with damnation if they refuse to obey the master, which assumes either that they are unfallen spirits or that they occupy some middle ground, perhaps being fallen but capable of redemption.²²

The problem of distinguishing between fallen and unfallen spirits had long been a vexed one, and it was not made easier by the necromancers' habit of calling more or less indiscriminately on spirits of both kinds, as well as allegedly neutral spirits. The Rawlinson necromantic manuscript, for example, sometimes prays for power over all malign spirits, or for power over Satan, or for protection from malign spirits. It explicitly invokes Satan and other 'infernal demons'.²³ At other times it implicitly identifies the invoked spirits as demons, conjuring them 'by the power by which [Christ] destroyed hell and despoiled and tormented your companions [socios]' or 'by him who cast you from heaven'. While magicians were not at all shy about conjuring angels directly, the tendency in the Rawlinson manuscript perhaps more often than in other manuscripts is to pray that good angels be sent. It even includes a lengthy prayer to the master's guardian angel for protection. At one juncture it conjures 'benevolent spirits and demons', without making altogether clear whether these are distinct categories.²⁴

One rule of thumb was that spirits explicitly known from traditional sources as unfallen angels could be prayed to, but others were at best suspect. The archangels mentioned in the Bible and the Old Testament apocrypha (Gabriel, Michael, Raphael) were mentioned from the seventh century onward in the Litany of the Saints, although it was not until the twentieth century that Benedict XV made the feast of the last two obligatory. The names of other angels were deemed apocryphal: the Book of Enoch adds Uriel, Raguel, Seraqael and Haniel to the list of archangels. In the mid-eighth century a Frankish priest named Adalbert was condemned, inter alia, for praying to Uriel, Raguel, Tubuel, Adin, Tubuas, Sabaok and Samiel, all of whom a Roman synod declared to be in fact demons. In 789, Charlemagne's Admonitio generalis condemned the invocation of 'unknown angels', presumably for the same reason.²⁵ Even if a petitioner intended to call upon unfallen angels, the spirits he summoned might not be the spirits he got.

Johann von Frankfurt noted in the early fifteenth century that Plato distinguished between good daimons (calodemonēs) and evil (cacodemonēs), but for scriptural and dogmatic reasons he rejects this distinction and insists on a rigid dichotomy between unfallen angels and demons, the latter being always evil.²⁶ Invoking demons, he says, is prohibited both by scripture (Deut 2:18, also IV Kgs 1 and I Kgs 28) and by canon law (the canon Episcopi). He insists that demons cannot be coerced: they are free agents, with intellect and will, and cannot be bound by human actions; Job attests that no power on earth is comparable to the Devil;²⁷ and many later medieval authorities are cited to confirm this stance. He argues that 'although demons often do come when they are summoned by invocations, they do so not coerced, but fraudulently, so as to deceive them [the conjurers] and others' (p. 78). (Not long before Johann wrote, the theologians at the University of Paris had in 1398 condemned the belief that God is induced to compel demons to obey invocations, and that by magical arts the demons are compelled to speak truthfully.²⁸) To be sure, Solomon is said to have exorcized or commanded demons, but if he did so at the time that he himself had the spirit of God, then he expelled the demons by divine power and with the cooperation of God, whereas if he do so after he had fallen into idolatry (III Kgs 11 Vulg.), then fuit factum arte magica, and the demons pretended to be expelled so as to lead people into error. When Tobias placed a fish's liver on coals, demons were expelled (Tob 6) – but the book of Tobias is not canonical, so it may have edifying value but no probative force. Experience itself may suggest that demons come or depart when certain words are uttered, but it is prayer and not fumigation that has the effect of expelling demons.

Notions of demonic corporeality are more rarely expressed but not unknown. The Rawlinson manuscript says at one juncture that if the spirit refuses to withdraw, the master should trace a circle with the point of his sword and then 'strike' the spirit who is left standing outside the circle. The text goes on to explain that the reader should not be astonished at this reference to striking, because the spirits can indeed be struck when they assume bodies for the sake of apparition.²⁹ More extraordinary is the tale – involving a ghost rather than a demon, to be sure – of 'a woman who captured a spirit, carried it into a house on her back in the presence of certain men, one of whom later told that he saw the hands of the woman sunk deep into the spirit's flesh, as if its flesh were putrid and not solid, but fantastic'.³⁰ More often the spirits' corporeality is presupposed but not the subject of comment: they presumably cannot carry the magicians about in the form of horses or usher forth elaborate banquets without some sort of bodies, but the precise nature of their flesh seems not to have concerned the writer of the Munich handbook.

When the demons appear, they presumably do so either through phantasms impressed directly on the viewers' senses or in assumed bodies.³¹ They may be able to take on any appearance they wish, conceivably even that of a famed beauty such as Helen of Troy, since their bodies are in any event assumed, but it seems to have been agreed that their most natural shape is terrifying. The Munich handbook thus routinely conjures the spirits to appear in pleasing and non-threatening form, the implication being that it is natural for them to appear otherwise. Indeed, the treatise on necromancy ascribed to Roger Bacon warns that demons will try to frighten the magician with illusions, with hissing like that of a serpent, and with terrifying shapes, but bold use of the Tetragrammaton and the sign of the cross will compel them to adopt pleasing forms.³² The spirits are conjured to appear in human form, because they are assumed closer to beasts, and thus it is more natural for them to assume grotesque versions of bestial appearance,³³ as they did in hagiography since the life of Saint Anthony.³⁴ In one case they are told to take on the pleasing form of a ten-year-old boy, evidently by cross-fertilization of the instruction with the requirements for a medium.³⁵

The most sustained discussion of demons in the Munich manual is an extended list which names and describes eleven spirits (no. 34). Each has a rank: marquis, 'president' (preses), count, duke, prince or king. They appear in diverse forms: as a seneschal; as a man with large teeth and three horns, carrying a sharp sword in his hand; as a crowned man with leonine face, bearing a viper in hand, riding horseback, and preceded by trumpets; as a splendid knight, with lance, banner, and sceptre; as a boy with the wings of an angel, riding on a dragon with two heads;³⁶ as a beautiful and crowned woman, riding on a camel; as a knight, riding on a black horse; as a benevolent man with a woman's face. Hanni comes in a fiery flame, but also takes human form. Curson is said readily to assume a human and aerial body; presumably the others as well take on aerial bodies when they come visibly.³⁷ Their functions are likewise diverse. Six of the spirits are said to disclose the location of hidden treasure, or to reveal and open treasures, and although in one case it is specified that the treasure must not be protected by magic or charms, in another case the spirit in question can reveal treasures guarded by other spirits. Four of them respond to questions about present, past, future, and hidden matters; Curson can reveal divine and hidden matters, even regarding divinity and the creation of the world. Another gives knowledge about occult matters and duels. Three specialize in imparting particular knowledge: the trivium, astronomy and other liberal arts, and languages. Two can procure the love of women, especially beautiful women in one case, widows in the other; a third makes women burn with love for men, on demand will transform them into another form until they come to their beloved, and makes them sterile. Others can enable a person to cross seas and rivers quickly, or to pass quickly from one region to another. Four can secure the favour of all, enemies as well as friends, or that of magnates and princes, or of all kings, marquises and knights. One gives dignities; another gives an exorcist power over serpents; yet others provide excellent familiars or knights. Each has command of legions of subordinate spirits (perhaps an allusion to Mark 5:9), as few as twenty-two, and as many as fifty.

Identical in form but independent in content is the list contained in Le livre des

esperitz found in a fifteenth-century French manuscript (Trinity College, Cambridge, MS 0.8.29). This compilation lists forty-seven spirits: the triad Lucifer, Bezebuth and Satan; four associated with the cardinal directions; then others for whom title, appearance, function, and number of subordinate legions are given, as in the Munich handbook. Most commonly the spirits here listed are said to give accurate response to the master's questions (Vaal, Bucal, Oze, Bulfas, Artis, Gazon, Diusion, Orient, Poymon, Am[m]oymon, Barthas, Samson, Vipos, Berteth, Distolas, Asmoday, Flauos, Carmola, Abugor, Caap, Bunc, Amon). They also furnish instruction (Bezebuth, Barthas, Artis), sometimes in all sciences (Cerber, Parcas, Tudiras hoho, Am[m]oymon), often regarding more specific matters: the virtues of herbs and precious stones (Machin, Parcas, Forcas, Gerner); transformation of metals into gold or silver (Berteth); all language (Ducay, Agarat); astronomy and other sciences (Barthas, Furfur); the sounds of birds and dogs (Barbas). They disclose or provide buried treasure (Diusion, Parcas, Abugor, Bezebuth, Barbas, Samson, Forcas). They make a person invisible (Parcas, Beal, Forcas). They obtain the love of women (Ducay, Furfur [?], Bitur), or of queens and women generally, whether maidens or not (Samson). They secure provision of dignities, seigneuries and favour (Agarat, Bitur, Vaal, Am[m]oymon, Poymon, Berteth, Gazon, Artis, Beal), as well as wealth (Bunc, Cerber, Distolas), or specifically of gold and silver (Caap, Dam, Bezebuth). They can furnish means by which the 'master' or someone else at the master's will may be transported from place to place (Ducay, Machin, Malpharas, Bunc, Parcas), and the spirit Distolas can provide a horse to transport the master in an hour 100, 200 or 300 leagues but no further. Unlike the list of spirits in the Munich handbook, however, the Libre des esperitz also indicates that certain spirits specialize in maleficent magic: they can bring death or illness, deformity, destruction of adversaries, discord and battles. The service Bezebuth performs, which would have endeared him to Faustus, is to reveal all the secrets of hell.

Such lists of demons derived their basic conception from early Jewish sources such as the Testament of Solomon, which listed various demons and told how Solomon employed them.³⁸ These catalogues were especially common in the treatises and grimoires of the early modern era (Johannes Weyer's Pseudomonarchia daemonum lists sixty-nine demons with their offices and functions), but the basic idea can be traced to medieval sources. Trithemius speaks of a Liber officiorum that catalogues four emperors and various kings, dukes, marquises, and counts. The Lemegeton lists seventy-two demons with their functions, including Asmoday (a great king with three heads, who furnishes a ring of virtues, teaches mathematics, answers questions truly; makes a person invisible, reveals hidden treasure, and so forth), Berith, and others.³⁹

Among other specializations, there were demons who ruled over one or another of the cardinal directions. Thus, the Paris theologians repudiated the notion that one demon is king of the east and holds special prominence, known in the Munich handbook and elsewhere simply as Oriens, while others ruled the west, the north and the south.⁴⁰ No doubt the identification of these demons with special competence had much practical value for those wishing to make use of their services, but the formation of the lists was in itself a display of theoretical knowledge that might appeal greatly to those curious about the secrets of hell. One can perhaps understand why stern medieval moralists, never favourable to curiositas in the first place, would condemn this particular sort of curiosity in particular as vain and perilous.

Presupposed throughout the Munich handbook is that the experiments described are worked through the power of spirits, often overtly referred to as demons. The writer makes no pretence that his magic is in any way 'natural', as opposed to demonic. Classical notions of magic as either implicitly or explicitly grounded in the instruction and aid of demons come here to their fullest development: far from shrinking from this suggestion or defending himself against it, the writer candidly acknowledges and perhaps even boasts, no doubt like other necromancers of the era, that the commanding of malign spirits is the essence of his art.

Table C. Spirits named in the conjurations

| | |
|---|--|
| Abgo (demon , no. 39) | Baltim (or Balthym? or Balthim or Balty) (dux , no. 15) |
| Abgoth (demon , no. 40) | Bartha (or Bartham?) (rex , no. 15) |
| Ach alas (spiritus , no. 26) | Baruth (demon , subditus of Lytim, no. 39) |
| Althes (demon , no. 38) | Basal (no. 29) |
| Altramat (demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27) | Bel (spiritus infernalis , no. 35) |
| Andyron (demon , subditus of Lytim, no. 39) | Belam (no. 13) |
| Apolin (or Apolyn) (no. 1) (no. 5 inv.) | Belferith (demon malignus , no. 2) |
| Arath (demon , no. 40) | Belial (inicialis princeps , no. 12) |
| Arbas (or Arbes?) (no. 28) | Beliath (no. 1) |
| Archidemath (demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27) | Belzebub (or Belzebuc?) (no. 1; princeps demoniorum , no. 38) |
| Astaroth (or Astorothe or Astarotht) (demon malignus , no. 2; no. 12; no. 33; princeps demoniorum , no. 38) (no. 5 inv.) | Berien (or Beryen, no. 10) |
| Astra (no. 33) | Berith (or Berit) (no. 1; spiritus potens, magnificus, et illustris , no. 11; princeps demoniorum, fornicator, temptator, et seductor, possessor hominum , no. 38) |
| Asyel (no. 13) | Bireoth (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) |
| Azathi (demon , no. 39) | Bos (demon , no. 39) |
| | Brimet (no. 10) |

Spirits named in the conjugations

| | |
|--|--|
| Camoy (or Canay) (demon malignus , no. 2) | Fritath (demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27) |
| Carab (or Careb?) (no. 29) | Fyriel (or Firiell) (spiritus potens, magnificus, et illustris , no. 11) |
| Cargie (no. 28) | Fyrin (or Syrim) (spiritus habitator aque , no. 8) |
| Castiel (no. 13) | Fyrus (demon , no. 40) |
| Cebal (no. 33) | Gallath (demon , no. 40) |
| Cormes (demon , no. 38) | Galtim (or Galtym? or Galtyra?) (dux , no. 15) |
| Cutroy (or Cotroy?) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens] , no. 7; spiritus habitator aque , no. 8) | Gana (demon , no. 39) |
| Damay (or Damayn, no. 10) | Gebat (or Gebath?) (demon , no. 39) |
| Demefin (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) | Gebel (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) (no. 5 inv.) |
| Demor (or Denior) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens] , no. 7) | Gemitias (demon , no. 39) |
| Dies (demon , no. 38) | Geremittarum (demon , no. 40) |
| Diles (demon , no. 38) | Gyton (demon , no. 40) |
| Dilia (demon , no. 38) | Haram (spiritus benignus , no. 39) |
| Discobermath (demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27) | Hegergibet (demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27) |
| Dorayl (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) | Helyberp (demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27) |
| Dyacon (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) | Jubutzis (demon , no. 40) |
| Dydones (demon , no. 40) | Lamair (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) |
| Dyrus (demon , no. 39 and no. 40) | Lamisniel (or Lamsiyel, no. 13) |
| Dyspil (or Dyspyl) (spiritus habitator aque , no. 8) | Lautrayth (spiritus peccatoribus insistentis , no. 9) |
| Ebal (spiritus infernalis , no. 35) | Leutaber (or Zeugaber) (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) |
| Elam (no. 13) | Lotobor (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) |
| Emogeni (demon , no. 40) | Lucifer (no. 1) |
| Ergarrandras (no. 28) | Lylet (or Bylet or Bylent) (no. 24; demon, subditus of Lytim, no. 39) |
| Erlain (no. 13) | Lyroth (no. 10) |
| Fabanin (no. 29) | Lytay (or Lytoy or Litor) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens] , no. 7) |
| Fabar (demon , no. 38) | Lytim (demon , no. 39) |
| Fabath (demon , no. 40) | Maraloch (no. 1) |
| Fabin (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) | Masair (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) |
| Falmar (no. 5 inv.) | Mememil (or Melemil) (spiritus potens , |
| Faubair (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) | |
| Febat (demon , no. 39) | |
| Felsmes (demon , no. 38) | |
| Feremin (spiritus peccatoribus insistentis , no. 9) | |
| Finibet (demon , no. 40) | |
| Foliath (demon , no. 39) | |

Spirits named in the conjugations

- magnificus, et illustris*, no. 11)
 Memoyr (or Memoir) (spiritus iocundissimus, no. 6) Midain (spiritus benignissimus, no. 4) Mirael (no. 2)
 Mistal (no. 29)
 Mithiomo (demon, no. 38)
 Molbet (princeps demoniorum, no. 38)
 Moloy (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens], no. 7)
 Motmyo (demon, no. 39)
 Natheus (princeps demoniorum, no. 38)
 Neyilon (spiritus, no. 26)
 Non (no. 29)
 Noryoth (or Moryoth) (demon malignus, no. 2)
 Nubar (demon, no. 39)
 Ocel (demon malignus, no. 2)
 Oliroomim (spiritus peccatoribus insistens, no. 9)
 Onaris (demon, no. 38)
 Onor (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens], no. 7)
 Onoroy (spiritus habitator aque, no. 8)
 Oor (or Dor) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens], no. 7)
 Oreoth (demon malignus, no. 2)
 Oriens (or rex Orientis) (altissimus et benignissimus rex, no. 4; benignissim/e, no. 41)
 Ornis (no. 28)
 Oronothel (no. 29)
 Orooth (spiritus habitator aque, no. 8)
 Oymelor (spiritus iocundissimus, no. 6)
 Panite (or Panyte) (demon, no. 38 and no. 40)
 Paymon (no. 12)
 Peamde (demon, no. 39)
 Peripaos (spiritus benignissimus, no. 4)
 Pestiferat (demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27)
 Pharachte (demon, no. 39)
 Pinen (demon malignus, no. 2)
 Pist (demon, no. 38)
 Progemon (demon, no. 38)
 Pumeon (spiritus benignissimus, no. 4)
 Pumotor (or Pumiotor) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens], no. 7) Rabam (no. 13)
 Rayma (demon, no. 40)
 Riasteli (no. 29)
 Rimasor (spiritus iocundissimus, no. 6)
 Rimel (spiritus habitator aque, no. 8)
 Risbel (or Ristel) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens], no. 7) Rodobayl (or Rodobail) (spiritus iocundissimus, no. 6)
 Rofanes (demon, no. 40)
 Safrit (demon, no. 39)
 Salaul (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens], no. 7) Saltim (dux, no. 15)
 Sanfrielis (demon, no. 40)
 Sathan (no. 1; demon [from cardinal direction], no. 27)
 Selentis (demon, no. 40)
 Selutabel (or Belutabel) (spiritus iocundissimus, no. 6)
 Sertugidis (demon, no. 40)
 Silitor (or Silitol) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens], no. 7) Sismael (demon malignus, no. 2)
 Sobronoy (demon malignus, no. 2)
 Sona (no. 27)
 Suburith (no. 10)
 Symofor (or Simofor) (spiritus iocundissimus, no. 6)
 Syrama (or Sirama) (spiritus iocundissimus, no. 6) Syrtroy (spiritus armigerus, sensus

Spirits named in the conjugations

| | |
|--|---|
| [decipiens], no. 7) | Virytus (demon , no. 40) |
| Sysabel (or Sisabel) (spiritus habitator aque , no. 8) | Vm (demon , no. 39) |
| Tamafin (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) | Vmeloth (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) |
| Tami (or Tamy – Tamer?) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens] , no. 7) | Vmon (demon , no. 38) |
| Taraor (spiritus potius, magnificus, et illustris , no. 11) | Vniueny (demon , no. 40) |
| Tatomofo (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) | Vnytus (demon , no. 39) |
| Tentetos (spiritus iocundissimus , no. 6) | Vom (demon , no. 39) |
| Tereol (no. 5 inv.) | Vralchim (demon , no. 38) |
| Tereoth (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) | Vresius (demon , no. 39) |
| Termine (spiritus benignissimus , no. 4) | Vsy (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens] , no. 7) |
| Thitodens (?) (demon , no. 39) | Vuimo (demon , no. 40) |
| Thobar (demon , no. 38) | Vzmyas (demon, subditus of Lytim , no. 39) |
| Thomo (demon , no. 40) | Ygrim (demon, subditus of Lytim , no. 39) |
| Tranayrt (or Tramayrt, no. 10) | Ym (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens] , no. 7) |
| Tryboy (or Triay) (demon malignus , no. 2) | Ytelteos (demon, subditus of Lytim , no. 39) |
| Tyroces (no. 5 inv.) | Zanno (or Zaimo) (spiritus armigerus, sensus [decipiens] , no. 7) |
| Tyros (demon , no. 39) | Zelentes (demon , no. 39) |
| Tyroy (spiritus habitator aque , no. 8) | Zymens (demon, subditus of Lytim , no. 39) |
| Va (no. 29) | |
| Vatuel (no. 29) | |
| Vijas (demon , no. 39) | |
| Virus (demon , no. 39) | |

Table D. Spirits listed in no. 34

| Name | Rank | Appearance | Function | Number of legions |
|-------------|------------------|-----------------------------|---|--------------------------|
| Barbarus | count and duke | | discloses treasures not protected by magic | 36 |
| Cason | duke | seneschal | responds about present, past, future, and hidden things; gives favour of friends and enemies; gives dignities | 45 |
| Otiis | preses and count | human, with large teeth and | responds about present, future, and hidden matters; gives | 36 |

| Name | Rank | Appearance | Function | Number of legions |
|-------------------------|-------------|---|---|------------------------------|
| | | 3 horns, sharp sword in hand | favour of friends and enemies | |
| Curson | king | man, with crowned leonine face, viper in hand; rides horseback, trumpets proceeding | reveals present, past, future, and hidden matters; reveals and opens treasures; assumes human and aerial body and responds about divine and hidden matters (including deity and creation of world); gives excellent familiars | 22 |
| Alugor | duke | splendid knight, with lance, banner, and sceptre | responds about occult matters and duels; provides knights; gives favour of all kings, marquises, and knights | 50 |
| Taob | prince | human | excellent physician for women, making them burn with love for men, on request transforming them into another form until they come to their beloved; makes sterile | 25 |
| Volach | president | boy, with wings of angel; rides on dragon; has two heads | responds about hidden treasures; serpents appear, gives over serpents into the hands of exorcist | 27 |
| Gaeneron | duke | beautiful woman, crowned, riding on camel | responds about present, past, and future matters, and hidden treasures; gives love of women, especially beautiful ones | 27 |
| { Tvueries
Tuveries? | marquis | knight, riding on black horse | teaches trivium, reveals hidden treasures and other hidden things; causes person to cross sea and rivers quickly | 30 |
| Hanni | president | fiery flame, but takes human form | teaches astronomy and other liberal arts; gives excellent familiars; gives favour of magnates and princes; | 30 |

| Name | Rank | Appearance | Function | Number of legions |
|-------|---------|--|---|-------------------|
| Sucax | marquis | man, with woman's face; appears benevolent | reveals treasures guarded by spirits gives love of women, especially widows; gives command of languages; makes person pass quickly from region to region | 23 |

Notes

1 Richard P.H. Greenfield, Traditions of Belief in Late Byzantine Demonology (Amsterdam: Hakker, 1988), passim, esp. 307-26.

2 Ibid., 275-6.

3 C.S. Lewis, The Discarded Image: An Introduction to Medieval and Renaissance Literature (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1967), esp. 40-44 and 117.

4 See the Paris conclusions of 1398, in Jean Gerson, Œuvres complètes, 10, ed. Palemon Glorieux (Paris: Desclée, 1961-73), p. 89: the 23rd condemned article is 'That some demons are good, some benign, some omniscient, others neither saved nor damned'.

5 Thomas Aquinas, Summa theologiae, i.109.1; Malleus maleficarum, i.4, trans. Montague Summers (London: Rodker, 1928; repr. London: Pushkin, 1948), 28-31; C.S. Lewis, The Screwtape Letters, xx (New York: Macmillan, 1962), 102.

6 E.M. Butler, Ritual Magic (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1949), 29-36, esp. 35.

7 Summa theologiae, i.109.1; Malleus maleficarum, i.4, 28-31.

8 No. 2 (ten named demonēs maligni); no. 5 (spiritus inimicissimos); no. 5 (omnes demonēs odiosos et malignos, invidios et discordes); no. 7 (fifteen named spiritus armerii, quibus proprium est arma deferre et . . . sensus humanas decipere); no. 8 (spiritus habitatores aquae, qui naues . . . periclitari conamini); no. 9 (three named spiritus peccatoribus inastentes); no. 35 (spiritus infernales); no. 38 (Berith, described as fornicator, temptator, et seductor, possessor hominum). See also no. 3 (omnes demonēs in hac ymagine scriptos and demonēs in hoc circulo sculptos) and no. 5 (spiritus inimicissimos and omnes demonēs odiosos et malignos, invidios et discordes).

9 No. 38 (principes demoniorum); no. 11 (spiritus potentes, magnifici, et illustres); no. 15 (Bartha as rex, and Baltim, Galtim, and Saltim as duces); no. 12 (Belial as initialis princeps); no. 39 (seven demons as subditi of Ilytim).

10 No. 4 (eleven spiritus benignissimi et concordiam seminantes); no. 6 (sixteen spiritus iocundissimi, ylares, et gaudentes); no. 11 (spiritus potentes, magnifici, et illustres, in quibus omnino confido).

11 No. 14 (O altissime et benignissime rex Oriantis); no. 41 (O Oriens benignus, maior pars mundi, celi, terraeque sator, cuius nula [sic] omnia, tam caelestia quam terrestria, providae facta sunt; benignissime Oriens).

12 Ettore Vergo, 'Intorno a due inediti documenti di stregheria Milanese del secolo XIV', Rendiconti del Reale Istituto Lombardo di Scienze e Lettere, ser. 2, vol. 32 (1899), 166-8; on Madonna Oriente see Carlo Ginzburg, Ecstasies: Deciphering the Witches' Sabbath, trans. Raymond Rosenthal (New York: Pantheon, 1991), esp. 92-6, 100-102, 131-6, 247-8.

13 No. 22 (Deus, creator omnium rerum); no. 25 (Omnipotens, sempiternus deus, Domine Ihesu Christe); no. 29

(Deus celi, deus terre, deus angelorum, deus archangelorum, qui es rex sanctorum omnium, patriarcharum ac prophetarum and Domine Ihesu Christe, fili dei vivi, qui ex voluntate Patris, cooperante Spiritu Sancto, per mortem tuam mundum vivificasti); no. 36 (rex regum et dominus dominantium, eterne et incommutabilis deus dominus).

14 Nos 2, 5, 12, 33, and 38 (Astaroth); no. 20 (Baruch); no. 12 (Belial); nos 1 and 38 (Belzebub); nos 1, 3, 11, and 39 (Berith); no. 13 (Casiel); no. 1 (Lucifer); no. 2 (Miraël); no. 12 (Paymon); nos 1 and 27 (Sathan). See the listings for each of these in Gustav Davidson, A Dictionary of Angels, Including the Fallen Angels (New York: Free Press, 1967), and for general information on demons see also Leander Petzoldt, Kleines Lexikon der Dämonen und Elementargeister (Munich: Beck, 1990). On the naming of demons see Jeffrey Burton Russell, Lucifer: The Devil in the Middle Ages (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1984), 248–50.

15 Nos. 1, 2, 27, and 38.

16 Nos 1 and 5 (Apolin or Apolyn); no. 40 (Arath); no. 33 (Astra); no. 10 (Damay); no. 13 (Erlain); no. 39 (Gana); nos 4 and 5 (Gebel); no. 6 (Lamair); no. 7 (Oor); no. 39 (Safrit); no. 7 (Tamī); no. 11 (Taraor); no. 6 (Tatomofon); no. 40 (Thomo); no. 7 (Ym); no. 7 (Zanno or Zaimo). For these too see Davidson's Dictionary.

17 Hansen, Quellen und Untersuchungen, 71–82.

18 Richard Kieckhefer, 'The holy and the unholy: sainthood, witchcraft, and magic in late medieval Europe', Journal of Medieval and Renaissance Studies, 24 (1994), 355–85; and in Scott L. Waugh and Peter D. Diehl, eds, Christendom and its Discontents: Exclusion, Persecution, and Rebellion, 1000–1500 (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1996), 310–37.

19 Nicolaus Eymericus, Directorium inquisitorum, ii. 42–3 (Rome: Georgius Ferrarius, 1587), translated in Alan C. Kors and Edward Peters, eds., Witchcraft in Europe, 1100–1700: A Documentary History (Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1972), 84–92. See also Greenfield, Traditions of Belief, 252–5.

20 The classic source of the notion that Satan and the demons are redeemable is Origen; see on this theme Joseph Wilson Trigg, Origen: The Bible and Philosophy in the Third-century Church (Atlanta: John Knox, 1983), 89, 106, 138f., 206, 208. Whatever indirect influence Origen may have had on the necromantic tradition, it is difficult to believe that writers such as the compiler of the Munich handbook had any direct acquaintance with his works.

21 Ch. 23.

22 Rawlinson MS, 148r–149r, 150v, 154r.

23 Coniuro vos demones infernales (fol. 121v).

24 Bodleian Library, Oxford, Rawlinson MS D 252, fols 24r (prayer for power over all malign spirits); 40v (prayer for power over Satan); 37r, 50r–50v, and 72r (prayers for protection from malign spirits); 152r (invocation of Satan); 121v (Coniuro vos demones infernales); 4v and 5v (implicit identification of spirits as demons); 78r–78v (prayer for vision of good angels); 123v (prayer that good angels be sent); 159v (prayer for three good angels to appear in a crystal); 135v–139r (prayer to guardian angel); 73r (Coniuro vos spiritus benevolos et demones).

25 Aron Gurevich, Medieval Popular Culture: Problems of Belief and Perception, trans. János M. Bak and Paul A. Hollingsworth (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press; Paris: Editions de la Maison des Sciences de l'Homme, 1988), 65–8 and Jeffrey B. Russell, 'Saint Bonaventure and the eccentrics', Church History, 33, (1964), 235–47, esp. 237–8. For general information on the cult of angels see A.A.

Bialas, 'Devotion to angels', The New Catholic Encyclopedia, 1 (New York: McGraw-Hill, 1967), 514-15, and the sources cited there.

26 Iohannes de Francofordia, Quaestio, utrum potestas coherendi demonis fieri possit per characteres, figuras atque verborum prolationes, in Joseph Hansen, ed., Quellen und Untersuchungen zur Geschichte des Hexenwahnens und der Hexenverfolgung im Mittelalter (Bonn: Georgi, 1901; repr. Hildesheim: Olms, 1963), 71-82.

27 Page 72, citing the depiction of Leviathan: Et etiam Iob 4. [i.e. 41:24 Vulg.] dicitur: non est potestas super terram, qui ei comparetur, et textus ibidem loquiter de dyabolo.

28 Gerson, Œuvres complètes, 10, pp. 88f., art. 9, 17.

29 Fols 77v-78r.

30 M.R. James, 'Twelve medieval ghost-stories', English Historical Review, 37 (1922), 418f.

31 The Malleus maleficarum, ii.1.4, pp. 109-14, discusses the nature of these assumed bodies in connection with the nature of incubi, and concludes that the demons confect ad hoc flesh from the elements in the surrounding air.

32 De Nigromancia of Roger Bacon, iv.3, ed. and trans. Michael-Albion Macdonald (Gillette, NJ: Heptangle, 1988), 33, 56f.

33 On demons in the form of beasts, see Russell, Lucifer, 209: 'Until the eleventh century the Devil was generally portrayed either as a human or as an imp, and this tendency persisted in Byzantine art. In the West, beginning in England about 1000 and spreading to Germany about 1020 and then beyond, the Devil tends to be a monstrous composite of human and animal.'

34 St. Athanasius, 'Life of St. Anthony', ch. 9, in Roy J. Deferrari, et al., trans., Early Christian Biographies (Washington: Catholic University of America Press, 1952), 144.

35 Fol. 27v.

36 It is evidently the dragon that is two-headed, although the context does not make the point clear.

37 On this point see the Malleus maleficarum, ii.1.4 (p. 109), and Thomas Aquinas's Summa theologiae, I.51.2 ad 4.

38 F.C. Conybeare, 'The Testament of Solomon', Jewish Quarterly Review, 11 (1899), 1-45.

39 On this material see generally Butler, Ritual Magic, 47-89, and Arthur Edward Waite, The Book of Ceremonial Magic (repr. Secaucus, NJ: Citadel, 1961), 58-66.

40 Gerson, Œuvres complètes, 10, p. 90, art. 25.

THE MAGIC OF CIRCLES AND SPHERES

If necromancy was in one sense chiefly the art of conjuring, it was also widely associated in the popular mind with the drawing of magic circles. The Fasciculus morum says of necromancers (nigromantici) first of all that they 'raise devils in their circles that are expected to answer their questions', and only secondly that they also 'make figures of people in wax or some other soft material in order to kill them'.¹ In The Pilgrimage of the Life of Man, the messenger of Necromancy traces a circle on the ground, with characters and figures, and informs the Pilgrim that his invocation causes the spirits to answer and obey, and they cannot withstand his prayers, characters, and conjurations because he holds a commission from 'the King', meaning God, to whom they are subject.² The Yorkshire manuscript mentioned earlier tells how one man used a magic circle in conjuring not a demon but a ghost:

... he came to the assigned place and made a large circle with a cross, and it had on it [the opening words of?] the four gospels and other sacred words, and he stood in the middle of the circle, placing four small reliquaries in the form of a cross on the rim of the circle, and saving words such as 'Jesus of Nazareth' and so forth were inscribed on the reliquaries. Then he waited for the spirit to arrive. Finally he came, in the form of a goat, and three times he went around the circle, going 'a-a-a, a-a-a, a-a-a'. But when he was conjured he fell to the ground and rose up again in the form of a man of great height, horrid and gaunt, like one of the dead kings shown in paintings.³

Like conjuration, the use of magic circles appears to have spread beyond the sphere of clerical necromancy. For example, a woman charged with witchcraft at Provins in 1452 was said to have belonged to a 'sect' of witches that conjured the Devil by tracing three evidently concentric circles on the ground.⁴ What this incident probably represents is not a popular tradition parallel to that of the necromancers, but influence from their tradition.

FORM AND PREPARATION OF THE MAGIC CIRCLE

These magic circles could at times be very simple, but sometimes they were elaborate diagrams made on specially constructed platforms.⁵ The Sworn Book ascribed to one 'Honourius, son of Euclid', gives elaborate instructions for constructing a magic circle. The magician must construct a square platform fourteen feet across of good and well dressed stone, or of tile, or (if necessary because of poverty) of pure earth. On top of it he must fashion a circular platform, seven feet across and three feet high. The site must be ritually purified and consecrated, with blessings, incense, and invocation of angels. Then, presumably on top of the circular platform, he must make two concentric circles, carved with a new knife or inscribed in chalk, with the names written in the band between the circles. In a later chapter the magician is told that in an elaborate ceremony of consecration he should carve or inscribe four concentric circles, the smallest nine feet and the largest twelve feet across, with names of God and of angels in the bands and the seal of Solomon in the centre. Then there must be two concentric squares around these circles, with the corners pointing in the cardinal directions, names of God between the squares, and lighted censers placed within two smaller concentric circles at each of the four corners.⁶

The De nigromancia associated with Roger Bacon provides even fuller and more elaborate instructions for preparing and consecrating a magic circle. The magician must have a square 'secret vault' constructed in some remote place, twenty feet to each side at most, and twenty feet high at least, with windows facing the cardinal directions. Inside this building he must inscribe two concentric circles in chalk, fifteen feet at the most across, with characters and names of spirits inscribed. There are distinct kinds of circles for spirits of the air, fire, water, and earth, but the treatise is not altogether clear regarding the distinguishing features. The consecration entails, among other things, having a priest say a mass in honour of Saint Cyprian, famous for having been a magician.⁷ A later chapter gives further details: the pentacle of Solomon should circumscribe the circle; the Tetragrammaton must be inscribed on all circles, because without it 'all conjurations of the spirits will fail, and no spirit will answer truth, but falsehood'; and an appropriate time must be observed for making the circle.⁸ Elsewhere the treatise recommends a circle for discovery of hidden treasure that is inscribed on a circular sheet of vellum eight feet in compass, which should have ten loops with which it can be pinned to the ground.⁹

The Rawlinson necromantic manuscript is more interested in conjurations than in circles, but does prescribe and depict circles in connection with some of its conjurations, sometimes very simple, sometimes with pentangles and words and characters inscribed, and says at one point that the master should trace a circle with the point of his sword. There as elsewhere, however, circles may be inscribed not on the ground, as a location for conjuring, but on a moveable object, as a means for gaining power over the spirits: at one point the reader is told to draw a circle on a tablet, with the name 'Satan' inscribed in it.¹⁰

MAGIC CIRCLES IN THE MUNICH HANDBOOK

The circles in Clm 849 consist most fundamentally of single circular bands or varying numbers of concentric bands, between two and four.¹¹ Beyond this simple composition are various complicating factors: a single band inscribed within a square (no. 1); an inverted triangle inscribed within the outer boundary of a single band (no. 15); a double band divided into ten segments, and a rectangle inside the circle divided into six sections (no. 18); a double band with its interior divided into six wedges (no. 22); a triple band with a cross dividing the interior into four wedges (no. 40); a square inscribed in a single band, with a circle inside the square, and short bars extending outward from the middle of each side of the square and touching the inner side of the circular band (no. 9); a single band bisected by a horizontal band, while a vertical band bisects the upper portion of the circle, and a closed crescent shape (presumably representing a ship) appears in the upper two-thirds of the circle, with two dots beneath it at the prow and the stern (no. 8). Another experiment (no. 13) is unusual in having not a circle but a shield with a single band around its edge.

Inscriptions are of various kinds:

1. Four cardinal directions, with east on top in the fashion of traditional medieval cartography: nos 1, 6, 9, 15, 36; at times not all the directions are explicitly given (nos 8, 10, 11).
2. Positions of the master and child medium: The position of the master is often marked in the centre of the circle, with the term Locus magistri (nos 3, 7, 9, 12) or simply Magister (nos 10, 11). The circle for no. 8 marks the position with the inscription Hic magister cum suis sociis. No. 1 has Nomen magistri, de tali ordine and Nomen discipuli are marked in the center. The positions for no. 22 are in the literal sense eccentric: inscriptions indicate that the master and boy are to sit on top of pentagrams on opposite sides of the circle: Hic sederat [=sedeat] puer super signum (at the top), and Hic sedeat magister super signum a latere sinistro (at the bottom). Toward the middle of the circle for no. 40 are word fragments and N.p. (presumably for Nomen pueri).
3. Names of spirits, given most frequently within the bands: no. 1 has the names of the spirits Belial, Satan, Osendior, Matalot, Belzebub, Lucifer, Sententino and Apolin inscribed in and around its band; no. 2 has Oreoth, Pinen, Otel, Tryboy, Noryoth, Belferith, Camoy, Astaroth, Sobronoy and Sismael inscribed in its band, and the names Mirael and N. (for the name of the intended victim) inscribed in its centre; no. 3 has the names Rator, Lampoy, Despan, Brunlo, Dronoth, Maloqui, Satola, Gelbid, Mascifin, Nartum and Lodoni; no. 6 has the names Oymelor, Symofos, Manoir, Faubair, Demefin, Rodobayl, Tamafin, Abelutabel, Lamair, Tentetos, Leutaber, Rimasor, Masair, Lotobor, Tatomofofon and Sirama; no. 7 has O Vsyr, Salaul, Silitor, Demor, Zanno, Syrtroy, Risbel, Cutroy, Litor Onor, Moloy, Pumotor, Tami, Oor and Yni, spiritus armigeri, in its bands; no. 8 has the names Fyron, Dyspil, Onoroy, Sysabel, Cotroy, Tyroy, Rimel and Orooth; no. 9 has the names Lantrayth, Feremni and Oliromim; no. 10 has O Brimer, Suburith, Tranauit, Lyroth, inq (?) Berien, Damayn; no. 11 has the names Firiël to the west, Melemil to the south, Berith to the east, and Taraor to the north; no. 18 has the names Latranoy, Iszarín, Bicol, Danmals, Gromon, Zara, Ralkal, Sigtonia, Samah and Meneglasar written in the ten segments of its outer band, corresponding figures in its inner band, and the letters F-L-O-R-O-N in the six sections of its inner rectangle; no. 12 has the invocation Tu Belial, tu Astaroth, tu Paymon, ad hoc sitis opus michi adiutores; no. 13 has the names Asyel, Castyel, Lamsiyel, Rabam, Erlain, Olam and Belam in horizontal bands; no. 23 has the name Lylet (or Bylet) inscribed in its centre.

4. Sacred names: no. 16 has Aglá / Michael virtus dei / Gabriel fortitudo / Emanuel Paraclitus / Raphael medicina dei / Alpha et O, Oli, Ely / Tetragramaton, amen / Agla inscribed inside a double band, with a cross inside a square before and after each line of text; no. 36 has four divine names outside its triple band: Sabaoth at the top, Tetragramaton at the right, and Adonay at the bottom, Agla at the left.

5. Miscellaneous inscriptions: no. 15 has characters in what appears to be pseudo-Hebrew; to the right of the circle for no. 22 is a rectangular signum with the inscription Esto altissimus, vnus, eternus, amen, on five horizontal bands; no. 40 shows the word onus (possibly for On) four times.

Various types of sign and other objects also appear:

1. Pentagrams (or pentangles). No. 6 has a pentagram inscribed in its centre; no. 10 has a pentagram inscribed; no. 23 contains two pentagrams with the name On just beyond each point inscribed in the upper and lower wedges, and two more to the lower left and right of the circle.

2. Astronomical characters and miscellaneous figures: no. 6 shows radiating figures extending across its bands on the upper left, upper right, lower right, and lower left; nos 9 and 10 show astronomical and other signs alongside the names of spirits; no. 11 has two figures.¹²

3. Objects to be used in the experiments: no. 6 shows a sword at the top, extending downward, with its point on the top of a pentangle; no. 11 shows a sword lying toward the east with its point near the centre; no. 15 has dots evidently denoting positions for jars. These objects are presumably not meant to be drawn, but rather positioned where they are shown. Alongside the circle for no. 2 runs a vertical band labelled Hoc [or hic] est candela and inscribed with the names Oreoth, Pinen, Ocel, Triboy, Norioth, Belferith, Camoy, Astaroth, Sobronoy.

When prayers are shown inscribed on the bands, these may be meant to be inscribed, but are perhaps more often to be recited as the circles themselves are traced:

The first circle for no. 39 has In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti; In nomine indiuidue trinitatis, Alpha et O, deus et homo; and Ego te facio per illum qui creauit celum et terram, mare et omnia que in eis sunt in its three bands.

The second circle for no. 39 has In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti, Celi enarrant in the middle band, and Deus tuum [sic] regi da in its three bands.

No. 36 has inscriptions in each of its three bands: * Hunc circulum facio in nomine dei Patris omnipotentis, qui solo verbo vniuersa creauit in the outermost; * Hunc circulum facio in nomine dei viui qui humanum genus humano sanguine redemit in the middle, and * Hunc circulum facio in nomine Spiritus Sancti paracliti, quia [sic] apostolorum et prophetarum corda sua gracia illustrauit in the innermost. In the upper left, a further inscription begins in the outer circle and ends in the middle one: Per hoc signum sancte crucis gracia dei defendat nos ab omni malo.

No. 40 has * Hunc circulum facio in nomine Patris omnipotentis dei, qui solo verbo cuncta creauit. Dextera domini fecit virtutem, dextera domini exallauit me, non moriar sed viuam et narrabo opera domini. Castigans castigauit dominus in (and extending beyond) its outermost band; * Hunc circulum facio in nomine filij unigeniti dei viui, qui humanum genus proprio sanguine redemit. Dextera domini fecit virtutem, dextera domini exallauit me, non moriar sed viuam et narrabo opera in its middle band; and * Hunc circulum facio in nomine Spiritus Sancti paracliti, qui corda apostolorum et prophetarum suorum sanctissimam gratiam [sic] illustrauit. Dextera domini fecit virtutem, etc. in its outermost band.

No. 23 has Deus sanctus, deus omnipotens, deus fortis, deus immortalis, pater futuri seculi.

No. 12 gives a modified conjuration that is shown on the circle for no. 12: Tu Belial, tu Astaroth, tu Paymon, ad hoc sitis [michi deleted] opus michi adiutores.

One of the experiments in the Munich handbook (no. 7) speaks of the circle as a representation of the spirits' habitation, perhaps implying a conception of Hell related to Dante's, but the point remains implicit and undeveloped. And in one of the handbook's experiments (no. 33) an unusual kind of magic circle is required: the master goes to a cemetery and gathers as many stones as there are verses in Psalm 50, and with them he makes a circle, then sprinkles it with verbena.

THE FUNCTION OF THE MAGIC CIRCLE: PROTECTION OR HEIGHTENING OF POWER

Magic circles are usually represented in histories of magic as protective devices,¹³ and at least sometimes they performed that function. In one of the exempla told by Caesarius of Heisterbach, a cleric famed for his skill in necromancy agrees to conjure demons to persuade a knight who does not believe in them. The cleric inscribes a circle on the ground at a crossroads, and warns the knight that he must remain within the circle as protection from the demons, and within this protective confine the knight remains secure (albeit terrified) when demons and the Devil himself arrive. In another exemplum, individuals who dare to step outside the circle are immediately attacked by the fiends.¹⁴

This notion of the magic circle as a protective device occurs at times in the magicians' own writings. In the Rawlinson necromantic manuscript the spirits are commanded to approach the master 'beside the circle here inscribed' (iuxta circulum hic circumscriptum). Elsewhere the spirits are commanded to come to the 'place and circle' (locum et circulum) ordained for their appearance. The master is to 'sign' or bless the circle with his rod, saying 'I make this circle in honour of the Holy Trinity, that [it] may be for him and his companions a place of protection and a refuge which the demons cannot violate, enter, defile, touch, or even fly over; they must appear in a place designated for them outside the circle.'¹⁵ The notion of the circle as a protective device is found again in an early sixteenth-century text pseudonymously ascribed to Cornelius Agrippa.¹⁶ But it is probably not the magicians' original understanding of how the magic circle functioned. The circle as a locus of power, enhancing the power of the operator, is ancient: it appears, for example, in the early Jewish story of Honi the Circle-Drawer and in the Greek magical papyri.¹⁷ The further notion that the circle protects the magician from demons may well have originated with moralists such as Caesarius, as a symbolic way of talking about how hazardous it is to conjure demons, even if it was eventually taken over by the necromancers themselves.

In the Munich handbook it is clear that the circle is a focus of power meant to gain control over spirits. The circles have power to convoke the demons (no. 9) and to terrify them (no. 7). In one case the circle is identified as the insignia of the spirits being conjured (no. 8). In another experiment the circle seems to be identified as a representation of the spirits' dwelling place (no. 7). Apart from its power over spirits, a circle may be inscribed on horsehide, and then it will exert power over any horses to whom it is displayed, or keep unwanted horses from approaching its bearer (no. 9). At one point it is said that the spirits cannot enter a circle (no. 3), but elsewhere they are said in fact to do so (no. 11). The instructions for conjuring Mirage in the supplementary sections of the codex do suggest that the circle has a protective function, more for the magician's companion than for the master himself: the master makes a circle with a knife and has his companion sit inside it, carefully instructing him not to stretch hand, foot, clothes or hair outside it until all is done, 'lest through some error he should seem to enter into danger'.¹⁸ The role of the circle in one of the manual's erotic experiments (no. 3) is ambiguous: it is clearly a focus of magical power, and it may also play a protective role. The text says that the larger the circle, the better; if anything of the master's should extend beyond the circle, 'it would be bad for you'. Does this imply that the circle is a protective enclosure against the assaults of the demons? Perhaps, but this function is not clearly expressed. At no point does the author expressly state that the demons may cause harm and that the circle is necessary for protection; indeed, the experiment is explicitly said to be without danger. While the master sports with the woman inside his capacious circle the demons have in fact vanished; there is no sense that they remain as invisible yet menacing presences. The master's greatest fear may be not assault but interruption: having gone to such effort to secure the woman's presence and guard the secrecy of his magic, he does not want to be disturbed in his love-making by forces demonic or otherwise, and the circle provides an enclosure within which his privacy is secure. Exceeding the bounds of this enclosure will probably have the worst result he envisions: the spell will be broken and he will be disappointed in his love.

ASTRAL MAGIC

Magic circles are not explicitly linked with the celestial spheres, at least in the Munich handbook, yet the magic of circles and that involving heavenly bodies are perhaps related, at least indirectly. In each case the circular form – the perfect shape, according to ancient Greek thought – was conceived as a centre of power that radiated outward. The elegance of the simple form, made with a single and uniform line, seems to have been suggestive of inward-looking strength combined with maximal power to influence other beings. Even if the magic circle could also serve as a protective boundary, defining a safe space within itself, the Munich handbook makes it clear that the circle exerted force over demons, whether traced on the ground or transferred to a sheet of parchment. More clearly and perhaps more obviously, in medieval thought, the stars and planets emitted powers that affected life on earth and could be put to use by a magician for good or for ill. The possibility of such astral magic was not merely a belief of the magicians themselves; philosophers and theologians, indeed educated people generally, accepted the premise that the heavenly bodies influenced affairs here below.¹⁹

In 1441 Eleanor Cobham, the Duchess of Bedford, was tried for treasonous magic along with accomplices who included Roger Bolingbroke. His part in the matter is summarized by one contemporary source in these terms:

And a certain clerk, one of the most renowned in all the world in astronomy and the magical art, master Roger Bolingbroke, was arrested, and publicly in the cemetery of St Paul's, with the vestments of his magic and with waxen images, and with many other magical instruments, he sat in a certain high throne, so that people from everywhere might see his works; afterwards he was hanged, drawn and quartered, and his head placed on London Bridge. This master Roger was one of the most notable clerks in the whole world, and he was accused on account of . . . Lady Elianora [Cobham], to whom he was an advisor in the magic art, and after his death many lamented exceedingly greatly.

For our purposes it is not necessary to explore all details and implications of the affair.²⁰ Suffice it to point out that this Bolingbroke clearly was an 'astronomer' or astrologer, and surely had cast the horoscope of Henry VI, already an activity that smacked of treason, but whether he had actually compassed the monarch's demise is another matter. In any case, we have here a classic case of the intersection between astrology, astral magic and necromancy. Whether or not this particular astrologer was also a necromancer, to lend further force to its conjurations necromancy clearly did borrow techniques, however superficially, from the traditions of astral magic derived from Arabic treatises such as Picatrix. This and similar writings had been translated from Arabic into Western European languages in and around the thirteenth century and seem to have had profound influence on necromantic practice. This influence manifests itself in the Munich manual chiefly in instructions to observe certain astrological conditions and in the use of fumigations.

In various ways the magical apparatus contained in the Munich manual draws from the tradition of astral magic. Eleven experiments specify that their operations, or certain of them, should be done under specified astrological conditions, which most often entail phases of the moon: the work should be done under a waxing or waning moon, or in a particular phase of the moon. The day of the week is sometimes specified. The time of the day may be indicated: the first hour, before sunrise, morning or noon. Thus, an erotic experiment (no. 12) must be initiated in the hour of Venus or the hour of Jove, not simply because of the obvious erotic associations of Venus, but because Venus and Jupiter were seen as 'favourable' planets. At times the manual says that operations should be carried out under a clear sky. Astrological specifications of slightly greater sophistication occur only rarely: an experiment is to be carried out under a conjunction of Venus and Jupiter, or when the Sun is in Leo.²¹

Fumigations (or suffumigations) occur in eight of the manual's experiments. In psychological experiments it is the image or the object sympathetically representing the victim that is fumigated: with myrrh and saffron (no. 3); with cinnamon, pepper and agrimonia (no. 4), or with sulphur fumes (no. 5). In illusionist experiments it is the circle that is thus treated: with the marrow of a dead person (no. 8), or with incense and myrrh (no. 11). An all-purpose experiment (no. 36) likewise instructs the master to place incense and myrrh in a thurible (presumably of gold) and walk around the outer edge of the circle, saying, 'I make this fumigation in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.' Both versions of the Mirror of Floron require that the mirror itself be fumigated.

The portion of the manual most fully reflecting the influence of Arabic astral magic is the compendium devoted specifically to the subject (no. 37). This section of the manuscript, which is deeply indebted to works such as Picatrix and other manuals of astral magic,²² contains two types of material: integrated instructions for magical rites utilizing the powers of the heavenly bodies, and lists of supplementary information regarding each day of the week (the seals to be used, the names of angels and other spirits who rule and serve on each day, suffumigations to be employed) and each hour of the day and night (the name and function of each, names of angels that rule each hour, images to be used for each hour, and so forth).²³ The latter form of material can perhaps best be conveyed in tabular form (see Tables E-G), even if some nuance is lost in this presentation. Those subsections which give integrated instructions for rites are, in particular, no. 37a (conjurations for each day of the week), nos 37m and 37n (uses of images for each day and night hour), and no. 37q (uses of images and conjurations for each day of the week).

Two examples (one from no. 37m, the other from no. 37q) will illustrate how the integrated experiments draw upon the schemata found in the mere lists:

During the fifth day hour one should make an image to tame wild beasts, such as lions, bears, wolves, and any other wild and harmful beasts. At this hour cast an image of the animal of the sort you wish to control or tame, and on the head of the image carve the name of the animal, and on the chest the name of the hour and the name of the lord of the hour, and on the stomach the seven names of the first hour, and fumigate the image with Indian wood and with red sandalwood, and bury the image in a place of your choosing, and with the Lord's help aiding you, you will see that all those animals will be turned to your will.

Somewhat more elaborate is a procedure for bringing concord between humans:

The fifth image is that of Thursday, and the angels constituted over it are Satquiel, Pattar, Constiel, [and] Assassayel, and these are the winds constituted over the image: Silite, Maraben, Halharit, and their helpers are Yse, Riron, Naasay, [and] Eladab. And when you wish to perform this work, make an image of yellow bronze or of yellow wax on a Thursday, and tint it with green, and make it for a man [or] for a woman, if you wish thereby to bring friendship between two men or women, or between a man and a woman. Make two images of green wax in the month of May, at the height of Pisces, or in the month of January in the height of Sagittarius, and write the name of the man on the heart of the woman's image, and the name of the woman on the heart of the male, and say this conjuration:

'O Lord God, almighty creator of [all] things, visible and invisible, establish gentle concord between thus-and-such woman, daughter of so-and-so, and so-and-so, son of so-and-so, such as you established between Adam and Eve, and between Jacob and Rachel, and between Michael and Gabriel (one of whom is fiery and the other watery, [yet] the one does not harm the other, but there is great concord between them), and such concord as you established between the angel whose medium is fire and the one whose medium is snow, so that the snow does not extinguish the fire, nor does the fire consume the snow, and so you likewise turn envy into concord. Thus, O Lord, by your most holy kindness and mercy, may you cause so-and-so, daughter of so-and-so, to accord with, to love, and to cherish so-and-so, son of so-and-so. I conjure you angels by the name Yafaa, Safaa, Alleya, Hayala, Haya, Halix, Hayul, Ataya, Hytoia, Saffetaba, Coffossol, Remlestar, El, Lord God, you who know the secrets of [all] hearts and are the end and the beginning, [and] who never die. Hasten, Sarafem [and] Custyeli, and command Amaris and his helpers, that they may quickly carry out and accomplish my request.'

And bury the image in a place by which they pass, and you will see the marvels of almighty God.

No. 37a consists chiefly of conjurations for the days of the week: the conjurations differ in two main ways from those found in the main block of material: their purpose is left unspecified, there being no explicit instruction to the spirits conjured; and they involve word play and near repetition of a sort often associated with Kabbalah: 'In the name Adonay, Adonay, Eye, Eye, Eyu . . . Eye, Aloraye; in the name Sadaye, Saday, Cados, Cados, Cados, the high one, sitting upon the cherubim . . .'; 'In the name Adonay, Adonay, Adonay, Eye, Eye, Eye, Cados, Cados, Cados, Hatyn, Hatyn, Hatyn, Va, Va, strong one, Va, who appeared on Mount Sinai with glorification of his reign, Ya, Adonay, Saday, Sabaoth, Hanath, Hu, Haxi, Ya, Ya, Ya, Marmalita, Abym, Yea . . .'; and 'by the name Ya, Ya, Ya, A, A, Va, Hy, Hy, Haa, Haai, Va, Va, Han, Han, Hon, Hy, Hyen, Haya, Haya, Hol, Hol, Hay, Hael, Hon; by the names of the Lord Adonay,

Haya, Hol, creator of the ages, Cados, Cados, Cados, Ebel, El, Ya, Ya, Ya, Eloy, Arar, Eloyim, Eloyim . . .'

Elements of simple lunar astrology, too, are found toward the end of the compilation, in a listing of what were called lunationes, or days of the lunar cycle that are good or bad for making magical inscriptions (no. 46). In general, lunar astrology lent itself more to popular use than did the more technical science of solar astrology; while it is found in varying degrees of complexity, it could easily be reduced to a simple list of days in the lunar cycle, identified as favourable or unfavourable, whether in general or for a particular operation such as the working of magic.²⁴

When all is said and done, however, the use of astrology and astral magic in the Munich handbook – and probably in other, similar necromantic texts – is fairly superficial. One does not find detailed or rationalized efforts to exploit the powers of celestial bodies, and even the concise treatise of astral magic is more a catalogue than a fully developed work, presumably included simply because the compiler was highly eclectic, but not genuinely integrated into the drift of the compilation as a whole.

The Speculum astronomiae, probably written by Albert the Great, explains the basic principles of astrology, then touches at the end on necromancy and related arts. The author says he does not mean to speak in favour of astrological images, because of their similarity to necromantic (necromanticas) ones. He then goes on to say that necromantic books should be set aside without being destroyed. 'For perhaps the time is already at hand, when, for certain reasons about which I am now silent, it will be useful on occasion to have inspected them, but, nevertheless, their inspectors should be wary of using them.'²⁵ Coy as it is, this statement makes clear that the boundary between astral magic and necromancy was fluid in practice even if in theory it could be stated with clarity: astral magic invoked the natural powers of the stars and planets, while necromancy called upon demons; but if there were spirits associated with the heavenly bodies, these might be difficult to distinguish from the spirits of the air traditionally conceived as demonic.²⁶ One can well understand why orthodox authorities and writers would be suspicious of that which even bordered on the forbidden. The works translated from the Arabic might include a great deal of material that was straightforwardly astrological and clearly non-demonic, but a work such as Picatrix appealed to both the powers of the planets and those of spirits, and identified its art as that of necromancy. The Munich handbook is important in part because it extends the spectrum to the furthest extreme, giving us nearly in its entirety a work expressly devoted to demonic magic, worked out in considerable detail and for the most part with only token borrowing from the astral magic with which necromancy was so richly intertwined.

Table E. Specifications for each day of the week

| | Angels serving (37a, 37b, 37d, cf. 37h) | Spirits ruling
(and coadjutors) (37e) | Suffumi-
gations (37f) | Purposes (37g) | Images (37q) |
|--------|--|---|---|--|--|
| Sun. | Raphael | King Saytam (‘Taatus, Candas, Vanibal) | yellow or red
sandalwood | binding
tongues
otherwise binding
people | gold or yellow
wax, for binding
tongues |
| Mon. | Gabriel | King
Almodab (Sylol, Millalu,
Abuzaba) | aloes,
amacap | benevolence,
concord,
friendship | gold or steel or white wax, for
concord |
| Tues. | Samael | ‘ rex filius
dyabuli ’ (Carmath, Utanaual,
Pascami) | pepper,
abana ,
crg | illness and destruction | red copper or red wax, for depopulating
a house, causing bloodshed or illness, or other
harm |
| Wed. | Michael | King Saba (Conas, Pactas,
Sanbras) | allast | enmity and
hatred | lead, for enmity |
| Thurs. | Satquiel | Madrath, son of Arath (Hyrti, Ignaro
Quiron,
Saalalebeth) | yellow
incense | peace | yellow copper or yellow wax, for concord between
man and woman |
| Fri. | Anael | King
Saabotes (Nassath, Ynasa) | almastic or
lignum radim | friendship | white wax, for love of a woman |
| Sat. | Captiel=
Caffriel | Hayton,
Assayby (Abimalyb, Haybalydoth,
Yfla) | assandaron ,
sulphur | binding
locations | pix clara , for binding tongues
or places, for
discord |

Table F. Specifications for day hours

| | Names
(37j) | Functions (37j) | Ruling angels (37l) | Functions of images
(37m) |
|------|------------------------|--|--------------------------------|--|
| 1st | Yayn | binding tongues | Raphael | binding tongues |
| 2nd | Yan, Or | friendship, favour of potentates | Anael | benevolence |
| 3rd | Nassura | hunting, fishing | Michael | congregating birds and fish |
| 4th | Sala | binding wild beasts | Gabriel | dispelling beasts |
| 5th | Sadadat | binding beasts | Gaffriel | taming wild beasts |
| 6th | Tamhut | freeing captives | Satquiel | freeing captives |
| 7th | Caror | peace between kings | Samael | hunting and fishing |
| 8th | Tariel | discord | Raphael | destroying houses and other places |
| 9th | Karon | travel, safe passage
among robbers | Anael | travelling without harm |
| 10th | Hyon | work with demons or demoniacs, foul
wind, aid to ladies | Michael | obtaining one's will with kings and princes |
| 11th | Nathalon | causing bleeding in women, binding men to women and vice versa | Gabriel | concord |
| 12th | Abat | peace (between men and women) | Gafriel | binding tongues |

Table G. Specifications for night hours

| | Names
(37k) | Functions (37k) | Ruling angels (37l) | Images (37n) |
|-----|------------------------|--|--------------------------------|---|
| 1st | Leron | working with demoniacs, foul winds | Satquiel | illuminating dark places |
| 2nd | Latol | working with fish | Samael | knowing fortunes |
| 3rd | Hami | working with fire | Raphael | dispelling reptiles |
| 4th | Atyn | destroying houses, expelling people | Anael | destroying or depopulating villages,
causing enmity |
| 5th | Caron | asking questions of sleepers | Michael | scattering armies |

| Names
(37k) | Functions (37k) | Ruling
angels (37l) | Images (37n) |
|------------------------|--|--------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 6th Zaia | working with fruit trees and other plants | Gabriel | putting enemies to flight |
| 7th Nectius | expelling people, causing sickness and death | Cafriel | burning vegetation |
| 8th Tafat | causing enmity | Satquiel | gathering bees or birds |
| 9th Conassuor | binding tongues, entering before kinds
and lords | Samael | attracting and capturing birds |
| 10th Algo | destroying evil speech or thought | Raphael | scattering besieging armies |
| 11th Caltrua | binding or catching birds | Anael | Not to be used for making images |
| 12th Salaij | telling fortunes, disclosing theft or other crime | Michael | |

Notes

1 Siegfried Wenzel, ed. and trans., Fasciculus morum: A Fourteenth-Century Preacher's Handbook (University Park: Pennsylvania State University Press, 1989), v. 30, pp. 578-79.

2 Guillaume de Deguileville, The Pilgrimage of the Life of Man, Englished by John Lydgate, A.D. 1426, from the French of Guillaume de Deguileville, A.D. 1330, 1355, ed. F.J. Furnivall (London: K. Paul, Trench, Trübner, 1899-1904), vol. 2, pp. 493-505, lines 18,471-924. See Richard Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1989), 172-3, where the drawing of the meeting with the necromancer is reproduced.

3 M.R. James, 'Twelve medieval ghost-stories', English Historical Review, 37 (1922), 416f.

4 Hansen, Quellen, 536-9; Bibliothèque de l'Ecole des Chartes, ser. 2, vol. 3 (1846).

5 A classic Byzantine treatise on magic instructed its reader to make two concentric circles wide enough to accommodate two people; they should be drawn inside a square, with an entrance corridor to the south, and various words and signs are to be inscribed. See Richard P.H. Greenfield, Traditions of Belief in Late Byzantine Demonology (Amsterdam: Hakkert, 1988), 286-7.

6 The Sworn Book of Honorius [sic] the Magician, as Composed by Honorius through Counsel with the Angel Hecorell, ed. and trans. Daniel J. Driscoll (Gillette, NJ: Heptangle, 1983), chs 26 and 38.

7 De Nigromancia of Roger Bacon, ii.4-6, ed. and trans. Michael-Albion Macdonald (Gillette, NJ: Heptangle, 1988), 13-26. On the legend of St Cyprian of Antioch see Butler's Lives of the Saints, ed. Herbert Thurston and Donald Attwater (New York: Kenedy, 1956), under 26 September.

8 De Nigromancia, iii.1, 28f.

9 Ibid., 51.

10 Rawl. 29r, 73r, 77v-78r, 79r, 103v, 104v.

11 One (nos 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 12, 15), two (nos 7, 10, 16, 18, 22), three (nos 36, two in 39, 40), or four (no. 6).

12 For parallels and possible sources in Arabic culture see H.A. Winkler, Siegel und Charaktere in der muhammedanischen Zauberri (Berlin and Leipzig: de Gruyter, 1930).

13 E.g., Greenfield, Traditions of Belief, 286.

14 Caesarius of Heisterbach, The Dialogue on Miracles, trans. H. von E. Scott and C.C. Swinton Bland, vol. 1 (London: Routledge, 1929), 315–17. See also Stith Thompson, Motif-Index of Folk-Literature: A Classification of Narrative Elements in Folktales, Ballads, Myths, Fables, Medieval Romances, Exempla, Fabliaux, Jest-Books, and Local Legends, rev. edn (Bloomington: Indiana University Press, 1955–58), nos. D1272 (magic circle), D1381.11 (magic circle protects from devil) and G303.16.19.15 (devil cannot enter magic circle made to keep him out); and Frederic C. Tubach, Index exemplorum: A Handbook of Medieval Religious Tales (FF Communications, 204) (Helsinki: Suomalainen Tiedekatemia, Akademia Scientiarum Fennica, 1969), p. 86, nos. 1,069–71.

15 Bodleian Library, Oxford, Rawlinson MS 252, fols 25v, 59v–61v.

16 Cornelius Agrippa, Of Occult Philosophy, Book Four: Magical Ceremonies, ed. and trans. Robert Turner (Gillette, NJ: Heptangle, 1985), 72.

17 Taanith, 3.8, in C.K. Barrett, New Testament Background: Selected Documents (London: SPCK, 1956; rev. edn 1987), pp. 191–2; and Hans Dieter Betz, ed., The Greek Magical Papyri in Translation, Including the Demotic Spells, 1 (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1986), 141 (PGM VII.846–61), 73 (IV.2006–2125).

18 Fols 112v–113v, 142r–142v: magister facit circulum cum cutello, et faciat socium suum intus sedere, et precipiat sibi magister quod nec pedes neque manus nec vestes nec capillos foras extendat, donec magister exeat expeditus ab omnibus ordinatis. . . . Postea faciat circulum cum cutello suo, et assignat locum in quo socius suus sedere debeat. Postea iubet eum sedere, et ostendit ei sub qua forma sedere debeat in circulo, et qualiter se regere in omnibus debeat, et qualiter spiritum in aduentu suo recipere debeat, et quomodo exire debeat de circulo, et qualiter in recessu suo eum licenciarie tractet, et quomodo exire debeat de circulo, et quo debeat se diuertire. Et hoc omnia debet magister socio suo ostendere antequam eum in circulo incurere permittit, ne ex defectu periculum intrare rideatur.

19 See Richard Kieckhefer, Magic in the Middle Ages (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1989), 131–3.

20 See Hilary M. Carey, Courting Disaster: Astrology at the English Court and University in the Later Middle Ages (New York: St Martin's Press, 1992), ch. 8, from which the translation is taken.

21 Nos 4, 6, 8, 11, 19, 41 (waxing moon); 2, 5 (waning moon); 7 [?] (first phase of the moon); 9 (sixth phase); 20 (other phases); 4, 41 (Sunday), 9 (Tuesday), 11 (Wednesday), 6 (Thursday or Sunday), 2, 5 (Saturday); 4, 11 (first hour); 5 (before sunrise); 41 (morning [de mane]); 6 (noon); 7, 8 (clear sky); 20 (conjunction of Venus and Jupiter); 41 (Sun in Leo); 5 (under a waning moon et maxime quando est in combustione).

22 Picatrix: The Latin Version of the Ghayat Al-Hakim, ed. David Pingree (London: Warburg Institute, 1986), esp. passages such as those on pp. 15–22 (images to effect peace, love, the favour of a lord, etc.); pp. 68–73 (images of planets), and 200–2 (fumigations for various planets); for further examples see 'Thabit ibn Qurra's De imaginibus', in Francis J. Carmody, The Astronomical Works of Thabit b. Qurra (Berkeley: University of California Press, 1960), 180–97. See Lynn Thorndike, 'Traditional medieval tracts concerning engraved astrological images', in Mélanges Auguste Pelzer: Etudes d'histoire littéraire et doctrinale de la Scolastique médiévale offertes à Monseigneur Auguste Pelzer (Louvain: Bibliothèque de l'Université, 1947), 217–73.

23 Nos 37a (conjunctions for days of week), 37b (signs of angels), 37c (signs of days), 37d (angels ruling days), 37e (spirits ruling days), 37f (fumigations for days), 37g (purposes served each day), 37h (angels of days), 37i (names of God), 37j (names and functions of day hours), 37k (names and functions of night hours), 37l (names and functions of hourly angels), 37m (images for day hours), 37n (images for night hours), 37o (angels of times), 37p (names of planets and parts of Earth), 37q (images and conjunctions for days) and 37r (summary). The association of angels and demons with specific days and hours had been worked out in Byzantine sources; see Armand Delatte, Anecdota Athensiensia, 1 (Liège: Bibliothèque de la Faculté de Philosophie et Lettres de l'Université de Liège, 1927), 403–4, 434–8. For material similar to that in no. 37j, see Charles Burnett, Magic and Divination in the Middle Ages: Texts and Techniques in the Islamic and Christian Worlds (Aldershot: Variorum, 1996), IX, p. 2.

24 On the tradition from which this text draws see Ute Müller, Deutsche Mondwahrsageweise aus dem Spätmittelalter (diss. Berlin: Freie Universität Berlin, 1971); The Works of John Metham, including The Romance of Amoryus and Cleopes, ed. Hardin Craig (EETS, o.s. 132) (London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner, 1916), xxxviii–xlii (a survey of the genre), 148–56; L. Braswell, 'Popular lunar astrology in the late Middle Ages', University of Ottawa Quarterly, 48 (1978), 187–94.; Robert Vian, ed., Ein Mondwahrsagebuch: Zwei altdeutsche Handschriften des XIV. und XV. Jahrhunderts (Halle, 1910); and Frank Fürbeth, Johannes Hartlieb: Untersuchungen zu Leben und Werk (Tübingen: Niemeyer, 1992), 49–57. W. Brackman, 'Magische experimenten en toverpraktijken uit een middelnederlands handschrift', Verslagen en mededelingen van de Koninklijke Vlaamse Academie voor Taal- en Letterkunde, 1966, 54–68, gives the first six sections of a moon-book for when the moon is in each zodiacal sign.

25 Paola Zambelli, The 'Speculum astronomiae' and its Enigmas: Astrology, Theology and Science in Albertus Magnus and His Contemporaries (Dordrecht, Boston, and London: Kluwer, 1992), chs 16–17, pp. 270–73.

26 On this issue see especially D.P. Walker, Spiritual and Demonic Magic, from Ficino to Campanella (London: Warburg Institute, 1958; repr. Notre Dame, ID: University of Notre Dame Press, 1975).

CONCLUSION

Some time around the 1530s, Benvenuto Cellini witnessed the conjuring of demons in the Colosseum at Rome - or at least so he reports in his autobiography.¹ He had met a Sicilian priest who knew Latin and Greek, and who agreed to introduce him to the art of necromancy. Along with two companions they went to the Colosseum, traced circles on the ground, and undertook 'the finest ceremonies that can be imagined', amid various suffumigations and an hour and a half of conjurations. When legions of demons filled the Colosseum, the priest urged Cellini to make some inquiry; and he asked them to restore to him his Sicilian girlfriend, Angelica, to which they made no reply. Cellini and the priest went to the Colosseum a second time, with a twelve-year-old boy and two other companions. In Hebrew and Greek as well as Latin, the necromancer conjured multitudinous demons by name, invoking the power of God, and there appeared a hundred times as many spirits as previously. Cellini repeated his request, and the spirits promised that within a month he would be together with Angelica. But the ceremony was soon out of control: the necromancer declared that the demons were a thousand times more than he had conjured, and they were the most dangerous of spirits; the boy shrieked that a million threatening figures were swarming around them, while four 'giants' were endeavouring to break into the circle. Eventually, however, the numbers of spirits dwindled, so that by the time the conjurers left their circle the boy reported there were only two demons left, skipping along the road or on the rooftops. The necromancer insisted that he had never before encountered such a ferocious display of demons. The experience did not dissuade him, however, from urging Cellini to join him in another ritual, the consecration of a book by which they could discover buried treasure. Cellini agreed, but was soon so preoccupied with his work that he abandoned both this new project and his hopes regarding Angelica.

E.M. Butler inclined to accept Cellini's story essentially at face value, although she noted that only the boy seems actually to have seen the conjured spirits - the rest of the party relied chiefly on the lad's reports - and she ascribed the exceptional success of the necromancer's rituals to the boy's impressionable nature.² No doubt it could have happened. Conjuring demons is hardly the most implausible undertaking humans have devoted themselves to, and it seems prima facie unlikely that books of necromancy would have circulated in late medieval and early modern Europe without occasional use of the experiments they contained. The results may more often have been those experienced by Gilles de Rais, who engaged more than one clerical necromancer in an effort to recoup his finances with demonic aid, but who found the conjurations utterly without effect – except when he was not looking, at which point the necromancer would assure him that ferocious spirits had come and beaten him mercilessly.³ Gilles de Rais's necromancers were perhaps typical in their skillful deception of a gullible client. One is reminded of the necromancers, including a former Templar, who strung Cardinal Francesco Caetani along, begging for time to complete their experiments, and pleading that they could not do so because they were unable to locate such necessary items as a hoopoe.⁴ The necromancer appears often to have been a mountebank, and the most important factor in his success was perhaps the credulity of his client. Yet one hesitates to generalize; if clients could place faith in necromancy, this was in part because the broader culture took the matter seriously enough to prosecute people for exercising the art, and few doubted in principle that conjuring could succeed, so there must have been necromancers and would-be necromancers who copied out experiments into their books in the hope of having close encounters with malign but potentially useful spirits.

In some respects the story of Benvenuto Cellini is consonant with the picture of necromancy given in the Munich handbook, while in other ways it is not. The use of circles, conjurations and suffumigations, the recruitment of a young boy, and the presence of a few companions – all this is typical of what we have seen in the necromancer's manual. The use of a classical language is again expected, although Greek and Hebrew may have been exceptional. The experiments in the Munich handbook sometimes instruct the spirits to come in pleasant and non-threatening form, as if the conjurers were aware that the experience of Cellini and his friends – a veritable temptation of Saint Anthony – might befall them. What is most unusual about Cellini's report is precisely its drama. The demons foreseen in the Munich manuscript are made tame, domesticated, even docile in comparison. The conjurations are intended to coerce the spirits, and the expectation is that these spirits will present themselves in a mood of submission to the necromancer's constraint. Yet the writer surely knew the alternative possibility, and if he insisted on using conjurations as spiritual weapons against the spirits he did so because he knew that precautions were necessary, that docility did not come naturally to demons.

I have argued that material such as the Munich handbook is historically important because it helps us grapple with the mentality of the clerical necromancers, but that this mentality was not a simple or stable entity. Its variations depended largely on the type of ritual in question. The illusionist experiments display a playful and imaginative impulse, but one that could nurture the profoundly serious anxieties seen in the early witch trials. In the psychological rites we find a quest for power over other people's minds, wills, and bodies, often manifesting itself as an expression of violent impulse, and in any case revealing tension in the clash of wills. In the divinatory operations a desire for knowledge often combines with pecuniary motives, and we see an almost obsessive concern with the truth of the knowledge gained, in the face of the danger of falsehood. In the Munich handbook we find all three types of material, but in shifting proportions: if I am right in my hypothesis that we have the experiments substantially in their original order, the compiler seems to have become less interested in the glamorous forms of magic, more absorbed in workaday divination, and more prosaic in his manner of presentation as he pursued his task. To read the work in this way is to find in it an element of implicit autobiography, even when the first person is not used. It is also to see the compiler as reflecting both synchronically and diachronically the diversities of magical tradition: not only does he bring disparate practices into fusion, combining sympathetic magic or scrying with conjuring and other techniques, but as he continues the process his work loses some of its earlier brio and he settles for kinds of magic more likely to draw money-bearing clients.

Furthermore, I have suggested that books such as the Munich manual of necromancy are significant for the light they shed on broader tendencies in late medieval culture. First, attention to such a compilation expands our conception of how a book could function and how it could be perceived in late medieval culture. Cellini's story reminds us of what we have already seen, that a book was a sacred object, particularly when consecrated, and that its sacrality was a factor enabling the necromancer better to attain his goals. Second, awareness of what magicians set out to do is needed for a realistic of their enemies' reactions and refutations. Cellini knew, as everyone at the time knew, that the behaviour of his priest friend was transgressive. One might view it as frivolous transgression; it certainly had no obvious political significance. Be that as it may, it takes on more sober significance in light of the virulent attacks on necromancy by people whose opinion weighed heavily, including popes and theologians, inquisitors and secular judges, those instrumental in forging the cumulative concept of witchcraft as a hammer for crushing women in particular, and the Humanist mages who wished to distance themselves as effectively as possible from common and vulgar necromancers. Third, study of this material helps us see the essential continuity in form between necromancy and exorcism, and the grounding of both in the established liturgy of the medieval Church. As the reverse side of the liturgical tapestry, the necromancer's experiments help us to see how ritual could be perceived and perverted by those making private use of it for transgressive purposes.

From a slightly different perspective, we might say that a text such as the Munich handbook is historically significant because it elucidates the connection between dreams and nightmares. The necromancers and their clients dreamed of discovering wealth, sexual fulfilment, favour and promotion, power over adversaries, entertainment, and knowledge of secret and future matters. In pursuing these dreams they risked entering into nightmares that they shared with those about them. Cellini experienced what any necromancer other than a sheer impostor must have feared, the traumatic disruption of psychic and spiritual security, the terrifying irruption of sinister forces into the private space they occupied. The thrill of flirting with such danger was surely one reason for the art's powerful appeal. Like the Ouija board, the necromancer's circle could begin as a game but turn unexpectedly nasty and threatening. On a purely rationalist reading, the danger of the means might be balanced against the allurements of the ends. More realistically speaking, the hazards were surely among the attractions of such activity, and as Freud would remind us, the nightmare was itself the distorted fulfilment of a wish, at least for those mysterious souls who took delight at venturing into a Boschian landscape, in the hope that when they finished they would not be trapped within its frame.

Notes

1 The Autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini, lxiv–lxv, trans. John Addington Symonds (repr. Garden City, NY: Doubleday, 1946), 118–22. For background see Franco Cardini, 'I diavoli al Colosseo: note su alcuni luoghi "magici" della città di Roma nel Medioevo', in F. Troncarelli, ed., La città dei segreti: magia, astrologia e cultura esoterica a Roma (XV–XVIII secolo) (Milan: Angeli, 1985), 43–54.

2 E.M. Butler, Ritual Magic (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1949), 118–29.

3 Reginald Hyatte, intro. and trans., Laughter for the Devil: The Trials of Gilles de Rais, Companion-in-Arms of Joan of Arc (1440) (Rutherford, NJ: Fairleigh Dickinson University Press; London: Associated University Presses, 1984).

4 Charles Victor Langlois, 'L'affaire du cardinal Francesco Caetani (Avril 1316)', Revue historique, 63 (1897), 56–71; Conrad Eubel, 'Vom Zaubereiunwesen anfangs des 14. Jahrhunderts (mit urkundlichen Beilagen)', Historisches Jahrbuch der Görres-Gesellschaft, 18 (1897), 628.

The Necromancer's Handbook in Clm 849: Fols 3r-108v

THE DISPOSITION OF THE MANUSCRIPT

The manuscript is from the first half of the fifteenth century, of unknown provenience. It is not mentioned in Otto Hartig, Die Gründung der Münchener Hofbibliothek durch Albrecht V. und Johann Jakob Fugger (Abhandlungen der Königlichen Bayerischen Akademie der Wissenschaften, philosoph.-philolog. und hist. Klasse, vol. 28, sect. 3, 1914). It is on paper, without discernible watermark. The present binding is probably from the end of the nineteenth or beginning of the twentieth century; the inner side of the rear binding bears a sticker referring to Georg Winkler Buchbinderei KB, Hoflieferant, München, Kreuzstr. 9. Fol. 3 is heavily worn. In the middle of the lower margin of fol. 3r (as on fol. 156v) is a stamp with the inscription Bibliotheca Regia Monacensis. In the middle of the upper margin of fol. 3r, Clm 849 is marked in pencil. The manuscript is 14.7 cm wide and 21 cm high. The text is in a single column, with lineation still discernible on almost all pages. Initials are rubricated. Foliation runs from fol. 3 through fol. 152, and was probably executed after the earliest binding; earlier foliation occurs on individual folios, and is largely erroneous. Various hands are represented, but these do not always correspond to the gatherings of the manuscript; gatherings 12 through 14, however, are written by entirely different hands from those that precede, and the condition of the paper is also different from that in gatherings 1 through 11.

There are fifteen gatherings:

Table H. Gatherings of Clm 849

| Folios | Experiments | Codicological particularities |
|---------------|--------------------------------------|--|
| 1 3-11 | No. 1 to beginning of no. 4 | Sheet with fol. 10 is separately inserted. |
| 2 12-23 | End of no. 4 to beginning of no. 9 | Sheet with fols 12-13 is separately inserted. |
| 3 24-35 | End of no. 9 to beginning of no. 16 | Sheet with fols 24-25 is separately inserted. |
| 4 36-45 | End of no. 16 to beginning of no. 27 | Fol. 45 is also marked as fol. 59 (in earlier hand). |

| Folios | Experiments | Codicological particularities |
|---------------|---|---|
| 5 46-50 | End of no. 27 through no. 30 | Postponement of the middle of no. 27 results in textual discontinuity at the beginning of this gathering. After fol. 50 (on which no. 30 is completed), five uncounted folios (i.e., the second half of the gathering) are excised. |
| 6 51-59 | Middle of no. 27, then no. 31 and beginning of no. 32 | Between fol. 51 (which is inscribed only recto) and 52 (which begins with an incipit) five uncounted folios are excised. Fol. 59r is also marked as 79 (in earlier hand). |
| 7 60-68 | End of no. 32 to beginning of no. 37 | Between fol. 66 and fol. 67 is fol. 65 bis. |
| 8 69-82 | Continuation of no. 37 | Fol. 70r is also marked as fol. 89 (in earlier hand). Fol. 71r is also marked as fol. 70 (in later hand). Fol. 82 is also marked as fol. 9 (in earlier hand). |
| 9 83-95 | Continuation of no. 37 | Three sheets -- fols 91, 92, and 94 -- are separately inserted. Fol. 94 is also marked as fol. 10 (in earlier hand). |
| 10 96-103 | End of no. 37 to beginning of no. 40 | Fol. 96r is also marked as fol. 104 (in later hand). |
| 11 104-108 | End of no. 40 through no. 47 | After fol. 108, three uncounted folios are excised. Fols 106-7 are also marked as fols. 114-5 (in later hand). No. 44 is a fragment on the middle of fol. 107v. No. 47 is a fragment on the middle of fol. 108v. |
| 12 109-118 | Related materials, written by various hands | After fol. 118, two uncounted folios are excised. In this gathering there is no lineation. |
| 13 119-32 | | |
| 14 133-146 | | Fols 133-139 are also marked as fols 1-7. |
| 15 147-156 | | Six sheets -- fols 147-151 and 156 -- are separately inserted. |

TEXTUAL DISCONTINUITIES

Apart from the abrupt beginning of the text at the beginning of the main block (on fol. 3r) and the occurrence of textual fragments at the end of this block (on the middle of fol. 107v and on the middle of fol. 108v), discernible breaks in textual continuity occur at three points within the block: (1) Between fols 45 and 46, one text ends abruptly (45v) at the end of the fourth gathering, the fifth gathering begins with a blank page (46r), and a new text begins in medias res (46v). (2) Between fols 50 and 51, one text ends with an explicit (50v), five folios are excised at the end of the fifth gathering, and the sixth gathering begins in medias res (51r). (3) Between 51 and 52, one text ends abruptly (51r) even though the verso is blank, five following folios are excised within the gathering, and the same gathering resumes with an incipit (52).

The discontinuities on fols 45-51 are related, in the sense that the central portion of an experiment (no. 28) has been postponed to fol. 51r, which evidently supplies the missing link between the beginning (fols 44v-45v) and the end (fols 46v-47v) of this experiment. Note that experiment no. 28 is divided into two 'chapters': the end of the first is marked by the words Explicit primum capitulum near the bottom of fol. 46r; the second begins with a list of names at the very bottom of that folio, which continues at the top of fol. 51r and continues with a conjuration that occupies the remainder of fol. 51r (fol. 51v is blank), only to conclude with the material on fols 46v-47v, which terminated with the notation Explicit secundum capitulum. The textual continuity produced by this rearrangement is corroborated by the identification of two chapters as part of a continuing experiment. The discontinuity is not fully explainable in terms of erroneous binding, which would not account for the scribe's not using the verso of fol. 51. Rather, the lack of continuity is more plausibly explained on the assumption that the scribe recognized belatedly that he had material at hand that belonged to an earlier experiment; he may not have taken the trouble to determine exactly where the fragment inserted on fol. 51r belonged.

It is possible that the only material actually deleted from the miscellany is that on the first two folios. Although folios are elsewhere excised (between fols 50 and 51, between fols 51 and 52, and between fols 108 and 109), the evident textual discontinuities can be emended by rearrangement, and there are no further deletions from the original foliation.

At the end of this block, three folios between 108 and 109 are excised at the end of a gathering, after which new material begins, written by different hands. Within this new material there are three further breaks in textual continuity: between 118 and 119, where two folios are excised at the end of a gathering; between 132 and 133, with the beginning of a new gathering; and between 146 and 147, again with the beginning of a new gathering.

EDITORIAL PRINCIPLES

Punctuation and capitalization have been standardized. Non-standard but clearly intentional forms and spellings have been allowed to stand: abilem for habilem (no. 34), aparuiſti for apparuiſti (no. 31), beniuolus for beneuolus (no. 34), blica for plica

(no. 1), colido for collido (no. 5), commitantem for comitantem (no. 19), commitiuam and cominitua for comitiuam and comitiua (no. 7), decim for decem (no. 18), desparsit for dispersit (no. 33), dissipulos for discipulos (no. 35), duodecim for duodecem (no. 27), genubus for genibus (nos 10 & 11), hillariter for hilariter (no. 6), hostio for ostio (no. 17), inungas for inunguas (no. 22), karacteribus for characteribus (no. 19), karitatem karitatiuam for caritatem caritatiuam (no. 14), kathedram for cathedram (no. 15), legitimo for legitimo (no. 27), letania for litania (no. 31), lingnum for lignum (no. 13), loycam for logicam (no. 34), mageslas for majestas (no. 1), magestatis for majestatis (no. 33), navim for navem (no. 8), optinere for obtinere (no. 31), pallificando for paleficando (no. 19), patifacere for patefacere (no. 6), pulcherimi for pulcherrimi (no. 13), quadruuio for quadriuio (no. 26), rethoricam for rhetoricam (no. 34), ribelles for rebelles (no. 33), senephali for seneschali (no. 34), sepellire for sepelire (no. 4), sepellitur and desepelliendo for sepelitur and desepeliendo (no. 2), Septembrione for Septentrione (fols 115r and 144r), thesaurum for thesaurus (no. 43), oppupa for upupa (no. 6). The text has been corrected conservatively when it was necessary to do so for the sense of a passage, but not simply to correct errors; e.g., on fol. 56r quod vij die hominem ad ymaginem plasmasti tuam is corrected to qui vij[a] die hominem ad ymaginem plasmasti tuam but vij is not corrected to vi, and on fol. 13r discedat . . . seruiet [for seruiat] . . . diligat has been allowed to stand. Necessary additions have been made in square brackets; deletions and substitutions are indicated in the notes. Lower-case c and t are sometimes distinguished but often not; when the context allows either, c is used. In occult names and 'Chaldean' formulas especially it is often impossible to distinguish between c and t, to determine whether a superscript line over a vowel represents m or n, or to make other editorial judgements which depend on context; in these cases the transcription is perforce largely arbitrary.

Italics are used for ritual text that is to be recited, but not for dialogue. In the conjurations, chains of invocations given in unbroken sequence in the manuscript are broken into individual units (beginning with per or et per), each marked with a bullet, to clarify the structure of each invocation.

NO. 1. FOR GAINING KNOWLEDGE OF THE LIBERAL ARTS (FOLS 3r–5v)

[. . .] versus orientem. Deinde dicere [debes]:

Apolin, Maraloth, Berith, ego, talis, vos exorciso^a et coniuro ex parte dei omnipotentis, qui vos vestra eleccione iussit antra subire profundi, ut debeatis michi mittere quendam spiritum peritum dogmate omnium scienciarum, qui michi sit beniuolus, fidelis, et placidus, ad docendum omnem scienciam quam voluero,^b veniens in forma magistri, ut nullam formidinem doleam percipere. Fiat. Fiat. Item coniuro vos

^a Corrected from exorcisor.

^b MS volucriis, although the final letter is uncharacteristic for this hand.

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et [per] hec sancta nomina quorum virtute ligamini – scilicet Dobel, Vriel, Sabaoth, Semoni, Adonay, Tetragramaton, Albumay, Siloth, Moreth, Sadabin, Rodobel, Domiel, Perarabiel,^c Alatuel, nomen, nominam,^d [et] Vsobel, quatenus vos tres reges maximi et michi socii michi petenti unum de subditis vestris mittere laboretis, qui sit magister omnium scienciarum et arcium, veniens in forma humana placabilis [et] splendens^e michi, et erudiens me cum amore, ita et taliter quod in termino 30a[rum] dierum talem scienciam valeam adipisci, permittens post sumpcionem sciencie dare sibi [3v] licenciam recedendi.

Et hoc eciam tociens dici debet.

Hec vero dicta,^f depone ensem et involue in dicto panno. et facto fasciculo cuba super ipso, et aliquantulum dormias. Post sompnum vero surge et induas te, quia facto fasciculo homo se spoliatur et intrat cubiculum. ponendo dictum fasciculum sub capite. Est autem sciendum quod dictis hiis coniuracionibus sompnus accidit virtute diuina. In sompno apparent tibi tres maximi reges cum famulis innumeris, militibus et peditibus, inter quos est eciam quidam magister apparens, cui ipsi tres reges iubent. A[d] te ipsum venire paratum videbis. [Videbis] enim tres reges fulgentes mira pulchritudine, qui tibi in dicto sompno viua voce loquentur, dicentes, 'Ecce, tibi damus quod multociens postulasti.' Et dicent illi magistro, 'Sit iste tuus discipulus, quem docere te iubemus omnem scienciam siue artem quam audire voluerit. Doce ipsum taliter et erudi, vt in termino 30a[rum] dierum in quacumque sciencia^g voluerit summus inter alios habeatur.' Et videbis ipsum respondere, 'Domini mei, libentissime faciam quidquid [4r] vltis.' Hiis dictis, reges abient et magister solus remanebit, qui tibi dicet, 'Surge, ecce magister tuus.' Hiis vero dictis, excitaberis; statim apperies oculos, et videbis quendam magistrum optime indutum, qui tibi dicet, 'Da michi ensem quam^h sub capite tenes.' Tu vero dices, 'Ecce discipulus vester, paratus facere quidquid vltis.' Tamen debes habere pugillarem, et scribere omnia que tibi dicet.

Primo debes querere, 'O magister, quodⁱ est nomen vestrum?' Ipse dicit, et tu

c Or Pararabiel.

d Sic in MS.

e MS splendens.

f Sic in MS.

g MS in quam scienciam.

h Sic in MS.

i Sic in MS.

j Sic in MS.

scribas. Secundo, de quo ordine, et similiter scribe. Hiis scriptis, debes sibi postulare^k ensē; quo habito ipse recedit, dicens, 'Expecta me donec veniam.' Tu nichil dices. Magister vero recedet et fert ensē. Post cuius recessum, tu dissolves pannum vt ap[p]aret inferius. Etiam scribas in dicto circulo nomen eius scriptum per te, et scribi debet per te cum predicto sangwine. Quo scripto, involue dictum pannum et bene reconde.

Hiis factis, debes prandere solo pane et pura aqua, et illa die non egredi cameram. Et cum pransus fueris, accipe pannum et intres circulum versus Apolin. Dic sic: 'O rex Apolin, magne, potens, et venerabilis, [4v] ego famulus tuus, in te credens et omnino confidens quod tu es fortis et valens, rogo per incomprehensibilem magestatem tuam vt famulus et subiectus tuus, talis, magister meus, debeat ad me venire quam^l cicius fieri potest, per virtutem et potenciam tuam, que est magna et maxima in secula seculorum. Amen.' Et similiter dicere [debes] versus Maraloth, mutando nomen. Et versus Berich similiter. Hiis dictis, accipe de dicto sangwine et scribe in medio circuli nomen tuum cum supradicto corde, vt hic apparet inferius.^m Deinde scribe cum dicto corde in angulis panni illa nomina, vt hic apparent. [5r] Si autem sangwis unius auis non sufficeret, potes interficere quantum tibi placet.

Quibus omnibus factis, sedebis per totam diem in circulo, aspiciens ipsum, nichil loquendo. Cum vero seroⁿ fuerit, blica dictum pannum, spolia te, et intra in cubiculum, ponendo ipsum sub capite tuo. Et cum posueris,^o dic sic plana voce:

O Apolin, Maraloch, Berith, Sathan, Belialth, Belzebuc. [et] Lucifer, supplico vobis vt precipiatis magistro – in eo [loco] (nominando eius nomen) – vt ipse debeat venire cras ante solis ortum ad me et docere me talem scienciam sine aliqua fallacia, per illum qui venturus est iudicare viuos et mortuos et seculum per ignem. Amen.

Caue igitur et precaue ne signum ✕ crucis facias, propter magnum periculum in sompno. Scias quod videbis magistrum tota nocte loqui tecum, interrogans a te quam scienciam velis addiscere. Et cum dices, 'Talem', ita quod, vt dictum est, k Meaning presentare?

l Followed by ci (?), deleted.

m Circle at the bottom of fol. 4: a single band inscribed within a square. The names of the spirits Belial, Satan, Mendior Matalot, Belzebub, Lucifer, Sententino and Apolin are inscribed in and around the band, as are the four cardinal directions. Nomen magistri, de tali ordine and Nomen discipuli are marked in the centre.

n The final o, written with a superscript line, has been corrected, with the correct form sero also in the margin.

o Meaning reposueris?

tota nocte cum eo hoc loqueris. Cum itaque excitatus fueris, quod e[s]t in ipsa nocte, surge et accende candelam, et accipe dictum pannum et devolve, et in eo sede, videlicet in circulo vbi nomen tuum scriptum est ad tuum commodum, et voca nomen magistri tui, sic dicens:

O talis, de tali ordi- [5v] ne, et in magistrum michi deditus per maiores reges tuos, te deprecor vt venies^p in forma benigna, doctum me talem scienciam, [in] qua^q sim promcior omnibus mortalibus, discens ipsam cum magno gaudio, sine aliquo labore, et omni tedio derelicto. Veni igitur ex tuorum parte maiorum, qui regnant per infinita secula seculorum. Amen. Fiat, fiat, fiat.

Hiis itaque dictis, tunc aspiciens versus occidentem videbis magistrum venire cum multis discipulis, quem rogabis vt omnes abire iubeat, et statim recedunt.^r Quo facto, ipse magister dicit, ‘Quam scienciam audire desideras?’ Tu dices, ‘Talem,’ et tunc incipies.

Memento enim quod quantum tibi dicit, tantum addisces^s et memorie commendabis, et omnem scienciam quam habere volueris addisces in termino xxx^a[rum] dierum.

Et quando ipsum de camera abire volueris, plica pannum et reconde,^t et statim recedet. Et quando ipsum venire volueris, aperi pannum, et subito ibidem apparebit, continuando lecciones. Post vero terminum 30a[rum] dierum, doctus optime in scientia, fac tibi dare^u ense tuum et dic vt vadat, et cum pace recedat. Debes iterum dicere cum pro alia ipsum invocabis habenda sciencia, qui tibi dicit ad tui libitum esse paratum.

Finis est capituli sciencie, etc.

NO. 2. FOR CAUSING A PERSON TO LOSE HIS SENSES (FOLS 6r–7v)

Ad hoc igitur, vt sciencia siue ars possit ab aliquo auferri, vnde diligenter attende.^a Debes enim primo decrescente luna die sabbati ire ad illum quem ad mentem venire volueris et coram eo sic dicere plana voce:

p Sic in MS.

q MS quam.

r Sic in MS.

s MS addiscens.

t MS retunde.

u Sic in MS.

a Sic in MS.

Subintret Mirael cerebrum tuum et omnem sapientiam, sensum,^b discrecionem, [et] cogitationem diluat et aboleat. Coniuro te, Mirael,

- per omnes principes et maiores,
- et per omnia que facere voles,

et in tali quem aspicio debeas permanere donec michi libererit, et ipsum obfuscare,^c et omne quod agnoscit ammittat,^d alioquin mittam te in maris profundum, quod non egredieris in secula.

Quibus dictis, recede et prestolare donec sero fuerit. Quo facto, vade ad hostium eius et incide de ligno ipsius hostij tantum quod de ipso calamum facere possis, et ad domum redeas, et fac de ipso calamum, et de sangwine murilogi in panno lini cum ipso calamo scribe:

O Mirael, ablator sapientie, sciencie, cognicionis, et artis, adsis in sensibus talis, et spiritum facere debeas animo dementem.^e

Qua conuocatione scripta, fit in dicto panno circulus cum dicto sangwine vt hic apparet,^f vbi scribitur vt sequitur: nomen illius quem priuare volueris in medio circuli conscribitur, [cum] hoc nomine 'Mirael'. Quibus factis, debes dicere sic:

Coniuro vos decem demones [6v] malignos, videlicet Oreoth, Pinen, Ocel, Tryboy, Noryoth, Belferith, Camoy, Astaroth, Sobronoy, Sismael,

- per indiuiduum trinitatem, videlicet Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum ab utroque procedentem,
- et per tremendam et timendam diem iudicij,^g
- et per omnia que fuerunt et sunt et erunt, vt sicut in hoc circulo figurati,ⁱ circuitis talem,^j ita vere et efficaciter et existenter personam eius circuitis, et sensus eius taliter affligatis quod ignorans, demens, stultus, et mente captus^k b Followed by et.

c Corrected in margin from abfuscare.

d MS amittit.

e Sic in MS.

f Figure on fol. 6r: a single circular band, with Oreoth, Pinen, Ocel, Tryboy, Noryoth, Belferith, Camoy, Astaroth, Sobronoy and Sismael inscribed in it. In the centre of the circle Mirael and N. (for the name of the intended victim) are inscribed. Along the left side of 6r is a band labelled Hoc [or hic] est candela and the following names inscribed along it: Oreoth, Pinen, Ocel, Triboy, Norioth, Belferith, Camoy, Astaroth, Sobronoy.

g The writer began to write iudij-, then corrected the second j to c.

h MS et.

i Followed by estis.

j Followed by vt.

k MS capitis.

[7r] efficiatur. Et tu, Mirael, de cerebro eius nunquam egrediaris, manens in eo die noctuque donec ab eo abire iubebo.

Quibus sic dictis ter, iterum redeas in eadem nocte ad domum ipsius cum dicto panno et cum quodam cultello, et cum ibi fueris, volue humeros versus suum hostium, et flectens te in terram, minge in parte eius more cameli. Faciendo foueam subter[r]ando dictum pannum in eius limite,^l dic sic:

Subterro te, talem, in nomine demoniorum scriptorum circa te, quod semper ipsi demones [sint] circa te et omnis tua virtus sepulta sit.

Et cooperto dicto circulo cum terra, redeas iterum ad domum, et fac candelam, in qua sint scripta omnia contenta in circulo. Et debes ipsam facere de cera primo empta, [in] nomine et [pro] destruccione eius, cum vna acu similiter empta. Qua facta, accende ipsam et dic sic:

Sicut hec candela,^m facta in destruccionem talis, comburitur et consumatur,ⁿ ita omnis virtus et sciencia existens in ipso in demenciam conuertatur, per virtutem demoniorum in hac candela scriptorum. Et sicut vos demones hic scripti ardetis, ita nullam requiem habere possitis donec hoc duxeritis ad effectum.^o

Quibus verbis semel prolatis, dictam candelam extingwe, dicendo hec verba:

Sicut hec candela extingwitur, ita omnis virtus in tali permanens penitus consumetur.

Mane vero ipsam accende, dicendo, Sicut hec [7v] candela, etc. Item alio mane, vsque ad terminum septum dierum, computato primo die; in octavo vero die, videbis istum dementem omnino, de quo omnes mirabuntur. Mirabile est autem quod non credit se aliquem habere defectum, et omnes alios mente putat esse carentes.

Hanc igitur experienciam apud te tene, quia magne virtutis est.

Cum autem ipsum volueris in statum priorem deuenire, optime fieri potest. Die iouis, i. hora noctis, vade ad suum hostium vbi sepelisti pannum, quod dum sepellitur debet poni pannus in quodam vase vt non putrescat; sic factis omnino ipsum liberandi, et ipsum pannum desepelliendo, sic dicas:

^l Corrected from limate.

^m Followed by est.

ⁿ Presumably meaning consumitur.

^o MS affectum.

O Mirael, Oreoth, Pinen, Ocel, Triay, Moryoth, Belferith, Canay, Astaroth, Sobronoy. [et] Sismael, ego, talis, absoluo vos ut eatis ad restri libitum, et relinquatis talem in statu priori.

Quibus dictis, fer domip istum pannum, et accenso igne ligni oliue et^q prouincula et herba verbenam,^r priocias dictum pannum sub dicto igne, dicendo, Sicut ignis iste consumit hunc pannum, ita omnis ars facta per me contra talem penitus consumetur.

Combusto igne, proice dictum puluerem in aqua currenti, et omnis ars destructa erit. Cognoscet eciam se postea vir quod fuerit primo omni prefectura priuatus, credens se habuisse egritudinem, cuius occasione hec accessisse putabit, etc.

NO. 3. FOR AROUSING A WOMAN'S LOVE (FOLS 8r-11v)

. . . maxima diligencia probaui ipsam, et est periculosa, cum hec scilicet in persona, et . . .^a

Cum volueris habere amorem a quacumque muliere vis, siue longinqua siue propinqua, tam nobili quam prolipia,^b in quacumque die vel nocte vis, siue in augmento siue in amicicie detrimento, primo debes habere quandam columbam totam albam et cartam factam de cane femina dum est in amore, de qua est habere leuissimum. Et debes scire quod predicta carta potentissima est ad amorem mulieris habendum. Debes eciam habere calamum aquile. Et in loco occulto accipe dictam columbam et cum dentibus morde eam penes cor ita vt cor egrediatur, et cum calamo aquile in dicta carta cum dicto sanguine scribe nomen illius quam vis. [Debes] formare ymaginem mulieris nude quam melius scis,^c dicendo, Formo talem, N., filiam talis, quam habere desidero, nomine^d istorum sex spirituum calidorum, videlicet Tubal, Sathan, Reuces, Cupido, Afalion, Duliatius, quod ipsa me diligit super omnes riuentes istius mundi.

p Sic, for domum.[?]

q Meaning cum.[?]

r MS herbam verbenam.

s Inserted above the end in margin.

a Introductory line at top of folio, partly cut off.

b Meaning plebeia.[?]

c Sic in MS.

d Meaning in nomine.[?]

Qua facta, scribe in fronte nomen eius et hoc numen ‘Tubal’, dicendo,

*Tu es talis, filia talis, de cetero ad meam voluntatem disposita, et tu es Tubal in fronte eius.
Te iubeo permanere, ligando sensus eius capitis sui^e ad me tantummodo cupientem.*

Postea adhuc scribe in brachio suo dextro ‘Sathan’, et in [8v] sinistro ‘Reuces’. Quibus scriptis, sic dic:

Sicut tu, Sathan, et tu, Reuces, estis scripti in hac ymagine facta nomine talis, ita continuo affligatis brachia ista sua ut aliquid facere nequeat sed me amplecti desideret.

Quo facto, iterum scribe penes cor ymaginis nomen tuum, dicendo,

Sicut in corde istius ymaginis sum, ita talis, N., die noctuque me in corde suo habeat.

Quo facto, scribe supra wuluam imagnis hoc nomen ‘Cupido’, dicendo sic:

Sicut tu, Cupido, es super wuluam istius ymaginis, ita semper maneat super wuluam talis, accendendo ipsam ut omnes viros istius mundi despiciat et me tantummodo cupiat, et ignis amoris mei ipsam torqueat et inflamet.

Quo facto, scribe in crure dextro ‘Afalion’, in sinistro ‘Duliatus’. Quibus scriptis, dic:

Sicut tu Afalion et tu Duliatus estis scripti in hac ymagine, ita sedeatis in cruribus talis, affligendo crura eius propter amorem vehementem mei, quod non velit ire nec ire desideret aliquo nisi huc.

Quibus dictis, accipe^f ipsam ymaginem ambabus manibus, et flexis genibus dic sic:

Adtraxi cor et mentem talis per hanc ymaginem, et prouoco in ipsam invocacione forti quod ipsa me diligat, cupiat, et affectet, et eciam tota nocte in sompno aspiciat, per dominum nostrum Iesum Christum, qui viuit [9r] et regnat et imperat in eternum.

Quibus dictis, habeas mirram et saffranum, et facto igne, dictam ymaginem suffumiga, dicendo hanc coniuracionem:

^e Sic in MS.

^f MS accipit.

Coniuro vos omnes demones in hac ymagine scriptos, per dominos vestros quibus obedire tenemini: Sobedon, Badalam, et Berith,^g quatenus talem, cuius ymago est hoc nomine figurata, in amore meo accendere debeatis, ut die noctuque in me cogilet, in me speret, donec cum affectu meam compleuerit voluntatem. Et sicut in hac ymagine scripti et fixi estis, ita in ipsa recumbaris donec de ea faciam quidquid velim.

Hac igitur coniuratione ter dicta, et facta suffumigacione, habeas^h caude pilum cuiusdam equi, et suspende dictam cartam cum dicto pilo, ita ut moueatur ab aere, et dimitte stare; illaⁱ vero die, vel sequenti, vel alia, vel quando potes, ad illam mulierem accedas, et procul dubio libentissime te videbit, dicens [se] sine te stare non posse. Et hoc habeas pro constanti, et tuo animo^j faciet voluntatem, et super te omnia diliget^k in eternum.

Si bene seruaueris ymaginem eius nomine figuratam, in qua virtus talis existit, ymmo et de hoc magis est admirandum: hoc est signum: antequam vidisses ipsam, statim facta hac ymagine [9v] cum ad eam accesseris erit de [te] taliter filocapta quod dum te viderit, quod non recedas ab ipsius coniunccione priuatus, ymmo de omni quod volueris contentus habebis.^l

Si vero ad eam non possis accedere, siue^m timore aut loci distancia aut aliquo interueniente, tamen potes ipsam apportari facere per supradictos demones, qui ita efficaces sunt quod si esses in Oriente in vna hora ipsam ab Occasu portarent sine aliquo periculo, et similiter reportarent sine aliqua diuulgacione. Et ut sit facta ymago ut dictum est et suspensa illa die, in aliqua hora diei, sufflas in ipsa ita quod flatu tuo moueatur. Et similiter secunda die et tertia die. In nocte vero ipsius diei tercij, vel etiam in ipsa die, solus uel cum tribus sociis fidelibus, accipe dictam ymaginem et cum illo pilo liga ipsam ad collum tuum, et pendet in pectore tibi. Et habeas quandamensem, et in terra fac circulum cum dicto ense. Facto circulo, stans intus, voca socios si habeas, qui nichil faciant nisi quod in circulo sedeant et ludum videant; quos si non habueris, quod melius est.ⁿ Habeas stilum ferreum, et circa circulum scribe ut hic apparet,^o cum silentio semper.

g MS Lerith.

h MS habeat or habeac.

i MS illam.

j Perhaps for tui animi.

k Sic in MS.

l Sic in MS.

m MS sine.

n Sic in MS.

o The upper portion of 10r is occupied by a single circular band containing the names Rator, Lampoy, Despan, Brunlo, Dronoth, Maloqui, Satola, Gelbid, Mascifin, Nartim and Lodon. The centre is labelled Locus magistri.

Quo facto,^p [10r] dic hanc coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos demones in hoc circulo sculptos, quibus data est potestas et potencia ducendi et alligandi mulieres in amore virorum,

- per virtutem et potentiam maiestatis diuine,
- et per thronos et dominaciones et potestates et principatus illius qui dixit et facta sunt,
- et per illos qui non cessant clamare una voce, dicentes, 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, dominus deus sabaoth, pleni sunt celi et terra gloria tua. Osanna in excelsis. [10v] Benedictus qui venit in nomine domini. Osanna in excelsis',
- et per hec nomina pauencia et tremencia vos,^q scilicet Rator, Lampoy, Despan, Brulo, Dronoth, Maloqui, Satola, Gelbid, Mascifin, Nartim, et Lodoni,
- et per anulum istum qui hic est,
- et per innumerabiles potencias vestras et maiorum vestrorum.

quod ubicumque sitis de locis vestris sine mora surgatis et ad talem pergatis, et statim sine fallacia ipsam huc ducatis, et cum voluero ipsam reportabitis. Et de hoc nemo scenciat vel perpendat.

Qua' dicta ter, versus anulum aspiciendo, audies quandam vocem dicentem, 'Ecce nos sumus,' et statim eos videbis sex domicellos pulciores et mites, tibi eadem voce dicentes, 'Assumus hic, parati tibi parere' benigne. Dic igitur quid vis, et statim subito faciemus.' Tu autem dices, 'Eatis ad talem et michi ipsam sine mora ducatis.' Quibus dictis, subito recedent; ante horam ipsam sine lesione portabunt.

Et scias quod nullus ipsorum potest ingredi circulum, sed ipsam apportent apud ipsum, et ipsa porriget tibi manum, et intus ipsam trahis, que aliquantulum est attonita tamen vult libentissime [11r] tecum stare. Doceo eciam te quod quanto maiorem circulum facis, melius est tibi, quia in eo potes facere circulum et in ipso melius extendere. Si enim aliquid tui esset vltra signum circuli, malum esset tibi. Venta itaque muliere, omnes spiritus euanent.

Potes enim retinere hanc mulierem in dicto circulo quantum tibi placet, quia cum mulier ingreditur circulum dicere debes illis spiritibus, 'Vnus vestrum vadat ad locum a quo' talem a[p]portauistis, et in forma [eius] ibidem maneat donec ipsam hic habuero.' Hiis dictis, omnes abient cum silencio. Cum autem, illa die ac nocte ac mense ac anno quando tibi placuerit quod ipsam ad domum volueris reuertere,^u dic sic:

p Quo facto repeated at top of 10r.

q Sic in MS.

r Sc. coniuracione.

s MS parare.

t Corrected from qua.

u Sic in MS.

O vos spiritus, qui talem huc duxistis, accipite ipsam et ad domum suam portate. Et quotiens ipsam reuolueris, ipsam sis in reportando subiecti. Venite igitur per miras valencias quas ineffabiliter exercimini.

Quibus ter dictis, venient quinque spiritus, qui eam te vidente portabunt.

Memento enim, quando ipsa egreditur circulum, in dicendo 'Vale', tangere ipsam cum ymagine quam habes ad collum, quia in eternum pro hac te diliget et neminem preter te videre curabit; ymaginem semper interim quod cum muliere [11v] moraris, ad collum retinere debes, qui semper ipsi mulieri invisibilis apparebit, et cum ipsa abierit, dissolue ipsam a collo tuo et in quoddam vasculum diligenter reconde. Et ipsa recondita, dilue totum circulum et secure egrediariis. Et quando [eam] iterum ad te venire volueris, fac vt desuper dictum est.

Et nota quod experimentum est efficacissimum, et in eo nullum periculum est. Quo solo experimento Salomon habebat quascumque mulieres volebat. Et hec dicta sufficiant pro habendis mulieribus. Et debet fieri cum sollempnitatibus maximis, etc.

NO. 4. FOR GAINING DIGNITY AND HONOUR (FOLS 11v-13v)

Dicto de habendo amore mulieris, volo tibi legare artem probatissimam ad obtinendum dignitatem et honorem, statum et maximam incorruptibilem dileccionem a rege uel a pelato siue domino, et generaliter a quocumque viro volueris.

Primo igitur habeas duos lapides molles quos ad inuicem ita fricabis vt superficies ipso[rum] plane eque concordent. Quo facto, in vno sculpes formam illius quem volueris,^a incipiendo a capite, deinde vsque ad pedes, faciendo primo a parte anteriori, deinde a posteriori, sculpendo eciam coronam in capite si rex est, et sic [12r] secundum dignitatem. Qua sculpita,^b formabis in illo eciam lapide apud aliam formam tuam figuram, quam melius scieris, incipiendo a capite, vt dictum est, et a parte anteriori deinde a tergo. Quibus factis, scribe in fronte primo more sigilli nomen illius, et in tua nomen tuum. Quo facto, luna crescente die dominica in prima hora diei, habeas argentum siue stagnum, et ad ignem decola. Quo decolato, proicias in formam illius, dicendo sic:

Ego, talis, volens talem gratiam obtinere et ab eo venerari, semper honorari, similiter et timeri, formo ymaginem factam et sculplam nomine eius virtute cuius ipse me perpetue diligat ultra modum.

^a Followed by incipi, deletur.

^b Sic in MS. for sculpta.

^c MS formam.

Qua^d facta, habeas stilum ferreum, et in eius fronte sculpes hoc nomen 'Dyacom'; in pectore eius hec tria nomina, scilicet 'Pumeon', 'Terminas', et 'Peripaos'; et in spatulis hec sex nomina, videlicet 'Midam', 'Fabni', 'Gebel', 'Darail', 'Vmeloth', et 'Thereoth'; et in vmblico hoc nomen 'Byreoth'.^e Quibus scriptis, habeas pannum lineum candidissimum, et hanc ymaginem in ipsam involve. Quam involutam bene recondas.

Die vero iouis, in prima hora diei, facto igne, cola similiter stagnum et in tua forma ipsum infunde, dicendo,

Ego, talis, formo ymaginem meam et ad mei similitudi- [12v] nem, qua ego semper dominer tali et ab ipso diligar et timear in eternum.

Qua formata, similiter in alio linteolo involuas.

Et est advertendum quod ymago illius cuius vis gratiam obtinere debet esse longitudinis ipsius unius semissi, cum sculpitur in ipso lapide. Qui eciam lapis tantus debet esse quod ymago tua tertia parte ymaginis illius debeat esse maior. Et eciam in ymagine tua^f debes imponere sceptrum.

Quibus factis omnibus diligenter, ut dictum est, in sequenti die veneris, prima hora eius, suffumiga ymaginem illius ad fumum horum aromaticum, scilicet cinamomi, piperis longi, et herba agrimonia, dicendo sic:

Ego, talis, exorzizo te, ymaginem,^h nomine talis formatam,

- per inseparabilem unicam et indiuiduam trinitatem,
- et per omnes thronos, dominaciones, et potestates, et principatus,
- et [per potenciam] omnium creaturarum,

ut per tui virtutem obtineam gratiam et amorem talis cuius nomine facta es.

Quibus ter dictis, sic proferas:

O Dyacon, Pumeon, Termine, Peripaos, Midain, Fabin, Gebel, Dorayl, Vmeloth, Tereoth, et Bireoth, spiritus benignissimi et concordiamⁱ seminantes, ego, talis, cum instantia magna vos deprecor, vobis supplico, vos rogitō, per unicum dei filium, qui sui d Sc. ymagine.

e The forms of these names vary even within this experiment: Dyacom appears on fol. 12^r as Dyacon; Terminas as Termine; Midam as Midain; Fabni as Fabin; Darail as Dorayl; Thereoth as Tereoth, and Byreoth as Bireoth.

f Corrected in MS from tuam.

g Sic in MS, corrected from what appears to be exorzizo.

h Sic in MS.

i MS concordium.

sanguinis effusione humanum genus mortuum suscitauit, et per hanc ymaginem formata- [13r] tam nomine talis ipsum iuxta me taliter aligetis, ut me super omnes mortales veneretur, nunquam a meo consensui descendens, sed meis semper parens preceptibus. Michi studeat complacere, per eundem dominum nostrum Ihesum Christum, qui uiuit et regnat in secula seculorum. Amen.

Qua oratione dicta, accipe tuam ymaginem et ipsam in dextra teneas, aliam autem in sinistra, et iunge illam tue, sic dicendo ter: 'Subiecit populos nobis, et gentes sub pedibus nostris' [Ps. 46:4 Vulg.]. Quo dicto, habeas quandam catenulam ferream, et ad collum ipsius ymaginis liga, ponendo aliud capud in manu dextera tue ymaginis. Quo posito, bene ligato, ita sic dices:

Sicut tu, ymago formata nomine talis, es subpedita et ligata mee ymagini, ita talis in eternum sit michi penitus alligatus.

Quo dicto, capias cum tuis manibus ambas manus ymaginis, et retro flectens dic:^k

Ligo per hanc ymaginem manus talis, quod manus eius perpetuo nullam vim habeant contra me.

Flecte eciam predictae ymaginis caput versus terram, sic dicendo:

Sicut ymago hec, facta nomine talis, manet coram me flexa ceruice, ita talis nunquam a mei voluntate discedat, sed me continue sequatur et michi semper seruiet^l et me in eternum diligat super omnes, me veneretur, et michi studeat applaudere.

Quo dicto, faciendo semper suffumigacionem, accipe [13v] tuam ymaginem et a tergo ipsius pone aliam, ita quod os suum tangat humeros tue ymaginis, et ponendo sic dicas:

Sicut hec ymago, facta et condita nomine talis, stat apud istam ymaginem factam nomine mei cum maxima subiectione; ita talis sit subtritus et subiectus michi donec iste ymagines fuerint conseruale.

Quibus dictis, involue ipsas, ut dictum est, in quodam alio linteolo mundissimo.

Quas involutas in quodam vasculo pone et clam porta per ciuitatem et coram eius presenciam in habitaculo eius, si potes; et hoc facere debes per totam diem.

j Corrected in both text and margin from scissu.

k MS dicendo.

l Sic in MS for seruiat.

In sero, autem, debes sepellire has ymagines in tali loco et ita infra, v̇t [non] reperiantur, et videbis mirabilia. Si autem coram ipso aut eius habitaculum pergere non valeres, subterra, vt dictum est, et ipsas^m vbicumque tibi placet, et ab ipso super omnia diligeris.

Hoc enim experimentumⁿ vsus fuit Parmen[i]des ad regis Persarum gratiam obtinendam.

NO. 5. FOR AROUSING HATRED BETWEEN FRIENDS (FOLS 13v–15r)

Ad faciendum odium inter diligentes.^a

Restat etiam vt de odio et inimicitia inter diligentes ponere pertractemus.

Cum igitur inter duos viros siue mulieres siue masculum et feminam seminare volueris inimiciciam et^b odium capitalem, necesse est vt accipias duos lapides viuos et recondes^c vnus ponderis, qui debent esse fluminei, et in vno debes sculpire nomen vnus cum hiis [14r] nominibus: Cartutay, Momabel, Sobil, et Geteritacon. Et in altero, nomen alt[er]ius et hec nomina, scilicet Puzanil, Pimaton, Folfitoy, et Mansator. Que nomina sunt valde se odencia. Quibus sculptis, vni videlicet illum qui factus est nomine illius, debes sub ianua eius limine^d subterrare si potes, si autem non, sepelias sub limine^e cuiusdam domus inhabitate, et similiter alium sub limine^f alterius, vt dictum est, vel sub cuiusdam domus, vt supra scriptum est, et^g ibi stare permittas septem diebus et septem noctibus.

Quo facto, ante solis ortum remoueas et in locum oculum ambas facias^h et ipsas in ignem proicias, sic dicendo:

Coniuro vos spiritus inimicissimos, per eterni dei gloriam, quod inter talem et talem, quorum nomina hic in illis lapidibus sculpta permanent, quantum odium inter vos est, tantum inter ipsos seminetis et inseratis.

m Sic in MS; meaning not altogether clear, but perhaps et should be deleted.

n Sic in MS.

a Title repeated in margin.

b ac added between lines.

c vn deleted.

d MS limite.

e MS limite.

f MS limite.

g MS et et.

h Sic in MS.

Quibus ter dictis, ipso[s] lapides de igne afferas, sic dicendo: 'Cum irascetur furor eorum in nos, forsitan aqua absorbuisset nos' [Ps. 123:3f. Vulg.]. Quo dicto, proiciamusⁱ ipsos in aqua frigidissima, et in ipsa stare permittite sereno celo tribus diebus et noctibus.

Quarto autem die, accipias ipsos et suffumiga eum cum fumo sulphuris, dicendo sic:

Coniuro vos omnes demones odiosos et malignos, inuidios et discordes,

- per unitatem Sancti Spiritus Paracliti manentis in Patre et Filio et Spiritu Sancto,^j
- et per eternitatem omnium creatorum,
- et per omnes sanctos et sanctas dei,
- et per hec sancta nomina, virtute quorum dominator olimpi celum et terram est formare dignatus, scilicet 'Aa', [14v] 'Sabaoth', 'Helyn', et 'Abacel',
- et per omnes reges et dominatores inferni,
- et per hec nomina demonum, videlicet 'Apolyn', 'Gebel', 'Astaroth', 'Tereol', 'Falmar', et 'Tyroces', quatenus quantum odium inter vos existit et quantum inter Caym et Abel fuit, tantum inter talem et talem protinus inseratis. Accendite itaque ipsos, et taliter inflammetis quod vnus alterum videre non valeat, ymo vno reliquum in innumerabili odio rebellis affligat.^k Remoueat ab ipsis omnis amor, dileccio, fraternitas, et compago; ad inimiciciam ac omne odium maximum conuertantur.

Quibus ter dictis, suffumigando ipsos semper, reconde.

Nocte vero sequenti, colidas dictos lapides simul et vnum super reliquum proicias, sic dicendo:

Non collido hos lapides, ymo col[l]ido talem et talem, quorum nomina hic sculpta sunt, quod vnus alterum continuo affligat et inmitigabili odio se ad inuicem de cetrero crucient.

Et sic facias singula nocte et singula die ter per aliquos dies. Et videbis statim siue audies quod inimici efficientur et se odient animo, et vnus alterum videre non valent.^l

Si enim omnino ipsos disiungere voles, et voles vnum ab altero disgregare et vnus alterum fugiat, facias hoc modo. Surge die sabbati ante solis ortum, decrescente luna, et maxime quando est in combustione, et ire versus solis ortum

i Sic in MS, for proice?

j Sic in MS.

k Sic in MS.

l Sic in MS.

facias.^m Qua facta, habeas dictos lapides illuc tecum [15r] latos, et fortiter ipsos ad inuicem frica, pulsando vnum super alterum, sic dicendo:

Non colido hasⁿ lapides, etc.

Quo dicto ter, sepelias quem volueris. Deinde recede et versus occidentum vade et ibi fac foueam, et aliam^o ibi sepelias, dicendo sic:

Sicut disiunxi hos lapides, ita talis^p se disiungat a tali, et oppositi sint sicut isti lapides.

Quo sepulto, recede. Et videbis disiungi et vnum ab altero separari.

Hoc enim experimentum occultandum est, quia ineffabilis in eo virtus existit. Nullum enim remedium invenitur ante^q ipsi disiungantur et se mordaciter odiant.

Cum vero volueris ad primam amicitiam remeare, desepeliendi sunt predicti lapides et in fornace ponendi; qui, bene cocti, minutissime terantur, et ipsos cum aqua ad invicem inpasta et siccare permitte. Quo siccat, in fluminis aqua proicias, dicendo, Tollatur omnis inimicitia et ira que fuit inter talem et talem, et in amorem pristinum reuertantur, per misericordiam pii dei, qui non respicit malicias peccatorum. Amen.

Et scias quod per hec statim coniunguntur, et omnis ira tollitur, et pristina pace fruuntur.

NO. 6. FOR OBTAINING A BANQUET (FOLS 15r–18v)

Artem quam in tua curia vidisti me tociens exercere, videlicet ad prouocandum dapiferos. Primo debet fieri invocacio xv^a spirituum hoc modo: In primo, extra villam debes accedere, luna crescente, die iouis [15v] vel die dominica, in meridie, et debes tecum ferre ensem lucidissimum et auem vppupam, et cum dicto ense in quodam remoto loco facere circulos. Quibus factis, cum acie predictae^b ensis scribere debes xvj nomina vt inferius apparebit in^c illa figura. Quibus factis, debes

^m Sic in MS.

ⁿ Sic in MS for hos.

^o Sic in MS.

^p MS talis et talis.

^q Sic in MS.

^a Sic in MS.

^b Sic in MS.

^c MS et.

figere versus orientem in interiori circulo dictum ensem, vt hec ratio demonstrat.^d Quo facto, debes tibi taliter alligare dictam vppupam vt discedere non valeat de in- [16r] teriori circulo, in quo tu stare debes.

Quo facto, genibus flexis, respiciendo versus orientem et capiendo dictum ensem ambabus manibus, sic^e proferas:

Oymelor, Demefin, Lamair, Masair, Symofor, Rodobayl, Tentetos, Lotobor, Memoyr, Tamafin, Leutaber, Tatomofon, Faubair, Selutabel, Rimasor, Syrama, spiritus iocundissimi, ylares, et gaudentes, ego, talis, vos adiuro

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et [per] filium vnici dei potentissimi, viui et veri, qui propter nos et nostram salutem descendit de celis et incarnatus est de Spiritu Sancto, ex pura et intemerata ac incorrupta virgine Maria,
- et per natiuitatem et passionem ac resurrectionem domini nostri Iesu Christi, filij dei veri,
- et per sanctum lauacrum baptismatis quo quisque saluatur,
- et per solem et lunam et omnia sidera celestia,
- et per omnia illa que [potenciam] habent vos terrere et constringere, et virtute quorum ad nos vocantibus^f oportet accedere, quatenus huc sine mora ad me venire debeatis in forma miti, placida, et iocunda, patifacere quidquid dicam.

Qua dicta duodecies^g – videlicet primo quater versus orientem, secundo quater versus meridiem, tercio quater versus occidentem, quarto et vltimo quater versus aquilonem – portando semper ensem in manu, et cum [16v] dicis coniurationem, figiendo^h semper ipsum in quolibet loco; deinde pone vbi primo erat dicta coniuracio, vt dictum est.

d Diagram on fol. 15^v: a quadruple band with a pentangle inscribed in the centre, a sword depicted at the top (extending downward across all four bands, with its point on the top of the pentangle) and other figures (likewise extending across all four bands) on the upper left, upper right, lower right, and lower left. The cardinal directions are given outside the outermost band, with Oriens on top. Within the bands sixteen names are inscribed: Oymelor, Symofos [on 16^r: Symofor; on 17^v: Simofor], Manoir [on 16^r: Memoyr; on 17^v: Memoir] and Faubair in the outermost band; Demefin, Rodobayl [on 17^v: Rodobail], Tamafin and Abelutabel [on 16^r: Selutabel; on 17^v: Belutabel] in the next; Lamair, Tentetos, Leutaber [on 17^v: Zeugaber] and Rimasor in the next; and Masair, Lotobor, Tatomofon and Sirama [on 16^r: Syrama] in the innermost.

e Corrected in MS from sicut.

f Sic in MS, for ad nos vocantes oportet vos accedere?

g Sic in MS.

h Sic in MS for figendo or, rather, fige.

Qua dicta, semper genibus flexis, iterum volue te versus orientem, ténendo nunc ense per manum dexteram, et accipiendo vppupam per sinistram, sic dicas:

Venite, o prenominati spiritus, venite ad me, venite, quoniam ego precipio vobis per eternam dei gloriam. Amen.

Qua dicta semel, volue te cum ense et vppupa versus occidentem, et videbis xvi milites decoros et strenuos, qui tibi dicent, ‘Vocasti nos et ad te venimus, parare subiecti. Pete secure quid vis, quoniam tibi sumus in obediendo parati.’ Tu autem dices, ‘Facite michi videre vestram potenciam, vt aspiciam mensas cum discumbentibus multis cum inprandionibus infinitis.’ Qui tibi respondebunt [se] libenter velle facere.

Et statim venient domicelli multi, apportantes mensas tripedes, manutergia, et alia necessaria. Post hec venient nobilissime gentes, qui discumbent, et pincernas ibidem seruientes et apportantes infinita cibaria. Et audies cantus, melodias, et tripudiantes videbis et ludos innumeros. Et scias quod illi duodecim^k non discedant a te, stantes apud circulos et extra, et tecum loquentes et videntes. [Debes] eciam scire quod ad te de illis discumbentibus apud circulos venient tres reges, [17r] rogantes te vt cum ipsis commestum vadas. Et tum respondebis te aliquo modo non posse discedere. Quibus dictis, ipsi subito ad discumbentes reuertentur, dicentes eis de circulo te mouere non velle, quos audies. Quibus dictis, mittebunt^l per vnum pincernam de qualibet dape, de qua secure comedas, et de ipsa porrige illis xvi apud circulum stantibus, et ipsi eciam de ea comedent.^m Post hec, videbis omnes a mensis discedere et ordinate equos ascendere.

Et demum omnes a tuis oculis euanebunt, preter illos xij,ⁿ qui, stantes coram te, dicent, ‘Nonne placuit tibi ludus noster?’ Quibus tu hillariter respondebis quod sic. Et facta responsione, ipsi petent a te vppupam, que continuo trepidabit, quod mirum est. Quibus tu sic dices: ‘Volo vobis vppupam dare si iurabitis ad me venire, faciendo hunc ludum quotiens michi placuerit.’ Qui dicent se esse iurare paratos. [Ad] quos librum quandam facias apportare, quem subito apportabunt, et in ipso hoc modo iurare facias:

i Corrected from prenominate.

j Sic in MS for pareti et or parere?

k Sic in MS.

l MS mittentibus.

m MS comedentur.

n Sic in MS.

Iuramus omnes duodecim^o in hoc sacrato libro

- per illum deum viuum et verum, qui nos et omnia creauit,
- et per dominos quos timemus et adoramus,
- et per legem quam obseruamus,

ad te sine mora venire quocienscumque vocaueris nos, et mensas parari facere, [17v] sicut et adhuc melius vt vidisti.

Et statim iurabunt.

Et cum iurauerint, dabis eis vppupam, quam cum habuerint a te petent licenciam recedendi. Quibus dabis hoc modo, dicendo, 'Pergite quo affectatis accedere, et estote solliciti^p michi.' Qui dicent [se] esse tibi de cetero obligatos. Hiis dictis, abeunt, similiter et tu egredere de circulis et ipsos aboleas vt nullus appareat, et tuum ense ferendo recedas.

Debes igitur attendere quod vppupa magne virtutis est nigromanticis et demones invocantibus,^q quapropter ipsa multo^r vtimur ad^s nostri tutelam.

Cum enim clam aut palam aut vbicumque ipsos ad te venire volueris, respicias in libro suprascriptos circulos et figuras, legendo submissa voce nomina in ipsis existencia. Quibus inspectis et semel lectis, lege hanc coniuracionem semel:

Oymelor, Demefin, Lamair, Masair, Simofor, Rodobail, Tentetos, Lotobor, Memoir, Tamafin, Zeugaber, Tatomofof, Faubair, Belutabel, Rimasor, et Sirama, rogo vos, coniuro et adiuro per dei veram maiestatem, vt hic venire faciatis subditos vestros, qui apportent huc cibaria, et primo talem et talem, et faciant pulcherimum festum cum iocis, canticis, choreis, et tripudiis, et ge- [18r] neraliter cum omnibus que^t circumstantibus corda letificent [cf. Ps. 103:15 Vulg.].

Qua semel lecta, splendidissimi venient domicelli parantes mensas pulcherrimas. Quibus paratis, audies tubas, cytaras, et cantus innumeros. Cum enim alta voce dices, 'Apportate aquam', statim apportabitur. Et similiter, 'Ferantur epule', et statim feruntur. Et erunt pincerne et dappiferi optime seruientes, et domicelle pulcherrime, et instruentes, facientes innumerabilia sollacia. Et potes facere apportari, si tibi placet, inprandioni[um] mille maneries, que valde et^u ultra modum sapient comedentibus.

o Sic in MS.

p MS sollicite.

q Followed by quem.

r MS multa.

s MS in ad.

t MS qui.

u Followed by p, deleted.

Debes itaque scire quod quanto magis comedunt, multo plus famescunt, quia apparentur sicut dapes, tamen non^v existent, ita quod si famelicus in illis esset credens illis dapibus saciari, vt si non comederet procul dubio moreretur.

Et quando volueris ludum destruere, dic vt mensas accipiant. Eciam acceptis statim mensis,^w omnes astantes ibidem permanebunt. Quos si voles cantare aut sonare aut omnem ludum facere, dic, 'Sic fiat,' et videbis affectum,^x quoniam hij sunt spiritus ludi et omnis solacij, qui facient omnia dicta sibi. Et cum volueris ipsos abire, dic sic: 'O vos omnes, recedite, et quociens vos vocabo ad me, omni causa remota pergetis.' Qui respondebunt, 'Libentissime faciemus.' Et ipsis recessis, omnes [18v] exiuerint, de hac arte stupentes.

Et hic finitur ars illa, que est quasi apud hodiernos ignota, quam Matheus Hispanus totaliter ignorauit, etc.

NO. 7. FOR OBTAINING A CASTLE (FOLS 18v–21r)

Experimenta formosissima ad conuocandum spiritus vt homo faciat^a apparere castrum pulcherrimum et fulcitum, siue ad prouocandum armatorum innumeras^b legiones.^c

Et eciam^d vna^e alia experientia ad prouocandum spiritus vt homo faciat apparere castrum pulcherimum et fulcitum, siue ad prouocandum armatorum innumeras legiones,^f quod leuiter fieri potest, et intra alia pulcherimum reputatur.

Vade primo, luna 10, sereno celo, extra villam ad aliquem locum segregatum et secretum, portans tecum lac et mel, de quo per acrem aspergere debes. Et discalciatus, nudo capite, genibus flexis, versus occidentem sic lege:

O Vsy, Salaul, Silitor, Demor, Zanno, Syrtroy, Risbel, Cutroy, Lytay, Onor, Molo, Pumotor, Tami, Oor, et Ym,^g spiritus armigeri, quibus proprium est arma deferre et ubicunque vltis sensus humano[s] decipere, ego, talis, vos coniuro et exorcizo et invoco, v Followed by sunt.

w MS mensas.

x Meaning effectum?

a MS faciant.

b MS innumerasl.

c Heading underlined in text and repeated in margin.

d enim written above, invading preceding line.

e Written above alia, also invading preceding line.

f This repetition may be erroneous, or may be a reference to the repetition of the experiment (fol. 20r) or to the testimonial anecdote (fols 20r–21r).

g Silitor appears on fol. 20r as Silitol; Demor appears on fol. 20r as Denior; Zanno appears on fol. 19r as Zanno, with the note added uel Zaimo, and on fol. 20r as Zaimo; Risbel appears on fol. 20r as Ristel; Lytay appears on fol. 19r as Litor and on fol. 20r as Lytoy; Pumotor appears on fol. 20r as Pumiotor; Tami appears on fol. 20r as Tamy; Oor appears on fol. 19r as Oor, with the note added uel Dor, and on fol. 20r as Dor.

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum, que sancta trinitas nu[n]cupatur,
- et per creatorem celi et terre et visibilium omnium et invisibilium,
- et per illum qui hominem de limo terre formauit,
- et per enunciationem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- et per eius natiuitatem,
- et per eius mortem et passionem,
- et per eius resurrectionem,
- et per eius ascensionem.

Item [19r] ego coniuro vos omnes prenomatos^h demones,

- per piam et misericordissimam et intemeratam ac incorruptam virginem Mariam, matrem domini nostri Ihesu Christi, qui pro miseris peccatoribus mortem sumens nos ad celestem patriam reuocauit.

Item ego coniuro vos supradictos spiritus,

- per omnes sanctos et sanctas dei,
- et per omnes apostolos, martires, confessores, virgines, et viduas,
- et per hec preciosissima ac ineffabilia nomina omnium creatoris, quibus omnes ligamini, et queⁱ terrent omnia celestia, terrestria, et infernalialia, scilicet Aa, Ely, Sother, Adonay, Cel,^j Sabaoth, Messyas, Alazabra, et Osian.

Item ego coniuro vos et exorcizo

- per virtutem et potenciam omnium principum, regum, dominorum, et maiorum vestrorum,
- et per virtutem et possibilitatem ac potenciam vestram,
- et per habitaculum vestrum, cuius hec est forma,^k
- et per omnes figuras in ipso permanentes,

quatenus vos, insolubiler ad mei potenciam alligati, ad me sine prestolacione venire debeatis, in tali habitu vt me aliquid non terreatis, [19v] subiecti et parati facere ac demonstrare michi omnia que voluero, et hoc facere debeatis et velit[is] per omnia que in celo et in terra morantur.

Qua lecta semel versus occidentem, similiter [lege] versus meridiem, orientem, et aquilonem.

Et a longe videbis continuam commituiam turbam armatorum versus te venientem, qui premittent^l tibi quendam scutiferum, dicentem quod illi ad te ^h Followed by spiritus, deleted.

ⁱ MS quem.

^j Meaning El?

^k Figure at bottom of fol. 19r: double band, with O Vsyr, Salaul, Silitor, Demor, Zanno [outside outer band: uel Zaimo], Syrtroy, Risbel, Cutroy, Litor in the outer band, and Onor, Moloy, Pumotor, Tami, Oor [inside inner band: uel Dor], et Ym, spiritus armigeri, in the inner band. Locus magistri is marked in centre.

^l MS permittent.

veniunt quos vocasti. Cui dices sic: 'Vade ad eos, et dic ipsis vt in tali condicione ad me veniant vt nullum timeam,^m sed secure permaneam cum ipsis.' Quo dicto, statim ad eos redibit.

Qui post modicum interuallum venient ad te. Quibus visis, ostende eisⁿ statim hunc circulum, qui habet multum ipsos 15 demones pauentare (uel spanentare),^o quem ipsi aspicient, dicentes, 'Secure quid vis pete, quoniam per nos tibi omnino fiet.' Quibus tunc dices quod istum suum circulum taliter debeant consecrare vt quandocumque ipsum aspexeris, vocando ipsos, ad te debeant velociter venire,^p debentes illud facere quod est in ipsis naturale, scilicet facere^q apparere fortilicias et castra cum foueis et cum multitudine armatorum. Qui dicent [se] hoc facere velle. Quibus porriges librum, et videbis quemlibet ipsorum super ipsum manum inponere et aliqua verba loqui, que non intelliges. Hoc facto, ipsum tibi restituent.

Quo restituto, rogabunt te vt ipsos abire permittas, quia a te non possunt nisi licencia petita. Quibus dices, 'Facite hic castrum, vt vi- [20r] deam vestri efficaciam.' Qui statim circa te castrum facient, cum multis aliis, in medio cuius castri te videbis, et ibidem militum maxima multitudo [erit]. Tamen isti quindecim a te discedere non valebunt. Post enim huius hore spacium, te rogabunt vt a te discedere possint. Quibus dic, 'Estote michi parati quocienscumque hunc circulum aspiciam, vocando vos, et subito receditis.' Qui iurabunt a[d] te venire continuo. Quo dicto, dic vt recedant quocumque ire desiderant. Et tunc ludus totaliter destruetur, et nullus ibidem apparebit.

Hiis factis, domum remea, custodiendo librum bene in quo virtus totalis existit. Quando vero enim pulcherime artem volueris operari, aspicias circulum, legendo nomina; incipiendo ab oriente, sic dices:

O V̄syr, Salaul, Silitol, Denior, Zaimo, Syrtroy, Ristel, Cutroy, Lyloy, Onor, Moloy, Pumiotor, Tamy, Dor, Ym, voco vos vt hic venire debeatis per consecracionem huius circuli, in quo signa vestra permanent, et michi in omnibus istis apparere faciatis castrum fortissimum, cum profundis foueis, et militum et peditum cum maxima commitiua.

m First two letters corrected in MS.

n Followed by hoc circulum, deleted.

o Parentheses inserted on the assumption that uel spanentare is meant as an alternative reading. For qui habet . . . pauentare uel spanentare read perhaps qui facit . . . pavere or pavescere.

p Followed by et proficisti, deleted.

q MS faciendi.

r The e is misshapen, and another e is written above it.

s Sic in MS.

Et subito videbitur ibi castrum pulcherrimum¹ cum omnibus necessariis. Quod si vis ingredi, poteris, quia continuo miles tecum stabit.^u cui omne quod voles apparere precipias et fieri faciat.

Cum semel ego hanc artem [probare volebam], exercui eam cum imperatore, quem multi nobiles comitabant, qui venando per quandam obscuram siluam pergabant. Et hunc modum tenui. Primo inspexi circulum, vocando supradictos demones [20v] plana voce. Et tunc statim venit ad me quidam speciosus miles, quem nullus preter me valebat aspicere, qui ad me dixit, 'Ego sum vnus de vocatis spiritibus, ab aliis ad te missus, qui nominor Salaul, cui precipias quid tibi placet petere, et statim fiet.' Cui dixi, 'Volo vt apparere facias istis vnam legionem armatorum, quam imperator et alij secum stantes ipsos^v credent esse rebelles.' Qui dixit, 'Factum est.' Et tunc omnes comites et eciam imperator^w respexerunt versus aquilonem, et a longe viderunt versus ipsos venire et equitum et militum innumerabilem multitudinem, a quibus vnus discessit, et ante magne hore spacium venit ad imperatorem, tremendo dicens, 'Domine imperator, ecce videte gentes sine numero qui contra vos veniunt, iurantes vos et omnes vestros comites mori tradere, et vestros dure^x interficere.' Quo audito, imperator et comites^y quid deberent agere nesciebant.^z Et interim ipsi spiritus apropinquabant. Quos imperator et alij videntes et audientes, ipsorum instrumenta terrencia fugere tunc ceperunt, et isti sequentes ipsos et sagitando vna voce clamabant, 'Fugere non potestis hodie mortem!' Et tunc ego dixi, 'O Salaul, fac ante imperatorem et suos unum castrum mirantissimum,^a quod imperator et alij ingredientur.' Et factum est. Tunc factum est tutissimum castrum comitum optime,^b cum turribus et foueis, depressor^c ponte, quod vide-[21r] batur optime et plenum esse^d spendiariis, clamantibus, 'O domine imperator, ingredi cum tuis sociis festinanter!' Qui ipsum intrauerunt, in quo videbantur esse famuli et multi amici imperatoris; existimauit se ibi inuenisse se viriliter defendentes. Quibus ingressis, leuauerunt pontem et se defendere t Added in margin.

u Note added in bottom margin: uel quia continuo quidam milites tecum stabunt.

v Sic in MS.

w MS imperator et eciam.

x e repeated above line.

y Followed by territus, deleted.

z MS nesciebat.

a Followed by comitum, deleted.

b optime added in margin.

c MS depresso.

d Followed by spendiariis, deleted.

ceperunt. Tunc illi spiritus cum machinis^e castrum mirifice totaliter expugnabant. Quapropter imperator et alij sui, valde territi, magis timebant.

Tunc dixit michi Salaul, 'Non habemus potenciam hic' morandi nisi vno quadrante, ita quod recedere nos oportet.' Et tunc, recesso castro et expugnantibus^f et ipsis recedentibus castrum et omnia euenerunt.^g Imperator et alij sui tunc viderunt et invenerunt se in quadam^h palude, de quo admirati sunt valde. Quibus dixi, 'Negocium ex hoc maximum fuit festum.' Et ad ciuitatem remeatis, de sero cenauimus. Quibus sequentem experienciam post cenam feci.

Memento quod ars predicta nisi vno quadrante durare non potest, nisi durabit vnum quadrantem vna vice, etc.

NO. 8. FOR OBTAINING A BOAT (FOLS 21r-23r)

Vt vbicumque sis possis habere nauem, in qua tu cum quibuscumque voles quocumque ferris^a vadas: ieiunus^b die lune; ipsa die, luna crescente, ad celum serenum, id est sereno celo, solus [sis] in loco remoto, et fer tecum vnam [21v] costam hominis siue mulieris mortui, quam primo acuire debes, et facere cum ipsa in terra has figuras cum nominibus et aliis omnibus contentis in ipso circulo, vt hic apparet.^c Quo facto, debes ingredi signatum locum, et voluendo te circa circulum, suffumiga ipsum cum medulla mortui, vt dictum est.

Quo facto, audies per aerem voces, facta suffumigacione; quibus auditis, hanc coniurationem dices versus occidentem, vt scriptum est:

Fyrin (quod^d sic dicas: O Fyrin), Dyspil, Onorox, Sysabel, Cotroy, Tyroxy, Orooth, [22r]

e Followed by et.

f Followed by manendi, deleted.

g MS expugnantibus.

h Perhaps for: recesso castro, et expugnantibus recedentibus, castrum et omnia euenerunt.

i Followed by plade (deleted) plade (deleted) uel.

a Meaning vates?

b u partly covered by blot.

c Figure on fol. 21: a single circular band in which are inscribed the names Fyrin, Dyspil, Onorox, Sysabel, Cotroy, Tyrox, Rimel and Orooth. A horizontal band bisects the circle, and a vertical band bisects the upper portion of the circle. A closed crescent shape (presumably representing a ship) appears in the upper two-thirds of the circle, with two dots beneath it at the prow and the stern. Within this crescent shape, below the horizontal band, is the inscription Hic magister cum suis sociis. The position Occidens is marked just inside the circular band, at the bottom.

d MS qui.

Rimel, spiritus^e habitatores aque, qui naues nauigantium periclitare conamini, ego vos coniuro et exorcizo, et prouoco vos, ubicumque sitis, aut in oriente aut in occidente aut in meridie aut in aquilone, aut in aquis aut in terris,

- per indiuiduam ac inseparabilem trinitatem que in tribus personis existit, scilicet Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum ab utroque procedentem,
- et per illum qui perpetuus et eternus est,
- et per illum qui concessit nobis gratiam in inferno non stare.

Item, ego coniuro vos^f et constringo vos

- per quatuor flumina paradysi,
- et per aduentum domini nostri Ihesu Christi, qui frangens vectes ferreos sanctos patres de tenebris extraxit ad lucem.

Item ego coniuro vos

- per uultum, manus et pedes, atque plagas Ihesu Christi, ut hic venire debeatis, vos octo^g spiritus prenominati, ut vos videam in forma na[u]tarum, et hoc sine prestolacione^h aliqua faciatis. Item ego coniuro vos et impero atque precipio vobis
- per potenciam et dignitatem Luciferi, Aphaleon, et Neutron, ut nullam requiem habeatis donec ad me veniatis,ⁱ ut dixi. Venite, quia ego vos advoco ex parte domini dei Sabaoth, quo et gloria cuius celi et vniversa terra est repleta.

Qua semel dicta, tenendo costam semper in manu dextra, videbis octo nautasⁱ cum magna reuerencia et timore dicentes, [22v] ‘Ecce, mittimur ad te; precipe nobis de omnibus ad nos pertinentibus, et erit sine mora fulcitum.’ Quibus dicis, ‘Volo vos coniurare ac promittere michi tot debeatis ad me venire teneamini cum a me fueritis coniurati.’ Qui maximum^k facient sacramentum ad te venire et redire quandocumque libuerit, tuam parati facere voluntatem. Hoc iurato, sic dices: ‘Ego precipio vobis ut hunc circulum cum naui capiat et ad talem locum sine mora me feratis.’ Hiis dictis, videbis ipsos cum ramis^l ingredi nauim et imponere vela, et incipient nauigare. Et scias quod tibi videbitur esse in profundo maris, et in paruo temporis spacio voles quocumque ferris.^m Quibus eciam

^e Followed by habitares, deleted.

^f MS te.

^g Initial o corrected from v.

^h MS prestilacione.

ⁱ MS veneatis.

^j MS naues.

^k MS has extraneous line over the x.

^l MS romis.

^m Sic in MS, perhaps for quocumque vis te feret or volabis quocumque vis.

precipias vt ad locum a quo acceperunt te instantissime reportent, qui statim facient. Et cum illicⁿ fueris reportatus, dic eis eciam quod reuenient, quod hec omnia sine fraude facient, eis quocienscumque iubebis, qui statim iurabunt ad te venire velociter quando eis vocaueris, et te solum vel cum quibus volueris in nauī portare quocumque tibi placuerit accedere.

Quibus iuratis, des licenciam recedenti. Quibus recessis, aboleas circulum, et costam subterra ibi.

Cum igitur tu solus uel cum aliis voluntatem habueris nauigandi, cum ferro uel cum ligno uel digito vel cum aliquo signante fac circulum cum aliis, vt superius demonstraui, et cum aliis ingredi supradictum locum, dicens eis vt timere non de- [23r] beant, fingens eis aliquid.^o Et cum omnes ingressi fuerint, sic legas semel:

O Syrim, Dyspyl, Onoroy, Sisabel, Cotroy, Tyroy, Orooth, [et] Rimel, sculpti in hoc circulo, ego inuoco vos per vestram subieccionem michi factam, vt statim sine mora subito et incontinenti hinc^o debeatis accedere, miles, subiecti, parati et obedire michi et tanquam na[u]te hunc circulum cum hac nauī figuram vestram debeatis assumere, et nauigando debeatis nos portare ad talem locum ad quem intendimus profiscisci.¹

Et^r conuocatione lecta, venient statim in nauī octo naute placabiles, dicentes tibi, 'O viri,^s quo ire intenditis?' Quibus tu dices, omnibus audientibus, 'Ad talem locum.' Tunc nauis et omnes^t in aqua esse videbuntur,^u et istos velociter nauigare, aspiciens qui nauigant,^v et^w ad locum optatum [venietis] vnus in[fra] hore spacium. Et cum ibi fueris, si in ipso loco manere volueris, dic nautis vt abiant, parati ipsum officium reassumere^x et execucioni mandare quando eos invocaueris. Qui^y subito, hoc audito, recedent. Et cum volueris remeare vel alias pergere, voca ipsos vt dictum est, et omnia facient.

n MS illis.

o Sic in MS.

p Sic in MS, meaning huc.

q Corrected in margin from perfecisti.

r MS Aut.

s O viri added in margin.

t et omnes added in margin.

u MS videbitur, assuming nauis alone as the subject.

v Sic in MS.

w Followed by epulent, deleted.

x MS reassumere.

y MS Quo.

Et scias diligenter quod in ipsa naui similiter potest fieri nominacio sanctorum, sicut in vera cristianitate, quia hij spiritus sunt inter bonum et malum, non in inferno, non in paradyso morantes, quibus hanc artem facere proprium est. Et circulus ille insignia sua est.

Hoc enim experimentum vidi multos esse peritos, tamen aliter et aliter; hic autem modus est verus, pauci laboris,^a et nullius periculi.

Et nota quod in isto libro sunt nomina et figure spirituum secundum suas proprietates, que ignota sunt; igitur occultande sunt et celande, propter ipsorum ineffabilem efficaciam pro certo, etc.

NO. 9. FOR OBTAINING A HORSE (FOLS 23v--25v)

Volo eciam tibi mittere^a quomodo equus, hoc est spiritus in equi forma, possit haberi, ferentis te tam per aquas quam per terram, tam per colles quam per planicies, quocumque volueris.

Primo enim, 6a luna, die Martis, ieiunus, forinsecus egrediaris cum quodam freno nunquam operato, et in loco secreto cum quodam clauo siue stilo ferreo fac circulum, vt hic apparet,^b sculpiens in eo nomina et figuras ibidem apparentes.^c Quibus factis, permanens in medio, genibus flexis, super freno versus orientem aliquantulum alta voce sic dicas:

O Lantrayth, Feremin, [et] Oliroomim, spiritus peccatoribus insistentes, ego, talis, in vestra [24r] virtute confidens, vos coniuro

- per illum qui dixit et facta sunt, et omnia scit et cognoscit antequam fiant,
- et per celum et terram, ignem et aerem et aquam, solem et lunam et stellas,
- et per thronos, dominaciones, polestates, atque principatus domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- ac per omnes angelos et archangelos qui morantur ante thronum dei simili voce clamantes, 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, dominus deus Sabaoth, pleni sunt celi et terra

^z .MS laborum.

^a Sic in MS.

^b Figure on fol. 25v: a single circular band, with a square inscribed, and a circle inside the square. Short bars extend outward from the middle of each side of the square and touch the inner side of the circular band. Names of the cardinal directions flank each of these bars. Locus magistri is marked in the centre of the circle. The band contains the names Lantrayth, Feremini and Oliroomim, plus astronomical and other signs.

Lantrayth appears as Lautrayth in the text on the same folio, and as Lutrayth on fol. 29. Feremini is given as Feremin on the same folio, and as Feremim (with a misshapen final m) on fol. 25. Oliroomim appears as Oliroomim in both Latin contexts.

^c .MS apparencias.

gloria tua, osanna in excelsis; benedictus qui venit in nomine domini, osanna in excelsis, quatenus vos tres ad me venire debeatis suauiter, ut non terr[e]ar nec timeam, sed securus existam,^d et quidquid vobis imperabo debeatis totaliter adimplere et cum maxima efficacia executioni mandare. Item ego coniuro vos supradictos spiritus

- per illum qui venturus est iudicare viuos et mortuos et seculum per ignem,
- et per tremendam diem iudicij,
- et per sententiam quam audire debetis in ipsa die,
- et [per] hunc circulum, quo efficaciter prouocamini, ut sine mora huc meare cogamini, et precepta mea suppliciter obseruetis.

Quibus dictis ter, tres equites videbis a longe venire. Quos cum videris, dic donec ad te fuerint, Leuaui ad te oculos meos in montes, vnde veniet auxilium michi. Auxilium [24v] meum a domino, qui fecit celum et terram [Ps. 120:1f. Vulg.; cf. Ps. 122:1]. Et quando apud circulum fuerint, statim descendent equos, et tunc hilariter [te] salutabunt. Quibus dices, 'Dominus per sui misericordiam in statum pristinum vos reducat.' Hoc dicto, ipsi dicent, 'O magister, ad te venimus, vnanimis tuis preceptis seruire parati. Precipe igitur nobis illud, propter quod nos huc venire fecisti, et erit penitus expeditum.' Quibus respondere debes, 'Volo vt presens frenum' – tenendo ipsum ambabus manibus – 'taliter consecretis vt quocienscumque ipsum squassauero ante me veniat equus, ori cuius ipsum possim imponere, et ipsum ascendere possim, ipsum equitare tute et accedere quo michi libuerit proficisci.' Hoc dicto, ipsi asserunt^f dictum frenum velle secum ferre et ibidem tercio die reportare. Quibus ipsum^g dabis. Et cum dederis, ascendent equos et sine mora recedent. Quibus recessis, egredere circulum, non abolendo [illum], et deinde recedas.

Tercia vero dei, in vespers, reuertaris illuc, et inuenies ibidem predictos spiritus offerentes tibi dictum frenum, asserentes tuam petitionem esse fulcitam. Et accepto freno, sic dicas: 'Ego coniuro vos per deum deorum vt sine mei licencia de hinc^h discedere non possitis.' Hoc dicto, tibi respondebunt quod quantum voles ibidem [25r] permanebunt. Quo dicto, squassabis frenum, et subito illuc veniet equus niger, cui inpones frenum, et equitabis. Hoc facto, descendesⁱ et remouebis frenum, et subito equus abibit.

d Followed by t, deleted.

e MS illud, quidquid.

f Sic in MS.

g MS ipsius.

h Followed by poss, deleted.

i MS descendens.

Quo recesso, sic dices:

Ego iterum coniuro vos,

- per omnia antedicta,
- et per omnia habencia contra vos potestatem,

ut iurare vos debeatis ut predictum equum semper ad me venire cogetis.

Qui iurabunt et promittent expresse hoc continuo cum efficacia facere. Quod cum iurauerint, dic quod cum salute recedant. Quibus recessis, egredere circulum et ipsum totum aboleas, et frenum tecum portes.

Et cum volueris equum venire, dic, squassando frenum, Lutrayth, Feremim, Oliroomim, et statim equus veniet, cui[us] ori inpones frenum, et equitabis. De cuius cluni[bus] aliquantulum incidere debes, quia micior erit, et hoc omni vice facere debes. Et cum volueris ipsum currere, punge ipsum uel verberes, quia illic more sagitte [volabit], de quo nunquam cadere poteris, nec timere poteris. Et quando voles descendere, nunquam recedet donec frenum de ore eius auferes.^k Quo ablato, subito euanescent.

Facimus enim talia frena tenuissima, ita quod in paruo loco portare possimus, que nunquam frangi possi[n]t nec putrefieri, [25v] propter ipsam consecrationem.

Item est aduertendum quod si supradictum circulum, in corio equi cum sanguine equi scriptum, cum dente eciam equi, est^l ostensum equis, subito moriuntur. Et si ipsum, ut dictum est scriptum, erga te tuleris, nullus equus ad te poterit appropinquare. Et [de] virtute huius circuli eciam ait Socrates in libro magice.

NO. 10. FOR RESUSCITATING A DEAD PERSON (FOLS 25v–28r)

Cum volueris [in] aliquem mortuum infundere spiritum, ita quod viuus, [vt] erat prius,^a videbitur, talis ordo tenendus est. Primo quidem ex auro anulum fieri facias. Eciam sculpta sint^b in parte^c exteriori hec nomina: Brimer, Suburith, Tranauit; in parte vero interiori sculpta sint hec nomina: Lyroth, Beryen, j MS predictum equum semper vt.

k MS has recedent and euanescent, but the line over the last e in euanescent is faint. Evidently the writer meant to correct the plural to the singular.

l MS eciam.

a MS primo; cf. fol. 27r.

b MS gives sit, with a line over the t, which elsewhere in the MS is used for sicut.

c MS ex parte.

Damayn.^d Quibus sculptis, die dominico ante ortum solis accedas ad aquam currentem et in ipsa pone dictum anulum, et quinque diebus ipsum in ea stare permittas.

Sexta vero die, ipsum extrahe et fer ad quoddam monumentum, et in ipso pone, ita quod moretur ipsa die Veneris et Sabbati die. Vero dominica die, ante solis ortum, accedas extra villam, sereno celo, in loco occulto et remoto, et fac circulum cum quodam ense, et in ipso scribe cum dicto ense nomina et figura[s] vt hic apparet.^e [26r] Quibus scriptis,^f ingredi in eum vt signatum est, et pone ensem sub genibus tuis, dicendo versus meridiem hanc coniurationem:

Coniuro vos, omnes demones scriptos in hoc anulo – quem in manibus habeas,

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per omnipotentem deum, factorem celi et terre,
- et per dominum nostrum Iesum Christum, eius filium, qui propter humani generis salutem mortem sufferre dignatus est,
- et per gloriosam virginem Mariam, matrem eius,
- et per lac [26v] eius sanctissimum Christi,^g per quod angeli denunciando pastoribus locuti sunt, 'Gloria in excelsis deo, etc.'

Item ego coniuro vos, O Brimer, Suburith, Tranayrt, Lyroth, Berien, Damay,

- per omnes sanctos et sanctas dei,
- et per hec nomina sancta dei: Tetragramaton, Oel,^h Messyas, Soler, Adonay, Alpha et O, Sabaoth,
- et per hec sancta nomina virginis Marie, scilicet regina, flos, rosa, lilium, scula, sapientia, vita, dulcedo, misericordia, et spes,
- et per paradisum celestem et terrestrem,
- et per omnes angelos et archangelos, thronos, dominaciones, potestates, atque principatus, et maiestates et glorias regis celi et terre,
- et per omnes principes, reges, dominos, et maiores vestros,

d The names are given on fols. 25i, 26r, 26v, and 27r. Spelling is consistent, except that Tranauit appears on 26v as Tranayrt and on 27r as Tramayrt, Beryen is given on 26r and 26v as Berien, and Damayn lacks the final n on 26v.

e Figure on fol. 26r: a double circular band, with a pentagram inscribed. O Brimer. Suburith, Tranauit is inscribed in the outer band, with astronomical signs; Lyroth, vnq (sic) Berien, Damayn is inscribed in the inner band, with further signs. Magister is written in the centre of the pentagram. The cardinal directions merities, occidens and oriens are marked outside the band. For alternative forms of the names, see above, n. c.

f Followed by ingrediari, deleted.

g Something missing – perhaps et per cantum?

h Presumably for O El.

- et per infernum vestrum,
- et per omnia in eodem existencia

quatenus vos omnes, constricti et ligati in voluntate mea et in potestate mea, debeatis huc accedere in benigna forma, ut nullum timeam, et consecrare ita et taliter presentium anulum, ut in eo hec virtus existat, videlicet quod quandocumque inposuero ipsum in digito alicuius mortui, vnus vestrum ipsum ingrediatur, et ut primo viuusⁱ appareat in illa similitudine et forma, per illum qui viuit et regnat in vnitae Spiritus Sancti deus, per omnia secula seculorum. Amen.

Hiis semel dictis, apparebunt subito apud circulum 6 spiritus, [27r] petentes dictum anulum; quibus dabis. Quo dato, ipsi abient, et similiter tu egredere circulos, ferens tecum ense, non destruens circulum.

Sexta vero die, cum predicto ense, reuerteris et versus meridiem sic dices:

Ego coniuro vos, O Brimer, Suburith, Tramayrt, Lyroth, Beryen, Damayn, per deum vnum, viuum, solum, et verum, ut nunc sine mora ad me venire debeatis, apportando anulum consecratum, ita quod quando inposuero ipsum in digito siue in manu alicuius persone viue cadat in terram sicut mortua, et quando abstulero ab ipsa in statum pristinum reuertatur, et eciam in quocumque^j mortuo inposuero, ut dictum est, ipsum spiritus ingrediatur et viuus ut prius fuerat videatur, per omnia que possunt vos terrere et omnino constringere.

Hiis dictis quater, videlicet primo versus meridiem semel, et similiter versus occidentem, deinde versus aquilonem et versus orientem,^k videbis versus orientem venire quendam equitem, qui cum fuerit apud circulum sic dicet: 'Tales mittunt' -- nominando^l nomina suprascripta -- 'tibi hunc anulum consecratum, dicentes [se] ad te venire non posse, quia non expediens est; experieris anuli virtutem, et si non habuerit virtutem a te postulatam, dicent quod quandocumque [vis] sunt ad te venire parati.' Quem anulum accipies,^m dicendo ei, [27v] 'Graciam tibi et ipsis.' Hoc dicto, statim recedet,ⁿ et tu eciam exies de circulo, ipsum totaliter destruendo.

Et predictum anulum bene teneas involutum in syndone albo. Cum vero volueris ut aliquis viuus mortuus videatur et ab omnibus videtur vita carere, pone in digito eius hunc anulum, et cadauer videbitur; et quando remouebis, veniet in i .MS vnus.

j .MS cuicumque.

k Followed by et.

l .MS nominando nominando.

m .MS accipiens.

n .MS recedes.

primum statum. Et quando volueris aliquod cadauer animatum apparere, pone vt dictum est anulum, uel ad manum siue ad pedem liga, et ante horam surget in forma primo habita, et viua voce coram omnibus loquetur, et hoc monstrare poterit sex diebus, quia quilibet eorum sua die in ipso permanebit. Et si volueris [illum] ante dictum terminum vt primo erat esse, remoue anulum. Et hoc modo resurgere poteris defunctum.

Hec enim experientia dignissima est et occultanda, quia in ipsa magna virtus existit.

Circulus eciam suprascriptus multas virtutes habet, cuius tres per me notas^o exponam. Si enim die Veneris ipsum cum calamo vppupe et cum eius sangwine in carta edina nouata^p scripseris,^q et aliquam personam cum eo tetigeris, in eternum super omnes ab ipsa diligeris. Et si predictum circulum, scriptum vt dictum est, posueris super caput egroti, ipso ignorantu, si mori debet dicet se nullatenus euadere posse; et si debet euadere dicet se omnino [28r] liberatum. Et si predictum circulum, scriptum similiter, super te habueris, nullus canis tibi latrare valebit. Et ista sunt per me experta; inexpert^r vero per me relinquo.

NO. 11. FOR INVISIBILITY (FOLS 28r-29v)

Tracto eciam de arte invisibilitatis, hodie quasi ab omnibus ignorata.⁴

Cum itaque volueris apud omnia, tam rationabilia quam non, invisibilis ac insensibilis haberi, primo, crescente luna die Mercurij, in prima hora diei, castus ante per triduum, et tonsus capillos et barbam, et albo indutus, extra villam in loco occulto, sereno celo, in plano solo, cum ense splendidissimo fac circulum vt hic apparet,^b scribendo hec nomina [et] cum eis omnia ibidem apparencia. [28v] Hoc facto,ingas versus occidentem super Firiell dictum ense. Et cum figeris, habeas vas in quo sit ignis cum thure, mirra, et olibano, et cum fumo ipsorum [circum]vade circulum, suffumigando ipsum, incipiendo a Fyriell et ibi finiendo. Hoc facto, habeas aquam benedictam et aspergas te et circulum. dicendo, ^o MS notans.

^p Sic in MS.

^q In margin: Nota.

^r MS inexperto.

^a At top of page, in margin: de invisibilitate.

^b Figure on fol. 28: a plain circle, with the positions oriens, meridiem and occidentem labelled, a sword lying toward the east with its point near the centre, Magister inscribed near the centre (with Firiell to the west, Melemil to the south, Berith to the east, and Taraor to the north), and two figures.

The names occur on fols 28, 28, 29, and 29. Spelling is consistent, except that Firiell occurs twice on 28 as Fyriell, Melemil appears on 28 as Mememil, and Taraor is given on 29 as Tarator.

Asperges^c me, domine, ysopo et mundabor; lauabis me et super niuem dealabor [Ps. 50:9 Vulg.]. Quo facto, voluendo te genubus flexis versus occidentem, emissa voce, sic dicas:

Ego, talis, coniuro vos, O Fyriel, Mememil, Berith, [et] Taraor, spiritus potentes, magnifici, et illustres,^d in quibus omnino confido,

- per vnicam, inseparabilem, ac indiuiduam trinitatem, scilicet Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per deum vnicum, solum, viuum, et verum, qui omnia de nichilo formauit, et cui subdita sunt omnia, celestia, terrestria,^e et infernalia,
- per celum et terram, mare et infernum, et omnia in ipsis existencia,
- et per omnes principes, reges, et dominos vestros,
- et per illum deum quem timetis et adoratis,
- et per omnia que habent [potenciam] vos terrere, constringere, et alligare, et quorum preceptum vos oportet totaliter adimplere, quatenus vos omnes 4or cum humilitate maxima huc venire debeatis, ligati, constricti, et iurati ad execucioni mandandum quidquid a uobis petiero. Venite sine mora; venite, quia invoco vos ex parte Patris, prouoco [29r] vos ex parte Filij, invoco vos ex parte Spiritus Sancti.

Hac invocacione dicta quater, scilicet semel versus Fyriel, semel versus Melemil et versus Berith et Tarator, aderunt subito in circulo 4or spiritus, dicentes tibi, 'Dic nobis quid vis, et plene tibi obediemus.' Quibus dices, 'Ego volo quandam cappam invisibilitatis, que sit tenuis et incorruptibilis, qua cum indutus fuero nullus videre nec me sentire valeat.' Hoc dicto, vnus discedet, et ante horam apportabit ibi quandam cappam, quam ab ipsis petebas^f vt tibi dare deberent. Qui respondebunt tibi dare non posse si primo ipsis non das tuum indutum album; quibus dabis, et cum dederis eis, ipsi tibi dabunt cappam. Quorum vnus statim induet indutum eis datum; similiter tu statim induas cappam. Quam cum indueris, illis spiritibus dices, 'Abite cum pace,' et statim recedent. Et cum abierint, debes dimittere circulum, ferendo ensem.

Tercia vero dei, cum cappa illuc reuertere, et inuenies tuum indutum, quem accipies. Memento enim, si ipsa tertia die non reuerteris, siue tuum indutum ibi dimissum non accipias, quarta die nullum inuenires, sed in septem diebus moreris. Accepto enim tertia die induto, ipsum in eodem loco combures. Et scias

c MS Asperiges.

d MS illustros.

e The second t appears marked for deletion, erroneously.

f MS petiebas.

quod quando ipsum combures audies maximos planctus [29v] et querelas. Et cum combureris, aspergas cinerem per aerem, sic dicendo:

Coniuro vos, Firiël, Melemil, Berith, [et] Taraor,

- per virtutem et potenciam vestram,
- et per omnia habencia contra vos potestatem,

ut non habeatis virtutem nec potenciam ledendi me per hanc cappam, sed Ihesus Christus protegat et defendat me per omnia secula seculorum. Amen.

Quo dicto, habeas aquam benedictam et aspergas dictam cappam, sic dicendo:

Ego coniuro te, cappa,

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per hanc aquam,

ut quandocumque te indutus fuero, nullus sentire nec videre me valeat, per dominum nostrum Ihesum Christum, filium dei viuum, qui viuit et regnat per omnia secula seculorum. Amen.

NO. 12. FOR OBTAINING A WOMAN'S LOVE (FOLS 29v–31v)^a Recipe ceram virgineam, arte virginizatam, et hoc^b in die Jouis vel in die dominico, hora Veneris vel hora Jouis; ex dicta cera facias ymaginem ad carbones accensas sine fumo in vna olla positos. Et habeat magister de capillis mulieris pro qua vult facere, et tres fillos sete rubee, et habeas tecum cultellum albi manubrij ad hoc facti. Et vade ad locum vbi artifex facit acus, et tu facias facere ab eodem artifice, hora Solis vsque ad horam Saturni. Deinde magister [30r] habeat duos socios fideles, et vadat ad arborem fructiferam, et faciat magister circulum.^c Et incipiat magister artem facere, siue ymaginem mulieris pro qua facis, semper murmurando in corde tuo, Tu Belial, tu Astarotht,^d tu Paymon, ad hoc sitis opus michi adiutores.

Et similiter murmurando dices,

^a In margin: de amore.

^b Inserted above line.

^c Figure on fol. 30r: a double circular band, with Tu Belial, tu Astaroth, tu Paymon, ad hoc sitis [michi deleted] opus michi adiutores inscribed in the band, and Locus magistri marked in the centre.

The names appear on the same folio in the text. Spelling is consistent for two of them, but Astaroth is rendered in the text as Astarotht.

^d Sic in MS.

Ego, N., formo istam ymaginem in amorem talis, ut valeat ad quod facta est. Et tu, Belial, initialis princeps, ad hoc opus sis michi adiutor.

Et tunc^e magister faciat ymaginem de predicta cera, incipiens hora Jouis, descendendo vsque ad horam Saturni. Et sic formata ymagine, faciat fieri [30v] magister ab artifice perito nouem acus, qui eas faciat corpore balneatus et nitidis vestibus indutus; faciat dictas acus hora Solis vsque ad horam Saturni. Postea magister fingat dictas acus in ymagine, ita collocando vnam in capite, aliam in humero dextro, terciam in sinistro, 4am vbi cor consuevit ab hominibus assignari, ita dicendo:

Sicut ista acus fingitur in cor istius ymaginis, ita fingatur amor N. in amorem N., quod non possit dormire, vigilare, iacere, sedere, [uel] ambulare,^f quousque in meum exardescat amorem.

quintam in umbilico, sextam in femore, septimam in latere^g dextro, octauam in sinistro, nonam in ano. Sic formata ymagine, christianizes ipsam, imponendo sibi nomen [mulieris] pro qua facis, submergendo ter et dicendo, 'Quomodo vocatur?'; et respondetur, 'N.' Et tu debes dicere, Ego baptizo te, N., in nomine Patris, et Filij, et Spiritus Sancti. Amen. Et postea pone ymaginem in panno nouo et mundo, dimittendo ab hora Solis vsque ad horam Martis. Deinde facias istam coniuracionem sub arbore fructifera ad carbonem accensos, et voluas te versus orientem, et dicas, Coniuro, talis, N., caput tuum, crines tuos, oculos tuos, aures tuas, genas tuas; coniuro, talis, cerebrum tuum; coniuro, N., tunicas^h [31r] cerebrū tui, scilicet duram et piā matrem; coniuro, N., oculos tuos; coniuro, N., tunicas oculorum tuorum; coniuro, N., frontem tuam; coniuro, N., dentes tuos; coniuro, N., os tuum; coniuro, N., mentum tuum; coniuro, N., nasum tuum; coniuro, N., nares tuas; coniuro, N., palatum tuum; coniuro, N., gingiuas tuas; coniuro, N., guttur tuum; coniuro, N., humeros tuos; coniuro, N., spatulas tuas; coniuro, N., pectus tuum; coniuro, N., mamillas tuas; coniuro, N., corpus tuum; coniuro umbilicum tuum; coniuro, N., femur tuum; coniuro, N., renes tuos; coniuro, N., latera tua; coniuro, N., anum tuum; coniuro, N., costas tuas; coniuro, N., uuluum tuum; coniuro, N., genua tua; coniuro, N., crura tua; coniuro, N., talosⁱ pedum tuarum; coniuro, N., brachia tua; coniuro,

^e Added both between lines and in margin.

^f Followed by sic.

^g MS latere or lactere.

^h Followed by tuas, deleted.

ⁱ MS cerebrum.

^j MS tales.

N., digitos manuum tuarum; coniuro, N., manus tuas; coniuro, N. ungues manuum tuarum; coniuro, N., cor tuum; coniuro, N., pulmonem tuum; coniuro, N., bucellas tuas; coniuro, N., stomachum tuum; coniuro, N., totam personam tuam; coniuro, N., totam substantiam tuam, ut non possis dormire nec sedere nec iacere nec aliud artificiale facere donec meam libidinosam compleueris voluntatem. Coniuro te

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- per magistratum^k artis,
- per virtutem ipsius,^l
- per sapienciam Salomonis,
- per verum Sabaoth,
- per verum seraphin,
- per verum Emanuel,
- per omnia corpora sanctorum [31v] que iacent in Roma,
- per lunam et solem et dominum maiorem,
- et per lac virginis,
- per sanctam Mariam, matrem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per eukarisma sanctum,
- per corpus et sanguinem Ihesu Christi.

Coniuro vos ex exorcizo vos [et] impero vobis, ut sicut ceruus desiderat fontem aquarum [Ps. 41:2 Vulg.], ita desideres,^m N., ad meum amorem. Et sicut coruus desiderat cadauera mortuorum, ita desideresⁿ tu me. Et sicut cera ista liquefacit a facie ignis, ita desideret N. in meum amorem, quod non possit, etc.

Signa autem mulieris hec sunt et sequentur: solitudo, inuolucio capitis, ploratus, gemitus, percussiones, euigilaciones, [et] eiulaciones. Tunc magister siue ille qui facit vadat ad illam, et si viderit illam solam stantem aut^o sedentem, tunc corroboret magister coniuracionem vsque ad quintam diem. Et si illa in terra omnino fuerit, consumatur; si autem fuerit in villa aut aliam ciuitatem transierit, tamdiu magister faciat coniuracionem quousque illa possit venire.

Et in hoc fuerunt concordēs nigromantici omnes astroloyci Hyspanici, Arabici, Hebrei, Caldei, Greci, et Latini. Et extractum fuit istud experimentum [ex libro] de secretis artibus ymaginarie artis, [ex libro] de floribus omnium experimentorum, etc.

k MS mgrm with line over last three characters.

l Presumably either incomplete or intended with reference to the previous phrase.

m MS desiderat, following the Psalm verse.

n MS desideras.

o MS et.

NO. 13. FOR CONSTRAINING A MAN, WOMAN, SPIRIT, OR BEAST'
(FOLS 32r-33r)

Per hoc experimentum constringitur homo, mulier, vir, spiritus, [vel] bestia, cuiuscumque condicionis existat.

Hec nomina in hunc modum sint scripta in spatula.^a Postquam hoc totum adinpletum fuerit, quod vis eligere tibi. Si aliquem spiritum constringere volueris, scribe nomen eius in spatula inter b et e et in nomine quod est Bel. Si aliquem hominem constringere volueris, scribe nomen illius inter l et a. Si vero aliquam bestiam constringere volueris, scribe nomen eius inter a et n, et colorem eius. Pro spiritibus vero atque hominibus et pro mulieribus, agendum est ita et in eadem hora in qua expleta spatula fuerit ab accione,^b ibi oportet ut in primis perquirantur lingna ex spina alba vel lingna que vagantur in aquis, et faciat inde ignem, carbonisque collige et in ollam nouam mitte, et desuper paulatim pone spatulam, et paulatim augmentando ignem donec spatula calefiat.

Et tunc invoca predictos spiritus, et dic hanc coniuracionem:

Asyel, Castiel, Lamisiel, Rabam, Erlain, [et] Belam; vobis precipio

[A1] Si pro homine uel muliere quem uel qua[m] in tuo amore accendere volueris, sic dicas:

et statim, etc.

secundum quod infra continetur.^d [B] Si vero pro spiritu, [32v] nomina illum spiritum quem vis ut veniat ad te patenter, humiliter, pulcra facie, et blando sermone, dicendo, a Figure at the bottom of fol. 33^r (i.e., at the end of the experiment): a shield divided into 16 horizontal bands, with one vertical band down the centre. In the top band is inscribed, Hec est figura spatule. Succeeding bands bear the names Asyel, Castiel, Lamisiel, Rabam, Erlain, Olam and Belam, each of which straddles the vertical band. In the vertical band are the letters A (at the intersection with the second horizontal band), B (fifth), E (seventh), L (ninth), A (eleventh) and N (thirteenth). Across the intersection of the vertical band and the twelfth horizontal band Leo is written.

To the side is the note: Item nota quod spatula supradicta debet esse asinina vel leporina vel aserina vel caponina, secundum diversos [usus?].

b Sic in MS.

c Corrected in lower margin from Bolam.

d This phrasing occurs toward the end of the conjuration given in the next paragraph.

Coniuro vos, Asyel, etc., ut N. spiritum N.,^e qui potestatem habet super omne quod ab eo querere volo, ad me venire faciatis patenter, humiliter, blando sermone, eius forma ut dixi, scilicet militis [et] pulcherimi, ad complendum omnia que ei precipere voluero.

[A2] Et cum pro viro aut muliere hoc facere volueris, fac ei prius notum vbi te invenire possit, quia nisi te inveniet pro cuius furore suo insaniet.^f [C] Si pro bestia, [dic:]

Coniuro predictos spiritus ut constringant illam bestiam quam vis, ne de loco in quo est se remouere valeat donec volueris.

[A3] [Conjuration to constrain a man or woman:]

Asyel, Castiel, Lamsiyel, Rabam, Erlain, Elam, Belam, ego vos coniuro

- per deum verum,
- per deum viuum, qui vos creauit,
- et per eum qui Adam et Euam formauit,
- et per eum qui mare creauit aridamque fundauit, qui facit angelos suos spiritus et ministros suos ignem vrentem [Ps. 103:4 Vulg.], qui nouit ea que non sunt sicut ea que sunt, qui habet claues mortis [et] inferni, ipse enim primus et nouissimus, principium et finis, Alpha et O, et qui viuit et fuit mortuus et revixit,^g qui vocauit deum patrem eius.
- Alphagramaton, per hoc nomen

vos coniuro,

- et per sanctum et ineffabile nomen dei Tetragramaton,
- et per id nomen quod nemo nouit nisi ipse [33r] qui est verbum dei,
- et per hec nomina dei: Hely, Heloy, Heloe, Sabaoth, Elion, Adonay, Saday,
- et per omnia nomina eius,
- et per ipsius virtutem,
- et per omnes virtutes celorum;

item coniuro vos

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per sanctam trinitatem et unitatem dei,
- et per illam coronam quam dominus noster Ihesus Christus in suo capite habuit,
- et per lac beate Marie virginis,
- et per hec predicta nomina et per omnes virtutes eorundem,

e Sic in MS.

f Sic in MS.

g Corrected above line from refixit.

et per istam coniurationem precipio vobis, et statim et cito et velociter et sine mora seducatis cor et mentem N. in amorem meum. Et sicut hec spatula calefit et incenditur, ita illum vel illam, N., incendatis et calefaciatis igne mei amoris, et ita ut nu(n)quam quiescere valeat donec meam adimpleuerit voluntatem. In nomine quod est Bel, etc.

NO. 14. FOR OBTAINING A HORSE (FOLS 33v-34r)

Vt equum habeas ad eundum quo vis, [debes] respicere aerem versus orientem, flexis genibus [et] iunctis manibus et si esses^a in carcere, et dic cum magna fiducia et spe firmissima obtinendi,

O altissime et benignissime rex Orientis, exaudi orationem meam et clamor meus ad te veniat: fiant aures tue intendentes in vocem deprecationis mee [Pss. 101:2, 129:2 Vulg.], per nobilissimam sedem maiestatis tue. Te invoco et adiuro

- per illum dominum quem cones^b diligis, confidis, et speras,
- per legem legalem^c et per spem sperantem et per karitatem karitativam,
- per On, El, Ely, [et] Tetragramaton, quod est nomen altissimum,
- et per locum ubi sedes in solio magne nobilitatis tue.

Mitte ad me spiritum aerum, quod^d in eo valeam ad plenum, quod opto, proficere. Potens es, domine, ipsum mittere, et michi in hac hora tua magna potencia in omnibus et per omnia sit obediens et legalis.^e Et ideo te, domine, invoco, adoro, et laudo nomen tuum in eternum, qui oriens omnes benedicte et gloriosissimus per infinita secula seculorum. Amen.

Hoc igitur dicto septies, dic audaciter:

Volo ire ad talem partem, et statim veni.

Vt si volueris spiritus uel equus, vel dormiendo uel vigilando.^f Cum equus venerit, dic,

Coniuro te per dominum, qui creavit celum et terram, mare, et omnia que in eis sunt, iam

a MS esset, perhaps meaning vt si esses?

b Or tones, perhaps intending toto corde?

c Meaning fidem fiducialelem, corresponding to the other theological virtues?

d Meaning vt?

e MS est.

f Sic in MS.

g Perhaps meaning qui Oriens es, benedictus et gloriosissimus.

h Probably meaning Et si volueris spiritum uel equum, uel dormiendo uel vigilando.

visibilia quam invisibilia, vñ sine strepitu et timore, dampno aliquo uel periculo seu angustia mei cor- [34r] poris et anime portes me suauiter et depones me sine aliqua lesione presenti uel futuri, usque ad talem locum suauiter me deponas.

Cum enim deposuerit te vbi affectabis, dicas humiliter,

Gracias tibi ago, Oriens, qui dignum me fecisti in hac parte meaⁱ et pro tanta gracia et beneficio meo,^j et me tibi offero, seruire et semper tuis obedire mandatis. Benedictum [et] laudatum sit semper nomen tuum, regnaturum super omnia secula seculorum. Et tibi etiam gracias ago, qui per coniurationem nominum altissimi dei per me fatigare^k dignatus es, etc.

NO. 15. FOR OBTAINING A FLYING THRONE (FOLS 34r-35v)

Vade ad locum secretum et altum, tempore sereno et absque ventu, et dic: Sancta Maria, ora pro nobis, Secundum magnam misericordiam tuam [Ps. 50 Vulg.], cum Gloria Patri totum,^a In manus tuas, domine, commendo spiritum et totum spiritum et corpus meum,^b Domine deus, Pater omnipotens, [et] Iudica me [Ps. 42 Vulg.]. Postea fac talem circulum vt inferius designabitur;^c cum ollis, et [34v] pone in ollam septentrionis cinerem et farinam, et in orient[al]em ignem cum sale, in occidentalem^d aquam et calcem. Et sede in medio circuli et verte te versus septentrionem, et voca regem nubium, nomine Bartha, vt mittat 3es de ducibus qui habent posse^e [super] nubibus et ventris, scilicet Saltim,^f Balthim, Gehim, qui ducent te absque lesione et absque periculo tui corporis et anime ad locum quem volueris. Et tunc apparebit tibi parua nubes, et de tribus ollis exhibunt tres alie olle, dicen[te]s, Ascende, ascende, ascende. Tunc autem inperterrita ac et cum audacia parate^g sellam i MS et.

j Followed by et.

k Sic in MS.

l MS mea.

m Probably meaning pro me fatigari.

a Sic in MS.

b Sic in MS; cf. Lk. 24:46.

c Figure at bottom of fol. 34r: a single circular band, with an inverted triangle inscribed within its outer boundary. Characters (in pseudo-Hebrew?) are inscribed along two sides of the triangle, within the band. In the intersections of the band and the triangle, circles with dots in them (readily denoting positions for jars) are marked. Cardinal directions are shown.

d MS occidentali.

e Possibly meaning potenciam; followed by michi, deleted.

f Followed by redundant Baltim, deleted.

g Sic in MS.

magistro, hec dicas ter. Tunc videbis kathedram in medio nubis, et tu ascende illam, et dic, Rex Bartha, et duces Saltim, Baltim, [et] Galtim, portate me placabiliter, sine timore et impedimento et periculo aliquo mei corporis^h et anime, usque ad talem locum, et suauiter me leuate et suauiter me deponite. O tu rex Bartha, et o vos principes Saltim, Balthim, Galtira,ⁱ vos potenter invoco ut cito et velociter me ducatis usque ad talem locum sine omni timore et periculo mei corporis et anime, et ad hoc^j vos invoco et coniuro potenter et exorcizo per hec angelorum nomina altissima qui in aere sunt potentes: Mastiesel,^k Emedel, Emethel, Sangel, Eymeal, Venoel, Gerbon, Seulan, Ty- [35r] robay, Teneyn, Teregey, Gerebon, Gamelorum, Tubairum, Ficary, Gysay, Austeron, Boreal, Gemeloy, Garoen, Sypro, Ebely, Aurora, Subseloy, Siego, Afonei, et Zephirim, Boreoth, Beolthoray, Aforax,^l Aquelyo, Eureal, Fauelyon. Per hec nomina vos invoco et coniuro et exorcizo et constringo, ut sine mora veniatis ad me existentem in hoc loco, et multum^m me suauiter et benigne deferatis et ducatis ad talem locum, sine omni timore, lesione, et periculo mei corporis et anime. Sic fiat, fiat, amen.

Vade securus et non timeas, quia portabunt te quo volueris. Si forte socios habere volueris in via et in opere, oportet quod sitis impares, tamen plus.ⁿ Hec nomina dices, scilicet Semegibetelye, Sabolaay,^o Saroten, Saramey, Cerbelli, Tyaurax.^p Et sic ire voveris in omnem partem et terram securus quo volueris.

Si quis tibi forte nocere voluerit vel attemptauerit: Si a parte septentrionali senseris kathedram descendere, dic,

O Balthym, te invoco, coniuro, et constringo ut vindices me de isto qui michi nocere temptatur,^q per hec septem nomina que in omnibus potestatem habent, scilicet Flegely, Stygelay,^r Melyon, Babaia, Regale, Setgaboy, Guithpabey.

h Corrected in MS from corporis.²

i Sic in MS.

j Or hec.

k Or Masciesel.

l Or Afforax.

m Sic in MS.

n Sic in MS.

o Corrected in MS from Sabalaay.

p Or Tyanrax.

q Meaning temptat.²

r Or Scygelay.

Et statim veniet tempestas super eum et timeas.^s Si vero a parte occidentali quis tibi nocere temptauerit, dic audacter,

O Saltim, coniuro et constringo te per ista septem nomina, [35v] scilicet Sebegyol, Sebely, Serbaton, Tymelyy,^t Gerotal, Tyboel, Galtym. Fiat ut sit pluua et nubes super illum, in tantum quod non possit videre nubem.

Si vero ex parte orientali quis temptare voluerit, dic,

Veniatis, Galtym [et] Baltym, per ista nomina, scilicet Flegely, Stygeloy, Melyon, Barbaia, Regale, Segaboy, Guitipabey, et cadant tonitrua super^u illum et nubes et tempestas, ita [quod] me temptare non audeat.

Si forte in via videris super te tempestates uel serpentes aut aues aut alia terribilia, quibus forte posses terreri, dicas,

O tu rex Bartham, ego te invoco et coniuro et constringo, rex sapiens et fortis, per hec nomina, scilicet Alrogen, Segeuratetho, Spitalote, Frigonay, Gebelsey, ut hec terribilia^v facias protinus remoueri statim.

Dictis hiis verbis, sine mora recedent, et vltra non habebis contrarium.

Hic circulus debet fieri ad istud opus, etc.^w

NO. 16. FOR FINDING SOMETHING IN SLEEP (FOLS 35v–36r)

Ad inveniendum in sompnis que vis, scribe hec nomina in carta virginea cum nominibus illius diei in hunc modum sicut inferius patebit. Postea pone sub dextra aure quando vadis dormitum, et videbis quidquid vis de preteritis, presentibus, et futuris.

Hec est con- [36r] iuracio que debet fieri super cartam:

O vos gloriosa nomina summi dei, cui omnia, presencia, preterita, et futura presencia sunt,

^s Possibly meaning et timebit or quem times.

^t Sic in MS.

^u Partly covered by blot.

^v MS terrebilia.

^w That is, the circle given already on fol. 34r, but perhaps drawn at the end of the experiment in an earlier manuscript.

rogo vos ego, seruus et subditus vester, quod mittatis michi angelos vestros, qui scripti sunt in circulo isto, et michi reuelare debeatis quidquid super talem rem, uel de quocumque vis negocio quod venturum est. Et hec dicas tribus^b vicibus, et videbis quidquid vis, per potenciam dei.

Hic est circulus qui debet scribi cum ibis dormitum.^c

NO. 17. FOR OBTAINING A HORSE (FOL 36r-v)

Ad equum habendum^a scriba[n]tur in hostio domus vacui, in crepusculo noctis, more he- [36v] brayco, hec nomina cum sangwine vespertilionis: Tuditha, Stelpha, Alpha, Draco, Mariodo, Ypation. Quibus scriptis, recede modicum a loco.

Post horam paruam reuertaris, et inuenies equum paratum, quem^b cum uolueris ascendere pone sinistrum pedem ad strepam et dic hanc coniuracionem:

Coniuro te, eque bone,

- per creatorem celi et terre,
- et per illum qui creauit cniuersa et omnia ad laudem et gloriam sui nominis,
- et per deum uiuum,
- et per deum sanctum,
- et per deum verum,^c

et non in corpore nec in anima nec in minimo membro meo vere obesse^d valeas, nec in aliquo me perturbes, sed me, N., ad locum talem deferas, placide, hilariter, iocunde, et velociter, absque omni impedimento.

Deinde ascende audacter et secure, quia omnino tibi nocere non potest. Signo vere crucis non te signabis, quia ipsum a te fugabis.

Cum autem perveneris ad locum prenommatum, descende de equo et accipe a Blot between o and s.

b MS dicat.

c Figure on fol. 36r: a double circular band, with eight lines of text inscribed within it: Agla / Michael virtus dei / Gabriel fortitudo / Eimmanuel Paraclitus / Raphael medicina dei / Alpha et O, Oti, Ely / Tetragramaton, amen / Agla. Each line of text has a cross inside a square at either end.

a Followed by hec.

b MS quod.

c Followed by a blot.

d Corrected from abesse.

frenum, et absconde sub terra. Peracto autem tuo negocio, recipias frenum et scuete^e firmissime, et statim veniet. Cum autem ascendere volueris, dic^t precedentem coniuracionem et hec tria verba: Rastelya, Elogo, Yelas, etc.

NO. 18. THE MIRROR OF FLORON, FOR REVELATION OF PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE (FOLS 37r-38r)

Hic incipit speculum Floron.

Fac fieri speculum de puro calibe, ad mensuram palme vnus in rotundo; habeatque manubrium ad tenendum, et sit illuminatum et lucidum vt ensis. Sitque factum in nomine Floron, et in circuitu istius speculi ex alia parte non lucida sint hec decim nomina, cum hiis decem caracteribus descripta, et nomen spiritus predicti sit in medio scriptum.^a Postquam fuerit factum, in loco secreto vngatur ex puro balsamo ex parte lucida, et subfumiga, scilicet [37v] cum ligno aloes, ambra, et mirra, et olibano albo.

Hoc peracto, magister huius operis sedens faciat ipsum speculum teneri per manubrium cum ambabus manibus pueri virginis ante pectus suum, et ipse magister sit balneatus, eciam mundis vestibus indutus, qui antequam incipiat exercere hoc opus mel, lac, et vinum equaliter insimul mixtum in aerem aspergat, dicendo,

O Floron, in speculo sicut solitus es apparere citissime respondeas.

Hoc dicto, hanc coniuracionem coram speculo legat:

Bismille araathe mem^b bismissa gassim gisim galisim darrgosim samaiaosim ralisim ausini taxarim zaloimi hyacabanoy illete laytimi hehelmini betoyimi thoma leminao vnuthomin zonim narabanorum azarethia thathilat hinanadon illemay sard hucacef illemegiptimi sitaginatim viaice hamlamice tatiala tallarini alaohit haleytum gaplametuntij mortoorfail geibel huabaton albitat hualopin halmagritie hualeon huastanie hualtamemeth huatorzor illenie giptimi talgnie gathegine lesuma lesanim aptasale albweroahit vlleath alford vsemeth aptisile abfluwarth vllelath ant clulamoralie hahysitimi ualeles [38r] lithimi caegine

e Sic in MS.

f MS ac.

a Figure on fol. 37^r: a double circular band, divided into ten segments. Outer band has the names Latranoy, Iszarin, Bicol, Danmals, Gromon, Zara, Ralkal, Sigtonia, Samah and Meneglasar written in the ten segments; inner band contains corresponding figures. Inscribed within the bands is a rectangle, subdivided into six sections, which contain the letters F-L-O-R-O-N.

b Second m written with superscript line over it.

catliegineles mirabolamini abtasile albiwahith alleath halamaton vnitia gaytatalon huia gay soze cemeselis phalmorath bethathure huaba lagis illemeammitimi gelgine gathegine lesmirapta libe albiwath vleuth.^c

Dicta vero hac coniuratione, magister in speculo aspiciat, et videbit militem armatum in equo sedentem et armigerum suum comitantem secum, qui miles de equo descendet, et armiger eius equum tenebit. Cui militi sic dicet: 'Se desperata, decentissime visibiliter greciomo.'^d Et tunc magister ipsum interrogat de preteritis, presentibus, et futuris, et ipse continuo certo scripto interrogata plenius insinuabit.

Non ergo tibi incredibile sit, quicumque fuerit^e huius operis artifex, quia dum nouies ista perfeceris, idem spiritus manifeste vniuersa que prius per scripta insinuauerat ore ad os viua voce palificando denunciabit.

Dum ergo cuncta pro tuo velle perfeceris, eidem spiritui^f cum pace precipe vt recedat, et iuxta preceptum sui domini redeat cum fuerit vocatus.

NO. 19. THE MIRROR OF FLORON, SECOND VERSION (FOLS 38r–39v)

Hic incipit speculum Floron, et alio modo quam supra sit notatum, quamuis cum eisdem regulis.

Fac fieri speculum de puro calibe, ad mensuram palme vnus in rotundo, et habeat manu- [38v] brium ad tenendum, et sit illuminatum et lucidum vt ensis. Sitque factum in honore et in nomine spirituum inferiorum, et in circuitu speculi et ex alia parte non lucida sint 10 nomina cum decem karacteribus suprascriptis, vt pateat in speculo, et hoc nomen Floron in medio sit sculptum. Et postquam factum fuerit, in loco tali secreto sicut scis vngatur puro balsamo in parte lucida. Et sit subfumigatum hiis speciebus, scilicet ligno aloes, ambra, mirra, splendenti,^a et olibano albo.

Hoc facto, magister huius operis sedens faciat ipsum speculum teneri ambabus manibus alicuius pueri virginis^b ante pectus suum. Et ipse magister sit primo balneatus et mundis vestibus indutus, et ab omnibus aliis modis, vt bene nosti, ordinatus,^c antequam incipiat hoc opus exercere. Mel, lac, et vinum mixta aspergantur in aere, et magister predictum spiritum proprio

^c Individual words in almost all cases separated by punctus.

^d Sic in MS.

^e Meaning fueris?

^f Sic in MS.

^a Sic in MS.

^b MS alicui puero virgini.

^c Sic in MS.

nomine^d advocet vt in speculum sicut solitus est veniat et vera responsa de omnibus interrogatis per certa scripta vel verba respondeat.

Hoc dicto, magister coniuracionem sequentem C[h]aldaycis verbis scripta[m] perlegat hoc modo:

Brissassa cassini gossini gaissini gratagossini samalaosini raxini gratini caraxini maraxini sobohini herura banor allegalte alitisti alaro haletum ha- [39r] maymon hyalermom bispelimi bristedelimi hybelim bytho yhan bythoimin chosuma lonym lonynti torrimernum vitabanor atheretatat hyathet huyazalon vtaref illemegyptum biragyarius hyarite^e heramenice conolar ganstraximi aloryoli helytum gayta mementum montoro lazyabel hubaton albnetaf^f hyxalepini almagarie hualeon hyaltanixe hualenyefet huatosor allemegitum cagine satogyne laminy lesymaybdo abtysilthi alluhuaith valehat arfard huzeniecht aptihle abimerahit vllehath enzebula morabe balitum veralesucum teagyne lesmyro valanum aptalile asugnathecht valleath hyamatharon hyabia gaytatalon hya yagapolozol phalmolmeth bethaure huaba laygip illenietentum taygine oragine deragrineles myraptalile vlleythith setrataha conox.^g

Magister inspiciat in speculo et videbit militem armatum in equo sedentem et armigerum suum commitantem secum. Qui miles de equo descendet, et armiger eius equum tenebit. Cui militi sic dicet: 'Parate insilitio gytromon.' Tunc magister interroget ipsum de preteritis, presentibus, et futuris, et ipse continuo certo scripto interrogata plenarie inti- [39v] mabit. Non sit igitur incredibile tibi, quicumque fueris huius operis artifex, quod cum con[iuracionem] predicta[m] feceris, idem spiritus qui prius manifeste insinuauerat per scripta postea vna nocte per exercitium et in die omni hora ore ad os pallificando denunciabit, et etiam omnia que sub circulo lune sunt et etiam in terra et super terram, visibiliter et^h aperte demonstrabit.

Cum igitur cuncta perfeceris, precipe vt in pace recedat et iuxta preceptum magistri quacumqueⁱ hora vocatus fuerit quod festinanter veniat et sine mora.

Nota quod 10 nomina cum suis caracteribus debent sculpi in speculo prima die Veneris, luna^j crescente, et etiam speculum eadem die debet fieri. Et si non potest ex toto perfici eodem die Veneris, compleatur [secunda] uel tertia die Veneris, et semper luna crescente. Videat bene sculptor vel faber quod non sint poluti luxuria per 9 dies antequam accedant ad opus. Sint etiam balneati et loti et mundis vestibus induti, vt scis.

d Partly covered by blot.

e Followed by heramite, deleted.

f Or albueta.

g Or possibly conox.

h Followed by apere, deleted.

i MS quecumque.

j MS lune.

NO. 20. ANOTHER WAY OF USING A MIRROR (FOLS 39v–40v)

Item, secundum alium modum.

In coniunctione Veneris et Jouis, vade ad locum secretum ac secretissimum, vt infra assignabitur. Et habeas tecum candelas accensas, et tene tecum speculum calibeum limpidum et politum, factum luna 4a uel 7a vel xiiij.^a [40r] Et in sequenti die ieiunabis. Et cum operare uolueris, vade ad locum vt supra dictum est, et fac circulum, et finge ibi speculum supradictum supra^b lignum ad modum cultelli factum, et dicas hec verba:

Siclis piclis ticlis moturas baruch cortex garyn ruent hismuie haruel fuganes furtym fermal farue cornalis hosuo zelades pasapa phirpa tirph. Tu qui es deus, Alpha et O, fac hoc speculum crescere et clarescere donec ad visum meum sufficiat.

Hic non est defectus.

Sequitur [alia] coniuracio:

Coniuro te

- per deum,
- et per tres pueros Sydrac, Mysaach, et Abdenago,
- et per tres magos Caspar, Balthasar, et Melchior,
- et per tres patriarchas Abraham, Ysaac, et Iacob,
- et per illum cui nomen est Theoden, Lien, Elyon, Vergilon, Christus, Deus fortis, Emanuel, Caspar, Caspan, Caspar, Corpion, Asmal.

Hec dic tribus vicibus, et videbitur tibi clarescere et crescere, et apparebunt tibi multi in speculo tamquam in campo.^c Tunc inquire secure de quacumque re quod uolueris, et sufficienter tibi respondebunt.

Post primam autem vicem, [40v] quandocumque vis, vbicumque vis, in secreto tamen loco, hoc facere poteris dicens verba supradicta. Hoc enim speculum tibi consecrabitur ad illam quam tu vnquam plus affectasti in circulo nobilissimo de tribus militibus.^d

Et nota quod omnis circulus et dicti circuli debent fieri quando^e nubes non appareant, quod si postea apparuerint non est timendum, quia spiritus sunt, etc.

a xiiij duplicated in lower margin.

b MS supera.

c MS campo.

d Sic in MS.

e MS quod.

NO. 21. FOR INVISIBILITY (FOL. 40v)

Studeas invenire vnam cattam nigram, natam in mense Martij, et exviscera eam, corde tamen remanente; tunc absconde cor cum cultello qui sit de Venere facto,^a et oculos erue dicte catte cum eodem cultello, et imple^b foramina oculorum semine cuiusdam herbe que elyotropia dicitur, vnum in oculo dextro et aliud in sinistro, et tertium in cor[de], semper hec verba dicendo: Sapreson lampsones sampsanay, invisibilis fiat homo. Et reple eam cora,^c et sepeli eam in ortu tuo in quo nemo intrat, et eam riga^d cum sanguine humano et aqua commistis, hoc continuando per xv dies vsque quo crescit herba alba, cuius semen suo opere^e semper illa verba repetendo. Scias tamen quod quelibet herba dabit semen, sed granum unum bonum, quod quidem sic eligere debes, et nomina semper repetendo. Habeas igitur speculum coram te, et respiciendo vnum granum post aliud in speculo, et ponas omnia grana in ore tuo sub lingua tua, et bene semper consideras granum illud quod ponis in os tuum. Et si in^f quocumque grano posito in ore te videre non poteris in speculo, scias id esse bonum et vile pro te, etc.

NO. 22. FOR DISCOVERING A THIEF OR MURDERER BY GAZING INTO A VESSEL (FOL. 41r-42r)

Ad furtum inveniendum, recipe cultellum cum manubrio nigro vel albo, et facias circulum in terra,^a dicendo has oraciones: Deus, qui corda fidelium Sancti Spiritus, etc., Concede nos famulos tuos, etc., et Homines sancti tui. Et habeas puerum uel puellam virginem. Et magister intret^b cum ea vel cum eo in circulum, et accipiet^c magister a .Meaning cum cultello die Veneris facto? The e in de is blotted out, but the word is replicated in the margin.

b Followed by Ero, deleted.

c Sic, an alternative form of cera.

d MS rega.

e Sic in MS.

f .Meaning cum?

a Figure at the top of fol. 42: double circular band, the interior of which is divided into six wedges. Pentagrams with On just beyond each point are inscribed in the upper and lower wedges, and to the lower left and right of the circle. Within the circle is inscribed Hic sedeat [=sedeat] puer super signum (in the inner band, at top); Hic sedeat magister super signum (in the inner band, at bottom) a latere sinistro (in the outer band, at bottom). To the right of this figure is a column containing five horizontal bands and labelled Istud est signum; in the bands is inscribed Esto altissimus, vnus, eternus; amen, with one word per band.

b Followed by blot.

c Altered in MS from accipiat.

serraginem bene mundatam intus et extra, et scribat super eum predicto cultello hoc signum et hec nomina similiter:

Onel,^d On, Adonay, Emanuel, sanctus deus fortis, sanctus Ely, sanctus Elyon, sanctus dominus deus Sabaoth, mirabilis splendor, Alpha et O. Fiat.

Quo scripto, accipias lumen et invngas desuper serraginem cum penna galline nigre, et de sinistra ala, hoc modo dicendo Pater Noster ter, tot cum Kyrieleison, Christeleison, Kyrieleison tribus vicibus, Christus ab antiqua fraude, magnus, magnus et eternus; fiat, amen, Exaudi nos tribus vicibus, Pater de celis, miserere nobis; sancta Maria, ora pro nobis; sancte Michahel, orate pro nobis; sancte Raphahel, ora pro nobis; sancte Johannes Baptista, precursor domini, ora pro nobis; omnes sancti et sancte, ora pro nobis; Kyrieleison, Christeleison, Kyrieleison; Christe, audi nos.

Hoc vero supra scriptum periurato,^e dicat magister in auriculo pueri coniuracionem istam:

Coniuro te, puer,

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum, cui omne nomen flectitur et omnis lingua proclamat Osanna [cf. Phil. 2:10];

coniuro te

- per sanctam Mariam semper virginem,
- per angelos et archangelos,
- per xxiiijor seniores,
- et per cxla milia martirum [41v] qui pro nomine Christi iugulati sunt,
- et per sanctum Johannem Baptistam,
- et per omnes patriarchas et prophetas,
- et per xij apostolos,
- et per 4or ewangelistas,
- et per septuaginta discipulos domini,
- et per omnes sanctos et sanctas dei,
- et per omnes virtutes omnipotentis dei, celestes, terrestres, et infernales, ut quidquid tu videas nobis insinues, et ut tu veraciter videre posses quis vel qui eciam sit vel sint qui furtum istud uel homicidium fecerunt, virtute omnipotentis dei^f et gracia.

Coniuracione vero facta, dicas super caput pueri hanc coniuracionem:

d Meaning On, El.

e Sic in MS.

f MS virtute dei omnipotentis dei.

Deus, creator omnium rerum, te deprecor humili deuotione, per tuam mirabilem potenciam, quatenus isti puero tribuas scienciam et intellectum, ut michi veritatem annunciet de furtis uel homicidiis, ut^g cogatis, omni fallacia remota, inimicosⁱ et exallent nomen tuum, quod est benedictum in secula seculorum. Amen. Domine Ihesu Christe, qui cooperante Spiritu Sancto per mortem tuam mundum riuificasti, illumina cor^j et corpus istius pueri, ut veritatem michi annunciet de furtis que interrogauero, per hec sanctissima nomina: Nazarenus, Messyas, Adonay, qui cum Patre et Filio et Spiritu Sancto uiuit et regnat per omnia secula seculorum.

Precipiat magister puero ut intente inspicat in vase illo idem chimurili,^k hoc vero modo ut alibi non respiciat aut aliquo modo visum suum ab eo auertat. Et si aliquo modo puer in prima vice nichil viderit, iterum coniuret illum puerum secunda vice, quousque videat puer hoc furtum vel homicidium et rem illam de qua dubitas. Etc.

NO. 23. FIRST MIRROR OF LILITH (FOL. 42r-43r)

Hoc est primum speculum Lilit et suorum virorum suorumque militum seniorum. Et hoc speculum debet fieri in magistratu sui speculi, et in memoria omnium nominum suorum seruorum, qui omnes res ante Caym faciunt in mundissimo loco.^a Coniuro vos demones ut veniatis et compareatis et dicatis michi de quocumque interrogauero vos omnem veritatem, in nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti. Amen. Christus ✕ vincit ipsum ✕ Balbieit ✕ Zelans,^b Zelles, Dimedero, Cadar, es qui cotidie astra celorum ascendunt ubi sunt tres dogie^c cruci uel breues actu uel ictu seculorum in quatuor partes seculi, ad faciendam totam voluntatem in eam, per deum ubi probabilit(er)^d et licencia placabiliter et effabiliter, sine terrore, absque locius ineffabili poten- [42v] cia deitatis summi viui, in hac veri dei virtute te exoramus, Lylet, per honorem patris tui Arieth, et per illud sacramentum quod tu Norma matri tue fecisti verbo, et in similitudine tua et non in g ¹ malformed, and duplicated above line.

h ¹ Meaning et.²

i ¹ MS inimici.

j ¹ c blotted out, and word duplicated in margin.

k ¹ Sic in MS.

a ¹ Sic in MS.

b ¹ Followed by 20 (?), deleted.

c ¹ Sic in MS.

d ¹ Sic in MS.²

coruorum similitudine, ad sermocinandum et ad sedendum nobiscum in quacumque hora requisierimus te in speculo isto, pacifice ac humiliter ac sine vlla deformitate, te michi ostendas; et amplius vt duo uel plures de seruis tuis, qui vero tam de furto quam de homicidio aut de quacumque alia re dubitabili de qua scire voluero michi dent vera responsa vel signa, in dei virtute et obediencia.

Istud vero speculum debet formari ad modum Clypei, vel^e alio modo [si] volueris, in cuius giro hec nomina depingantur: Deus sanctus, deus omnipotens, deus fortis, deus immortalis, pater futuri seculi. Et circa duo lattera superiora sigilla Salomonis depingantur maiora, in fine vero clypei minus sigillum Salomonis, et in medio speculi hoc nomen 'Lylet'^f depingatur, prout in hac patebit figura que infra ponitur.^g [43r] Postea vero sicut alio vitro, sicut alia specula solent, circumdetur.^h Quo vero facto, tacite et secrete defer ad quadriuium vel ad sepulc[r]um alicuius hominis interfecti, in crepusculo noctis, diei Martis vel Saturni, dicendo hanc coniuracionem:

Coniuro te, Lylet,ⁱ ac socios tuos,

- per Alpha et O,
- per primum et nouissimum, Abiel, Rotbons, Cafre, O deus, O male Christe, inclitus, On, Ely, Elyon, Messyas, Sabaoth, Adonay, Emanuel;

coniuro [te] eciam, Lylet,^j atque socios tuos,

- per annunciacionem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- et per natiuitatem eius,
- et per aduentum Spiritus Sancti paracliti, vt in quacumque hora te vocauero, in hoc speculo michi appareas cum tuis sociis atque de re illa de qua scire voluero michi vera dando responsa vel signa.

Oracione vero ista completa, per aliam viam reuertaris ad hospicium tuum. Postea vero, eadem hora ac die, ad quadriuium vade et accipe speculum, et cum de re aliqua volueris scire dubitabili, ipsos per coniuracionem iam dictam venire compellas. Et quere quidquid volueris, et dicent tibi. Etc.

^e Largely blotted out.

^f MS Bylet.

^g Figure given at bottom right of fol. 42^v: shield with a single band around its edge. In the band is inscribed, Deus sanctus, deus omnipotens, deus fortis, deus immortalis, pater futuri seculi. The name Bylet [=Lylet] appears in the centre. In the upper left- and right-hand corners are pentagrams with On just beyond each point; smaller version appears at bottom.

^h Perhaps meaning: Postea vero vitro, sicut alia specula solent, circumdetur.

ⁱ MS Bylet.

^j MS Bylet.

NO. 24. FOR LEARNING ABOUT ANY UNCERTAIN THING
BY GAZING INTO A CRYSTAL (FOL. 43r-v)

Si vis scire de omni re de qua dubitaueris, accipe puerum virginem et cristallum, quem laua cum vino. Deinde scribe in illo cum oleo oliue hec nomina: [43v] Hon, Hely, Sabaoth, Adonay, Hel, Hely, Heloym, Sother, Emanuel, Alpha et O, [et dic.]

O vos sanctissima nomina, rogo ut mittatis michi duos angelos uel tres in hunc cristallum, qui dicant michi veritatem de hiis que ego inquiram. Et rogo vos angelos ut dicatis michi veritatem quam ego inquiram a vobis.

Primo hec^b dicat puer:

Coniuro vos in nomine Dedeon, et dij Egarias et Semisonay, et ex parte magistri mei, quod veniatis in hunc cristallum, ita quod aperte possim videre.

Et repete nomina superius habita donec venerint.

Et cum venerint, puer dicat nomina supradicta et coniuret eos in nomine Dedeon et dij, etc.; quod fiat ter. Et super sedes aureas sedeant, et cum sedeant puer dicat, Coniuro vos in nomine Bessabes, et Hint, et Serem, et Salaboni, et Lethem, ut non recedatis ab hoc cristallo sine licencia mei magistri, qui hic presens est.

NO. 25. FOR INFORMATION ABOUT A THEFT BY GAZING INTO A CRYSTAL
(FOLS 43v-44r)

Experimentum cristalli ad inveniendum furtum.

Accipias cristallum planum et lucidum, ad modum sigilli factum vel speculi, quem in cera reconde ex una parte virginea. Postea scribas in ipso cum oleo viridi hoc nomen: Honely. Postea dicas hanc coniuracionem:

Omnipotens, sempiternus deus, Domine Ihesu Christe, fili dei viui, qui lapidibus, herbis, [et] predicationibus virtutes michi gentissimas^a atque [44r] mirabiles contulisti, [et] lapidem istam; item,

- per natiuitatem sanctam tuam,
- ac per passionem ac gloriosam resurrectionem tuam et ascensionem,

a MS que.

b Or hoc.

c MS apperte.

a MS filij.

b Meaning gratissimas?

• atque per hec sancta nomina tua: Adonay, Sabaoth, Hon, Ely, Eloy, Elyon, Honely, Sother, Tetragramaton, Emanuel, Alpha et O, consecrare [et] benedicere digneris, per tui honorem et gloria[m], qui viuis et regnas deus, per omnia secula seculorum. Amen. Agla, Otmonta, Panoneogens, Origmaria, non obset Asya, Africa, nec Europa,^d nec eius partes, quin ad nos veniat. Fiat, fiat, fiat sine mora.

Postquam vero apparuerint tibi in cristallo, dicas hanc coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos angelos,

- per deum inuim et verum,
- et per natiuitatem sanctam eius,
- et per eius passionem,^f
- et per eius resurrectionem sanctam,
- et per eius missionem Sancti Spiriti paracleti,
- et per sanctam eius aduentum,
- et per hec sancta nomina dei: Honay, Sabaoth, Onel, Ely, Eloym, Sother, Emanuel, ut superius dictum est,
- et per omnia nomina sancta dei,

ut non recedatis ab hoc lapide quousque certificati fuerimus de omni re dubitabili de quo scire voluerimus, virtute dei omnipotentis et obediencia. Amen.

Notandum eciam est quod non debet aliquis vti hoc experimento pro re vili vel modica, sed pro causa^e ardua, et ne eciam secundum quod dictum est alibi, 'Ne sumas nomen dei tui in vanum [Ex 19:7], nec invoces inutiliter, etc.'^h

NO. 26. KEY OF PLUTO, TO OPEN ALL LOCKS (FOL. 44v)

Sume tibi ferrum inventum ex inprovisu, et fac tibi fieri clauem huiusmodi, factam die Veneris.^a Et cum facta fuerit, repone eam per noctem cum sacrificio galli albi in quadruuio, dicens,

O spiritus Neylon [et] Achalas, accipite sacrificium ut nichil contra me et contra clauem istam valeat sera vbi ista clavis ponetur.

c Followed by te.

d MS Eroupa.

e MS natiuitatem.

f Followed by two (?) deleted words.

g MS casa.

h Ex. 20:7 184g: Non adsumes nomen domini dei tui in vanum.

a Figure on upper right of fol. 44v: a key, with a single tooth extending to the left and a single tooth to the right.

Et fac super istam clauem antequam posueris subtus terram hanc figuram de sanguine galli albi.^b Et dimitte ibi tribus diebus. Tercia autem nocte, ante gallicinium, accipe eam inde. Cum transieris urbem, recipe clauem cum sinistra manu de occidente in orientem, omnesque seras aperiat. Et^d dicitur hec clauis Plutonis.

NO. 27-A. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION ABOUT A THEFT
BY GAZING INTO A FINGERNAIL (FOLS 44v 45v)

Ad furtum inveniendum, accipe puerum virginem de legitimo thoro, hora qua vis ante meridiem, et illius ungwe de pollice sinistre manus cum cultello bene purgabis. Deinde cedula subnotatis nominibus scriptam in eodem digito ligabis sub ungwe. Et hec sunt nomina: Egippia, Benoham, Beanke (vel Beanre), Reranressym, Alredessym, Ehemidyri, Fecolinie, Dysi, Medirini, Alhea, Heresim, Egippia, Benoham,^c Haham, Ezirohias, Bohodi, Hohada, Anna, Hohanna, Oherco. Metaliteps, Aregero, Agertho, Aliberri, Halba.

Hoc facto, si puer non vi- [45r] det aliquid, etc.^b Si autem videt, liga corrigiam ouinam, quam ad tres missas quas perfecte audiuiisti tecum habuisti, supra cedula circa digitum, dicendo hanc coniuracionem:

O vos demones, qui coram me in ungwe istius pueri apparuistis,

• per eum qui est Alpha et O,

uobis impero et precipio et coniuro,

• per hec sacratissima nomina: Ely, Eloy, Messyas, Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay,

• et per On, quod est primum nomen domini Pantocrator,^c Anethelen,

• et per alia nomina michi cognita et incognita, et non habeatis potestatem recedendi cum vestris sociis donec omnino omnem meam voluntatem adimpleueritis, et sine omni mendacio et lesione alicuius. Et si hoc facere contempseritis, iubeo vos ligari sub profunditate aquarum maris, per hec duo nomina: Ioth [et] Nabnoth, per que Salomon constringebat in vase vitreo demones. Coniuro vos

• per vij signa Salomonis,

• et per sigillum et sapienciam eius,

^b Figure part-way down fol. 44r: a large cross, followed by XL.

^c MS omnia qui.

^d Deleted, but re-added in margin.

^e Or hoc.

^a These two names, already given at the outset of the series, are here repeated.

^b Partly blotted out.

^c Sic in MS, for Pantocrator?

ut non habeatis licenciam recedendi hinc donec de quacumque re interrogauero michi dicatis et ostendatis veritatem.

Hiis dictis, si puer non dicat directe, dic in aure eius hanc coniuracionem:

Coniuro te, virgo iuuenis,

- per deum verum Basyon.
- et per nomen On, Berion, Sabaoth, Adonay;

coniuro te

- per baptismum [45v] et castitatem tuam sacram, qua te regenerauit ex aqua et Spiritu Sancto, et non habeas potestatem celandi. sed omnia que videris manifestes.

Hiis coniuracionibus ter dictis, si te expedire^d non expediant spiritus, adde hanc coniuracionem:

Vos demones ab oriente,^e vos demones ab occidente, vos demones ab meridie, vos demones a septentrione. aperite nobis, Discobermath, Archidemath, Fritath, Altramat, Pestiferat, Helyberp, Hegergibet, Sathan.

Qua coniuracione ter dicta seu repetita, clare videbit puer omnia.

Hoc eciam experimentum valet adhuc si aliquis vellet scire statum amicorum suorum, vtrum essent sani vel egri, et denunciaret si essent in via vel non.

Coniuracio super corrigiam, de qua iam dictum est: Finita missa qualibet die, ter dicas hanc coniuracionem super corrigiam:

Coniuro te, Sona,

- per hoc nomen domini: Tetragramaton.
- et per hoc nomen dei: Ioth,
- et per hoc nomen dei: Nabnoth,
- et per omnes virtutes et potestates herbarum et lapidum et verborum, ut virtutem talem recipias quod quocumque fueris ligata, ipsi spiritus non habeant potestatem recedendi quousque velle ligatoris perficiant.

Explicit primum capitulum.

Cemay edo cuscucas, feferaton, San.^f

^d Or possibly expedite.

^e Followed by ab occidente, deland.

^f Fol. 46, following, is blank.

NO. 27-C. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION (FOLS 46v-47v)^a [. . .] pueri; et

- per nomen principis vestri summi,
- per coronam capitis sui,
- per obedienciam quam sibi debetis, ut veniatis ab omnibus partibus mundi, omni occasione postposita, et in vngue istius pueri apparetis, et nobis sine dubio et sine fallacia illud quod a vobis scire volumus veraciter manifestetis. Fiat, fiat, fiat.

Coniuro te, virgo iuuenis,

- per^b deum On, Orion, Sabaoth, Adonay, ut non habeas potestatem menciendi uel celandi de quocumque interrogauero; item^c coniuro te, virgo iuuenis,

- per deum tuum, Alpha et O, qui est primus et nouissimus,
- per baptismum quem^d recepisti in nomine sancte et indiuidue trinitatis,
- per castitatem et potenciam qua te reg[e]nerauit ex aqua et Spiritu Sancto, ut non habeas potenciam neque licenciam celandi uel menciendi quodcumque videris; item coniuro te, virgo iuuenis,

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- per sanctum nomen dei Elthie,
- per sanctum Tetragramaton,
- per sancta nomina dei On, Ely, Eloy, Eloë, ut non habeas licenciam seu potestatem celandi^e quodcumque sciueris; coniuro te, virgo iuuenis,

- per baptismum quem accepisti de sancta credulitate, per castitatem et potenciam sacramenti qua te reg[e]nerauit de anima Spiritus Sancti, ut tam cito et sine mora, aperte et breuiter, in vngue istius pueri veritatem [47r] nobis ostendas, aliter, etc.^f Infans, coniuro te

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- per nomen^g dei^h Elthie,

^a Text continued from fol. 51r.

^b per repeated.

^c Followed by blot.

^d MS quod.

^e MS celandi.

^f This element of conjuration, addressed to the spirit, seems misplaced in the midst of a conjuration addressed to the boy.

^g MS nomina.

^h Followed by Elthie, deleted.

- per Tetragramaton,
 - per hec nomina domini nostri Ihesu Christi: Ely, Eloy, Eloem,
 - et per baptismum quem accepisti in nomine sancte et indiuidue trinitatis,
 - per caritatem dei, Alpha et O, quod est principium et finis,
- et aspicias in vngue ita ut si deceniat clarus uel non.*

Tunc interroga puerum si vngwis sit clarior quam ante. Si dicat non, lege iterum coniuracionem ab inicio, et tertia vice si necesse fuerit. Si dicit quod sit clarior, quere si videat aliquid. Si dicit quod videat hominem, faciat magister coniurare puerum illumⁱ quem videt, in materna lingwa, sic:

Tu qui es coram me, coniuro te

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per sanctam Mariam et eius virginitatem,
- per sanctum Iohannem et eius virginitatem,
- per sanctam Katherinam et eius virginitatem,
- per omnes sanctos et sanctas virgines,
- et per virginitatem meam,

ut cito vadas pro rege tuo et facias eum venire coram me, ita ut ipsum possim expresse videre et intelligere.

Postea quere a puero si rex venit. Si non, coniuret iterum puer ut prius. Si venit, dicat puer regi quod descendat de equo suo et faciat afferri cathedram super quam sedeat. Tunc querat puer a rege si velit comedere. Si dicit quod non, tunc de quo volueris queras. Si dicit quod sic, dicat puer regi quod mittat pro vno ariete [47v] ad quemcumque locum voluerit et faciat ipsum excorriari et decoqui, et tunc dicat quod faciat poni mensam. et surgat et lauet manus, et sedeat ad mensam et faciat arietem poni coram se, et cito comedat. Postquam comedit, surgat et accipiat aquam et lauet manus.

Postea dicat puer regi quod remoueat coronam de capite et ponat manum dextram super caput suum et iuret per coronam suam et per ceptrum suum et per illud quod tenet sub manu sua dextra quod veraciter respondeat ad omnes questiones magistri. Deinde querat magister per puerum quidquid voluerit. Postquam satis factum questionibus magistri, detur spiritibus licencia, et puer sic dicat: 'Ite. Pax sit inter nos et vos. Et quando magister vos vocauerit, estote parati sibi obedire in omnibus per omnia.'

Explicit secundum capitulum j i Followed by quod, blotted out.

j Written twice.

NO. 28. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION
BY GAZING AT A BONE (FOLS 47v–49r)

De^a omni re dubitabili, eciam incerta, [pro] veritate habenda, accipe spatulam arietis dextram, oleo oliue invinctam, quam ponendo super manubrium cultelli, inspiciat puer^b virgo. Tu vero ex alia parte, tenendo candelam accensam, dicas hoc modo:

Ergarrandras, Ornīs, Arbes, Cargie, Ornīs, Arbas, ego in virtute domini nostri Ihesu Christi, qui est Alpha et O, primus et nouissimus, iniciū et finis, coniuro vos demones et advoco,

- per eum qui dixit omnia et facta sunt,
- et per [48r] eum cui obediunt omnes creature,
- et per eum [ante] quem tremunt omnes exercitus angelorum, celestium et terrestrium et infernorum,
- et per ipsius virtutem et omnipotenciam,
- et per tremendum diem iudicij summi dei,
- et per ipsius nomina hec sancta: On, El, Ely, Eloy, Adonay, Alpha et O, Messyas, Soter, Emanuel, Pancraton, Occinomos, Tetragramaton, Agyos, Otheos, Athanatos, Yschiros, Kirios, Alleluia, Eleyson, Ymas,^c

quatenus sine mora visibiliter in hac spatula compareatis, ante faciem istius pueri virginis, et respondeatis et demonstretis omnem veritatem de hac re,^d N., nobis dubitabili^e et incerta. Britonia, Bresis, Diton, Crasis, Sanete, Garbamion, libera nos famulos ab omni malo. Pater noster, etc.

Item coniuro vos demones

- per caput et coronam principis vestri,
- et per vestram potestatem, vobis a summo deo datam,
- per anulum Salomonis, et per signa et sancta nomina in ipsis descripta,
- et per vij celos et per omnes angelos in ipsis dispositos,
- et per omnes potestates aereas^f et infernales, quatenus cito, etc. Gospar, Dasper, Gespar, Lapid, Sparsis, Nota, Calius,^g Asper. Item coniuro vos demones a Repeated in margin.

b Followed by vr, deleted.

c Sic in MS.

d Followed by nob, deleted.

e Corrected from dubitabile.

f r blotted out, and replaced above line.

g Or Talius.

- per caput et coronam principis vestri,
 - et per^h vestram potestatem, vobis a summo deo datam,
 - per anulos Salomonis et per signa et sancta nomina in ipsis descripta;ⁱ
 - per angelos et archangelos, per thronos et dominaciones, per principatus et potestates [48v] [et] virtutes, per cherubin et seraphin, et per omnes virtutes celorum,
 - per celum et terram et mare et omnia que in eis sunt,
 - per xij apostolos,
 - per martires et confessores, virgines [et] viduas,
 - per patriarchas et prophetas et ewangelistas,
 - per^l xxij seniores,
 - per cxi milia innocentum,
 - et per omnes sanctos et electos dei qui sunt in celo et in terra,
- quatenus cito et sine mora, etc.*

Tunc inquiras a puero si videat spatulam crescere et clarescere, quod si sic, tunc dicat postea hanc coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos spiritus

- per virtutem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- et per virginitatem sancte Marie,
- et per virginitatem sancte Katerine et sancte Lucie et sancte Agate et sancte Cecilie et sancte Barbare,
- et per virginitatem sancti Johannis ewangeliste,^k
- et per caput sancti Johannis ewangeliste,
- et per virginitatem meam,

vt cito in hac spatula a[p]pareatis, vt vos videre possim.

Quo spiritu viso in forma humana nigra, inquire ab ipso de tuo negocio, prout melius videris expedire, puero mediante^l et per virginitatem^m ipsum spiritum constringente.

Sit puer infra xij annos existens. Et post mane et in crepusculo noctis, circulum protrahendo, dicas, h Followed by virtutem, deleted.

i The lines Item coniuro vos demones . . . per signa et sancta nomina in ipsis descripta are repeated verbatim.

j Formation is irregular, as if the scribe began writing the sign for et and then changed it to that for per.

k Sic in MS, meaning Baptiste.

l Initial letter blotted out.

m Changed in MS to (or from?) virginitates.

Sator, arepo, tenet, opera, rotas. In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti. Amen. Acciones nostras, quesumus, domine, aspirando prueni et adiuuando persequere, ut cuncta nostra opera a te semper incipiant et per te cepta finiantur. Per Christum dominum nostrum. Amen. Deus, qui misisti Spiritum Sanctum super [49r] apostolos tuos, mitte Spiritum Sanctum tuum paracletum super istum puerum, et illumina et clarifica intellectum ipsius atque animam, ut in spiritu videre possit creaturas tuas, et nobis reuelare omnem veritatem de hac re nobis dubitabili et incerta.

Scribantur in spatula hec sancta nomina dei: On, El, Eloy, Adonay, Alpha et O, Pancraton, Occinomos, Tetragramaton. Dum volueris eos licenciare, fac signum crucis supra spatulam, dicendo,

In nomine Patris, et Filij, et Spiritus Sancti. Amen. Ecce crux^a domini; fugite, partes aduerse; viciit leo de triba Juda, stirps David. Ille in pace ad loca vnde remistis.

Poteris eciam coniurare puerum per virginitatem vt habeat potestatem videndi spiritum et non menciendi.

Explicit.

NO. 29. THE TRUE ART OF THE BASIN (FOL. 49r-v)

Incipit ars verissima de bacimine.

Hec nomina dices in aurem pueri virginis:

Carab, Riasteli, Careb, Basal, Mistal, Oronothel, Fabanin, Non, Va, Vatul. Coniuro vos

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- per sanctam Mariam virginem,
- per ix ordines angelorum,
- per patriarchas,
- per prophetas [et] apostolos,
- per martires,
- per confessores,
- per virgines,

et appareatis in bacimine isto, et veraciter huius rei veritatem nobis ostendatis, ut non sit michi aliquod impedimentum veritatis in ista questione. Rabuel, Astena, Hytatol, cogitate facere voluntatem meam per predictas potestates.

ⁿ MS cruce[m].

^a Followed by patriarches et prophetas, deleted, and by a redundant per that is not deleted.

Hec tria nomina scribentur in cedula [49v] que ponitur in bacimine dum ars fiet.
Postea dic,

Deus celi, deus terre, deus angelorum, deus archangelorum, qui es rex sanctorum omnium, patriarcharum ac prophetarum, te deprecor humili deuotione ut isti puero tribuas scienciam et intellectum, ut michi veritatem de quibus[cumque] interrogauero dicat, per hec sancta nomina tua: Ely, Eloë, Sabaoth, Adonay, Elyon, On, qui viuis et regnas per infinita secula seculorum. Amen. Domine Ihesu Christe, fili^b dei viui, qui ex voluntate Patris, cooperante Spiritu Sancto, per mortem tuam mundum viuificasti, illumina istius pueri cor [et] mentem, et fac ut michi veritatem de hiis que interrogauero dicat, per hec sancta nomina tua: Jesus Nazarenus, Messyas, Sother, Emanuel, Fortis, Fons, Leo, Petra, ut indicet omnia de quibus postulo veritatem.

Explicit.

Coniurationem facio, tu qui es Alpha et O. Coniuro vos demones,

- per tres reges, Caspar, Balthasar, Melchior,
- et per tres pueros, Sydrac, Misac, Abdenago, ut omnes appareatis huic puero in hoc speculo uel ense, Abiniabyndo, Abyncola, Abracalos, Pyel, Thyel, Syel.

Quibus apparentibus,^c dicit puer regi ut sedeat et mittat pro ariete, sic[ut] alias dictum est ante in secundo capitulo istius tractatus.

Postea sequatur coniuracio pueri sicut eciam ibidem dictum est.

Explicit.

NO. 30. TWELVE NAMES TO MAKE SPIRITS APPEAR IN A BOY'S HAND (FOLS 49v–50v)

Bethala, Pamelon, Anguis, Floris, Ereth,^a Alya, Cabyona, Ely, Eloy, Sadamay, Melgry, Asmyacre, intretis in nomine domini. Karacteres isti [50r] scribendi sunt ut infra docetur: A, Q,^b O, P, E, V.

In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti, signum sancte crucis sit in fronte tuo, hoc modo

^b MS filij.

^c MS aparantibus.

^a Corrected in MS from Areth.

^b MS has sign for quod.

signet te dominus Ihesus Christus, hoc modo signet te dominus sicut signauit in Chana Galilee. In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti.

Hoc ter dicatur, qualibet vice signando frontem pueri cum pollice tuo dextre^c manus. Hec nomina predicta xij, scilicet Bethela,^d etc., tociens repetantur, quousque sex spiritus compareant in manu pueri. Postquam^e comparuerint, precipiat puer eis in nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti vt sedeant, et vnus eorum surgat, qui det vera responsa ex parte magistri sui.

Modus operandi idem: Accipe resinam albam quam accendes per candelam super lapidem aliquem planum sub pelui desuper aliquantulum eleuata. Postea cum penna noua colligas in pergamen[t]o aliquo uel corio albo puluerem illum adherentem pelui ex vaporacione resine predicte, et reserua quousque operari volueris. Tunc enim intinges digitum medium^f dextre manus primo in oleo oliue, et linies inferiores quatuor articulos sinistre manus pueri masculi virginis. Deinde eundem digitum tuum intingas in puluerem prefatum,^g et similiter lineas articulos pueri, sicut prius, et sic alternando, nunc cum oleo, nunc cum puluere, donec articuli predicti fiant sicut speculum clarum et resplendens.

Post[ea] dic verba illa duodecim supra nominata: Bethala, Pamelon, etc. Deinde cum signaueris frontem pueri et frontem tuam, si vis, dicendo, In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti, signum sancte crucis sit in fronte, etc., vt supra.

[50v] Cum autem predictos spiritus vis licenciare, puer dicat,

Precipio vobis quod recedatis, in nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti.

Et iterum signare poteris frontem pueri et tuam si vis tercio, modo quo prius et verbis. Nota eciam quod in parte peluis predicte eleuata interius per circuitum cum cultello inscribendi sunt sex illi karacteres, qui supra in isto capitulo sunt nominati – scilicet A, Q,^h etc. – antequam ipsa resina sub ipsa pelui accenditur.

Explicit. Etc.ⁱ

c MS dextro.

d Sic in MS.

e Preceded by Qui.

f u misshapen, as if scribe began writing e.

g MS prefato.

h Formed as before.

i Remainder of fol. 50^v is blank.

NO. 27-B. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION (FOL. 51r)^a [. . .] Cedon, Zephata, Eloyim, Eloyay, venite et apparete in vngwe istius pueri sub forma humana, et ipsum^b vnguem faciatis crescere et clarescere in tantum vt sufficiat ei ad videndum de quocumque ipsum interrogauero. Coniuro vos spiritus,

- per tres reges, Caspar, Baltasar, Melchior, quibus stella apparuit,

[et] per virtutem domini nostri Ihesu Christi, vt natiuitatem suam manifestaret,^c vt in vngwe istius pueri appareatis, et quod a vobis inquirere volumus nobis absque fallacia et sine dubio manifestetis. Coniuro vos spiritus qui vocati estis,

- per tres pueros Sydrac, Misac, Abdenago, vt in vngwe istius pueri appareatis, nec ipsi puero timorem uel terrorem aut lesionem faciatis, et nos de omnibus que a vobis scire volumus certos faciatis. Coniuro vos spiritus qui vocati estis,

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per omnipotenciam eius et virtutem,
- per cherubin et seraphin,
- per thronos et dominaciones,
- per principatus et potestates et virtutes,
- per angelos et archangelos,
- per patriarchas,
- per prophetas,
- per apostolos,
- per confessores,
- per martyres,
- per monachos,
- per virgines et viduas,
- per omnes sanctos et electos dei,
- per ix ordines angelorum,
- per sanctam Mariam matrem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per virginitatem istius [. . .]^d a Continuation of text from fol. 45v.

b MS ipsam.

c Meaning qua natiuitatem suam manifestauit?

d Fol. 51^o is blank; text continues on fol. 46v.

NO. 31. THE BOOK OF CONSECRATIONS
(FOLS 52r-59v AND FOLS 135r-139r)

Incipit prologus libri consecracionum,^a dividens^b ac demonstrans ad quid inventus fuerit, et quid sit eius effectus. Quicumque aliquod opus inceptum perficere voluerit vt perveniat ad effectum, provideat sibi prius in omnibus et caueat ne in vanum operetur, et precipue in opere isto, quod pre cunctis locis aliis preciosissimum et magis laudabile atque certissimum, quod dei nominibus est consecratum et confirmatum, ne aliquis operator falli possit, si spem et fidem bonam habeat et certam in domino Ihesu Christo, a quo omnia bona procedunt. vt testatur sacra littera, qui non firmiter fideliterque crediderit, saluari non poterit.^c Sic ergo fideliter crede[re] vnicuique operatori est necesse, ne fallatur.

Scias ergo pro certo hoc opus esse inventum propter [errorem] quorundam experimentorum remouendum, scilicet florum, vt per virtutem et invocacionem sanctorum dei nominum [et per] ineffabilem ipsius misericordiam, virtutem et potestatem efficaciter obtineant [135r] Incipit prologus libri consecracionum dicens aut [demonstrans] ad quod inventus sint et quid sint eius^a effectus. Quicumque enim aliquot opus inceptum et finire voluerit ut preueniat ad effectum, provideat sibi primo que sibi^b necessaria sunt, ne in vanum operetur, et precipue in opere isto^c quod pre cunctis alijs magistris^d est laudabile atque certissimum, quod sacris nominibus est consecratum ac confirmatum, ne aliquis operare possit falli, si spem et fidem firmam habeat in domino Ihesu Christo, a quo omnia bona procedunt, sicut sacra scriptura dicit, qui firmiter et fideliter non crediderit, saluus esse non poterit. Si[c] ergo credere vnicuique operatori necesse est, ut non fallatur.

Scias ergo pro certo quod opus est inventum propter errorem quorundam experimentorum remouendum, ut per virtutem et invocacionem sanctorum nominum dei et per

^a Heading duplicated in MS.

^b Sic in MS.

^c Cf. Is 7:9, Lk 1:20, Lk 8:12, Rom 10:9, I Cor 1:21.

^a Sic in MS.

^b MS scilicet.

^c Followed by que, deleted.

^d Sic in MS.

quem debeant obtinere, sicut inferius declarabitur. Quando aliquod experimentum virtutem et potestatem suam sana^d amisit tali modo sicut postea declarabitur potest recuperari.

Nota quod multi sunt qui multa et magna querunt et multa etiam scripta habent et credunt de die in [52v] diem ad effectum pervenire, sed nunquam perveniunt. Et sic se ipsos decipiunt, et opera sua amittunt, et melius valet virtus vnius verbi istorum quam pondus auri. Vnde dicitur, 'Melius est sciencia quam secularis potencia.'^e Sic ista sciencia preualet omnibus aliis, quia omnia alia vera experimenta sunt corrupta, quorum quedam sunt ficta et sic omnia pene falsa.

Hiis igitur diligenter prenotatis, ad nostrum propositum recurras, et videamus quando et qualiter^f exorcista siue operator habere debeat, et quid ei sit vtile ad operandum, ne fallatur.

In primis, quicumque hoc opus sit facturus ineffabilem ipsius misericordiam, veritatem^g atque potestatem efficaciter obtineant quod optinere debea[n]t, sicut inferius declarabitur. Cum igitur hoc experimentum virtutem ac potenciam suam amiserit, tali modo sicut postea docebitur recuperari poterit.

Nota. Multi sunt querentes magna scripta, et credunt de die in diem peruenire ad effectum, et non perueniunt. Sed se ipsos sic decipiunt, quod tempora^f sua amittunt, et melius est scire virtutem vnius verbi quam pondus^g auri, vnde dicitur, 'Melius est sciencia quam secularis^h potencia.' Sic ista sciencia plus valet omnibus sciencijs, que omnia experimenta sunt victa et corrupta, et sic pene omnia vniuersa.

Hijs igitur diligenter prenominatis prenotatis ad imum recordamus ipso situm volentes quando operari et qualiter exorcista se habere debeat, et quitⁱ sit ei vtile ne fallatur.

In primis, igitur, quicumque hoc opus sit

d Sic in MS.

e This quotation conveys the spirit of the Pseudo-Aristotelian tradition most fully conveyed in the Secretum secretorum; see M.A. Manzalaoui, ed., Secretum secretorum: Nine English Versions (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1977-).

f MS equaliter?

e MS et veritatem.

f Sic in MS.

g Corrected in MS to pondeus.

h MS solis aris?

i Sic in MS.

ad quod vocatur liber consecracionum, ab omni pollucione mentis et corporis se debet abstinere in cibo [et] potu, in verbis ociosis siue inmoderatis, et sit mundis indutus^g vestibus, nouem diebus ante opus inceptum, et debet audire in qualibet missam vnam, et librum istum secum deferre et pone super^h altari donec missa finiatur quolibet die, quousque transacti fuerint omnia,ⁱ et hec deuotissime faciat, cum oracionibus et ieiuniis, quia sicut scriptum est, per ieiunium et oraciones occulta ministeriorum celestium reuelatorque diuini sacramenti archana pendunt.^j Et cottidie post missam librum portabis domi. Et habeas locum secretum [53r] ab omnibus absconditum, ne aliquis sit presens operi suo,^k et prius aspergat locum aqua benedicta vbi librum istum^l ponet, et cum cingulo sacerdotali et stola dedicata liget eum in modum crucis circumquaque, et flexis genibus versus orientem, dicat vij psalmos cum lefacturus, quod vocatur liber consecracionum, ab omni pollucione mentis et corporis debet se abstinere, in cibo et in potu atque verbis ociosis, sit moderatus et sit mundis vestibus indutus ix diebus antequam^l opus incipiatur, et debet audire qualibet die vnam missam [135v] et istum librum ferre secum et ponere in altari quousque missa finiatur, et hoc deuotissime faciat, cum oracionibus et ieiunijs, sicut scriptum est, 'Per ieiunia et oraciones occulta misteriorum celestium reuelantur, archana diuine sacramenta pandantur.' Et cottidie post missam portatur librum domu et habeat locum secretum,^h ab omnibus inquinamentis mundum, nec aliquis sit presens huic operi, et aspergat locum aqua benedicta, scilicet vbi ponat librum et eum cingulo sacerdotis et stola benedicta liget^l librum in modum crucis circumquaque, et flexis genibus ponat librum versus Orientem, dicens vij psalmos cum oracione longa et letaniam, sanctificet et benedicat et consecret istum librum suis sanctis nominibus insignitum, cum omni deuocione ac toto cordis affectu, et deus omnipotens sua bonitate ac misericordia sanctificet hunc librum, benedicat, g .MS indutis.

h su (?) duplicated above line.

i .MS omnes.

j .Meaning, perhaps, occulta misteriorum celestium reuelantur, et diuini sacramenti archana panduntur?

k Sic in MS.

l Partly blotted out.

j .MS antequam.

k Followed by abhominibus, struck through.

l .MS ligat.

tania et oracionem sequentem antequam liber aperiatur. Et supra^m librum predictum debet aperire cum humili deuocione et toto cordisⁿ affectu, vt omnipotens deus misericordia et bonitate sua sanctificet ac benedicat et consecret istum librum sanctissimis nominibus suis insignitum, vt virtutem quam obtinere debeat potenter obtineat, vt valeat ad consecrandum vinculum spirituum et ad omnes invocaciones et coniuraciones ipsorum, et sic omnia alia experimenta.

Similiter nota hunc librum non valere habenti nisi ab ipso denuo consecratur.

Letania autem finita, aperi et dic hanc oracionem humiliter et animo perfecto et mente sincera.

Oracio. Deus meus, miserere^o mei et parce malis meis. Sana animam meam, quia peccaui tibi. Non obneges michi umquam que pluribus aliis contulisti. Exaudi, deus, oracionem famuli tui, N., et^p quacumque die [53v] invocauero te exaudi me velociter, sicut exaudisti sanctam Mariam matrem tuam. Suscipe, et^m consecraret suis sanctissimis nominibusⁿ insignitum ut virtutem quem obtinere debeat videlicet ad consecrandum vinculum spirituum,^o valens ad omnes invocaciones et coniuraciones ipsorum et ad omnia^p alia experimenta.

Item nota. Quicumque polluit hunc librum sciat eum vltra non valere nisi^q ab ipso de nouo consecratur,^r tunc oracione et letania viuificat librum.

Aperiat et dicat hanc oracionem humili corde et anima deuota, tunc incipit sicut sequitur:

Deus meus, miserere mei et parce malis meis, sana animam meam, quia peccaui tibi. Non abneges vni quod pluribus contulisti. Exaudi, deus, oracionem meam, famuli tui N., et^s

m Sic in MS.

n MS corde.

o MS miserere.

p MS vt.

m Followed by an extraneous stroke.

n Followed by et.

o Sic in MS.

p alii deleted.

q Followed by abip and a space.

r MS consecratur.

s MS ut.

domine, clamorem confitentis. Audir vocem precantis, per merita beatissime Marie virginis matris tue atque omnium sanctorum tuorum, ut oraciones et preces perveniant ad aures pietatis tue, quas ego pro hoc libro consecrationum effundo coram te in hac hora, ut per tua sanctissima nomina que in ipso continentur sit consecratus et confirmatus a quocumque voluero, prestante domino nostro Ihesu Christo, qui vivit et regnat per omnia secula seculorum. Amen.

Oracio. Domine Ihesu Christe, per ineffabilem misericordiam tuam, parce michi seu miserere mei et exaudi nunc per invocacionem nominis tui, scilicet Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti, ut accepta habeas et tibi placeant verba et oraciones oris mei, per invocaciones sanctorum tuorum nominum in hoc libro descriptorum. Humiliter et fideliter, deprecantissime, licet ego indignus, cum in te confidens ut sanctifices et benedicas librum istum sanctis nominibus tuis insignitum et consecres istum, ut per hec nomina tua sanctissima -- On, Ihesus, in quacumque die invocauero te, velociter exaudi me, sicut exaudisti Mariam matrem tuam. Suscipe, domine, clamorem confitentis anime. Exaudi, domine, vocem deprecantis, per merita et oraciones beatissime virginis^t Maria matris tue, atque omnium sanctorum, et oraciones et preces mee ad aures tue pietatis, quas ego pro^u hoc libro consecrationum effundo coram te in hac hora, per tua sanctissima nomina, que in hoc libro continentur, sit consecratus et confirmatus, ad quodcumque voluero, prestante domino nostro Ihesu Christo, qui vivit et regnat in secula seculorum.

[136r] Domine Ihesu Christe, per ineffabilem misericordiam tuam, parce michi et miserere mei. Exaudi me nunc per inuocacionem nominis tui trini, scilicet Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum, ut accepta habeas et placea[n]^t tibi verba oracionis mee, per inuocacionem sanctorum nominum tuorum in hoc libro scriptorum. Humiliter et fideliter deprecans, licet ego indignus peccator, tamen in te confidens, ut sanctifices ac benedicas^v librum istum tuis sanctis nominibus insignitum, et consecres q Followed by confide, deleted.

r Extraneous letter between d and i appears blotted out.

t Followed by matris, deleted.

u MS per.

v MS benedices.

Christus, Alpha et O, El, Eloy, Eloyye, Sithothith,^s Eon, Sepmelamaton, Ezelpha-[54r] tes,^t Tetragramaton, Elyoram, Ryon, Deseryon, Erystion, Ysyornus, Onela, Baysyn, Moyn, Messyas, Sother,^u Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay – et per omnia secreta nomina tua que
 in hoc libro continentur, quatenus virtute, sanctitate, ac potestate eorundem nominum sit liber iste consecratus ☩ et benedictus ☩ et confirmatus ☩ per virtutem sacramenti corporis et sanguinis tui, ut virtutem quam liber iste debet obtinere efficaciter, sine aliqua fallacia, veraciter obtineat, ad consecrandum vinculum spirituum et ad consecrandum omnia experimenta corrupta, et perfectam virtutem et potestatem habeant ad quam sunt constituta, prestante domino Ihesu Christo, qui sedet in altissimis, cuius honor et gloria per infinita secula seculorum. Amen, amen, amen, amen,
 amen.

per hec sanctissima nomina tua, scilicet On,
 Ihesus Christus, Alpha et O, El, Ely, Eloye,
 On, Otheon, Stinlamathon,^x Ezelphares, Tetragramaton, Elyoraz,^y Eygiracem,^z V'sirion, Oristion,^a Orona, Anellabiassim, Noyn, Messias, Cother,^b Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, et per omnia nomina secreta que in hoc libro continentur, quatenus sanctitate,^c virtute, ac potestate eorundem nominum tuorum, [per] virtutem et potestatem tuam diuinam, sit iste liber consecratus ☩ benedictus ☩ sanctificatus ☩ et confirmatus, per virtutem corporis et sanguinis tui, ut virtutem quam debet obtinere obtineat efficaciter, sine aliqua fallacia, ad consecrandum^d vinculatum spiritum,⁴ ad consecranda omnia experimenta corrupta, ut perfectam virtutem habeant ad ea ad que ipsa sunt constituta, prestante domino, qui sedet in altissimis. Tui est honor et gloria per infinita

^s Or Sichochich?

^t Malformed, and duplicated below line.

^u Followed by :: v.

^v Meaning cui sit?

^w Sic in MS?

^x Followed by ey, struck through.

^y Sic in MS?

^z Sic in MS?

^a Sic in MS.

^b MS sanctificati.

^c Followed by vincitum spiritum, deleted.

^d Sic in MS.

Bene❧ dicat te Pater. Bene❧ dicat te Filius. Bene❧ dicat te Spiritus Sanctus. Amen. Sancta Maria, mater domini nostri Ihesu Christi, te bene❧ dicat et sanctificet, ut virtutem sacramenti in te obtineas quam obtinere debeas. Bene❧ dicant te omnes sancte virgines. Bene❧ dicant te hodie et omni tempore sancti et electi dei. Omnes virtutes celestes te bene❧ dicant et confirmant, omnes angeli et archangeli, virtutes et potestates, principatus, throni et [54v] dominaciones, cherubin et seraphin, et ex auctoritate et licencia dei te bene❧ dicant, per merita et oraciones et invocaciones omnium sanctorum tuorum.

Oracio. Domine Ihesu Christe, bene❧ dicas et sanctifices librum istum, et confirmes per omnipotenciam tuam, ut virtutem et potestatem obtineat ad quam institutus est et confirmatus, prestante domino Ihesu Christo, cuius regnum et imperium sine fine permanet in secula seculorum. Amen.

Et sic in dei virtute confisus ad librum consecracionum accedas securus, et invenies quod optas. Hoc facto per ix dies, erit liber consecratus, et quocienscumque aliud consecrare volueris, incipias primam oracionem legere, scilicet Deus invisibilis, cum reliquis secula seculorum. Amen.

Oracio. Benedicat te Pater, benedicat te Filius, benedicat te Spiritus Sanctus. Sancta Maria, mater domini nostri Ihesu Christi, benedicat et sanctificet te, ut virtutem sacramenti obtinere debeas quam obtinere debes. Benedicant te omnes sancte virgines. Benedicant te hodie et in omni tempore omnes sancti et electi dei, omnes virtutes celestes, te benedicant et confirmant omnes angeli et archangeli, principatus, virtutes, potestates, troni, et dominaciones, cherubin et seraphin, ex auctoritate et licencia^e dei te benedicant, per merita et oraciones ac inuocaciones omnium sanctorum tuorum. Domine Ihesu Christe, benedic, consecra, [136v] et sanctifica librum istum, et confirma per omnem potenciam tuam, ut virtutem et potestatem optineat^f ad quam constitutus et confirmatus est, prestante domino nostro Ihesu Christo, cuius regnum et imperium permanet sine fine in secula seculorum. Amen.

Et sic in dei virtute^g confisus, ac tute ad librum consecracionum accedas et inuenies quod hoc facto per ix dies, erit consecratus, et

e MS lancea.

f MS optineant.

g MS in die Iouis.

sequentibus, et^w in vtroque tuum Confiteor debes dicere, et aqua benedicta respergi, et signum sancte crucis fronti tuo inpone, vt deus infundat gratiam^x Spiritus Sancti ad opus tuum perficiendum.

Et sic vtere hoc exemplar et non fallaris. Et caue prudenter ne in manibus insipientium hoc magnum secretum deveniat, quod a sapientissimis phisichis est mag[n]is et sanctis dei nominibus consecratum.

Et si alicui experimento deficit documentum ante consecracionem, [55r] habeas istud preparatum, et sic cum documentis docens debes experimenta tua consecrare, et ponas vnum uel plura coram te, et dic primo et principaliter tuum Confiteor, et postmodum versus istos: Ne derelinquas me, domine deus meus, ne disceseris a me. Intende in adiutorium meum, domine deus salutis mee [Ps 37:22-23 Vulg.]. Fiat misericordia tua, domine, super nos, quemadmodum speraui in te [Ps 32:22 Vulg.]. In te, domine, speraui; non confundar in eternum. [Ps 70:1 Vulg.]. Intret in conspectu tuo oracio mea.

quociescumque aliquid consecrare volueris, incipe primam oracionem legere, scilicet 'Deus inuisibilis,' cum tribus reliquis subsequentibus, et inter utrumque debes dicere tuum Confiteor, et aqua benedicta te aspergere, et signum crucis in fronti tuo pone, ut deus infundat gratiam Sancti Spiritus, ad opus tuum perficiendum.

Et vtere hoc exemplari, et non fallaris.^h Et caue diligenter ne hoc magnum secretum in manus insipientium deueniat, quod sapientissimis et paratissimis philosophis fuit absconditum, et nominibus dei sanctis insignitum.

Item si alicui experimento deerit documentum ante consecracionem, habeas illud in prompto et hijsⁱ debes tua experimenta consecrare et ponas vnum uel plura circa te et dic primo et principaliter tuum Confiteor, etc., Ne derelinquas me, [domine] deus meus, ne disceseris a me. Intende in adiutorium meum, domine deus salutis mee [Ps 37:22-23 Vulg.]. Fiat misericordia tua, domine, super me, quemadmodum speraui [in] te [cf. Ps 32:22 Vulg.]. In te, domine, speraui, non confundar in eternum. In iusticia tua libera me et eripe me [Ps 70:1-2 Vulg.]. Intret in conspectu tuo oracio mea. Inclina aurem tuam ad precem

w MS et et.

x MS qm.

h MS vallaris.

i Sic in MS?

Inclina aurem tuam ad preces nostras [cf. Ps 87:3 Vulg.]. Domine, exaudi oracionem meam, et clamor meus ad te veniat [Ps 101:2 Vulg.].

Oracio. Deus invisibilis, deus inestimabilis, deus incorruptibilis, deus piissime, deus excelse, deus gloriose, deus immense, deus totius misericordie, ego, licet indignus et plenus iniquitate, dolo, et malicia, suppliciter ad tuam venio misericordiam, orans et deprecans ut non respicias ad universa et innumerabilia peccata mea, sed sicut consuevisti peccatori miserere et preces humilium exaudire, ita quod me famulum tuum, N., licet indignum, exaudire digneris clamantem ad te, quod hoc experimento sanctissimis nominibus insignito ut virtutem quam obtinere debeat potenter obtineat, sed adereas^y potestates et infernales principes, quod hanc [55v] oracionem consecratam mirabiliter constringant ut cum voluerit humano voluntati obediant, et cum exorcista voluerit in unum omnes congregare, et cum voluerit dispergat, et per sanctissimum nomen tuum quod scribitur for litteris, loth, hoth, vel hec, vel A G L A. g, e, he, van, quo auditor^a meam [Ps 87:3 Vulg.]. Domine, exaudi oracionem meam, et clamor meus ad te veniat [Ps 101:2 Vulg.].

Oracio. Deus invisibilis, deus inestimabilis, deus ineffabilis, deus incommutabilis, deus incorruptibilis, deus piissime, deus dilectissime, deus potentissime, deus fortissime, deus summe, deus gloriose, deus immense, deus totius misericordie, ego, licet indignus et plenus iniquitate, dolo, et malicia, supplex^j ad tuam venio misericordiam, [137r] orans et deprecans ne despicias ad universa et innumerabilia peccata mea sed sicut consuevisti peccatorum misereri et preces humilium exaudire, ite me famulum tuum, N., licet indignum, exaudire digneris, clamantem ad te pro hoc experimento tuis sanctissimis nominibus insignito, ut virtutem quam obtinere debeat potenter obtineat, scilicet aereas potestates et insanabiles^k principes, per hanc oracionem consecratam, humiliter et mirabiliter constringat, ut velint vel nolint humani^l voluntati obediant. Et cum exorcista voluerit, eos omnes in unum

y Corrected in MS from miserere.

z Meaning ad aereas?

a MS audiu.

j Sic in MS.

k Sic in MS.

l Sic in MS.

mare regreditur, aer commutatur,^b vel N.
 concitatur,^c terra tremit, ignis exinguitur, omnisque celestis exercitus, terrenus et infernalis, tremit et turbatur, et per hec sanctissima nomina tua – On, Alpha et O, Principium et Finis, E, El, Ely, Elyo, Elo, Elyon, Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, Egge, Yaya, Eeye – consecratur hoc experimentum, eo potestate, cuius^d honor et gloria [per] infinita seculorum secula. Amen.

Si autem quodcumque
 experimentum consecrare volueris quod pertinet ad invocationes spirituum, tunc dicere debes: Me^e exaudire digneris, clamantem ad te, quod hoc experimento^f ut virtutem quam obtinere debeat potenter obtineat, per sanctissimum nomen tuum quod scribitur, et sic in qualibet consecrationem, ut supra dictum est.
 Finita oracione, procede ulterius:

congreget,^m et cum voluerit eos dispergat.ⁿ

Oracio. O summe deus, per sanctissimum nomen tuum quod scribitur per quatuor litteras,^o scilicet ioth, varo, hee, thet, quo audito mare retrogreditur, aer commutatur et concitatur, terra^p timet, ignis exinguitur, omnisque exercitus terrenus et infernalis tremet [et] turbatur, et hec sanctissima nomina tua,
On, Alpha et O, Principium et finis, El, Ely, Eloy, Eloy, Elyon, Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, Eggie, Ye, Ye, Ya, Ya, consecratur hoc experimentum, prestante illo cui est laus, honor, et gloria per infinita secula seculorum.
Amen.

Rubrica. Si autem aliquis aliud experimentum consecrare voluerit, quod non pertinet ad consecrationem spirituum,^q tunc debes dicere quater, Me exaudire digneris clamantem ad te, ut hoc experimentum virtutem obtineat quam obtinere debet potenter, per sanctissimum nomen tuum quod scribitur per iij litteras, scilicet Ioth, Varo, Hee, Teth, etc.

b Sic in MS.

c Sic in MS.

d Presumably meaning eius . . . cui.

e MS Mi^r.

f Sic in MS.

m MS congregat.

n MS dispergit.

o MS litteris.

p Followed by tremet, struck through.

q Sic in MS.

Deus, vniuersi conditor orbis, qui celum super altitudinem nubium extendisti et terram in sua stabilitate super aquas fundasti, [56r] et mari terminum suum quem preteriri non poterit [Ps 109:9 Vulg.] tribuisti; qui solem et lunam et stellas in summo aere collocasti; qui omnia in sapientia fecisti [Ps 103:24 Vulg.]; qu^g vij[a]^h die hominem ad ymaginem plasmasti tuam et de spiritu tuo in eum inspirasti; quemⁱ etiam cum Euam propter preua[r]icationem eiecisti; qui genus humanum in aqua diluuij perdidisti; qui Noe et eos qui cum eo erant in archa saluasti; qui Abrahe sub triplici persona ad radicem manibus apparuisti; qui Loth de submersione Sodome et Gomorre liberasti; qui Moysei in medio rubi in flamma ignis locutus fuisti; qui populum tuum de captiuitate Egyptorum deduxisti et ei per medium^k maris viam aperuisti;^l qui legem Moysei in Monte Synay dedisti; qui de petra aquas exire fecisti; qui Da-

Oracio. Deus, vniuersi orbis conditor et redemptor, qui celum super altitudinem nubium extendisti et terram in stabilitate sua super aquas fundasti, et mari terminum quem preterire non potest tribuisti [cf. Ps 103:5, 9, Vulg.], et solem et lunam ac stellas in celo collocasti; qui omnia in sapientia fecisti [Ps 103:24 Vulg.]; qui vja die hominem ad ymaginem ac similitudinem tuam formasti et ei spiraculum vite inspirasti, [137v] quem una cum Eva propter prauaricationem de Paradiso eiecisti; qui genus humanum aquis diluuij saluasti; qui Abraham sub triplici persona ad Iheem^r Mambré aparuisti; qui Loth de submersione Sodome et Gomorre liberasti; qui Moysei in medio rubi in flamma ignis apparuisti et ei locutus fuisti; qui populum tuum per manum Moysei et Aaron de captiuitate Egiptiaca eduxisti et eos per medium Maris Rubri viam fecisti; qui Moysei legem in Monte Sinay dedisti; qui aquas de petra Oreb exire fecisti; qui aquas amaras in Amarat per inuissionem ligni in dulcorem conuertisti; qui solem et lunam per inuocationem Iosue stare fecisti; qui flumen Iordanis in ingressu filiorum Israhel diuidisti; qui Daniele[m] de lacu leonum eripuisti; qui tres pueros, scilicet Sidrach, Misach, et Abdenago, de igne [camini] ardentis abire il-

g MS quod.

h Sic in MS.

i MS quam.

j Sic in MS.

k MS modum.

l MS apperuisti.

r Sic in MS.

nielem de lacu leonum rapuisti;^m qui tres pueros de camino ardenti, scilicet Sydrach, Mysaac, Abdenago, illesos abire fecisti; qui Susannam in te confidentem de falso crimine liberasti; [et qui] Yonam de ventre ceti saluasti, per hec et alia multa miracula que fecisti, exaudi propicius, pie Ihesu, oracionem famuli tui, N., et da huic experimento virtutem et potestatem super malignos spiritus, ad congregandum ipsos et ligandum et sol- [56v] uendum et maledicendum et in profundum abyssiⁿ proiciendum si non obseruauerunt mandata exorciste, qui es sanctus et benedictus, et regnas per omnia secula seculorum. Amen.

Oracio. O gloriose Adonay, per quem creantur omnia et hec regenerantur et constituunt[ur], adesto propicius invocacionibus meis, et clementer presta vt hoc experimentum perfecte virtutem obtineat ad cogendum malignos spiritus, velint^o humiliter obediant et eius mandatum impleant, te iuuante et iubente, qui sedes in altissimis et cuncta custodis, etc. Honor sit et potestas per infinita secula seculorum. Amen.

On pie, On iuste, Adonay sanctissime, qui

lesos fecisti; qui Susannam in te confidentem de falso crimine liberasti; qui Ionam de uentre ceti saluasti – per hec et alia multa mirabilia que fecisti, exaudi, pie Ihesu Christe, oracionem famuli tui N., et da huic experimento potestatem et virtutem super malignos spiritus, ad ipsos^s congregandum, ligandum, soluendum, et maledicendum, et in profundum abyssi proiciendum si non seruant precepta et si non obediant mandatis exorciste, prestante domino, qui est sanctus et benedictus, regnans in secula seculorum. Amen.

Gloriose Adonay, per quem creantur et generantur omnia, et que^t subsistunt uniuersa, adesto propicius invocacionibus meis, et clementer michi presta ut hoc experimentum perfectam virtutem obtineat ad subiugandum malignos spiritus, utrum velint vel nolint, semper exorciste obediant humiliter atque mandata eius impleant, adiuuante et iubente qui sedet in altissimis et cuncta custodit, et cui est laus et honor per infinita secula seculorum. Amen.

[138r] On pie, on iuste, Adonay sanctissi-

^m MS capuisti.

ⁿ MS abyssus.

^o MS has velint (?), followed by a space, possibly meaning vt [humiliter obediant].

^s Followed by ad.

^t Sic in MS.

es fons misericordie et pietatis, origo, rex regum, et dominus dominancium, qui sedes in magestate tua. intuens profundum abyssi, omnia cernens, omnia regens, omnia continens, et virtute tua moderaris? qui hominem ad ymaginem et similitudinem tuam de limo terre formasti, et in terra sicut in celo lauderis et glorificeris, unde omnis terra adoret te et psallat tibi, et ego, licet indignus, psalmum dicam nomini tuo. Vnde piissime et misericordissime magestatem tuam imploro et cum humili deuotione expostulo suppliciter ut in virtute tua et gracia dono tuo consecrantur et confirmantur omnes consecrationes, coniurationes, et invocationes que in hoc libro continentur, ut virtutem [57r] et efficaciam ad quam instituta sunt potenter obtineant et potestatem exorciste super malignos spiritus perfecte tribuant cum invocati et exorcisati fuerint statim ex omni parte conueniant et responsa certa et vera reddant et mandata exorcistarum perficiant, illo prestante cui laus et potestas, qui per omnia regnat et imperat, per omnia secula [secul]orum. Amen.

Oracio. Adonay, Meloth, Adonay, Iailoth,

me, qui es fons misericordie et pietatis, origo, rex regum et dominus dominancium, qui sedes in maiestate tua intuens in profundum abyssi, omnia regens, omnia cernens, omnia continens, omnia gubernans, omnia tua virtute moderans, qui hominem de limo terre et ad ymaginem et similitudinem tuam formasti, ut in terra sicut in celo glorificeris et lauderis, quia omnis terra adoret te et psallat tibi, et ego licet indignus peccator psallam tibi ac psalmum dicam nomini tuo, piissime et misericordissime deus, maiestatem tuam suppliciter exoro et cum humili deuotione tuam immensam sanctitatem imploro et expostulo, ut in uirtute tua et dona gracie tue consecrantur et confirmantur oraciones et consecrationes, coniurationes, et inuocationes que in hoc libro continentur, ut virtutem et efficaciam ad quam instituta sunt potenter obtineant et potestatem super malignos spiritus exorcisare perfecte tribuant, et cum exorcisati et inuocati fuerint, statim ex omni parte conueniant et responsa veritatis reddant et mandata exorciste perficiant, prestante illo cui est laus et potestas, qui regnat [et] imperat per eterna secula seculorum. Amen.

Adonay, Meloth, Adonay, Naioloth, Leo-p Meaning moderans?

q Final e blotted out.

r MS reddunt.

u MS psallum.

v Sic in MS?

Exclavi, Azeth, Adonay, in quo cuncta creata sunt et sanctificata, [per] misericordiam tuam et ineffabilem karitatem tuam, per hec sanctissima nomina invoco te, et N.,^s michi postulanti, licet indigno famulo tuo, N., auxilium gracie tue prestare digneris super has consecrationes [et] invocaciones tuas sanctissimis nominibus insignitas, que in hoc libro continentur:^t On, El, Eloë, Adonay, Sadoy, Alpha et O, Yà, He,^u Yhe, Aseroye, Eson, Prerarraton, Tetragramaton, Ezelphares, Otaizomos, Onoyteon, Stimulacio, On, Ely, Araz, Messyas, Sother, Emanuel, Saboath, Panitra,^v Prameliu.^w Principium, Primogenitus, Sapiencia, Virtus, Grabaton,^x Osanna, Sol, Splendor, Gloria, Lux, Panis, Fons, Vitis, Mens, Hostium, Ianua, Petra, Lapis, Os, Verbum, Salus, Angelus, Sponsus, Sacerdos, Philosophia, Mediator, Agnus, Ovis, Vitulus, Serpens, Aries, Leo, Vermis, Athanatos, Kyrios, Ayos, Theos. Per hec nomina sanctissima, et per alia que

lam, Naach, Adonay, per quem cuncta creata et significata sunt, [per] misericordias tuas et ineffabilem potestatem tuam, per sanctissima nomina tua te inuoco, ut michi postulanti licet indigno famulo tuo, N., auxilium gracie tue prestare digneris super has oraciones et invocaciones tuas sanctissimis nominibus insignitas, que in hoc libro continentur, On, El, Eloë, Adonay, Sadoy, Alpha et O, Yè, Yè, Aserie, Vson, Pantrathon,^u Tetragramaton, Acomiamos, Occinomos, Onoydeon,^v On, Elioram, Messias, Sother, Stimulamaton, Emanuel, [138v] Sabaoth, Pantrather,^w Premelus,^x Principium et finis, Primogenitus, Sapiencia, Virtus, Hrabathon,^y Osanna, Sol, Splendor, Gloria, Lux, Panis, Fons, Vitis, Mons, Hostium, Ianua, Petra, lapis, Os, Verbum, Salus, Angelus, Sacerdos, Pastor, Propheta, Mediator, Agnus, Ovis, Vitulus, Serpens, Aries, Leo, Vermis, Athanathos,^z Kyrios, Ayos, Otheos – per hec sanctissima nomina tua et per omnia que nominare non licet, suppliciter expostulo

^s Added above line; probably intended to be added

after michi.

^t Pointing hand drawn in margin.

^u Duplicated in margin.

^v Sic in MS?

^w Sic in MS?

^x Sic in MS?

^w Sic in MS.

^x Sic in MS?

^y Sic in MS.

^z Sic in MS?

^a Sic in MS?

^b Sic in MS.

[57v] *nominare non licet, te suppliciter expostulo ut oracionibus, consecracionibus, atque invocacionibus istis, que continentur in hoc libro, virtutem et potestatem tribuas, per virtutem tuam diuinam, ad consecrandum^y omnia experimenta et invocaciones demonium, ut ubicumque maligni spiritus in virtute tuorum nominum fuerint advocati et exorcizati, statim [ex] omni parte conueniant et exorcizatoris voluntatem adimpleant;^z nichil nocentes, neque timorem inferentes, sed potius obedientes et ministrantes ad tua districta^a virtute mandata perficientes. Fiat. Fiat.
Amen.*

Notandum: si denuo aliquod^b experimentum componere volueris, ad placitum inpone ei documentum et consecra ipsum sicut prius dictum est, et cum est consecratum pervenit ad effectum.

Oracio. *Omnipotens, sempiternus deus, qui in principio omnia creasti ex nichilo; cui obediunt omnes creature; cui omne genus flectitur, celestium, terrestrium, et infernorum;
quem timent angeli et archangeli, dominaciones, potestates, adorant et tremunt; qui*

ut oracionibus et consecracionibus istis, scilicet in hoc libro contentis, virtutem et potestatem tribuas ut per virtutem diuinam ad consecrandum^d omnia experimenta et [in]vocaciones^e demonium vel ubicumque maligni spiritus in virtute tuorum nominum invocati fuerint et exorcizati, statim ex omni parte conueniant et voluntatem exorciste diligenter adimpleant, nichil ei nocentes nec terrorem ei inferentes, sed potius ei ministrantes et^f obedientes, per tremendum iudicium tuum et omnia mandata exorciste perficiant. Amen.

y MS consecrandam.

z Followed by et, deleted.

a MS districti ?

b MS alique?

c MS et.

d MS sacrandam.

e Followed by demonum, struck through.

f Followed by ubique, struck through.

g Followed by d, struck through.

h Written above liiir.

manu claudis omnia; [qui] Adam et Euam ad similitudinem [tuam] formasti et angelos tuos incredulos per superbiam eorum in profundum Thartari eiecisti, te rogo, te peto, clementissime pater omnipotens, et sic obsecro, per Ihesum Christum filium tuum, in cuius potestate sunt omnia, qui sedes^c ad dexteram Patris omnipotentis, iudicaturus viuos et mortuos, tu qui es Alpha et O, primus [58r] et novissimus, rex regum, dominus dominancium, Joth, Agla, Nabuoth, El, Elyel, Enay, Enacuel, Ananyel, Aniazel, Sodamel, Agylen, Colymas, Elyas, Schyros,^d Athanathos,^e Ymas, Ely, Messyas.

- Per hec tua sancta nomina,
- et per alia tua nomina aduoco te et obsecro te,

- per natiuitatem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per puerum baiulantem,^f
- per baptismum tuum,
- per passionem tuam,
- per resurrectionem^g tuam,
- per spiritum paracletum tuum,

c Note shift to second person, addressing Christ.

d Sic in MS?

e Sic in MS?

f Sic in MS?

g MS resurrectionem.

- per amaritudinem anime tue quando exiuit de corpore,
- et per v vulnera tua,
- per mortem tuam,
- et per sanguinem et aquam que exiuerunt de corpore tuo,
- per misericordiam et omnipotenciam et virtutem ineffabilem tuam,
- per sacramentum quod discipulis tuis dedisti pridie quam passus fuisti,
- per sanctam trinitatem et indiuiduam,
- per beatam Mariam, matrem tuam,
- per angelos et archangelos tuos,
- per omnes sanctos et sanctas tuas,
- per omnia sacra misteria et beneficia que sunt in honore tuo,
- per sanctissima nomina, cognita et incognita,

adoro te et invoco, obsecro te et benedico te et rogo te, ut accepta habeas omnes coniurationes et verba oris mei quibus uti. Peto, des virtutem et potestatem super angelos tuos qui de celo eiectioni sunt, ad decipiendum genus eorum et loquelam eorum contrahendum, ad constringendum, ad soluendum, ad ligandum, ad cogendum^h eos coram te, ad precipiendum, ad omnia que sunt eis [58v] possibilia, et verba mea et vocem meam illo modo acceptens et me ^h MS cog'endu.

timeant. Per humilitatem et misericordiam et graciam tuam deprecor et peto te, Athon, Onay, Anay, Anathon, Vegeido, Ya, Yayay, El, Blemutum, Vsyon, Vsy, Elyas,

- per omnia nomina tua,
- per sanctos et sanctas,
- *per archangelos, angelos, potestates,
dominationes, virtutes,*
- et per nomenⁱ per quod Solomon astringebat dyabolos et conclusit eos, Shoeth, Hebatit, Het, Agla, Jocht, Othot, Vanecht, Nabuthi,
- et per omnia sacra nomina tua que scripta sunt in hoc libro,
- et per virtutem eorundem,

quatenus michi compareant et michi respondere de omnibus permittas que queram, sine lesione corporis et anime mee, per dominum nostrum Ihesum Christum, filium tuum, qui tecum vivit, etc.

Oracio. Pater de celis deus, unus in substancia, trinus in personis, qui Adam et Euam et plurimos^j peccare permisisti, et filium tuum unigenitum pro eorum peccatis crucifigi et mori voluisti, clementissime igitur pater, te rogo

Pater de celis, unus in substancia,ⁱ trinus in personis, qui Adam et Euam in pomum^j peccare permisisti, et tuum unigenitum filium pro eorum peccatis cruci et morti^k tradidisti, clementissime pater, te igitur rogo et peto ac sup-

i Followed by quod, deleted.

j Sic in MS.

i b added in margin.

j Sic in MS?

k MS morte.

et peto supplex metis^k omnibus quibus possum,^l per Alpha et O, Christum filium tuum,^m et me congregare et me adunare quosdam angelos tuos incredulos permittas, qui michi hancⁿ potestatem alloquendi et faciendi, quod volo et desidero, et hoc^o sine lesione al[i]qua vel alicuius nocumento. Et per virtutem lapidum, herbarum, et verborum, et nominum tuorum, michi des potestatem soluendi et ligandi demones, verbis meis et auxilio tuo. Quod michi concedas per innumerabilem virtutem et omnipotenciam tuam. Amen.

[59r] Oracio. O summa et eterna deitas, et virtus altissima, qui te disponente hiis vero iudicio vocaris nominibus: Emoyko, On, Strinolamaton, El-zephares, Tetragramaton, Elycyon, Egyrion, Vsyrrion, Oristion, Eryono, Vsy, Ormis, Euella, Brasym, Mloym, Ioseph, Messyas, Sother, E, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, et etiam sicut superius scribuntur, te invoco, te placiter^p per omnia nomina tua quibus possum, per Alpha et O, per Ihesum Christum^q filium tuum, ut me, famulum tuum, N., facias congregare, adiurare angelos siue spiritus qui habent potestatem michi loqui et facere que volo ac desidero, sine lesione et nocumento corporis et anime mee et omnium vivencium, precipue qui dedisti potestatem et virtutem herbis, lapidibus, verbis, per virtutem omnium herbarum, lapidum, et verborum, et precipue sanctissima nomina tua^r concede potestatem ligandi [et] soluendi demones verbis meis et auxilio tuo. Hoc michi concedas per mirabilem virtutem et omnem potenciam tuam. Amen.

[139r] O summa et eterna diuinitas, O virtus altissima, qui [te] disponente hys nominaris nominibus: Oneytheon, Stimula, Mathon, Elelpharos, Tetragramathon,^s Osorion, E, Egyrion, Vsyrrion, Oristion, Orrona,^t Vsionius, Ouel, Byasim, Neym, Ioseph, Messias, Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, etc., sicut k Meaning mentis?

l Sic in MS.

m MS Christi filij [altered from filium] tui.

n MS hunc.

o Or hec.

l Sic in MS.

m Followed by fil. struck through.

n MS sanctissimos nominum tuos.

o Sic in MS?

p Sic in MS.

q Sic in MS?

adoro, locius mentis viribus imploro, quatenus per te presentes oraciones, consecraciones, et invocaciones in hoc libro existentes consecrentur et preparantur,^p quemadmodum conuenit, scilicet ubicumque maligni spiritus in virtute tuorum nominum fuerint invocati seu exorcizati, statim ex omni parte conueniant^q et voluntatem exorcistarum adimpleant diligenter, quod nichil nocentes nec timorem inferentes, sed potius obediētes et ministrantes districto virtute mandata exorciste perficientes. Fiat. Fiat. Amen.

In nomine domini nostri Ihesu Christi, Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti, tam trinitas et inseparabilis unitas, te invoco et sis salus, defensio, et protectio corporis^r et anime mee, nunc et in perpetuum, per virtutem crucis et passionis tue. Te deprecor, domine Ihesu Christe, fili dei vivi, per merita et oraciones et intercessionē beatissime matris tue Marie atque omnium sanctorum, et michi concedas gratiam tuam atque potestatem diuinam super omnes malignos spiritus, et quemcumque in modicum superius scribit[ur], te inuoco, te adoro, te totis mentibus et verbis imploro, quatenus presentes oraciones, consecraciones, et invocaciones in hoc libro existentes consecrentur^r et preparantur, quemadmodum conuenit, scilicet ut ubicumque maligni spiritus per virtutem^s tuorum nominum fuerant aduocati et exorcisati, statim ex omni parte conueniant et voluntatem exorciste adimpleant^t diligenter, ei nichil nocentes, nec timorem ei aliquem inferentes, sed potius ei obediētes et ministrantes, et tua uirtute ac iudicio tuo districto mandata exorciste perficientes. Amen. Finis.

p MS preparantur.

q MS malignus.

r Sic in MS?

s MS exorcisti.

t MS corporis.

r MS consecrantur.

s MS iuret?

t Followed by et.

virtute tuorum nominum invocauero, statim ex omni parte [59v] conueniant^u et voluntatem meam perfecte adimpleant, quod nichil nocentes^v nec timore[m] inferentes, sed potius obedientes et ministrantes, et tua districta virtute mandata mea perficientes.^w Amen.

NO. 32. CONJURATION OF SATAN/MIRAGE

From fols 59v–62v

Per invocacionem domini nostri Ihesu Christi, imperatoris et agni immaculati,^a quod inde^b arguant te angeli et archangeli; argua[n]t te Michael et Gabriel [et] Raphahel; arguant te tres patriarche Abraham, Ysaac, et Jacob, et prophete; arguant te apostoli Christi, sancti et electi dei. Deficiant ergo artes tue de die in hora et in mense et in momento, sic[ut] cessauerunt jam vos et membris,^c vt cito et sine aliqua condicione obediatis dictis meis et

From fols 109r–111v [A] & 139r–140r [B]

Per inuocacionem nominis domini Ihesu Cristi, Mirage, imperat tibi agnus immaculatus; perinde arguant te angeli et archangeli, Michael, Gabriel, Raphael; arguant te tres patriarche, scilicet Abraham, Ysaac, et Iacob; arguant te prophete et omnes apostoli Christi; arguant te omnes sancti et electi dei. Deficient ergo aures^a tue in die et in nocte in hora et in mense et in momento,^b sicut defecerunt Iamnes et Mambres [II Tim 3:8], nisi cito sine aliqua mora dictis meis obedias et voluntati mee subiciaris.

u MS conueniunt.

v Corrected in MS, with second vowel blotted out and e substituted.

w MS perficiem.

a MS imperatori et angus immaculatus.

b Sic in MS?

c Sic in MS.

a Sic in MS.

b momentu AB.

voluntati mee subiciatis.^d Amen.

Deus angelorum, deus archangelorum, deus prophetarum, deus apostolorum, deus martyrum, deus confessorum, deus virginum et viduarum, deus pater [domini] nostri Ihesu Christi, invoco nomen sanctum tuum preclare magestatis tue potencie.^e Supplex exposco ut michi auxilium prestare digneris adversus istum spiritum Sathanam, ut ubicumque lateat, audito nomine tuo, velociter de loco suo exeat et ad me festinanter accedat. Ipse imperat tibi, dyabole, qui de supremis sedibus te in inferiora mire mergi iussit. Audi ergo, dyabole, et [60r] tu, victus et prostratus, accede in nomine domini nostri Ihesu Christi. Tu ergo, nequissime, inimicus fidei, generis humani mortis temptator iusticie, delectator malorum, radix [et] fomes viciorum,^f seductor hominum, et^g magister, et stas et resistis cum scis te perdere vires tuas. Istum metue qui in Ysaac immolatus est, in Ioseph venundatus est, in agno occisus est, in homine crucifixus est, deum^h surrexus triumphator. Audi ergo, diabole, et timeas verba dei, et esto michi paratus in omni-

Deus angelorum, deus archangelorum, deus prophetarum, deus apostolorum, deus ewangelistarum, deus martirum, deus confessorum, deus domini nostri Ihesu Christi, inuoco nomen sanctum tuum in hac preclara tue maiestatis potencia. Supplex exposco ut michi auxilium tuum preparare digneris aduersus illum spiritum Miragem, ut ubicumque iacet, [B 139v] audito nomine tuo, velociter de loco suo exeat et festinanter ad me accedat. Ipse imperat tibi, dyabole, qui te de supernis celorum sedibus in inferiora terre demergi^d precepit. Audi, ergo, Mirage nequissime, et time,^e victus et prostratus, accede in nomine dei^f nostri Ihesu Christi. Tu ergo, Mirage nequissime, inimicus fidei, humani generis mortis repertor,^g iniusticie declarator, malorum radix, fomes viciorum, [A 109v] seductor hominis, demonum magister, qui stas et resistis^h cum scis te perdere vires tuas. Illum metue qui in Ysaac est ymmolatus, in Ioseph venundatus, in agno

d Meaning subiciaris?

e Sic in MS.

f MS vincorum.

g et added above line.

h Sic in MS, for deus or deinde?

c vestinanter B.

d demerge A.

e tunc A.

f Sic AB, presumably for domini.

g Corrected from reperator in B.

h respis A.

bus negociis meis perficiendis. Amen.

Adiuro te, non mea infirmitate sed virtute Spiritus Sancti, et subiectus sis meis mandatis perficiendis. Cede michi et ministris Christi illius, dyabole. Arguat te potencia [eius] qui se crucis patibulo subiungavit, te illius brachium contremat,^k qui te uictus gemitibus inferni^l animas ad lucem perduxit. Sit timor tibi corpus hominis. Sit tibi formido ymago dei, quam sancta morte sua redemit. Nec resistes, nec moreris ap[p]ropinquare michi et velle meum adimplere, et ne me in infernum putes condemnandum,^m dum me peccatorem nimis esse cognoscis.

Imperat tibi dominus. Imperat tibi magestas. Imperat tibi deus Pater. Imperat tibi occisus, in homine crucifixus, deumⁱ surrexit triumphator. Audi ergo, Mirage, et time verba dei, et esto michi preparatus in omnibus negociis providendis.)

Adiuro te, serpens antique, per iudicem viuorum et mortuorum, per eum qui habet potestatem te mittere in Iehennam, ut facias cito quidquid precipio tibi, illo iubente qui sedet in altissimis. Amen.

Adiuro te, Mirage, non mea vi set uirtute Spiritus Sancti, ut sis subiectus mandatis meis, ea sine mora perficienda. Cede ministris Ihesu Christi. Illius potestas te urgeat qui se pro nobis affligendo crucis patibulo subiungavit, illius enim brachium contremisce qui de rictis gemitibus inferni animas ad lucem produxit. Sit tibi tremor cor[p]us hominis. Sit tibi formido ymago dei, quam^t Christus sancta morte redemit. Ne resistas, ne moreris^l appropinquare michi, et velle meum implere, et ne me infirmum putes ad condemnandum te.

Tibi imperat deus Pater. Tibi imperat deus Filius. Tibi imperat Spiritus Sanctus. Tibi

i Followed by ab asseris^m (?), deleted.

j Followed by suu, deleted.

k Corrected in MS from contremiat?

l inferni duplicated in margin.

m MS condempnendum.

i Sic AB, for deum?

j perfidend' B.

k quatenus A.

l moretis B.

Filius. Imperat tibi Spiritus Sanctus. Imperat tibi apostolorum sedes, scilicet Petri et Pauli ceterorumque apostolorum. Imperat tibi indulgentia confessorum. Imperat tibi martyrum sanguis. Imperat tibi sacramentum crucis. Imperat tibiⁿ misteriorum virtus. Imperat tibi virtus [60v] in quo nichil inuenisti de corporibus tuis.^o [Imperat tibi Christus,] qui te spoliavit, qui regnum tuum destruxit, qui te vinctum ligavit et vasa tua dirupit, qui te proiecit in tenebras, ut tibi cum ministris tuis erit preparatus interitus, sed quem nunc crudelem te recogitas, quem^p temerarie retractas.

Reus [es] omnipotentis dei, cuius statuta^a transgressus es; reus^r filij eius Ihesu Christi, quem templare ausus es et crucifigere presumpsisti; reus humani generis, cui^s mors tuis imperat apostolorum fides, scilicet Petri et Pauli et ceterorum apostolorum. Imperat tibi indulgentia confessorum. Imperat tibi sa[n]guis martirum. Imperat tibi mundicia virginum. Imperat tibi continencia viduarum. [A 110r] Imperant tibi pia opera coniugatorum. Imperant tibi oraciones omnium bonorum hominum in ecclesia dei militantium. Imperat tibi sacramentum [B 140r] crucis. Imperat tibi virtus corporis et sa[n]guinis domini nostri Ihesu Christi. Imperat tibi misteriorum virtus. Imperat tibi Ihesus Christus in quo nichil iurauisti^m de operibus tuis, qui te exspoliavit, qui regnum tuum destruxit, qui victum te ligavit et vasa tua dirupit, qui te proiecit in tenebras exteriores ubi tibi et ministris tuis est preparatus eternus interitus. Sed quid nunc, truculente dyabole retractus, qui temperie redardas.^m Reus es omnipotenti[s], cuius statuta transgressus es; reus Ihesu Christi filij^p eius, quem templare ausus fuisti et crucifigere permisisti; reus humani generis, cui mors persuasionibus tuis euenit. Impero^p tibi, nequissime, per imperium diuinum. Adiuro te per agnum inman Followed by minstriorum virtus, deleted.

o Sic in MS.

p Sic in MS?

q MS statera, with r inserted above line, after another interlinear letter which is blotted out.

r Followed by esse (?), deleted.

s MS tibi.

m Sic AB.

n Meaning redardescis?

o Christo filio AB.

p imperat AB.

persuasionibus euenit. Impero tibi, draco nequissime, per imperium dominicum. Adiuro te in nomine agni immaculati,^t qui ambulat super aspidem et basiliscum, qui conculcauit leonem et draconem [Ps 90:13 Vulg.], ut facias cito quidquid precipiam. Contremisce et time, intocato nomine dei, quem inferi timent, quem celorum virtutes et potestates, dominaciones et virtutes, [et] alie subiecte sunt et timent et adorant, quem cherubin et seraphin indefessis vocibus laudant. Imperat tibi verbum quod caro factum.^u Imperat tibi natus ex virgine.^w Imperat tibi Iesus Nazarenus, qui te creauit, et cito impleas omnia que a te petam uel habere uoluero uel scire desidero.^x Quia quanto tardius feceris que tibi precipio uel precipiam, tibi supplicium magis crescit et crescat de die in diem.

Exorcizo te, maledicte et mendacissime spiritus,

- per verba veritatis,
- per omnipotentem,

culatum, qui ambulat super aspidem et basiliscum, qui conculcat leonem et draconem [Ps 90:13 Vulg.], ut facias cito quidquid impero tibi et precipio. Contremisce et time. Inuoco nomen domini, illum time cui uirtutes celorum, potestates, dominaciones, et principatus subiecti sunt, timent, et honorant,^q quem cherubin et seraphin indefessis vocibus laudant. Imperat tibi verbum caro factum,^r imperat tibi natus de uirgine. Imperat tibi Iesus Nazarenus. Imperat tibi qui te creauit, ut impleas cito omnia que peto a te uel habere uoluero uel scire cupio. Quia^s [A 110v] quanto tardius feceris ea que tibi precipio, tanto^t magis supplicium tibi erit de die in diem.

Exorcizo te, maledicte et nequissime ac mendacissime spiritus,

^t MS inmaculatiij?

^u Inserted above line.

^v MS caro factum est.

^w Followed by interlinear marking, apparently an m (presumably for Maria), which appears to be struck through.

^x desidero added in margin.

^q honorent A.

^r Followed by seraph, struck through B.

^s Followed by est, struck through (?) B.

^t que AB.

^u tantum B, but with the letter o written twice in the margin.

^v ac B.

^w et B.

- *per Ihesum Christum Naza- [61r] renum, agnum immaculatum, de altissimo progressu[m], de Spiritu Sancto conceptum, ex Maria virgine natum, quem Gabriel angelus nunciauit venturum, quem cum vidisset centurio^y exclamauit, dicens,
'Vere hic est filius dei' [cf. Matt 27:54].*

*Exorcizo te, auctor dyabolice potestatis,
inventor malorum, cum omnibus subditis tuis, in nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti; in nomine gloriose deitatis, cuius ix ordines angelorum, throni, dominationes, patriarche^z et apostoli, et omnes sancti^a diebus ac noctibus proclamant, dicentes, 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, qui erat et qui est^b et qui venturus est, et qui est omnipotens' [Apoc 4:8], et non presumas transgredi precepta mea. N. Nec tibi^c lateat,^d N., imminere tibi penas, imminere tibi tormenta, diem iudicij, diem supplicij, sempiterni diem, qui venturus est^e velut clibanus ar-*

- per verbum veritatis,
- per deum omnipotentem.
- per Ihesum Christum Nazarenum,
- per agnum immaculatum de altissimis progressum, de Spiritu Sancto conceptum, ex Maria virgine natum, quem Gabriel nunciauit, quem cum vidisset Johannes^x exclamauit, dicens 'Hic est filius dei.'

Exorcizo te, auctor dyabolice potestatis, inuentor malicie, cum omnibus subditis tuis, in nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti, et in nomine gloriose deitatis, cui nouem chori angelorum, patriarche et prophete, apostoli, martires, confessores,^y virgines et [B 140v] vidue, et omnes electi dei diebus ac noctibus indefessa voce collaudant, dicentes, 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, qui erat, qui est, et qui est venturus, et qui est omnipotens' [Apoc 4:8], ut non presumas transgredi precepta mea. Nec tibi^c lateat tibi imminere penas, tibi imminere tormenta, tibi imminere diem iudicij, tibi imminere diem supplicij sempiterni, per deum qui venturus est velut clibanus^a ignis ardentis,

y centurio duplicated in margin.

z Corrected in MS from patriarchi?

a et omnes sancti added in margin.

b et qui est added above line.

c MS te.

d lateat altered in MS to lataet.

e est added above line.

x Sic in MS.

y martires et confessores B.

z te AB.

a clibanum AB.

dens, in quo tibi atque vniuersis angelis tuis sempiternus erit preparatus interitus. Et ideo pro tua nequicia dampno te atque dampnabo. Da honorem deo viuo et vero, et michi subditus esto in omnibus operibus meis preparandis ac proficiendis. Da honorem deo viuo et vero; da honorem Ihesu Christo et Spiritui Sancto Paraclito, in cuius nomine ac virtute precipio tibi ego, f. N., et nomini eius^d et verbis meis obedias, cui omnis creatura deseruit, quem cherubyn et seraphym laudant, dicentes, 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, dominus deus exercituum [Is 6:3], qui regnat et dominatur per infinita secula. Amen, amen, amen.'

[61v] Coniuro et constringo atque precipio tibi, ut sine aliquo nocumento michi nunc et semper obedias, sine lesione et grauamine corporis et anime mee. Coniuro te, diabole,

- per^a omnia predicta sacramenta facta,ⁱ
- et per omnia scripta, dicta, facta, creata, viua [et] mortua,

in quo tibi et angelis tuis preparatus est semp[er]ternus introitus. Et ideo pro tua nequicia, dampnate^b atque dampnande, da honorem deo viuo et vero, et estor michi subiectus, ut omnia precepta mea adimpleas. Da honorem Ihesu Christo filio eius, da honorem Spiritui^c Sancto Paraclito, in cuius nomine atque virtute precipio tibi, Mirage, ut nomini eius ac preceptis meis obedias, cui omnis creatura deseruit, quem cherubin et seraphin laudant, dicentes, 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, dominus deus exercituum [cf. Is 6:3], qui regnat et dominatur [A 111r] per infinita secula seculorum. Amen.'

Adiuro ac constringo et precipio tibi, Mirage, ut michi obedias sine aliquo impedimento uel nocumento uel lesione et grauamine corporis et anime mee, nunc et semper. Iterum coniuro te, Mirage,

- per omnia predicta sacramenta facta et facienda,
- per omnia scripta sancta, creata, viua et mortua,
- per illum qui te de celo proiecit.

f deo viuo . . . Christo et added in margin.

g ego added above line.

h eius deleted and eius substituted.

i deus added above line.

j Followed by -turnus, deleted.

k Followed by omnes, deleted.

l Followed by duplication of et per omnia sacramenta facta.

b dampnante A.

c est A.

d Spiritu AB.

e ac B.

- et per istum qui te de paradyso eiecit.

Coniuro te et precipio tibi, N.,

- per hostiam sacram,
- per hostiam immaculatam,
- per hostiam conscriptam et benedictam atque deo placentem.

Coniuro te atque precipio tibi, Diabole,^m

- per omnia quibus constringi et ligari possis.

Exorciso te

- per nomen tuum et potestatem omnium spirituum,
- et per omnes karacteres,
- et per sigillum Salominis,
- et per anulumⁿ eius, ix candarias celestes, in malediccione et confusione et augmentacione penarum^o tuarum^p dupla,^q de die in diem, quod tu, Diabole, non requiescas^r nec cesses a labore continuo in eodem loco in quo modo es remouearis^s et ab officio tuo et ab omni soci-

Coniuro te et precipio tibi

- per hostiam sanctam et per hostiam immaculatam,
- per hostiam scriptam et per hostiam benedictam atque deo placentem.

Coniuro te ac precipio tibi, Mirage,

- per omnia per que ligari et constringi possis.

Exorcizo te

- per nomen domini,
- per potestatem omnium spirituum,
- per omnes caractares,
- per sigillum Salominis,
- per annulos eius,
- per septem candelabra aurea ante dominum lucencia,

ut tibi, Mirage, augmentatur penarum accerbitas de die in diem, ita ut non requiescas nec cessas a labore tuo continuo in eodem loco ubi nunc es remouere,^f et ut remouearis ab omni officio tuo et ab omni societate et temptacione et decepçione, ut priuaris statim per verba coniuracionis tibi inflicta. Maledico [B 141r] te et nomen tuum confundo in eternum

m Followed by quibus, deleted.

n Corrected in MS from annulum.

o MS puerum.

p Followed by fide (?), deleted.

q MS duplo.

r -equi- erroneously struck through.

s Followed by abo, deleted.

f Sic AB.

etate et temptatione et deceptione alicuius priuatus statim, per verba et coniurationes tibi predicta. Maledico te, dyabole, et nomen tuum confundo in eternum,

- et per omnes dies vite tue,
- et per potestatem quam^t habeo super te hic michi ab omnipotenti deo^u data in baptismo et in alijs sacramentis,
- et per eucharistiam que est corpus Christi.

Eciam te excommunico et maledico tibi et omne illud quod ad te pertinet [62r] et confundo [te],

- per On,
- et per^r Alph[a] et O,
- et per Emanuel,
- et per nomen dei ineffabile,
- et per sanctum Tetragramaton,
- et per omnia verba que dicta sunt tibi,^s N.,

et facias statim, sine aliqua mora, mandatum meum et petitionem quam tibi manifestabo, dum vtinam comparas quod michi alloquaris.

In nomine Patris veni, et in nomine Filij

- per omnes dies vite mee,
- per potestatem quam habeo super te, Mirage, michi ab omnipotenti deo data in baptismo et alijs sacramentis,
- per corpus domini nostri Ihesu Christi.

Eciam te excom[m]unico, tibi maledico et omne id quod a[d] te pertinet, et confundo te et omnia tua,

- per On,
- per Alpha et O,
- per Emanuel,
- per nomen dei ineffabile,
- per sanctum Tetragramaton,
- per omnia nomina et verba que dicta sunt,

ut statim venias, Mirage, sine aliqua [A 111v] mora, mandatum et potestatem meam quam tibi manifestabo, quam michi loqueris.

*In nomine Patris veni. In nomine Filij veni.
In nomine Spiritus Sancti veni. In nomine sancte Trinitatis veni. Tibi dico, in nomine dei summi veni. In nomine creatoris et omnium creaturarum veni ad me in hac hora, sine aliquo documento, lesione, atque grauamine corporis et anime mee, uel alium millas,*

t Sic in MS.

u Corrected in MS from quem.

v deo added above line.

w Added above line.

x Followed by etc.?

veni, et in nomine Spiritus Sancti veni, et in nomine sancte trinitatis tibi dico veni, in nomine summi dei creatoris omnium creaturarum veni ad me in hac hora, sine aliquo nocumento, lesione, atque grauamine anime mee et corporis mei, uel alium mittas uel venire facias, qui sciat perfecte omne desiderium meum adimplere, et nullo modo a me recedat,^y nisi licenciatus fuerit a me, et uoluntatem meam plenarie perfecerit. Coniuro te per hec et per hoc^a, et ita ut supradicta sunt, ut facias michi venire unum spiritum, qui auferat secum aurum et argentum denarios, et thesauros, antequam a loco isto recedam; et quocienscumque ipsum inuocauero statim compareat,^b benignus ac humilis, nulli nocens, et michi in omnibus ministrans, et uoluntatem meam perficiens, fiat, fiat, amen; ut ducas uel mittas michi tuum spiritum prom[p]tum et ydoneum in omnia sciencia; ut habeat potestatem facere me invisibilem quandocumque uoluerō;^c [62v] et vel venire facias, qui sciat perfecte desiderium meum adimplere, et nullo modo a me recedere, nisi a me fuerit licenciatus uel uoluntatem meam plenarie perficiat. Item coniuro te per hec que supradicta sunt, ut facias michi venire unum spiritum qui portet^d michi aurum et argentum uel thesauros absconditos, antequam de isto loco recedam; ut sit michi ministrans in omni uoluntate mea, et quocienscumque ipsum inuocauero statim compareat michi, benignus ac humilis, nulli nocens, sed uoluntatem meam in omnibus adimplens et perficiens, fiat, fiat, fiat, amen; ut adducas michi tuum spiritum promptum et ydoneum in omni sciencia, et ut habeat potestatem me faciendi inuisibilem quandocumque uoluerō; et michi placuerit, et quod semper sit sub potestate mea; et concedas ei similiter [potestatem] consecrandi libros, experimenta, et omnia quecumque uoluerō. Amen.

y Followed by dare (?), deleted.

a Or hec.

b MS compareat.

c The clauses marked here as [B] and [C] are given at the end of 62r, after Fiat, fiat, amen, but are evidently intended as alternatives to the material here given as [A]. The lines on the top of 62r (Et michi placuerit . . . Amen. Amen. Amen.) may also be intended for reading here.

g fere AB.

h portat AB.

i ut B.

*michi placuerit, et etiam quod semper sit sub potestate mea; et concedas ei similiter potestatem consecrandi libros et experimenta et omnia quaecumque volueris.^d Amen, amen,
amen.*

^d MS volueris.

NO. 33. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION FROM A MIRROR (FOLS 62v--65r)

Circue cimiterium et collige tot lapides quot^a sunt versus in psalmo Misereri mei deus [Ps 50 Vulg.].^b Cum hiis lapidibus, pone circulum quando vis, et inpone herbam que vocatur verbenā. Postea accipe speculum, et line ipsum cum oleo oliue cum pollice, dicendo Gloria in excelsis deo, etc. Et intres circulum. Stes supra herbam, et verte primo ad orientem, dicens,

Coniuro te, Astra, Astaroth, Cebal,

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- per xxiii^{or} seniores,
- et per tres pueros Sydrach, Mysaac, et Abdenago,
- per Toth,^c principem vestrum,
- per Zambrim et Mambrim,
- per Vsuel [et] per Saduel, quibus obedire tenemini de veritate,^d
- et per baptismum quod recipitur in fonte a sacerdote,

ut obediatis michi.^e

Cum venerit spiritus, dic si volueris, 'Deum qui te genuit dereliquisti, et oblitus [es] domini creatoris tui.' Cui tunc dicet spiritus, 'Verum est.' Tunc dic, 'Ligo^f et constringo vos demones, per verba que audistis a creatore vestro pendent^g in cruce, ut nulli noceatis, sed^h dei veritate respondeatis michi.' Quod si noluerint, lege vinculum Salomonis; de vinculo spirituum non est soluendum, sed ymo pocius diuidendum et ymitandum.]

[63r] Sed tamen, ut predictum est, cauendum est ne in manus quorundam insipientium hoc secretum deueniat. Eructuamus sapientissimum filium, per quod^k predicti reges et principes [cum] omnibus subditis suis valeant subpeditari a MS quod.

b Added in upper margin: Nota: 47 versus sunt in isto psalmo.

c Perhaps a reference to Thoth.²

d Sic in MS.

e Followed in MS by et per baptismum quod recepi in fonte a sacerdote meo, ut obediatis michi, whether by way of pleronym or as a correction.

f Followed in MS by uel (?).

g MS pendens.

h Followed in MS by extraneous de (?), deleted.

i Followed in MS by virtute, deleted.

j Sic in MS.

k Sic in MS. Perhaps Eruct[u]amus sapientissimum verbum (Pt. 18:3 Vulg.) is intended, which could explain the neutral quod.

et cogi et ligari et in abissum proici. Si vero sunt rebelles et contradicentes et inobedientes exorciste semper, et si in omnibus non obedierint uel precepta exorciste non conseruauerint, hoc vinculum est legendum,^l quod sic incipit:

- Per corroboratum et potentissimum nomen dei El, forte et ammirabile, vos exorcisamus atque imperamus,
- per eum qui dixit et factum est,
- per omnia nomina ipsius,
- et per nomen Y et V et E, quod Moyses audiuit et locutus est,
- per nomen Genery, et in nomine Genery, quod Noe audiuit et locutus est, cum viija familia de linea sua,
- et per nomen Y et V et E et X, et in nomine V et X,^m quod Abraham audiuit et cognouit omnipotentem deum,
- et per nomen Joth, et in nomine Joth, quod audiuit Jacob ab angelo secum comitante, et liberatus est de manu fratris sui Esau,
- et per nomen Eyzaserie, et in nomine Eyzaserie, quod Moyses in monte audiuit, et meruit quod nunc est cum deo, et audire ipsum cum flamma loquentem,ⁿ
- et per nomen^o Anathematon, et in nomine Anathematon, quod Aron audiuit, et eloquens et sapiens [63v] factus est,
- et per nomen Sabaoth, et in nomine Sabaoth, quod Moyses audiuit et inde nominauit, et omnes aque egredi de terra ceperunt palidum,^p et verse sunt in sangwinem, et putruerunt,^q
- et per nomen Oristion, et in nomine Oristion, quod Moyses nominauit, et fluuij omnes ebulierunt ranas,^r et absconderunt in domibus Egyptorum,
- et per nomen Eloy, et in nomine Eloy, quod Moyses audiuit, percuciens puluerem terre, et factus est cinifes in hominibus et iumentis,^s
- et per nomen Artifontite, et in nomine Artifontite, quod Moyses nominauit, et omne genus muscarum misit in Egyptum, et inter^t Egyptios,
- et per nomen Yephaton, et in nomine Yephaton, quod Moyses audiuit, et quod Moyses nominauit, percuciens terram, et grauis pestis percussit equos, asynos, et camelos, oues et boues interierunt, l MS ledendum.

m Sic in MS.

n Sic in MS.

o MS votum.

p Sic in MS – evidently an echo of the biblical paludes, which would fit equally little into the present context.

q Cf. Ex. 7:17–21.

r Cf. Ex. 8:3.

s Cf. Ex. 8:17.

t Followed in MS by in, deleted.

- et per nomen Arbitrios, quod Moyses nominauit, et tulit cinerem de cymiterio, et desparsit in celum, et facta sunt ulnura visicarum ugentium in hominibus et iumentis, et in omni terra Egyptorum,
- et per nomen Elyon, et in nomine Elyon, quod Moyses nominauit, et [facta est] grando talis qualis non fuerat ab initio mundi, usque ad presens tempus, ita quod homines et iumenta que erant in agris ceciderunt et interierunt,
- et per nomen Adonay, et in nomine Adonay, quod Moyses voluit, et facte sunt locuste et apparuerunt super omnem terram, et quidquid residuum grandis erat [64r] deuorauerunt,
- et per nomen Pantheon, et in nomine Pantheon, quod Moyses nominauit, et facte sunt ombre horribiles tribus diebus et tribus noctibus,
- et per nomen Arimon, et in nomine Arimon, quod Moyses media nocte nominauit, et omnia primogenita Egypti perierunt et mortua fuerunt,
- et per nomen Geremon, et in nomine Geremon, quod Moyses nominauit et totum Ysraheliticum populum in captiuitate^u liberauit,
- et per nomen Yegeron, et in nomine Yegeron, quod mare audiuit, et diuisum est,
- et per nomen Ysiston, et in nomine Ysiston, quod mare audiuit et submersit omnes currus pharaonis,
- et per nomen On, et in nomine On, quod petre audiuerunt, et innumerabiles emanuerunt,
- et per nomen Anabona, et in nomine Anabona, quod Moyses in monte Synay audiuit, et meruit tabulas manu^v saluatoris scriptas accipere,
- et per nomen Egyryon, et in nomine Egyryon, cum quo Yosue pugnauit et inimicos destruxit suos et victoriam obtinuit,
- et per nomen Patheon, et in nomine Patheon, v^o sanctus Dauid nominauit et liberatus est de manu Golye,
- et per nomen Eya, et in nomine Eya, quod Salomon audiuit et Gabaon et meruit in sompnis postulare et impetrare sanctam sapienciam,
- et [64v] per nomen Pancraton, et in nomine Pancraton, quod Elyas orauit quod non plueret, et non pluit tribus annis et mensibus sex,
- et per nomen Symayon, et in nomine Symayon, quod Elyas orauit et celum dedit pluuiam, et terra dedit fructum suum,
- et per nomen Eloy, et in nomine Eloy, quod Elyseus nominauit et Esunamitis filium liberauit,
- et per nomen Athanatos, et in nomine Athanatos, quod Yeremias nominauit et preleri[i]t captiuitatem Ierusalem ciuitatis, u MS captificate.

v MS manus.

w Sic in MS.

- et per nomen Alpha et O, et in nomine Alpha et O, quod Daniel nominauit, et per illud Bel destruxit et draconem interfecit,
- et per nomen Emanuel, et in nomine Emanuel, quod tres pueri in camino ignis ardentis^x nominauerunt, et per hoc illesi exierunt et liberati,
- et per hec nomina et omnia alia nomina omnipotentis dei viui et veri, qui vos de excelso throno primum^y de vestra culpa eiecit et vsque ad abissum locum vos proiecit.

Exorcizamus^z atque viriliter imperamus,

- per eum qui dixit et factum est, cui obediunt omnes creature,
- et per tremendum diem iudicij dei summi,
- et per igneam denorationem,
- et per mare vitreum^a [cf. Apoc. 4:6] quod est ante conspectum diuine maiestatis,^b
- et per 4or animalia contra sedem diuine maiestatis gaudencia (uel gradiencia), oculos ante et retro ha- [65r] bencia [cf. Apoc. 4:6-8],
- et per sanctam trinitatem, que^c est verus deus vnus,
- et^d per nonaginta nouem nomina que dicunt filie Israel,^e
- et per ineffabilem ipsius creatoris virtutem et omnipotentiam,
- et per^f xxiiijor seniores ante^g thronum circumstantes,
- et per angelos celorum, potestates et dominationes, que sub eo creatore nominantur,
- et per summam sapientiam,
- et per anulum Salomonis [et] sigillum,
- et per sacratissimum nomen illius, quod omne seculum timet, quod scribitur 4or literis,^h HV; V; et V; HV; AGLA,
- et per ix celestes candarias,
- et per earum virtutes,

[A] quatenus hodierno die vsque ad talem terminum rei michi integre custodiatis;ⁱ [B] quatenus thesaurum istum quem huc vsque custoditis penitus michi relinquatis, sine aliqua x MS ardentier.

y Sic in MS.

z MS Exorcizamus.

a MS viacum.

b Followed by gaudencia uel gradiencia, deleted.

c MS qui.

d Added above the line.

e MS Israeli.

f Followed by ignem ar, deleted.

g Added in margin.

h Followed by a blot, or by scilicet (?).

i Sic in MS.

diminutione, ita quod faciatis quod a nullo valeat seperari; [C] et iam in hac hora veniatis^d et debeatis michi respondere, de re et de rebus integre^d de quibus vobis interrogauero veritatem dicere.^m

Item, si inuenires spiritum vel spiritus rebelles uel contrariantes, sic dices:

Per nomen Pneumaton, et in nomine Pneumaton, quod Moyses nominauit et absorpti fuerunt a cauernis terre, Dath, An, et Abyron, et virtute illius sacratissimi nominis dei Pneumaton, maledicimus vos in profundum abyssi; usque ad vltimum diem iudicij ponimus vos atque religamus, nisi precepto meo^a obediatis et desiderium meum duxeritis ad effectum.

NO. 34. LIST OF DEMONS (FOLS 65v--65r bis)

Barbarus [est] magnus comes et dux, et apparet in signo Sagitarij siluestris cum 4or regibus ferentibus tubas. Intellectus autem cum latratus canum inimicus boum et omnium animalium.^a Loca thesauriorum facit aperiri que non custodiunt[ur] a magicis et a cantacionibus. Et est de ordine virtutum, et habet sub se xxxvj legiones.

Cason magnus dux est et fortis, et a[p]paret in similitudine senaphali. Dat ad plenitudinem vera responsiua^b de presentibus, preteritis, et futuris, et occultis.^c Dat gratiam amicorum et inimicorum. Dat dignitates et confirmat. Habet sub se xlv legiones.

Otius magnus preses et comes [est], et apparet in signo Vipere, et habet deterrimam hominis speciem, sed cum suscipit formam humanam habet dentes magnos et tria cornua. In manu portat gladium acutum. Dat ad plenitudinem vera responsiua^d de presentibus et futuris et occultis rebus. Dat gratiam amicorum et inimicorum. Habet sub se xxxvj legiones.

Cyrson magnus rex est et fortis, et apparet in similitudine hominis. Facies

j Meaning a me nunquam?

k Sic in MS?

l Sic in MS?

m Alternative C added in margin.

n Sic in MS?

a Sic in MS.

b Sic in MS.

c MS occulte, perhaps intended to modify dat, but more plausibly construed as parallel to the preceding substantives, as in the following paragraph.

d Sic in MS.

leonina coronatus est dyademate. In manu fere[n]^e viperam fortissimam, equitat super [66r] dorsum feruentissimum, et ante ipsum semper precedunt tube.^f Bene scit presenciam, preterita, et futura [et] occulta pandere. Loca thesaurorum ostendit et aperiri^g facit.^h Libenter suscipit corpus humanum et aereum, et dat vera responsa de diuinis et occultis rebus, de deitate et mundi creacione. Dat optimos familiares. Habet sub se xxij legiones, partim de ordine virtutum et partim de ordine thronorum.ⁱ

Alugor magnus^j dux est. Apparet in similitudine militis pulcherrimi, ferens lanceam, vexillum, et sceptrum. Ad plenitudinem dat vera responsa de occultis rebus et de duellis, quarum^k fieri debeant et quarum^l aduentura sunt. Dat eciam milites in occursum, et dat gratiam omnium regum, marchionum, et omnium militum. Habet sub se 1^m legiones.

Taob magnus est et princeps. Apparet in signo medici cum suscipit figuram humanam; [est] doctor opti[m]us mulierum, et facit ardere in amorem virorum. Si sibi iussum fuerit, facit eas transmutari in aliam formam, quousque veneri[n]t coram dilectis; finis^a facit eas steriles. Habet sub se 25^o legiones, etc.

[66v] Volach magnus preses est. Apparet [in forma] pueri, et habet alas ad modum angeli. Equitat super draconem. Duo habet capita. Dat ad plenitudinem vera responsa de occultis thesauris, in quibus [locis] videntur et apparent. Serpentes et absque illis custodibus^p posse omnium serpentum tradit in manus exorciste. Habet sub se xxvij legiones.

Gaeron dux est fortis et potens, et apparet in similitudine pulcherrime mulieris. Ductili coronatur coria.^q Equitat super camelum. Dat ad plenitudinem vera responsiua de presentibus, preteritis, et futuris, et de occultis thesauris, in quibus locis videntur et apparent. Dat optime amorem mulierum, et precipue puellarum. Habet sub se xxvij legiones.

e Or perhaps meaning fert.

f Sic in MS

g MS apperui, but rather aperiri or apparere is presumably intended.

h MS has extraneous vertical line between c and i.

i MS throni.

j Followed by a blot.

k Meaning quando or quomodo?

l Meaning quomodo?

m Sic in MS?

n Meaning si vis?

o Duplicated in margin.

p Sic in MS.

q Meaning ducali coronatur corona?

Tvueries marchio magnus et fortis [est], regnans et imperans in Affloranis^r partibus. Docet ad plenitudinem gramaticam, loycam, rethoricam, ac dictata,^s et facit loca thesaurorum aperiri,^t et occulta ostendi^u facit. Eciam hominem velocissimo cursu mare et flumina transire uel transmeare [facit]. In specie militis apparet. Equitat super equum nigerrimum et superbitatem.^v Habet sub se xxx legiones.

Hanni preses magnus [est], et apparet in flamma ignea, sed cum suscipit formam humanam [65r bis]^w mirabilem reddit hominem abilem in astronomia et^x in aliis artibus liberalibus. Dat optimos familiares et gratiam magnatum et principum, et loca thesaurorum que a spiritibus custodiunt[ur] mirabiliter ostendit. Habet sub se xxx legiones.

Svcax magnus marchio est, et apparet in similitudine hominis. Wltum habet femineum. Videtur beniuolus. Multum mirabiliter dat amorem mulierum, et maxime omnium viduarum. Dat ad plenitudinem omnia genera li[n]gwarum. Facit hominem transire de regione in regionem velocissimo cursu. Habet sub se 23 legiones.

NO. 35. FOR OBTAINING A WOMAN'S LOVE (FOLS 65r bis-67v)

Incipiunt experimenta bona^a et probata et verissima, primo de modo scribendi^b Bel et Ebal.

Nota: in feria quinta, nouis vestibus indutus et balneatus, in crepusculo, scribe in costam nomen tuum et mulieris, Bel et Ebal – Bel in principio, et in medio nomen tuum et nomen mulieris, in fine Ebal – et pone ad ignem et fac cremari costam, et quando est in maximo calore uel furore lege coniuracionem que sequitur, et consequeris desideratum:

[65v bis] Coniuro vos spiritus infernales Bel et Ebal, quorum nomina in ista costa scripta sunt et in igne ardescunt,

^r Meaning Africanis?

^s MS dictate.

^t MS apperire.

^u MS ostendere, followed by a blot.

^v Meaning superbum?

^w Fol. 65 bis occurs between fols. 66 and 67.

^x et duplicated.

^a These three words occur twice, the first time as a heading.

^b Followed by a blank space.

- per omnes virtutes celorum et terre,
- per thronos, principatus et potestates, et dominaciones,
- per cherubin et seraphin,
- et per omnia que sub celo sunt,

ut nunquam requiem habeatis, quin^c cor eius in amore mei ita ardere faciat ut nunquam dormire, comedere nec bibere, nec ire nec stare, nec flere nec ridere, nec aliquod opus perficiat, quin cordis mei desiderium prius adimpleat. Item coniuro vos, Bel et Ebal, quorum nomina in^d igne ardescunt,

- per dominum omnipotentem,
- et per Ihesum Christum filium eius,
- et per Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per virtutem sancti dei,
- et per ipsam providenciam dei,
- et per terram, mare, et profundum abissi,
- et per clemenciam [dei],
- et per visionem dei,
- per noctem et tenebras,
- et per tremendum diem iudicii,

ut nunquam requiem habeatis quin^c cor eius in amore mei ita ardere faciat ut nunquam dormire, comedere nec bibere, ire nec stare nec iacere, nec flere nec ridere, nec aliquod opus perficere valeat, quin cordis mei desiderium penitus adimpleat.^f Item coniuro vos, Bel et Ebal, quorum nomina in igne ardescunt,

- per deum [67r] verum, per deum vivum, per deum sanctum, qui vos et cuncta creavit, qui Adam et Euam de limo creavit, qui fecit angelos suos spiritus [Ps. 103:4 Vulg.], qui scit presenciam, preterita, et futura, qui habet claves celi, [qui] claudit et aperit, [qui] claudit et nemo aperit [Apoc. 3:7],
- per eum qui fuit mortuus et resurrexit, qui est principium et finis, Alpha et O, primus et novissimus [cf. Apoc. 21:6, 22:13], ut nunquam, etc. Coniuro vos, O Bel et Ebal, quorum nomina in igne ardescunt,

- per hec sancta nomina dei: Ely, Eloy, Eleon, Tetragramaton, Tupanoel, Fabanoel, Sabaoth, Sathay, Adonay.

Coniuro vos

- per virtutem qua dominus noster Ihesus Christus ianuis clausis ad dissipulos suos intrauit.

Coniuro vos, Bel et Ebal, quorum nomina in igne ardescunt,

- c MS quoniam.
- d Followed by igne.
- e MS corus.
- f MS adimpleatis.

- per spineam coronam quam dominus noster Ihesus Christus in capite sustinuit,
- et per fixuram clauorum qui pias manus et pedes transfixerunt,
- et per sanguinem et aquam de latere fluentem,
- et per lacrimas beate virginis Marie,
- et per mortem et sepulturam Christi,
- per resurrectionem et ascensionem Christi,

ut nunquam requiem habeatis, quin cor mulieris in amore ita ardere faciatis quod nunquam dormire, comedere nec bibere, nec stare nec sedere, [nec flere] nec ridere, nec aliquod opus perficere valeat, quin cordis mei desiderium [67v] penitus adimpleat, et quod illud nullatenus obmittat. Hoc^a precipio vobis, per eum qui viuit et regnat in secula seculorum. Amen. Amen. Amen. Etc.

NO. 36. GENERIC PREPARATION FOR CONJURING SPIRITS (FOLS 67v–68v)

De responsione spirituum.^a

Cum magister voluerit vocare spiritus, vadat ad locum^b secretum cum duobis sociis, et^c habeat cultellum cum manubrio albo uel nigro, in cuius lamina hec nomina ex utraque parte sunt scripta: Agla [et] Sabaoth. Et faciat^d cum eodem cultello exteriorem circulum,^e dicendo, Hunc circulum facio in nomine dei Patris omnipotentis, qui solo verbo vniuersa creauit. Et in eodem circulo scribat cum cultello prelibato hec nomina: contra orientem, Agla; contra occidentem, Tetragramaton; contra septentrionem, Adonay; contra meridiem, Sabaoth. Deinde faciat secundum circulum, dicendo, Hunc circulum facio in nomine dei viui, qui humanum genus humano sanguine redemit. Tercium vero circulum faciat dicendo, Hunc g MS obmittatis.

h Or hec.

a Line duplicated in margin of MS.

b MS locrum.

c MS aut.

d MS faciendo.

e Figure at top of fol. 68: a triple circular band, with Sabaoth and meridiem marked just outside at the top, occidentes and Tetragramaton at the right, septentrion [sic] and Adonay at the bottom, oriens and Agla at the left. The outermost circle bears the inscription, * Hunc circulum facio in nomine dei Patris omnipotentis, qui solo verbo vniuersa creauit. The middle circle has the inscription, * Hunc circulum facio in nomine dei viui qui humanum genus humano sanguine redemit. The innermost contains the inscription, * Hunc circulum facio in nomine Spiritus Sancti paracliti, qui [MS quia] apostolorum et prophetarum corda sua gracia illustrauit. In the upper left, a further inscription begins in the outer circle and ends in the middle one: Per hoc signum sancte crucis gracia dei defendat nos ab omni malo. The interior is left blank.

circulum facio in nomine Spiritus Sancti paracliti, qui^f apostolorum et prophetarum corda sua gracia illustrauit. Post hec faciet crucem per omnes circulos, [dicens], Per hoc signum sancte crucis gracia dei defendat nos ab omni malo. Tunc accipe turribulum, inposito thure^g et mirra, [et] circuas^h ex- [68r] teriora circuli,ⁱ dicens, Hanc fumigationem facio in nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti. Et post hec^j stans contra orientem extra circulum,^k dicat vij psalmos cum letania,^l deuote et humiliter, et has oraciones:

Adiuu^m te, rex regum et dominus dominancium, eterne et incommutabilis deus,^a intellige clamorem meum nunc et spiritus mei gemitumque cordis mei,^o vt respirem^o in te saluatorem meum. Da^o michi intellectum sanctum et bonum, et aufer a me quod malum est; et commutans me in omnem dilectionem tuam qua formasti me et saluasti, tribuas incrementum michi. Exaudi, domine, precem meam qua clamaui ad te, et exaudi me. Reuela et illumina oculos mentis mee et carnis, vt considerem et intelligam mirabilia tua. Viuifica me in iustificacionibus tuis, vt preualeam in conspectu aduersariorum^o meorum et dyaboli.ⁱ

NO. 37. MANUAL OF ASTRAL MAGIC (FOLS 68V-96V)

37a. Conjurations for each day of the week

Incipiunt coniurationes dierum super compositionem sacrificiorum, quod fiet quando debuerit aliquid operare^a antequam illud incipiat. Coniura ergo cum alia f MS quia.

g MS thus.

h MS circuat.

i MS circulum.

j Or hoc.

k Followed by in, deleted.

l Followed by et.

m Redundant a struck through.

n Followed by dominus, deleted.

o Sic in MS.

p Sic in MS.

q MS dat.

r Followed by in- (?), deleted.

s Followed by et.

t Followed by a blank space left for the title of the following material, and by this fragment (evidently in the same hand, but less careful than usual): Aloe epacium quando im aracum (?) pliwis wirnies (?).

a Note that operari and operare are used interchangeably.

coniuracione sequentium dierum quibus operabis, et scribenda fuerint. Scribe ea die suo.

Coniuracio diei dominici sequitur, etc.

[1.] [69r] Coniuracio diei solis.^b

Coniuro et confirmo super vos, angeli fortes et sancti,

-  In nomine Adonay, Adonay, Eye, Eye, Eyu, qui est ille qui fuit, est, et erit, Eye, Aloraye,*
- in nomine Sadaye, Saday, Cados, Cados, Cados, altius, super cherubin sedens,
- et per nomen ipsius magni, sancti, fortis, potentis, et exaltati, super omnes celos, Eye, Saraye, Plasmatoris seculorum, qui creauit mundum, celum, et terram, mare, et omnia que in eis sunt in primo die celorum, et sigillauit super eos cum nomine sancto suo,^c Yhon, super terram que sigilla terra est, honorato, precioso nomine suo Yhaa,
- et per nomina sanctorum angelorum qui dominantur in primo exercitu et seruiunt coram potentissimo Salamia, angelo magno et honorato,
- et per nomen stelle que est Sol,
- et per signum immensissimum dei viui et quod omnia per predicta.^d

Coniuro

- super Raphael angelum^e qui est prepositus diei dominici,^f
- et per nomen Adonay, dei Israel, qui creauit mundum et quicquid est in eo, quod pro me labores et adimpleas omnem voluntatem meam et petitionem iuxta meum velle et votum in negocio et causa mea.

Dicas autem secundum quod tibi videbitur.

[2.] Coniuracio diei lune.^g

[69v] Coniuro et confirmo et sigillo super vos, angeli fortes et sancti,

- in nomine Adonay, Adonay, Adonay, Eye, Eye, Eye, Cados, Cados, Cados, Hatyn, Hatyn,^h Hatyn, Va, Va, fortis, Va, qui apparuitⁱ in monte Synay cum glorificatione regni sui, Ya, Adonay, Saday, Sabaoth, Hanath, Hu, Haxi, Ya, Ya, Ya, Marmalita, Abym, Yea, qui maria creauit, stagna, et omnes aquas in secunda die, quosdam in

^b Heading duplicated in margin.

^c u corrected from another letter, which is blotted out.

^d Sic in .MS.

^e .MS angele.

^f Meaning dominico.

^g Heading duplicated in margin, and again at top of fol. 69v.

^h Corrected both times from Hatym.

ⁱ .MS apparuit

celis, quosdam in terra, et sigillauit mare cum virtute sua et alto nomine suo ut terminum quem sibi posuit non preterierent [Ps. 103:9 Vulg.],

- et per nomina angelorum qui dominantur in secundo exercitu, qui seruiunt Oraphaniely, angelo magno, precioso, et honorato,^k
- et per nomen stelle que est Luna,
- et per sigilla et per nomina predicta.^l

Coniuro super te Gabriel, qui est prepositus diei secundo, scilicet Lune, quod pro me labores et adimpleas omnem meam petitionem. Amen.

[3.] Coniuracio diei Martis.^m

Coniuro et confirmo et sigillo super vos, angeli fortes et sancti,

- per nomen Ya, Ya, Ya, A, A, Va, Hy, Hy, Haa, Haai, Vā, Va, Han, Han, Hon, Hy, Hyen, Haya, Haya, Hol, Hol, Hay, Hael, Hon,
- per nominaⁿ domini Adonay, Haya, Hol, Plasmatori seculorum, Cados, Cados, Cados, [70r] Ebel, El, Iā, Ya, Ya, Eloy, Arar, Eloym, Eloym,
- et per nomen ipsius alti dei qui fecit aridam apparere et vocauit eam terram et produxit arbores et herbas de ea, et sigillauit super eam precioso et honorato [et] metuendo nomine suo,
- et per nomina angelorum dominancium exercitui tertio et ministrando Acynerim, angelo magno, forti, potenti, et honorato,
- et per nomen stelle que est^o Mars,
- et per nomen Adonay, dei viui et veri.

Coniuro super te, Samael, angelo qui es^p prepositus diei tercio, scilicet Marti, quod pro me laboretis et adimpleatis omnem meam voluntatem et totam meam petitionem, ut sicut in primo capitulo, etc.

[4.] Coniuracio diei Mercurij.^q

Coniuro et confirmo et sigillo super vos, angeli fortes et sancti et potentes, j MS celos.

k MS honorata.

l MS predictos.

m Heading duplicated in margin.

n Followed in MS by men, deleted.

o MS qui.

p Sic in MS.

q Heading duplicated in margin.

- in nomine fortis, metuendi, et benedicendi, Yā, Adonay, Eleoyim, Saday, Saday, Saday, Eye, Eye, Eye, Asaame, Asaomie, Asamyē,
- in nomine domini Adonay, cum quo super verba hominum sigillauit Saa, quid, Sayguans,^r Capym, Say, Saaqui,
- et per nomina^s Cryasy, Adonay, Taguaasas, Adonay, dei Israel, quia ipse est^t [qui creauit] diem et noctem,
- et per nomina omnium^u angelorum seruiencium [70v] exercitui 4o, quorum Thytabora, angelo maiori, forti atque potenti,^v
- et per nomen stelle que est Mercurius,
- et per nomen sigilli cum quo sigillatur Adon, fortissimo et honorato,^w
- et per omnia predicta.

Coniuro super te, angele magne Michael, qui es prepositus diei 4o,

- et per nomen sanction quod in fronte Aaron sacerdotis altissimi creatoris^x erat,
- et per nomina angelorum qui in gracia confirmati sunt creatoris,
- et per nouem sedes animalium habencium sensus^y et alas, et pro me laboretis in [causa] mea, ut cicius ducatur ad effectum optatum, etc.

[5.] Coniuracio diei Veneris.^z

Coniuro et confirmo et sigillo super vos, angeli fortes et sancti atque potentes,

- in nomine Hay, Hey, Hea, Yā, A, Yā, Ya, Ananey,
- in nomine Saday, qui creauit quadrupedia et animalia reptilia et hominem in sexto die, et dedit Ade potestatem super omnia animalia – inde benedictus sit nomen creatoris in loco suo,
- et per nomen angelorum qui seruiunt exercitui sexto coram Daghyel, angelo magno principi, forte^a atque potenti,
- et per nomen stelle que^b est Venus,
- et per sigillum eius, quod quoddam sigillum est sacramtum,

^r Sic in MS?

^s Followed in MS by et.

^t Followed by ide. struck through.

^u omnium added below line in MS.

^v Sic in MS.

^w Sic in MS.

^x Corrected in MS from creatis.

^y Sic in MS?

^z Heading duplicated in margin.

^a Corrected in MS from fortem.

^b MS qui.

- et per omnia predicta.

Coniuro super te, angele magne Anael, qui es prepositus diei sexto, ut pro me labores, ut supra.

[6.] [71r] Coniuracio diei Jouis.^c

Coniuro et confirmo et sigillo super vos, angeli fortes et sancti atque potentes,

- per nomen Cados, Cados, Cados, Eseraye,^d Esoraye, Eseraye, Hatym, Va, fortis firmatoris seculorum, Catiney, Yabeiz, Yaruc, Yarae, Calloac, Allae, Assaf, Maataf, Barifay, Abnaym,
- et per nomen Adonay, qui creauit^e pisces et reptilia in aquis et aues volantes super faciem terre versus celos die quinto,
- et per nomina angelorum seruiencium exercitui quinto, pastore angelo magno sancto et potenti principi,
- et per nomen stelle que^f est Jupiter,
- et per nomen sigilli sui,
- et per nomen Adonay, supremi diei omnium creatoris,^g
- et per nomina omnium stellarum, et per vim et virtutem eorum,
- et per nomina predicta.

Coniuro super te, Salquiel, angele magne qui es^h prepositus diei Jouis, quod pro me labores et meus affectus ad effectum deueniat.ⁱ

[7.] Coniuracio diei Saturni.^j

Coniuro et confirmo et presciendo^k super vos, Captiel, Matatori, Sartaquidi, angeli fortes et potentes,

- per nomen Adonay, Adonay, Eye, Ey, E, Eye, Hacyn, Hacyn, Hacyn, Cados, Cados, Cados, Yma, Yma, Yma, Saday, Ya, Sar, domini formatoris seculorum, [qui] die septimo quieuit, et illam in beneplacito suo filiis Israel in hereditatem [71v] et obsequium dedit, ut eum firmiter seruarent et custodirent et sanctificarent ad habenda

c Heading duplicated in margin at bottom of fol. 70r.

d Corrected in MS from Esaraye.

e Followed by pisces, struck through.

f MS qui.

g Presumably meaning supremi dei omnium creatoris.

h Sic in MS.

i MS deueniant.

j Heading duplicated in margin.

k Sic in MS.

inde bona et in alio seculo remuneraciones, et nomina angelorum seruiencium exercitui septimo coram Boel, angelo magno, potenti principi,

- et per nomen stelle que^l est Saturnus,
- et per sanctum^m sigillum eius,
- et per omnia predicta.

Coniuro Captiel, qui prepositus esⁿ diei septimo, qui est^o dies sabbati, ut pro me labores^p et non desistas^q donec totum affectum ad effectum perducas. Amen.

37b. Seals for seven angels

Sequitur videre et scire septem sigilla que^a signanda sunt in quolibet opere secundum diem septimane.

Hec sunt sigilla vij planetarum discurrencium vij celos, secundum quod dixerunt vij physici sapientes, quotquod opus facies, quod si non scies non complebitur sine signis istis sequentibus, quoniam quelibet dies suum sigillum et suam^b planetam et suos angelos et suum regem spirituum cum adiutoriis suis et sua[s] creatura[s] et suffumigium suum, secundum quod inferius tibi dicetur, et quando feceris hec,^c scias quod perfectum ipsum fuisse et magnum qui hunc librum composuit. Et scias quod quidquid quesieris perficietur,^d et virtute dei, cuius nomen sit benedictum per infinita secula seculorum, amen.

[1.] [72r] Ecce sigillum Raphahelis, angeli cuius stella est Sol. Fac illud die Solis in signo Leonis.^e

[2.] Ecce sigillum Gabrielis, angeli cuius stella est Luna. Fac illud die Lune, hora Lune, in signo Cancrī, etc.^f

[3.] Ecce sigillum Samaelis, angeli cuius stella est Mars. Fac illa die Martis, hora Martis, in signo Arietis uel Scorpionis.^g l MS qui.

m Followed by g, struck through.

n Sic in MS.

o MS es.

p MS laboras.

q MS desistat or desistat.

a MS qui.

b MS suum.

c Or hoc.

d perficietur duplicated in MS.

e Followed by seal.

f Followed by seal.

g Followed by seal.

[4.] Ecce sigillum Michahelis, angeli cuius stella est Mercurius. Fac illa die Mercurij et hora Mercurij, in signo Capricorni uel Gemini uel Virginis.^h

[5.] Ecce sigillum Satquielis, angeli cuius stella est Jupiter. Fac illa die Jouis, et hora Jouis, signo Sagittarij et Pissis, etc.ⁱ

[6.] [72v] Ecce sigillum Anaclis, angeli cuius stella est Venus. Fac illa die Veneris, hora Veneris, in signo Thauri et Libre, etc.^j

[7.] Ecce sigillum Caffrielis,^k angeli cuius stella est Saturnus. Fac illa die Sabbati, hora Saturni, in signo Capricorni et Aquarij.^l

37c. Seals for days of the week

[1.] Ecce sigillum diei dominici, quod fieri debet Sole ascendente.^a [73r] Ecce signum Solis, quod^b est planeta die[i] dominice.^c

[2.] Ecce sigillum Lune, quod fieri debet Luna ascendente.^d

Ecce signum Lune, quod est planeta diei Lune.^e

[3.] Sigillum diei Martis, quod debet fieri Marte ascendente.^f

[73v] Signum die[i] Martis, quod est planeta diei Martis.^g

[4.] Sigillum Mercurij debet fieri Mercurio ascendente.^h

Signum Mercurij, quod est planeta Mercurij diei.ⁱ

[5.] Sigillum Jouis, quod fieri debet Joue ascendente.^j

[74r] Signum Jouis, quod est planeta diei Jouis.^k

[6.] Sigillum Veneris, quod debet fieri Venere ascendente.^l

h Followed by seal.

i Followed by seal on top of 72^r.

j Followed by seal.

k Or Casfrielis?

l Followed by seal.

a Followed by four lines of seals.

b Sic in MS, here and in following cases.

c Followed by two lines of seals.

d Followed by two lines of seals.

e Followed by one line of seals.

f Followed by five lines of seals.

g Followed by two lines of seals.

h Followed by five lines of seals.

i Followed by one line of seals.

j Followed by two lines of seals, and three further lines at the top of 74^r.

k Followed by one line of signs.

l Followed by four lines of signs.

Signum Veneris, quod est planeta diei Veneris.^m

[7.] Sigillum Saturni, quod debet fieri Saturno ascendente.ⁿ

[74v] Note de signis vij planetarum, id est septem dierum. Completa signa vij dierum ebdomade super planetis et signis eorum. Caue igitur in illis tibi, quia^o maxima virtus est in eis, quare quia in eis complebuntur opera tua.

37d. Names of the angels who rule over the days of the week

Nomina angelorum regnancium a diebus septimane sunt dicenda, et sequitur que opera habet^a nominare in operibus septimane.

[1.] Angelus diei dominici est Raphahel.

[2.] Angelus diei Lune est Gabriel.^b

[3.] Angelus diei Martis est Samael.

[4.] Angelus diei Mercurij est Michael.

[5.] Angelus diei Jouis [75r] est Satquiel.

[6.] Angelus diei Veneris est Anael.

[7.] Angelus diei Saturni, id est Sabbati, est Captiel.^c

In isto igitur opere nominabis angelum diei in quo facies opus tuum, et scribe illa, quare^d si fuerint scripta multum iuuabunt te cum potencia creatoris.

37e. Spirits who rule over the days of the week

Regum spirituum vij diebus in septimana regnancium nomina subscribentur super eos angelos dominantes diei quando facies opus et sic venient et complebunt voluntatem tuam et respondebunt tibi in omnibus que quesieris.^a m Followed by one line of signs.

[1.] Die ergo dominico regnat et seruit rex Saytam. Coadiutores sui sunt^b Taatus, Candas, Vanibal.

[2.] Et die Lune regnat et seruit rex Almodab. Coadiutores sui sunt Sylol, Millalu, Abuzaba.

[3.] Die Martis regnat et seruit rex filius dyabuli.^c Coadiutores sunt Carmath, Utanaual, Pascami.

n Followed by 6 lines of signs at the top of 74^v.

o Sic in MS.

a Sic in MS.

b r in Gabriel partly blotted out in MS.

c Or Capciel?

d Sic in MS.

a Sic in MS.

b Followed in MS by Sylol, Candas, struck through.

c Sic in MS.

[4.] Die Mercurij regnat et seruit rex Saba. Coadiutores sui sunt^d Conas, Pactas, Sanbras.

[5.] Die Jouis regnat et seruit rex Madrath, filius Arath. Coadiutores sui sunt Hyrti uel Hyiti, Ignaro,^e Quiron, Saalalebeth.

[6.] Die Veneris [75v] regnat rex et seruit Saabotes. Coadiutores sui sunt Nassath, Ynasa.

[7.] Die Saturni regnat Hayton, Assayby. Coadiutores sui sunt Abimalyb et Haybalydoth et Yfla.

Completa sunt nomina regum spirituum regnancium et seruiencium septem diebus septimane.

37f. Suffumigations for each day of the week

Quilibet enim dies septimane habet suffumigium sibi appropriatum, cum quo suffumigabis^a opus tuum quod facies in ea, et complebitur opus tuum sine dubio.

[1.] Suffumigium dies dominice assandalum croceum vel rubeum uel simile sibi.

[2.] Die Lune est aloes, anacap, uel simile sibi.

[3.] Die Martis est piper aut abana, cyg^b uel sibi simile.

[4.] Die Mercurij est altast aut ei simile.

[5.] Die Jouis est olibanum aut croceum uel ei simile.

[6.] Die Veneris est almastic aut lignum radim uel ei simile.

[7.] Die Saturni est assandaron et sulphur aut ei simile.

Et si in die Saturni operare volueris ad ligandas lignas,^c erit suffumigium thus Odee Capre.^d Hec^e sunt suffumigia dierum septimane.

37g. Purposes served in each day of the week

[1.] In die dominico operari poteris ad ligandas li[n]gwas aut ad alias ligaciones hominum.

[2.] Die Lune operandum est ad beniuolenciam et ad concordiam et amiciam.

[3.] Die Martis [76r] operandum est ad infirmandum homines et destruendum.

^d Followed in MS by Comas, deleted.

^e Sic in MS?

^a furni blotted out in MS.

^b Sic in MS, for cygminus?

^c Meaning linguas?

^d Sic in MS?

^e MS Hee.

[4.] Die Mercurij operandum est ad ponendum inimiciam siue odium inter homines.

[5.] Die Jouis operandum est ad faciendum pacem inter homines discordantes.

[6.] Die Veneris operandum est ad coniu[n]gendum homines in amicitia uel prouocandos de loco ad locum ad beniuolenciam.

[7.] Die Saturni operari poteris ad ligandum^a interiora^b balnea, molendina, aut similia.^c

Dictum est de operibus dierum septimane in qua operandum est.

Quacumque die septimane operari volueris ad beniuolenciam aut quo[d]libet bonum uel malum, attende diligenter quod illa sit operi faciendo conueniens,^d nec dimittas opus tuum de die in diem uel differas, quare si illud opus non confirmaretur uel non duceretur ad effectum forsitan putaret[ur] illud esse falsum.

37h. Angels serving on each day of the week

Sciendum quod qualibet^a die septimane presunt tres angeli ad seruiendum homini et opera eius perficienda.

[1.] Diei dominico presunt tres angeli, scilicet Raphahel, Dardiel et^b Vrlacafel.

[2.] Die Lune presunt^c hij: Gab[ri]el, Michael, Sammyel.

[3.] Diei Martis presunt hij, scilicet Satyel, Sanyel, Barma- [76v] ly.

[4.] Diei Mercurij presunt hij, scilicet Gemi, Sabael, Sarpiel, Muriel.

[5.] Diei Jouis presunt hij, scilicet Pacta, Castiel, Assassael.

[6.] Diei Veneris presunt hij, scilicet Anael, Sarquiel, Sacquiel.

[7.] Diei Saturni presunt hij, scilicet Captiel, Maraton, Sartquiel, id est Satraquel.

In omni opere quod facies, invocabis angelos illius die[i] quo operari volueris, et ipsi tuam complebunt voluntatem et ducent ad effectum opus tuum.

37i. Names of God

Sequuntur consequenter nomina que scribere habent in principio cuiuslibet operis quod facies ei et respondebunt voluntati tue. Et sunt ex nominibus a um blotted out in MS.

b Initial i blotted out in MS.

c Followed by Quacumque die septimane.

d Meaning quod illa sint operi faciendo conueniencia?

a MS quilibet.

b MS uel.

c MS prosunt (here and in the following five cases).

creatoris. Ista ergo nomina cum nominari volueris invocanda sunt, scilicet Anguas, Yna, Dei Israel. Ybae.^a Subae, Guabas, Ynissamon, Haa, Dosa, Barian. In omnia alia karta quam scribes opus hoc vt scribat in ea vbi sit aliquē ex materia carte quod si fuerit de amicitia et si fuerit de inimicitia et si ad medicinam similiter sic obseruet[ur] in omnibus.^b

37j. Names of the hours of the day, and their functions

Scribere nos oportet nomina horarum^a diei quibus horis perficientur opera que facies.

[1.] [77r] Prima ergo diei hora dicitur Yayn. In hac hora facienda est carta ad destrucndas voces hominum et mala verba eorum et lingwas ligandas.

[2.] Secunda enim hora diei dicitur Yan, Or, et in ea operaberis ad amicitiam et gratiam et beneficium obtinendum et ad societatem hominum aduittandum^b ad reges et ad potentes.

[3.] Tercia vero hora diei dicitur Nassura. In ea facias cartam uel ymagines ad venerandum^c seras vel aues, siue ad implicandum pisces, uel aliquod quodlibet nascencia perhibenda.^d

[4.] Quarta hora diei dicitur Sala. In ea fac cartam uel ymaginem ad ligandum omnes bestias siluestres, leones, vrsos, et similia.

[5.] Quinta hora diei dicitur Sadadat. In ea fac cartas ad ligaciones et ad applicandas quaslibet bestias, et ad quidquid vis aliud.

[6.] Sexta hora diei dicitur Tamhut. In ea operari poteris ad extrahendum captiuos de carcere, ad ligatos soluendos.

[7.] Septima hora diei dicitur Caror. In ea operatur ad ponendum pacem inter reges.

[8.] Octaua hora diei dicitur Tariel. In ea operari poteris ad mandeolenam et discor- [77v] diam^e ponendam inter homines.

[9.] Nona hora diei dicitur Karon. In ea facienda est carta ad itinerandum^f uel ad eundum inter latrones sine timore.

[10.] Decima hora diei dicitur Hyon. In ea operari poteris ad demonia uel demoniacos uel ventum malum uel pauorem uel iuuandum ad dominas.

^a Corrected in MS from Ybaas (?).

^b This entire paragraph seems obscurely written.

^a MS horas.

^b Meaning admittendam or admittendorum?

^c Presumably meaning venandum.

^d Sic in MS.

^e c added above line in MS.

^f MS itinerandum.

[11.] Vndecima hora diei dicitur Nathalon. In ea operari poteris ad prouocandum sanguinis fluxum in mulieribus et ad ligandum virum cum muliere uel e contrario.

[12.] Duodecima hora diei dicitur Abat. In ea operari poteris inter maliuolos ad pacem ponendam inter virum et mulierem.

37k. Names of the hours of the night, and their functions

[1.] Iste sunt hore diei, et operibus sibi pertinentibus.^a

Prima hora noctis dicitur Leron. In ea fac ad demoniacos opera tua, aut ad uentos malos aut ad congregandas et loquitur cum eis.^b

[2.] Secunda hora noctis dicitur Latol. In ea operari poteris ad piscariam et ad omina nascencia aque.

[3.] Tercia hora noctis dicitur Hami. In ea operari poteris ad accendendum uel ad exti[n]gwendum ignem et ad omnia que in eo uolueris operari.

[4.] Quarta hora noctis dicitur Atyn. In ea operari [78r] poteris ad destruendum domum uel huiusmodi ad expellendum homines de loco ad locum.

[5.] Quinta hora noctis dicitur Caron. In ea fac questiones vt in sompnis videat quod futurum est in mundo uel in diebus uel in annis et ad secreta reuelanda.

[6.] Sexta hora noctis dicitur Zaia. In ea operari poteris ad arbores et fructus earum et ad ceteras plantas terre et ad omne quod operandum est in terra.

[7.] Septima hora dicitur Nectius. In ea operari poteris ad expellendum homines de domo sua uel quod infirmetur uel quod moriatur.

[8.] Octaua hora noctis^c dicitur Tafat. In ea poteris operari ad inimicicaam ponendam inter quos uolueris.

[9.] Nona hora noctis dicitur Conassuor. In ea poteris operari ad ligaciones li[n]gwarum aut ad intrandum ad reges et dominos.

[10.] Decima hora noctis dicitur Algo. In ea operari poteris ad destruendas li[n]gwas uel omnem cogitationem super te aut concilium malum quod super te cogitatum fuerit.

[11.] Vndecima hora noctis dicitur Caltrua. In ea operari poteris que uolueris in auibus, ad eas ligandas^d uel capiendas.

[12.] Duodecima hora noctis dicitur Salaij. In ea poteris [78v] operari ad inueniendum quidquid predictum est uel ad reuelacionem furti uel malorum factorum.

a Presumably meaning opera eis pertinencia.

b Sic in MS.

c Corrected in margin of MS from nothis.

d First a inserted above line, substituting for a letter that is blotted out.

371. Names of angels that rule each hour of the day and of the night

Cum aliquod opus uel cartam uolueris scribere, nomen hore et nomen angeli et hore et qui ei dominatur uel ministratur oportet te nominare. Hec sunt nomina angelorum dominancium omnibus horis diei noxium^a septimane. Prime hore diei dominatur Raphael. 2e hore Anael. 3e Michael. 4e Gabriel. 5e Gaffriel. 6e Satquiel. 7e^b Samael. 8ue Raphael. 9e Anael. 10e Michael. Vndecime Gabriel. 12e Cafriel.

Nocte diei Lune prima hora dominatur Satquiel. 2e hore Samael. 3e Raphael. 4e Anael. 5e Michael. 6e Gabriel. 7e Cafriel. 8e Satquiel. 9e Samael. 10e Raphael. 11e^c Anael. 12e Michael. Sic autem intelligere debes de omnibus aliis noctium et dierum prenominationis quidem enim angeli dominatur et ministratur horis secundum dominacionem planetarum uel ministracionem in eis. Omni hora Solis ministratur uel dominatur Raphael. Hora Veneris, Anael. Hora Mercurij, Michael. Hora Lune, Gabriel. Hora Saturni, Caffriel. Hora Jouis, Satquiel. Hora Martis, Samuel. Diei etiam cuiuslibet planete cum angelis suis signaque planetarum distributa horum angelorum nomina debent concordare et respondere [79r] nominibus capitulis supra proxime positus et angelo qui continetur infra in coniurationibus cuiuslibet diei et in capitulis de ymaginibus deorum quibus ministrant adinuicem.^d Diei dominici ergo ministratur Sol, et angelus eius Raphael, eiusque signum Leo. Diei lune^e ministratur Luna, et angelus eius Gabriel, eiusque signum Aries et Scorpio. Diei Martis ministratur Mars, et angelus eius Samael, eiusque signum Cancer. Diei Mercurij ministratur planeta Mercurij, et eius angelus Michael uel Mathael, eiusque signum Gemini uel Virgo. Diei Jouis ministratur Jupiter, et angelus eius Samael, eiusque signum Sagittarius et Pisces. Diei Veneris ministratur Venus, et angelus eius^f Anael, eiusque signum Taurus et Libra. Diei Sabbati ministratur Saturnus, et angelus eius Caffriel, eiusque signum Capricornus et Aquarius.

Nomina^g siue istis uel nominibus opus tuum perficere non poteris. Prima hora diei Lune ministratur uel dominatur Gabriel. Secunda hora Caffriel. 3a hora Satquiel. 4a hora Samael. 5a hora Raphael. 6a hora Anael. 7a hora Michael. 8a hora Gabriel. Nona hora Caffriel. Decima hora Satquiel. Vndecima hora Samael. Duodecima hora Raphael.

a Sic in MS.

b Blotted out in MS.

c MS 12.

d Sic in MS.

e Corrected in MS from luna.

f MS eiusque.

g Sic in MS.

37m. Images to be used for each hour of the day

[79v] De operibus ymaginum diei.

[1.] Nota primo malas li[n]gwas. Prima hora diei facienda est ymago ad ligandas li[n]gwas, et li[n]gwa que ligata fuit illa hora nunquam erit potens loquendi malum verbum de te. Prima hora diei fac ymaginem canis ex argento uel stanno^a puro, et sculpe in capite ymaginis nomen illius super quem operaris et nomen domini hore et diei in quo hec^b facis, et in ventre ymaginis nomen potentissimi et altissimi domini, et suffumigabis ymaginem suffumigio supra dicto, et cum sanguine rubeo et involues eam in panno albo nouo, et sepelies eam ad partem illius de quo volueris, tunc non loquitur de te malum. Et sic ligabunt omnia ora et oculi hominum, et tibi nunquam nocere poterit quamdiu durabit ymago ista. In ventrem ymaginis scribe nomen Lune et nomen signi et angelorum tempore quo hoc^c facies. Hec autem nomina sunt nomina creatoris multum preciosa et benedicta, quibus creatum fuit^d celum et terra.^e Hic^f autem cum sculpes, sculpe eam totaliter vt bene appareat.^g Et hec sunt nomina: Lyara, Lyalguana, Loaffar, Vialuarah, Lebara, Lebarion, Layasales. Hec sunt vij nomina que scribes in ventre forme, et scribes ea in omnibus operibus omnium rerum pertinencium hominibus, aut auib^h et bestiis et omnibus creaturis de concordia et amicicia.

[2.] [80r] Secunda hora diei facienda est ymago benivolencie, et vna ymago viri et altera mulieris de purissimo stanno fusile et [in] capite ymaginis mulieris nomen viri, et in capite viri nomen mulieris, in pectore vero et in ventre ymaginis^b sculpes vijtem subsequencia nomina simul cum vijtem nominibus supradictis, et iunges ymages, conglutinandoⁱ eas cum cera, ita quod inter se bene firman^htur, et sepelias^j in domo illius quem volueris alium sequi, et fiet inter eos amicicia durabilis quamdiu ymages durabunt. Et hec sunt ista vij nomina, hec scribes: Malthayl, Caramel, Azariel, Zaraimayl,^k Parsail, Porbayl, Seralabelis. Et hec^l quod^m legi possunt.

a MS stango.

b Or hoc.

c Or hec.

d Presumably meaning quibus creauit.

e In margin of MS: Nota nomina, and pointing hand.

f Meaning hanc [ymaginem].?

g MS apparat or apperiat [appiat].

h MS ymaginem.

i MS conglutinaando.

j MS sepelias.

k Sic in MS?

l Or hoc.

m Meaning quoque.

[3.] Tercia hora diei facienda est ymago ad prouocandas omnes aues et tota omnia piscaminaⁿ ad locum signatum. In hac hora fac ex ere rubeo ymaginem animalis quod applicare volueris, et sculpe in capite ymaginis nomen domini hore et in pectore similiter et in ventre vij nomina prime hore, et suffumiga eam cum feniculo aut ordeo yndo, et sepeli eam in loco ad quem volueris applicare animalia sub quorum similitudine ymaginem formasti, et videbis mirabilia creatoris quando veniant ad locum istum.

[4.] [80v] Quarta hora diei facienda est ymago ad animalia prouocanda uel effuganda, vt scorpiones et omnia reptilia et bestias siluestras. In hac hora fac ymaginem ex ere croceo ad similitudinem animalis cuius genus [ge9] in loco signato volueris applicare, sculpe nomen animalis in capite ymaginis et in pectore nomen domini hore, et vij supradicta nomina, prima hora^o sculpe in ventre ymaginis et sepeli ymaginem in loco quo vis applicari. Hec quidem ymago applicabit omnia animalia que tunc non in loco erant.

[5.] Quinta hora diei facienda est ymago ad feras mitigandas, vt leones, vrsos, et lupos, aut^p quaslibet alias feras nocentes. In hac hora funde ymaginem animalis cuius genus volueris applicari uel mittigari, et sculpe in capite ymaginis nomen animalis, et in pectore nomen hore et nomen domini hore, et in ventre vij nomina prime hore, et suffumiga ymaginem cum ligno yndo et cum sandalo rubeo, et sepeli ymaginem in loco vbi volueris, et auxilio domini te adiuuante videbis quod omnia illa animalia ad voluntatem tuam reuertentur.

[6.] Ad liberandos incarceratos. Sexta hora diei facienda est ymago pro captiuis aut incarceratis, uel dampnandis ad mortem uel saluandis. In hac [81r] hora funde ymaginem illius uel istorum quos saluari volueris ex argento uel stanno, et sculpe in capite ymaginis nomen viri saluandi, et in pectore nomen hore, et in ventre^q septem nomina prime hore, et^r dona^s ymaginem alicui eorum, quod eam secum teneat carcere et ista nocte euadent a carcere cum potencia dei creatoris.

[7.] Ad uenandum uel ad piscandum.^t Septima hora diei facienda est ymago pro uenacione et piscacione, et est fortis et vtilis multum. Funde ymaginem ex optimo argento in hac hora, et sculpe in capite ymaginis nomen domini hore, et in pectore ymaginis vij nomina 2e hore, et omni hora qua piscatum vel venatum

n Sic in MS.

o MS hore.

p MS aut.

q MS virtute.

r et slightly malformed, and duplicated above line in MS.

s MS tona.

t Heading added in margin of MS.

ieris ymaginem tecum porta et^u applicacionem, venacionem, uel piscacionem quam volueris.

[8.] Ad maliuolenciam et discordiam ponendam inter homines. Octaua hora diei facienda est ymago ad domos uel ad loca destruenda^v et deponenda. In hac hora funde ymaginem ex ere rubeo cum duobus capitibus, quorum vnum sit asininum, reliquum vero hominis, et sculpe in capite asinino nomen loci quod deletum esse volueris, et in capite humano sculpe nomen domini loci, et ministratores domini loci et in pectore ymaginis nomen domini hore, et suffumiga ymaginem cum sanguine hominis inter- [81v] secti uel cum auxugia carnis, et sepli eam in loco quem depopulatum rem^w volueris et fugient omnes homines et depopulabitur iste locus talis quod nec quoddam^a brutum animal remanebit.

[9.] Quod poteris transire vbicumque volueris et nullus tibi nocere potest. Nona hora diei facienda est ymago ad ambulandum sine timore inter leones aut feras et transire per eas sine timore [uel] terrore, et ad omnia itineranda secure. In ea hora funde ymaginem sub similitudine de qua quesieris,^y et scribe in capite ymaginis nomen domini hore, in ventre vij nomina prime hore, et suffumiga ymaginem cum supradicto^z fuste et croco. Portans eam tecum, transibis per quemcumque locum volueris sine timore, qui[a] oculi cunctorum videre te non poterunt et eorum li[n]gwe obmutescunt. Poterisque transire, [et non] fiet tibi dampnum. cum potencia dei.

[10.] Ad optinendum quidquid volueris coram^a regibus et^b principibus. Decima hora diei facienda est ymago ad intrandum ad reges et potestates. In hac hora funde ymaginem hominis ex argento, et sculpe in capite ymaginis nomen hominis, et in pectore nomen hore et nomen domini hore, et in ventre vij nomina prime hore, et suffumiga ymaginem cum croco et fuste supra- [82r] dicto, et involue eam in panno nouo lineo et albo, et hora qua ad aliquem volueris intrare vel ire porta eam tecum, et obtinebis quid volueris cum adiutorio dei.

[11.] Ad faciendum concordare discordantes. Vndecima hora diei facienda est ymago ad prouocandam concordiam inter discordantes uel inter virum et mulierem. In hac hora funde duas ymages, vnus ponderis et vnus quantitatis u .Meaning ad?

v .Meaning depopulaturum?

w Sic in MS?

x Followed in MS by p. struck through.

y Perhaps meaning sub similitudine bestie de qua quesieris?

z Sic in MS.

a Followed in MS by te, struck through.

b Followed in MS by pueri (?), struck through.

et qualitatís, et sculpe nomen viri in capite femine, et nomen femine in capite masculí. et in pectoribus ambarum ymaginum sculpes nomen hore et nomen domini hore, et in ventris nomina 2e hore, et pone eas facie ad faciem, et suffumiga eas cum croco et fuste supradicto, et pone eas in secreto ad stellas, et videbis mirabilia, quomodo vnus inquit[e]ter alium et non poterit vnus sine alio stare.

[12.] Ad ligandas li[n]gwas. Dvodecima hora diei facienda est ymago ad ligandas li[n]gwas. In hac hora fac ymaginem hominis ex optimo stanno, et sculpe in capite nomen eius, et in pectore nomen hore, et in ventre nomina prime hore, et suffumiga cum croco et fuste supradicto, et pone ad stellas vij noctes, et cum mochazat et cum sandaras, et coniura eam cum qui sic incipiunt Samahil, et non erit potens loqui super eum malum verbum.

[82v] Finite sunt vij ymaginee que faciente sunt in similibus horis diei cum omnibus suffumigacionibus et operibus suis. Caue igitur in illis, quia exanimatae sunt et vere et ne per te mentiantur,^c quia per eas totam perficies tuam voluntatem, in gracia dei, cuius nomen sit benedictum. Amen.

37n. Images to be used for each hour of the night

De operibus ymaginum noctis.

Modo dicam operacionem ymaginum noctis, sicut studuerunt antiqui qui nominati sunt; invocantur qui ipsi eas composuerunt, vt omnes homines operantes eas scirent de lucerna que nunquam exti[n]gwi possit.

[1.] Prima hora noctis facienda est ymago ad illuminanda loca tenebrosa uel quemlibet alium locum obscurum. In hac hora funde candelam eream quasi crucibulum habens vij ora, et sculpa in quo[libet] ore crucibuli hec nomina: Sarastan, Hasas, Dalas, Sassa; et pone in quolibet ore crucibuli lignum^a de bombace, et scribe super os crucibuli hec xij nomina: Bezat, Berith, Zenit, Caffan, Dalfat, Dana, Aneth, Beas, Manith, Hassas, Dalaph, Sefa. Et fac ex eo super crucibulum ymaginem hominis tenentis secum quasi formam vasis in similitudinem fundentis oleum in candela, et imple candelam oleo quod non fuerit expressum manibus, et sculpe super faciem ymaginis istud [83r] nomen: Leorphahel [uel] Leorpahel, et super formam nomen istud: Rosahal. Et similiter supra candelam crucibuli, et cooperi faciem ymaginis quod non possit discooperiri, et accende ora crucibuli, et nunquam

^c Sic in MS.

^a MS lignum.

exti[n]gwetur. Poteris facere ymaginem in loco quod nulla mulier poterit transire, nec ibi stare, nec ibi stetur.^b

[2.] Secunda hora noctis faciendum est ymago ad presciendum fortunium. Istud testificatus est homo Almera, qui fuit ex sapientibus antiquis, qui cum ingressus fuisset quamdam ciuitatem quam nominabant Alandar fecit in ea ymaginem istam et vltius ingressa non fuit mulier in eam. In hac hora funde ymaginem ex ere lypide, et scribe super faciem ymaginis hec nomina: Notooa,^c Har, Beel, Cead, Vasas, Naaya, Haat. Et hec alia sculpes in quodam folio oris^d et ponas in manu ymaginis; hec sunt nomina, scilicet, Raagor, Ralaz, Branar, Cundaz,^e Natho, Jany. Et sepeli ymaginem in medio ciuitatis siue ville, vt nullus te videat dum hoc^f feceris. Et cum hac ymagine poteris prescindere scorpiones aut cetera nocencia de loco.

[3.] Ad fugandum omnia reptilia. Tercia hora noctis facienda est ymago ad predestinandum reptilia nocencia aut bestias malas aut locustas, vt vyperas aut omnem rem malam. In hac hora funde ymaginem [83v] eream ad similitudinem reptilis quod volueris fugari et scribe in facie eius hec nomina: Vabros, Wiez, Bercca,^g Beror, Berabut, Baramel. Et sepely ymaginem vbi volueris, et omnia de dictis effugabunt.

[4.] Ad destinandum villam aut locum quem volueris depopulari, aut inimiciciam. Qvarta hora noctis facienda est ymago ad villam vel locum destruendum quem volueris depopulari, aut inimiciciam.^h In hac hora minge tu ipse retro in ore cameli uel catti, et collige in panno hominis, et vade ad domum inimici tui, et [scribe] ista nomina cum ista aqua in porta domus eius: Raccedi,ⁱ Palicos, Pytalas, Pila, coniuro vos quod cito destruetis domum illius, N., et tam cito factum erit.

[5.] Ad dispergendum exercitum. Qvinta hora noctis faciendum est ymago ad dispergendum exercitum congregatum super castrum aut quemlibet alium locum, aut malas nubes aut grandinem. In hac hora funde ymaginem ex plumbo et ere rubeo equaliter mixtum sitque 4or librarum, et sculpe in ea hec nomina: Baraa, Atle, Hate, Carbara, Garglale, Ha, Conadiuro Famal,^j Alul, Beaali, Aguel,

b Sic in MS.

c Sic in MS?

d Sic in MS.

e Sic in MS?

f Or hec.

g Sic in MS?

h Sic in MS.

i Sic in MS?

j Sic in MS.

et Arpa, Nafaca, Paluo. Et suffumiga ymaginem suffumigiis que docuimus, et^k coniura super eam vij nomina scripta, et sepeli^l ymaginem in altiori loco. et tale infor- [84r] tunium eueniet quod totus exercitus dispergetur, [et] fugiet. Et si operatus fuerit ad dispergendas nubes, sepeli eam in altiori loco et propinquiori monte, ville, morce, uel loco seminato, et dispergetur nubes et complebitur quod quesieris. videbisque mirabilia et potenciam creatoris.

[6.] Ad faciendum fugere inimicos uel inimicum. Sexta hora noctis facienda est ymago ad expellendum inimicum a villa de domo in qua moratur. In hac hora funde ymaginem ex ere rubeo, et sculpe in ea hec nomina: Tartarath, Acuta, Col, Cafra, Cal, Guabrath, Afah, Audena, Cal, Matha, Coltasia, Bal, Mathail, Cafia, Falduc, Atal, Parclena,^m Cul, Mathiel, Fustaul, Gaulyar, Etal, Patath, Cicubael, Barath, Cabuel, Athael, Pera, Patua. Et in capite ymaginis sculpe nomina illius pro quo ymaginem facis, et suffumiga ymaginem supradictis suffumigiis, et pone eam propeⁿ habitationem eius, et recedet maliuolus fugiendo de villa vel domo, nec quiescet, et pauescet, et distructur eius sensus totalis.

[7.] Ad comburendum^o nascencia terre. Septima hora noctis facienda est ymago ad comburenda nascencia terre. In hac [84v] hora funde ymaginem ex ere rubeo, et sculpe in ea hec nomina: Agug, Cantzit, Totman, Catua, Via, Meracuat, Vanath, Gara, Turat,^p Nuxae, Artha, Nar. Descendat ignis de celis in terram, qui^q tremat totum terminum istum. Adrat, Mararat, Beguayl, Algayl, Carat.^r Et sepeli ymaginem in termino ville, et in toto termino folium viride non^s cremabit.

[8.] Ad congregandum apes aut columbas uel alias quascumque aues. Octaua hora noctis facienda est ymago ad applicandas apes ad aluarium suum, aut columbas ad columbarium suum, aut quascumque alias aues ad locum signatum de longinquis partibus terminis in circuitu. In hac hora funde ymaginem apis de auro ad pondus vnus aurei, et sculpe in ea ista nomina: Cadota, Carosa, Astab, Yatyon.^t Vetartuna, Taracta. Et sepely ymaginem in altiori loco illius termini et applicabunt illuc omnes^u apes qui erunt in circuitu loci illius aut columbe ad k Followed in MS by sign for con-, blotted out.

l Followed in MS by eam, deleted.

m Sic in MS?

n MS proprie.

o MS comburendam.

p Sic in MS?

q Followed in MS by creauit te, struck through.

r Sic in MS.

s Sic in MS.

t Followed in MS by Vertart, struck through.

u Followed in MS by aues, deleted.

columbarium suum vbi fuerit ymago columbe facta secundum quod supra dictum est. Similiter et omnes alie aues.

[9.] Hanc ymaginem facies ad omnia que volueris prouocare ad capiendum aues quas volueris. [85r] Nona hora noctis facienda est ymago ad prouocandas aues quarumlibet ad quemlibet locum volueris. In hac hora fac ymaginem illarum auium quas volueris prouocare, et sculpe in ea ista nomina: Totarati, Tuata, Berhantual, Toluhaya, Ya. Et pone eam quo volueris aues applicari, et applicabunt.

[10.] Ad dispergendum exercitum obsidentem^v villam uel castrum. Decima hora noctis facienda est ymago ad dispergendum exercitum obsidentem villam uel castrum. In hac hora funde duas ymages ex duobus generibus diuersorum metallorum: vna sit ex ere rubeo, 2a ex plumbo, 3a de stanno, 4a de argento, 5a de ferro. Sint autem hee due ymages in vno corpore, et ista ymago habeat duo capita, vnum leonis, reliquum vero thauri, habens cornua a parte anteriori,^w et sculpe in testis illis ista nomina: Horata, Taramat, Bata, Velaheia, Laa, Veda, Eaeffaxa, Lylatrala, Calmaatur, Mantut, Caatuas. Et sculpe in ventre formam leonis et formam bouis, et pone inter eas de sepo bouis et de sepo colubri, et suffumiga ymaginem cum eis et sepely eam vbi sedet exercitus, et cadit in eo talis occisio quod ipsimet se occident, et nunquam reuertatur medietas ad terram suam de ordine.

[11.–12.] [85v] Vndecima et duodecima hora noctis nichil per ymages manuum est operandum, nisi per oracionem et postulacionem, sic enim dixerunt sapientes: Qui de hac sapiencia inquirere uel addiscere voluerit, oportet eum primitus scire horar et nomina dierum, quia in hiis est tota virtus magisterij, et cum hiis perficies opera tua in virtute creatoris, cuius nomen est benedictum in secula [secul]orum. Amen.

37o. Names of angels serving specific times

Quando volueris operari ex libro isto adnomina nomen Terre in tempore suo quolibet eorum 4or nominum, videlicet in quolibet opere vnum. Et quia hoc^a precipitur, quia si fieret aliqua transgressio per operantem, nullum^b veniret ad effectum, etc.

Cum autem aliquod opus aut ymaginem operare volueris ad precidendum^c ^v MS absidentem.

^w Sic in MS?

^a Or hec.

^b MS nullo.

^c Sic in MS.

da[m]pnum hominibus siue seminibus aut gregibus, accipiet^d tempus diei quo hec^e facies, et si de nocte operatus fueris, accipiet tempus noctis cum nominibus angelorum mendantium^f tempus in quo operaberis, in nomen non prohibende vt lucuste grandis et malorum nubium aut rei que tibi videbitur, et hec sunt nomina que scribes in primo tempore.^g

Nomina angelorum primi temporis: Gatrati,^h Cassa, Tait, Amatyel, Gramsatos, et nomen potentis super istos est Oamquiel, et nomen capitis Singlytiel, et Venatyel, Atatyel, [86r] nomen vero auium est Nerastas.

Nomina angelorum secundi temporis sunt hec: Bartatel, Turiel, Vlmiel, et nomen capitis signi Labael.

Nomina angelorum seruiencium tempori 3o sunt hec: Tarquayl, Acartayl, Acayl, Gaaharayl, et nomen capitis signi Calguarath.

Nomina angelorum seruiencium tempori 4o sunt hec: Amabel, Terayl, Atraa, Atratrayl.

Cvm autem operari volueris, accipe nomen temporis quo hoc^e facies, et scribe alia nomina aut signa secundum quod fuerit opus, et omnia venient ad effectum in virtute et potencia creatoris, cuius nomen est benedictum in secula [secul]orum. Amen.

37p. Names of the planets and of parts of the earth

Nota de nominibus Solis.

Dicere nos oportet et docere cupiditates scire ista scienciaⁱ ymaginum et nomina Solis et Lune et Terre, et 4or partium mundi, in quolibet tempore.

Nomen igitur Solis in primo tempore est Abrayn. In secundo tempore Acamon. In 3o Abragon. In 4o Rifar.

Primo tempore Solis sunt hec nomina signorum eius: Aries, Thaurus, Gemini. Tempore 2o Cancer, Leo, Virgo. Tempore 3o sunt hec: Libra, Scorpio, Sagitarius. Tempore vero 4o sunt hec: Capricornius, Aquarius, Pisses.^k

De nominibus Lune. [86v] Primo tempore nomen Lune est Lunatulant. Secundo tempore Albora. Tercio tempore Alladyn. Quarto tempore Saarbaquia.

d Sic in MS.

e Or hoc.

f Presumably meaning ministrantium.

g This entire paragraph appears to be obscurely written.

h Sic in MS?

i Or hec.

j Possibly meaning et cupitis scire istam scienciam.

k Sic in MS.

De nominibus celorum. Primo tempore celorum est Asaptaa, Tima. Secundo tempora Armatrassi. Tercio Mafatyn, Gnam.^l Quarto Safatem.

De nominibus Terre. Primo tempore Terre nomen Inamodon. Secundo tempore Festaen.^m Tercio Tabian vel Rathbil. Quarto Yemat uel Yaneaa.

De nominibus 4or parcium mundi, scilicet Orientis, Occidentis, Meridiei, et Septentrionis.

Primo nomen 4or parcium mundi, scilicet Orientis in primo 4or temporum est Gnaandon. 2o Pibdaya. 3o Aldebath. 4o Pedioth. Nomen Occidentis tempore primo Amana. 2o Tana. 3o Ytadaon. Quarto Malchaam.ⁿ Nomen Meridiei tempore primo Mantham. 2o Yasaory. 3o Azut. Quarto Danor. Nomen Septentrionis tempore primo Manbasut. 2o Gasson. 3o Mascyel. Quarto Yamhor.

De aliis 4or nominibus Terre: alia nomina Terre in 4or temporibus: In primo tempore Talyn. 2o Cosmaaram.^o Tercio Aydarael. Quarto Saybath.

Vt scias que sunt 4or tempora.

Scias quod primum tempus incipit a medio Marcij et finit in medio Junij, et menses^p Aprilis [87r] et Maij sunt in medio, et sunt de tempore primo. Secundum tempus incipit a medio Junij et finit in medio Septembri, et Julius et Augustus sunt in medio, et sunt de tempore 2o. Tercium tempus incipit a medio Septembri et finit in medio Decembri, et October et Nouember^q sunt in medio, et sunt de tempore 3o. Quartum tempus incipit a medio Decembris et finit in medio Marcij, et Ianuarius et Februarius sunt in medio, et sunt de tempore 4o.

37q. Images and conjurations for days of the week

De ymaginibus vij dierum ebdomade.

Sapientes philosophi et experti qui composuerunt istum librum confidentes in deo qui est super omnes deus ordinauerunt ymagines vij dierum ebdomade ad faciendum petitiones, et est sciencia altissima et honorata et multum secreta et non conceditur omnibus hominibus nisi viris magni et profundissimi sensus et intelligencie.

Caue igitur tibi in illis, et proba, et inuenies veritatem sanctissimam.

[1.] De ymagine diei dominice. Prima ymago est diei dominici. Forma eam ex

l Sic in MS?

m Sic in MS?

n Sic in MS?

o Sic in MS?

p MS mensis.

q MS Octobri et Nouembri.

auro uel auricalco aut cera crocea, et scribe super eam nomina sequencia, et si in altitudine dicitur ascensio Leonis in mense Augusti aut Aprilis. Hec sunt nomina angelorum man- [87v] dancium Leonem: Raphael, Dardyel, Vrlathafel. Nomina ventorum sunt hec uel spirituum qui semper mandant Leonem: Baythan, et eius adiutores Cahatus, Cardas, Yabal. Cum uolueris ligare li[n]gwas, fac ymaginem istam in horis nominatis que tibi conuenit et altitudine dicta, et coniura super eam per ista coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos, angeli sigillo Solis consignati: Banarga, Lyon, Cylon, Bamayon, Admyon, Assuerop, Tayuf, Rem, Letana, Baupa, Yanoth, Haralyl, Qirihl, Casub, Nubtub, Caytuli, Catub,¹ per creatorem celi et terre et 4or parcium mundi et ventorum qui² sunt inter celum et terram, qui est super omnes deus, fortissimus et altissimus, et non est alius deus preter eum, et ipse est rerum et conditor omnium naturarum: Yat, Faoli, Idardyel, Ycalatasyel. Item coniuro vos per hec nomina: Vasamiaa,³ Licaa, Cassaa, Lamubatub, Olot, Elos, Cymehalod, ipse est qui scit sciencias secretas et apertas, Yfael, Cardiel, Telataph, El, laborate et complete petitionem meam et opus quod cupio compleri.

[2.] Secunda ymago est [diei] Lune, et est facienda ex auro uel ex stanno aut ex cera alba. Ymago hec est ad maximam beniuolenciam et concordiam, et hi⁴ sunt angeli super eam dominantes: Gab[ri]el, [88r] Michael, Samuel. Cum autem uolueris facere concordiam et magnam beniuolenciam, fac ymaginem istam 2a hora⁵ diei Lune, in altitudine Cancr⁶i, in mense Julij aut Martis, uel in mense Piscium. Hec sunt nomina ventorum qui⁷ manda[n]t Cancrum: Heletel, Halmital, et huius adiutores sunt Bellomilalum,⁸ Abuzaba. Et coniura super eam per istam coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos angeli quibus commissum est signum Lune, Comoha, Bamoha, Zihil, Bephaha, Casal, Nata, Vada. Coniuro vos per honorem dei ut compleatis hanc petitionem, nec in aliam rem laboretis donec festinetis⁹ compleueritis. Rogo te, G[abriel], M[ichael], et S[amuel],

r Sic in MS?

s Followed in MS by et.

t MS que.

u Sic in MS?

v MS si.

w MS 2^{am} horam.

x MS Cancr.

y MS que.

z Sic in MS?

a -ne- accompanied by dots normally indicating deletion. Perhaps an adverb is intended?

quod hec^b mea petitione adimplere confirmare non remaneat quousque eam perfecte adimplebitis et confirmabitis, diuina nobis concessa gracia et virtute.^d

[3.] Tercia ymago est die[i] Martis. Forma eam ex ere rubeo aut cera rubea, die Martis et hora Martis, mense^c Aprilis aut Decembri.^f Et scias quod hoc opus est multum honoratum et forte, quando volueris istud opus operari. Nomina angelorum commissorum sigillo Martis sunt hec, scilicet Sariel, Taryel, Harmalil, et nomina ventorum qui seruiunt ei super^e hec: Harmabia, Blisacana. Ababob, et eius 3es adiutores Coaamal,^h Vmial,ⁱ Perasas. Et coniura per istam coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos [88v] principes angelorum et ventorum eius, Edus, Mafras, Dadayus, et Hydus, Habat, Alat, Nays, Madasia, Yarat, Fastrith, Ysamtiel, Ytatel, Haramalil, nomine Cabar, Carachar, Ycidanis, Yalens, Harab, et dominum lucis altum Bathaquiis, diuin^g Honris,^k Tortur, Hamahe, Dana, Cadara, dominum celorum et terre, nec est alius deus preter ipsum, deum Salciel, Taniel, Hatamalil, precipe^l Hamar, Benall,^m et adiutoribus eius, quod faciant et compleant quod ab ipsis postulauit.

Si volueris depopulare domum, ad sa[n]gwinis fluxum prouocare, aut aliquem infirmari. aut quodlibet aliud dampnum facere, formaⁿ ymaginem ex ere rubeo et sepely ymaginem iuxta aquam currentem.

[4.] Qvarta ymago est diei Mercurij, et hec sunt nomina angelorum quibus super eam constituunt: Michael, Fanuel,^o Sarpiel; et nomina ventorum sunt hec mandantium eam, scilicet Tobha et adiutores eius Danhas, Paclas, Sambas. Forma ymaginem mense Julij aut Octobris, et plumbo: sculpe in ea nomina ista

b Or hoc.

c Sic in MS.

d MS virtus.

e MS mensis.

f MS Decembris.

g Meaning sunt?

h Sic in MS?

i Sic in MS?

j Meaning dominum?

k Sic in MS?

l Sic in MS.

m Sic in MS?

n MS formam.

o Sic in MS?

ad seperandos beniuolentes et ponendas inimicas inter eos,^p et coniura sic per ista coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos angeli per nomen creatoris, preter quem nullus est vince[n]s, ipse enim est creator et preceptor, et omnis potestas est in manu sua, uel eius sibi etiam est virtus insuperabilis, quia ipse est potens et invincibilis rex, sub cuius [89r] auctoritate omnia sistunt et viuunt. Coniuro vos, Michael, Sarpiel, Muriel, Peruert,^q Yseriei, Adonay, Sabaoth, Yò, Yò, domini celorum et terre, venite per bonitatem veri fortis qui solus fuit, est, et erit. Michael, Sarquiel, Muriel, complete petitionem meam,^r et veniat ad effectum.

[5.] Quinta ymago est diei Jouis, et angeli super eam constituti sunt Satquiel, Pattar,^s Constiel, Assassayel, et hij sunt venti constituti super ymaginem: Silite, Maraben, Halharit, et sui adiutores sunt Yse, Riron, Naasay, Eladab. Et quando igitur volueris hoc opus operari, forma ymaginem ex ere croceo aut ex cera crocea die Jouis, et intinge eam cum viridi, et fac pro viro et pro muliere, [si] hoc modo volueris ponere amicitiam inter duos viros aut mulieres aut inter virum et mulierem. Forma duas ymages ex cera viridi mense Maij, scilicet in altitudine Piscium, aut mense Januarij in altitudine Sagitarij, et scribe nomen viri super cor ymaginis femine et nomen femine super cor masculi, et dic coniuracionem istam:

Domine deus, omnipotens creator rerum visibilium tam invisibilium, pone beniuolenciam et mansuetam concordiam inter mulierem talem, filia[m] talis, et talem, filium talis, quam posuisti inter Adam et Euam, et inter Jacob et Rachelem, et inter Michaellem et Gabrielem, quorum unus est igneus et alter aqueus, vnus [autem] alteri non [89v] nocet, sed est inter eos concordia magna, et quemadmodum posuisti concordiam in angelo cuius medietas est ignea, altera niuea, ut nix ignem non exstinguat, nec ignis niuem consumit, et tu pariter inuidiam concordare facis. Ita, domine, tua sanctissima pietate et misericordia talem, filiam talis, concordare, diligere, et amare cum tali, filio talis, facias. Coniuro vos angeli nomine Yafaa, Safaa,^u Alleya, Hayala, Haya, Halix, Hayul, Ataya, Hytoia, Saffetaba, Coffossol, Remlestax,^v El, domine deus, qui scis secreta cordium et es finis et principium, qui nunquam morieris. Festina, Sarafem, Custyeli, et precipue Amaris^w et adiutoribus eius, ut cito faciant et compleant petitionem meam.

p MS eas.

q Sic in MS?

r MS mean.

s Sic in MS?

t MS misericordiam.

u Corrected in MS from Safaa (?).

v Sic in MS?

w Sic in MS?

Et sepeli ymaginem in loco per quem transeant, et videbis mirabilia omnipotentis dei.

[6.] Sexta ymago est diei Veneris, et angeli mandantes eam sunt Anael, Naquiel, Sagriel, et venti sunt Sarabores, et 3es adiutores Trathacas, Nasat, Nasaa. Quando de ymaginibus operari volueris, formas illas die Veneris ex cera alba mense Maij. in altitudine Thauri, aut in mense Octobris, et scribe nomen viri super cor ymaginis mulieris, et nomen mulieris in capite ymaginis viri. et suspende eas ad stellas. et percutte eos cum virga oliue, et coniura eas cum ista coniuratione:

Venite, Anael, Tarquiel, Samuel, [90r] Hassahaa, Saaca, Giraca, Adtulia,^x Archalia, Aler, Gnad, Atualia, Saana, Samorie, Mahyra, Cartel, Harat, Maslatym,^y Caci, Yca, Yca, Dad, Dada, per ipsum qui est Cados, Salba, dominum angelorum et ventorum, Heyt, Asseveye, Adonay, El, Salday, Saraoth, Sabaoth, Lyaste, Ady, Gualbroa,^z vir fortissimus, virorum fortissimum,^a deus altus et magnus, creator noster, preter cuius potenciam non est alia, A, Cya, Ya, Barquissaquil, Sabgnyel, et per istam coniurationem quam super vos coniuro, et per virtutem El, Veneris, bene fortunate, coniuro vos vt bene proficiatis in hac mea causa,^b et compleatis cito meam voluntatem, commemorando filium talis, et talem filiam^c talis, sicut ferebat^d cor Eue per amorem Ade in omnibus. Haycrab, Hayclas, Canael, Talloth, Scarpe, cor talis, filie tali[s], pro loco condenseo vbi cottidie transeat.^e

[7.] Septima ymago est diei sabbati, cuius planeta est Saturnus, et hec ymago est multum honorata et preciosa, super omnes alias ymages, eo quod Saturnus est in septimo celo. Hanc autem ymaginem mandant isti angeli: Castuel, Maratron uel Matraton, Satael. Et venti huic seruientes sunt hij: Memmi, Aloybain, Aflas, Analuabith. Quando autem volueris ligare li[n]gwas aut balneum [90v] aut^f molendinum aut centorium, uel ponere discordiam inter duos diligentes se, forma ymaginem ei et^g sculpe in ea nomina dicta. et porta eam

x Sic in MS¹

y Sic in MS²

z Sic in MS²

a Sic in MS.

b MS meam casam.

c MS tali filia.

d Perhaps intended for ferebat.

e The final words read like fragments of instruction that do not belong to the conjuration, but the passage is evidently confused.

f MS ad.

g Meaning eorum?

tecum. necessaria cum ea, per portam ciuitatis aut ville uel domus, et sepeli eam in medio ubi uolueris, et ligabunt omnes li[n]gwe hominum loci illius. Et si uolueris ponere discordiam inter duos beniuolos, uel inter virum et mulierem, forma duas ymagines de pice clara, sitque facies ymaginis viri facies porci, et facies ymaginis mulieris facies canis, et pone eas tergo ad tergum, et scribe in cartha virginem^b sequencia verba, et ponis^c eam inter costas ymaginis, et hec sunt verba que faciunt inter eos ut istos discordiam et inimiciciam, maliuolenciam, pec[ti]orum percussio, capillorum depilacio, abhominaciones, et fuga, ut nunquam vnus ab altero possit diligi, sed ab inuicem sibi tristes obuient. Et sepeli ymaginem sub porta domus vnus illorum, et videbis mirabilia. Et coniura super eam^d cum ista coniuracione:

Venite, Cyra, Mutaron, Sathauel,¹ angeli commissi sigillo Saturni Stigis² quod in hac hora in adiutorium michi, et precipite spiritibus Amamui³ et Astaba, Hertanalit⁴ et venia[n]t cito, meum completum⁵ mandatum, per nomen domini benedictum Albilfael, Fiel, Ignaborum, Yada, Yaffla, Tasagaf, Hyaalym, Anagodyny, [91r] Dymas, Anazana, Salodaya, Athym, Adyr, Elsyday, Adaptimor, Sabath, Adoray, Eloym, Eloz, Gna, Cithe, Sereayr, Alssylayessus, Agnibora,⁶ Osatietas, angelorum Cassie, Millaron, Salquiel, precipite me Mira et Affla, et Ahualuht, Sayp, Aladey, ut idem meam compleant voluntatem per⁷ sanctitatem coniuracionis huius, quam super vos scripsi.

37r. Summary

Cum operare uolueris, accipe semper tempus, siue de die siue de nocte, cum nominibus angelorum mandantium tempus in quo operaberis, et nomen rei, et ibi sunt nomina supradictorum angelorum mandantium tempus, que⁸ scribere debes in primo tempore et in 2o tempore et in 3o et 4o, et eciam nomina signorum eius, sicut ibi iacet, in quolibet tempore suo, et isti sunt angeli certiores

h Meaning virginem.¹

i Meaning ponas.²

j MS eas.

k *Sic in MS*³

l I.e., Saturn (the spirit) of Styx.

m *Sic in MS*⁴

n *Sic in MS*⁵

o Sic in MS.

p Followed in MS by Osan (?), struck through.

q MS pre.

a MS qui.

et meliores, secundum librum quendam illi quod dedit, uidetis et quod^b vocas principes xij mensium, vt sequitur infra, et loco istorum nominabis et pones istos supradictos. Nota quod sicut supradicti angeli sunt nominandi, sicut eciam nomina dierum in quo operaberis,^c sicut continentur in capitulo quod incipit, 'Complete sunt vij signa dierum'. Ista sunt dicta Iudei.^d

Nota quod isti sunt principes angelorum xij [91v] mensium, qui dominantur in suis thronis in quinto celo, qui habe[n]t thronos 4or. Primus thronus est in parte orientali, in quo dominantur tres angeli qui sunt principes. Secundus thronus est in parte occidentali, et ibi dominantur alij 3es angeli et principes. Tercius thronus est in parte septentrionali, et ibi dominantur 3es alij angeli, vt infra statim melius declarabitur.

Nota quod semper vni throno^e deseruiunt tres menses, et vnum tempus, vt infra patebit. Primus ergo angelus est princeps, qui est in primo throno et in parte orientali, dominatur primo tempore et mense primo, et iste vocatur Aysansasyel, et iste et^f alij principes supradicti^g habent plures alios seruientes eis^h et obedientibus eorum imperiis ornare quilibet princeps dominus est invocandus et nominandus secundum tempus et ordinem suum cum suis seruitoribus, et imo iste primus angelus concordat cum primo tempore et mense, et secundusⁱ [sic] cum 2o, et 3us cum 3o, 4us cum 4o, et sic de aliis.

Primum tempus^j

2o mense regnat et dominatur princeps Ragiel cum suis seruitoribus.

3o mense regnat et dominatur princeps Dyrnaot cum suis seruitoribus.

[92r] Secundum tempus:^k

4o mense regnat et seruit princeps Tanenon cum suis seruitoribus.

Quinto mense regnat et dominatur^l princeps Terogat cum suis seruitoribus.

Sexto mense regnat et dominatur princeps Morel cum suis seruitoribus.

3m tempus:^m

b This passage appears confused.

c Sic in MS.

d Sic in MS?

e MS throni.

f et added above line in MS.

g MS supradicte.

h MS eius.

i MS secundo.

j Written on right side of page.

k Written on right side of page.

l Followed in MS by Terogat, struck through.

m Written on right side of page.

Septimo mense regnat et dominatur princeps Patderon cum suis seruatoribus.

Octauo mense regnat et dominatur princeps Ildegage cum suis seruatoribus.

Nono mense regnat et dominatur princeps Andegor cum suis seruatoribus.

4m tempus:ⁿ

Decimo mense regnat et dominatur princeps Macgmel cum suis seruatoribus.

Vndecimo mense regnat et dominatur princeps Assandaran cum suis seruatoribus.

Duodecimo mense regnat et dominatur princeps^o Abarthiel cum suis seruatoribus.

Nota eciam quod sicut mensium sunt nominandi sic eciam nomina dierum sunt in quo operaberis, quorum nomina sunt: Prima enim dies dominica^p vocatur Metraton. Et 2a Yaspel, Tercia Geminel. 4a Gabriel. 5a Michael. 6a Raphael. 7a Sarphiel uel Captiel, vt scribitur in sacra scriptura. Distingue tempora et concordabis scripturis,^q et ideo primo distingwenda sunt tempora et cognoscenda, [92v] et 2o in quolibet opere quod operare volueris si vis opus tuum perficere et vt posses tempora disti[n]gwere et cognoscere, scias quod primum tempus cum sunt 4or tempora incipit a medio Marcij et finitur in medio Junij, et menses^r Aprilis et Maij sunt in medio, et sunt de primo tempore, et^s sic continentur ad tale signum.^t

Et cum tempus summum^u continentur 3es menses supradicti, 3es menses et eorum principes, possunt eis adaptari et coniungi et cum eis nominari et invocari quo ad primum tempus, quia sunt primo tempore orientali et in primo throno orientali.

Cvm eciam secundum tempus contineat 3es menses et eorum principes presente 2o tempore adaptari, nominari, et [in]vocari, cum sunt dicitur^v tempore occidentali et throno occidentali.

Cvm eciam 3m tempus continet 3es menses et eorum principes, possunt 3o tempore adaptari nominari et invocari, cum eciam sunt de 3o tempore et throno meridionali.

Cvm 4m tempus eciam continet 3es menses et suos principes presunt [pñx] 4o

n Written on right side of page.

o Followed in MS by Abra, struck through.

p MS dominice.

q Followed in MS by an extraneous et, struck through.

r MS mensis.

s MS etc.

t Sic in MS.

u Sic in MS.

v This passage appears confused.

tempore^w adaptari et nominari et invocari cum sunt de 4o tempore et throno septentrionali, ad tale signum invenies angelos cerciores et meliores, qui habent concordare cum 4or temporibus.

Cvm volueris coniurare seu cartham scribere vel nomina invocare, dic nomina angelorum [93r] dominancium tempore et mensi et altitudini qua facies opus. Prima enim altitudo mensis est Nysan, 2a est Yar, et sic de aliis, quod si operatus fueris ad bonas^x vel ad bonum, narrabis angelos bonos, et si ad malum malos, et sic facies in omnibus que volueris operari, et ita complebitur opus tuum, et probatum libri doctrina est vera et cetera.^y

Cvm eciam oporteat te nominare nomina Solis et signorum et Lune et terre et parcium 4or mundi, et cum nomina Solis sunt 4or et 4or sunt^z tempora, concordabit primum cum primo, atque nominabis et invocabis, et secundum cum 2o, et 3m cum 3o, et 4m cum 4o. Et cum sint 3a nomina signorum eius in quolibet tempore, facies idem. Et cum sint eciam 4or nomina Lune concordabis cum predictis et nominabis primum cum primo tempore, et secundum cum 2o, et 3m cum 3o, 4m cum 4o. Et cum eciam sint 4or nomina terre quod eciam oportet te nominare, facies eciam quod primum nominabis cum primis et secundum cum 2is, et 3m cum 3is, et 4m cum 4is, sic[ut] habetur superius in capitulo. Dicere oportet et ita facies de 4or nominibus quod terra signabit [sigibt] aliter ibi in fine dicti capituli.^a Et eciam oportet te nominare 4or partes^b mundi, videlicet orientis, occidentis, et meridiei, et septentrionis, et cum quolibet istorum habeat 4or nomina secundum tempus suum, primum nominabis et invocabis cum primis, secundum cum 2o, [93v] 3m cum 3o, 4m cum 4o, et sic de aliis.

Et auertas quod sigillum et signum diei scribatur seu depingatur dies et hora est in qua debes opus tuum facere seu incipere, quia magna virtus est in eis, quare cum eis complebunt opera tua, et nomina angelorum regnancium in diebus septimane dicenda sunt, et sequitur que nomina habet^c nominare in operibus septimane secundum diem suum.

Angelus diei dominici est Raphael, et si operatus fueris in die dominico istum nominabis et [in]vocabis, et sic de omnibus aliis, vt continetur in supradicto capitulo completa, etc. In omni igitur opere nominabis angelum diei in quo

w MS tempori.

x Sic in MS.

y Meaning certa?

z Changed in margin to sint.

a MS capitulum.

b MS parcium.

c Meaning habes?

facies opus, et scribe illud, quia si fuerit inscripto,^d quia multum iuuabit te cum potencia creatoris.

Regum eciam spirituum vij diebus septimane regnancium nomina subscribentur, seu omnes angelos dominantes diei quo facies opus, et sic veniunt et complebunt voluntatem tuam, [et] respondebunt tibi in omnibus que quesieris.

Diei ergo dominico regnat et seruit Baytan rex, coadiutores sui sunt Caatus, Candas, Vambal, et sic de aliis, vt ibi inuenies.

Nota eciam quod quilibet dies septimane habet suffumigium suum sibi a[p]propriatum, cum quo [94r] suffumigari oportet opus quod facies in ea, et complebitur opus tuum sine dubio. Suffumigium diei dominice est assandalis croceum uel rubeum vel sibi simile, et sic de aliis, vt ibidem continetur, et eciam ibi subsequenter^e inuenies qualia opera facere debes in quolibet die.

Nota quod eciam oportet te scribere nomina horarum die[i] quibus quidem horis perfic[i]entur opera que facies. Prima ergo diei hora dicitur Yayn. In hac hora facienda est cartha ad destruendas^f voces hominum et mala verba eorum, et li[n]gwas ligandas, et sic inuenies ibi de aliis horis, tam diurnis quam nocturnis.

Nota eciam quod cum aliquod opus aut cartham scribere volueris, nomen hore et nomen domini hore, id est angeli qui ei dominatur uel ministrat, oportet te nominare. Vnde hec sunt nomina angelorum dominancium omnibus horis diei septimane. Prima enim hora diei dominatur Raphael, et sic de alijs que ibi inuenies quo ad idem, et sic eciam est de nocte. Vnde nocte diei Lune prima hora dominatur Sarquiel, et sic eciam de aliis, vt ibi inuenies, etc.

Nota eciam quod sic est de omnibus horis supradictis, ita eciam est et intelligere debis, quod quidam angeli dominantur uel ministrant horis secundum dominacionem planetarum uel ministracionem in eis. Omni enim hora Solis dominatur uel ministrat Raphael, et sic de aliis, vt ibi inuenies, etc.

[94v] Nota eciam diligenter de concordia, quod eciam habens,^g debes facere de omnibus supradictis, et coniuncione eorum est regula talis. Diei eciam cuilibet planete cum angelis suis signaque planetarum distributa horum angelorum nomina debent concordare et respondere nominibus et capitulis supra scriptis, et angelo qui^h continetur in coniuracionibus cuiuslibet diei, vt supra in capitulis de ymaginibus dierum quibus ministrant adinvicem diei, ergo dominico ministrat Sol, et angelus eius est Raphael, eiusque signum est Leo, et sic de aliis, vt ibi inuenies.

d Sic in MS.

e Meaning subsequenter?

f MS destruandas.

g Followed in MS by de, struck through.

h MS que.

Omnia predicta oportet te seruare quandocumque volueris operare secundum istum librum, et in aliquo deficere non posses, quia hec per ordinem inuenies quomodo et qualiter habere te debes, et opus tuum secundum istum librum facias et nichil dimittas, si non vis errare, et primo semper respicere mensem lunarem, quia mensis lunaris dierum alij boni sunt, alij sunt mali, vt habetur supra in libro isto, et ideo regula est talis, quod quocumque die septimane operare volueris ad quo[d]libet bonum siue malum facere vis, attende diligenter, quod illa dies sit operi fiendo respiciendo mensem lunarem, vt dictum est. Et si illa dies sit bona et conueniens, non dimittas opus tuum de die in diem, uel differas, quare quiaⁱ opus tuum non veniret ad effectum, et forsitan putares illud esse falsum.

[95r] Avertas eciam diligenter quod in principio vnus cuiusque tui operis debes scribere nomina que respondebunt voluntati tue, et sunt hec nomina ex nominibus creatoris. Cum igitur illa nomina altissima nominare volueris, flexis genibus humiliter, invocabis sic:

Invoco et humiliter supplico vobis nomina altissima dei, vt nos adiuuetis in opere tali, ad complendum, ad perficiendum:^j Agnas, Yana, dei Israhel, Ybat, Suliat, Gnalas, Yemssamon, Haa, Dosa, Barian, Barian, etc.^k

Inuoco et appello te, Captiel, angele qui es^l prepositus diei^m septimo, qui es dies sabbati, quod pro me laboresⁿ et [non] desistas donec totum meum effectum et desiderium ad^o effectum perducas. Rex Mayron, Assayby, invoco te et appello et tuos adiutores Abymalib et Haybaly, Dot et Yfla, quod pro me laboretis et non desistetis donec totum meum affectum et desiderium compleuerit[is].

Vos^p angeli qui presidetis diei sabbati, Captiel, Mataton, Sarquiel, id est Satraquiel, invoco et appello vos vt pro me laboretis et non deficiatis donec totum meum affectum compleueritis. O sanctissima nomina dei, Agmas,^q Yana, dei Israel, Ydar, Subar, Gnabas, Yemssamon, Haa, Dosa, Ba- [95v] rian,^r invoco vos et requiro toto corde et ore vt dignemini me exaudire et adiuuare, et totum meum desiderium complere, vt valeam videre mille armatos in meo seruicio.

Cyayn, prima hora diei invoco te vt adiuues me, vt facias me videre predictos spiritus

i Sic in MS.

j Followed in MS by Agnas, Yna, Yana, dei Israel, Ybat, Subat, struck through.

k Pointing hand drawn in margin, with inscription Nota nomina.

l MS est.

m MS dei.

n MS laboras.

o Followed in MS by blot.

p MS Quos.

q Or Aginas?

r Second pointing hand shown in margin of fol. 95r.

armatos, et te eciam. Yān, oportet, que es 2a hora, et te eciam, 3a hora Dasura, et te eciam, 4a hora, Sala.

Invoco eciam et appello angelos dominantes predictis horis, Raphael, 2o Anael, 3o Michael, 4o Gabriel. Invoco eciam Saturnum et eius angelum Captielem, et eius signum Capricornum et Aquarium, et suum sigillum quod est hoc quod hic pono,¹ et me adiuvent et faciant michi apparere predictos spiritus armatos in meo servicio.

Terra, quæ in 4o tempore vocaris Yemat vel Yaneaa, invoco te et appello, et tu adiuves me et facias apparere predictos spiritus armatos in meo servicio. O nomina angelorum qui servitis 4o tempore, Amabel, Terayl, Atrayal, invoco vos et appello, et faciatis michi [96r] venire spiritus in forma militum armatos in meo servicio. O angeli fortes, Castiel, Matraton, Fatael, invoco vos et meum desiderium compleatis et predictos spiritus venire faciatis. Et vos ventos, Genuum, Altibayn, Aflas,^a Anatuabel,^b venite Eya, Mittaton, Sathane, uel angeli promissi, sigillo Saturni, siliisque in hac hora in adiutorium michi, et precipite spiritibus Amamion,^c et Aslabam et Hactanaabil, et veniant cito meum comple- mandatum, per nomen benedictum Abilfaelsiel, Anogodym, Dymaon, Ana, Ana, Saoday, Athym, Adyr, Essiday, A, Daymuor, Sabat, Adonay, Eloyrn, Eloer, Gna, Cythe, Seredye, Assylla, Yssessus, Agnabora. O societas^d angelorum, Cassie, Matraton, Salquel, precipite me Mira et Affla et Abratuait, Sayp, Aladey,^b et iam meam compleatis voluntatem, per sanctitatem coniurationis huius, et per coniurationem quam super vos feci. O Tomilat, nomen Solis in 4o tempore, invoco te et tu adiuves ad faciendum venire supradictos spiritus in forma militum in servicio meo. O nomina signorum 4ti temporis, invoco vos et adiuuetis me quod supradicti spiritus venient in meo servicio, Capricornus, Aquarius, et Pisces. O Saarlaquia, nomen Lune in 4o tempore, rogo te et invoco et tu adiuves me, quod fa- [96v] cies venire supradictos spiritus in forma militum in meo servicio. O Sofalen, nomen celorum in 4o tempore, rogo te et invoco et tu adiuves me, quod facias venire supradictos spiritus in forma militum in meo servicio. O nomina 4or partium mundi, Orientis Pryoth, Malchaam,^d Mendie, Danor, Septentrionis Yambor, vos invoco et rogo et vos adiuuetis me et faciatis venire supradictos spiritus in forma militum in servicio meo.

s MS est.

t Followed in MS by three signs, given next to each other across the page.

u MS quod.

v s struck through in MS?

w Sic in MS?

x Sic in MS?

y Sic in MS?

z Sic in MS.

a Followed in MS by ange, struck through.

b Sic in MS? Third letter is blotted out.

c MS temporum.

d Sic in MS?

NO. 38. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION ABOUT A THEFT
BY GAZING INTO A FINGERNAIL (FOLS 96v-99v)^a

Accipe puerum virgineum de legitimo thoro, et socios quos tibi placuerint, et vadas ad locum secretum, et facias circulos 3es cum gladio. Ad primum dic, In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti. Ad secundum dic, In nomine indiuidue trinitatis, Alpha et O, deus et homo. Ad 3m dic, Ego te facio per illum qui creauit celum et terram, mare et omnia que in eis sunt.^b

Hoc finito, fac quod vnusquisque habeat gladium suum, et non minus 4or gladiis extractis, et accipe sedem tripedem, et pone inferiorem circulum, et scribes [97r] nomen pueri ad sedem, et benedic puerum per hanc benedictionem, circu[i]endo per caput eius cum gladio, dicens,

Crux Christi tecum. Crux Christi est quam semper adoro. Crux Christi est vera salus. Crux Christi soluit vinculum mortis. Crux Christi est invincibilis per arma. Crux Christi est mobile signum. Crux Christi superat omne malum.

Et da^c puero gladium tenere ad manus, et fac illi crucem ad frontem, dicendo, Crux sancta sanctificet^d te et omnes oraciones sacerdotum benedicant te.

Et fac puerum sedere ad sedem, et radas sibi vnguem cum cultello, et vnge sibi vnguem cum oleo oliue, et tunc benedicas socios tuos, semper vnum post alium, et te ipsum cum predicta benedictione, sicut tu puerum benedixisti. Et facias eos sedere, vnum post alium, ad inferiorem circulum, et da vnique gladium suum tenere ad manum, et facias eos habere silentium, et fac puerum cla[u]dere oculos, et benedic puerum et te ipsum et omnes socios tuos per initium sancti ewangelij secundum Johannem: In principio erat verbum, et verbum erat apud deum, etc. [Jn 1:1].

Hoc finito, fac puerum inspicere vnguem quousque se reuertat et ipse coniurare, Vmon, Progemon, Mithiomo, Pist, Vralchim, Althes, Panite, Fabar, Thobar, Cormes, a This experiment begins a section that is labelled on fol. 96v as follows: Incipiunt experimenta verissima et probata: Incipiunt experimenta verissima et probata, primum ad omnia indaganda que volueris, siue presencia, siue preterita, siue futura, etc.

b Cf. Ps. 145:6 Vulg.

c MS dat.

d MS sanctificat.

Felsmes, Diles, Dilia, Dies, Onaris, coniuro vos demones prenomi-natos, per hec nomina sancta, On, Ton, [97v] Gon, Ron, Apt,^e Galapt,ⁱ Ixt,^f Calens, Timel, et citissime iam nullam requiem habeatis, nec in celo nec sub celo, nec in terra nec sub terra, nec in pluuiis nec in ventis, nec in nubibus nec in aeribus, nec in ignibus nec in aquis, nec in abissis nec in arundinibus, nec in ponis^h nec in aliis quibus[cumque] locis, nisi furem cum furto isto puero ostendens^g vnguem istius pueri virginei oleo linito crescere, clarescere, tanta latitudinis apparere, et poterit euidenter videre in eo furem et furtum factum nobis ablatum, et locum ubi adhuc latet,ⁱ et quicumque cum ipso furto actum.

Tunc sibyla ter. Ad primum dic, O domine^k Ihesu Christe. Ad secundum dic, O deus fortis. Ad 3m dic, O potestas.

Hoc finito, dic coniurationem:

Coniuro vos, principes omnium demoniorum, Astaroth, Belzebub, Berit, Fornicator, Temptator, et Seducator, Possessor hominum, Natheus, Molbet.^l Precipio vobis et vestrum vnus in forma nigra veniat et iste puer possit eum euidenter videre in sua vngue.

Hoc finito, queras a puero si videt latitudinem at altitudinem in suo vngwe. Si non, dimittas formam nigram et incipe predictam coniurationem vsque quod videbit omnia.^m Tunc facias venire sicut prius posui, eciam precipias ipsis per hec nomina:

El, Eloy, Elyon, Aloc, Sappa, Sother, Emanuel, Tetragramaton, Saday, Luamay, Athanatos, Ysos, Kyrie, Primogenitus, Vita, Finis, Via, Flos, Fons, Ve- [98r] ritas, Sapiencia, Virtus, Paracletus, Ego sum qui sum, Mediator, Agnus, Ovis, Vitulus, Serpens, Aries, Leo, Os, Verbum, Ianua, Ymago, Gloria, Lux, Sol, Splendor, Lapis angularis, Sponsus, Pastor, Propheta, Sacerdos, Immortalis, Lex, Rex, Christus, Pater, Filius, Spiritus Sanctus, Agla, Petra, Eternitas, Neon, Burnon, Partl, Caon, Aepton, Alpha et O, Omnipotens, Misericors, Caritas, Eternus Creator et Redemptor, Primus et Nouissimus, Dator et Receptor, Ayos, Otheos, Yschyros, Sanctus Deus, Fortis et Paciens, Iustus Iudex in ultimo die. Per ista lxxija

^e Sic in MS²

^f Sic in MS²

^g Sic in MS²

^h Meaning pontibus.¹

ⁱ MS ostendans.

^j MS iacet.

^k Followed in MS by first stroke of an x, struck through.

^l Sic in MS²

^m omnia, written in margin of MS, probably belongs here.

nomina Christi precipio vobis ut michi sitis obedientes et isto puero virgineo de qua re et de qua interrogacione quod factum est [nichil] retineatis, quod verum est numeretis et dicatis.

Hoc finito, queras si videt demonem saltantem et gaudentem. Tunc dic ad puerum, et facias ad socios tuos simul loqui quod puer non habeat timorem. Hoc finito, incipe coniurare et fac istum recedere et furem cum furto minare:ⁿ

Coniuro vos, prenomi-natos demones,

- per istum qui creauit celum et terram et omnia que in eis sunt,
- et per istum qui nos et vos creauit et nos redemit cum suo precioso sanguine,
- et per istum qui venturus est,
- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- et per sanctam obedienciam,
- et per corpus domini nostri Ihesu Christi, qui hodie et cottidie celebratur per uniuersum mundum,
- et per sanctam trinitatem,
- per deitatem,
- [98v] per humanitatem,
- per deum verum,
- per deum viuum,
- per deum sanctum,
- per deum omnipotentem,
- per sanctam Mariam, matrem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per eius unicum filium,
- et per tremendum diem iudicij,
- per resurrex[er]onem omnium mortuorum,

ut recedas et furem cum furto [et] loco, cui adducas, ut iste puer euidenter possit videre furem cum furto N.

Nonº dicas aliam coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos, prenomi-natos demones,

- per annunciacionem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per sacrum ieiunium domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per baptismum domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per temptacionem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per passionem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,

ⁿ Presumably for minari.

^o Meaning nunc?

- per milia sex vulnera domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per centum sex vulnera domini nostri Ihesu Christi,
- per quinquaginta sex vulnera domini nostri Ihesu Christi, sine alijs de capite usque ad plantas,
- per spineam coronam quam in capite domini nostri Ihesu Christi posuerunt et genua flectebant [et] illudebant sibi, dicentes, 'Aue rex Iudeorum',
- per arundinem et alapas, quibus Christum cedebant,
- et per 3es clauos,
- per lanceam qua sacratum corpus domini nostri Ihesu Christi perforatum est dum continuo exiuit sa[n]guis et aqua,
- per emissionem sue sanctitatis domini nostri Ihesu Christi, 'In manus tuas commendo spiritum meum',
- per anxietatem quam beata virgo Maria, mater domini nostri Ihesu Christi, habuit dum vidit filium eius pendentem in cruce, dicens, 'Flecte ramos, arbor alta,' et non secundum quod compositum est ex 4or litteris, scilicet Alpha et O, deus et homo factus.^p

Coniuro vos prenomatos demones

- per omnes sanctos angelos, thronos, et dominaciones, principatus, potestates, virtutes celorum, cherubin et seraphin, qui non cessant [99r] clamare, dicen[te]s, 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus',
- et per virtutem domini nostri Ihesu Christi, scilicet propter nos homines descendit de celis et natus est ex Maria virgine, sub Poncio Pylato passus est,
- et per 3es angelos, scilicet Michael, Gabriel, [et] Raphael,
- et per dominicam oracionem, scilicet Pater noster,
- per xij candelabra que in manibus angelorum odoriferum,
- per eorum miracula deo beneplacita, qui sunt sub christiana.^q

Hoc finito, queras a puero si videt. Si non, tunc dic hanc coniurationem:

Coniuro vos, prenominati demones,

- per 4or euangelistas, Lucam, Marcum, Matheum, Johannem,
- per 4or sermones,
- per xij apostolos,
- per 3es magos, scilicet Caspar, Balthasar, [et] Melchior,
- per patriarchas [et] prophetas,
- per martires et confessores,
- et per omnes papas Romanorum, et omnes virgines et viduas,

p Sic in MS.

q Sic in MS.

- et per omnes episcopos,
- et per omnes abbates,
- per omnes priores,
- per omnes preponilos,
- per omnes archidiaconos,
- et per omnes deconos,
- per omnes monachos,
- per omnes moniales,
- per omnes sacerdotes,
- per omnes dyaconos et subdyaconos,
- per omnes sanctos dei,
- per merita omnium sanctorum,
- per omnem populum Christianorum,
- et per omnes sanctos qui sunt in celo et in terra,
- et per centum et xliij milia innocentium qui non sunt loquentes loqui in puericia, passi sunt supplicia,
- per omnes karakteres Salomonis,
- per sapienciam suam,
- per omnia experimenta Virgilij,
- per celum et terram,
- per mare,
- per omnia que in eis sunt,
- per omnes Cesares,
- per omnes [99v] reges,
- per omnes principes,
- per comites,
- per omnes milites,
- per omnes cines.

Hoc finito, queras si videt furem cum furto et si venisti ad finem. Tunc terge puero vnguem tunica tua, et accipias vnugla[m] pueri,^r et benedicas puerum tali modo, faciendo crucem cum gladio ad 4or partes corporis sui, dicendo, Pater, Filius, Spiritus Sanctus, sancti,^s custodiant te. Et fac puerum gladium recipere ante se. et exire de circulo, et omnibus sociis tuis ita facies et tibi.

^r Followed in MS by l, struck through.

^s MS domini.

^t Sic in MS.

NO. 39. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION
BY GAZING INTO A FINGERNAIL (FOLS 99v-103r)

Incipit secundum [experimentum] bonum et probatum.^a [100r] Accipe puerum virginem de legitimo thoro, et fac 3es circulos. Ad primum circulum dic, In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti. Ad secundum dic psalmum Celi enarrant.^b Ad 3m dic Deus tuum regi da.^c Post hec,^d accipe sedem tripedem quercinium, et subtus scribe nomen pueri, et sub pedibus pueri scribatur hoc nomen Tetragramaton, et ponantur desuper duo lapides, ne puer tangat nomen pedibus. Postea scribe in manubrio cultelli et nomen pueri et hec nomina: Istath, Hoaz, Abays, Fastich; et in pollice scribe Alpha et O. Deinde rada vngwem dextri pollicis^e cultello, cuius manubrium sit factum de cornu nigro uel albo.

Deinde dic, Domine, secundum peccata, etc.^f Postea fac crucem ☩ tali modo in fronte pueri, dicens, Tu qui es Alpha et O, fac cerum dicere puerum virginem istum, N., qui est creatura tua. In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti. Ex dic, Domine Ihesu, fili dei rui, qui pro nobis peccatoribus de synu Patris descendisti ad terram, ostende nobis veritatem. Amen. Deinde susurra puero ad aurem dextram, Sathan, Belzebug, Astaroth, Berith, Azarao, Rotunda; hec dic ter.

Deinde intra circulos et pone te contra faciem pueri, et tunc lineas vngwem pueri rasum cum oleo oliue, et da puero cultellum ad manum, et dic,

Abgo, Safril, Bos, Zelentes, Vin, Vöm, Motmyro, Thitodens,^g Gemitias,^h Gana, Vresius, Pharaohie, Foliath, Gebath, Dyrrus, [100v] Virus, Vnyrus, Prande, Febat, Gebat, Tyros, Vijas,ⁱ Nubar, Azathi, coniuro vos prenominales demones

a This line is given twice; between the two occurrences is the following figure: a triple circular band, with the inscription In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti in the outermost band; In nomine individue trinitatis, Alpha et O, deus et homo in the middle band, and Ego te facio per illum qui creauit celum et terram, mare et omnia que in eis sunt in the innermost band.

b Ps. 18 Vulg.

c Cf. Ps. 71:2 Vulg. (deus, iudicium tuum regi da). Figure at top of fol. 103r: a triple circular band, with In nomine Patris et Filij et Spiritus Sancti in the outer band, Celi enarrant in the middle band, and Deus tuum (sic) regi da in the innermost.

d Or hoc.

e Followed in MS by cuius.

f Cf. Ps. 102:10 Vulg. (non secundum peccata nostra fecit nobis) and Ps. 118:65 Vulg. (Domine, secundum verbum tuum).

g Or hoc.

h Or Chitodens.

i Sic in MS?

j Sic in MS?

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctum,
- per deum omnipotentem,
- per Ihesum Christum filium eius,
- et per trinitatem illius,
- et per ipsam providenciam quam deus in mente habuit prius quam mundus fieret,

[24] obediatis imperio meo, non per virtutem meam sed per virtutem maiestatis omnipotentis dei. Coniuro et contestor vos demones

- per sapienciam eternitatis dei, qua celum supra stare fecit, terram autem dorsum fundavit et perfecit, elementorum quæ^k in opus mundi connexit,
- et per prudenciam qua deus lucem a tenebris separavit et utrumque creavit, ut arte et magisterio, a magistro vestro Astaroth vobis concessa, vnguem huius pueri, N., oleo linitum, crescere et clarescere facialis et procreare latitudinem, ut apparere possit evidenter et videre in eo furtum et furtum nobis ablatum, et locum de quo ablatum est, et in quem locum translatum est, et ubi adhuc positum est, et quidquid ex ipso furto^m actum est. Item adiuro vos prenominales demones

- per verbum dei, quo celum et terram creavit et herbam virentem in ea genere suo, solem et lunam et stellas et signum et tempora, fulgura et tonitrua, voces,ⁿ et omnia quecumque sint in terra, mare, et inferno, ut arte, etc. Item coniuro vos prenominales demones

- per annunciacionem,
- per natiuitatem,
- per circumcicionem,
- per baptismum Christi,
- et per omnia que fecit Ihesus in Chana Galylee quando conuertit aquam et vinum, [101r] ut arte, etc. Item coniuro vos prenominales demones

- per ieiunium Christi,
- et per istum gressum quando in Monte Oliuele ascendere voluerit adorandum Patrem, dicendo, 'Pater, si fieri potest, transeat a me calix iste';^o
- et per sudorem sa[n]guineum Ihesu Christi, qui de suo corpore emanavit pro nobis peccatoribus,
- et per omnia archana secretorum,
- per sa[n]guineas guttas sudoris Christi,
- per solem obscuratum,
- per lunam conuersam in sa[n]guinem et terribilem clamorem Christi pendens in ligno crucis, k MS quos.

l Followed in MS by in.

m MS furtu.

n MS tunitrua.

o Cf. Matt. 26:39.

- per sup[^p]licium mortis,
- et per emissionem sui sanctissimi spiritus,
- et per istam virtutem qua velum templi cissum est, et inquinamenta aperta sunt,
- et per misterium sacri sepulchri,
- et per virtutem dei,
- et per dispositionem^p diuine ordinacionis,
- et per^q dominum nostrum Ihesum Christum, quem adoramus, crucifixum, passum, et sepultum credimus, et scimus resurrexisse et [in] celos ascendisse confitemus,

vt arte, etc. Coniuro vos prenomi- natos demones

- per celum et terram, mare et omnia que in eis sunt;
- et per omnia que concludunt 4or partes mundi,
- et per serpen- cia et volatilia celi, bipedia, tripedia, [et] quadrupedia,
- et per omnes aereas potestates, vt arte (vt supra).

Item coniuro vos prenomi- natos demones

- per angelos et archangelos, per thronos et dominaciones, principatus et potestates, per virtutes celorum, per cherubin et seraphin,
- et per diuinum officium miseracionis,
- et per eos qui prosunt,
- et per omnia [101v] que subiecta sunt omnipotenti deo,
- et^r per ipsum omnipotentem deum qui ex nichilo creauit cuncta [et] ad laudem et ad gloriam nominis sui fecit,

vt arte, etc. Coniuro vos prenomi- natos demones

- per v secula et vij etates mundi,
- et per tremendum diem iudicij
- et per lxij nomina Christi,
- [et per] etatem et claritatem Christi, quam habuit prius quam mundus fieret,
- et per centum et xliiij milia innocentum ante deum astancium,
- et omnes ordines ecclesiasticos,

vt arte, etc. Coniuro vos prenomi- natos demones

- per coeternam sapienciam dei, qua deus hominem creauit cum non esset, et Adam^s ad ymaginem et similitudinem suam formauit,

vt arte, [etc.]. Coniuro vos prenomi- natos demones

- per sanctissima nomina Christi: Messyas, Sother, Emanuel, Sabaoth, Adonay, Panthon, Panthocrathon, Eloy, Theos, Hon,^t Visio, Saluator, Alpha et O, primus et p MS disponsicionis.

q Followed in MS by Ihesum.

r MS vt.

s Sic in MS? adia – should be a form of ‘adicio’, but ‘adam’ is required.

t For Greek ho on.

nouissimus, primogenitus, principium et finis, via, veritas, et sapientia, virtus, paracletus, ego sum qui sum, qui es, mediator, agnus, ouis, aries, titulus, serpens, edus, verbum, ymago, gloria, gracia, salus, lux, sal, pax, splendor, panis, fons, vitis, pastor, propheta, spes immortalis, rex, pater, omnipotens, misericors, eternus,^u summum bonum, trinitas, vnitas, pater, El, Eloy, Eloë, Eleon, Saday, Symator, Tu, Yè, Yè, princeps pacis, Enstriel, [102r] spiritus, timor, pietas, tu, vnitas vnitatis, trina deitas,

et arte, etc. Coniuro vos prenominales demones

- per fidem prophetarum,
- per preconia patriarcharum,
- per dignitatem xxiijor seniorum,
- et per symbolum apostolorum,
- et per passionem sanctissimorum martyrum,
- per confessionem priorum confessorum,
- et per continenciam sanctarum virginum ac viduarum,
- et per omnes sanctos et electos dei,
- et per 4or euangelistas et eorum euangelia,

et arte, etc. Coniuro vos prenominales demones

- per salutem omnium sanctorum, viuorum et mortuorum,
- et per sancta sacrificia sacerdotum,
- et per omnes diuinas oraciones sanctorum,
- et per omnia corpora sanctorum dei,
- et per eorum animas in statu salutis eterne,

et arte, etc.

Si puer non videt ad tunc,^v dicas,

Jaspar, Balthasar, Melchior, Smoagel, Emanuel, et deus fortis, te deprecor et ungula N. efficiatur lata et crescat et clarescat.

Ad quamlibet coniurationem debet operans puerum interrogare si vngwis crescat. Si non, repetatur eadem coniuracio, Jaspar, etc., donec videat crescentem, latam, et magnam, quousque sufficiat. Quere a puero si aliquid videat. Si^w videt, dic statim sub ungwe hanc coniurationem:

Lytim, cum tuis subditis Igrim, Andyron, Vzmyas, Yielteos, Zymens, Bylent, Baruth, precipio vobis, demones, u Line over u deleted in MS.

v Meaning adhuc?

w MS etc.

- per omnipotentem deum, viuum et verum,
 - et per tres magos Jaspaz, Balihazar, [et] Melchior,
- et veniatis, ubicumque sitis, ad visionem istius pueri, N., veris^x in specie humana, et in specie istorum qui hoc furtum perpetra- [102v] uerunt.*

Quere a puero si aliquid videat. Si non, repetatur eadem oratio, Lytmy, donec appareant.

Ipsis autem apparentibus, dic hanc coniurationem:

Precipio vobis, demones, per trinitatem et inseparabilem unitatem que facta fuit super ipsum in Iordanis flumine, in^y columbe specie, quod vos ostendatis et dicetis huic puero, N., ubi acceptum uel reconditum sit hoc furtum, et in quo loco adhuc restat.

Si adhuc non prodest, dic hanc coniurationem:

Coniuro vos demones et precipio vobis per nomen Naamay, Syy, qui Syrum de lepra mundauit, et Daniele[m] de lacu leonum liberauit, et Tres pueros^z de camino ignis illesos abire fecit, quod vobis detis auctoritatem huic puero, N., audiendi, interrogandi, et videndi.

Post coniurationem factam, fac puerum claudere oculos, et purga sibi vnguem, et fac crucem super eum, ante eum, [et] retro eum, et accipe sibi cultellum de manu. Postea benedic te et ipsum, et dele circulum, et exeat secure cum eo, scilicet puero. Cum autem vis exire circulum, dic, Pax ipsi^a sit nobis et vobis. Tunc reges recedunt ad propria regna, et dic,

Cum vos iterum^b vocauro, sitis parati obedire michi. Hoc vobis precipio

- per eternum et viuum deum, qui in cruce passus [est] et ex latere eius exiuit sa[n]guis et aqua.

Insuper precipio vobis

- per hostiam sanctam, per hostiam puram, per hostiam immaculatam, qui est Ihesus Christus, et cito michi tunc veniatis et omnem voluntatem meam adimpleatis. Amen. Etc.

x Meaning venientes?

y MS eciam.

z MS puero.

a Meaning Christi?

b Followed in MS by vobi, deleted.

c Or hec.

NO. 40. FOR OBTAINING INFORMATION ABOUT A THEFT
BY GAZING INTO A FINGERNAIL (FOLS 103r–105v)

Experimentum verum de furtu et probatum.

In ortu solis fac 3es circulos, et crucem in medietate circulorum,^a et fac tibi porrigere sedem tripedem de quercu et cultellum cum manubrio albo et linito cum oleo oliue. Hoc facto, scribe diuisim hec^b xxijor nomina; sunt 4or literas uel lapides parum latos et 3es literas pone subtus sedem et vnam subtus pedem^c pueri, et ipsa omnia nomina subscripta [103v] scribe super vnam literam, quam pones super caput pueri. Hoc facto, tolle puerum ad circulos et loca puerum super sedem. Vertas sibi faciem contra orientem, et scabe puero ambas unguwes pollicis, et pone sibi vnum pollicem super alium, et scribe super manubrium nomen pueri et Astaroth, et des puero cultellum ad manus, ita quod cultellus sit subtus pollices. Hoc facto, vnge puero unguem superiorem cum oleo oliue ad modum crucis, in omni pietate electa, vt illicitis et districtis appareatis in vngwe istius pueri, N. Tu vero sede super sedem qualemcumque volueris, et tu tene puerum inter genua, et dic vt diligenter inspiciat ad vngwem. Hoc facto, caues ne aliquas operationes habeas sextis aut sabbatis diebus.

Hec sunt nomina que scribi debent: in nomine Progeneri, Mutimo, Possunt, Thomopest, Vtany, Votanes, Filij, Fibos, Fibet, Baruth, Sachith, Propiietas, Voltam, Panyte, Farum, Farum, Farum, Cubarum, Crutines, Tyrygel, Dyrus, Formys, Fembusalk, Berith, Sathanas.

Incipe coniuracionem:

Coniuro vos, demones,

- per Patrem et Filium et Spiritum Sanctam,
- et per incarnationem domini nostri Ihesu Christi,

a Figure at bottom of fol. 105v: a triple circular band, with a cross dividing the interior into four wedges. The outermost circle has the inscription, ✠ Hunc circulum facio in nomine Patris omnipotentis dei, qui solo verbo cuncta creauit. Dextera domini fecit virtutem, dextera domini exaltauit me, non moriar sed viuam et narrabo opera domini. Castigans ca- (finished outside the circle: stigauit dominus). The middle circle bears the inscription, ✠ Hunc circulum facio in nomine filij unigeniti dei viui, qui humanum genus proprio sanguine redemit. Dextera domini fecit virtutem, dextera domini exaltauit me, non moriar sed viuam et narrabo opera. The innermost band contains the inscription, ✠ Hunc circulum facio in nomine Spiritus Sancti paracliti, qui corda apostolorum et prophetarum suorum sanctissima gracia [MS sanctissimam graciā] illustrauit. Dextera domini fecit virtutem, etc. The word onus appears at the edge of each wedge. Toward the middle are the fragments Fren, ---p'on (?), on and N.p (presumably for Nomen pueri.

b Followed in MS by nomina, deleted.

c m blotted out in MS.

- per baptismum Christi,
- per ieiunium Christi,
- per mortem Christi,
- per passionem Christi,
- per resurrectionem Christi,
- per ascensionem,
- per adventum Spiritus Sancti paracliti,
- per [104r] tremendum diem iudicij, in^d quo omnes estis dampnandi, ut appareatis in vngue istius pueri, N., in specie furis uel furum qui rem aut res istius hominis, N., accepit; absque omni deceptione appareatis, sicut promisistis. Emogeni, Thomo, Gyton, Sertugidis,^e Jubutzis.

